Deacon Brown, of Kingwood, who used to preach Democracy in the old buckwheat county of Preston, and who at present is running a book store and has recently been appointed Humane Agent, used to have a strenuous time during his courting days. One time when calling on a young lady she told him her father wished to speak to him in the parlor. The old gentlemen had just recently purchased a gun of which he was very proud and wanted to show it to the Deacon. When the Deacon saw the old gentleman with the gun he jumped through the window taking the sash with him and never stopped running for seventeen miles. To this day he regards this as a very narrow escape.

Mr. W. E. Hollinger, County Treasurer-elect, was in Oakland Tuesday and yesterday making the necessary preliminary arrangements to assume charge of the finances of the county. Mr. Hollinger called at this office yesterday afternoon just prior to his departure for his home at Guard, and stated that he will not have personal charge of the office, but had secured as his deputy Mr. James W. White, of Oakland, whose past experience in the capacity of County Treasurer, which office he filled for a term of two years, will materially aid him in the transaction of the public business. In the employment of Mr. White Mr. Hollinger has secured the services of an efficient and painstaking gentleman.

HUTTON TANNERY SOLD.

Garrett Leather Company's Property Went Into New Hands Tuesday.

On Tuesday of this week the tannery at Hutton, this county, belonging to the Garrett Leather Company, became the property of Messrs. William O'Conner of Tioga, Pa., W. D. VanHorn and J. L. Snyder, of Wellsboro, Pa., and J. O. Thomas of Clarksburg, W. Va., the purchaseas paying a round sum for this valuable property.

Mr. O'Conner is a lumberman of largs means, while Mr. VanHorn is a banker, oil operator and likewise interested very extemsively in the lumber business; Mr. Snyder is also largely engaged in the lumber business and in addition is a practical tanner, in which business Mr. Thomas is also engaged.

These gentlemen are men of large means and we understand they will at once assume control of the property and organize their business under the name of Hutton Tanning Company.

The bark supply for this tannery will be drawn from the holdings of the Kendall Lumber Company at Crellin which we understand is sufficient to last for at least twenty years.

The tannery will continue to tan hemlock sole leather exclusively for the Boston market where its product enjoys a fine reputation.

Let everyone keep hustling to improve the appearance of their streets and lots. Keep all kinds of rubbish off the streets and sidewalks, and see that your houses, fences, etc., are neatly painted. There is nothing that helps the looks of a town and induces newcomers to settle in it more than neatly-painted houses and fences, neat and tidy streets and sidewalks, and fruit and shade trees on your lots. Let us see what you will do for the benefit of our progressive little city.

With the backwardness of spring this year, which retards the budding of fruit bearing trees and bushes, a bountiful yield of apples and berries of all kinds is almost assured. The past two years have been almost total failures in this respect, or at least the past year was, while the year preceding the terrific freeze which occurred during the month of October, froze the fruit remaining upon the trees, entailing a loss of thousands of dollars upon Garrett county farmers and orchardists.

Col. W. E. Burwell, manager of the Baltimore and Ohio hotels, was in Oakland one day last week for the purpose of renting the Oakland Hotel to one of our residents. Nothing along this line, however, was accomplished, so far as we can learn, and at the next meeting of the Board of Trade an effort will be made to get into communication with the higher officials of the railway company to effect, if possible, the tenancy of the hotel by an up-to-date, thoroughgoing and experienced hotelman.

Associate Judge Henderson, of Cumberland, was in Oakland last Friday where he heard in chambers the evidence in the attachment proceedings instituted several weeks ago by creditors of Felty and Co. The defendants in the case aim to have the proceedings set aside and the property, at present in the hands of Sheriff Brown, restored to the firm. The evidence in the matter was not concluded, and will be resumed when Judge Henderson returns to Oaklane sometime within the next few days.

Where is the man so happy as the one who applies himself to manual labor? Where is the home so happy as the one where each member of the household feels, at the close of the day, that they have performed some at least of the many duties devolving upon them? There may be a clash some day between capital and labor. Should this period ever come, the hope is that labor, with the conquering tread of a hero, will trample beneath its heel the power that has, to a considerable extent, made labor laborious. We are all laborers in our little city.

Train No. 8 Sunday morning experienced a narrow escape from being wrecked as it was passing through Oakland. Just as the engine was on the Second street crossing one of the drive bars snapped and fell to the ties. The engineer had the train well under control, however, and brought it to a stop in a remarkably short distance. Passengers were transferred to train No. 2, which followed No. 8 within half an hour, and the empty cars were taken on east along with the disabled engine by a freight locomotive, which was brought here from Terra Alta for the purpose.

THE DEATH RECORD.

LESTER MARTIN.

Lester, the ninteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Martin, of near the Red House, who was operated upon at the Home Sanatorium in Oakland on Monday of last week, died Saturday afternoon of peritonitis, which had developed prior to the operation being performed. The remains of the young man were taken to his late home Sunday morning and on Tuesday the funeral was conducted by Rev. E. Manges, pastor of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church of Oakland. The interment was made in the Red House cemetery.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. Offutt, John M. Davis, G. S. Hamill.
George W. Legge,, John T. Mitchell, S. T. Jones.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,
HORACE R. DEWITT,
4td Treasurer of Garrett County.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of Yough River Oil and Gas Company of Garrett county will be held on Saturday, the 4th day of April, 1908, at the Court House, Oakland, Maryland, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of 12 Directors, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Stockholders who cannot attend in person are requested to send their proxies.

J. M. BURNS, President,
N. S. HEINDEL, Secretary.

Proposals Wanted.

In another column of this paper today the Board of County Commissioners invite proposals for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over Cherry Creek on the road leading south from Oakland to Sunnyside. The bridge is to be a single span structure measuring forty-six feet in length and twelve feet wide. Bids for the bridge will be opened at the office of the Commissioners on Tuesday, April 14th, and must be in accordance with the plans and specifications now on file in the Commissioners' office.

Church Services.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Class meeting, at Mt. Lake Park at 10 a. m.; Sunday school, 2.30; preaching, 3.30; Epworth League, 7.30.

Deer Park—Sunday School at 10 a.m.; Epworth League 6.30; Sacrament of Lord's Supper at 7.30 and preaching at 8 p. m.

Wesley Chapel—Sunday school 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows: Preaching at Deer Park at 11 a. m.; Loch Lynn at 3 p. m. and at Ferndale at 7:30 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Services next Sunday as follows: Preaching at Crellin at 10.30 a. m.; and Underwood at 3 p. m.

Preaching at Underwood Saturday at 7.30 p. m.

Cordial welcome to all.

J. F. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows: Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7.30 p. m. Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Catechise Saturday at 2 p. m.

Luther League every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

Ice Cream.

With the opening af Spring the Oakland Model Steam Bakery, Henry Lauer, proprietor, will have on sale every day ice cream for which an excellent trade has been created owing to the delciousness of the product and the attention given to the filling and delivery of all orders. See advertisement in another column of this paper today.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

Trustees Appointed.

Last Friday Mr. A. A. Doub, of Cumberland, referee in bankruptcy for Garrett and Allegany counties, was in Oakland where he conducted a meeting of the creditors of Galusha H. Pritchard and David E. Sanders, both of whom had previously been adjudged bankrupts in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland. In the Pritchard matter Mr. William R. Offutt was appointed trustee, and in the Sanders case Mr. Gilmor S. Hamill was made trustee.

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

Diesolution of Co-Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the co-partnership between George W. Cover and William J. Cover was dissolved on the 22nd day of February, 1908, so far as relates to the said George W. Cover. All debts due to said partnership are to be paid and those due from the same discharged at Salt Block, in Garrett county, Md., where the business will be continued by the said William J. Cover as William J. Cover.

GEORGE W. COVER & SON.
Friendsville, Md., Feb. 26, 1908.

The editor of today has to get his nose down on the grind stone and keep it there sixteen hours per day and 365 days in the year, or he falls by the wayside. There are men who quit work Saturday night and rest until Monday morning. They lay aside business cares at five or six o'clock every evening and do not resume them until seven or eight the next morning. Not so your editor. He has no elegant leisure. He knows no hours, no Sunday, no night. When he goes to a party, or to church, or on an alleged pleasure trip, it is all in the line of duty. Withal, your editor man is a cheerful, longsuffering soul, going about doing good in his humble way. He returns good for evil. He writes long puffs of church sociables, and in return therefor, accepts a chunk of cake that would sink an ironclad. He notes the arrival of all the babies in his neighborhood and eternally perjures his soul in telling how pretty they are. He rejoices with the gay and mourns with those who are sad. He booms every enterprise which makes his community rich and goes about himself clothed in gunny sack coats and one suspender. He glories over the fortune of his neighbor, and meekly eats his own repast of boiled corn cobs and colored labels off tomato cans. He can write a sermon, an account of a prize fight, a political speech, an obituary notice, poetry, split wood, pitch hay, wash dishes, preside at a camp meeting.

Congregational Meeting.

The members of the Oakland Presbyterian church are requested to assemble at the church Sunday evening, March 28th, at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of holding a congregational meeting to consider matters appertaining to the affairs of the church.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

Class Sermon.

Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Paul's M. E. church, Rev. J. B. Workman will deliver the sermon to the graduating class of the Oakland High School.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Asociation, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Temperance Lesson—Prov. 23, 29-35.

The Mangolds' Valentine.

By ELLIS GRANT.

Copyright, 1907, by Frank Luckert.

"THERE'S nothing against the Mangolds as I know of," the jolly storekeeper at the Rock Prairie settlement remarked, "but it's plain they don't amount to much."

"That's so," spoke up one of the settlers who were warming themselves by the fire at the store on an early February evening. "They make the two little fellows do all the work. I've never seen the father anywhere."

"Neither have I," said the storekeeper. "They come here in September. The first we see of 'em was noticing the white topped camper's wagon standing on the section of government land near the cabin that the Blagg boys left when they found the land wasn't first class. The two boys have been here for a few things and always paid for what little they got, but they wouldn't talk much. I guess they're pretty hard up, and I've thought I'd go over and see 'em, but I never got to it."

The other men agreed with this history of the family and remarked that they, too, had thought of going to see the family, but had never carried out their purpose.

AT LAST THE FAINT LIGHT IN THE CABIN SHONE ACROSS THE PLAIN.

One had passed the cabin about a month before. He had seen a woman through the window, but nothing more was known of them. They were evidently the one family of delinquents in a prosperous community of settlers.

"Nice, open winter," remarked Squire Gillett as they all rose to go.

"Yes," said the storekeeper. "Plows'll be going next week, though the nights are kind of chilly yet."

"If the Mangolds expect to hold government land, they must get some plowing done right off."

"Correct. Too bad the old man puts it all on those two boys."

Buttoning up their heavy coats, the settlers mounted their ponies and rode homeward together.

"There's the two boys now," remarked Squire Gillett when they had ridden two miles or more across the brown prairie. Looking off to the west, they saw two small boys mounted on large, rawboned work horses, their outlines distinct against the sunset sky.

The two boys were jogging along slowly and in silence. Their slender forms seemed oddly in contrast with the size of the horses they were riding. They shivered in the raw evening air. Heavy clouds were coming up in great black masses from the northeast.

"We must hurry, Joe," said one of the boys, "or we'll get wet."

"I suppose so, for our coats aren't quite waterproof," said the other.

"Say, Clive," Joe went on after a moment's silence, "don't you think it's been a pretty lonesome winter?"

Joe nodded three or four times rather ruefully.

"I shall be glad enough when spring comes," he continued, "for then papa can get out of doors and see all the folks."

"He's pretty sick, don't you think?"

"Yes, Joe, but mamma says he's feeling better, and if we're brave, strong boys he'll get well again."

"But the plowing! Can we do it all?"

"Do it? We've got to do it, and there are only a few days left before the time will be up, and if we don't have it done we shall lose the claim. It's too bad the harness broke this afternoon, but if the storekeeper has some straps we'll be all right."

The horses had started into a gallop, and the boys bobbed awkwardly in their seats. Over the swells, down the grassy slopes they went and then, with a still faster pace, whirled down another declivity and crashed through the dead sunflower stalks and tumbleweeds that covered the bottom of the slough.

They had gone but a few yards here when the horses suddenly stopped and sent the young riders sliding forward to the animals' shoulders and manes.

The object which had stopped them was a large and dilapidated "prairie schooner," which stood at the side of the trail. The horses which had been attached to it browsed upon the weeds.

A campfire had been started beside the wagon, and near it, his hands holding his head and his elbows on his knees, was a flannel shirted and unkempt man.

He did not look up until the boys called to him, and then he raised a worn, anxious, hopeless face.

"Anything the matter?" Joe asked.

"Yes, something's the matter. It's the little one." He motioned toward the wagon.

"Sick?" asked Joe.

"Yes, and maybe dying. I've come for days from the west, calculating to take the child home to the old folks in Missouri, but the little codger couldn't stand the journey."

The boys slipped to the ground and by the light of the fire approached the back part of the wagon. They drew aside the cover and let the firelight into the interior.

A child hardly more than a baby was moaning on the bed of straw within.

"Can't we help you?" asked Joe anxiously.

"I don't know. I've tried to find a doctor, but I don't seem to make out. Maybe the folks are afraid of me. Anyhow they don't seem to want me around, and now I've clean lost my way."

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Joe. "We'll take you home. Papa can doctor people."

"But the harness, Joe?" said Clive.

"That's so. I forgot it. Well, I'll tell you—you drive home with the man, and I'll go to the store. I ain't afraid."

In a few minutes the emigrant was on the road toward the Mangold cabin with Clive, while Joe, his courage just a little weakened by the appearance of the still darkening sky, was riding rapidly in the other direction.

"My goodness, who's this?" exclaimed the storekeeper as he was putting up the blinds of the lonely prairie store for the night. He could hardly believe his eyes when the young rider presented himself.

"And you've come all this way alone?" he said when he had heard Joe's story. "Well, my boy, you must be a good one. Look here! I'm going home with you."

He put on his overcoat and wrapped a shawl about the slender boy's shoulders.

"Come," he said, picking up a bundle which Joe thought was certainly too large to contain nothing more than the piece of harness, "let's go."

Together they mounted the horse, and through the falling rain the two rode on mile after mile, the steady swish of the horse's feet through the dead grass being the only sound to break the stillness of the night.

At last the faint light in the cabin of the Mangolds shone across the plain, and a few moments afterward the storekeeper and the boy had entered the house.

"I tell you what," said the storekeeper the next evening when a group of settlers had gathered about his fire, "it wasn't a pleasant sight. There was the baby moaning and suffering, while the little woman was trying to comfort it. Over in the other corner was Mangold himself."

"The old man, eh?" said the squire.

"He's sick, boys—pretty sick. He's been a kind of doctor in the east, but was ordered out here for his health. He hasn't been able to go about any since he came, and his brave little wife and the two boys have looked after everything."

"That's it, eh?"

"Yes. And, besides that, out of all of us they were the ones to take care of the camper. The poor fellow was about discouraged, and it was a godsend to him that the boys came across him, for the baby 'd surely died right there in the ravine.

"HOLD ON THERE, BOYS! UNHITCH THOSE HORSES!"

"More'n that, boys, I found out that the plowing that has to be done on the claim to hold it from the government ain't near finished. Those children have been trying to do it, and they've got only a few acres plowed. The time expires on the 15th of the month—that's day after tomorrow—and the claim's likely to be jumped by some outsider."

"I know two fellows who've got their eyes on it," said the squire. "They've been wanting it for some time and are going to make a break whenever they can. They're sharp, and I think they've got wind somehow that the railroad's going to strike through that quarter section."

"It'll be tough on the Mangolds to lose their claim," slowly droned out a lank herder who was occupying the top of a sugar barrel; "but, then, they don't amount to much in the settlement, and the Hay boys, being hustlers"—

He got no farther. The look that the storekeeper gave him quite upset him, and he relapsed into silence.

Then a very important conference was held between the storekeeper and the other settlers, and after it the party separated with smiling faces and a satisfied air.

The rain had cleared the atmosphere, and next morning the sky gleamed in such blue splendor as only prairie skies can know. The air was full of the softness and warmth of an early spring morning in southern Kansas.

At an early hour there were seen here and there wagons wending their way along the prairie. In each wagon there was a plow or a harrow, and in some of them were heaps of corn and other provisions.

SQUIRE GILLETT MADE A VERY HANDSOME LITTLE SPEECH.

Clive and Joe looked out of the Mangold cabin and noticed that the horses' heads were all facing them.

"Let's hurry and hitch up," said Joe, "and get to plowing. All the folks are coming by here, and we ought to be at work."

They ran out and began harnessing the horses to the plow, the stranger emigrant looking on dolefully.

"Hold on there, boys! Unhitch those horses!"

It was the storekeeper, with a grin on his face.

"All you have to do today," he went on, "is to boss. We'll do the work. Now, say, where do you want your forty acres plowed?"

Joe, bewildered, looked around upon the gathering teams and pointed to a tract around which the boys had made several straggling furrows.

"All right. Now, fellows, hurry up!" shouted the storekeeper.

There was a great rattling of chains and much laughter as team after team went with its plow to the corner of the field, presently to send a long chocolate ribbon of sod rolling after as it took its way around the great square piece of prairie.

"Twenty-four of them," said Mrs. Mangold, counting with extended finger, her worn face lighting up with pleasure. The strange visitation and the pile of provisions that had been brought by the settlers had almost overwhelmed her.

Following the plows were harrows, and the land rapidly took on the appearance of a field long tilled. The sun was halfway across the sky when all stopped at a signal from the storekeeper.

"Boys," he said when the men had gathered round, "now let's eat dinner, and then we'll finish. But while we're finishing how would it do for some one to go to the village and bring out a certificate of entry on the claim? That'll make it all sure. By that time he will be able to prove that the required plowing is done, you see."

The proposition was received with a shout of approval.

"I'll go," said the lank herder, who had been completely converted to the Mangolds' side.

As he had the fastest pony in the neighborhood he was allowed to take the trip.

Just before the sun reached the horizon the square of prairie sod had been blotted out.

As the party gathered around the cabin in the twilight the herder rode up, his horse white with foam. He held a large official envelope in his hand.

"February the 14th," read the storekeeper aloud, beginning the certificate. "Boys," he said, with a laugh, looking up, "this is St. Valentine's day."

"That's so," said several of the settlers.

"Tell you what let's do," proposed Squire Gillett; "let's give the certificate to the woman for a valentine."

Gathering together, with the squire at their head, they knocked at the door of the cabin. Mrs. Mangold opened it, and the pale face of her husband was seen behind her shoulder.

Squire Gillett made a very handsome little speech and presented her with the certificate as a valentine, accompanying his formal words with some hearty praise of the brave boys.

Translated.

"This is a warm doughnut. Step on it," drawled Robbie.

"No," corrected his teacher. "This is a worm. Do not step on it."—Lippincott's.

RED HEADED MEN.

Arizona's Editor Wants to Know All About Them.

SENDS OUT A CIRCULAR.

And Some Racy Replies to His Pertinent Query Are Received In Return. The Opinion of the Hon. Quincy Davis, DD. L. D.

[Copyright, 1907.]

Three weeks ago we sent out a circular from the Kicker office containing the following queries, and we hereby publish a number of the answers received:

Dear Sir—Do you think that red headed men have been instrumental in the upbuilding of Arizona?

Do you believe that more red headed men should be encouraged to settle in this territory?

Is there among your acquaintances a red headed man who has humped himself more vigorously than any other sort?

If you believe that with 1,000 more red headed men added to her population Arizona would soon take her place among the sisterhood of states, how shall we get them here?

I know three red headed men who have started three graveyards in this territory and are still on the hustle. It is the red heads who keep things moving. We can't have too many of them.—Judge O. M. Clark.

Your queries at hand, and in answer I would ask what about red headed women? I don't believe we have got a score of them in the territory. While a red headed man is shooting some poor cuss in the leg a red headed woman can raise a fuss extending over half the territory. It has long been my opinion that we should bring on at least 500 from Connecticut, where they are thicker than grasshoppers. If they can't boost old Arizona into line, we might as well quit trying.—Hon. Caleb Johnson.

Do I think red headed men have been instrumental in the upbuilding of Arizona? You bet your bottom dollar! If it wasn't for the red heads among us we'd sleep till noon and waste our Sundays shooting at coyotes instead of playing poker. Get a thousand more of 'em here as soon as possible, and let there be a law passed making it a prison offense for any one of them to use hair dye after his arrival.—Hon. James Carson.

As I am in jail, charged with horse stealing, my opinion may not count, but I will send it in just the same. Keep the red headed men out of the territory. They kill off emigrants as fast as they are brought in. There isn't a town in the territory with three red headed men in it but what has passed resolutions to the effect that the United States ought to annex Canada, Mexico or some other blamed old thing. They always want to be annexing something, and when there is nothing to annex they find fault with a tenderfoot's coattails as an excuse for shooting him. In fact, it was a red headed son of a gun that worked me in on this horse deal, and the red headed prosecuting attorney has just promised that I shall get at least ten years for it.—Hon. Quincy Davis, DD., L. D.

"I AM IN JAIL, CHARGED WITH HORSE STEALING."

The Tribune has no use for red headed men. We have had three on the staff, and all have been failures. We believe that if this territory is to ever become a state it will be after we have encouraged four or five thousand baldheads to settle among us. The man who has no hair to attend to is the chap who hustles.—Grass Valley Tribune.

The Eagle For Red Heads.

The Eagle goes in for red heads, be they men or women. We went all the way to Vermont to marry a red headed girl, and as a wife she takes the cake. We leave the bouncing all to her, and in the last six weeks she has thrown five different men out of the office and broken the legs of three of them. When she goes after a delinquent subscriber she either brings the money or his scalp back. If we had ten red headed men in this town there'd be a funeral every day and real estate would be at least 25 per cent higher. Send to Massachusetts and promise the crowd 100 acres of land apiece.—Mountain Eagle.

In answer to Jim Hellso's circular we want to tell him that there is a red headed man in this town who is doing more bumping than any twenty baldheads. Only the other day in the course of two hours he shot a mule, a dog and all the insulators off the tops of the telephone poles for a distance of three miles. The Recorder wouldn't have ten lines of local news per week if it wasn't for our red headed man. Yes, bring on more. There is said to be 250 of them in one community in Rhode Island, and all are named Green. Arizona is the climate in which they can ripen. She can promise them a mountain apiece. Lord, but what an opening there is for us!—Lone Jack Recorder.

Although we had a narrow escape ourself from training with the red heads and therefore have a fellow feeling for them, it is not on that account that we would go in for bringing 5,000 into the territory at once. A red headed man is on the hump and hustle. He is never quiet. He is always planning. Something has got to happen every day in the week. If we had 7,000 or 8,000 with us, Arizona would be one of the United States within a year or on her way to that country of flame and brimstone. Promise 'em anything on earth to get 'em here and then lasso every man and tie him up to something that will hold him.—Blue Hill Howler.

Arizona would have still been an Indian hunting ground but for red headed men. What we want is 10,000 more of them. The editor of this paper is personally acquainted with no less than seven red headed men, and, while they haven't made any of the rivers run upstream, they have kept the American eagle shrieking for twenty-four hours a day. What's the matter with promising every one who will settle here a bucking broncho?—Wolf Creek Gazette.

Great Men's Opinion.

Jim Hellso wants to know what we think of red headed men. What did Caesar think of them? What did Alexander the Great say of them? What did Napoleon do with an army of them? We have long known that the crying need of this territory was more red headed men, thousands more, but we are a humble and modest weekly editor and have kept still about it. When we went back home to Indiana last summer, we saw hundreds of the right sort, and we believe they could be secured with very little trouble. In fact, every Indiana farmer with a red headed son or daughter feels aggrieved and wants to get them off his hands. Come on, ye red heads—come to the only country on earth where the color is appreciated.—Colonel John Sinclair.

Jim Hellso ought to be kicked for leaving the red headed women out of his circular. Catherine of Russia, Joan of Arc, Queen Elizabeth, the mother of Washington—why, we could string the list out a rod long. It was a red headed girl who fired the first shot on the field of Lexington. It was a red headed dame who fired the last shot at Bunker Hill. Who but a red headed woman rang the old bell for liberty? How many poets, statesmen and warriors owe their success to red headed wives? Get red-headed men here—get them in droves—but don't skip the red headed females. Talk to them softly and bring them along. If Arizona can be saved, they will do it. —Big Cave Reporter.

As to that circular, Mr. Hellso, we want to say: Hurrah for the red heads! Get 'em here by the million. Get the long haired ones in particular. Get two red headed women for every one red headed man. Get droves of red headed young uns and let them grow up among us. Let every official of the present government who is not a red headed man resign and give place to a hustler. Put them in official positions in every town in the territory and give 'em room to get hold with both feet. Arizona is on the wabble. We have tried all else, and now let us turn to the red heads. Let the rich brick red color flaunt itself from every hilltop and be found in every valley and let it be a crime equal to that of murder for a barber to clip off any of the capillary substance or for a druggist to be found with a bottle of hair dye on his shelves.—Red Rock Sun.

The editor of the Kicker thanks the above persons and papers for their expressions and stands ready to work with any commission appointed to bring about the red headed influx. He also returns thanks that none of them have mentioned the fact that his own hair started out to be red, but faded away to a French pea color under the brain strain of making the Kicker the leading weekly of the civilized world.

M. QUAD.

A Mother's Care.

Mrs. Bird—Dickey, Dickey; come right off that ice! Don't you see that sign?—Browning's Magazine.

Meat of the Cocoanut.

"Your honor," said the lawyer, "I ask the dismissal of my client on the ground that the warrant fails to state that he hit Bill Jones with malicious intent."

"This court," replied the country justice, "ain't a graduate of none of your technical schools. I don't care what he hit Bill with. The point is did he hit him? Perceed."—Pittsburg Post.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" would have saved [illegible] Pneumonia. [illegible] Preventics" rather than to [illegible] afterwards. [illegible] yesterday with three seven a deeply seated cold, [illegible] taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break up or head off these early colds. That's purely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for [illegible] children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, take Preventics. Promptness may also save half a day's usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Remember ably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. [illegible] 50 boxes for the pocket, also in the larger [illegible] Preventics. Insist on your druggists [illegible]

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW.
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart †10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m. Arrive †9.26 a. m., †2.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart †9.26 a. m., †2.26 p. m. Arrive †10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *4.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart †2.26 p. m. Arrive †10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., §3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland.

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows.

An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;

Hamiltonian; $250.

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write to

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

THE MARYLAND AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

COLLEGE PARK, MD.

MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
Six Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S."
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scientific.
Horticultural. Civil Engineering. Chemical.
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each Department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all Departments. Graduates qualified to enter upon life's work.

Boarding Department supplied with all modern improvements—Bathrooms, Steam Heat and Electricity.

New Buildings with modern improvements.

Location unsurpassed for health. Tuition, Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Medical attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical and Athletic fees. All included in an annual charge of $200 payable quarterly in advance.

Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sanitarium for isolation of any patient with contagious diseases.

Catalog giving full particulars sent on application.

Attention is called to Short Course of Ten Weeks in Agriculture.

Write for particulars.

Term commences September 19th, 1907.

Early application necessary for admittance.

R. W. SILVESTER, Pres't.
College Park Md.
22-8t

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

Davis' 100 per cent Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, several other houses near me were painted with other paints. There is a big contrast today between the appearance of my house and others."

J. H. PRUITT,
Chincoteague, Va.

If you compare adulterated paint with Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will readily know why my house painted with Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS,
Agents.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

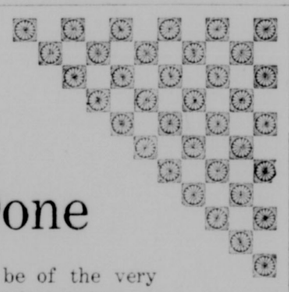
Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

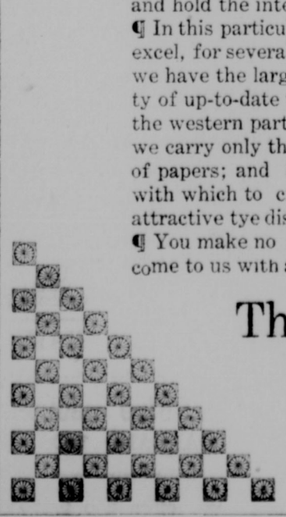
When You Need Printing Done



You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing



The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,

Oakland, Md.

THE ETHER OF SPACE.

English Scientist Gives Some Interesting Illustrations in Lecture.

An interesting lecture on "The Ether of Space" was delivered at the Royal Institution recently, by Sir Oliver Lodge, principal of Birmingham College, England. Thirty years ago, he said, Maxwell made an address on action at the same place, and he proceeded to demonstrate that action at a distance was impossible. Unless there was a medium, transferrence could not occur, he said. A body moved when pushed from behind.

The explanation of cohesion involved a continuous medium connecting the discrete particles. His illustration was that a steel spring could be bent, but it was not the atoms of matter but the ether which was strained; matter could only be moved, displaced, rearranged, though not strained. Sir Oliver said the atoms of a metal were like the comets and planets of the solar system. If all the visible stars of Kelvin's estimate, reckoned equivelent to a thousand million suns, were concentrated in one body, the stress might be so great as to produce etheral disruption of the universe ints an enormous nebula. Sir Oliver did not think that had happened, though it possibly might have been the way the matter of the universe had been so scattered.

The density of the ether was immensely greater than that of any known substance, he continued. Campared to the ether all substances were mere gossamer, though a cobweb was neither unreal nor unimportant. An electron, he said, might be regarded as a knot in the ether; a knot in a string was composed of string, but the string was not composed of knots. Then he said there was an essential distinction; matter moved, the ether was strained, exerted stress and recoiled. All potential energy was in the ether, which could vibrate and rotate, but was absolutely stationary, so to speak. Its configuration could be altered, but everything else was indirect.

Sir Oliver then proceeded to answer the question how it was possible to make a solid out of a liquid. A solid could be imitated by a fluid in motion. A disk set with wooden spokes was transparent when stationary, and rubber balls could be thrown between the spokes. When the wheel was spun around its axle, it became opaque, and the balls thrown at it recolled back. A jet of water falling from a great height on a Pelton wheel could not be cut with a sword, the sword would break. A disk of paper when rapidly rotated would cut through a piece of cardboard.

The lecturer showed vortex rings in a striking fashion. Cubeb was burned in a cubical box, the back of which was made of canvas. The smoke issued from a hole in the front of the box when Sir Oliver tapped the canvas. A round hole gave round stable rings, which kept their shape as regards the vertical plane. When the hole was made elliptical, the rings were elleptical and they twisted about as if made of rubber, demonstrating their theoretical instability. Some day, he said, elasticity would be explained as the action of either in motion. His deductions were that the intrinsic energy of a cubic millimetre of space was equivalent to the mass of one thousand tons moving with the velocity of light, all the motion supposed to be internal and circulatory.

All the News Everything that happens in the home town; the births, marriages, deaths, the social affairs, the comings and goings of the people—your neighbors; the notes of the schools and churches; all these and many other new and interesting things this paper will give you All the Time

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

ITEMS NOT CHARGED

Strange Omissions in the Chicago Lighting Plant Report.

It Places the Annual Total Cost Per Lamp at $52.39—No Account Taken, However, of Lost Taxes, Water, Depreciation, Rent or of Half a Dozen Other Important Elements of Expense—Biggest M. O. Plant in the Country—Its Service as Poor as Its Report Is Misleading.

The largest municipal electric light plant in the United States is that operated by the city of Chicago. Naturally students of municipal ownership turn to its reports as one of the principal sources of information on the subject. Unfortunately, however, these reports have been so worded as to give the false impression that the municipal lights cost the city much less than if they were supplied by contract with a private company.

Newspapers all over the country have announced that Chicago's street lights during 1906 cost only $52.39 per lamp, and they are not to be blamed for making this assertion, for twice on page 12 of the report for that year $52.39 is given as the "total cost per lamp." It is true that elsewhere in the report this statement is modified by the admission that this "cost" doesn't include interest, lost taxes, water, depreciation, rent of offices and poles, judgments against the city on account of accidents, a proportion of the cost of the offices of the comptroller, auditor, business agent and other branches of the city government, etc., but the edge is taken off this admission by the further statement that "the cost of $52.39 includes all expenses actually borne by the city," a statement, by the way, which is not even technically true.

The report admits that "there is some error in the calculation" that these items should be charged against the lighting cost, but it makes this admission only after years of refusal to do so and does so now because of an investigation into the workings of the plant that has recently been made, and the findings of which will soon be published.

Six years ago the Reform club of New York employed a well known corps of accountants to find out what Chicago's lights were really costing. At that time the city claimed a cost of $32.09, but the accountants reported the real cost as $38.88 and made no allowance for damages, street repairs, rent of offices and poles or the lighting department's share of the expense for auditing, purchasing and legal expenses and a very low allowance for depreciation. But the city authorities totally ignored the findings of this disinterested and expert investigation.

The unfairness of the report is further shown by its comparison of the per capita cost of lighting Chicago and five other cities that do not operate municipal lighting plants. In the first place, the street lighting of Chicago is notoriously inadequate, and in the second place, while the rates in the other cities cover the entire cost of lighting, in Chicago they include only a fraction of the cost.

Perhaps the most misleading feature of the report is its comparison of the alleged "cost" of the municipal lights with the rates charged by the private company with which the city contracts for 746 of its lamps. These are in the outskirts of the city, where the cost of maintaining them is very high on account of their long distance from the generating station and their remoteness from each other. That is why the city contracts for them. Yet the report assumes that the company would charge just as high a rate if it had the contract for all the lights. This assumption is not only manifestly absurd, but is directly contrary to the facts, as each of the companies offered a reduction of more than one-quarter of its contract price if it were given the entire lighting contract.

In making comparisons the quality of the service is an important consideration, and the service of the Chicago city plant is bad. It cheats the public both by the frequency of outages (lamps going out and staying out the rest of the night) and by stealing its own current—i. e., reducing the amperage below the point at which the current keeps the lamps up to their rated candlepower. In many cases observers have noted that, especially after midnight, the lamps give only a dull glow as the carbon points and are of practically no value as lights. This is done to reduce coal consumption and of course makes a great difference in the cost of operation. It would not be tolerated from a private company, which would also be penalized for outages. These things are quite naturally not mentioned in the report.

To sum up, the report gives the impression to the casual reader that the municipal plant is giving good service at a low cost, while the facts are that its service is poor and that the cost is much higher than if the lights were supplied by a company.

Not Yet For Sioux City.

The construction of a municipal electric light plant has been under consideration at Sioux City, Ia. The commission appointed to investigate the subject has, however, reported adversely, and the council will advertise for bids to light the city after the expiration of the present contract.

Tax Rate Drops.

The Cleveland Leader attributes to the sale of its municipal electric light plant the fact that the tax rate of Lakewood, O., will be about $2.75 this year as against $3.50 in 1906.

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

JUST RECEIVED Eight Car Loads of

Farm Wagons, Road Wagons, Buggies, Surries, Runabouts, Carriages, Plows, Harrows, Corn Planters, Cultivators, Mowers, Binders, Grain Drills, Grass Seeders, Spray Pumps, Roofing, Fertilizers and everything in the Farm Implement line. :: :: :: Call and get our prices.

IF YOU BUY FROM US YOU GET THE BEST FOR YOUR MONEY A. D. Naylor & Co.

Muco-Solvent is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor, Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

TO A STENOGRAPHER.

Lady typist, blond and fair,
Sitting so serenely there,
Pray forgive me if I dare
To ask a favor.
I, who am your humble slave,
Tremble as this boon I crave,
Feeling (usually brave)
My courage waver.

For tomorrow morn at half Past eleven (do not laugh!)
I expect my better half
And her dear mother,
Who are curious to see
What my office life may be,
So your scorn for them and me
Please try to smother.

And, although you've naught to do,
It were best for me and you
If you, lady, made a few Attempts to hustle.
It will please them, I confess,
If you wear a simpler dress.
Try to look a little less
Like Lillian Russell.

Be prepared your part to play;
Don't appear too smart or gay;
Work as if you earned the pay
For which you're hired;
Show a more subservient air;
Shake your haughty, languid stare,
Or, by the pencils in your hair,
They'll have you fired!

—J. Adair Strawson in Puck

Laconic.

"Is the proprietor in?" asked the visitor.

"No, sir," replied the office boy.

"Is he in the city?"

"Yes, sir."

"Will he be back soon?"

"No, sir."

"Tonight?"

"No, sir."

"Tomorrow some time?"

"No, sir."

"Did he leave any word for Mr. Nash?"

"No, sir."

The stranger looked at the office boy sharply.

"When did he go?"

"Yesterday afternoon."

"Didn't he say when he'd be back?"

"No, sir."

"Well, where the dickens is he?"

"At the undertaker's."

"What's the matter?"

"He's dead."—Harper's Weekly.

Feminine Consistency.

First Bridesmaid—Dear Mabel is nothing if not consistent.

Second Ditto—Well?

First Bridesmaid—You know she was the president of the Rainy Daisies, so she insisted at her wedding on carrying a shower bouquet.—Houston Post.

Putting Him Wise.

He—That jolly Miss Smith is a girl after my own heart.

She—If you think that is all she is after, you are foolish.

A Dangerous Tendency.

Jones (with a sneer)—So you think Miss Oldgirl is in love with you?

Smythe (with a smirk)—I'm sure she'd jump at me.

Jones (with a warning frown)—Then look out, old boy. This is leap year.—Baltimore American.

Taking It as It Comes.

"I'm never in a hurry to borrow trouble for myself," said the cheerful citizen who has a hundred feet of sidewalk. "When the snow comes is time enough for me to ask my neighbor to lend me his snow shovel."—Browning's.

Wonderful, Indeed!

Patience—She's a most wonderful woman.

Patrice—Why so?

"She speaks four languages. Just think of keeping a secret in four languages!"—Yonkers Statesman.

A Martyr.

"Mamma, have I got to take a bath tonight?"

"I'm afraid you have, my dear."

"But I haven't done anything all the week to deserve it."—New York Life.

A Constant Reminder.

"You remind me a good deal of my first husband," said the ex-widow.

"And you," rejoined her present husband, "remind me of him altogether too much."—Detroit Tribune.

The Limit.

Clarice—I think Mr. Gunson is dreadfully stingy.

Clarence—Stingy! Why, that man wouldn't even tell a story at his own expense!—Harper's Weekly.

Then and Now.

"Before we were married my husband called me a phantom of delight."

"And I suppose he thinks now that you are merely a ghost of gladness."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Finishing Touch.

He—It has been said that a woman can make a fool of any man. Do you believe it?

She—Of course not. The best she can do is develop him.

FIRE LOSS PROMPTLY PAID.

Messrs. Mathews & Hamill Complimented For Their Promptness.

BOND, Md., Jan. 1st, 1908.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL, Oakland, Md.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your letter of December 31st, enclosing me a draft for two hundred dollars in payment of my recent loss by fire. This draft arrived just fifteen days after the happening of the fire, and I desire to thank you for your promptness in paying the claim. Your promptness in paying losses is to me the best possible evidence that you represent companies which are able to pay their losses, and have no desire to take advantage of those who insure with you. It will give me pleasure to recommend you to those who may desire to insure their properties against loss by fire.

Very truly yours,
E. E. BROWN,
Supt. Bond Mill.

Postponed.

The box supper and literary entertainment advertised to take place Tuesday night of this week at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Society, was postponed and will occur on Tuesday night of next week.

Married.

Winters—Rhoades—At the Lutheran parsonage in Oakland, by Rev. E. Manges, Miss Topsy May Rhoades and Mr. Lloyd Alvin Winters, both of near Swanton.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

Trade Exhibition.

J. M. Davis & Sons have arranged for a big display of their leading specialties during the month of March commencing on the 9th and lasting until the 21st. Their plan is to show the various lines they are handling in actual operation. Their display promises to be very interesting to the public. There you will find many things worthy of your attention. The demonstrations will take place from ten to twelve in the morning and from two to four in the afternoon and from six to eight in the evening, each day. Remember the date, March 9th to March the 21st.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

A handsome addition is being made to Superintendent Davis' cottage.

Mr. Albert Biggs, instead of his brother Masden, occupies the Young cottage and Masden is in Fern cottage.

Mr. Wm. Smith will occupy a cottage on E street.

Mr. Henry Smith has moved into a cottage on D street and will be employed in Echard's livery.

The board walk has been completed to Felty's store and Mr. Echard now has his force cleaning ditches and opening culverts.

The raking and burning of leaves is now on, and as usual, is quite a problem.

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., December, 26, 1907.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1908 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

An Army In One.

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

The snow had been falling for hours. The air was heavy with dampness, and the streets were crowded with children, glad of the storm, as it offered them an opportunity to use their sleds. And at last here was the snow they had prayed for!

In the middle of High street a snowball fight was in progress. A motley crowd of youngsters had made hundreds of snowballs, and they were ranged on both sides of the street in "gangs." The recruits were lined up ready for action when a sleigh turned the corner.

"Cheese it, fellers!" came from the leader of one side. "Here comes the Salvation Army!"

"Beat it! Beat it!" screamed the leader of the opposite forces. And in rank disorder both sections disappeared around the corner and in doorways.

A passerby might have looked in vain for the sight of the Salvation Army. The sleigh drove up in front of a little cottage in the row, and a young girl, muffled in furs, got out, gave some directions to her driver and went into the tumbledown home.

Members of the "gang" began to reappear, and one particularly brave boy stepped up and patted the horse.

"We was just gettin' ready for a fight, but guess we'll have to wait for the army to go home," he said to the driver. "Couldn't say how long that'll be, could you?" he continued.

"I didn't see any army," said the driver, smiling at the lad.

"Ah, go on," said the youngster. "That's what we calls her—Miss Murtha. We calls her the Salvation Army, 'cause she's saved more sick and dyin' around these alleys than a reg'lar army, so that's our name for her. Pa and ma, they calls her Miss Murtha, but the "gang" calls her Salvation Army."

"SOCK IT TO HIM! RIGHT ON THE COCOA!" THEY YELLED.

Inside the cottage Miss Murtha had laid aside her coat and was ministering to a sick child. Her furs were thrown carelessly over a kitchen chair, and she drew up another by the side of the bed.

"Now, Mrs. Quinn, go and take a little rest. I'll sit with Jimmy until the doctor comes. I stopped on my way and told him to come around. I'll heat some broth for Jimmy and do everything that is necessary."

The weary mother went to an adjoining room without any protest. Miss Murtha heated the broth and stared anxiously at the little fellow. She walked to and fro watching the window in hopes of seeing the doctor, but he failed to appear. Going to the door, she called to her driver, who was still in deep conversation with the boy.

"Elston, you'd better drive around to the doctor's and bring him back with you. Tell him he must hurry. Take Michael along with you to hold the horse while you go into the office," she added as she saw the rosy cheeked lad gaping at her.

The sleigh and its two occupants started to turn around. The recruits had all returned by this time and, seeing one of their leaders about to desert them, joined forces against him. With one accord they rushed to the piles of hard snowballs.

"Sock it to him! Right on the cocoa!" they yelled.

The orders were carried out to a T. Of course some of the balls hit the dignified Elston, but he tickled the horse with his whip, and they spun around the corner before much damage was done. They were gone only a few minutes, as Dr. Cosgrove lived within a few blocks of High street. The time was spent in renewing ammunition, however, by the boys who were left in the street.

Elston returned with the doctor, and Michael snugly tucked between them. Suddenly a well aimed shot struck the little fellow in the left eye. With a scream he turned, but too late. The blood poured down his cheek as the doctor picked him up in his arms and carried him into the house, where Miss Murtha was waiting for him. She met them at the door in time to have seen the accident. Stepping out in the yard she called the boys to her.

"Who hit Michael? I want to know at once. You ought to be ashamed of yourselves when you know his little brother is so sick. Who did it, I say?"

Had they been lined up for military orders they could not have replied with more even accord. Twenty voices answered:

"I done it."

Surely there is honor on High street if money is scarce.

Miss Murtha proceeded to lecture them and assured them that she would be out again in a few moments and wanted every one of those snowballs to have disappeared by that time. The boys stood in a group discussing how best to get rid of them, as they were frozen like ice.

"I tell you what, fellers, let's start a fire and melt 'em," said one clever youth.

No one ever knew where the front gate that belonged to the Quinns' fence disappeared, and it was a comment among the neighbors that Mrs. Mulqueen's kitchen shutters were stolen that same day, but the snowballs were duly melted, and the gangs sauntered toward Smith's hill for a few coasts with their new sleds.

Inside the cottage Dr. Cosgrove and Miss Murtha had barely spoken. The doctor was beside Jimmy's bed, while Miss Murtha was holding a piece of ice on Michael's cut.

"Does it hurt much now, Michael?" asked Miss Murtha as she bathed the wound, which proved to be not very deep and of no consequence.

"'Tain't nothin', Salvation," said the child. His eyes sparkled as he continued: "Gee, but that was a swell ride I had in the sleigh, just like a real gentleman. It was worth a biff in de eye I'll do it again if I git the chance."

"Kitty, take him out of the room," said the doctor softly. "And maybe you'd better call Mrs. Quinn. Jimmy has fallen asleep, and I don't want him roused."

Michael left the room without the assistance of the Salvation Army, and Miss Murtha went to call Mrs. Quinn. They left the sick child in care of his mother, and Miss Murtha dismissed her driver and drove the doctor to his home.

Dr. Cosgrove looked at the girl beside him. Even a casual observer could see the admiration in his eyes. His very look bespoke his love for her.

"Kitty, I wish you would not expose yourself to these diseases. That child has typhoid, and I simply forbid you to go there again," he said, with some emphasis.

"Indeed, doctor, since when were you appointed my guardian?" Kitty answered, with a scornful raising of her upper lip. "I'll go where I please."

Nothing more was said until they drove up to the door of the doctor's office, and then only curt goodbys were uttered. The next morning Kitty was at the Quinn cottage to hear that the doctor had been there all night with Jimmy and had finally fallen asleep on a couch in the dingy parlor. He had pulled the little fellow through the crisis.

Kitty stepped in and looked at the sleeping form of the man who had loved her so long and faithfully. He had forbidden her to come again, yet he would sit up all night with a sick child from whose parents he would never get a fee. She walked a little nearer to him. He roused.

"Kitty! Where am I?" he said as he shook himself and sat up.

"You are here in Mrs. Quinn's parlor, Roland, and I am sorry I was cross with you yesterday," she answered meekly.

"Kitty, darling, won't you promise me to give up this missionary work and take care of me only? I need you, dear, so much," he pleaded.

"Yes, Roland, I will, because I love you more than all the others put together," she answered as his arms went about her and their lips met.

Just then Michael's shining face appeared at the door, but with the honor of the alley he cried:

"I didn't see nothin', Salvation, honest!"

Coffee as Remedy For Asthma.

Coffee is a very excellent remedy for asthma. Those who do not know how to cut short their attacks and have not tried coffee should do so by all means. It often succeeds admirably when almost everything else has failed. There are one or two little points to be attended to in taking coffee for asthma. In the first place, it should be very strong, in fact, perfectly black. Weak coffee does more harm than good. If made very strong, much of it need not be taken. A large quantity is a positive disadvantage, for it is less rapidly absorbed and only distends the stomach. Then it should be given without sugar or milk, pure "cafe noir." It should be given on an empty stomach, for when taken on a full stomach it often does harm by putting a stop to the process of digestion.—Family Doctor.

The No Grog Law.

In July, 1862, congress revolutionized the American navy by passing the historic law providing:

"That from and after the 1st day of September, 1862, the spirit ration in the navy of the United States shall forever cease, and thereafter no distilled spirituous liquors shall be admitted on board of vessels of war except as medical stores and upon the order and under the control of the medical officers of such vessels and to be used only for medical purposes.

"From and after the 1st day of September next there shall be allowed and paid to each person in the navy now entitled to the spirit ration 5 cents per day in commutation and lieu thereof, which shall be in addition to the present pay."

And since that day there has been no "grog" in the United States navy.

ORDER NISI.

James E. Lish et al. vs Tecumpson Lish et al. No. 1496 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Ordered this 18th day of March, 1908, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above entitled cause by Julius C. Rentzinger and William R. Offutt, trustees, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 18th day of April, 1908, provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once a week for three successive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1908.

The report states the amount of the sale to be $425.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Order of Publication.

Ada A. V. Halterman vs Henry H. Halterman.

No. 1521 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree, divorcing the plaintiff, Ada A. V. Halterman, a vinculo matrimonii, from the defendant, Henry H. Halterman.

The bill states that on the 29th day of May, 1875, the plaintiff was married to the defendant at Garrett county, Maryland, where they continued to reside together as husband and wife until the 11th day of February, 1905, and that, although the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband, the said Henry H. Halterman, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant has without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that five children were born to the plaintiff and defendant as the result of said marriage, all of whom are dead, except one son, Lawrason H. Halterman, who is above the age of twenty-one years and resides in Page county, Virginia, and the plaintiff is a resident of Garrett county, Maryland, and that the defendant resides in Tucker county, West Virginia, and is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill then prays that the plaintiff may be divorced a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant, for general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 11th day of March, 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of April, 1908, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May next to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Convenience.
Protection,
Economy,

are all combined in Telephone Service. We offer you the many facilities of an efficiently operated and extensively developed system of telephones.

The rates are very low.

THE C. & P. TELEPHONE CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors,
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Proposals for Building Bridge.

OAKLAND, MD., March 25, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners for Garrett County, Md., will receive sealed proposals until

Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over Cherry Creek on road from Gortner to Sunnyside, said bridge to be of one span, 46 feet extreme length, and 12 feet wide, with stone abutments and to be built according to the plans and specifications now on file in the County Commissioners' office.

The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure separate from the stone work and vice versa.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett county, deceased, have obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters testamentary on the personal estate of

THOMAS J. LOWDERMILK,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 20th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 20th day of February, 1908.

JOHN W. LOWDERMILK,
ALBERT LOWDERMILK,
Executors,
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letter of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Administrator's Notice.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

LEVI SWEITZER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 30th day of July next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 30th day of January, 1908.

JOSEPH R. GLASS,
Administrator,
Swanton, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator,
Rockwood, Pa.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.

Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

J. B. WILLIAMS CO
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND
IRON FENCING
Send for prices

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL,
Successors to Charles A. Tower,
General Fire Insurance,
OAKLAND, MD.

We offer the best possible protection.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1908. NUMBER 5

...YLAND LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED MONDAY.

Session of 1908 Passes Into History Leaving Bad Record.

MONDAY DAY OF GREAT STRAIN.

Measures of All Kinds Rushed Through With Railroad Speed—Lobbyists Had Busy Day—Local Measures That Were Passed.

Annapolis, March 30, 1908.

The Legislature of 1908 passed into history at midnight. Under the Constitution of the State the life of the session ended at 12 o'clock and when the motion to adjourn sine die was made it was carried with a whoop. The record, good, bad and indifferent, is complete and cannot be changed. The 90 days' session, with its good deeds and its bad ones, its wise legislation and mistakes, its lost opportunities and reform measures, is over and there are nighty few here who are not glad of it.

The adjournment was preceded by the usual scenes of excitement and hilarity. The Senate, even in the closing hour, measurably preserved its dignity, but in the House the 100 members and the relaxation was of a strenuous sort. There was singing by the House quartet, of which Mr. Walter McComas, of Harford county, is the leading tenor. Waste paper baskets were genially dumped over the heads of some members by some others; bills were torn from the files and wadded into balls before being hurled across the chamber. There were many speeches and much applause and the enthusiasm found vent in divers and sundry ways.

The relief from the strain under which the men here have been laboring for weeks was a tremendous one and even the quiet and unobtrusive statesmen who have set in their seats throughout the session without getting upon their feet to speak, became demonstrative and jovial. Jokes were craked and nearly everything went, but throughout all the House and the Senate machine kept grinding steadily along, passing bills of all kinds and descriptions until the files were finally cleared of all but these measures except the ones pretined to die. The grinding out of bills was interrupted only by the presentations to the two presiding officers and the other gifts to officials, which necessitated considerable laudatory speechmaking and brought forth vigorous cheers.

All day long the atmospoere about the State House has been tense. The corridors have been crowded with politicians, big and little, from every section of the State, who came here to be on hand for the finish. The lobbyists had their busiest day. They scurried about from House to Senate, from Senate to House and from the chief clerk of one body to the secretary of the other in a last frenzied attempt to get through the measures in which they are interested or to kill those which they are employed to defeat. Wires were pulled and tricks turned that had not been thought of before in the session, and everybody was "on the job."

The leaders were all here. There was John Walter Smith, the newly elected United States Senator who is to serve seven years, with his silk hat and long frock coat. There was Mr. John J. Mahon, the big man in the city organization, with Max Ways, William F. O'Conor, John J. Flynn, Harry Wells Rusk and others from the city. There was Mr. RobertCrain, counsel for the United Railways; Mr. Charles H. Carter, counsel for the Pennsylvania Railroad and president of the Board of Supervisors of Elections; Mr. Arthur D. Foster, representing the Consolidated Gas Company and other corporations; Mr. Alonzo L. Miles, who has succeeded in getting a bill through to pay himself $5,000 for services rendered the State as counsel in taxation cases, and many others. Even ex-Gov. Frank Brown was down for a short while, saw Governor Crothers and went back to town. Two unfamiliar figures about the State House during the day were those of Gen. John Gill, president of the Mercantile Trust Company, and Mr. S. Davies Warfield, president of the Continental Trust Company. General Gill said he had come down to pay his taxes. State Treasurer Murray Vandiver was conspicuous in both houses and in the corridors, and at night Secretary of State N. Winslow Williams came down and watched with interest the closing scenes. The galleries were thronged with women and there were many strangers and sightseers who came to see the horseplay at night.

The Legislature convened a little after 10 o'clock this morning and from then on until the finish the pressure was tremendous. It was particularly hard upon the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate, who were besieged every minute by members and friends to bring out this or that bill or to keep this or that one back. Careful watch had to be kept upon the files, and notwithstanding the relaxation and fun, there never was a time when the alertness of the leading men in both houses was relaxed.

Among the measures passed during the last days of the session directly affecting Garrett county were the following:

The repeal of the mortgage tax law, which is considered by many as being the most progressive local measure receiving favorable consideration.

The measure providing for the appointment of a deputy sheriff, who shall also act as warden to the jail, and the employment by the sheriff of a cook for the jail. Both these appointments will be in the hands of the sheriff, who will thus assume complete control of the jail and the prisoners confined therein.

Senator Brown's measure amending the road law of Garrett county.

Delegate Green's bill amending the charter of Grantsville.

Several measures, incorporating various coal and mining companies, introduced in the Senate by Mr. Brown were also passed.

The local option bill, passed on Saturday, is along the same lines as the proposed state-wide bill of the Anti-Saloon League and the bill passed during the session for Washington county. It permits a vote in any wet district or incorporated town upon petition of 25 per cent. of the voters, and the question can be submitted after a lapse of twenty-three months from the date of the passage of the bill. The bill does not contemplate allowing those residing in dry territory to vote on the question. In Garrett county are eight entirely dry districts, the other six having dry territory by legislation within the limits of said districts.

Senator Brown's bill appropriating the sum of $4,000 per year for the period of two years as a special appropriation in aid of the public schools of Garrett county. This measure was introduced early in the session and passed several days prior to the adjournment. It is now in Governor Crothers' hands for approval.

What Legislature Did And Failed To Do

Passed no important bills unsatisfactory to the public-service corporations.

Public utilities bill allowed to sleep in committee with no effort to get it out.

Democrats displayed no enthusiasm in the matter of carrying out party's anti-election pledges.

The corporations were well nigh supreme in the Legislature. Part of what they accomplished was done through a well organized lobby, and part by the cry of hard times they raised.

Easement tax bill, opposed by public-service corporations, permitted to die.

Thirty anti-liquor measures were adopted, though the general local-option bill was defeated.

The refusal of the Legislature to take up matters of vital interest to the public will doubtless react on the Democratic party.

A REPLY TO MR. BROWNING'S COMMUNICATION.

In Reference to The Contention Between the School Board and Mr. Buckel.

To the Editor of The Republican:

In response to a letter of explanation and vindication, published over the signature of Ed. A. Browning in the columns of THE REPUBLICAN of March 19th, I crave the kindness of the editor in according me the medium of his paper for the purpose of furnishing a brief recital of the facts occasioning the unpleasantness refered to in Mr. Browning's letter.

I am persuaded that it is the business of every individual to look every American proposition squarely in the face and carefully consider both sides of every matter in the same liberal and impartial light, therefore in justice to myself, my friends and the public generally, I submit the facts that they may get at the truth of it.

I regret that Mr. Browning should have taken upon himself the undue burden of asserting that I had censured Mr. C. E. Ellithorp and charged that gentleman with having been responsible for my having failed to secure a certificate as a result of the teachers' examination held last June. I did feel, as well as express, much dissatisfaction over the result, but deny ever having said that C. E. Ellithorp was responsible for the matter. At the conclusion of the above mentioned examination (having gone through more difficult ones in my experience as a teacher) I felt so confident of my work that I was sure I would be awarded at least a low grade certificate, but when I received no report from the examiner, not even a refort of my grading, I was disposed to regard it as an oversight and sought by means of correspondence to satisfy myself, but could not get a report of my grading, was only told that I had failed to make the required average. I then made a trip to Oakland, asked Mr. Browning to allow me to examine my papers in his office, and I was refused the privilege over the plea of lack of time. Mr. Browning finally agreed to copy my papers and mail them to me, which promise was never kept.

When I interviewed Mr. Browning he also told me that I should go ahead and teach and he would pay me $35 per month. The inquiring mind will at once speculate as to why all my efforts to see the grading of my papers were fruitless, and why if the papers showed a lack of competency, should I be permitted to teach at a salary above what I could expect under a certificate. I did not teach and never will under a permit, and the dissatisfaction I expressed and feet is the outgrowth of the above facts, and as they stand susceptible of various construction, unless fully explained, I have no apologies for my feelings.

Respectfully,
O. C. BUCKEL.

Bittinger, March 30, 1908.

ADVANCE ANNOUNCEMENT CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Many Excellent Speakers, Readers and Musical Artists Have Been Engaged

FOR THE MONTH OF AUGUST.

Attractions Are Claimed to be The Richest Ever Presented to a Park Audience—Jahu DeWitt Miller Will Be Among the Lecturers.

The program offerings for the famous Chautauqua at Mountain Lake Park, August 4th to 28th of the current year, are the richest and strongest which have ever been presented. The best things in every line of entertainment have been secured. The object in view is to provide something really worth while so that thoughtful people may be able to combine a little intellectual uplift with their summer outing. The place is ideal, the scenery, climate and accomomations are not surpassed at any resort in America.

If the people desire it they can live as cheaply here as they can at home. That is one of the unique features of this splendid summer resort.

The following engagements have already been completed: In the line of Lecturers, Gypsy Smith, Rev. George R. Stuart, Frederick Warde, the great actor; A. Wirt Lowther, Dr. Russell H. Conwell, Jahu DeWitt Miller, Dr. Robert S. McArthur, Rev. R. E. Smith, N. J. Corey in his wonderful musical lectures; Rev. Henry A. Rose in magnificent stereopticon lectures; Rev. Alexander Corkey, D. W. Howell, Rev. H. C. Milligan, Harry Spillman Riggs, Mrs. Philip Snowden of England; Dr. Richard Wilkinson the brilliant southerner in his great lecture on "Robert E. Lee"; Dr. John Wesley Hill, President Carl G. Doney and many others.

The musical features will be exceptionally strong, including the Lotus Glee Club of New York; Weber Male Quartette of Boston; Otterbein Male Quartette and Hand Bell Ringers beside many novelty attractions.

The soloists include Mrs. Zoe Pearl Park, Miss Ruby Harkness, Miss Grace B. Dye, Clifford Wiley the famous baritone; Bernice Costello, Miss Ina Few, John Cheshire, our greatest American harpist.

Dr. Johann Blose will have charge of the Chorus and the famous Stevens' Band will be present during the entire season.

The Readers include Miss Ruth Arnett, Landon A. Layton, La Verne Ogden, Miss Mary Brevard Roberts and others who shall yet be secured.

The American Vitagraph with its wonderful Moving Pictures, Rosani the juggler, Prof. Struck the great magician, Spedon the superb crayon artist, and other like features will fill with brightness many of the evening hours.

Large attention will be given to the morning Biblical Exposition and it will be in charged of such men as Rev. Ora Samuel Gray, Rev. Hilas H. Miller, the famous evangelist; Dr. Cross Alexander and others.

There will be special excursion days with the annual Lutheran Reunion, Grand Tournament, and many exciting base ball games to add to the pleasures of the excursionists.

Try a Summer at Mountain Lake Park and be convinced that there is no more attractive spot on the continent for a summer outing and that no stronger and better Chautauqua program is presented any place. Many others will be added to this program before the coming of August. Dr. W. L. Davidson, for twenty years the maker of the program, has certainly excelled himself this time in the good things secured.

Detailed program will be printed in the early days of May and can be secured by addressing Dr. W. W. Davis, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland, who be glad to give information of any character.

GRANTSVILLE.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Getty, of Cumberland, and Mrs. Bruce Lichty, of Meyersdale, are here with their mother, Mrs. Margaret Getty, who has been ill for some time but now very seriously so.

There are now four down in Mr. Josiah Durst's family with typhoid fever—Mrs. Durst, two daughters, Effie and Annie, and Willie Johnson, a relative.

We are sorry to note that Mrs. Elisha Durst, who seemed to be improving, has grown suddenly worse.

Rev. McCoy has closed his meeting at Savage and will now begin his meeting at Jennings.

Miss Belle Stanton, while on her way to church Sunday night with her sisters, Misses Ruth and Mary, was stricken with paralysis. She was carried in the home of Ervin Stanton, where she is being very tenderly cared for, but is still unconscious.

Wednesday night at 2 o'clock the people of Grantsville were aroused from their slumber by the cry of fire which happened to be Mr. Augustine's barn. They got the horse, and one cow out but his chickens and a cow and calf, belonging to Mrs. Samuel Broadwater, burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Long of Salisbury, Miss Mable Beachy, of Somerset and Mr. Daniels of Salisbury, took supper at the National Hotel Sunday evening, after which they called on Miss Ella Beachy and mother.

Mrs. Irene Hays and little son are visiting relatives here.

Mr. Noah Broadwater has gone east for his spring goods and milliner.

DIXON & KELSO

WILL OFFER THE FOLLOWING GOODS

FOR 30 DAYS

AT GREATLY REDUCED PRICES:

MATTINGS.

15c quality for	12½c. yard
25c " "	20c. "
30c " "	25c. "
35c " "	28c. "

LACE CURTAINS.

65c quality for	49c pair
90c " "	75c. "
$1.15 " "	90c. "
$1.25 " "	$1.00 "
$2.00 " "	$1.69 "
$2.50 " "	$1.99 "

Also 5000 rods American Woven Fence in heights ranging from 26 to 58 inches. Oliver Chilled Plows. Timothy and Clover Seed. Seed Oats. Fertilizer. Cement. Brick. Lime, &c., at Best Possible Prices

Yours to Please,

DIXON & KELSO.

COMMITTEES OF THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Those Who Have Been Selected As Members of the Various Committees.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Oakland Board of Trade, held last Thursday night, the President submitted a list of the Committees appointed by him (which were approved by the Board,) as follows, the first name appearing in the respective lists being the chairman of that particular committee:

New Industries—H. C. Sincell, J. D. Hamill, H. Creutzburg.

Room and Fixtures—D. E. Bolden, Ira J. Beckwith, Owen Treacy.

Statistics—D. E. Offutt, Jr., D. M. Dixon, A. G. Ross.

Entertainment—H. W. McComas, Henry Lauer, Wm. Weber.

Transportation—D. M. Mason, Gilmor S. Hamill, Harry A. Rasche.

Advertising—J. E. Legge, W. Ravenscroft, W. H. Bartlett.

Auditing—R. E. Sliger, J. W. Hart, A. Townshend.

Conventions and Public Gatherings—Benj. H. Sincell, J. M. Stanton, H. W. McComas.

Education—J. E. Harned, C. A. Deffinbaugh, Benj. H. Sincell.

Executive—S. T. Jones, D. M. Dixon, W. R. Offutt.

High-ways and Streets—Truman West, W. G. Hinebaugh, E. G. Naylor, Legislation—E. H. Sincell, A. T. Matthews, S. F. Hamill.

Membership—D. M. Dixon, C. S. Davis, Chas. Liller.

Municipal Affairs—J. D. Hamill, E. A. Weimer, A. G. Sturgiss.

The annual dues for the present year was fixed at $2.00.

A meeting of the Board of Trade has been called for Monday, April 13th, at the Opera House, at 8 o'clock p. m., and all members are requested to be present as business of importance will be transacted.

Subscribefor the Republican.

THE MAPLE SUGAR CROP.

Up To This Time Only 33 Per Cent. of Average Yield Has Been.

Mr. Thomas B. Wiley, one of the largest maple sugar manufacturers in the county, was in Oakland Monday, being accompanied here by Mr. Albert Brenneman, who is also the owner of a sugar camp approaching that of Mr. Wiley's in size and yield. They came to Oakland from their homes near Bittinger, bringing with them about a ton of sugar and fifty one-gallon cans of the syrup, which they sold to parties here for family consumption.

During the evening Mr. Wiley paid THE REPUBLICAN office a visit and stated that up to this time only about 33 per cent. of the average yield had been manufactured and that unless a decided change in weather conditions occurred within the next few days the outlook for a further yield was not contemplated by experienced sugar men.

Mr. Wiley has a camp embracing about forty acres upon which he sets in the neighborhood of 1300 vessels. From the trees of this forty acre orchard he has manufactured in one season when the weather was favorable and labor could be secured, more than seven thousand pounds of sugar, all of which found a ready market in various cities, most of it going to Pittsburg and Philadelphia.

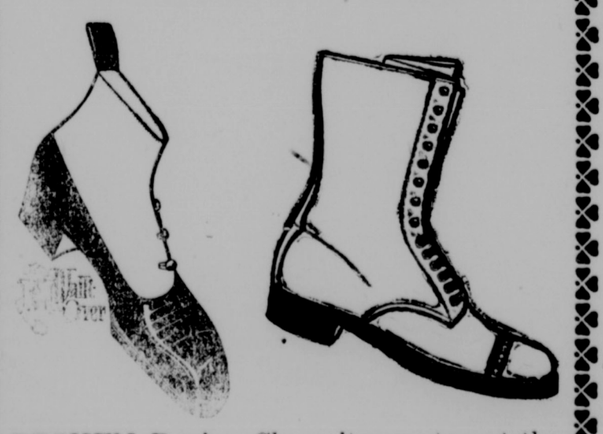
Another well arranged camp in the Bittinger district is owned and operated by Mr. Turner Lohr, who utilizes about seventeen hundred vessels.

Sunday School to Reorganize.

The Union Sunday school of the Union church near Gortner will reorganize on next Sunday morning at 9.30 o'clock. All are most cordially invited to attend and take part in the services.

E. A. WEIMER.

WEAR THE BEST
It Costs No More.



WHEN Buying Shoes it pays to get the best, not necessarily the highest in price. bnt Shoes made of good solid leather by people who know how. This is the kind I sell. Come and see

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.

NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

The End of the Feud.

By Charles Sloan Reid.

Copyright, 1907, by Charles S. Reid.

"WELL, ye've got me, Tom, hard an' fast, an' that's a fact."

It was even difficult for the man to speak, so completely was he wound with ropes. Beginning at his shoulder, the ropes, by numerous tightly drawn coils, bound his arms fast against his body and held his feet and legs so close together that his knee joints worked as one. The man's captor sat opposite on the ground, dangling his hands over his knees and grinning.

"Yes, Joe, I've got ye. Ye're slippery, Joe, slippery as a greased eel, but I've got ye now."

"It's all on account o' them dinged ing-urns I eat this mornin'. Allers would sleep like a dead hoss arter eatin' ing-urns."

"I reckon so, Joe."

"Didn't think about anybody wanderin' into this place nohow."

He looked up and around. They were sitting at the bottom of a deep gorge, with perpendicular walls of granite rising more than a thousand feet above them, and these walls almost surrounded the little basin in a small compass. There was only one narrow outlet.

"But, ye see, I been trailin' ye for two or three days, like a hungry coyote on the track of a crippled jack rabbit."

"I reckon so."

"Hadn't been for that don't reckon I'd 'a' found my way in here for some time. Somehow never had tried to come down in here in all my born days b'case this place sort o' seemed to be on your side."

"What air ye goin' to do about it now ye've got me?"

"Hain't decided, but maybe I'll jest open a vein in yer neck an' let ye peg out that way."

"Can't ye make it quicker'n that? I allers done my work clean, Tom, an' ye know it, don't ye?"

"So ye did, mighty clean. Ye're a pesky good shot, Joe."

The feud was an old one and had claimed many victims on both sides. In fact, it had reduced the two families to four members, Joe Dunston had an only son left, and Tom Wylie had an only daughter. Hardly a gorge or ravine there was throughout the mountains that had not seen its tragedy, that did not bear some ghastly legend of the feud. Over there a young man kneeling to drink at a clear spring had dyed its waters with his lifeblood ere he could rise, and down there the bones of a bleaching skeleton had remained above ground for months before the tragedy of a missing member had been learned, and so the epochs of the family feud had been marked.

Joe Dunston sat at the bottom of the gorge and cursed himself for eating onions, and Tom Wylie grinned over his victory. He seemed in no hurry to put an end to the work he had begun. It was an unusual circumstance, the opportunity of capturing a victim before putting him to death. Usually it was a quick shot, a well aimed weapon, a bullet speeding to its mark, but now the last of the Dunston tribe but one sat bound and utterly helpless before old Tom Wylie, awaiting the end which he knew was inevitable.

"LOOK AROUND, JOE," HE SAID.

Occasionally Joe allowed his gaze to wander a zigzag course along up the opposite wall of the gorge. It might chance that Jim would come that way, in which case he would give a signal to his son, one that would of course seal his own doom quickly, but would also put Jim on his guard, with a chance to get a speedy revenge. But the broken top line of the cliff showed no sign of the presence of a human being.

"Joe, ye're slippery—powerful slippery. It's a pity, I reckon, that a man like you has to die."

A leer of sinister admiration trailed from old Tom's eye, but he did not weaken from his purpose.

"Yes, I reckon so, Tom. Ding the ing-urns!"

Tom grinned. "There's jest one more, Joe, an' the feud 'll be ended. Have ye thought about that since ye woke?"

Joe gulped. Jim's big form and handsome face rose in his mind. Jim was the baby and had always been nearest to old Joe's heart. All the rest had gone the way of the feudists. A vision of Jim toppling from some high cliff with a bullet in his heart passed through his thoughts, and Joe's chin sank on his breast.

"Tom, ye're countin' purty fast," he said presently, lifting his head again. "Maybe the bullet will come the other way."

"Maybe so. Some have come that way in time."

It was Joe's turn to grin.

"Don't reckon ye've got any talk ye want to make afore I slit that vein in yer neck, Joe?" Tom had drawn a knife from his pocket and was whetting a small blade of it on the leather vamp of his shoe.

"No, guess not, Tom, an' if ye're determined to do it that way there's no use wastin' any more time, though it ain't the clean thing, Tom, an' ye know it. Ain't nary a Dunston before that died any other way than by a long range bullet. That's all, Tom—all I got to say."

Old Tom chuckled and continued to whet the blade of his knife. At length he tried the point of it with his thumb and was apparently satisfied with its keenness. Then he arose and went over to Joe, where he knelt by the latter's side.

"Look around, Joe," he said, "for where ye see all the sunlight now will be midnight to ye in a few minutes. Ye're a brave man, an' it's a pity for ye to die this way, but there ain't no regulations in the feud, ye know."

Tom began to feel about Joe's neck for the vein and presently pressed it outward with his thumb. Joe had thrown his head backward, and Tom was bending low and looking upward under his victim's chin. Presently the sting of the knife thrust started old Joe into madness. His head darted forward with the suddenness of a serpent's, and his long, amber hued teeth snapped down upon the throat of his captor. There was a gurgle in Tom's throat; then his windpipe closed, and as Joe's lifeblood, gushing from the wound in his neck, dyed the young ivy shoots and the green grass in the bottom of the gorge the death set of his jaws sealed the doom of his slayer. In a little while every quiver of the flesh had ceased, and one more tragedy of the feud had left its story more plainly readable than words could make it.

The midday sun looked down into the chasm. A pheasant preened herself in a narrow trail among the laurel, while a woodcock ran up the tall, limbless trunk of a dead spruce pine and after a shrill call that pierced the deep silence of the gorge sent out the long, low roll of his drumming.

* * * * * * *

Ruth Wylie stood in the cabin doorway watching the trail that led down the ravine, winding from one side to the other as it sought the easier ascent or descent of the projecting bowlders. Darkness was stealing slowly up from the depths of the hollow, and still no sign of old Tom gliding along up the path in his habitually stealthy manner.

"Dad's uncommon late tonight, it 'pears to me." The girl took a step down and sat upon the doorsill. Her cheeks glowed like red ripe cherries in the sunshine, for she had been bending over the evening fire baking the corn pone and frying the bacon for the night's meal. From the table came the odor of the meat. It floated out through the doorway on the evening atmosphere and was appetizing to the sense.

"If dad could smell the meat I reckon he'd be comin' in home without waitin' any longer. I wonder what he can be doin' anyhow."

A feeling of uneasiness darted through her as she thought of the feud; but, suddenly rising, as if to escape some burden, she buried the thought from her. "Tain't that. No, 'tain't that," she declared as she sat down again.

But the twilight deepened into darkness, the stars came out, the meat grew cold on the table, and its odor no longer told of its savor. Still old Tom had not come. Ruth peered into the darkness at every crackling of the twigs, but nothing materialized to her longing. It had been years since old Tom had spent a night away from home, not since the night when young Tom was shot down on the side of Little Craggy. The girl fell to counting the stars and saying to herself:

"Before I can count a hundred he will be here."

But the hundred grew to 200, then to 300. Then she began and counted them all over again. Hour after hour dragged away, and the moon had climbed to a position in the heavens whence its light shone down the cabin chimney. The occasional hoot of an owl or the cry of a catamount pierced the silence and fell upon Ruth's ear with startling effect, though these were but common noises of the night. Again and again came the thought of the feud, but just as often as it came, shuddering, she cast it from her.

"It can't be, it can't be," she invariably murmured. "Dad's too quick for that."

The moon slipped over the roof of the cabin, and Ruth watched the shadow of the house lengthen away from the doorstep, and she counted the points of its serrated edge.

Suddenly while thus engaged the the shrill, ear splitting shriek of a mountain cat struck upon her ear with terrible distinctness and nearness, and at the same instant came the flash of a long, angular body, splitting the moonlight, from the high branch of an old chestnut oak and terminating in a pigsty a few yards away. There followed one answering squeak from an unfortunate pig, and Ruth, springing to her feet, ran inside the cabin and slammed the door shut behind her.

"I reckon I ain't myself somehow, jumpin' an' runnin' at the scream of a cat, but there's one pig less, poor thing!"

She threw herself across the bed and closed her eyes with her hands.

"Strange I ain't sleepy by this time an' it past midnight. If dad ain't in by daylight I reckon I'd better start out after him. If I could jest keep from thinkin' about the feud. If there was only Jim I'd feel easier about it, because Jim is—Jim's about— There, now, if dad only knowed I was a-thinkin' that way about it—about one o' the Dunstons—I don't know what would happen."

A tall, handsome young mountaineer came into Ruth's vision, and, forgetting the feud, she fell asleep.

At the first peep of dawn among the hills Ruth Wylie set off down the ravine. She knew every pig trail or cow path among the hills, and she now traversed them, one after another. She knew every hiding place among the rocks, and she sought in them all. She knew every dangerous passage of the cliffs, every point of exposure to the fire of an enemy in ambush, and she searched at the base of all these rocks.

Tirelessly she pursued her quest all through the morning and until a late hour in the afternoon, when she paused and peered over the brink of the giant of all cliffs overlooking the Hellshole chasm. Once only had she ventured to make the perilous descent into that gorge, but now—it was the last place she could think of in her search—she lowered herself to the first ledge of the narrow way.

"YES, RUTHY, I SEE IT ALL."

The descent was too difficult to be accomplished in a few minutes, and the sun had already dragged its rays far up the side of the cliffs when Ruth reached the bed of the chasm. The long search, the past night's sleeplessness and the fears that now had complete hold of her heart were telling upon her strength, and she was compelled to throw herself upon the grass for a moment of rest before taking up the search again.

But the scene of the tragedy of her fears lay not far from her, and when she came upon it, the awful spectacle telling its own terrible story, it struck such horror into the girl's heart that she sank to her knees and clasped her hands in the voiceless agony of her soul. Sitting upon her feet, she stared vacantly before her, contemplating the fixed contortion of death.

Time was passing, and still Ruth sat motionless on the grass. The sun continued to drag its rays higher and higher up the face of the rocks, but it was not until the twilight began to thicken that Ruth arose, still bewildered, but realizing that she must get out of the gorge before darkness came on.

Bending over, she laid her hand upon the cold forehead of old Tom, then turned away, but she had taken only a step when she stopped suddenly and put out her hand.

"Oh, Jim, you see it all?" Her hand slipped into one which silently had been outstretched toward her.

"Yes, Ruthy, I see it all." Jim Dunston had drawn nearer. "I been standin' here agin this tree ever since ye come an' some time before. Ye passed me an' didn't see me."

"It's awful, Jim."

"Yes, Ruthy, it's awful, an' I been thinkin', jes' thinkin', if ye'd be willin' we'd call that there the end of the feud. Ye're alone in the world, Ruthy, an' I'm the only Dunston there is left standin'. I've been lovin' ye across the border a long time, but there was the feud that had to be fought out, but it's ended now, Ruthy, if ye'll jes' say ye'll have me, an' there'll be no two sides of another generation raised to the killin'."

Ruth hung upon Jim's hands for a moment; then she bowed her head upon his breast.

"It's the end of the feud, Jim," she said.

Hunting Up Statistics.

"What does your father do to earn his living?" asked a New York principal of a pupil who was being admitted.

"Please, ma'am, he doesn't live with us. Mamma supports me."

"Well, then, how does your mother earn her living?"

"She gets paid for staying away from papa," replied the child artlessly.—Harper's Weekly.

BOWSER PLAYS HORN

Undertakes to Develop What He Calls Talent For Music.

HE STARTS ON THE CORNET.

Weird Noises Soon Attract a Crowd in Front of the House That Is Dispersed by His Wife—Musical Career Is Cut Short.

[Copyright, 1907, by T. C. McClure.]

Mrs. Bowser happened to be upstairs the other evening when Mr. Bowser reached home, and he had five minutes in which to hide a bundle that he had brought under his arm. Throughout the dinner hour she noticed that he had a triumphant look on his face, and now and then he gave vent to a soft chuckle, but she did not seek to fathom the mystery. If he had bought and brought home an X ray plant in order to discover if the cat had swallowed the ten cent piece he had lost in the morning he would have something to say about it in due time. He hung off longer than usual, but after finishing dinner and smoking half a cigar he turned on her and blandly said:

"Mrs. Bowser, you don't begrudge me any little happiness I can take around the house, do you?"

"Why, of course not," she promptly replied.

"You know I'm not much of a hand to go out evenings."

"No, you are not."

"I think it is a husband's place to pass his evenings at home as much as possible, but of course he wants a little something to divert his mind. I don't care to read and you don't care to play cards, and as it is a bore to run into the neighbors' I am sometimes a bit lonesome. It has seemed to me that if I had a musical instrument of some sort to play on it would take up my time and add what you might call zest to the occasion."

"BLAST THE COOK!"

"But you haven't the slightest idea of music, you know," she rejoined without weighing her words.

"What? What's that?"

"That is, you haven't what they term a musical ear—that is, you don't sing, and the time you got a harp and tried to learn to play on it pedestrians stopped at the gate to see what was going on."

"By the seven spotted bulls of Bashan, Mrs. Bowser, but do you know what you are saying and who you are saying it to?" he demanded with a face as red as fire.

"I mean that you kicked the harp outdoors after the third evening."

"Never! Never in all this world! I gave it up simply because of the cramp in my fingers. You tell me that I have no ear for music! Why, woman, I was leading a church choir while you were wearing short dresses. Is this insult intended to drive me out into the world tonight to get drunk and smash up some saloon?"

"You know it is not," replied Mrs. Bowser. "It is nothing to your discredit that you can't whistle a tune. There are lots of people that way."

"More insults, eh?"

"I mean that you couldn't—that is, I hoped you hadn't brought home another harp. The cook is very nervous, you know, and some of our neighbors don't even like to hear my soft playing on the piano. If you wasn't to take lessons and would hire some hall"—

Was All Mixed Up.

Poor Mrs. Bowser was all mixed up and could not finish.

Mr. Bowser, who was as pale as the dead and as weak in the knees as if he had seen a bear, looked at her for a moment and then pointed to the hall and stairs and said:

"Woman, you may go to your room. I will excuse you for the rest of the evening. To-morrow morning I will endeavor to find out whether you have a brain storm or wish to drive me from my home in ignominy and humiliation."

Mrs. Bowser went. She was glad to go. Mr. Bowser looked after her for a moment with set jaw and then brought out his package from its hiding place and removed the wrappers to reveal a secondhand cornet. He had seen it in the window of a pawnshop as he was about to pass, and while he stood looking at it the pawn man came out and offered him a bargain that he couldn't resist. It was the veritable cornet that a king of France was playing on when the revolutionists called to say that he must part with his head to show that he had no hard feelings against the common people. It would just fit Mr. Bowser. He had the wind for it. He could lay back in his Morris chair and blow and blow and blow and feel ten times the satisfaction of beating Mrs. Bowser at euchre. The instrument was purchased.

"And now I'm told that I have no ear for music," said the purchaser as he lifted it up and puckered his lips for a toot. "I am coolly and calmly and deliberately informed that I can't even whistle a tune, and I am recommended to hire a hall. By John, we'll see about it! The neighbors object to a little soft music, do they? We'll see about that too. We'll see whether the neighbors run this house or I do."

Mr. Bowser sat down and drew a long breath; then he raised the cornet to his mouth and let her go. The sound was a combination of grizzly bear growl and the shouts of a man slowly sinking to a horrible death in a quagmire. Other sounds followed. They were sounds of saws sawing against iron. They were sounds of a man with the asthma trying to hurrah for Bunker Hill on the Fourth of July. They were sounds of five or six dogs engaged in deadly conflict over a bone and five or six more joyously hastening up to take part in the scrap. The pawnbroker had told Mr. Bowser that when he got the thing to going not to stop and let it cool off, but to keep it at the redhot pitch. The instructions were carefully followed until the wind gave out, and the noise died away like the tail end of a cyclone. By that time Mrs. Bowser had come downstairs to say:

"Do you know that you will scare the cook to death with that noise if you keep on?"

"Blast the cook!" retorted the player as he raised the horn and blew another medley of wails and screams.

"And that pedestrians are already stopping at the gate?" she continued as she looked out of the window and caught sight of four men hanging on the fence.

"Blast the pedestrians!"

"And the neighbors will be knocking at the door. The folks that moved in next door two weeks ago are from the country and not used to such noises."

"Woman, retire! Retire upstairs! Retire to stay retired! I have hired my hall and propose to play this horn as long as I want to."

Music Was Weird.

Mrs. Bowser could do nothing else. Then Mr. Bowser resumed. The revolutionists that killed the king that blew on that horn had the proper idea of things. They knew that it was either his life or theirs. It emitted groans and grunts and toots and wails. It sounded flats and it sounded sharps, and between them it sounded several other things. Mr. Bowser had been insulted by Mrs. Bowser declaring that he was no musician. The thought of that helped his wind at least 50 per cent as he blew. He had been advised to hire a hall. He rolled his eyes around the room and imagined that he was in a hall filled with 10,000 people and that he had got to toot loud enough to send the shivers up and down the spines of every listener. For ten minutes the ruction went on, the earnestness and the determination of the player increasing every second, and then came a thundering knock at the front door to interrupt a long drawn wail. Mr. Bowser answered it. There were two policemen there and a crowd behind them.

"What the devil is this?" demanded one of the officers.

"Look at the red faced murderer!" added the other.

"A rope and a limb!" shouted the crowd.

Then Mrs. Bowser came down the stairs and talked softly and sweetly to the officers. She explained that it was only Mr. Bowser and it was only one of his little ways and that if they would not club or lynch him he would soon tire of his new toy and be looking after a chicken farm or a squab ranch, and in five minutes she had worked the crowd out of the yard. Then she took the horn out of Mr. Bowser's hands and said:

"When you get ready to retire, you can come along up."

Three hours later, as he had not appeared, she slipped downstairs in a wrapper and found him asleep on the lounge, and there were undried tears on his cheeks. His musical career had been cut short. M. QUAD.

Leap Year Laugh.

"You look worried, old man!"

"Yes. Had three proposals last night and don't know which one I ought to accept."—New York World.

Boiling It Down.

"Pimmie, what is your father's objection to me?"

"He says you don't amount to anything, Percy."

"Was that all he said?"

"No; that was only a small part of it."

"Tell me the rest, Pimmie."

"The rest of it consisted of strong adjectives. You don't expect me to repeat those, do you, Percy?"—Chicago Tribune.

The Church Festival Supper.

"Robert," solicitously said the good woman at the church festival, "will you have some more of the refreshments?"

"No-o," replied the small boy. "I think I'd prefer something to eat now."—Woman's Home Companion.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means more than for Pneumonia. To wait and be with "Preventics" is better than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. "Preventics" will take even a deeply seated cold, when taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early evils. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half usual sickness. And don't forget your cold there is feverishness, night or day, Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. 25 cents for 25 boxes for the pocket, also in 250 boxes of 10. Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing
Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.37 a. m., *6.58 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.39 p. m. Arrive *7.12 a. m., *2.53 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.09 a. m., †4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *5.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *5.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (locals, *4.53 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.29. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *5.53 p. m., *10 p. m. Arrive *12.57 a. m., *5.31 a. m., *8.29 p.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farm between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows

An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;

Hamiltonian; $250.

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $75.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.
Oakland, Md.

THE MARYLAND
AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE
COLLEGE PARK, MD.

MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
SIX Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S."
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scientific
Horticural. Civil Engineering. Chemical
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have work with a will.

Each Department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all Departments. Graduates qualified to enter upon life's work.

Boarding Department supplied with all modern improvements—Bathrooms, Steam Heat and Electricity.

New Buildings with modern improvements. Location unsurpassed for health. Tuition, Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Medical attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical and Athletic fees. All included in an annual charge of $200 payable quarterly in advance. Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sanitarium for isolation of any patient with contagious diseases.

Catalog giving full particulars sent on application.

Attention is called to Short Course of Ten Weeks in Agriculture.

Write for particulars.

Term commences September 19th, 1907. Early application necessary for admittance.

22-8t R. W. SYLVESTER, Pres.
College Pa

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

Davis' 100 per ce
Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, seve other houses near me were painted w other paints. There is a big contr today between the appearance of t house and others.' J. H. PRUITT,
Chincoteague, V

If you compare adulterated paint Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will ily know why my house painted Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SON
Age

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron. ¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and effective tye display.

make no mistake when you us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

nj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

LIFE IN FAR OFF ICY GREENLAND

Summer is Pleasant and Winter's Not So Bad, a Woman Writes

Certain white men in the Danish Government service live along the southwest coast of Greenland. How do the European women and children thrive in the Arctic land? It is interesting to hear from one of these women, who has written to the German paper Ausland that on the whole they like Greenland, have many simple pleasures there, their children are happy and robust and the natives are simple, jolly and industrious.

The writer says that life is not irksome, though the coast is bleak and the winter snows are deep. She lives at Godthaab, the capital of the colony of South Greenland. The white women spend many of the summer hours on the hills or in the gardens.

"My garden," she writes, "from the Greenland point of view, is a great success. A broad walk divides it into two parts. On one side beets, radishes, cabbages and some other vegetables grow lustily and mature even in the short summer.

"On the other is a beautiful grass plot, sprinkled with dandelions and daisies, and in a corner is a little hothouse in which we bring a few European flowers and strawberries to perfection. Near the entrance are garden chairs and a little table, and often, in the afternoon, all the white women of the colony sit here with their needles, enjoying their tea and bouquets of roses and gilly-flowers which the hothouse provides."

The Danish mother and their children are often seen on fine summer days climbing the hills behind the settlement, some with their sewing, others with books, while a tea kettle and a basket of fresh baked cake are carried by young Esquimaux. In sunny places, protected from the wind, the picnic party enjoys the glorious view of the blue sea, and the entertainment is varied by visits from the village goats, imported from Europe generations ago, and thriving in their new home.

The single street of Godthaab, says the New York Sun, is lined with houses and bears the name of Lange Linie, in memory of the famous promenade of that name in Copenhagen. It is a noisy street in summer, for it is the centre of the happy out-of-door life of the people and the playground of the children, both Greenlanders and European.

The little folks reconize no racial distinction. They are all playmates together; and, in fact, there is a large European mixture in all the Eskimos, old and young.

"Sometimes," narrative continues, "we hear a joyous shout, The post, the post, and in an instant the whole colony is out of doors.

"We see a boat coming up the bay propelled by the paddle of one of the Eskimos whose business is to travel from one settlement to another with the mail. The Eskimos are just as interested as we are, for all can read and write and are eager for news from their friends in the other colonies. Only a few old women standing in their doors or sitting on the flat roofs have no part in the general excitement.

"But the stir and bustle are greatest if an oar is fixed upright like a mast in the boat. This means that the boat is from one of the southern settlements where a vessel from Denmark has arrived, and the Eskimo postmen are trusted with letters from our dear ones in the home land, as the ship is unloading a part of her cargo and will not arrive for several days. The Governor of the colony opens the postbag, and its contents are for days the chief topic of conversation."

A different aspect Godthaab wears in the winter months. Even in South Greenland there is a long period when the moon and stars are the only illumination and there is just enough of their light to make the settlement look dimly ghostlike, nearly buried, as it is, in the deep snow.

Some of the Eskimos give all their time to shoveling the snow out of Lange Linie, so that there may be one place of promenade between the dwellings, the schoolhouse, the kirk, the store and the meat houses, where supplies of frozen flesh and birds are kept.

The path is wide and walled in on either side by snow piles. But even in this gloomy season the white women wrapped in furs, have their walks and picnics.

There is zest in the air, and in fine weather the women enjoy a scramble among the frozen hills and valleys; and if fresh snow lies deep and soft they wear snowshoes. It is a busy time for the Eskimos, for their main business is to look out for the comfort of Denmark's agents in Greenland. They bake, brew, forge, sweep and clean.

In summer they carry whites in their boats along the coast, and in winter dig paths for them through the snow. The coasted waters are not always frozen over in winter, and the boats sometimes make their way along the shores carrying frozen hares or birds or other needed supplies from one post to another.

The houses of the whites are warmly built of wood and stone, with commodious rooms and an air of genuine comfort. The winter months pass quickly for they are filled with duty and with social intercourse, which is almost invariably pleasant, between the white families and the natives among whom they live.

PRESIDENT ADAMS TOOK OFF HIS COAT

The Multitude Cheered Lustily at the Chief Executive's Work on Canal.

The opening of navigation on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal naturally recalls the history of this great waterway that has its head in Cumberland.

It was George Washington's idea to unite the West with the East by a waterway along the Potomac river. It took shape in 1823 by an act of the Maryland Legislature incorporating the Potomac Canal Company. From Georgetown to Harper's Ferry the canal was constructed 60 feet wide at top, 42 feet at bottom and 6 feet deep. thence to Dam No. 5, 40 feet at top, 32 at bottom, 6 feet deep, thence to Cumberland, 54 feet at top, 42 feet at bottom and 6 feet deep.

In 1826 it was planned to extend the canal to Pittsburg and the company duly incorporated in Pennsylvania.

In 1828 the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company took over all the rights to the waterway. Capital stock $6,000,000.

The first spade full of earth in the construction of the canal was removed by John Quincy Adams, then President of the United States.

General Mercer was the first president of the canal and handed the shovel to President Adams. This took place on July 4, 1828, in the presence of a great crowd at Georgetown.

On the same day at the same hour ground was broken for the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, thirty miles away.

When General Mercer handed the spade to President Adams, he made a neat little speech and proceeded to sink the spade into the earth, but it struck a root and he had to try again with no better success. Perceiving the ground hard he took off his coat and vest and went to work right—while the multitude cheered lustily.

The canal is 184½ miles long, 77 miles of which is in Washington county. The entire canal cost $1,071,176 or $59,618 per mile. On June 11, 1850, the water was first turned into the canal at Cumberland and the new boat called "Cumberland" floated in.

The boating season will practically begin this year on Wednesday next.—Hagerstown Globe.

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on
2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.
2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.
2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

JUST RECEIVED Eight Car Loads of

Farm Wagons, Road Wagons, Buggies, Surries, Runabouts, Carriages, Plows, Harrows, Corn Planters, Cultivators, Mowers, Binders, Grain Drills, Grass Seeders, Spray Pumps, Roofing, Fertilizers and everything in the Farm Implement line. :: :: :: Call and get our prices.

IF YOU BUY FROM US YOU GET THE BEST FOR YOUR MONEY A. D. Naylor & Co.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contagious germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,
Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots, in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 2, 1908.

CALL FOR PRIMARIES AND COUNTY CONVENTION.

Pursuant to a resolution passed at the meeting of the Republican Committee of the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland February 26th, 1908, the qualified Republican voters of Garrett County, Maryland, are hereby requested to assemble in primary meetings in their respective Election Districts, at the usual places of holding the polls for the elections in said districts, on Saturday, April 4th, 1908.

at the hour of two o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing five Delegates from their respective Election Districts to attend a County Convention to be held in the Court house in the town of Oakland, on Tudsday, April 7th, 1908.

at the hour of one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing three Delegates to represent Garrett County in the Congressional Convention to be held in the City of Hagerstown, Maryland, on Thursday, April 16th, 1908.

to nominate a candidate for Congress from the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland, and two Delegates and two Alternates to attend the National Republican Convention, and for the nomination, subject to the approval of the State Convention, of a Presidential Elector from the Sixth Congressional District of Maryland; also a member of the Board of Appeals. And further, for the purpose of electing Delegates to attend the State Convention at Baltimore, to be held to elect four Delegates- and four Alternates-at-Large to the National Republican Convention to meet at Chicago, Ill., June 16th, 1908, and for the nomination of eight Republican candidates for Electors for President and Vice President of the United States.

Thursday, April 30th, 1908.

A. G. STURGISS,
Chairman.
A. F. GEORGE,
HARVEY J. SPEICHER,
Republican Committee for Garrett Co.

THE best has happened—Maryland's legislature adjourned Monday night.

IF MARYLAND were to have another legislature such as she escaped from Monday the chances are that nothing good whatever would be accomplished.

JOHN WALTER SMITH, recently elected Senator to succeed William Pinkney Whyte, took oath or office last Thursday morning.

THE DEMOCRATIC RECORD.

With 18 of the 27 senators and 71 of the 101 assemblymen, or 89 of the 128 total membership of both houses, the Democrats absolutely controlled the legislature which, to the inexpressible relief of the people of Maryland, came to an end Monday night. It was a Democratic body, directed and managed by the old guard of the state Democracy. Little consideration was given to the Republicans and the few exhibitions of independence were regarded with cool and calm disdain.

Machine Democrats ran the Democratic convention and elected their machine ticket, and it was evident from the start they did not intend to let the state have anything but a machine General Assembly. They began with a bill to appropriate a lump sum of $200,000 for legislative expenses in clear view of the open charges of graft and extravagance made by the former Democratic governor, and they opposed their whole force to publicity; but in both of these respects they modified their plans, cutting down the lump sum to $170,000—afterward raising it by a special appropriation of $30,000—and also providing for the printing of bills with partial results in the way of publicity.

With that start they made a record that stands as a reproach not only to their party and to every leader of it, but to the good faith of their state. Let us take their platform, adopted at the Maryland Theater on August 8, 1907, when Austin L. Crothers was nominated for governor, and compare their pledges with their performances:

First—They promised a corrupt practices act. They passed a law which has caused the faithful to laugh. The powerful argument in its favar was that it would not hurt anybody.

Second—"We favor the passage of a primary election law for the whole state which shall provide that aspirants for state offices shall have the right to submit their candidacy to a direct vote of the people, and that candidates for the United States Senate may submit their candidacies to the people of the state at a primary election." Not only did the Democrats not keep this pledge, but they tried to inflict a trick law on their own party, so as to rob Baltimore Democrats of their representation in party affairs.

Third—Here is what they said about the oyster culture law: "We are opposed to all attempts to annul it by repeal or to modify it by amendments that will destroy or weaken its efficiency." The bill excepting Sinnepuxent Bay was partial annulment of the law and an outrage upon the state. The necessary legislation asked for by the Shellfish Commission was ruthlessly defeated. The Democratic record on this industry was worse than bad.

Fourth—They promised to encourage immigration. Nothing done.

Fifth—They promised good roads. They passed a compromise bill and provided no tax to pay the interest on the bonds or to establish a sinking fund for the retirement of the bonds. They expect to take the money out of the school funds. Two sections of the Constitution are violated by this new law.

Sixth—They promised a new constitutional amendment to disfranchise the negro. They passed this, and it is a gigantic masterpiece—the efflorescent result of the co-ordinated ingenuities of the master minds of the machine. It will not let a woman vote, but it allows a man to vote on his wife's property. We shall have some fun with this next fall.

Seventh—Not in the platform, but in the acceptance and the speeches of Judge Crothers, to Baltimore city was promised not only fairness, but kindness. The bill to give the city increased representation was a joke; the bill to tax easements was defeated; the state took another $200,000 annually from the city, and the great metropolls of the South, with half of Maryland's population and two-thirds of the wealth, was treated shamefully.

With such a record of broken promises the Democratic party stands today guilty and craven before the people of Maryland. We need not add to this ugly showing the charges of grafts and the activities of the largest and most industrious lobby that the state capital has known for many years. The only light against the darkness of this exhibit is the single gratification that the legislature is dead. May Maryland never know its like again.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The Baltimore News is not pleased with the compromise primary election law which the Democrats have given to the people, principally on the ground that it gives the counties an advantage over Baltimore city that is not fair and is not carrying out the party pledges made prior to the last state election, as embodied in the following:

We favor the passage of a primary election law for the whole state which shall provide that aspirants for state offices shall have the right to submit their candidacy to a direct vote of the people.

The News contends, and rightfully, that had such a scheme been proposed before the election Governor Crothers would have been snowed under by his own party vote.

Commenting upon the above pledge the News says:

"We assume that the absurdity of pretending that this promise was fulfilled by the passing of a law permitting the various state central committees to decide whether there should be a primary election by direct vote at all, and then giving the organization "the window," was too much even for the most thick-skinned of the politicians, and so they concluded that election officers should be named by the Supervisors of Election. That is something; and it is also a step in advance to give the people of the counties opportunity to force from the central committees by pressure of public opinion the right to vote directly for all candidates. We concede that this is a distinct gain, but what a roaring farce is the primary for the nomination of State candidates!

"Baltimore is shut out. Its great Democratic vote is slapped in the face. The scheme of nominating a Senator by a primary which gave the counties absolute control worked so well that it is proposed to name all state candidates in the same way. That is to say, in the state convention Baltimore will have but 28 out of 120 votes. So much for the influence of the 60,000 Democrats in Baltimore city in state politics.

"And we are told that this is a compliance with the pledges of the Democratic platform to give aspirants for state offices "the right to submit their candidacy to a direct vote of the people"! We would like for Mr. Smith or Mr. Gorman, or anybody else, to tell us what Democrat in the last campaign advanced any such theory as this. When they made our ears ring with the reiteration of the pledge to enact a primary election law, who hinted that it would be a subterfuge of this sort? The state was indignant at the way the wishes of the people were thwarted in juggling the plan or a direct vote on Senatorial candidates; and we do not hesitate to say that Mr. Crothers would have been buried by an avalanche of votes had there been any idea that a state primary election law such as is now offered would be considered a redemption of the party's pledge.

"And during this session of the legislature, though columns have been print about the primary election law, though we have heard objections to it on account of expense, and though we have been told that there was difference of opinion about how election officers should be appointed, not a word, not a hint, has been dropped to indicate that there was any intention to ignore the Democratic platform and deny the people a direct vote on party candidates.

"It is a political trick to keep political power in the hands of the oligarchy which has so long dominated the fortunes of this state, and which hopes by maintaining its hold on the election machinery and by the passage of the disfranchising amendment to eliminate any chance that it will be again unhorsed."

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. SARAH BUTLER.

Mrs. Sarah Butler, wife of John Butler of Garrett county, Md., died recently at the age of 80 years. Deceased was a highly esteemed woman. She was a sister of the late Matthew Patton, and the mother of Perry Butler, who died in Elk Lick township, this county, some years ago.—Somerset Star.

DAVID W. SAUCER.

David W. Saucer, of Crellin, who was recently sent to Sylvan Retreat, Cumberland, for treatment by a jury empanneled to inquire into his mental condition, died there on last Friday, aged thirty-six years. The deceased, up to the time he lost his mind, was employed at Crellin and was a valuable employe of the Kendall interests. His remains were shipped from Cumberland to Crellin on Saturday and interred near that point. He leaves a wife and one child.

AGNES DEAN.

Died, at the home of Nicholas Merrill, near Oakland on Saturday, of acute meningitis, after an illness of a few days, Agnes Dean, aged 15 years. The deceased was an orphan and had made her home with Mr. Merrill's family about a year. Her funeral took place Sunday afternoon, the interment being made near the Merrill home.

SAMUEL SIMMONS.

Samuel Simmons, aged about 25 years, died at the home of Louis Britt, Liberty street, on Friday morning last, of acute meningitis, after an illness of a week. The remains were interred on the Herrington Manor farm, west of Oakland, where his wife, who died a few years ago, is also buried.

Married.

HENDRICKSON—ARNOLD—On last Thursday, in Fort Worth, Texas, Mrs. Kittie B. Arnold and Mr. H. R. Hendrickson. The bride will be remembered by many Oakland people as being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, for many years esteemed residents of Oakland, both of whom died a number years ago. Mrs. Hendrickson, after graduating as a nurse from the Galveston (Texas) hospital, having gone to the west on account of the health of her former husband, returned to Oakland and remained here a year or two where she followed her profession, going the second time to the west about a year ago.

BITTINGER.

The frogs began their spring-time croaking last week and we enjoyed a few days' delightful weather.

Mrs. T. B. Wiley went to Grantsville last Monday to attend her brother's sale of personal property.

John Miller, of Somerset county, Pa., was doing some surveying for F. M. Bittinger and John Stark here last Monday.

Messrs. T. B. Wiley and Albert Brenneman took a load of maple sugar and syrup to Oakland early this week.

Simon Orendorf, of Springs, Pa., spent a day or two last week with his parents at this place.

James Thomas, of Deer Park, was visiting his sister, Mrs. Oliver Beachy, near here last Sunday.

Miss Nettie Brenninger, of Sunnyside, is visiting her sister, Mrs. T. J. Lohr, this week.

Messrs. Simon and Urner Beachy drove over to Garrett, Pa., last Mnnday, to dispose of a small mule which they had been using in operation their coal mine.

Judging from the breadth of smiles on certain faces, we predict a wedding in the near future which will be making two Garrett county teachers into one.

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

Stockholders' Meeting.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of Yough River Oil and Gas Company of Garrett county will be held on Saturday, the 4th day of April, 1908, at the Court House, Oakland, Maryland, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing a Board of 12 Directors, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

Stockholders who cannot attend in person are requested to send their proxies.

J. M. BURNS, President,
N. S. HEINDEL, Secretary.

ERRATIC APRIL.

Weather Will Be a Mixture of the Various Sorts.

Peter R. Smith's forecast for April is as follows:

April is quite likely to be erratic and changeable, interspersed with hot and cool waves, vigorous thundershowers, and also many violent windstorms. The windstorms, in cyclonic form or character, will mostly be confined to the west and southwest. Frost will show its face following the rain periods up into May.

A wave of disturbance having been on passage nearing the close of March will make the opening of April cool, cloudy, and damp. The temperature will grow warmer on the 3d, 4th, and 5th, attended by thunderstorms through most of this period, then changing to cooler and frosty nights.

On the 7th the temperature will change to warmer in western parts and progressively move east, bringing on rain about the 9th, 10th and 11th, which will spread eastward and touch some parts of the country with intense storms of wind. After the passage of this storm wave a cool wave will follow, leaving its frosty track on nights touching the 11th, 12th, and 13th.

On the 14th, 15th, and 16th an advance in the temperature to much warmer will set in and be followed by local rains and storms of wind. After the passage of these rains much cooler conditions of weather will follow, with frost in many places on the nights of the 17th, 18th, and 19th.

A warm wave will start in the west on or touching the 15th, spreading progressively; then followed on the 20th or 21st by intense storms of rain, thunder, and hail; also in some western and southern sections by cyclonic action. On the northern and western tangents of this storm wave snow is likely to materialize. Look for a cool wave to follow.

The center of the last storm period touches the 26th, 27th, and 28th. The storms of the above dates are likely to be severe, as the exciting causes center about the 27th. Rain, hail, and wind, all much intensified, are likely to materialize in many places and be followed by a cool wave spreading over much area on its progress east.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Messrs. John D. and Gay W. Hayden, have purchased the Hammond stock of goods and will continue the general mercantile business in the Hayden store buliding.

We understand that the new building to take the place of the one destroyed by fire last fall may not be erected in time to be used this season.

Dr. Squires and family left the Park last week, the Doctor going to Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Squires and children going to Louisville, Ky., where they have relatives. Mrs. Squires will be missed in the church and among the sick.

Dr. J. W. Laughlin's family left for their old home in Deer Park this week. The Doctor will remain a short time to settle up his business here.

Mr. J. W. Feathers and wife will leave us about the first of May, going to Bruceton, W., Va. The loss of the three families mentioned above will be felt in our community, and especially in our church work.

Mr. C. F. Dawson, who has been in the postoffice during the winter, has resumed his regular occupation—painting and paper hanging—and is now ready for work in his line.

Mrs. C. C. Michaels and daughters Letitia and Bertha have taken rooms in the Columbian Hotel.

Mr. C. G. Hammond has under consideration the erection of a large skating rink in the Park.

Our schools will close Friday, after a very satisfactory term under Mr. Weitzell and Miss Wilson.

Mr. Frank Callis of Hoyes was in the Park Tuesday.

Cottages are being rented quite rapidly during the past week.

On the Wrong Scent.

A prominent citizen of Washington was travelling over a line of railway with which he was unfamiliar. At a certain point the road passes a fertilizer factory, the odor from which is offensive. It is particularly disagreeable to a lady who is compelled make the journey daily. As a protection from the obnoxious atmosphere, she is accustomed to carry a bottle of lavender salts.

As the train approached the factory she produced the vial as usual, unstopped it and applied it to her nostrils. Presently the odors from the factory began to permeate the car. The Washington man endured it as long as he felt that he could. At last he rose to his feet, and approaching the lady, said, in his most polite manner:

"Madam, may I request you to replace the stopper in that bottle?"—The Youth's Companion.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant.
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices
Grain Drills, Harrows and Plows
AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

BARN BURNED AT GRANTSVILLE.

Horse Gotton Out, But Flames Burned Other Live Stock and Chickens.

The barn of Mr. William Augustine, near Grantsville, was discovered to be on fire last Wednesday morning about two o'clock, and was completely consumed by the flames.

A horse, the property of Mr. Augustine, was taken from the burning building, also a cow, but his chickens and a cow and calf, the property of Mrs. Samuel Broadwater, were burned, entailing quite a loss to both parties.

WANTED—A good team suitable for farm work. Apply to Wm. M. Kelley, Coketon, W. Va.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

SERIOUSLY INJURED AT CRELL

Workman Caught In Belt and Whed About, Breaking Arm and Dislocating Hip.

Last Wednesday afternoon, Lemuel Sanders, a workman emplo on the Crellin mill, was engaged in forming his duties, when his clot was caught by a swiftly moving which whirled him around several ti before he was rescued by his fe workman and sustaining many pai injuries, the most serious being fracture of his left arm and the disl tion of his left hip. Dr. Legge att ed the injured man.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake P Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as bo ing house and has good patronage ground; splendid location; two from new auditorium; city wat of the best built houses in the about 75 feet of porches. W change for smaller property. bargain. Address F. P. Arno Lake Park, Md.

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's on thin people, makes a fre brings color to a pale girl' vents coughs, colds and

Food in concentrate well, young and old, rich

And it co

ALL DI

KODAK SAFETY FILM

No Cr

Economizes the use of flour, butter and eggs; makes the biscuit, cake and pastry more appetizing, nutritious and wholesome.

Royal

Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

This is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar.

It Has No Substitute

There are Alum and Phosphate of Lime mixtures sold at a lower price, but no housekeeper regarding the health of her family can afford to use them.

Don't miss the show.

Frogs entertain every evening these days.

Rev. A. S. Wolfe, of Friendsville, was here Monday.

Grass is getting green, but green apple pie is far in the future.

Take the family to the Opera House Monday night to see the show—it's free.

Mr. Oliver Heywood and daughter, of Bond, were Oakland visitors on Monday.

Mr. Calvin Anderson, of District No. 8, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. Martin V. Flanagan, of Deer Park, was in the city Saturday on business.

Mr. James M. Litzinger, of Grafton, was a business visitor to Oakland Monday of this week.

Messrs. John T. and George L. Sincell, of Keyser, spent Sunday afternoon with relatives in Oakland.

Mr. J. O. Thomas, superintendent of the Hutton tannery, was in Oakland Saturday afternoon on business.

Duck hunters have been in evidence about Oakland for several days past but no trophies have been observed.

Miss Alice Kepner returned to Oakland Friday after a month's absence, which time she spent in Baltimore.

Mr. Norman G. Steltz, of the American Type Founders Company's Pittsburg branch, was in the city Tuesday.

Miss Virginia Mayer, of Terra Alta, was here several days last week, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Harland L. Jones.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hinebaugh went to Fairmont Saturday afternoon where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Boyer.

Pekin Duck Eggs for hatching from mammoth thoroughbred stock. A setting of nine for $1. D. Weber, Oakland, Md.

Mrs. Julius C. Renninger and little son, of Oakland, are spending the present week with relatives at Eglon, West Va.

Clean, moral and refined are the entertainments given by the Modern Comedy Company at the Opera House all next week.

Mr. Richard Tasker, one of THE REPUBLICAN'S patrons from near Kitzmillerville, was in the city Tuesday and called to see us.

Rev. J. H. Hess, D. D., of Kingwood, was in Oakland Monday as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Ward at their home on Green street

Mr. Frank Callis, of near Hoyes, was in the city and at the Park Tuesday and yesterday, where he was visiting relatives and friends.

Senator Brown, who was made a member of the Senate engrossing committee, is yet at Annapolis and will probably remain there several days.

Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Idleman and their little son, of Gormania, were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday visiting Mrs. Idleman's sister, Mrs. Stephen G. Ashby.

The Modern Comedy Company open a week's engagement at the Opera House Monday night, with a big free show. The company comes very highly recommended.

The bazaar and supper at St. Mark's church last Thursday evening, conducted by the ladies of the Aid Society, was quite a success, the net proceeds approaching $50.

Miss Annie Loewenstein, who spent several weeks in Washington with her sister, Mrs. Frank Kearney, who was quite ill, returned to her home in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Mr. William R. Offutt spent Sunday in Cumberland with Mrs. Offutt, who has been ill during the past two or three weeks at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird.

Farm for Sale—Ioffer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

Any intelligent person may earn a good income corresponding for newspapers; experience unnecessary. Send stamp for particulars. Empire Press Syndicate, Middleport, N. Y.

Milton and Edward Sincell, after spending the spring recess with their parents in Oakland, returned yesterday morning to Gettysburg College, where they will resume their studies.

A good time to clean up about the residences and business places is at hand. Much work along this line has already been accomplished and the neat appearance of many homes attest this fact.

The attention of our readers is directed to the several new advertisements appearing in this paper today, among them being that of the Accident Normal School, Prof. J. C. Beahm, principal.

Mr. A. R. Stewart and family, of Parkersburg, moved to Oakland from that point yesterday. Mr. Stewart will engage in the photograph business here, having been engaged in the same business in Oakland a few years ago when he operated the opera house gallery.

CAPITAL 50,0 0,.0 0

THE

SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor. COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

THREE YOUNG MEN ARRESTED.

Charged With Stealing Goods From The Robinson Store in Oakland.

Last Thursday night Herrman and Marion Robinett, of Cumberland, and Charles Green, who says his home is in Virginia, were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Brown and Night Policeman White, charged with having stolen from a display rack in front of J. N. Robinson's store on Second street, a pair of rubber shoes.

Several parties witnessed the theft, which occurred between the hours of seven and eight o'clock at which time many persons were passing along the street. After having stolen the shoes the men went across the railroad tracks on Second street and when they discovered that they were being followed they made a break to get away by running into the livery barn of Mr. J. A. Kelly and in the darkness which surrounded them they butted into a vehicle which suddenly halted them. Their capture by the officers very quickly followed.

The men were given a hearing Friday afternoon by Justice Gonder and in default of bond for their appearance at the next term of court they were remanded to jail.

The men state that they are stack painters by trade and that they were here for the purpose of obtaining work.

Monday a relative of the Robinett brothers came to Oakland and made an effort to secure bond for their appearance but up to the present time her efforts have been fruitless.

Mr. Henry K. Friend, store manager of the Kendall Supply Co., and Mr. D. H. Shank, superintendent of the Kendall Lumber Co., were business visitors at THE REPUBLICAN office Saturday afternoon.

Dr. J. Gilbert Selby, recently of Eglon, arrived in Oakland Friday afternoon from Baltimore, where he completed a post-graduate course in surgery, and is the guest of his brother, Dr. B. F. Selby.

Stockholders of the Yough River Oil and Gas Company will hold a meeting at the court house in Oakland on Saturday afternoon of this week at the hour of two o'clock. All interested parties should be present.

Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, who spent last week in Oakland, is attending the sessions of the Baltimore Conference of the M. E. church being held this week in Washington, D. C.

The miners employed in the mines of the Merchants' Coal Company at Tunnelton, thirty miles west of Oakland, went out on strike Monday, the operators having attempted to make a cut in their wages amounting to ten per cent.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. All dealers.

This office acknowledges the receipt of an invitation, sent by Louis Irving Prevost, of Mountain Lake Park, who is one of the graduating class, to attend the commencement exercises of the United States Veterinary Surgeons to be held this evening in the National Rifles' Armory, Washington, D. C.

Many farmers in the vicinity of Oakland have been engaged recently in hauling lime, from cars shipped to this point, and spreading it over their fields. Many of the farmers have given up the use of bone and other fertilizers, being fully convinced that lime is the best for crops generally, as well as for the land.

Mr. George W. Fleming, who resided here until a few years ago when he accepted a position with a lumbering concern in North Carolina, moving with his family to that State, arrived here Sunday afternoon to visit relatives and to look after some business matters. He returned to the South yesterday afternoon.

Weather-forecaster Peter Are Smith, of Kingwood, has made his prognostications for the month of April, which we publish in this paper today. As a weather prophet Mr. Smith is enjoying quite an enviable position with the people of Oakland and Garrett county generally as his predictions usually "pan out."

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

Mr. A. T. Fraley, who recently located at Newall, W. Va., leaving the employ of the Pugh & Beavers Wholesale Grocery here to enter the retail grocery business in the new town on the Ohio river, writes back that he likes his location very well and has started off with a very nice business. His many friends here will be pleased to learn of his bright prospects for the future, and will continue to wish him no end of prosperity.—Grafton Republican.

GRADUATING EXERCISES

Of the Senior Class of the Oakland High School Will Occur To-Night.

Invitations to the commencement exercises of the Oakland High School to be held in the Opera House on Thursday evening of this week, have been issued by the graduating class, which is composed of Misses Mable Florence Porter, Ethel Mae Willt and Nelle Workman.

The young ladies composing the class have the distinction of being the first to graduate from the High School, its establishment as such dating back three or four years.

For the occasion a very nicely arranged program has been provided, which will include addresses, vocal and instrumental music and the conferring of the diplomas.

The frogs have begun to sing. What more welcome sound to the heart and soul than the tuneful melody of the little noctural, aquaticwebfoot troubadour? The meadow lark for the fields and the robin for back yard, but for energetic, whole-souled crescendo, for care-dispelling, debt-forgetting enjoyment, give us the frog.

In the list of Marylanders on board Admiral "Bob" Evans battleship fleet now in Magdalena Bay, appears the name of Harry G. McCue, of Oakland, this being his second enlistment in the navy. He is on board the battleship Missouri and before returning to home waters the fleet will have made the circuit of the globe, visiting Japan and other foreign countries.

Mrs. Bruce Lichty and her daughter Helen went down to Cumberland on Friday evening for a visit with relatives and friends in that city. While there Mrs. Lichty was called to Grantsville by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Getty. She came home on Monday afternoon, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Alvin Getty, and they went over to Grantsville the same evening.—Meyersdale Republican.

Mr. Daniel Hinebaugh, who, with Mrs. Hinebaugh, spent the winter visiting their sons and daughters in various parts of Maryland and West Virginia, will resume their residence of Oakland this spring. Mr. Hinebaugh arrived here Tuesday afternoon from Baltimore, where he was the guest of his son Emery for several weeks. Mrs. Hinebaugh remained in Baltimore with the expectation of coming here within the next week or ten days, when, if the health of her son permits, she will be accompanied by him.

No town will become a good business center so long as its business men rely on a few merchants to make the effort to bring trade to town. Too often the men in a few lines of trade are about the only ones that reach out after custom. Other merchants wait until these men induce the people to come to town and content themselves with trade that naturally drifts to their place. A public spirited man should ask himself if he is doing his part to attract people to come to town to trade in helping the entire business community, and no town is a success unless all lines are working to extend the trade as far as possible and trying to bring a larger territory in the circle in which the town is the business center.

Prof. Morris K. Turner, principal of the Oakland High School, will leave Oakland tomorrow afternoon for Harrisburg, Pa., where he will enter a business college for a term of a few months, and from there will enter Harvard University to better fit himself for his chosen profession, that of teaching. Mr. Turner was principal of the Oakland school the past three years and his relinquishment of the position is very much regretted by not only his pupils, but also by the public generally. During his stay among Oakland people he has greatly endeared himself to them by his many noble traits of character and the intelligence displayed by him in conducting the school, many times under the most adverse circumstances. Wherever Prof. Turner goes and in whatever he may be engaged he will be followed by the best wishes of the Oakland people.

If we are to judge by the thousands of people who are being daily swindled by the numerous get rich schemes that infest the country, the American people are becoming particularly easy. Almost every large city seems to be a fruitful field for the swindler's operations, and the poor dupes almost tumble over each other in their effort to get something for nothing or fabulous returns for a small outlay, which anyone of average intelligence ought to know was a swindle without being apprised of the fact. Aside from this the press of the country is continually warning the people of the dangerous character of these swindling operations and publishing reports of the thousands who have learned by dear experience of the fraudulent nature of so many concerns in which they have intrusted their all. We would say it serves them right were it not for the fact that the victims in many cases are poor people who can ill afford to loose their daily earnings in this manner.

Call for Your Letters.

F. D. Broiderick, Mrs. Annie S. Mosser, Mr. Harry Pawl, Mrs. Alice White, Mrs. Flora Wolf.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

EASTER OPENING.

Tuesday, April 6th.

Wednesday, April 7th, 1908.

Mrs. M. L. SCOTT

Baltimore Store.

Oakland, Maryland.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

FARMERS

The telephone can put you in instant connection with the markets stores agencies neighbors you surely need the TELEPHONE

Do you know our plan?

The C. & P. LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE Telephone Comp'y

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

A show for the ladies and children as well as the gentlemen, all next week at the Opera House.

ACCIDENT NORMAL.

We will organize April 20th and continue till June 12th.

This work is designed to give teachers and others a thorough knowledge of all branches taught in the Free Schools.

It will be an opportune time for those just entering the profession of teaching.

Those who have taught should make this summer's work a stepping stone to a HIGHER GRADE of work and BETTER SALARIES.

We will endeavor to make it both pleasant and profitable for you. Come and spend a busy session with us.

The Commissioners have arranged a uniform rate of $5 TUITION for the entire time. BOARDING is abundant, cheap and convenient.

For further information address

J. C. BEAHM, Principal, Accident, Md.

Or

H. W. BROWNING, Vice-Principal, Friendsville, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

INTREPID SOLDIER TAKES FIVE MILLIONS IN TRUNK LONG WAY.

Curious Civil War Incident is Uncovered by Racine, (Ohio) Veteran.

USED TO PAY THE TROOPS.

Trip is Made Safely From Cumberland to Harpers Ferry—Was Given no Credit For Feat.

"Young man what's in that trunk?"

This from a smiling paymaster in the Federal Army in a hotel in Harpers Ferry, Va., one gloomy day in February, 1864.

John Wolf, aged 24, with the chevrons of a corporal on his sleeves, a seasoned veteran, lithe and alert, sinewy, tanned by three years' Civil War service in the cause of his country, keen-eyed and stouthearted, straightened up after dumping the trunk on the floor, saluted and replied:

"I do not know sir, but I do know that this army has not been paid for four months and I have my suspicions as to what is in the trunk."

The officer laughed, ordered dinner for the corporal, turned on his heel and said no more about it.

This is the humble story of a retiring man, shrinking from notoriety, now far down the slope of declining life, with 68 years behind him, four of the number filled with the shriek of shot and shell and the whine of the Minne ball—the camp, the march and the battlefield and the doublequick into the very jaws of death—a man who did not know the meaning of the word fear.

As he stood there with his hands to his cap awaiting orders from his superior he was a veteran—a veteran at 24. At Ceder Creek a ball had pierced his left hand, at Vicksburg, in the charge of the fatal triangle another singing messenger of death from the Confederate forts had plowed a deep furrow across his neck, he had scaled the gentle slopes of Missionary Ridge with his bayonet well to the forefront of the line of advance—still his name had never been written on the books of the hospital sergeant.

He stood there in the full vigor of manhood, a typical soldier, intrepid, unflinching and ready to obey orders to the letter. His officers knew it and his comrades knew it, and that was why he stood in the hotel in that historic town on that gloomy February day with his heels together and his hand at salute.

He had been entrusted with a mission which would appall a man with less courage even in these piping days of peace and police protection. That trunk contained $5,000,000 in paper money fresh from the Government presses and John Wolf had conveyed it 97 miles single-handed and delivered it safely. It was a battered old trunk lashed together with rusty straps, seemingly rescued from a rubbish heap.

The day before there had been a consultation among the officers of the Eighth Corps as to the best way to get that trunk safely from Cumberland, Md., to Harpers Ferry. A paymaster in charge with an armed escort was considered too risky. The very show of force would be notice to the enemy skulking in the mountains that a fat prize was awaiting the taking. The captain of Company E., Fourth West Virginia Infantry, was present. After all the plans of the officers high up had been discussed and discarded, he said:

"Gentlemen, I have a man in my company who can deliver that trunk single-handed and alone. John Wolf can take it through where a whole company would fail."

He detailed his plans, the others agreed with him, and that evening he quietly visited the quarters of Corporal Wolf and instructed him to report at headquarters the next morning at 7 o'clock. Promptly at that time the young soldier stood at attention in front of his captain's quarters. The captain came out, the soldier saluted, the captain returned the salute, then pulled back the flaps of his tent and then dragged out a trunk and said:

"Corperal, you will take this trunk on board a train which will leave here in a few minutes and deliver it to Major———at——— hotel in Harpers Ferry," naming the officer and hotel, the names having been lost to memory in the intervening years. "Perhaps you had better keep a sharp eye on the trunk," was the parting injunction of the captain. "Report to me when you return."

The stalwart corporal picked up the trunk devoid of label or address, placed it corner-wise on his shoulder and walked off toward the station. He had no written orders, not a scrap of paper in his pockets to identify him and not a weapon for self-protection except a small Smith & Wesson revolver in his blouse pocket.

He boarded an ordinary day Baltimore & Ohio train of four coaches, dumped his trunk into the corner and took a seat on it. He wore his uniform and was in appearance an ordinary soldier going somewhere with an old trunk. His starting point and destination were within the Federal lines at that time and he needed no pass. The conductor took up his transportation without a word or a second look and the passengers never so much as glanced his way.

The mountains and rugged scenery unrolled slowly. He pretended to be absorbed in looking out of the window at the small stream, now bankful, at the distant Blue Ridge Mountains, the farms and battered homes, but in reality was more intent on the trunk in his keeping. He had not been told in so many words what was in the trunk, but his sixth sense made it plainly evident to him. He knew that 70,000 men and officers were encamped thereabouts; that they had not been paid for four months, and that the man to whom he was to deliver the trunk was a paymaster. That was enough to know then, fully verified later.

When the train drew into Harpers Ferry shortly before noon he picked up the trunk, again placed it cornerwise on his shoulder and walked away a distance of two blocks and dropped it on the floor of the room of the paymaster, who seemed in nowise surprised at his appearance.

He returned to Cumberland that evening, reached camp at 11 o'clock. The next morning he reported at headquarters, saluted and announced the safe delivery of the trunk.

The captain returned the salute and dismissed the corporal to his own quarters.

That was all there was of it.

Away down in the musty records of the War Department at Washington there may be some mention of this transaction, but the records to the world simply say in small type:

"John Wolf, aged 21, mustered into Company E, Fourth West Virginia Infantry, July 22, 1861, for three years; promoted to corporal; transferred to Company B, Second West Virginia Veteran Infantry, December 10, 1864; mustered out with company July 1, 1865.

Mr. Wolf is an Ohio man, born and raised. When the call for troops came in those troublesome days there was no place left for him in the ranks from his patriotic state, so he went south of Mason and Dixon's line and took up arms in the name of a weaker state.

At the time of the incumbency of the office of Commissioner of Pension by Hoke Smith, Mr. Wolf lost his pension because of a lack of a hospital record, but it was later restored with sufficient arrearages to buy him a comfortable farm and home in a sunlit valley of his home State, as quiet and placid as his declining years. His postoffice address is this pretty Ohio town of Racine.

A GREAT YEAR FOR AIRSHIPS

Experiment at Fort Myer Bound to Stimulate Interest in Aerial Navigation.

The interest in airships of various descriptions is bound to be stimulated in this country during the coming year by the experiments which are to be carried on at Fort Myer.

The mere fact that the Wright brothers, of Dayton, O., will give their first public demonstration of their closely-guarded invention would in itself be sufficient to focus the eyes of the world on the aerial practice zone in Virginia, for the Wrights are commonly believed to have devised the most successful "heavier-than-air" flying machine yet evolved. Several foreign nations negotiated for it, but the price proved a stumbling block. Now the United States is to have for $25,000 the secret of the mysterious machine which made such remarkable flights over the sand dunes of North Carolina. In the same class as the Wright machine, says The Boston Transcript, is the airship which J. F. Scott, of Chicago, through patriotic motives, proposes to give the Government for the nominal price of $1000, and a flying machine for which A. M. Herring, of New York, will receive the sum of $20,000 should it prove all that it claimed for it. None of these "heavier-than-air sky craft will be ready to go through their paces in less than six months, and the Wright machine is not promised for seven months, but in five months or less Captain Thomas Baldwin will have ready a dirigible balloon, for which he is to receive the sum of $6750, and the entry of this cigar-shaped craft into the the experiments at Fort Myer will signal the beginning of pretentious work in aeronautics in the American army.

The balloon work at Fort Myer will be under the personal direction of Brigadier General Allen, chief signal officer of the United States army, but will be actively in the hands of two young officers of the Signal Corps who have within the past few years won recognition in the international aeronautics. Captain Chandler took up the work only last year, yet has already made a most creditable record with captive and free balloons. Meanwhile he has studiously gone into the theoretical side of aeronautics. Lieutenant Frank B. Lahm, after several years spent in study and observation in Germany and France, where military ballooning is to be seen at its best, has come home to take a hand in the protection of the important undertaking at Fort Myer.

That great things may be expected of Lieutenant Lahm as aeronautic expert of the United States army is attested by the fact that he won the first great international balloon race that started from Paris in September, 1908. It was because of Lieutenant Lahm's victory that the United States was the scene of the international race last year, and his friends believe that he would have won that contest also could he have been a participant, but unfortunately, he was in Europe at the time. It will be remembered that he contributed a cup as one of the prizes and that this was captured by his brother officer, Captain Chandler.

All the News Everything that happens in the home town; the births, marriages, deaths, the social affairs, the comings and goings of the people—your neighbors; the notes of the schools and churches; all these and many other new and interesting things this paper will give you All the Time

WHAT MAKES EARTHQUAKES.

Peculiar Processes in Depths of The Sea Said to Be Responsible.

In the March number of the Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society, which has just appeared, Prof. T. J. J. See, U. S. N., the astronomer, has a paper on "The new theory of earthquakes and mountain formation as illustrated by processes now at work in the depths of the sea." In it he gives further evidence in support of his proposition that mountains are formed by the action of the sea, and not at all by the secular cooling and shrinkage of the earth. The old theory which compares the earth to a withered apple is pronounced unsound.

In two previous papers Prof. See argued that six great classes of phenomena, namely, earthquakes, volcanoes, mountain formation, the formation of islands and plateaus, seismic sea waves following great earthquakes and the feeble attraction of mountains long noticed in geology, are but different effects of one common cause—the secular leakage of the ocean bottom. This forms steam beneath the earth's crust which brings on earthquakes, and the earthquakes, uplift islands in the sea and mountains along the shore by the expulsion of lava under the land.

When the earth's crust is thus uplifted along the seashore mountains are produced, and some of the mountains break into eruption and form volcanoes. The expulsion of lava from under the sea undermines trenches in the sea bottom and the crust goes down and forms the deeps often noticed near the land. The sinking of the sea bottom after an earthquake produces the seismic sea wave so often following great earthquakes.

Thus the uplift of the coast into mountains and the sinking of the adjacent sea bottom into a trench is the effect of the explusion of lava from under the bed of the sea. This expulsion is due to steam which forms under the sea but not under the land; and hence when the steam pressure becomes very great it pushes out under the land and uplifts the coast.

In 1899 the coast near Yakutan Bay, Alasks, was uplifted by a great earthquake for a hundred miles, and at the maximum the rise was forty-seven feet. This shows that a vast quantity of lava was expelled from under the bed of the ocean and pushed under the land.

In the present paper Prof. See seeks to show that the Aleutian Islands are merely a branch of the Rocky Mountains still in the ocean that demonstrate exactly how all mountains were formed. In the deep waters just south of the Aleutian Islands the sea bottom is sinking into a deep trench. It is from 3,000 to 4,000 fathoms deep and just parallel to the islands.

At almost every big earthquake in this region some one of the Aleutian Islands is uplifted, and sometimes a new volcano breaks out. On the other hand a seismic sea wave frequently accompanies this movement, showing that the sea bottom to the south has sunk. The unlift of the island and the sinking of the sea bottom show that lava is being expelled from under the sea.

Prof. See gives maps of the ocean depths near the Aleutian Islands and also near the Kurile and Japanese islands, and is the earthquakes follow these subsidences, he says, it is evident that the cause of these disturbances is everywhere the same, namely, the expulsion of lava from under the sea, so that the bottom sinks down into a narrow trough.

In this way the island of Japan was raised from the sea. The hole in the sea bottom just east of Japan made by the expulsion of lava is called the Tuscarora Deep, from the American ship Tuscarora, which first discovered this deep trough. It is evident that the island of Nippon came out of there because if it were loosened and thrown into the hole it would about fill it up.

It the same way the Aleutian and Kurile islands if dog off and thrown into the adjacent trenches near them would fill up the troughs which now appear there. If we go along in a field and come upon a trench with a ridge beside it, adds Prof. See, we know that the ridge was made by dirt taken out of the ditch.

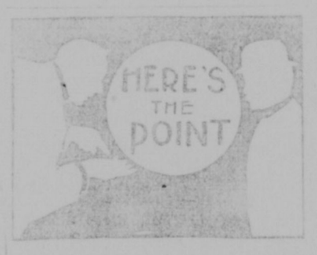
This investigation showing how mountains are formed in the sea may prove of profound significance for all the sciences which deal with the earth. Prof. See declares that the sea bottoms leak even when the underlying rock is twenty miles deep, and that all the mountains were once in the depths of the sea. They were uplifted by earthquakes pushing up the land and not at all by the shrinkage of the earth.

Prof. See calculates that the earth is new expanding from ten to a hundred times more rapidly than it is contracting under the influence of secular cooling. Thus all the old books on geology must be rewritten.

He discusses also a mountain range new forming in the sea between Samoa and New Zealand. Here the sea is very deep and has a ridge to the west just as in the case of the Kurile Islands. The Pacific Ocean is erecting a wall on the west just like the South American Andes on the east.

The mountain chain between Samoa and New Zealand is about 1,500 miles long and eventually will be very high. It is still below the water, except a few of the peaks which project as islands.

In the course of geological ages the western ridge will form a high range, and then like the eastern side of the trough will fold up and form another high ridge parallel to the first. This is how parallel mountain ranges are formed, and it is all the work of the sea, acting under simple laws.



If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted—where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

A Fortune in Scrap.

The scrap heap of a large industrial company is a decidedly interesting affair and a rather valuable asset. That of the New York Edison Company for last year was sold approximately for $200,000. The material included 632,000 pounds of scrap copper, 359,000 pounds of pig iron, 71,000 pounds of mixed metals and approximately 500 tons of iron. This does not include the materials which were redeemed for further use.

MANY MILLIONS IDLE IN V

Some Interesting Facts and on Coinage.

MASSES LIKE PAPER MONE

Because It is More Convenient to Handle Many Certificates Are Lost or Destroyed and Can Never Be Presented for Redemption.

The Secretary of the Treasury's annual report to Congress of June 30, 1907, shows the gold certificates had from time to time been issued by the Government to the amount of $677,595,909 with gold coin to that full amount in the U. S. Treasury for their redemption. And silver certificates in the same manner to the extent of $464,349,568, aggregate the uaat sum of $1,141,645,477, an amount not possessed by any other government in the world.

It can be said this tremendous amount is practically idle or dormant money. It is however, true that certificates in the nature of money or currency have been issued to this amount and in circulation, for the redemption of which the gold and silver so deposited, stands on deposit. But it is a well known fact that a considerable amount of these issues will never be presented for redemption or exchange for different reasons: one, that the holders will prefer the convenient coin money, especially silver, and a large portion of the certificate money will be lost, destroyed or hoarded, and so will never be presented for redemption. This kind of money is much more convenient and preferable in ordinary transactions and dealings. The Government gained about $8,000,000 in the $50,000,000 fractional notes, issued in the war times, by their not being presented for redemption.

Now in view of the fact that there are a super amount of gold and silver coins or monies on deposit to redeem or meet the whole of the certificates described would it not be advisable and proper to put a suitable and safe margin of these dormant coins in circulation and thereby make them useful, instead of idle money, and thus help to cure the money stringency which has existed since last October. This would be a practical business step of a relieving or helping kind. Of course a sufficiency of coin is to be held for redemption purposes, but not a super abundance. Conservatism and safety are good things, but should not be carried too far. In all business affairs, there must be some foresight and venture and possibility some risk. None here.

What the people want and need in their current business affairs is a sufficiency of safe, sound and convenient money of both the hard and soft kinds. Such is the advocacy of this paper.

March 27. J. B.

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,

HORACE R. DEWITT,
Treasurer of Garrett County.

4td

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Nor Any Other Creature.

By Ina Wright Hanson.

Copyrighted, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Looking up from a long drawn reverie before the unfinished picture on my easel, I saw Iolanthe beaming at me from the doorway.

"Come on!" she cried. "Put up your work and come with me into the country. I believe you don't even know it is May day. Don't you remember 'the month of May, when the air is so full of sweetness and love that even one shaving begins to feel an affection for another shaving?' Come, let us a Maying go."

"I can't," I answered. "I'm up against it. I'm crowded to the wall. I'm broke."

Iolanthe laughed—the sweetest sound in this wise old world.

"I had an intuition so, but that doesn't matter. This is my treat. You see, Isabel Dory took me to dinner yesterday, so I have enough to take us picnicking today. Come, brave knight, put on thy helmet and hasten."

I hastened. No one could resist Iolanthe. I took her little covered basket, and we went along the hall and down the stairs, with mock-doleful messages following us from our fellow workers, who were not going out into the blosoming May day world.

"What car are we going to take?" I asked as we reached the street.

Iolanthe blushed deliciously.

"We are not going to take a car. You see, I got so interested in buying a 'scrumptious' lunch that I forgot about the car, and"—

"I see," I said gravely. "And you don't know how glad I am that we are to walk. It is so much healthier. Then we won't have to mingle with the plebeians on a common car. When rich aristocrats like us"—

Iolanthe glanced up at me rather sharply, I thought. It couldn't be that she knew—of course she couldn't know. No one knew but my uncle's lawyer and myself, and maybe my uncle. I wondered if my uncle did know in that unknown country he had lately entered. By and by I should tell Iolanthe that, when the preliminaries were over, I should have enough money to buy her everything she wanted, even if on this blithe day I had not a penny, and all due to a never known rich old uncle, now dead. But Iolanthe was proud, so first I would win her promise—win it while she believed me poor as herself.

WE ATE OUR "SCRUMPTIOUS" LUNCH.

Purity and courage and gentleness and beauty—that was my Iolanthe. Mine? Ah, when our May day was over, should I be calling her mine?

"Who are you today?" she asked, stopping to fill her lungs with the buoyant air.

We had a habit of playing we were other folks when we went on these excursions—childish no doubt, but we were never going to grow old, we said, so it was best to be children a long time.

"Why, I am King Cophetua," I answered promptly, with a great inflating of my kingly chest and throwing back of my kingly head as we walked on.

"Her arms across her breast she laid;
She was more fair than words can say.
In robe and crown the king stept down
To meet and greet her on her way."

"Who are you today, Iolanthe?"

"It's a pretty story," she mused, not answering my question, "but suppose it were turned around. Suppose the beggar man were Queen Cophetua and the beggar man. Would he be good and let her love him? And would he be willing to sit on the throne with her?"

"Oh, that's different!" I said. "Of course a man could not take favors from a woman. The beggar man would have to go out into the world and win his fortune. He couldn't take it from his queen. You know he couldn't, don't you, Iolanthe?"

"No, I don't know anything about it," she said a bit crossly. But Iolanthe never could stay cross long enough to make it pay, so in a moment she was talking merrily again.

Presently we reached the spot we were bound for, a spot of sun and shade and running water and new spring flowers. We ate our "scrumptious" lunch, and then we sang and talked and had long spells of social silence, and all the while I was wondering how I should make her say "yes" if at first she happened to say "no."

"I am going to tell you a pretty story," she remarked after one of these silences. "It's a true one too. I am invited and so are you, and you'll go, won't you?"

"Oh, sure!" I answered recklessly. "Where?"

"A reception tomorrow evening to meet the richest girl you ever saw. She has so much money she doesn't know what to do with it all, but folks have just found it out. She has pretended to be poor for reasons. We're both going because you said you would."

"I would do anything or go anywhere to please you, little girl," I answered with so much meaning that Iolanthe flushed and her dear eyes wavered before my gaze. I don't know quite how it happened, but suddenly I had my dream in my arms—my unresisting, perfect, red lipped dream—and I was quite mad with delight.

Then presently she cried out that I must never let anything come between us.

"'Nor height nor depth nor any other creature,'" I said reverently.

"'Nor any other creature,'" she repeated after me and made me say it every little while all the rest of that wonderful day, and I did not tell her about my fortune after all, though I had intended to. When you come to think of it, money is a sordid thing to discuss when two folks are quaffing nectar and nibbling ambrosia.

The next evening I went to the reception and was presented to the lady of riches. It seemed to me that all the room hushed its breath and waited while we two went through what was required of us. It seemed to me that I lived an eon before we were free from the great eye of the room and in some place where there were a splash of water and quiet and heavy perfume of flowers. There in the dim light she stood, slender as an English laburnum tree, swaying in her yellow silken robes toward me. Her hands, weighted with jewels, were held out to me. Her mouth that I had kissed was smiling at me—was saying:

"'Nor any other creature!'"

I stood there staring at this wonderful new Iolanthe, and all I could think of and all I said was:

"Barefooted came the beggar maid,
Before the king Cophetua!"

Which, considering the circumstances, could hardly have been more absurd.

Iolanthe's laugh rang out; then she came closer to me, and her eyes grew very grave.

"Dearest," she whispered, "I was too rich to be happy, and so I ran away from everybody and went to work in the studio. I wanted to accomplish something. I wanted folks to say, 'She is a great painter,' not 'She is the richest girl in the country.' Then I found you, and—and—I didn't care any more for fame, because I wanted something greater, love—your love—and—you said 'Nor any other creature,' you know you did!"

"And meant it, too, my angel!" I exclaimed, coming out of my trance and taking her hands in mine. "You shall give me all the money you think I need, and I will sit on the throne with you like a good little man."

"I am so glad you are going to be sensible!" she said fervently.

And then I had to explain to her why I was laughing.

No Use For a Pessimist.

Freddie and his mother were having a thoroughly satisfactory romp when a visitor was announced. As one topic of conversation after another came up it developed that the caller was in an extraordinarily pessimistic frame of mind and expressed her disapproval in no measured terms of everything and everybody under discussion.

This impartial "knocking" disturbed Freddie's amiable soul mightily, and he slowly drew nearer and nearer until he finally stood before the lady, with his small face puckered and the corners of his mouth drawn down.

She stopped in the midst of an "Oh, a dreadful bore, my dear!" to say:

"Why, Freddie, please do unscrew your face. I don't like to see little boys look like that."

Freddie surveyed her for a moment and then said trenchantly, but with an obviously sincere wish for information:

"I guess you don't like most anything, do you?"—New York Times.

A Bad Shot.

A hot headed Irishman accidentally insulted an equally hot headed Frenchman, who insisted on fighting a duel with the Hibernian to wipe out the slight. The Irishman suggested that the two of them should each draw a card from a pack, and the one who drew the lowest was to go into an adjoining room and blow his brains out. The Frenchman demurred at first, but finally fell in with the idea, and the two opponents drew out the cards, one of which was bound to carry death in its wake. The Irishman drew the lowest card, and, with a smile, he charged his revolver and betook himself off to a small anteroom to complete the tragedy. Presently a loud report rang out, and the white faced people ran wildly to the little anteroom, fully expecting to see the Irishman a gory corpse. Instead he came coolly along the passage to meet them, and as they stared wonderingly at him he cried:

"Begorra, Oi missed meself!"

Peculiar "Cure Stones."

Occupying an isolated position on the moors about five or six miles above Penzance, in Cornwall, a peculiar trio of stones is to be seen. They are arranged in a straight line, the two outside ones being four feet high and upright, while the center one is a little lower, but much wider. In the last mentioned there is a round hole large enough to admit of a man passing through. This pile is known as the "Men-an-tol," or "holed stone." Popular tradition states that any one crawling through the hole in the center stone will be forever immune from rheumatism and allied complaints. In times gone by the country people used to bring their children to the holed stone and pass them through.—Strand Magazine.

One Way to Solve the Currency Problem.

By JAMES G. CANNON, Vice President of the Fourth National Bank, New York.

I AM ONE OF A GROWING NUMBER OF BANKERS WHO BELIEVE THAT IN THE ADAPTATION OF THE CLEARING HOUSE CERTIFICATE WE HAVE THE SOLUTION OF THE CURRENCY PROBLEM. WE DO NOT NEED MORE FIXED CURRENCY IN THIS COUNTRY, BUT WE NEED FLEXIBILITY TO MEET EMERGENCIES SUCH AS WE HAVE BEEN PASSING THROUGH.

I would have in every large city where there is a subtreasury the clearing house incorporated and prepared to DO BUSINESS WITH THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT. I would have a quoted United States EMERGENCY currency printed in large quantities and held under proper safeguards in each subtreasury.

I would permit the treasurer of the United States, on proper application, to receive clearing house certificates as COLLATERAL SECURITY and advance 50 per cent of the amount of such certificates deposited in emergency circulation to each clearing house association. Such circulation should bear 6 per cent interest, so that it would be RETIRED AT ONCE WHEN NOT NEEDED.

In reading the newspaper discussions in connection with the so called Aldrich currency bill I notice that it has been suggested that the issuance of clearing house loan certificates should be PROHIBITED BY LAW.

It does not seem possible that any student of finance who is familiar with the use of these certificates could for one moment make such a recommendation. Had it not been for the issuance of CLEARING HOUSE LOAN CERTIFICATES by the associated banks of New York during the recent crisis we would not have been able to import any considerable amount of gold from Europe.

Divorce Preferable to Unhappy Marriage.

By the Rev. MADISON C. PETERS, New York City.

THERE IS A THING WORSE THAN DIVORCE, AND THAT IS TO MAKE A HELL OF THE HOLIEST HUMAN RELATION. DIVORCE IS NOT ALWAYS A MENACE TO THE PURITY OF THE HOME, TO PRESERVE THE SACREDNESS OF WHICH PLACE AND KEEP IT INVIOLATE FROM THE SACRILEGE OF SOCIAL POLLUTION SOME PEOPLE UNFORTUNATELY ARE OBLIGED TO TAKE THE BITTER MEDICINE LABELED DIVORCE.

"What God hath joined together let not man put asunder." BUT WHO KNOWS WHAT GOD HAS JOINED? Going through a marriage ceremony and paying the minister do not make the contract God joined, so far from it that IN MANY CASES to keep the contracting parties joined is immoral and therefore sinful.

MARRIAGE IS THE WORLD'S CIVILIZER and the home the cabinet room wherein are devised the great and grand things of earth. Our social chariots should be attached to the stars of love, and we should resist every tendency to disparage this SACRED institution. This can be done not by forcing mismated people to live together because they have a marriage license, but BY THROWING MORE SAFEGUARDS ABOUT MARRIAGE and trying, so far as possible, to prevent mismatches.

Our Musical Taste Is Advancing

By VICTOR HERBERT, Composer.

I DO NOT KNOW WHAT HIDDEN POWER IS AT WORK ON THE AMERICAN MUSIC LOVING PUBLIC TO INFLUENCE IT, BUT OF LATE YEARS THERE SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN A MARKED TENDENCY ON ITS PART TOWARD SOMETHING BETTER IN MUSIC. IT SEEMS NOW TO BE STRIVING FOR HIGHER IDEALS, AS IT WERE.

This is markedly apparent in all branches of music, from the latest popular song to the imported grand opera. It may be due to the fact of a BROADER MUSICAL EDUCATION IN OUR GREAT UNIVERSITIES AND INLAND COLLEGES, or it may be due to the fact that the American music teachers of today are striving for better things and that they are spending their spare time in CONSCIENTIOUS STUDY AND RESEARCH OF EUROPEAN MUSIC and are in turn imparting this great knowledge to the aspiring young student of music.

* * *

On the other hand, the modern composer may be responsible, for he, like the teacher, has "BUILDED FOR HIMSELF AN IDEAL" FAR ABOVE THAT OF THE PAST DECADE and is striving, hard though it may be, to surmount this pinnacle of perfection. It has, indeed, been a TASK for these workers in the vineyard of melody to educate the mass of so called music lovers, who have been educated up to the LOWER STANDARDS OF SO CALLED POPULAR SONGS which are ground out over night, exist for a brief spell and are then consigned to the boneyard of public fads.

Women Stronger Than Men.

By Professor CHARLES ZUEBLIN of the University of Chicago.

MAN'S SUPREMACY IS NOW ALMOST A THING OF THE PAST, AND IT IS HIGH TIME IT IS SO, FOR, WHILE WOMAN IS REGARDED AS THE WEAKER PHYSICALLY, SHE IS IN MANY RESPECTS THE STRONGER MENTALLY AND MORALLY.

From the time brute strength received second place and the mind became the dominating power of the human being woman has risen until she now THREATENS TO BE NOT ONLY THE EQUAL OF MAN IN EVERY RESPECT, BUT THE SUPERIOR.

Regarding the PHYSICAL strength, it might be said that woman is STRONGER THAN MAN, for the human being should be gauged according to the performance of functions for which it is intended. Taking this as a standard, woman is the stronger, for she ENDURES MORE in life than the average man can imagine.

MRS. DOLBY'S TALKS.

The Deacon Hears Further Comments on His Failings.

BROKE THIRD COMMANDMENT.

Language Used by the Good Man When Johnson's Calf Butted Him In the Stomach Causes Him a Bad Half Hour—Seeks Solace In Geography.

[Copyright.]

Deacon Dolby was replacing a hinge on the smokehouse door and wondering if it was going to be a hard winter or not when he looked toward the house and saw the widow Haskins just leaving it with a pitcher in her hand. He at once laid aside his tools and prepared for the worst. He had not long to wait. Within ten minutes he heard Mrs. Dolby's voice calling, and he started for the house. She had been as chirpy as a cricket all the morning and laying plans for ten years ahead, but he realized what would follow the call of the widow.

Deacon Dolby entered the kitchen to find his wife stretched at full length on the floor. In one hand she clasped a yellow bowl that had been in the family for twenty-one years and in the other a wiping cloth that was not quite so many years old. Her eyes were closed, and the breath seemed to have left her body.

"YOU WERE KNOCKED ABOUT TEN FEET."

The deacon went over to the sink and got a drink of water.

Then he lifted the boiling teakettle on the back side of the stove.

Then he gently removed the bowl and the wiping cloth from the hands that would fondle them no more.

Then he picked Mrs. Dolby up as he would a bag of potatoes worth 90 cents a bushel and carried her into the sitting room and dropped her on the lounge. In doing so he took no precautions to see that her head was higher than her feet, and as a result she seemed to be sliding down hill on her back. When she had been arranged the deacon sat down and opened an old school geography that had somehow found its way to a place beside the family Bible and Sankey's Gospel Hymns on the center table and opened it to be greeted by the announcement that the Mississippi river was the longest river in the world. This gave him no shock of surprise. He had suspected the fact for several years. He was wondering if it made the Amazon jealous to play second fiddle when there was a movement at his elbow and a voice asked:

"Samuel Dolby, have we both died and gone to heaven?"

Mrs. Dolby Comes to Life.

Mrs. Dolby had got through sliding down hill on her back and had got up and turned herself around. The deacon had no answer ready. He knew that both were on earth and that the hinge on the smokehouse door was still waiting to be fixed, but what was the use in getting up an argument? Besides, he was interested in the statement that James K. Polk could never bear to inflict pain on even a grasshopper.

"I see now that we are still on earth," said Mrs. Dolby after awhile in answer to her own question. "Yes, I remember calling to you, Samuel. I did not dream of fainting away, but somehow when I thought—thought of—thought of what the widow"—

There were tears and sobs at this juncture. Some husbands would have gone after the kitchen towel and spoken soothing words, but Mr. Dolby had been caught by the statement that the Hudson river emptied into New York bay instead of the Pacific ocean.

"Mrs. Haskins came over to borrow a quart of cider vinegar," resumed the dying woman after a bit, "and I lent her that pitcher with the nose knocked off to carry it home in. I didn't notice anything strange about her until just as she was going out. Then I saw tears in her eyes and asked her if she had heard bad news. With that she busted out crying and dropped into a chair, and for five minutes I couldn't get her to say a word. Then she told me all. She felt it her duty to do so. I called to you, and then all became dark. I thought the blow had killed me, but it seems that it hasn't. It seems that I have got to live on."

No Huckleberries In Turkey.

Mr. Dolby had some little curiosity, but he held it in leash. The geography made the statement that the huckleberry was to be found in every country on earth except Turkey, and he wondered why Turkey was left out when a good thing was going around.

Mrs. Dolby sobbed four sobs and then shed fourteen tears and then asked:

"Don't you want to know what the blow was, Samuel? You are going to say you do, but I shall tell you. One day last week you went over to Mr. Johnson's to borrow a hoe to dig taters with. You came back without the hoe, and you were looking as pale as a ghost and not saying anything. I didn't pester you with any questions. I just waited. Now I know all. Samuel, do you want to go down on your knees and say that it was the sudden surprise that made you do it and ask my forgiveness?"

The question was direct, but the deacon paid no attention to it. He had found the geographical statement that the rivers of China supported a population of 2,000,000, and he was not to be switched off on any side issues. He was given two minutes to answer in, and then Mrs. Dolby said:

"Mr. Johnson has a calf about a year old. You were crossing the lot when the calf took you for his father and came bounding at you and struck you in the stomach with his head. You were knocked about ten feet, and Mrs. Johnson, who was looking on, threw up her hands and fainted away. She thought you had been killed stone dead. While you were down the calf tried to bite your ears. You can't deny this, Samuel, for Mrs. Johnson is a woman that won't lie. She was offered a yoke of oxen when she was a girl if she would tell a falsehood, but she refused. She says you were unconscious for at least ten minutes. Her faint lasted her at least seven or eight, and you hadn't moved when she came out of it. You were lying in the same place, and the calf was fumbling for your ears. You were the same as dead, Samuel, and perhaps it would have been better had the Lord taken you then and there. Don't you want to press me to your heart and say that it shall never happen again?"

The deacon didn't. Every incident in the tragedy under discussion rose up before him as clear as day, but he had no forgiveness to ask for. Besides, he was interested in the statement that John Smith settled Jamestown instead of Henry Smith, as he had always been led to believe, and he wanted to work it out in his mind.

"You lay there one moment, Samuel, with Mrs. Johnson thinking you dead and remembering how many pickled peaches I had put up for the winter, and the next you was on your feet. The calf stood there looking at you out of his innocent eyes, and you jumped up and down and abused his father.

"Then you called his mother a wretch.

"Then you called him forty different names as fast as you could speak.

"Then you threatened to knock his blamed head off and to break every bone in his blasted body.

What the Deacon Told the Calf.

"Then you said that any infernal calf that didn't know better than to come frolicking around and bat a man in the stomach with his —— head ought to be murdered on the spot, and blast your eyes you were the one to do it! You said that, Samuel—you said every word of it.

"And then, not even looking around or caring who heard or saw, you picked up a club and basted and swatted and pounded that poor calf all over the lot, and every time you swatted him you shouted out something. That something made Mrs. Johnson faint away again, and when she came to you were gone and the calf was looking so homesick that she never expected it to live. Oh, deacon, are you going to stick it out like Captain Kidd did or are you—you"—

The deacon read from the geography that the soil carried down by the Missouri river every year was equal to that of the state of Rhode Island and then closed the book and rose up and returned to where the hinge awaited him. During the next hour he found himself whistling and singing at intervals, and he had just got the door up when a voice called from the kitchen door again:

"Samuel! Oh, Samuel, supper is all ready, and I have got hot biscuit and honey for you!"

Mrs. Dolby had been drawn back from the grave again. M. QUAD.

An Illustrated Phrase.

Hitting the pipe.

That Fiddling.

She—What is that man doing in the next flat, do you suppose—trying a new fiddle?

He—No; he's trying my patience.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Typewriter Girl.

See the busy typist girl
As she pounds the keys,
Printing other people's thoughts
With apparent ease,
Sometimes printing other things
Because of lack of care,
And thus producing in her boss
A strong impulse to swear.
See her with her guileless face,
Making her excuse:
"I had it in my notes, you see."
The boss, "Oh, what's the use?"
—G. A. Boyd in Harper's Weekly.

Hauger Gets a Year.

John M. Hauger, who was convicted of counterfeiting during the early part of the January term of U. S. court at Parkersburg, was last week sentenced by Judge Dayton. The sentence provides that Hauger is to be imprisoned in the penitentiary a year and a day, and to pay a fine of $110. A 40 days stay was, however, granted to give the defense time to perfect their appeal, the bills of exceptions for which were agreed agreed upon by counsel and signed by Judge Dayton. In the meantime Hauger goes to jail, where he will remain at least for the 40 days. Then, if the appeal is not granted, his term in the pen will begin—otherwise he will await the issue of the appeal.

Slept on the Track.

William Elliott, who claims to be a resident of Bloomington, was found lying across the rails of the Cumberland and Westernport Electric railway two nights in succession the latter part of last week and his life was only saved by prompt action on the part of the motorman in stopping the car. Although he had been drinking he was not too drunk to be impertinent to the men who had saved his life, and when he refused to give an explanation of his actions he was taken to the Lonaconing lockup. He has relatives in this county.

Kicked By Horse.

Roy Friend, son of Mr. Joseph Friend, of near Sang Run, was kicked in the face by a horse last Thursday afternoon, breaking his nose and lacerating his cheek very painfully. Dr. McComas dressed the wounds of the young man shortly after he was injured.

A Postal Card Pilferer,

B. F. Jenkins, who says his home is at Swanton, came to Oakland on Saturday and proceeded to lay in a supply of souvenir postal cards with out tendering pay for the same. In his rounds he visited the stores of Andrew Gonder and James Treacy where he could not resist the temptation and pocketed a number. From the latter place he went to the Journal 'office' where he secured another lot. Shortly afterward the loss of the goods was discovered and he was arrested, given a hearing and in default of the bond was sent to jail for grand jury action at the June term of court.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ⅓ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

Work on Court House Resumed.

Yesterday work on the erection of the new court house in Oakland, which was discontinued with the setting in of winter, was resumed with Mr. Roderick, superintendent, in charge. Monday a larger force of men will be put to work and the construction of the building will be pushed right along until it is completed, which will be sometime in the fall.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Jesus the Good Shepherd—John 10, 1-18.

Body Disinterred.

The remains of Andrew J. Teats, who recently died in Oakland and was buried in the Oakland cemetery, were disinterred on last Saturday and on Sunday were taken to Friendsville, the former home of the deceased, for reinterment. Mr. D. E. Bolden accompanied the remains to Friendsville and superintended the burial in the Steele cemetery at that place.

Fell and Was Painfully Injured.

Mrs. Louis Bush, on Sunday, fell as she was descending a stairway in her home in Oakland, and broke a bone in her foot, besides very painfully spraining her ankle. The injured lady was attended by Dr. Hinebaugh.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

Cement Plant Shot Down.

A receiver has been appointed for the Buckhorn Portland Cement Company, and the plant at Manheim, about a mile west of Rowlesburg on the Morgantown & Kingwood railroad, has shut down for an indefinite period. Judge Dayton has granted an injunction, restraining the owners of the plant from operating, exercising any privileges under the charter held by the company or interfering in any wise with the receiver in the discharge of his duties. The receiver is Robert A. Patton, who has been required to enter into bond of $10,000.

Railroad Crossing.

In every country town there is a sign at the railroad crossing like this:

"Look Out for the Cars."

Now, everybody in that town knew it was a railroad crossing the day the track was laid. When the sign was put up it took two days—not longer—for every inhabitant to become familiar with it. In a week even the small children could read and spell it backward. Did the railroad take it down? No. If they had the warning would have been forgotten in a week and smash-ups and damage suits would have resulted.

One time advertisements act the same was. You must keep everlastingly at it, like the railroad crossing sign.—Eli Grocer.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Schools Close Today.

The public schools of Garrett county will close for the scholastic year this afternoon, after a term of seven and a-half months. Generally the schools have been satisfactorily managed by the teachers in charge.

Church Services.

UNITED BRETHREN.

The Third Quarterly meeting of the Loch Lynn circuit will be held at Lyndale next Saturday and Sunday. Quarter'ly conference will convene Saturday at 2.30 p. m. Preaching by the Presiding Elder at 7.30 p. m., and Sunday at 10.30 a. m.

J. F. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

MENNONITE.

Mennonite services will be conducted in the Union church near Gortner next Sunday morning at 10.30 and Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. Edward Miller, of Spring, Pa., to which all are earnestly invited.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Preaching at 10.30 a. m., and 7.30 p. m.
Sunday school 2.15 p. m.
Epworth League, Monday, 7.30 p. m.
Junior League Wednesday 2.15 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday 7.30 p. m.
All are cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Preaching 7:30 p. m. Our 5th Anniversary Sermon.
Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.
Catechise Saturday at 2 p. m.
Luther League every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.
Preaching at Hutton next Thursday at 8 p. m.
Preaching at Deer Park Lutheran church next Sabbath at 11 a. m. Our 5th Anniversary Sermon.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

Mrs. W. R. Getty Ill.

Mrs. W. R. Getty has been alarmingly ill at her home in Grantsville, Garrett county, for some weeks. All her children have been at her sick chamber for some days, awaiting the sorrowful hour. She is the widow of Senator W. R. Getty, who died in September, 1902.

FOR SALE.

Berkshire pigs (thoroughbred); young boars and sows; six months old. Apply to Forman, Brookside Dairy Farms, Brookside, W. Va. 4-26t

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,
HORACE R. DEWITT,
4td Treasurer of Garrett County.

FIRE LOSS PROMPTLY PAID.

Messrs. Mathews & Hamill Complimented For Their Promptness.

BOND, Md., Jan. 1st, 1908.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL, Oakland, Md.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your letter of December 31st, enclosing me a draft for two hundred dollars in payment of my recent loss by fire. This draft arrived just fifteen days after the happening of the fire, and I desire to thank you for your promptness in paying the claim. Your promptness in paying losses is to me the best possible evidence that you represent companies which are able to pay their losses, and have no desire to take advantage of those who insure with you. It will give me pleasure to recommend you to those who may desire to insure their properties against loss by fire.

Very truly yours,
E. E. BROWN,
Supt. Bond Mill.

Rented Bradley Farm.

Mr. George Geissman, of Oakland, yesterday closed a lease for the Bradley farm adjoining Oakland for the term of one year. The farm embraces about three hundred and fifty acres. Mr. Geissman will farm portions of the land and utilize many of the fields for pasture.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

Tariff and Trusts.

Morgan J. O'Brien, a former justice of the New York supreme court, tells the Democratic party that it "should get back to Cleveland's platform, which was tariff reform." To his mind "the evils of trusts have been wrought through unfair tariffs." The very day on which these momentous things were being delivered in London for American consumption announcement was made of the formation in free trade Great Britain of the Universal Steel Trust, designed to regulate and control the production and distribution of steel throughout the entire world! The United States is to cure trust evils through free trade. How, then, is Great Britain to cure her trust evils? Through a return to protection? Morgan J. O'Brien is talking through his hat. Protection has not produced the trusts, and free trade cannot eradicate them. That is the view of President Roosevelt—or was, not long ago. It is the view of all protectionists. And it is the truth.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., December 26, 1907.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1908 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent. Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,920,605 84
Total Liabilities	13,670,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND.
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD.
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital	$1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance	3,380,757 23
Reserve for all Out standing Claims	318,272 38
Net Surplus	1,118,394 25
Total Assets	$5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND.
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total Assets	2,529,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	727,763 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,701 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,166,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Fecruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets	$16,399,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities	7,895,960 74
Surplus as regards policy holders	8,503,591 36

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

In M. O. the Latter Generally Exposes the Falsity of the Former.

The theory of municipal ownership is that municipal corporations can do for the public at cost the service now done by private corporations at a profit, saving to the public the amount of the profit in reduced charges.

In the common practice of municipal ownership the city does for the public at increased expense, but for a lower price, what private corporations have been doing for a profit. Usually not only the profit is absorbed in the increased expense, but a continual annual deficiency is covered up by increase of the municipal debt and failure to provide out of earnings for depreciation of plant.

By the time the plant first installed is worn out the city, unless very rich and strong, is apt to be at the end of its credit. In many cases, like that of the Philadelphia gas works, a private corporation gets the city plant for a song and makes money out of it faster than ever. The fundamental idea of it, therefore, is to take the money of taxpayers to render service to non-taxpayers for less than the service costs.—Editorial in Minneapolis Tribune.

M. O. IN MILWAUKEE.

Unwarranted Action of the City Council In the Wisconsin Metropolis.

If you authorize an agent to purchase a piece of property for you at $5,000 and he finds that it will cost $6,000 and goes ahead and buys it without consulting you on the ground that you had said that you wanted the property, your words would probably look well in print. This is practically what has just been done in Milwaukee, the first party being the taxpayers of that city and their agent the city council. Some time ago the people of Milwaukee voted to authorize a bond issue of $500,000 to install a municipal lighting plant.

The city fathers found that the estimate was $800,000 too low and passed a resolution to issue bonds to the extent of $1,300,000. The city comptroller at first refused to sign the necessary papers on the ground that in view of the great difference in cost the matter should be again submitted to the people. This point was, however, overruled by the city attorney. If his opinion is good law, the law is bad, for it permits the agents of the people to abuse their powers with impunity.

Why Kirkwood Shut Down.

Some time ago the city of Kirkwood, Mo., was reported to have shut down the generating plant of its electric light plant and made a contract for current with a private company. The arrangement was not, however, consummated, for the company, Mayor Overbeck claims, did not act in good faith. The mayor gives the further official statement in regard to the municipal plant:

"Our plant was built about the year 1901, and on account of it being a municipal matter the city did not get up to date plant and is today suffering from having a plant that does not meet the requirements, and the cost of production is too high; consequently it does not pay the city if we take into consideration depreciation and the interest on our investment."

Two Divorce Estimates.

The question of installing a municipal lighting plant at Hancock, Mich., has been laid at rest for five years at least by a contract for that period having been made by an almost unanimous vote of the aldermen. This matter has been under discussion for some time, and an estimate of the cost of a plant was obtained from an engineer. The report of this estimate, $850,000, seemed so low that one of the aldermen got another estimate from an entirely disinterested engineer, who figured that the cost would be $1,100,000.

Interest Coes Right Along.

In 1898 Greenwood, S. C., issued 5 per cent bonds to the amount of $35,000 for a water and light plant. The report available shows that none of the bonds has been paid, but the operating plant has been shut down, as it was found to be cheaper to buy current. A contract has been made for ten years, at the end of which period the plant will in all probability be too antiquated for effective service, so that it might as well be written off the books—but the interest on the bonds keeps right on.

A Municipal Overflow.

Of the fads that have swept o'er the country—
The Lawson fad, Dunne fad and Hearst—
I think—but I may be mistaken—
The fad called M. O. is the worst.

The city would have M. O. bake shops
To furnish municipal bread.
M. O. undertakers would follow
To box the municipal dead.

We'd have a municipal dentist
To'd put on municipal crowns;
All kinds of municipal worries
To furnish municipal frowns.

A million municipal silkworms
Would weave our municipal silk;
Ten thousand municipal babies
Cry out for municipal milk.

We'd have a municipal barroom.
Municipal whisky and gin.
The spree would be charged to the city:
'Twould be a municipal sin.

When out in municipal snowstorms
You'd wear an M. O. mackintosh.
You'd go to the M. O. theaters
To hear the municipal bosh.

You'd have to be full of M. O. love
To please your municipal wife.
Each awful municipal moment
Would make up municipal life.

Your dear M. O. heart would be aching.
You'd heave a municipal sigh.
If sure of no M. O. hereafter,
You'd jump this M. O. life and die.

—Thomas E. Burke.

ORDER NISI.

James E. Lish et al, vs Tecumpson Lish et al. No. 1496 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Ordered this 18th day of March, 1908, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above entitled cause by Julius C. Renninger and William R. Offutt, trustees, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 18th day of April, 1908, provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once a week for three sucessive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1908.

The report states the amount of the sale to be $425.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Order of Publication.

Ada A. V. Halterman vs Henry H. Halterman.

No. 1520 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree, divorcing the plaintiff, Ada A. V. Halterman, a vinculo matrimonii, from the defendant, Henry H. Halterman.

The bill states that on the 20th day of May, 1875, the plaintiff was married to the defendant at Garrett county, Maryland, where they continued to reside together as husband and wife until the 11th day of February, 1905, and that, although the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband, the said Henry H. Halterman, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant has without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that five children were born to the plaintiff and defendant as the result of said marriage, all of whom are dead, except one son, Lawrason H. Halterman, who is above the age of twenty-one years and resides in Page county, Virginia, and the plaintiff is a resident of Garrett county, Maryland, and that the defendant resides in Tucker county, West Virginia, and is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill then prays that the plaintiff may be vinculo matrimonii from the defendant, for general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 14th day of March, 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of April, 1908, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May next to show cause, if any he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Convenience,
Protection,
Economy,

are all combined in Telephone Service. We offer you the many facilities of an efficiently operated and extensively developed system of telephones.

The rates are very low.

THE C. & P. TELEPHONE CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Proposals for Building Bridge.

OAKLAND, MD., March 25, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners for Garrett County, Md., will receive sealed proposals until

Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over Cherry Creek on road from Gortner to Sunnyside, said bridge to be of one span, 46 feet extreme length, and 12 feet wide, with stone abutments and to be built according to the plans and specifications now on file in the County Commissioners' office.

The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure separate from the stone work and vice versa.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.
A. G. Ross, Clerk.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof dully authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Administrator's Notice.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

LEVI SWEITZER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 30th day of July next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 30th day of January, 1908.

JOSEPH R. GLASS,
Administrator.
Swanton, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator.
Rockwood, Pa.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Peal Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

J. B. WILLIAMS CO
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING
Send for prices

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building.
Oakland, Maryland.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL,
Successors to Charles A. Tower,
General Fire Insurance,
OAKLAND, MD.

We offer the best possible protection.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1908. NUMBER 6

UNICIPAL APPOINTMENTS, MADE BY MAYOR WEST

ere Submitted to Council Monday Night and Were Confirmed by That Body.

MR. DUNHAM RETAINED AS CLERK

To Council, and Mr. J. M. Stanton Reelected Its Presineut—Mr. W. R. Offutt City Attorney and Mr. D. M. Mason Collector.

Monday night the new Town Council rganized at the Council chamber when he recently elected members were worn into office by Mayor Truman West, he new members of the body being Messrs. E. G. Naylor, J. M. Stanton and has. A. Denlinbaugh who were elected the municipal election held March 9th.

Mr. J. M. Stanton was reelected president of Council and Mr. John C. Dunham, who has filled the office for a number of years, was reelected Clerk.

Under the charter of the town the ayor has the right to appoint certain icers, the same being confirmed by uncil. Under the provision of this ction Mayor West sent the following mination in:

For policeman, Wm. Browning and Bun" Nethken; Police Magistrate, ndrew B. Gonder; Weighmaster, Geo. . Ward; Attorney, G. Semmes Hamr., and William R. Offutt. In subtting the names of two attorneys ayor West threw the responsibility on the Council in making a selection. . W. R. Offutt received a majority te of the members and he was conned, along with the other appointnts submitted.

Council, under the charter, has the ght of electing its clerk, treasurer, x collector and street commissioner. r offices the following were elect: Clerk, Mr. John C. Dunham; Treasr, Mr. A. T. Matthews; Tax Collec, Mr. D. M. Mason; Street Commisner, Mr. Joseph M Crim.

n some respects the selection of the ve as officers of the corporation, noly the clerk, treasurer, tax collector, rney and police magistrate, give ral satisfaction, but other appointts have been generally condemned, Democrats and Republicans alike. fter the confirmation and election of above Council receiveda petition coning a large number of names pray- for the improvement of Third street n Centre street to Green street, the ific improvements wanted by the tioners being the erection of a ge over Wilson Creek on Centre et, the widening of the channel and lding of a retaining wall in Wilson ek along Third street and the gradof that street to Green street.

YOUGH RIVER OIL AND GAS COMPANY.

Meeting of Stockholders Held Saturday When New Board of Directors Was Chosen.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Yough River Oil and Gas Company, held on Saturday in the court room of the Garrett county court house in Oakland, a great majority of the stock was represented, either in person or by proxy, when a new board of directors to manage the affairs of the corporation was elected.

At the meeting about sixty shareholders were present who for themselves and the proxies they held represented about eighty per cent. of the entire stock of the concern.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. E. H. Sincell, one of the members of the old board of directors, who stated the object of the meeting and asked that nominations be made for a board of directors composed of twelve members. The names of twenty-two shareholders were placed in nomination and at the conclusion of the vote, the ballots were canvassed, the result being the election of Messrs. D. M. Mason, A. C. Mason, R. S. Jamison, George D. Browning, Edward E. Sollars, Chauncey Kimmell, William R. Stull, P. M. Furbee, John O. Thayer, E. J. Fringer, R. Harry West and A. D. Naylor.

The Board of Directors organized Monday afternoon by the election of the following:

President, W. R. Stull; vice, president, D. M. Mason; secretary, E. J. Fringer; general manager, C. Kimmell.

Another meeting of the directors will be held this evening when matters pertaining to the future welfare of the company will be considered.

Promoting Good Government.

Enterprising newspapers continue to find enough to do in New York city. Proceeding on the theory that no gambling place can exist in New York without the connivance of the police, the New York World the other day, with the consent of the district attorney's office, had a gambling place opened in due form by members of its staff. In a short time representatives of police captains and inspectors turned up, and the proprietors of the place arranged for police protection—for a financial consideration, of course. Then the trap was sprung. Result—inspector reduced to rank of captain and thirty-three plain clothes detectives sent back to patrol duty. Some of them, it is said, will be prosecuted criminally.

We must have police to watch the criminals, but it is only when newspapers watch the police that we have good government. While General Bingham, chief of New York's police, is admittedly honest and anxious to do his duty, it is clearly impossible with dishonest subordinates, and he needs all the help he can get from the press.

COUNTY CONVENTION FOR PEARRE UNANIMOUSLY

Resolutions Adopted Commending His Congressional Course and Pledging Garrett Delegation

TO SECURE HIS NOMINATION.

Every District In the County Represented In the Convention, Which Was Presided Over by C. J. Otto With N. U. Bond as Secretary.

The Republican delegates from the various election districts of Garrett county elected on Saturday last to attend a county convention in Oakland on Tuesday of this week for the purpose of electing delegates to the Congressional convention to be held at Hagerstown on April 16th, assembled at the court house in Oakland at one o'clock p. m., and was called to order by Chairman A. G. Sturgiss, of the Republican County Committee.

Mr. C. J. Otto, of New Germany, was elected chairman of the convention and Mr. N. U. Bond, of Bond, the secretary. The organization was completen by the election of the committees on credentials and resolutions, one delegate from each district in the county being members of the respective committees.

The committee on credentials reported the following delegates as being entitled to seats in the convention:

District No. 1—A. F. George, J. L. Fitzwater, C. V. Lee, Theo George, L. H. Friend.

District No. 2—N. R. Selby, J. S. Meyers, Wm. Hollinger, G. D. Browning, James Friend.

District No. 3—Charles Younkin, J. D. Miller, Hiram S. Coleman, L. F. Green, C. J. Otto.

District No. 4—N. U. Bond, Wm. Moody, Jacob Stump, Floyd Duckworth, Dr. H. M. Kemp.

District No. 5—H. J. Speicher, Chas. Gutherie, C. C. Speicher, R. A. Ravenscroft, Adam Hetrick.

District No. 6—D. McLean, John Sines, W. A. Smith, Elijah Friend, N. H. Casteel.

District No. 7—A. G. Ross, E. E. Friend, Andrew Shartzer, Lincoln Callie, W. Ravenscroft.

District No. 8—C. E. Hilleary, E. C. Harvey, Jonas Yutzy, P. F. Brenninger, G. W. Harvey.

District No. 9—T. H. Layman, C. C. Layman, W. L. Layman, Henry Knepp, H. W. Blocher.

District No. 10—E. W. Kelso, H. A. Hardesty, C. A. Ashby, I. A. Paugh, W. Chadderton.

District No. 11—Elias Merrill, G. B. Brown, Otho S. Fike, Jonas Wampler, William Broadwater.

District No. 12—G. W. Engle, P. G. Stark, S. D. Brenneman, Joel Orendorf, C. J. Brenneman.

District No. 13—A. L. Lee, H. L. Price, J. E. Chappell, Daniel Wilson, James W. Harvey.

District No. 14—E. J. Frantz, George Geissman, E. E. Sollars, Austin Brown, Samuel Lawton.

Immediately after the report of the credentials committee as above had been read and adopted the committee on resolutions reported the resolutions following when the convention adjourned after having adopted a resolution thanking the presiding officer and the secretary. The report of the committee on resolution follows:

The Republicans of Garrett county assembled at Oakland Tuesday, April 7th, 1908, in convention, do declare:

We re-affirm confidence in the great principles of the Republican party as embodied in the last National Platform.

We most heartily indorse and commend the patriotic and aggressive administration of President Theodore Roosevelt.

We cordially and heartily indorse and commend the able, wise and splendid statesmanship of our brilliant representative, the Hon. George A. Pearre, in Congress, and especially his loyal support of President Roosevelt, and his efforts in championing wise and patriotic legislation affecting the welfare of the whole people.

We strongly favor the re-nomination to Congress of our able and eloquent Representative, Hon. George A. Pearre. He has faithfully and honestly represented the Sixth Congressional District in the halls of Congress, and his splendid record, his marked career, his ability, his patriotism and his fidelity to the interests of all his constituents has conspicuously and preeminently marked him as most worthy and entitled to a re-nomination and election to the Sixty-first Congress of the United States.

Be it Resolved, That we pledge the Hon. George A. Pearre our undivided support for his re-nomination and instruct the delegates named by this convention to cast their votes as a unit for and to use all honorable means for his renomination at the Congressional Convention which meets at Hagerstown on the sixteenth of April, 1908; and be it further

Resolved, That in the Hon. William H. Taft of Ohio, we recognize the statesmen of lofty ideals, large and keen perception, one thoroughly in accord with the principles of the Republican party, and we believe his nomination would be wise and expedient, and for the best interest of the country and the Republican party, and we hereby instruct the delegates hereinafter named to the Republican State Convention which meets in Baltimore, April 30th, 1908, to use all honorable means to secure the adoption of resolutions instructing the four delegates-at-large and the four alternates-at-large to the National Republican Convention, which meets at Chicago, Ill., June 16th, 1908, to vote for the nomination of the Honorable William H. Taft of Ohio, for President of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That we hereby instruct the delegates to both the Congressional and State Convention to cast the three votes of Garrett County as a unit, and that no proxies shall be voted.

Delegates to Congressional convention, A. F. George, L. H. Friend, W. W. Savage, J. S. Myers, C. J. Otto, L. F. Green, N. U. Bond, Floyd Duckworth, H. J. Speicher, R. A. Ravenscroft, W. A. Smith, H. R. DeWitt, W. Ravenscroft, A. G. Ross, W. McCulloh Brown, Jonas Yutzy, Harry Blocher, C. A. Ashby, E. W. Kelso, Otho Fike, G. W. Engle, J. E. Chappell, H. L. Price, George Geissman and Samuel Lawton.

Delegates to State convention, R. A. Ravenscroft, A. F. George, W. A. Smith, N. R. Selby, W. Ravescroft and A. G. Sturgiss.

Memorial Services.

At the session of St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school held last Sunday afternoon a memorial service was conducted and the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, By the decree of our All-Wise and Divine Heavenly Father, Miss Agnes Dean, a pupil in the St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, of Oakland, has been called to the reward of the final faithful, and

WHEREAS, For a member of less than year a faithful and regular attendant of this Sunday school, always mainfesting a deep reverential interest in the study of God's word and cheerfully complying with all the requirements of the Sunday school of which she was a member, hence it is with great sorrow we record the death of Agnes Dean who had lived in this world but fourteen years, eight months, and twenty-eight days, and while her life had been beset by trouble, for the last few years she was living happily, and bid fair to a long life, and a useful career, but death came to her suddenly, and carried her away from the scenes of her earthly activities to that larger and grander life beyond, therefore be it

Resolved, By St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Sunday school of Oakland, that in the death of Agnes Dean we recognize the visitation of Proyidence, to which we bow with a submissive spirit, feeling that our loss in her eternal gain, and believing that she has joined that Heavenly Sunday school above, where a countless throng surround the throne singing songs of praise and joy forevermore.

Resolved, That by this visitation we are again forcibly reminded of the certainly of death and the uncertainty of time thereof, that it comes to all, the old and young alike, "in such an hour as we think not," and that all should hasten to make that spiritual preparation necessary to live the life of the righteous, and in the end meet with the approbation of the great Father of the Universe who is our Father and our God; and be it further

Resoived, That it is the sense of this Sunday school, and more especially of the class of which she was a member, that her life, her acts of kindness, her gentle submissive spirit, was of untold value in moulding, shaping, and developing character among her associates and companions, and

Resolved, That we commend her friends to the care and love of God, "who doeth all things well, and who will supply grace and help sufficient for all life's burders, looking forward to a final reunion of both class and Sunday school beyond this veil of tears; that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the school and furnished the county papers for publication.

MISS TEKLA JOHNSON,
MRS. E. H. SINCELL,
JOSEPH E. HARNED,
Committee.

J. W. WHITE. Sec'y.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Jesus Anointed at Bethany—John 12, 1-11.

Call for Your Letters.

Mr. John Baker, Miss Allison Coulter, Mr. J. H. Grower, Mrs. Ellen Kisner, W. T. Rider, Pearl Wilson.

OAKLAND HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT.

First Class Since Establishment of School Graduated Thursday.

EXERCISES AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The Graduating Class Was Composed of Misses Mabel Florence Porter, Ethel May Wilt and Nelle Workman—Excellent Program.

Thursday evening, April 2nd, marked an occasion in the history of the schools of Oakland and indeed of Garrett county, that will not soon be forgotten, and that will doubtless make itself felt in future years.

Six years ago the Oakland High School was established, it being the first in the county and a course of study prepared by the Maryland State School Board was adopted.

The course of study is designed to cover a period of four years of nine or ten months' school work. Owing to the fact that many of the Oakland youths drop out of school just about the time they are prepared to enter the High School this was the first class in Garrett county to complete the course. The class consisted of three young ladies, namely: Miss Mabel Florence Porter, Miss Ethel May Wilt, and Miss Nelle Workman, who with a number of other young people began the High School course four years ago and while we have had but about seven months school each year they have in the twenty-eight months completed a course of study that elsewhere is seldom completed in less than thirty-six month's work.

It is understood that while the final examination was quite a rigid one they made very high averages, and they deserve to be congratulated for their attainments.

The graduating exercises was held in Peoples Opera House on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The platform was tastily decorated with the class colors—garnet and gold—while back of the platform a handsome American flag was displayed as was also the class motto "Esse Quam Videri"—"To be rather than to seem."

Tables and the piano were litterly banked with carnations and roses which had been furnished by the many friends of the young ladies so that the platform presented a very attractive appearance.

Seated upon the platform were all the teachers of the Oakland Schools, the members of the County School Board, the Trustees of the Oakland Schools, Prof. E. A. Browning, county superintendent, the graduating class, Dr. E. D. Murdaugh, principal of the State Normal School of Frostburg, Md., Rev. E. Manges and others who participated in the exercises of the evening.

The opera house was well filled with possibly the most cultured audience that it ever accommodated. Promptly at 8 o'clock the curtain was lifted and Prof. Turner, who had charge of the excellently prepared program, announced the first number thereon, and the program as arranged was rendered without a single break or hindrance, and at 9.30 the first commencement in Oakland was over.

The musical numbers, all rendered by Oakland people, were of such character as to please the most artistic and critical hearers and everyone felt proud of the splendid musical talent of our mountain city.

The essays delivered by the young ladies of the class were of a very high order and were faultlessly rendered, showing that the honors being bestowed upon them were worthily given.

Superintendent Browning in a brief but well arranged address, presented the diplomas and in his remarks expressed the hope that from this time forth this should become an annual occasion.

Dr. Murdaugh's address, which was the principle address of the evening, was beautiful, strong and inspiring, and showed that he is an educator of which the state of Maryland may well feel proud.

We can not but believe that this occasion will stimulate the educational interests in our town and county and that in years to come greater things may be accomplished.

We have now in the four classes in the High School here about 79 pupils, and if even a large per centum of these can be induced to complete the course it will not be many years until educational conditions will vastly improvd in Garrett county.

There is universal regret expressed on every hand that Prof. Morris K. Turner, who for the past three years has been at the head of our schools, has resigned, that he might further pursue his studies in Harvard University. He with Prof. L. Bassett, vice principal, who has also done faithful work the past year, left Oakland Friday for their respective homes.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent,
52-2tis Oakland, Md.

DIXON & KELSO

SALE OF SHOES

BEGINNING SATURDAY, APRIL 11.

Every pair of Shoes in stock will be reduced.

We have the largest and best line of Shoes in town.

If we can't please you it is useless to go elsewhere.

Our Ladies' Oxfords are better than ever, and with each pair of AMERICAN LADY OXFORDS we will give you a pair of good Hose.

Don't forget we have the

CROSSETT SHOE

for Men—the best Shoe on the market for the money today.

Also a complete line of Misses and Children's Oxfords and Shoes

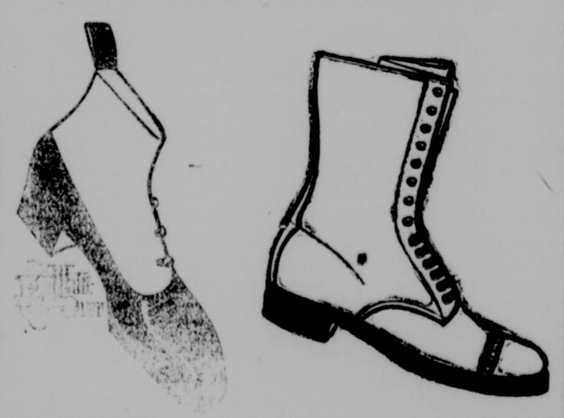
P. S. Wanted 1000 Bushels Potatoes and 25 Country Cured Hams.

Yours to Please,

DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

WEAR THE BEST
It Costs No More.



WHEN Buying Shoes it pays to get the best, not necessarily the highest in price. bnt Shoes made of good solid leather by people who know how. This is the kind I sell. Come and see

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.

NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

THE FRENCH ROAD SYSTEM

Administration and Construction of World's Best Highways.

RECORD OF ALL WORK KEPT

Building of Roads Supervised by the Government as Carefully as a Railroad Constructs Tracks — Marked Attention Paid to Drainage.

Good roads are among the best assets of any community, and the American state which first secures them in a systematic way will derive benefits which it will never fully appreciate.

The Los Angeles highway commission recently addressed inquiries to American Consul Skinner at Marseilles, asking him about the laws and engineering methods in France. Consul Skinner investigated and has published a most interesting explanation of the subject, from which the following extracts are made:

France has the finest roads in the world, both in physical form and relation to the national geography. The French nation has spent more than $400,000,000 on them to more than $200,000,000 spent by the local departments.

Down at the bottom of the French road system is the humble cantonniere or road foreman, who has charge of one to three miles of road. He is to the road what the section boss is to a railroad's organization. Up at the top is the School of Roads and Bridges, a great technical college in which engineering construction and every detail of road building is taught. Between these two extremes the government controls, manages, regulates everything. A record is kept of every bit of road in the country, what it cost, who built it and how, the expenses for maintenance and rebuilding—everything in its history is carefully recorded. France's highway system is card indexed like the list of patrons of a mail order house.

France does not have the best roads because it has special skill in making them. An English engineer designed the scheme. No more so because it has especially large or unusually excellent supplies of materials. The same materials can be found all over the United States. French roads are perfect because the road laws are near perfection, because the road business is a profession and not a job and because the men who make themselves proficient are certain of special recognition.

But about the physical construction of a French road. To begin with. French experience proves that deep, solid foundations and fine surfaces are not so imporaant as something else commonly over looked—drainage. It is a primary and ironclad principle of French roadmaking that the roadway must receive no more than its own natural infall. Everything else must give way to this.

A standard French national road is forty.six feet wide. In the middle is the road proper, twenty feet wide. Outside this, thirteen feet wide on either side, are driftways, sloping away from the surfaced slightly. These are used as footpaths and must be hard and heavy enough to hold in place the surfacing material of the road proper. Finally outside all this must be a ditch on each side if the conformation of the ground makes this necessary for drainage.

They begin by digging out a "box" in the earth the width of the roadway proper, twenty feet. This is carefully convexed at the bottom, so that the hard surfacing material shall be of the same thickness throughout and give a surface of exactly the right curvature. This curvature is from one-fiftieth to one-fortieth of the width. When the "box" has been carefully prepared the bottom and sides are vigorously "tamped" to insure that they will be hard enough to hold the solid materials firmly. Then it is ready for the crushed stone, etc., to be put in.

Every bit of crushed stone must pass through a two and one-third inch screen. Eight inches of this crushed material is deposited in the box, and then rolled with a six ton roller. While the rolling is going on large amounts of water are constantly sprinkled on the surface. At the same time a mixture of sandy and argillaceous materials equal in volume to 10 per cent of the crushed stone used is sprinkled slowly on the surface along with the water and very evenly, and the whole is rolled down until the tire of a loaded wagon will make no track. Then the road is finished save for the requirement that it must season for fifteen days before being opened to traffic. This is a description of a crushed stone surface. Where other materials must be used they ere provided for in the French scheme—burned clay, gravel, etc. There is a plan for every material and every region.

When the road is built the cantonniere tramps up and down it and keeps it in repairs, fills ruts with broken stone, clears the ditches, etc. Above the cantonniere is a foreman in charge of a larger section, above him an engineering superintendent, and so on up to the inspector general of highways and bridges, who is head of the whole system for the country. Every man in the list receives specific orders from his next superior and is ranked according to his execution of them.

They have no broad tire laws in France, but that happens because the people use broad tires by instinct. They have sense enough to know that good wide tires make the roads better instead of worse. Nobody else except the French seems to have learned this.

WOMEN'S HATS MORE COSTLY.

"Campaign," a Wonderful Affair, Is to be All the Rage and Expensive.

It will be larger. It will be spreading, sweeping, with enormous rolling brim, ornamented with fluffy laces and a cockade entwining the national colors. It is known as "Mother's Jay," but in commercial parlance is called the "Campaign" hat. This is the latest creation of the milliners who are members of the National Association, in session in Chicago. Pearl gray and blue are to be fashionable shades. The hat is to be worn on the back of the head, with a lace "lid" covering the hair beneath.

Presidential campaigns come high so do the hats, and it is to be presumed that it is from this fact they derive the name. They will cost from $40 to $100.

A symposium of the views of the millliners as to 1908 styles—leaving out of consideration the "Campaign" hats—show the following forecasts.

Hats are to be chiefly trimmed with flowers, preferably roses.

Hats are to be more expensive than last year.

Hats with feathers are to be worn only on dress occasions.

Hats to be fashionable must be in gobelin blue, pale yellow, and a shade of green or flame red.

The "Merry Widow" sailor with wide brim, is to be much worn.

Hats, it is declared, will range in prices from $10 to $150, with the average hat at about $25.

The psychology of bonnets is the chief subject of consideration at the convention, according to Mme. Hunt, president of the association. In making the announcement President Hunt said:

"There certainly is a psychology of hats, entirely aside from the fact that the souls of the majority of woman are in their hats. If every woman would only look in the glass when trying on hats, and instead of giving her undivided attention to the hat would study the outlines of her face as seen under the hat, she would then look with scientific approval upon the hat. So few women do that, you know. Fit the hat or bonnet to the face and you will always look up to date and be a fashion plate, not only in one's own fancy but in the public's eye as well."

PLEADS FOR THE INDIANS.

Woman Describes Their Wrongs and Makes Charges Against Secretary Garfield.

SENATOR CARTER IS BROUGHT IN Charge Indirectly Made That He Pastures 125,000 Sheep on Reservation and Pays For But 35,000—Indians Subject to Brutality and Injustice.

Washington, April 7.—Mrs. Helen Pierce Grey, the newspaper writer, arrested last summer because of protests of Crow Indians against the manner in which the government agents managed the Crow reservation in Montana, resumed her statement before the senate committee on Indian affairs. She charged that to keep from starving the Indians were compelled to eat the meat of diseased cattle and sheep; that they were frequently thrown into jail without cause and kept at the mercy of the agents; that the children of the reservation school were mistreated. She stated postively that all of these things must have been done with the knowledge of some of the officials at Washington.

That some of the members of the committee were impressed by the charges was evident from the cross-examination. It is not unlikely that an investigation will be ordered.

Mrs. Grey read from a prepared statement. It developed that she had made this at the suggestion of Senator Owen and that she had conferred with Senator Teller concerning the case.

During her testimony Secretary Garfield, who is involved in her sweeping charges, was present. Mrs. Grey was describing her experiences and in telling of the six times she was arrested and of the attempt on the part of Indian Agent Reynolds to trump up a charge of insanity against her said that Mr. Garfield when in Billings, Mont., told the police that she was a "dangerous blackmailer and adventuress." "That statement is without any foundation whatever," declared Mr. Garfield.

Mrs. Grey responded that the chief of police would testify to the contrary. Mrs. Grey said that Mr. Garfield was in Billings near the Crow reservation while many of the indignities against her had been committed and could not have been ignorant of what was going on. She said that Indians were constantly mistreated and that when they were thrown into jail that act constituted the whole legal procedure; that no charges were brought and the time of incarceration depended upon the will of the Indian agent. In her own case, she declared that charges were brought against her on the sixth arrest.

Previous to that proceeding she was put in jail over night and that ended the matter. On one occasion she said that Agent Reynolds had threatened to incarcerate her with an Indian, but that the feeling was such that he had not dared to carry out his purpose.

Mrs. Grey said it was current report that Senator Carter was part owner of Charlie Bear's sheep. She had testified previously that Bear, through influence with the agent, had pastured about 125,000 sheep on the reservation while paying for 35,000 head.

"Why do you not investigate this matter before bringing such charges against Senator Carter?" asked Senator Dixon.

"How far would you have me go?" demanded Mrs. Grey. "I was arrested six times for making investigations."

Mrs. Grey said that while Mr. Calby, former secretary to Mr. Garfield, was investigating the conditions on the reservation he had been told at one of the Indian councils at Gordon that the Indians knew they were eating lump-jaw cattle and sheep that had died of disease, but that it was "either eat that or starve."

Mrs. Grey broke down in reciting the alleged wrongs perpetrated upon the Indians and, with a voice trembling with emotion, she almost sobbed:

"Sheep that die by disease is what the Indians get. The white man gets their lands and the live sheep."

Mrs. Grey said that the Indians were helpless; that if they protested they were thrown into jail. She said she could "not see how senators can have this thing put up to them and pass it by." She declared that protests to the Indian officers had been made without number and that invariably they had resulted in bringing punishment upon the Indians, owing to the fact that complaints were always sent back to the agent, at whose mercy the Indians were.

Mrs. Grey told of one instance in which she said she was decoyed to a hotel, where plans had been made to arrest her, but that she saw the purpose and there wrote a telegram to President Roosevelt stating that she was to be arrested and asked Agent Reynolds to send it. It developed that the telegram was sent.

"Did you not at the same time send telegrams to a number of newspapers asking them if they did not want sensational articles about your arrest?" Asked Senator Dixon.

"How did you know about those telegrams?" demanded Mrs. Grey.

"I am not on the stand," replied the senator.

"Well," said Mrs. Grey, "those telegrams were stolen from my handbag when I was arrested. That is one of the things I want investigated. Now, I want to know what you know about it?"

Senator Dixon's colleagues laughed heartily over the turning of the tables and he said that it was stated in the press that such message had been sent by Mrs. Grey. "They were not sent," said the witness, "and were not intended to be sent. They were written as bluffs and intended to fall into other hands in order to prevent my arrest."

A statement was made by M. K. Sniffen, secretary of the Indian Rights association, in corroboration to a large extent of Mrs. Grey's testimony.

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted — where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

ADVERTISE THE TOWN.

Publicity Man Suggests Method of Booming a Place.

NEWSPAPER SPACE IS BEST.

Standing Advertisement Telling The Local History, Development and Opportunities Will Be Mailed to Many Outsiders Who Want to Know.

How can a town advertise itself to the outside world to get the best results for the least expenditure?

This question was asked recently of a man who had many years' experience in promoting publicity for expositions, theatrical companies, cities and summer resorts. He replied without hesitation:

"Carry a half page or a page or two pages of well written and illustrated boom matter in the local newspapers. Run it regularly, just as if it were a part of the necessary makeup of the paper, like the date line. You will find that that sort of advertising for a town is about the best that can be devised. It brings the best results for the smallest expenditure of funds."

This same authority went on to say that the founder of one of the big eastern summer resorts used to run a standing advertisement of the town in each of the local papers, usually a full page. This advertising was continued for years until it became almost a joke locally, many of the residents being able to quote whole paragraphs from the descriptive matter without referring to the paper. But whenever a copy of any paper published in the town was wrapped up and mailed away by a subscriber or a visitor it carried with it as a matter of course that town advertisement. It did not matter whether or not the person mailing the paper intended to advertise the resort. The ad. went along whether or no."

"What was told in this ad?" the publicity man was asked.

"The history of the resort, when and how it came to be established, the price of lots when the town site was first put on the market, the value of property at the time of advertising, the kind of people who preferred that resort to all others, why they preferred it, the cost and quality of houses in the town and the advantages of the place from A to Izzard. The result was that thousands of new visitors and summer settlers were attracted to the place by seeing a copy of one of the local papers which told the story of the resort in entertaining style."

Of course every town cannot be advertised to exactly the extent of the one mentioned, that place being a resort visited by many strangers who are inclined to send away a marked copy of a local newspaper containing a personal item about their arrival or their attendance at some social function. But the average town which is ambitious to get above the average can accomplish much by exploiting itself through the columns of its local press. Every town has an interesting history if only somebody who knows will get under the surface of things and unearth the facts. Every town has some peculiar advantages, some attractions, not to be found elsewhere. The business of the exploiter is to set forth these attractions as invitingly as possible. Of course no town is going to boom itself. It must be boomed by some of its people. Some sort of organization is necessary to raise funds and map out the plan of campaign. The board of trade or business men's organization can attend to this.

Suppose that a local business man or professional man or any plain citizen received from some quarter a request for information concerning the town. The citizen may be too busy to write out the desired information in full, but if he has a copy of the town paper on his desk containing just the data called for he is more than likely to wrap it up and mail it to the inquirer, "Marked Copy."

In every town there are many citizens who have paid no particular attention to matters of local history. A well written article running from day to day or from week to week in the paper the people read will serve to get them interested in the town in which they live and will be the means adding them to the booming element. Enthusiasm is said to be contagious, and by frequent contact with some of the enthusiasm poured out in printer's ink by one who knows his subject and believes in it the contagion is sure to be caught and passed along.

What advantages has the town over its neighboring towns? What interesting facts in its history or development are there which will make interesting reading and cause outsiders to want to know more about the place? What important improvements have been made lately or may be made in the near future? What opportunities are there for settlement, investment, the opening of new lines of business? All these things combined would make an interesting article, and if run as a standing advertisement it would begin to show results in a short time.

As eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, so is keeping everlastingly at it the price of success in booming a town.

Novel Use For Wooden Eggs.

One of the numerous things that the manufacturers of turned wood goods make is the darning egg, for use as an aid in darning stockings.

These eggs are commonly provided each with a handle of the same kind of wood which screws into one end. A while ago there was received at the New York office of a turned goods manufacturing concern an order for a couple of cases, some thousands in number, of darning eggs to be supplied without handles and of a size somewhat smaller than the standard, and then for some reason the special lot of eggs was left on the manufacturer's hands. But they were not wasted.

In the course of time there came in a hatpin manufacturer that wanted to leave an order for a few thousand hatpin knobs to be made in specified shape and dimensions. Besides making regularly a great variety of things the turned goods makers also turn wood to any shape that may be required to order.

And then the salesman recalled that little lot of undersized handleless darning eggs, which proved to be exactly what the hatpin man wanted and he took the lot. And so finally they came to be made not as darning eggs with fancy handles, but as the knobs of hatpins.

Unruly Tresses.

Sometimes the simplest little aids will make a marked difference in a woman's appearance. For instance, one whose hair is unmanageable will find that by applying a mixture of one teaspoonful of glycerine to five times as much water to loose ends of tresses these short strands stay neatly in place says the New York Evening Telegram. In putting on the mixture it shold be well shaken and then applied to the hair with a soft brush just before the dressing.

The coiffure is then done up in the usual way, and theh air should lie in place without having a sticky or oily look.

When short hairs are obstinate the best method of training is to put them on curlers. Afterward they should be combed out until soft and fluffy.

If soft curlers are used they may be scented with perfume, so that they will impart to the hair a delicate fragrance after a contact of hours.

There may be a few drops of any perfume put into the glycerine and water solution, but the greatest care should be taken not to have the effect strong.

WANTED—A good team suitable for farm work. Apply to Wm. M. Kelley, Coketon, W. Va.

Seeds of Jealousy.

By COLIN S. COLLINS.

Copyrighted, 1908, by E. C. Purcells.

Jimmie Blatchford sprang to his feet to greet Marcia as she entered, but the gravity of the girl's face arrested the greeting that hung upon his lips, and instead he gasped.

"What's the matter?" he cried when he had found his voice. "Is it anything serious—some of the family ill?"

"There is no illness in the family," said Marcia coldly.

"Then why this funereal countenance?" demanded Blatchford. "Here I am, just back from the west, and you don't even say 'How d'ye do?' Didn't you get my letters every day, or what is the matter?"

"I was induced to visit a motion picture performance yesterday," began Marcia. "I believe that they are called 'nickel theaters.'"

"I've heard the phonographs outside," murmured Jimmie. "If the pictures are as bad as the music your look of woe is explained. How did you come to patronize such a place?"

"It was curiosity," explained Marcia. "I happened to meet Belle Brewster and George Taylor and Henry Towne. Belle is perfectly crazy over the absurd motion pictures, and they were on their way to one of those places. I foolishly let myself be persuaded to go with them. They had a picture of you on the screen."

"That is flattering!" cried Jimmie mockingly. "I find you looking as if the end of the world was near, and you explain that you saw me in the motion pictures, which accounts for your state of depression."

"It was taken at the shore last summer," said Marcia meaningly.

"I admit that I am not a dream of beauty in a bathing suit," said Jimmie, with a smile, "but I did not know that I was almost fatal to the beholder."

"You were entirely dressed," interrupted Marcia. "You had on that gray suit I liked so much and the tie I gave you for Easter, the one you said you never would wear except when you were with me."

"YOU'D BETTER GET THE LICENSE ANYWAY."

"And I never did," said Jimmie promptly. "Only the thought of being with you would tempt me to wear that circus necktie. What else did I have?"

"A girl," said Marcia explosively—"a girl who looked like an actress. You had your arm about her waist, and you were kissing her, and the people walking along the beach stopped and laughed at you, and suddenly you saw them and got up and ran away."

"And here's where I get the engagement ring and my letters back, and you tell me that I have destroyed your faith in the honor of men just because some motion picture actor happens to look like me."

"It was you," insisted Marcia. "There can be no possibility of a mistake."

"I'm from Missouri," declared Jimmie. "Would you mind taking me to the place where I can be confronted with the evidence of my perfidy?"

"Since you will not admit your guilt," said Marcia coldly, "I do not see how you can deny the picture when you must recall the circumstances."

"Please," said Jimmie pleadingly, and Marcia nodded an assent. The Nickelodeon was but a few blocks away, and presently they had paid an admission and had passed into the darkened hall.

For half an hour they sat there watching the flickering pictures thrown against the screen of whitewashed wall; then Marcia turned to Jimmie.

"We must have seen all the pictures," she said, with embarrassment. "This seems to be the place I was in yesterday, but I recognize none of these pictures. I hope you do not think I"—

"I think you are unfamiliar with picture theaters," said Jimmie, with a laugh. "Wait here a moment."

He slipped away in the darkness, and Marcia closed her tired eyes to shut out the tiresome flicker.

She felt more miserable than ever. Jimmie's attitude had somewhat shaken her confidence in the identification, and now she had even failed to prove her case with him . . . a hand rested on her arm, and she opened her eyes.

"Slip out," said Jimmie. "I have solved the mystery in part. The same people come here every day, so they change the pictures each morning. The proprietor says there's a regular circuit, and he told me where I can find our scandalous film."

He hailed a street car, and a ten minute ride brought them to another place almost exactly like the first. One of the first things to greet their eyes was a huge sign reading, "By the Sad Sea Waves—Very Comic."

"I'm glad some one sees humor in the situation," said Jimmie grimly as he laid a ten cent piece on the cashier's shelf and led Marcia through the door. They had not long to wait, and Jimmie gasped as Marcia convulsively pressed his arm. A girl and a man were sitting on the sand in the shade of a huge umbrella. Oblivious of a gathering crowd, the two billed and cooed until a well directed pebble hit the sunshade and attracted their attention to the audience in the rear.

The man was so exactly like himself that Jimmie stared in fascination. Then he sought the box office, where two men were counting money.

"I want to make some inquiry about that film just shown," said Jimmie as he attracted the attention of one of the men.

"I've nothing to do with the pictures," was the surly response. The other man turned.

"I'm the man who makes them. Want to hire the service?" he asked eagerly. "We get all the big French stuff before any one else. We're the most up to date, and we get the crowd every time."

"I am merely curious about the picture 'By the Sad Sea Waves,'" explained Jimmie. The man grinned.

"Friend of yours?" he asked. "Great sell, wasn't it? It was made to order for a chap. He wanted to spring it at a bachelor dinner to the other fellow. He got us a suit of the chap's clothes, even to shirt and shoes. The picture stood him $200, but he said it was worth it. He let us use it for exhibition too."

"You don't happen to know the man's name, do you?" coaxed Jimmie.

"Sure," was the prompt response. "It was something like a city. It wasn't Villa; no, it was Towne. That's it. He's a broker chap. What? I say, you're the chap they took off! Towne said there wasn't no come-back. It was all a joke."

"It is a joke—on Towne," said Jimmie steadily. "You need apprehend no trouble in the matter. I thank you for your courtesy."

He turned to find Marcia at his elbow.

"Take me out of here, Jimmie," she said softly. "I was an idiot to fall so easily into Henry Towne's trap. He wanted to cut you out. That was his object."

"And he counted upon your freezing into icy silence and offering no explanation," said Jimmie understandingly. "Now, let's get home. I've seen enough pictures for one evening, and I guess you have. Let's walk. It is not very far. I want a chance to cool off."

"What are you going to do about it?" asked the girl curiously as they sought a more quiet thoroughfare.

"Three things," explained Jimmie. "I'm going to fire my man for letting Towne have my clothes; I am going to call on Towne—never mind that—and I'm going to get a license tomorrow and marry you before they can spring any more photographic seeds of jealousy on us."

"I think," said Marcia softly, "that in future the seeds will fall on barren ground, Jimmie, but—you'd better get the license anyway."

Women of Ancient Egypt.

Women always stood on a level with men in ancient Egypt, unlike the custom of other eastern countries. They were allowed to rule as queens as early as the second dynasty. Their palaces were of brick adorned with gorgeously painted walls, rich carpets, rugs of fur, ivory and ebony chairs and couches. Till the end of the eighteenth century there was little change in feminine attire, which consisted of a fine linen garment, extending from shoulder to ankle, supported by straps over the shoulders. Colored robes were not frequently worn. Gay plumage was left to the men. Women contented themselves with blackening their eyebrows, letting their hair down and decking themselves with innumerable rings, chains and bracelets.

Failed to Relieve.

On the mighty deep.

The surface of the sea rose and fell with sickening monotony. The great ocean liner rolled and pitched.

The young bride covered her pallid countenance with her hands.

"Harry," she faltered, "do you still love me?"

"My darling, more than ever!" vowed her compassionate spouse.

An eloquent silence.

The surface of the sea rose and fell with sickening monotony. The great ocean liner rolled and pitched.

"Harry," she gasped, turning aside her pale and ghastly face, "Harry, I thought that would make me feel better, but it doesn't!"—London Answers.

Divers Diseases.

"What," inquired the Sunday school teacher of her youthful pupils—"what are divers diseases?"

Bashful or ignorant, the scholars clung tenaciously to the doctrine that little boys should be seen and not heard.

"Come," pursued the teacher, "can't any of you tell me?"

Then Johnnie's arm shot up.

"Well?" asked the teacher.

"Please, miss," answered Johnnie, "water on the brain."

Men of Small Means Lending Money to Millionaires.

By ANDREW MILLS, President of the Dry Dock Savings Bank, New York City.

IN the report of the New York state bank superintendent on Jan. 1, 135 savings banks showed deposits of $1,362,000,000, belonging to 2,005,809 depositors, AN AVERAGE OF ABOUT $500 TO EACH. The guarantee fund amounted to more than $102,000,000, making the total resources more than $1,464,000,000.

Such figures are hard of comprehension and easily forgotten. I will put it in another way. The secretary of the treasury in his recent report stated the bonded debt of the United States to be $895,000,000 and noninterest bearing debt $485,000,000, or a total of $1,380,000,000. The wage earners of the state of New York HAVE MONEY ENOUGH IN THE SAVINGS BANKS TO PAY THE ENTIRE DEBT OF THE NATION and have $84,000,000 left.

* * *

What is done with this VAST ACCUMULATION OF SMALL SAVINGS? Six hundred and eighty-eight million dollars are invested in first mortgages on real estate. Thousands of these loans have been made to depositors to enable them to purchase or build HOMES. Many have been made to business men, thus supplying the means to erect warehouses, office buildings, apartment houses and tenements and in so doing not only helping to increase the taxable value of real estate, but GIVING EMPLOYMENT to the very people who through the savings banks have lent the money that made the improvement possible.

SOME LOANS, MORE THAN YOU WOULD THINK, HAVE BEEN MADE ON DWELLINGS IN THE MOST EXCLUSIVE DISTRICTS OF OUR CITY. IT SOUNDS STRANGE TO SAY THAT THE TENEMENT HOUSE DWELLER OF THE EAST SIDE HAS THROUGH THE SAVINGS BANKS LENT MONEY TO A MILLIONAIRE AND TAKEN HIS HOUSE FOR SECURITY, BUT SUCH IS THE LITERAL FACT.

Material Prosperity Is Not Enough.

By President ROOSEVELT.

IT is eminently right that we Americans should be proud of our MATERIAL prosperity. It is eminently right that we should pride ourselves upon a widely diffused and exceedingly practical system of education. I believe in both, but NEITHER WILL AVAIL if something else is not added to the nation.

THE MATERIAL PROSPERITY IS ESSENTIAL AS A FOUNDATION, BUT IT IS ONLY A FOUNDATION, AND UPON IT MUST BE BUILT THE SUPERSTRUCTURE OF THE HIGHER MORAL AND SPIRITUAL LIFE, FOR OTHERWISE, IN ITSELF, THE MATERIAL PROSPERITY WILL AMOUNT TO BUT LITTLE.

I would tell every young man that it is his first duty TO PULL HIS OWN WEIGHT; to take care of himself and take care of those dependent upon him. He cannot do anything for others until he has first made it certain that he will not be a BURDEN upon others. I want to see a man able to earn his own livelihood. I want to see the woman able to do her part as housewife and mother. But all my plea is that the man SHALL NOT BE CONTENT WITH MERELY THAT; that the man shall realize that after a certain point has been reached the increment of his fortune, the increment of his material well being, amounts to but very little compared to the result of effort spent in OTHER directions.

Close Divorce Doors to Couples With Children.

By Professor ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL, Inventor of the Telephone.

THROW WIDE THE GATES OF MARRIAGE, AND WHERE CHILDREN ARE PRODUCED CLOSE TIGHT THE DOORS OF DIVORCE. EVERY CHILD IS ENTITLED BY NATURE TO A FATHER AND A MOTHER, AND NO PEOPLE SHOULD PRODUCE CHILDREN WHO ARE NOT PREPARED TO GIVE THEM PARENTAL CARE FOR LIFE.

Knowledge is what is wanted, and the dissemination of that knowledge among the people. If it should be clearly shown that CERTAIN CLASSES OF MARRIAGES ARE HURTFUL TO THE OFFSPRING AND OTHERS BENEFICIAL, the mere dissemination of that knowledge would of itself tend to promote desirable and prevent undesirable unions of the sexes.

The grand spectacle is presented to our eyes of a NEW PEOPLE being gradually evolved in the United States by the mingling together of the different races of the world in varying proportions. It is of the greatest consequence to us that the final result should be the evolution of a HIGHER AND NOBLER TYPE OF MAN IN AMERICA and not deterioration of the nation.

The Attacks on Trusts ..... Are Slanders.

By Chancellor JAMES R. DAY of Syracuse University, the "Defender of the Trusts."

THE attacks upon men and corporations are in the terms in which the SLANDERER talks. They are NOT JUDICIAL, SPECIFIC AND PARTICULAR. They are sweeping, reckless, indiscriminate and on the face of them for the most part false.

THE WHOLE THING IS A GIGANTIC POLITICAL GAME IN WHICH THE PEOPLE ARE BEING DECEIVED FOR AWHILE.

There is just truth enough in some of the assertions, there is just PREJUDICE enough in a great class of the people, there is just moral pretense enough in all of the ranting, TO MAKE IT A WINNING GAME FOR THE TIME, but as sure as God is true and right A DAY OF JUDGMENT IS COMING, and you need not envy the scandal mongers who in that day will take their places

BOWSER NOT HIMSELF

The Old Philosopher Has No Complaints to Make.

SATISFIED WITH HIS FOOD.

Also With Other Things—Mrs. Bowser Misses "Real Thing"—None of the Usual Schemes Interest Him. Not Even a Frog Farm.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

Mrs. Bowser noticed a marked change in Mr. Bowser as he got up Monday morning. He found his several articles of wearing apparel without trouble. He did not growl about his collar nor swear about his necktie. If there were holes in his socks, he did not refer to them. She lingered a bit to see if he would charge her with having got up in the night and hidden his cuffs under the bed, but he found them without trouble.

Not a word of fault was found with the breakfast. He didn't declare the bacon not fit for a dog, and he didn't refer to the coffee as slops. During the meal the cook broke a dish out in the kitchen, but he didn't rush out there and want to know if she intended to wreck the place. It was a quiet, harmonious meal, and Mrs. Bowser kept wondering what was going to happen.

WANTED TO INTEREST HIM IN A FROG FARM.

When Mr. Bowser came home Monday evening he had no complaint of finding the gate open or the doormat turned end for end. He ate heartily of the dinner and found it good.

Later on a gentleman called and asked him if he was interested in ballooning and wanted to stop for an hour and sell him a share in the latest thing in airships, but he met with such chilling indifference that he soon took his departure.

Then came a message from the drug store that there was a man there who wanted to interest him in a frog farm, but Mr. Bowser replied that he was busy, and he sat down to his paper and cigar.

Mrs. Bowser called his attention to the fact that it was the regular night for the weekly meeting of the Gay Old Boys' club and asked if he wasn't going, and he replied that he might not attend again this winter.

The evening glided away so peacefully that the cat sneaked out to find some excitement and raise a row in the back yard, and Mrs. Bowser tried in vain to get interested in a book. Once she asked Mr. Bowser why he didn't try to invent an ice machine, but he simply shook his head.

Tuesday was almost a counterpart of Monday, except there were more callers in the evening. A man who had a model of a five wheeled wagon called and wanted to exhibit it, but Mr. Bowser courteously passed him on.

Another man, with a patent beehive, got inside the door and had just explained that with his hive the bees would make 200 per cent more honey, when he was courteously told to call again.

Then two politicians called to see if Mr. Bowser would accept a nomination for mayor, and they were astounded at his promptness in declining; also at not being invited into the library to have a drink and a smoke.

"The beehive may be a good thing," observed Mrs. Bowser when Mr. Bowser was seated again.

Reads United States History.

"More likely to be a swindle," was the reply, and then he read a history of the United States for an hour and went to bed.

Same attitude when he arose on Wednesday. After he had left the house for the office the cook washed up her dishes and then came upstairs to say:

"Are you going to send for the doctor and ask him what he thinks, ma'am?"

"There is nothing to think about except your work."

"But, ma'am, when all of a sudden a man begins to get so awful good and quiet"—

"Bridget, this is your busy day, and we have no time to talk."

That evening a man with a wheelbarrow that did all the loading and unloading and run itself met Mr. Bowser at the gate and sought to financially interest him, but he was not heeded for more than a minute.

Later on a man with a patent cork for cider barrels rang the bell. During the three minutes he was listened to he explained that his cork enabled any one to drink out of the barrel without air getting to its contents, and then his own air was shut off, and he found himself out in the cold world.

No scolding about the coal.

No cussing about the gas bill.

No declaring that the butcher was a highway robber.

Mr. Bowser then lifted the cat up on his lap and called her pet names.

Just before going to bed Mrs. Bowser asked him why he didn't sell the house and buy a cranberry marsh, but he carelessly replied that things were good enough, and he didn't care to upset them.

Thursday dawned on an even more peaceful attitude if anything. During the night Mrs. Bowser got up and placed an old frayed collar and a pair of holey socks where Mr. Bowser must get hold of them, and she counted on the monotony being broken. It wasn't, however. He put on both collar and socks and never said a word. The cook had her little scheme about the coffee, but the weak stuff was swallowed without protest.

Thursday evening brought the same dreary harmony. Mr. Bowser hadn't invested in any hair dyes during the day and hadn't had any rows with passengers on the street car coming home. He offered to go to the theater or make a call on a neighbor. Mrs. Bowser herself didn't care about it.

During the evening a man called with a scheme to make hair grow on the heads of baldheaded men by using goats' fat. A week before that Mr. Bowser would have taken him into the library and talked for two hours and had all the goats in America scared half to death, but now he curtly declined to discuss the project for two minutes.

There was also a man who had been sent to the house by the family butcher. He had invented a way of making raspberry jam out of cows' tails and was prepared to show that the jam sales would reach $1,000,000 a year, half of which would be clear profit, but Mr. Bowser observed that it was a cold night and would be colder before morning and worked him outdoors.

Gave Mrs. B. a Book.

At bedtime the cook gave Mrs. Bowser an appealing look and wanted to tell how she once had a brother who was taken just the same way, but she was hustled off to her room and given no show.

Friday morning—all serene.

Friday noon Mrs. Bowser telephoned over to the office, and the answer came back, "Never felt better in my life."

So quiet and harmonious was Friday evening that pedestrians stopped in front of the house and wondered what had happened.

Mrs. Bowser was not charged with selling the coal out of the cellar.

She was not charged with taking the ax and chopping off the water pipes.

Nothing was said about going to the poorhouse.

Not a word about alimony or divorce.

A man called with a scheme to heat Lake Erie to a boiling point and then use the water to melt the snow in three states, but Mr. Bowser refused to go into it.

There was a second one with a scheme to make the hens of the country lay four eggs every day in the year, including holidays, but he was dismissed with a wave of the hand.

Saturday morning—serene still.

Saturday evening when he came home there was a look of sorrowful dignity on Mr. Bowser's face, though he asserted that he was feeling well.

Mrs. Bowser proposed that he buy a chicken farm, that he go into strawberries, that he buy fire escapes by the dozen, that he go into any wildcat scheme, but he sat and smiled and shook his head. He was Bowser no more. It was with a great sense of relief that she finally heard him say that he had got to go over to the drug store, and she flew to help him on with his overcoat. Then she wished that something would happen to him before he got back, and when the tearful Bridget came up from the kitchen to console her both wept in unison and cried in chorus:

"Oh, what has become of the real thing?" M. QUAD.

His Contrary Way.

Caller—I presume you take your quinine in capsules.

Old Hunks—No. Who knows what's in the composition of those capsules? There's no pure food law observed in making 'em so far as I know. I take my quinine straight and be hanged to it!—Chicago Tribune.

Why She Cried.

"Wot's yer sister crying for, Jimmie?"

"Aw, she read in some beauty column dat weepin' made de eyes soft and beautiful."—New York World.

A Modern Martyr.

A gleam of china and white,
Some silver fair to see,
A dainty kettle shining bright,
When Mabel makes the tea.

She poses in a cushioned nook
And brews most regally,
No queen could more majestic look
Than Mabel making tea.

But, ah, alack, 'tis sad to say
Those hands I love to see
Fluttering above the china gay
Make execrable tea.

And I, concealing that the mess
Does not agree with me,
Drink smilingly four cups—no less—
When Mabel makes the tea.
—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1908.

GARRETT FOR PEARRE.

The action of the County Convention in Oakland on Tuesday in unanimously endorsing the candidacy of Col. Pearre for renomination for Congressman from the Sixth District, struck a popular chord among the great majority of Garrett county Republicans. His renomination at the Hagerstown Congressional Convention is almost assured. That he will have the united support of the Republican press and people of the District there is no room for doubt and his election by an increased majority will result.

POPULIST TICKET.

The first national organization in the field with a Presidential ticket is the Populist party, which met at St. Louis last week and rudely repulsed all suggestions that it make itself an adjunct to another national party as it did in 1896 and 1900, and at the recent convention it selected nominees of its own.

"The history of this party," says the New York Tribune, "is peculiar in that it developed a very disproportionate strength in its first Presidential canvass and then frittered that strength away through mismanagement. It did not grow and could not even maintain itself, because its leaders lacked intelligence and foresight. They did not know how to profit by the opportunities offered them. The Democratic party in 1892 under 'conservative' management committed a blunder which gave Populism an extraordinary impetus. General Weaver, of Iowa, was the Populist candidate for President, and the Democratic National Committee, hoping to divert electoral votes in the Far Western states from General Harrison, sent orders to the Democrats in those states to vote for Populist electors. The scheme worked successfully in Kansas, Colorado, Idaho and Nevada, where Populist electors were chosen. It also helped to give one electoral vote to Weaver in North Dakota and one in Oregon. The Populist Presidential candidate got twenty-two votes in the Electoral College and his popular vote in the country at large was 1,041,467.

"This was a flattering start for the new organization. It had drawn to itself the support of several hundred thousand Democrats. If a conservative Democratic candidate had been nominated in 1896 the Populist party would probably have polled more votes than the Democratic. But its leaders did not know how to hold their Democratic auxiliaries and at the same time avoid fusion with the radical element which came into power in 1896 in the Democratic party. The Populist managers had committed themselves so strongly to the single issue of free silver coinage that when Mr. Bryon was nominated on that issue by both the Democrats and the Western silver Republicans they could not hold themselves aloof from the combination. They accepted Bryan after a bitter fight in the 1896 convention, and then with impractical perverseness rejected Sewall and nominated Thomas E. Watson for the Vice Presidency. Their vote of 1892 was reabsorbed by the Democratic management, and in 1900 there was nothing left for them to do but renominate Mr. Bryan and later to retire their own Vice Presidential candidate in favor of Adlai E. Stevenson.

"The 'conservative' wing got control of the Democratic party in 1904 and the continuance of fusion with the Populists became impossible. But the Populist organization had shrunk to a mere skeleton, and the Watson electoral ticket of 1904 polled only 113,659 votes—one-tenth of the total for 1892. The party can only hope to regain its position by asserting its individuality, and its leaders have taken the one step necessary to prevent dissolution by deciding to avoid fusion hereafter and to make an independent canvass on their own issues. There is room for a Populist party, especially in the South, and Mr. Watson's recent activities have shown that it still exerts some influence in that section. It would certainly do a great national service if it could create a political division in the Southern States which did not follow race lines. Such a division, as Mr. Watson justly says, would regenerate and modernize the South politically, and it is high time for such a regeneration and modernization."

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Farm for Sale—Ioffer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

GARRETT COUNTY LEGISLATION.

A Complete List of The Measures Passed Applying Locally.

To Senator W. McCulloh Brown THE REPUBLICAN is indebted for a complete record of the acts passed by the recent Legislature applicable to Garrett county, which are given below, nearly all of which have been signed by Governor Crothers. Those marked with an asterisk (*) received the Governor's signature yesterday:

Chapter 37, Appropriating $10,000 for the Maryland-West Virginia State Boundary Survey.

*Chapter 352, Appropriating $4,000 annually for the public schools of Garrett county.

Chapter 296, Repealing the dog law of Garrett county and providing for a district sheep fund.

*Chapter 391, New Road Law for Garrett county, becoming effective in 1909.

*Chapter 370, Empowering the Board of County Commissioners to levy the deficiency in the sale of court house bonds and apply the funds so levied to the court house.

*Chapter 340, Incorporating the Castleman Coal and Coke Company.

*Chapter 464, Changing the corporate name of the Penn-Garrett Coal Co.

Chapter 442, Incorporating the Ardwell Coal Company.

Chapter 6, Amending the game laws of Garrett county.

Chapter 67, Defining the boundaries of the fourteen election districts of Garrett county as formerly established by law.

Chapter 71, Providing that recommenders for liquor licenses shall have certain qualifications as to property rights.

Chapter 677, Providing for the issuance of bonds for the erection of water works and sewerage for the town of Oakland after a vote on the same by the qualified voters of the town.

Chapter 670, Providing for the incorporation of a water works company in the town of Bloomington.

Chapter 588, Amending the charter of the town of Grantsville.

Chapter 649, Anti-Saloon law for Garrett county, providing for a vote upon the question of local option in all wet districts except in the town of Oakland.

Chapter 550, Prohibiting the pollution of streams by dumping saw dust therein.

Chapter 505, Providing for the appointment by the Sheriff of a deputy sheriff and jail warden and the employment by the sheriff of a cook for the jail.

Chapter 564, Repealing the mortgage tax law in so far as it applies to Garrett county.

Chapter 514, Amending the charter of the town of Friendsville.

*Chapter ——, Amending Chapter 71 of the Acts of 1908, relating to the qualification of recommenders for saloon licenses.

GRANTSVILLE.

We are sorry indeed to note the sad death of Miss Belle Stanton, who died at her home Tuesday morning, March 31, and buried Thursday April 2. Her remains was taken to the church where Father Cudy, of Frostburg, held High Mass and interment was made in the Ridgely cemetery. Her fidelity to her home, and her brothers and sister, were the marked characteristics of her life. To know Miss Bell was to love her. The bereaved family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

Prof. King has gone home to visit his parents, before beginning Normal here. We are glad to have him back and hope he will have a large school.

Mr. James Yanken has moved on Quality Hill in the house Mr. Gingrich vacated.

Rev. McCoy is still continuing his meeting at Jennings. He has had four conversions.

Mrs. Sallie Spicher, who spent the winter away with relatives, is home again.

Mr. Clarence Miller drove to Meyersdale yesterday for his sister Mrs. Mathew and two little sons, of Youngwood, Pa., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mary Miller.

Mr. Blougher from Ohio, is visiting relatives here.

We are glad to have Miss May Griffen back as our milliner. This is her fourth season with Mr. Broadwater.

Mr. William Winterburg has moved in with his mother.

Dr. Robinson has taken Mrs. Elisha Durst to Baltimore to the Hospital. Dr. Bone has taken his practice during his absence.

Eggs For Easter.

Garthright wants all the eggs in Garrett county for Easter. He will pay the highest market price for them either in cash, part cash and part trade or all trade. Take the eggs to Garthright; he will handle all that may come.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JOHNNY HARVEY.

Johnny, the seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harvey, of the Ryan's Glade section of this county, died on Thursday night, April 2nd, of heart disease, with which the deceased was great sufferer. The funeral took place Sunday last.

JOHN G. WILSON.

Mr. John G. Wilson, general counsel for the B. & O. R. R. Company, died in Baltimore Tuesday night of spinal meningitis. He was a native of Allegany county and was well known by many people of this county.

MRS. SARAH KNOX.

At her home near North Glade, Tuesday, April 7th, of heart disease, Mrs. Sarah Knox, aged about sixty years. The husband of the deceased died some years ago. Her funeral took place this morning from her late home with interment in the Meadow Mountain cemetery, Rev. E. Manges, of Oakland, conducting the services.

MARY ELLEN HAUN.

Died, at her home near Oakland on Tuesday, April 7th, 1908, of dropsy, with which she had been a great sufferer for a year, Mrs. Mary Ellen, wife of Isaiah Haun, aged 53 years, 10 months and 15 days. The deceased leaves besides her husband a number of children to mourn her drparture. He funeral will occur this morning at 11 o'clock from her late home, with interment in the Red House cemetery south of Oakland.

ALICE ELIZABETH FRIEND.

Alice Elizabeth Friend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Friend, died at the home of her parents at Mountain Lake Park Sunday, April 5th, near the hour of midnight. The deceased was aged 26 years, 9 months and 2 days, and for many years was subject to epilepsy, which insidious disease caused her death. Her funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, the interment being made at the White church east of Mountain Lake Park.

FLORA RYAN.

Flora, aged 25 years, daughter of Thomas S. and Elizabeth Ryan, of near Oakland, died at the home of her parents on the Weber farm, Monday, April 6th, after an illness of several weeks to typhoid fever, which disease the deceased contracted while residing in Fairmont, West Va., from which city she was brought to her home several days ago. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, the interment being made in the Rodeheaver burying ground at Sand Flat, six miles north of Oakland.

ROCHUS WOLF.

Rochus Wolf, aged more than eight-eight years, died at the home of his son, John A. Wolf, in Oakland, Sunday morning, April 5th, at 5 o'clock, of diseases incident to extreme age. The deceased was born in Bavaria, Germany, and emigrated to this country early in life, residing for a number of years prior to coming to Garrett county in Baltimore City. Mr. Wolf was a resident here for more than forty years and by occupation was a carpenter, in which business he was engaged until late in life. He is survived by two sons, Messrs. John A. and Fred. Wolf, both of Oakland. His funeral took place Tuesday morning at nine o'clock from St. Peter's Catholic church, of which denomination he was a life-long and consistent member.

WILLIAM LEWIS LEARY.

Died, at his home on Centre street, Oakland, April 6th, 1908, very suddenly of heart trouble, William Lewis Leary, who was born at Williamsport, Maryland, January 12th, 1839, aged 79 years, two months and twenty-four days. The deceased had been unwell for a number of weeks previous to his sudden demise but had at no time been compelled to take to his bed. His death removes another of the old soldiers of the Union, he having served his country faithfully and well during the Civil War as a member of Co. I, First Maryland Cavalry, Army of the Potomac, his enlistment having been made on December 17th, 1862, and was honorably discharged August 8th, 1865, with the cessation of hostilities. Mr. Leary's war record was an active one, his command being in thirty-seven different engagements, one of which was the memorable Battle of Gettysburg. He was preceded to the grave nearly three years ago by his beloved wife. A daughter, in infancy, also died some years ago. There are left surviving him five daughters, Mrs. Ernest Townshend, Misses Elizabeth, Catharine, Marion and Annie, and one son, Edward. The funeral took place yesternoon from the home, being conducted by Rev. E. Manges, of the Lutheran church of Oakland. The pall bearers were old comrades of the deceased, namely: Capt. John M. Jarboe, E. J. Fringer, G. W. Legge, Lewis Upperman, David Durst and Alexander Sowers. The interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

Ankle Broken.

Benj. Davis, lumberman, employed by J. C. Condron, at Swanton, while engaged in tussling with an acquaintance at Swanton on Sunday, sustained a fracture of one of his ankles.

TERRIFIC FORCE OF LIGHTNING.

Live White Oak Tree Struck and Riven Into Numberless Splinters.

To the Editor of The Republican:

In a flash of less than an instant what destruction lies in the wake of the lightning's dart for the warning and marvel of man?

Mr. Daniel O'Brien, Jr., lives near a half of a mile south of the Meadow Mountain church and over a hundred yards west of the road leading from Beckman to that edifice. Almost opposite the residence, across the road, about twenty feet up the slope in the woods, stood a stately white oak tree measuring over two feet in diameter at the base. In an electric storm of short duration Wednesday night, April 1st, 1908, this erect tree, towering a trifle over its mates of the forests, was struck by lightning at a point but a few feet up among the first branches, and from that point down the trunk deep into the roots the entire body was so riven into shreds and hurled in all directions as to leave not one vestige of the tree below the branches and scarcely a discernible evidence of where the stump had stood. From the stump, a distacce likely of twenty feet, to the road side, a huge trench was left as if made by a two-winged plow, leaving the earth, stones and roots on each side in ridges. Fragments of woods, small rocks and roots fell in such a sudden and pelting tempest upon the roof of Mr. O'Brien's house, about one hundred and fifty yards from the demolished tree, as to cause the family to rush out into the night, believing the house was struck and on fire. The shock of the contact was alarmingly felt in several residences of the community a mile or more from the fated oak. In a twinkling the whole body of this "saw mill" tree was reduced to strips of rope-like appearence and dashed as but spray from a billow far out over the cleared fields to the front and the woods to the south in the rear. A notable phenomenon in this concentration of electrical forces, may be found in the wire fence and telephone wire running with the opposite edge of the road not thirty feet from the tree, without injury or scar. Why the wire did not attract and conduct the current seems strange.

RELLIM.

BITTINGER.

Mr. J. T. Glodfelty found the lost pony that broke loose from Geo. W. Friend on March 8 while hunting his sheep on last Saturday in the woods near the No. 1 campsite of the M. M. Lumber Co. on Meadow Mountain. The pony was in a very bad place among old logs which prevented it from getting out. The supposition is that while passing through the woods in the deep snow the animal broke through and was unable to get out of the logs; strange to say, too, the pony was real strong and as usual hard to catch after fasting since Marth 8th.

Messrs. Jennings Bros. are grading a switch to Mason Bros. saw mill, which will be completed in a few days which will add greatly to the convenience of the Mason Bros. in shipping their lumber.

Mr. John Lininger is working for Mr. C. C. Beachy helping to make sugar.

Miss Verna Schrock, who taught the Beachy school this winter, returned to her home at Mt. Lake Park on last Saturday.

The sugar season is not what was expected but what has been made is of an extra quality.

Mr. Noah Stark has been making some good shipments of furs this season.

Cleaning house is the order of the day.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

Misses. Ida, Jean and Ella Ralston, who have had charge of schools in various parts of the county during the past winter, returned to their home in this village last Monday afternoon.

Lloyd F. Brenneman spent a few days recently visiting at Meyersdale and other points in Pennsylvania.

Wm. Junkins, of Beckman, spent last Monday in this village.

G. W. Engle, of Baltimore, spent part of last week with his parents here, and returned to the city this week.

Miss Agnes Bittinger is spending this week with her sister, Mrs. George Yommer, of Grantsville.

Misses Lizzie and Julia Orendorf were visiting relatives over in Pennsylvania early this week.

The Republican primary held in this village last Saturday was most harmonious and a strong Pearre delegation was elected to attend the county convention at Oakland.

Sugar making is on the decline in this region and it is feared the season is nearing a close.

Board of Trade Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held Monday night, April 13, at the opera house, at which time the by-laws recently drafted by the special committee will be adopted and other business of importance transacted. All members of the Board as well as those desiring to become members are urgently requested to be present.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

Tne New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant.
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

FREE TREES FOR FARMS.

Treatment of Fence Posts Also Arranged.

The Maryland Experiment Station has made arrangements with the United States Forest Service to erect a timber-preserving plant at the station, near College Park, for treating fence posts to increase their durability.

That the treating of fence posts with creosote or other preservatives is a practical thing has been proved, but in order that the farmers of Maryland may have a practical demonstration of the process used and the results to be obtained this plant has been installed at the State Experiment Station. The different common woods, like pine, gum, birch, sycamore, poplar, hickory, maple, ash, beech, pin oak, black oak, etc., will be treated and set in a line of fence with some of our more durable wood, without treatment, such as locust, cedar or chestnut. It has been demonstrated elsewhere that a treated pine or pin oak post will last as long as an untreated locust, cedar or chestnut post. It costs less than 10 cents to treat each post with creosote, and if a pine post costing, say, 5 cents, and treated for 10 cents or less will last as long as an untreated cedar post costing from 20 to 30 cents, there is considerable saving in fencebuilding.

The farmers of the State are invited to inspect this plant and to bring in fence posts to be treated, at a cost which will not exceed 10 cents each. Operations will begin about May 1.

State Forester Besley announces that there are a few thousand black locust and hardy catalpa trees at the State Experiment Station for free distribution to land-owners in the State who will plant them according to directions.

Two hundred of these one-year-old seedlings will be sent each applicant by express, he to pay charges, as long as the supply lasts, and along with the seedings will go the proper directions for planting. All applications should be made to the State Forester, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, each applicant should describe the of soil in which he proposes to pl whether wet, moist or dry and whe heavy, medium or light, so he may ceive the right kind of trees for purpose.

The 200 trees will require from eighth to one-quarter acre of gro depending on the distance apart t are planted. On accepting the offer trees become the property of the l owner, and all that is required of hi to give the trees proper care, ke record of the planting and to r progress occasionally when reques Public schools in the State desi small locust or catalpa trees for pl ing on Arbor Day can secure tw each kind or four of one kind by ma application is made to the State F ter, inclosing 25 cents for postag packing.

These offers are made to stimul interest in tree planting, which ises in a few years to become a pr ent feature of forestry work. certainly is no better way, it is p out, to celebrate Arbor Day in th spirit than by planting a grove o to protect the farm buildings utilize some waste land to goo vantage.

Four Per Cent. Interest.

The First National Bank, Fri ville, pays four per cent. intere time deposits. Place your mon this bank where its earning cap will be greater than in any other ing institution in the county.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, Friendsville, M

"Health Coffee" is really the clo Coffee Imitation ever yet produc This, the finest Coffee Substitute e made, has recently been produced Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a gr of real Coffee in it either. Hea Coffee is made from pure toasted c als, with malt, nuts, etc. Reall would fool an expert—who might dr it for Coffee. No twenty or th minutes boiling. "Made in a minu says the doctor. All dealers.

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's strength, puts fat on thin people, makes a fretful baby happy, brings color to a pale girl's cheeks, and prevents coughs, colds and consumption.

Food in concentrated form for sick and well, young and old, rich and poor.

And it contains no drugs and no alcohol.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

A Cowtown Episode.

By Thomas B. Montfort.

Copyright, 1907, by Thomas B. Montfort.

"SEE them two old plugs over there?" the landlord of the Maverick hotel asked, pointing across the street. The grocery drummer, who had been caught over Sunday in the little Kansas cowtown, looked up and saw two grizzled, gray old men sitting peacefully side by side on a dry goods box in the shade of a building.

"As mild and quiet as a pair of little innocent lambs," the landlord added with a chuckle, "and dwellin' together jest like they was own twin brothers."

The grocery drummer yawned and took up a paper and began to read. The old men did not interest him in the least. It was no uncommon thing in his experience to see a couple of old fellows loafing on a village street.

"But that's jest the way they always are," the landlord went on. "You hardly ever see 'em when they ain't together. Wherever one goes the other goes, and whatever one does the other does. Ever since a feller come along here and put us on to it we been callin' 'em Damon and Pythias. You've heard tell of them chaps, I reckon?"

The drummer nodded.

"Well, these two old cubs is jest like that so far as their friendship goes—stand by each other through thick and thin, and either of 'em would fight to the last breath for the other. And quiet and peaceable! You would naturally think they'd been raised up in a Sunday school and hadn't never heard tell of nothin' but the Bible all their lives."

The drummer made no reply, and a long silence followed. At last, however, the landlord emitted a soft chuckle and, pointing across the street, said:

"You wouldn't ever guess, now, a-lookin' at them settin' there that way, that they used to be two of the toughest cusses that ever run the range and that for two years they tried their very best to kill each other. Now, would you?"

"Hardly," the drummer answered.

"Y-t it's even so. I bet each of 'em has got a pound of lead in him now that the other put there, and as for scars—well, I reckon they've branded each other up about as complete as they could without puttin' the scars on double."

The drummer began to show interest. He laid aside his paper and asked for the particulars.

"Well, it's like this," the landlord began. "Joe Kern—that's the one on the right there—he used to be a cowboy and worked on the Triple X ranch, 'bout twenty miles south of town. And he was shore a holy terror. There was lots of mighty tough cowboys round here in them days, but the toughest of 'em was as mild and harmless as babies compared with Joe. Their little scrappin' and shootin' wa'n't much more than Sunday school work when looked at alongside of what he done.

"Among the eccentric notions Joe got into his head was one to the effect that this town didn't need no marshal and shouldn't have none. Accordin'ly, as soon as that idea hit him he sent in word to the marshal invitin' him to resign or move away and sayin' that he would be up in a few days and would be under the painful necessity of vacatin' the office with his six shooter if the marshal disregarded his well meant invitation.

"THE BALL CUT A LOCK OF HAIR FROM AB'S HEAD."

"The marshal was a young feller, and he hadn't never felt any special longing to quit this world for another that he didn't know anything about, so he suddenly decided that he'd give up his job and go away to some place that was more conducive to longevity. Accordin'ly, he tendered his resignation and without waitin' for it to be accepted lit out.

"After that there were other marshals, but none of them held the office very long. As fast as they were elected Joe invited them to resign, and they showed respect for his wishes. Some of them were a little slow, though, and he had to come in and press his invitation by firin' a few shots just close enough about their heads to make them nervous and loosen up the muscles of their legs.

"Well, things went along that way for 'bout a year. Then one day a long ganglin' feller with a mild eye, a soft voice and a solemn lookin' face happened into town. His name was Ab Case, and that's him a-sittin' over there on the left.

"Ab he was lookin' for a job, and the town it was lookin' for a marshal jest then, so the two gits together and strikes up a deal. Ab says he ain't never been a marshal, but 'lows he can manage it all right, and the town is findin' it difficult to get anybody to take the job with Joe Kern and shore death hangin' over it, so to speak.

"Well, Ab is sworn in and puts on the star, and then here comes a invite to him from Joe, askin' him to resign. Ab listened to Joe's message, which was delivered by another cowboy, then shrugs his shoulders and replies that he don't never accept invitations second-hand.

"'If Mr. Kern wants me to consider any proposition he has got to offer along that line,' he says, 'he will have to come in and see me pussonally.'

"About three days later Mr. Kern did come in. Down at the saloon he told them why he had come. It was to convince the new marshal that he ought to resign and go away.

"'And I have brought my very best arguments with me,' he finished, 'arguments that ain't never failed as a last resort.'

"He shore had them, too—a Winchester and a brace of six shooters. And he knowed how to handle them arguments 'bout as eloquently as any man that ever lived.

"He irrigated his system at the bar, coolly lighted a cigar and then went out to look up the marshal and pay his respects to him. And he didn't have to go far, either, for he was scarcely out of the saloon when somebody pointed out Ab standin' on a corner 'bout half a block away.

"'Are you shore that's him?' Joe asked. 'I'd rather not make any mistake and kill an innocent man if it can be helped.'

"'That's shore him,' they answered.

"Joe smiled and raised his gun.

"'I'll sorter wake him up,' he said. 'I won't hurt him at first, but jest call his attention that I'm here.'

"He fired, and the ball cut a lock of hair from Ab's head. Ab looked around sort of casual to see what it meant and the next instant sent back an answer to Joe's shot. That answer plowed a furrow along the side of Joe's head.

"From that they went at it in dead earnest. Everybody else got out of the way and give 'em a clear field. There wa'n't no backin' down and no runnin' on the part of neither of 'em. They jest stood up there and pumped lead at and into each other as carelessly and cheerfully as you please.

"After 'bout ten minutes the firin' ceased, and then we all cautiously peered out to see how it had ended. They was both down on the ground helpless, but still tryin' to shoot.

"When we come to examine, we found 'em pretty badly riddled up, but with no wounds that promised to be fatal. We carried 'em off, and the doctors patched 'em up, and for a long time they remained quiet in bed.

"Some of us reckoned the matter would end there, as they had both shorely had enough, but the older men thought different. One of 'em said:

"'It won't ever end while they both live. Kern will never give up, and it's pretty evident Case won't either. When they get out, they'll be at it again, and they'll keep at it till one of 'em is done for.'

"And it proved that he was partly right. The very first time they met after their recovery they took another round of shootin' at each other.

"The result this time was similar to what it had been before. Both were badly used up, but neither injured fatally.

"And so for two years it continued. Every time Joe came up to town there was a shootin' bout. They fought to kill, too, and, both of 'em bein' good shots, we reckoned every time one of 'em would be shore to git it. But, strange to say, neither of 'em ever did. They riddled each other all up, but they was never able to git in a finish-in' shot.

"'I'll git him yit, though,' Joe declared. 'I'm jest bound to do it before I quit.'

"Ab made the same declaration, and we was all shore one of 'em would be killed before the thing come to an end. Didn't seem like it could wind up any other way.

"But it transpired that we was all entirely mistaken, as you can see for yourself.

"One day, 'bout three months after the last shootin' scrape and jest when we was expectin' Joe to make another appearance, a covered wagon drove into town and stopped in front of the mayor's office. The wagon was from the Triple X, and we couldn't understand its bein' covered that way, so we all gathered round to see what it meant.

"In the bottom of the wagon was some straw, and lyin' stretched out on the straw was Joe Kern. We see at a glance that Joe was mighty sick, for he jest lay there and moaned and didn't take no notice of nobody nor nothin'.

"While we was standin' there gapin' like a passul of idiots Ab come up and pushed his way through the crowd to the wagon. We 'lowed shore as soon as Ab got his eyes on Joe he'd plug him, but right there we was mistaken some more.

"Ab looks at Joe a minute, then turns to the driver and says:

"'What's the matter of the cuss?'

"'Smallpox,' the driver replies.

"In about half a minute that identical part of town became rather scarce of population. All of us except Ab, Joe and the driver happened to simultaneously remember that we had more pressin' business other places, and we hurried off to tend to it.

"It seemed, as we learned afterward, that Joe had been exposed to the smallpox somewhere and that the first thing they knowed he took down with it. The ranch wa'n't no fit place for a sick man to stay, so they loaded him up and sent him into town, expectin' the mayor to take him in hand and do somethin' with him. But it happened that the mayor was away from home and wouldn't be back for a week.

"IF THERE'S ANY MORE SHOOTIN' DONE, YOU'LL HAVE TO DO IT!"

"Ab studied a little while. Then he said to the driver:

"'Take him down to my house. I'll keep him and do the best I can for him. That seems to be all there is for it.'

"So the driver went on down to Ab's house, and he and Ab took Joe from the wagon and carried him in and put him in Ab's bed. Ab turned nuss and stayed right there with Joe, sleepin' on a blanket on the floor.

"Of course we was all surprised at Ab doin' that way, seein' that he and Joe were such bitter enemies, and we talked about it and wondered at it. Joe couldn't understand it, either, so one day when he was gittin' better he says to Ab:

"'There's one thing I want to know, Mr. Case. I've puzzled about it a good bit lyin' here, and I can't seem to git the hang of it. I would like to know why you took me in and nussed me this way?'

"'I hope,' Ab replied, 'that you ain't got no notion that I done it for love?'

"'Hardly,' Joe answered. 'But that is what makes it harder to understand.'

"'Then I'll explain,' Ab said. 'First, I wouldn't be brute enough to let a sick dog suffer for attention if I could help it, and, second, I didn't want you to die a natural death and cheat me out of the pleasure of shootin' you.'

"Joe's face broke into a smile, and he reached out and took Ab's hand and pressed it warmly.

"'Your words are a great relief to me,' he said. 'I was afraid you was goin' to place me under obligations not to kill you, and it worried me. But now I understand, and it's all right. As soon as I get out of this we'll take up the fight, and we'll keep it up till I git you.'

"'Till I git you, you mean,' Ab corrected.

"'Do I? Well, you'll see.'

"It went on till at last Joe was able to be up and around; then I'm blamed if Ab didn't turn in and take down with the smallpox. Then them two jest reversed things. Ab took the bed, and Joe nussed him and slept on the floor. Ab was mighty bad off for awhile, but finally he begun to git better.

"One day when Joe was sittin' by the bed Ab broke a long silence by saying:

"'I'll be out soon now, and then I reckon we'll be done with this cussed smallpox.'

"'Yep, I reckon so,' Joe replied.

"'And it won't be long either,' Ab went on, 'till we can resume our little pastime of shootin' each other up.'

"Joe turns around and looks Ab straight in the eyes and says:

"'You may think me a coward if you want to, but I say right now that if there's any more shootin' done you'll have to do it. I'm through for my part. Before I'll shoot a man who took me in and cared for me like you did I'll pull up stakes and leave the country.'

"Ab looked surprised for a moment; then he stretched out his hand and said:

"'Put 'er thar, pard. Them's my sentiments exactly.'

"And from that day them two fellers has been jest like you see 'em now, quiet and peaceful as lambs, the very best of friends and always hangin' around together."

A Well Mannered Bus.

Riding in an omnibus up Regent street recently, an old lady was annoying the other passengers by her remarks. The conductor remonstrated with her, saying, "Ma'am, remember you are in a public vehicle, and behave as such."—London Spectator.

MUNICIPALUNACY.

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

Judging from the reports that reach us from various parts of the country as to the condition of civic lighting companies and wilted water plants, we shall soon be relieved of the stigma placed upon us by the British visitor to this country who declared that we had no impressive ruins to attract the traveler. Would it not be a good plan for some munificent millionaire to buy up a few of these, transfer them to the banks of the Hudson and thus put that beautiful waterway into the running in the matter of legendary interest with the Rhine? A few moss and ivy covered ruins of this kind would add much to the scenic beauty of the picturesque river and doubtless inspire our literati with ghastly legendary lore that will make those old stories of the Rhine look like a mark and a half. Here indeed is a chance for Mr. Andrew Carnegie to do something to beautify his adopted native land and to fill the shelves of his many libraries as well with good reading at one fell swoop.

* *

The increase of the public debt of Birmingham, England, from $4,000,000 in the early seventies of the last century to $75,000,000, according to the last available figures, shows how completely municipal ownership wipes out a debt of that kind. Alongside of $75,000,000, a paltry sum of $4,000,000 is not only wiped out, but actually annihilated.

* *

The police of Chicago were assessed in the last elections to pay the expenses of the municipal ownership campaign. This is another point in favor of a comprehensive system of public ownership. After awhile, with the motormen, conductors, watermen, gasmen, ditch diggers, firemen, electricians, and so on, to assess for similar purposes, the public will doubtless enjoy free elections. One might almost hope that such a fund as this would wax so great that after elections are over there would be a balance left to declare a municipal dividend with. The byproducts of the municipal ownership idea grow daily more and more interesting, not to say alluring.

* *

It is nonsense to say that municipal ownership breeds socialism. On the contrary, it is driving people back to individualism. In some European cities people who used to patronize the trolleys now walk because they wish to get where they are going along lines of least official resistance. And in Valley City, N. D., the quality of the service of the public gas plant has driven a number of business men to install gasoline lighting systems of their own on their premises.

* *

Muncie, Ind., has abandoned her lighting plant, but consoles herself with the thought that her bonds remain. As the poet said, or would have said if he had thought of it:

Old ties are hard to sever.
Other ties endure forever.

* *

The city fathers of Brunswick, Mo., have just done a good stroke of business in selling its lighting plant for 85 cents on the dollar, taking pay in light and water. It is fortunate it wasn't a municipal bakery. It would be hard to pay for that by sending large drafts of rhubarb pie and cream cakes to the city treasury, to say nothing of the risk Brunswick would incur of a sudden attack of civic indigestion running into chronic appendicitis from overindulgence in doughnuts. Operations upon the body politic are dangerous things, since the patient is apt to experience ill effects from taking gas.

Can't Do It by Statute.

Any corporation is entitled to a fair return on all its legitimate investments over and above all expenses when these are carefully and economically administered. There are some corporations which are undoubtedly overcharging the public, but there are more whose stock has never paid any dividends whatever, and only an unfortunate aggravation of the present strained relations existing between the people and the public service corporations can result from the expectation of the former that they can through legislative action obtain a universal reduction in the charges made by such corporations.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

A Danger to Be Avoided.

If a city is not well governed, municipal ownership is the most dangerous thing imaginable and should be carefully avoided. There is always the danger that the public utilities the city is supposed to own will become nothing more or less than the private property of the people at the head of the government, who will work to their own advantage and the enhancement of their private wealth.—William T. Stead.

Only as a Last Resort.

Any city which is getting fair treatment from a privately owned plant should eschew municipal ownership. Except under unusually favorable conditions—conditions that promise to make the proposed plant a positive money earner—municipal ownership should be only a last resort.—Marquette (Mich.) Journal.

Political M. O. Machines.

Municipal ownership of street railways, gas and electric lighting means an enormous political machine with thousands of employees to be voted at the behest of some political party.—Mayor Mahool of Baltimore.

CURED HER JEALOUSY.

How Mrs. Bellefield's Friends Had Fun at Her Expense.

Mrs. Bellefield is very jealous of her husband, and her friends know of her failing. One of them had a little fun at her expense the other day in consequence of this trait.

Toward the close of an afternoon call Mrs. Dukane said to her:

"Oh, by the way, I saw your husband today at the conversazione."

"Yes? He seemed to be enjoying himself, I suppose?"

"He did, indeed. Was he ever in love with Mrs. Dinwiddie before he married you?"

"I'm sure I don't know, but it's quite likely. Was she at the conversazione?"

"Yes, and I saw her bend toward your husband and say something in a confidentially low voice."

"You didn't catch any of the conversation?"

"No."

Mrs. Dukane took her departure, and Mrs. Bellefield waited impatiently for her husband's return home that evening.

"Oh, you shameless man!" she exclaimed as he took off his overcoat and hung it on the hall rack.

"What's the matter now?" he asked in deep surprise.

"There you are, putting on an innocent face, as if the whole town wasn't talking about your flirtations with the Dinwiddie girl."

"Flirtation!" he repeated in a dazed sort of way.

"Yes, flirtation! Now, don't pretend she wasn't at the conversazione today."

"Yes; she was there."

"Oh, you'll admit that much, will you?"

"Certainly."

"Then what were you and she talking so confidentially about?"

"We weren't talking confidentially."

"I suppose she didn't even speak to you?"

"Yes, she did."

"Ah! Now I've got you. Tell me what she said."

"She was one of the waitresses, and she asked me if I would take coffee or tea."—Tit-Bits.

A Distinction Without a Difference.

Five-year-old Deborah had been invited to take luncheon at a restaurant with Miss K.

"Do you like cocoa?" she was asked.

When the answer was "Yes," the beverage was duly brought, but remained untasted.

At last Miss K. said, "Why don't you drink your cocoa, Deborah, when you said you wanted it?"

"I didn't say I wanted it," replied the child politely; "I only said that I liked it."—Woman's Home Companion.

Just the Thing.

Sapleigh (in hat store)—I would—aw—like to get a hat.

Proprietor—What style would you prefer?

Sapleigh—I'm not particulah as to the style, doncher know. I want something to—aw—suit me head.

Proprietor—Just step this way, please, and I'll show you our line of soft hats.—Detroit Tribune.

Came In Handy.

How Mr. Snipp's whiskers served his wife and daughter.—Harper's Weekly.

At Sight.

"So your daughter has married the titled stranger," said the romantic woman.

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox, glancing up from his check book.

"Was it a case of love at sight?"

"Yes. Now it's a case of draw at sight."—Washington Star.

Not Cutting Prices.

Caller—Is that the best you can promise me—a wife fifteen years older than I am, with a sharp nose, thin lips and a sour disposition?

Fortune Teller—What more do you expect? Did you think you could get a real affinity for a dollar?—Chicago Tribune.

The Ideal Sermon.

The New Minister—What is your idea of the proper length of a sermon, Miss Deering?

The Choir Singer—Why, I think it should be long enough to get people interested and short enough to keep them so.—Puck.

This Denial Habit.

"How should an engagement be announced?"

"In the fashionable world?"

"Yes."

"By saying there's no truth in the rumor."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Not the Right Phrase.

"Who," asked the minister, "gives this woman away?"

"Hold on, mistaire, if you plis," said the titled foreigner. "Zis woman iss not given away; it iss a trade."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Word In Its Favor.

"That joke has whiskers," said the editor of the comic weekly.

"Maybe it has," replied the contributor, "but it isn't so old that its hair has fallen out."—Pittsburg Post.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" [illegible] Pneumonia. Do not [illegible] than [illegible] Preventics [illegible] at the sneeze stage—then [illegible] head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Grippine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for children—and thoroughly safe too. If you're chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, [illegible] Preventics. Promptness may also save [illegible] usual sickness. And don't forget [illegible] there is feverishness, night or day. [illegible] ably [illegible] Preventics' greatest efficiency. 50 boxes for the pocket, also in 25c [illegible] Preventics. Insist on your druggist [illegible] Preventics.

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyanc
Investigation of land titles and collection c claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907

OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.15 p. m., *8.29 p. m. Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.35 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBDELAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.5 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m. *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *4.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.35 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland.

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows.

An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;

Hamiltonian; $250.

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold $375.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

THE MARYLAND
AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE
COLLEGE PARK, MD.
MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
Six Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S."
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scientific
Horticural. Civil Engineering. Chemical
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each Department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all Departments. Graduates qualified to enter upon life's work.

Boarding Department supplied with all modern improvements—Bathrooms, Steam Heat and Electricity.

New Buildings with modern improvements. Location unsurpassed for health. Tuition, Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Medical attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical and Athletic fees. All included in an annual charge of $300 payable quarterly in advance. Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sanitarium for isolation of any patient with contagious diseases.

Catalog giving full particulars sent on application.

Attention is called to Short Course of Ten Weeks in Agriculture.

Write for particulars.

Term commences September 19th, 1907.

Early application necessary for admittance.

R. W. SYLVESTER, Pres't
College Park Md.
22-8t

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

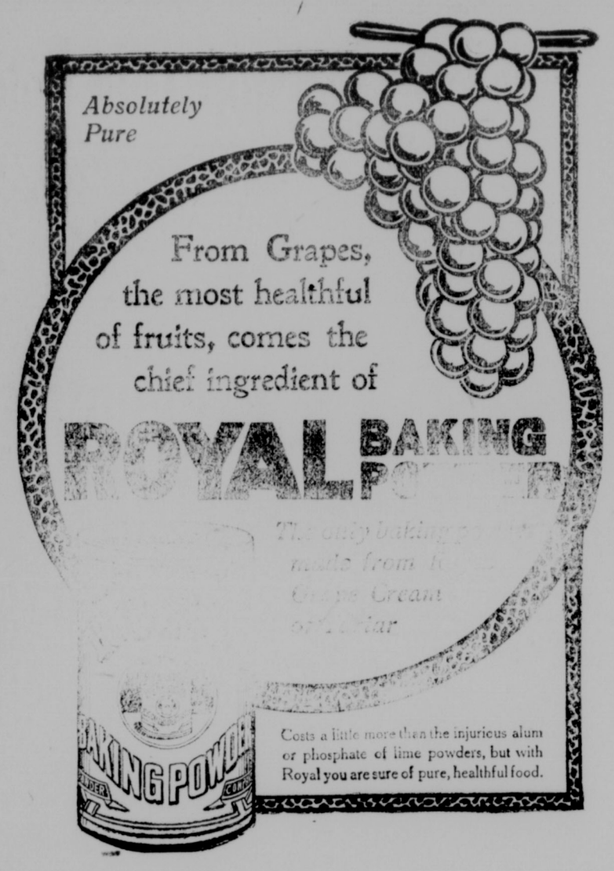
Davis' 100 per cent Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, several other houses near me were painted with other paints. There is a big contrast today between the appearance of my house and others."

J. H. PRUITT
Chincoteague, Va.

If you compare adulterated paint with Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will readily know why my house painted with Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS,
Agents



Opera House tonight 10 cents a big show.

You are missing a good thing is you don't attend the show this week.

Mr. M. S. Wolf, of near Red House, was a business visitor in Oakland Tuesday.

Mr. Lewis C. Bray, of near Kitzmillerville, was in Oakland Monday on business.

Mr. B. F. Paugh, of near Deer Park, made this office a brief visit yesterday afternoon.

Have you seen Harry Davis' millinery? He has without a doubt the finest stock in town. 2t

Question: Who will get the diamond ring and gold watch at the opera house Saturday night.

Mr. R. C. McQuay spent a few days in Oakland last week with his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Selby.

Mr. Floyd Duckworth, of near Westernport, was in the city Tuesday and called at this office.

Mrs. R. C. McQuay, who spent several weeks with her son down in Kentucky, has returned to Oakland.

Mrs. F. E. Rathbun, of Piedmont, was in Oakland yesterday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Selby.

Mrs. Scott T. Jones and Misses Grace Jones and Nell Sturgiss spent Tuesday in Cumberland shopping.

Miss Vada Thrasher, of Deer Park, was the guest on Saturday and Sunday of the Misses Manges at their home in Oakland.

Big attendance is the rule at the opera house this week where the crowds go and forget their troubles. Get in line.

Mr. M. M. Schrock, of Mountain Lake Park, was in the city last Saturday on business and while here called at this office.

Mr. Hiram S. Coleman, of District No. 9, who was here at the county convention Tuesday, made this office a brief business call.

Cashier S. T. Jones, of the Garrett National Bank, spent a few days this week in Pittsburg on business, returning to Oakland Tuesday evening.

Misses Dora Brown and Cora Frantz, of Oakland, were theguests for a number of days last and this week of relatives in Selbysport and Friendsville.

Mr. H. W. Browning, of Friendsville, who has been selected as one of the instructors of the Accident Normal school, was in the city Monday on business.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hinebaugh, who spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Samuel E. Boyer, in Fairmont, returned to her home in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Mr. M. R. Hamill, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Oakland, spent a few days last week with his brother, Mr. E. J. Hamill, at Kitzmillerville.

The man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knew about him and suppressed.

Mr. Elliot C. Harvey, of near Gorman, was in Oakland Sunday morning, coming here to procure medicine for his wife, who has been ill for some weeks with an attack of scarlet fever.

Mr. James B. Dixon and family, of near Deer Park, who recently disposed of their personal property, moved to Keyser a few days ago where Mr. Dixon will be employed in a grist mill.

Mrs. E. Fundenberg and daughter Miss Teckla, who spent the winter in Cumberland and at points in Pennsylvania, were in Oakland yesterday afternoon en route to their home near Deer Park.

If you are sick or afflicted you should drop in and see the medicine man at his office in the opera house building from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., all this week. Consultation is free and they say he knows his business.

Clerk to the Town Council John C. Dunham gives notice in this paper today of the appeal session of the Council which will be held at the Council Chamber in Oakland on April 20th, at the hours stated in the notice.

The Modern Remedy Company of Cincinnati, O., have their No. 1 advertising at the Opera House this week introducing a line of their remedies and giving a series of shows which are well attended and giving very good satisfaction.

Capt. R. H. Gordon, of Cumberland, well and favorably known in Oakland as an attorney of high standing and a prime favorite among his acquaintances here and elsewhere for his integrity and high character, was a business visitor in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Don't color eggs for Easter but buy them at the exchange to be conducted on Saturday, the 18th inst., at the store of H. C. Sincell & Co., by the ladies of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church. Fancy articles, cake, candy, home made bread and many other edibles will also be on sale. Patronize the exchange.

WANTED—A good team suitable for farm work. Apply to Wm. M. Kelley, Coketon, W. Va.

CAPITAL 50,0 0,00 — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

THE
First National Bank
OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

OLD GLADES HOTEL SOLD.

Building Disposed of by The B. & O. R. R. Co. and Will Be Torn Down.

A few days ago the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, owner of the old Glades Hotel in Oakland, which corporation acquired the property a number of years ago, having purchased it from the John Daily estate, disposed of the building to Messrs. D. E. Bolden, A. T. Matthews and G. S. Hamill, Jr., for the sum of $500.

The building is a very large structure and was erected many years ago by Mr. John Daily. None but the very best timber entered into its construction and the purchasers of the property have secured a bargain.

Under the agreement whereby the house was sold to the Oakland gentlemen they are to remove it within the next six months.

What the railway company proposes to do with the ground now covered by the building is of course unknown but it has been rumored for several months past that the tracks passing through Oakland will be straightened and will pass through the grounds of both the Oakland and Glades Hotels. This, of course, is but a rumor, and nothing whatever may come of it.

Mr. Albert Ashby, of the Ashby Lumber Company of Oakland, which concern is now operating largely in white oak timber along the line of the Western Maryland Railroad at a point a few miles south of Piedmont, spent Sunday in Oakland with his family, returning to Piedmont Monday morning.

In the early days of railroading in this country no restraint was laid on any employe from drinking and many of them were intemperate. Now railroads are virtually temperance societies. Many companies will not permit any employee to be seen entering a saloon, nor under any circumstances to drink intoxicating liquors.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, of Salem, W. Va., were in Oakland a day or two this week when they rented for a term of months the residence of Mr. Austin Brown on Second street. They expect to return to Oakland within the next ten days and will then occupy the property. They are most excellent people and will be heartily welcomed by Oakland's residents.

Gen. George R. Gaither, the recent Republican candidate for Governor, and Mr. LeRoy White, of Baltimore, came up to Oakland Monday morning on train No. 3 and drove from here to the Herrington Manor farm, where they spent the day as the guests of Mr. James Nelson. Both gentlemen returned to Baltimore on train No. 14 Monday afternoon.

The Hamilton Coal Company, which operated at Newburg, W. Va., has passed into the hands of a receiver, Frederick A. Husted, of Cumberland, former division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, having been named by Judge Dayton. Mr. Husted has been general manager of the coal company for some time. The mines will be kept in operation.

The Secretary of State of West Virginia issued a charter on Monday of this week incorporating the Potomac River Railway Company, Keyser, W. Va.; principal offices, Piedmont, W. Va.; to build railroad from Keyser to Bloomington, Md.; authorized capital, $150,000; incorporators, L. P. Probe, J. J. Benter, C. H. Geiger, C. M. Burkett, Antone Korn, all of Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. Harry M. Blocher, son of Mr. Henry Blocher, of District No. 9, who was here Tuesday as a delegate to the County Convention, was a caller at THE REPUBLICAN office and left with the editor a very handsome collection of Easter flowers, which were plucked on his father's farm from plants which were originally set out over a hundred years ago by his paternal greatgrandmother.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself, and when you build up yourself and your neighbor. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions—including the printing office.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

"Is your father rich?" someone asked a five year old girl and the little one replied confidently, "Why, of course! He's got me." And she was right, too, for the father of a sweet, loving helpful little daughter is richer than some millionaires whose money can not buy them the love of a single heart. How about your father? Does he feel that he is a rich man because of the daughter at home? There are households where it is hard "to make both ends meet" but where there is plenty of that better wealth of love and goodness and loyalty. Is yours one of them?

DEATH OF MISS STANTON.

Member of An Old Garrett County Family.

Miss Isabella Stanton died suddenly on the 30th of March, 1908 at her home at the Little Crossings in Garrett county, after an illness of only a few days. She was somewhere in her fifties, never married, a daughter of Wm. Stanton, one of the best known citizens of the county during his life, but who died about 40 years ago, leaving a large family of sons and daughters. Two of the sons, Eli and Uriah, are prominent citizens of their county, and have filled prominent officers. The deceased and two sisters, Ruth and Mary, together with their brother, Uriah, all lived together in the old Stanton mansion, at the Little Crossings, a most comfortable and desirable home.

Strange as it may seem, these three sisters and brother were all unmarried, and lived together for many years in sisterly and brotherly harmony. The former harmonious quartet, by death, has now been reduced to a trio. The persons forming it are much respected. The death of the one mentioned will be a sorrowful incident to many. The Stanton family is an ancient one, very numerous and all highly esteemed.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ⅓ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

George Weber, of Oakland, Md., was in Grafton several hours today on a business visit. Mr. Weber is a member of the celebrated H. Weber Sons Company, the florists and makes frequent visits to this city where the company has large business. The Weber flowers are known in every state in the Union and are famous for having captured the first prizes at all the leading floral expositions in the country.—Grafton Sentinel.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

Mr. W. Scott Matthews, native Garrett countian, now a valued resident and ex-County Treasurer of Somerset county, Pa., was in Oakland Monday in company with his brother-in-law, Mr. Ulysses S. Frazee, of Selbysport, both having come here on business connected with the settlement of the estate of the Matthews' heirs. Mr. Matthews is well remembered by many residents of Oakland and Garrett county generally. At present he is a candidate for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the Legislature from his adopted county in Pennsylvania. Both Mr. Matthews and Mr. Frazee returned to their respective homes Monday.

We have for years past noticed one very undesirable feature in the attendance of the public school in the higher grade, viz: There are, as a rule many more girls attending than boys. Why is this? Where are the boys? They leave school, many of them early or soon as they are able to get a get position as clerk in some store or office under the impression that they are wasting time by remaining in school longer. The average boy thinks that if he gets some business position that will enable him to earn a few dollars a month, and that looks towards his final occupation in life, while his classmates stick to school three or four years longer, he has just so many years the start of his companion who remains in school. Now the real facts in the case are that the reverse of this is the truth. The boy who remains in school and acquires a thorough education lays a foundation that will surely other things being equal, enable him to surpass his class mate, who left school three or four years earlier.

Resolutions of Oakland High School.

The following resolutions, relative to the resignation of Prof. Morris K. Turner, principal of the Oakland High School, have been handed THE REPUBLICAN for publication:

WHEREAS, It has been the privilege of the Oakland Public School to have as its head Prof. Morris K. Turner, who for the past three years has so efficiently conducted the school; and

WHEREAS, As Prof. Turner leaves us for other labors, be it

Resolved, That we as a school extend to him our hearty well wishes for tuture success and well being.

The above were unanimously adopted by the school.

MABEL PORTER,
ETHEL WILT,
NELL WORKMAN,
Committee.

Another Great Opening.

Friday evening at 6 o'clock and all day Saturday.

It HARRY DAVIS.

Subscribe for the Republican.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

EASTER OPENING.

Tuesday, April 6th.
Wednesday, April 7th,
1908.

Mrs. M. L. SCOTT
Baltimore Store.
Oakland, Maryland.

Bear Range Poultry Farm
W. G. RILEY.
BREEDER OF
High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.
I have 14 of the leading varieties.
Eggs, $1 for 15.
Lowest price for best quality.
DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. & P. Telephone Co'y
LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,
4tf Oakland, Md.

A show for the ladies and children as well as the gentlemen, all next week at the Opera House.

ACCIDENT NORMAL.

We will organize April 20th and continue till June 12th.

This work is designed to give teachers and others a thorough knowledge of all branches taught in the Free Schools.

It will be an opportune time for those just entering the profession of teaching.

Those who have taught should make this summer's work a stepping stone to a HIGHER GRADE of work and BETTER SALARIES.

We will endeavor to make it both pleasant and profitable for you. Come and spend a busy session with us.

The Commissioners have arranged a uniform rate of $5 TUITION for the entire time. BOARDING is abundant, cheap and convenient.

For further information address

J. C. BEAHM, Principal, Accident, Md.
Or
H. W. BROWNING, Vice-Principal, Friendsville, Md.

Arthur Townshend,
GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE
First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE
WE HAVE IT FOR
Spring Cleaning,
NEAT LINE OF
Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW
SUITS
AND OVERCOATS
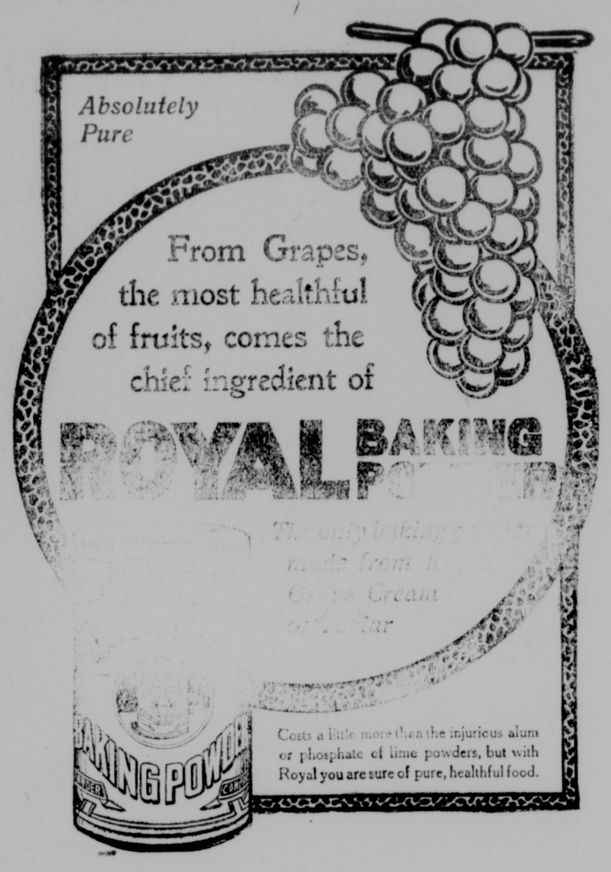
AT
Away Down Prices.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.



Opera House tonight 10 cents a big show.

You are missing a good thing is you don't attend the show this week.

Mr. M. S. Wolf, of near Red House, was a business visitor in Oakland Tuesday.

Mr. Lewis C. Bray, of near Kitzmillerville, was in Oakland Monday on business.

Mr. B. F. Paugh, of near Deer Park, made this office a brief visit yesterday afternoon.

Have you seen Harry Davis' millinery? He has without a doubt the finest stock in town. 2t

Question: Who will get the diamond ring and gold watch at the opera house Saturday night.

Mr. R. C. McQuay spent a few days in Oakland last week with his daughter, Mrs. B. F. Selby.

Mr. Floyd Duckworth, of near Westernport, was in the city Tuesday and called at this office.

Mrs. R. C. McQuay, who spent several weeks with her son down in Kentucky, has returned to Oakland.

Mrs. F. E. Rathbun, of Piedmont, was inOakland yesterday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Selby.

Mrs. Scott T. Jones and Misses Grace Jones and Nell Sturgiss spent Tuesday in Cumberland shopping.

Miss Vada Thrasher, of Deer Park, was the guest on Saturday and Sunday of the Misses Mangos at their home in Oakland.

Big attendance is the rule at the opera house this week where the crowds go and forget their troubles. Get in line.

Mr. M. M. Schrock, of Mountain Lake Park, was in the city last Saturday on business and while here called at this office.

Mr. Hiram S. Coleman, of District No. 9, who was here at the county convention Tuesday, made this office a brief business call.

Cashier S. T. Jones, of the Garrett National Bank, spent a few days this week in Pittsburg on business, returning to Oakland Tuesday evening.

Misses Dora Brown and Cora Frantz, of Oakland, were theguests for a number of days last and this week of relatives in Selbysport and Friendsville.

Mr. H. W. Browning, of Friendsville, who has been selected as one of the instructors of the Accident Normal school, was in the city Monday on business.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hinebaugh, who spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. Samuel E. Boyer, in Fairmont, returned to her home in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Mr. M. R. Hamill, assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Oakland, spent a few days last week with his brother, Mr. E. J. Hamill, at Kitzmillerville.

The man who gets mad at what the newspaper says about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspaper knew about him and suppressed.

Mr. Elliot C. Harvey, of near Gorman, was in Oakland Sunday morning, coming here to procure medicine for his wife, who has been ill for some weeks with an attack of scarlet fever.

Mr. James B. Dixon and family, of near Deer Park, who recently disposed of their personal property, moved to Keyser a few days ago where Mr. Dixon will be employed in a grist mill.

Mrs. E. Fundenberg and daughter Miss Teckla, who spent the winter in Cumberland and at points in Pennsylvania, were in Oakland yesterday afternoon en route to their home near Deer Park.

If you are sick or afflicted you should drop in and see the medicine man at his office in the opera house building from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. all this week. Consultation is free and they say he knows his business.

Clerk to the Town Council John C. Dunham gives notice in this paper today of the appeal session of the Council which will be held at the Council Chamber in Oakland on April 20th, at the hours stated in the notice.

The Modern Remedy Company of Cincinnati, O., have their No. 1 advertising at the Opera House this week introducing a line of their remedies and giving a series of shows which are well attended and giving very good satisfaction.

Capt. R. H. Gordon, of Cumberland, well and favorably known in Oakland as an attorney of high standing and a prime favorite among his acquaintances here and elsewhere for his integrity and high character, was a business visitor in Oakland Monday afternoon.

Don't color eggs for Easter but buy them at the exchange to be conducted on Saturday, the 18th inst., at the store of H. C. Sincell & Co., by the ladies of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church. Fancy articles, cake, candy, home made bread and many other edibles will also be on sale. Patronize the exchange.

WANTED—A good team suitable for farm work. Apply to Wm. M. Kelley, Coketon, W. Va.

CAPITAL $50,000.00 — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

THE
First National Bank
OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

OLD GLADES HOTEL SOLD.

Building Disposed of by The B. & O. R. R. Co. and Will Be Torn Down.

A few days ago the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, owner of the old Glades Hotel in Oakland, which corporation acquired the property a number of years ago, having purchased it from the John Daily estate, disposed of the building to Messrs. D. E. Bolden, A. T. Matthews and G. S. Hamill, Jr., for the sum of $500.

The building is a very large structure and was erected many years ago by Mr. John Daily. None but the very best timber entered into its construction and the purchasers of the property have secured a bargain.

Under the agreement whereby the house was sold to the Oakland gentlemen they are to remove it within the next six months.

What the railway company proposes to do with the ground now covered by the building is of course unknown but it has been rumored for several months past that the tracks passing through Oakland will be straightened and will pass through the grounds of both the Oakland and Glades Hotels. This, of course, is but a rumor, and nothing whatever may come of it.

Mr. Albert Ashby, of the Ashby Lumber Company of Oakland, which concern is now operating largely in white oak timber along the line of the Western Maryland Railroad at a point a few miles south of Piedmont, spent Sunday in Oakland with his family, returning to Piedmont Monday morning.

In the early days of railroading in this country no restraint was laid on any employe from drinking and many of them were intemperate. Now railroads are virtually temperance societies. Many companies will not permit any employee to be seen entering a saloon, nor under any circumstances to drink intoxicating liquors.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming, of Salem, W. Va., were in Oakland a day or two this week when they rented for a term of months the residence of Mr. Austin Brown on Second street. They expect to return to Oakland within the next ten days and will then occupy the property. They are most excellent people and will be heartily welcomed by Oakland's residents.

Gen. George R. Gaither, the recent Republican candidate for Governor, and Mr. LeRoy White, of Baltimore, came up to Oakland Monday morning on train No. 3 and drove from here to the Herrington Manor farm, where they spent the day as the guests of Mr. James Nelson. Both gentlemen returned to Baltimore on train No. 14 Monday afternoon.

The Hamilton Coal Company, which operated at Newburg, W. Va., has passed into the hands of a receiver, Frederick A. Husted, of Cumberland, former division superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, having been named by Judge Dayton. Mr. Husted has been general manager of the coal company for some time. The mines will be kept in operation.

The Secretary of State of West Virginia issued a charter on Monday of this week incorporating the Potomac River Railway Company, Keyser, W. Va.; principal offices, Piedmont, W. Va.; to build railroad from Keyser to Bloomington, Md.; authorized capital, $150,000; incorporators, L. P. Probe, J. J. Benter, C. H. Geiger, C. M. Burkett, Antone Korn, all of Wheeling, W. Va.

Mr. Harry M. Blocher, son of Mr. Henry Blocher, of District No. 9, who was here Tuesday as a delegate to the County Convention, was a caller at THE REPUBLICAN office and left with the editor a very handsome collection of Easter flowers, which were plucked on his father's farm from plants which were originally set out over a hundred years ago by his paternal greatgrandmother.

When you pull down the town in which is your home, you are pulling down yourself, and when you build up yourself and your neighbor. Try and banish from your mind the mistaken idea that all good things are away off in some other locality. Give your town all the praise it can legitimately bear. It certainly will do you no harm and will cost you nothing; and above all patronize your home institutions—including the printing office.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

"Is your father rich?" someone asked a five year old girl and the little one replied confidently, "Why, of course! He's got me." And she was right, too, for the father of a sweet, loving helpful little daughter is richer than some millionaires whose money can not buy them the love of a single heart. How about your father? Does he feel that he is a rich man because of the daughter at home? There are households where it is hard "to make both ends meet" but where there is plenty of that better wealth of love and goodness and loyalty. Is yours one of them?

DEATH OF MISS STANTON.

Member of An Old Garrett County Family.

Miss Isabella Stanton died suddenly on the 30th of March, 1908 at her home at the Little Crossings in Garrett county, after an illness of only a few days. She was somewhere in her fifties, never married, a daughter of Wm. Stanton, one of the best known citizens of the county during his life, but who died about 40 years ago, leaving a large family of sons and daughters. Two of the sons, Eli and Uriah, are prominent citizens of their county, and have filled prominent officers. The deceased and two sisters, Ruth and Mary, together with their brother, Uriah, all lived together in the old Stanton mansion, at the Little Crossings, a most comfortable and desirable home.

Strange as it may seem, these three sisters and brother were all unmarried, and lived together for many years in sisterly and brotherly harmony. The former harmonious quartet, by death, has now been reduced to a trio. The persons forming it are much respected. The death of the one mentioned will be a sorrowful incident to many. The Stanton family is an ancient one, very numerous and all highly esteemed.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ¼ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

George Weber, of Oakland, Md., was in Grafton several hours today on a business visit. Mr. Weber is a member of the celebrated H. Weber Sons Company, the florists and makes frequent visits to this city where the company has large business. The Weber flowers are known in every state in the Union and are famous for having captured the first prizes at all the leading floral expositions in the country.—Grafton Sentinel.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

Mr. W. Scott Matthews, native Garrett countian, now a valued resident and ex-County Treasurer of Somerset county, Pa., was in Oakland Monday in company with his brother-in-law, Mr. Ulysses S. Frazee, of Selbysport, both having come here on business connected with the settlement of the estate of the Matthews' heirs. Mr. Matthews is well remembered by many residents of Oakland and Garrett county generally. At present he is a candidate for the nomination on the Republican ticket for the Legislature from his adopted county in Pennsylvania. Both Mr. Matthews and Mr. Frazee returned to their respective homes Monday.

We have for years past noticed one very undesirable feature in the attendance of the public school in the higher grade, viz: There are, as a rule many more girls attending than boys. Why is this? Where are the boys? They leave school, many of them early or soon as they are able to get a get position as clerk in some store or office under the impression that they are wasting time by remaining in school longer. The average boy thinks that if he gets some business position that will enable him to earn a few dollars a month, and that looks towards his final occupation in life, while his classmates stick to school three or four years longer, he has just so many years the start of his companion who remains in school. Now the real facts in the case are that the reverse of this is the truth. The boy who remains in school and acquires a thorough education lays a foundation that will surely other things being equal, enable him to surpass his class mate, who left school three or four years earlier.

Resolutions of Oakland High School.

The following resolutions, relative to the resignation of Prof. Morris K. Turner, principal of the Oakland High School, have been handed THE REPUBLICAN for publication:

WHEREAS, It has been the privilege of the Oakland Public School to have as its head Prof. Morris K. Turner, who for the past three years has so efficiently conducted the school; and

WHEREAS, As Prof. Turner leaves us for other labors, be it

Resolved, That we as a school extend to him our hearty well wishes for tuture success and well being.

The above were unanimously adopted by the school.

MABEL PORTER,
ETHEL WILT,
NELL WORKMAN,
Committee.

Another Great Opening.

Friday evening at 6 o'clock and all day Saturday.

1t HARRY DAVIS.

Subscribe for the Republican.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

EASTER OPENING.

Tuesday, April 6th.

Wednesday, April 7th,

1908.

Mrs. M. L. SCOTT

Baltimore Store.

Oakland, Maryland.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. & P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

A show for the ladies and children as well as the gentlemen, all next week at the Opera House.

ACCIDENT NORMAL.

We will organize April 20th and continue till June 12th.

This work is designed to give teachers and others a thorough knowledge of all branches taught in the Free Schools.

It will be an opportune time for those just entering the profession of teaching.

Those who have taught should make this summer's work a stepping stone to a HIGHER GRADE of work and BETTER SALARIES.

We will endeavor to make it both pleasant and profitable for you. Come and spend a busy session with us.

The Commissioners have arranged a uniform rate of $5 TUITION for the entire time. BOARDING is abundant, cheap and convenient.

For further information address

J. C. BEAHM, Principal, Accident, Md.

Or

H. W. BROWNING, Vice-Principal, Friendsville, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

A Cowtown Episode.

By Thomas B. Montfort.

Copyright, 1907, by Thomas B. Montfort.

"SEE them two old plugs over there?" the landlord of the Maverick hotel asked, pointing across the street. The grocery drummer, who had been caught over Sunday in the little Kansas cowtown, looked up and saw two grizzled, gray old men sitting peacefully side by side on a dry goods box in the shade of a building.

"As mild and quiet as a pair of little innocent lambs," the landlord added with a chuckle, "and dwellin' together jest like they was own twin brothers."

The grocery drummer yawned and took up a paper and began to read. The old men did not interest him in the least. It was no uncommon thing in his experience to see a couple of old fellows loafing on a village street.

"But that's jest the way they always are," the landlord went on. "You hardly ever see 'em when they ain't together. Wherever one goes the other goes, and whatever one does the other does. Ever since a feller come along here and put us on to it we been callin' 'em Damon and Pythias. You've heard tell of them chaps, I reckon?"

The drummer nodded.

"Well, these two old cubs is jest like that so far as their friendship goes—stand by each other through thick and thin, and either of 'em would fight to the last breath for the other. And quiet and peaceable! You would naturally think they'd been raised up in a Sunday school and hadn't never heard tell of nothin' but the Bible all their lives."

The drummer made no reply, and a long silence followed. At last, however, the landlord emitted a soft chuckle and, pointing across the street, said:

"You wouldn't ever guess, now, a-lookin' at them settin' there that way, that they used to be two of the toughest cusses that ever run the range and that for two years they tried their very best to kill each other. Now, would you?"

"Hardly," the drummer answered.

"Y-t it's even so. I bet each of 'em has got a pound of lead in him now that the other put there, and as for scars—well, I reckon they've branded each other up about as complete as they could without puttin' the scars on double."

The drummer began to show interest. He laid aside his paper and asked for the particulars.

"Well, it's like this," the landlord began. "Joe Kern—that's the one on the right there—he used to be a cowboy and worked on the Triple X ranch, 'bout twenty miles south of town. And he was shore a holy terror. There was lots of mighty tough cowboys round here in them days, but the toughest of 'em was as mild and harmless as babies compared with Joe. Their little scrappin' and shootin' wa'n't much more than Sunday school work when looked at alongside of what he done.

"Among the eccentric notions Joe got into his head was one to the effect that this town didn't need no marshal and shouldn't have none. Accordin'ly, as soon as that idea hit him he sent in word to the marshal invitin' him to resign or move away and sayin' that he would be up in a few days and would be under the painful necessity of vacatin' the office with his six shooter if the marshal disregarded his well meant invitation.

"THE BALL CUT A LOCK OF HAIR FROM AB'S HEAD."

"The marshal was a young feller, and he hadn't never felt any special longing to quit this world for another that he didn't know anything about, so he suddenly decided that he'd give up his job and go away to some place that was more conducive to longevity. Accordin'ly, he tendered his resignation and without waitin' for it to be accepted lit out.

"After that there were other marshals, but none of them held the office very long. As fast as they were elected Joe invited them to resign, and they showed respect for his wishes. Some of them were a little slow, though, and he had to come in and press his invitation by figin' a few shots just close enough about their heads to make them nervous and loosen up the muscles of their legs.

"Well, things went along that way for 'bout a year. Then one day a long ganglin' feller with a mild eye, a soft voice and a solemn lookin' face happened into town. His name was Ab Case, and that's him a-sittin' over there on the left.

"Ab he was lookin' for a job, and the town it was lookin' for a marshal jest then, so the two gits together and strikes up a deal. Ab says he ain't never been a marshal, but 'lows he can manage it all right, and the town is findin' it difficult to get anybody to take the job with Joe Kern and shore death hangin' over it, so to speak.

"Well, Ab is sworn in and puts on the star, and then here comes a invite to him from Joe, askin' him to resign. Ab listened to Joe's message, which was delivered by another cowboy, then shrugs his shoulders and replies that he don't never accept invitations second-hand.

"'If Mr. Kern wants me to consider any proposition he has got to offer along that line,' he says, 'he will have to come in and see me pussonally.'

"About three days later Mr. Kern did come in. Down at the saloon he told them why he had come. It was to convince the new marshal that he ought to resign and go away.

"'And I have brought my very best arguments with me,' he finished, 'arguments that ain't never failed as a last resort.'

"He shore had them, too—a Winchester and a brace of six shooters. And he knowed how to handle them arguments 'bout as eloquently as any man that ever lived.

"He irrigated his system at the bar, coolly lighted a cigar and then went out to look up the marshal and pay his respects to him. And he didn't have to go far, either, for he was scarcely out of the saloon when somebody pointed out Ab standin' on a corner 'bout half a block away.

"'Are you shore that's him?' Joe asked. 'I'd rather not make any mistake and kill an innocent man if it can be helped.'

"'That's shore him,' they answered.

"Joe smiled and raised his gun.

"'I'll sorter wake him up,' he said. 'I won't hurt him at first, but jest call his attention that I'm here.'

"He fired, and the ball cut a lock of hair from Ab's head. Ab looked around sort of casual to see what it meant and the next instant sent back an answer to Joe's shot. That answer plowed a furrow along the side of Joe's head.

"From that they went at it in dead earnest. Everybody else got out of the way and give 'em a clear field. There wa'n't no backin' down and no runnin' on the part of neither of 'em. They jest stood up there and pumped lead at and into each other as carelessly and cheerfully as you please.

"After 'bout ten minutes the firin' ceased, and then we all cautiously peered out to see how it had ended. They was both down on the ground helpless, but still tryin' to shoot.

"When we come to examine, we found 'em pretty badly riddled up, but with no wounds that promised to be fatal. We carried 'em off, and the doctors patched 'em up, and for a long time they remained quiet in bed.

"Some of us reckoned the matter would end there, as they had both shorely had enough, but the older men thought different. One of 'em said:

"'It won't ever end while they both live. Kern will never give up, and it's pretty evident Case won't either. When they get out, they'll be at it again, and they'll keep at it till one of 'em is done for.'

"And it proved that he was partly right. The very first time they met after their recovery they took another round of shootin' at each other.

"The result this time was similar to what it had been before. Both were badly used up, but neither injured fatally.

"And so for two years it continued. Every time Joe came up to town there was a shootin' bout. They fought to kill, too, and, both of 'em bein' good shots, we reckoned every time one of 'em would be shore to git it. But, strange to say, neither of 'em ever did. They riddled each other all up, but they was never able to git in a finishin' shot.

"'I'll git him yit, though,' Joe declared. 'I'm jest bound to do it before I quit.'

"Ab made the same declaration, and we was all shore one of 'em would be killed before the thing come to an end. Didn't seem like it could wind up any other way.

"But it transpired that we was all entirely mistaken, as you can see for yourself.

"One day, 'bout three months after the last shootin' scrape and jest when we was expectin' Joe to make another appearance, a covered wagon drove into town and stopped in front of the mayor's office. The wagon was from the Triple X, and we couldn't understand its bein' covered that way, so we all gathered round to see what it meant.

"In the bottom of the wagon was some straw, and lyin' stretched out on the straw was Joe Kern. We see at a glance that Joe was mighty sick, for he jest lay there and moaned and didn't take no notice of nobody nor nothin'.

"While we was standin' there gapin' like a passul of idiots Ab come up and pushed his way through the crowd to the wagon. We 'lowed shore as soon as Ab got his eyes on Joe he'd plug him, but right there we was mistaken some more.

"Ab looks at Joe a minute, then turns to the driver and says:

"'What's the matter of the cuss?'

"'Smallpox,' the driver replies.

"In about half a minute that identical part of town became rather scarce of population. All of us except Ab, Joe and the driver happened to simultaneously remember that we had more pressin' business other places, and we hurried off to tend to it.

"It seemed, as we learned afterward, that Joe had been exposed to the smallpox somewhere and that the first thing they knowed he took down with it. The ranch wa'n't no fit place for a sick man to stay, so they loaded him up and sent him into town, expectin' the mayor to take him in hand and do somethin' with him. But it happened that the mayor was away from home and wouldn't be back for a week.

"IF THERE'S ANY MORE SHOOTIN' DONE, YOU'LL HAVE TO DO IT!"

"Ab studied a little while. Then he said to the driver:

"'Take him down to my house. I'll keep him and do the best I can for him. That seems to be all there is for it.'

"So the driver went on down to Ab's house, and he and Ab took Joe from the wagon and carried him in and put him in Ab's bed. Ab turned nuss and stayed right there with Joe, sleepin' on a blanket on the floor.

"Of course we was all surprised at Ab doin' that way, seein' that he and Joe were such bitter enemies, and we talked about it and wondered at it. Joe couldn't understand it, either, so one day when he was gittin' better he says to Ab:

"'There's one thing I want to know, Mr. Case. I've puzzled about it a good bit lyin' here, and I can't seem to git the hang of it. I would like to know why you took me in and nussed me this way?'

"'I hope,' Ab replied, 'that you ain't got no notion that I done it for love?'

"'Hardly,' Joe answered. 'But that is what makes it harder to understand.'

"'Then I'll explain,' Ab said. 'First, I wouldn't be brute enough to let a sick dog suffer for attention if I could help it, and, second, I didn't want you to die a natural death and cheat me out of the pleasure of shootin' you.'

"Joe's face broke into a smile, and he reached out and took Ab's hand and pressed it warmly.

"'Your words are a great relief to me,' he said. 'I was afraid you was goin' to place me under obligations not to kill you, and it worried me. But now I understand, and it's all right. As soon as I get out of this we'll take up the fight, and we'll keep it up till I git you.'

"'Till I git you, you mean,' Ab corrected.

"'Do I? Well, you'll see.'

"It went on till at last Joe was able to be up and around; then I'm blamed if Ab didn't turn in and take down with the smallpox. Then them two jest reversed things. Ab took the bed, and Joe nussed him and slept on the floor. Ab was mighty bad off for awhile, but finally he begun to git better.

"One day when Joe was sittin' by the bed Ab broke a long silence by saying:

"'I'll be out soon now, and then I reckon we'll be done with this cussed smallpox.'

"'Yep, I reckon so,' Joe replied.

"'And it won't be long either,' Ab went on, 'till we can resume our little pastime of shootin' each other up.'

"Joe turns around and looks Ab straight in the eyes and says:

"'You may think me a coward if you want to, but I say right now that if there's any more shootin' done you'll have to do it. I'm through for my part. Before I'll shoot a man who took me in and cared for me like you did I'll pull up stakes and leave the country.'

"Ab looked surprised for a moment; then he stretched out his hand and said:

"'Put 'er thar, pard. Them's my sentiments exactly.'

"And from that day them two fellers has been jest like you see 'em now, quiet and peaceful as lambs, the very best of friends and always hangin' around together."

A Well Mannered Bus.

Riding in an omnibus up Regent street recently, an old lady was annoying the other passengers by her remarks. The conductor remonstrated with her, saying, "Ma'am, remember you are in a public vehicle, and behave as such."—London Spectator.

MUNICIPALUNACY.

By JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

Judging from the reports that reach us from various parts of the country as to the condition of civic lighting companies and wilted water plants, we shall soon be relieved of the stigma placed upon us by the British visitor to this country who declared that we had no impressive ruins to attract the traveler. Would it not be a good plan for some munificent millionaire to buy up a few of these, transfer them to the banks of the Hudson and thus put that beautiful waterway into the running in the matter of legendary interest with the Rhine? A few moss and ivy covered ruins of this kind would add much to the scenic beauty of the picturesque river and doubtless inspire our literati with ghastly legendary lore that will make those old stories of the Rhine look like a mark and a half. Here indeed is a chance for Mr. Andrew Carnegie to do something to beautify his adopted native land and to fill the shelves of his many libraries as well with good reading at one fell swoop.

* *

The increase of the public debt of Birmingham, England, from $4,000,000 in the early seventies of the last century to $75,000,000, according to the last available figures, shows how completely municipal ownership wipes out a debt of that kind. Alongside of $75,000,000, a paltry sum of $4,000,000 is not only wiped out, but actually annihilated.

* *

The police of Chicago were assessed in the last elections to pay the expenses of the municipal ownership campaign. This is another point in favor of a comprehensive system of public ownership. After awhile, with the motormen, conductors, watermen, gasmen, ditch diggers, firemen, electricians, and so on, to assess for similar purposes, the public will doubtless enjoy free elections. One might almost hope that such a fund as this would wax so great that after elections are over there would be a balance left to declare a municipal dividend with. The byproducts of the municipal ownership idea grow daily more and more interesting, not to say alluring.

* *

It is nonsense to say that municipal ownership breeds socialism. On the contrary, it is driving people back to individualism. In some European cities people who used to patronize the trolleys now walk because they wish to get where they are going along lines of least official resistance. And in Valley City, N. D., the quality of the service of the public gas plant has driven a number of business men to install gasoline lighting systems of their own on their premises.

* *

Muncie, Ind., has abandoned her lighting plant, but consoles herself with the thought that her bonds remain. As the poet said, or would have said if he had thought of it:

Old ties are hard to sever.
Other ties endure forever.

* *

The city fathers of Brunswick, Mo., have just done a good stroke of business in selling its lighting plant for 85 cents on the dollar, taking pay in light and water. It is fortunate it wasn't a municipal bakery. It would be hard to pay for that by sending large drafts of rhubarb pie and cream cakes to the city treasury, to say nothing of the risk Brunswick would incur of a sudden attack of civic indigestion running into chronic appendicitis from overindulgence in doughnuts. Operations upon the body politic are dangerous things, since the patient is apt to experience ill effects from taking gas.

Can't Do It by Statute.

Any corporation is entitled to a fair return on all its legitimate investments over and above all expenses when these are carefully and economically administered. There are some corporations which are undoubtedly overcharging the public, but there are more whose stock has never paid any dividends whatever, and only an unfortunate aggravation of the present strained relations existing between the people and the public service corporations can result from the expectation of the former that they can through legislative action obtain a universal reduction in the charges made by such corporations.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

A Danger to Be Avoided.

If a city is not well governed, municipal ownership is the most dangerous thing imaginable and should be carefully avoided. There is always the danger that the public utilities the city is supposed to own will become nothing more or less than the private property of the people at the head of the government, who will work to their own advantage and the enhancement of their private wealth.—William T. Stead.

Only as a Last Resort.

Any city which is getting fair treatment from a privately owned plant should eschew municipal ownership. Except under unusually favorable conditions—conditions that promise to make the proposed plant a positive money earner—municipal ownership should be only a last resort.—Marquette (Mich.) Journal.

Political M. O. Machines.

Municipal ownership of street railways, gas and electric lighting means an enormous political machine with thousands of employees to be voted at the behest of some political party.—Mayor Mahool of Baltimore.

CURED HER JEALOUSY.

How Mrs. Bellefield's Friends Had Fun at Her Expense.

Mrs. Bellefield is very jealous of her husband, and her friends know of her failing. One of them had a little fun at her expense the other day in consequence of this trait.

Toward the close of an afternoon call Mrs. Dukane said to her:

"Oh, by the way, I saw your husband today at the conversazione."

"Yes? He seemed to be enjoying himself, I suppose?"

"He did, indeed. Was he ever in love with Mrs. Dinwiddie before he married you?"

"I'm sure I don't know, but it's quite likely. Was she at the conversazione?"

"Yes, and I saw her bend toward your husband and say something in a confidentially low voice."

"You didn't catch any of the conversation?"

"No."

Mrs. Dukane took her departure, and Mrs. Bellefield waited impatiently for her husband's return home that evening.

"Oh, you shameless man!" she exclaimed as he took off his overcoat and hung it on the hall rack.

"What's the matter now?" he asked in deep surprise.

"There you are, putting on an innocent face, as if the whole town wasn't talking about your flirtations with the Dinwiddie girl."

"Flirtation!" he repeated in a dazed sort of way.

"Yes, flirtation! Now, don't pretend she wasn't at the conversazione today."

"Yes; she was there."

"Oh, you'll admit that much, will you?"

"Certainly."

"Then what were you and she talking so confidentially about?"

"We weren't talking confidentially."

"I suppose she didn't even speak to you?"

"Yes, she did."

"Ah! Now I've got you. Tell me what she said."

"She was one of the waitresses, and she asked me if I would take coffee or tea."—Tit-Bits.

A Distinction Without a Difference.

Five-year-old Deborah had been invited to take luncheon at a restaurant with Miss K.

"Do you like cocoa?" she was asked.

When the answer was "Yes," the beverage was duly brought, but remained untasted.

At last Miss K. said, "Why don't you drink your cocoa, Deborah, when you said you wanted it?"

"I didn't say I wanted it," replied the child politely; "I only said that I liked it."—Woman's Home Companion.

Just the Thing.

Sapleigh (in hat store)—I would—aw—like to get a hat.

Proprietor—What style would you prefer?

Sapleigh—I'm not particulah as to the style, doncher know. I want something to—aw—suit me head.

Proprietor—Just step this way, please, and I'll show you our line of soft hats.—Detroit Tribune.

Came In Handy.

How Mr. Snipp's whiskers served his wife and daughter.—Harper's Weekly.

At Sight.

"So your daughter has married the titled stranger," said the romantic woman.

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox, glancing up from his check book.

"Was it a case of love at sight?"

"Yes. Now it's a case of draw at sight."—Washington Star.

Not Cutting Prices.

Caller—Is that the best you can promise me—a wife fifteen years older than I am, with a sharp nose, thin lips and a sour disposition?

Fortune Teller—What more do you expect? Did you think you could get a real affinity for a dollar?—Chicago Tribune.

The Ideal Sermon.

The New Minister—What is your idea of the proper length of a sermon, Miss Deering?

The Choir Singer—Why, I think it should be long enough to get people interested and short enough to keep them so.—Puck.

This Denial Habit.

"How should an engagement be announced?"

"In the fashionable world?"

"Yes."

"By saying there's no truth in the rumor."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Not the Right Phrase.

"Who," asked the minister, "gives this woman away?"

"Hold on, mistaire, if you plis," said the titled foreigner. "Zis woman iss not given away; it iss a trade."—Minneapolis Journal.

A Word In Its Favor.

"That joke has whiskers," said the editor of the comic weekly.

"Maybe it has," replied the contributor, "but it isn't so old that its hair has fallen out."—Pittsburg Post.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" [illegible] Pneumonia. You may [illegible] after that [illegible] afterwards. [illegible] you have even a deeply [illegible] Preventics—At the sneeze finger—they [illegible] head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Cocaine, no physic, nothing sickening. Most fine for children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, take Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child if there is feverishness, night or day. Remember ably Has Preventics' greatest efficiency. 25c for 50 boxes for the pocket, also in the 25 Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D., PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON, OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE, PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT, DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST, OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyar ... Investigation of land titles and collection ... claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907

OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.37 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *3.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *5.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBBELAND and Way Points, Depart †10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m. Arrive †9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.57 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart †9.26 a. m., †5.26 p. m. Arrive †10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart †9.26 a. m. (local), †3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart †7.26 p. m. Arrive †10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., §3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.37 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland.

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows.
An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;
Hamiltonian; $250.

1 Gasoline Engine,
8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,
operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

THE MARYLAND AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE
COLLEGE PARK, MD.
MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
Six Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S."
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scientific
Horticeural. Civil Engineering. Chemical
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.
Each Department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all Departments. Graduates qualified to enter upon life's work.
Boarding Department supplied with all modern improvements—Bathrooms, Steam Heat and Electricity.
New Buildings with modern improvements. Location unsurpassed for health. Tuition, Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Medical attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical and Athletic fees All included in an annual charge of $200 payable quarterly in advance. Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sanitarium for isolation of any patient with contagious diseases.
Catalog giving full particulars sent on application.
Attention is called to Short Course of Ten Weeks in Agriculture.
Write for particulars.
Term commences September 19th, 1907.
Early application necessary for admittance.
22-8t R. W. SYLVESTER, Pres't College Park Md.

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

Davis' 100 per cent Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, several other houses near me were painted with other paints. There is a big contrast today between the appearance of my house and others." J. H. PRUITT, Chincoteague, Va.

If you compare adulterated paint with Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will readily know why my house painted with Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS, Agents

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery
Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

PHENOMENON OF SHOWER OF STARS

The Thrilling Experience of 1833 Described

BY WITNESS OF THE EVENT.

Great Fear and Excitement All Over the Land—Stage Travelers Were Panic Stricken—Wanted Drivers to Stop at First Inn.

Capt. A. E. Schell contributes the following interesting reminiscence to the columns of the Somerset Democrat of this week:

The falling of the stars at certain seasons and certain periods is a phenomenal problem. Nature designed the advent as a prelude to some mysterious discovery yet to be made. The simple falling of one or two stars is of frequent occurrence and creates no particular interest or alarm. Yet when we recall the downpour during the night of November 15, 1833, we are lost in wonder at the strange discharge from the skies. How vividly I can recall that terrible night—though but a boy. The sky was lighted up with one glare of perpetual fire and the great balls of fire seemed to descend to the very earth, and it looked as though the very heavens and earth would be consumed in one great conflagration. Fear seized the people of the earth, and the men and women sank down on their knees and offered up prayers for their safe deliverance. Consternation spread far and wide among the seemingly doomed populace. That was a dreadful night of suspense and all humanity thought the end was just at hand. But with the dawn of day the fiery elements ceased, and the heavens became more calm and serene and the alarmed citizens became more composed.

I can recall that terrible night from the fact that I was aroused from my childhood slumbers by the great confusion and excitement in my father's house, the old Exchange Hotel in Bedford, and throughout the town

How frequently heard the old timers—the stalwart stage driver, "Billy Waugh," Joseph Creeger agd others whose drive was from Stoyertown down over the mountain to Schellsburg, relate their experiences in coming down over the Alleghany mountain on that dreadful night, and how the balls of fire fell and exploded in the air and frequently — apparently in front of their lead horses; how the horses flew around in their fear and frenzy.

That was a fearful night for the old veterans in the service of the United States, carrying the mails. The passengers in the coaches pleaded and implored the drivers to put up at the country inns by the wayside and await the final result of the dreadful phenomena; but alarmed as they were, they made a desperate effort to reach their station, or the terminus of their drives and homes.

For years after the occurrence, those old veteran stage drivers related their thrilling experience on on that eventful night. And after three quarters of a century I recall the thrilling incident of the mysterious discharge of the heavenly elements. Astronomers of the present age are lost in the midnight hours studying the planets and a new constellation visible in the skies. The theory develops as science advances and the learned men are startled by the discovery of new planets every day. Mars, Jupiter, etc., are visible to the naked eye, the smaller planets are only perceptible by a powerful telescope, while other smaller are so far distant that it requires a still greater telescope to locate them. Theorists have burned the midnight lamp in establishing their fixed location in the firmament.

The sky is covered with brilliant stars, the air is wild, frantic and changeable at certain periods, while the stars are resplendent in the heavens, between the immensity of space, and how we watch those mysterious constellations in the heavenly vault. Mystersously and in sudden flight, a star is detached from the sky and is observed flying through space and dropping toward the earth; again another and another follows into immense depths, and all disappear and vanish in utter darkness.

During the long centuries th science of astronomy advances with the progress of the world. Able and learned astronomers have solved the mystery. The theory of shooting stars or orbits are small bodies, composed mainly of iron carbon. They travel in swarms through space, and like the comets, moved around the sun in very elongated eclipses. When these cross the path of the earth shooting stars become visible their brilliancy is the result of the transformation of their rapid motion into heat and explosion follows and they drop toward the earth and disappear.

Reported an Escape.

One day a tall, gaunt woman, with rope-colored hair; and an expression of great fierceness, strode into the office of a county clerk in West Virginia:

"You are the person that keeps the marriage books ain't ye?" she demanded.

"What book do you wish to see, madam?" asked the polite clerk.

"Kin yiu find out if Jim Jones was married?"

Search of the records disclosed the name of James Jones, for whose marriage license had been issued two years before.

"Married Elizabeth Mott, didn't he?" asked the woman.

"The license was issued for a marriage with Miss Elizabeth Mott."

"Well, young man, I'm Elizabeth. I thought I oughter come come in an' tell you that Jim has escaped!"

What Is Whiskey?

In England they are attempting by means of a Royal Commission to determine what whiskey is. The popt still has called the patent still corrupt, and the controversy which has ensued has evoked a prodigious amount of testimony regarding whiskey-making processes. It is proposed to distinguish the two kinds of whiskey through labels bearing a full description of the materials used and the mode of disillation. Yet as exactly what constitutes whiskey is a verdict of accordance with the evidence is likely to be the Scotch one of "not proven."

The agitation has an interest for this country at a time when Attorney-General Bonaparte is threatening to proceed under the Pure Food law against whiskey concerns which neglect to affix descriptive labels to the product. By the classification of our Department of Justice whiskey must be offered as "straight," "blended" or "imitation," according as it is pure, mixed or compounded or spirits, rye extract, burnt sugar and fusel oil.

It may strike the philosopher as odd that at this time of day we do not know what whiskey is. What we do know and what paternal governments deplore is that a great deal of stuff is put upon the market, and thence finds its way into the national alimentary canal, which, whether it be whiskey or not, is not good to drink. This new British commission proposes to inform the people whether the law should restrict the materials of the processes used in the manufacture of whiskey; to require declarations as to such materials or processes; to require all new whiskey to be matured in bond, and to extend such requirements to all imported spirits. Whiskey is a stubborn fact but it must yield like other things to regulation.

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on
2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.
2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.
2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.
Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier
DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices
Grain Drills, Harrows AND Plows
AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,
Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞ For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, Oakland, Md.

MR. JABOB BROWN, OF CUMBERLAND

Celebrated His Eighty-Fourth Anniversary Tuesday.

Jacob Brown, Esq., the oldest member of the Allegany county bar and perhaps the oldest lawyer in Maryland celebrated the 84th anniversary of his birth yesterday. In the evening of an honorable and useful career he is still pursuing the practice of his profession.

The subject of this sketch was the youngest of eleven children, and was born on the old Brown farm in Garrett county, April 7, 1824. When sixteen years of age he met with an accident from which he lost an arm. He then gave up farm life and after attending the Washington College in Pennsylvania, studied law and was admitted to the bar of this city in 1847, and is today its oldest, as well as one of its most highly esteemed members.

Mr. Brown has always been conservative in his political views, and although holding to the tenets of the Republican party in national affairs, is generally recognized as an independent in politics, and has never sought office.

For over sixty years Mr. Brown has been identified with the growth and progress to this end of the state, and has contributed greatly to the perpetuation of the local annals of both Allegany and Garrett counties.

Brown's Miscellaneous Writings, which he published in 1896, is a most valuable handbook of family records, and should have a place in every home in Maryland. For many years Mr. Brown has devoted himself quietly to literary pursuits, and is an interesting writer upon any subject that attracts.

There is a charm in his style of composition that impresses the reader with his earnestness and sincerity.

Mr. Brown was elected to the City Council in 1878, at the election where for the first time five councilmen were elected at large. His colleagues were Messrs. K. H. Butler, Jacob Shuck, John Kolb and C. W. Holzshu, all of whom passed away some years ago.—Cumberland News.

FIKE.

The weather conditions last week have been cold with some snow in this section.

The school of this place closed on the 3rd with all the trustees and several of the patrons present.

Mr. L. K. Fike was sick last week and on account of his ailment was obliged to close his school for a few days.

Mrs. Andrew Chrise is no better at this writing.

Misses Martha Chisholm, Cuba Frazee, Daisy Thomas and Nora Fike, attended the entertainment at the McCabe school on last Friday.

We have something in this community that not many communities can boast of and that is a man who is a perfect guide as to wrong and right, for he always is wrong, so if you ask him anything always do the opposite and you will be right.

The Sunday school has been reorganized and we hope for a pleasant and beneficial school this season. The officers of the school are Wm. H. Thomas and Taylor Friend, Superintendents; Nora A. Fike, Secretary; Roy Umbel, Treasurer; Lloyd K. Fike, chorister. All are cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Wm. L. Thomas has been sick the past week, but is some better now.

Mr. John H. Thomas has returned from his trip to Oklahoma. He reports it very pleasant out there, the corn being about six inches high.

CARTER.

Asked To Be Buried Alive.

Rough justice as it is administered in most parts of China is sometimes tempered by individual tastes, as an incident printed in one of the China port journals attests. A man is Suchien, condemned to die, preferred to be buried alive and his wishes were carried out to the letter.

During the famine two brothers who lived in Sucien fought desperately to stave off starvation from their families and bad blood arose between them. At last the elder brother sold his father's coffin for food. When he refused to divide the proceeds with his younger brother the latter cut off his head with a cleaver.

Because it was too expensive to carry the murderer several scores of miles to the nearest yamen of justice the local elders, including the father of the murderer whose coffin had been sold sat in justice upon the culprit and condemned him to death. He asked that he be buried alive instead of receiving a horrible torture of the "thirty slices." The father interceded with the other elders to get them to grant his son's request.

A grave was dug, and the victim, with his arms and feet securely bound was trundled on wheelbarrow to the edge of the pit by his wife. There upon the murderer's own request his bonds were loosed and he walked to the grave, lowered himself into it and was ready.

The victim's wife put a felt hat over his mouth at his request, and then she helped the elders to fill in the grave with six feet of earth.

ARBOR AND BIRD DAY CELEBRATION

Annual Celebration Will Probably Take Place on Friday, April 17.

Arbor and Bird Day will probably be celebrated on Friday, April 17, although the Governor as is customary, will set the date. A program consisting of songs, readings, recitations, etc., has been arranged by Dr. M. Bates Stephens, state superintendent of education. The program, which will be followed in part or in whole in the public schools, is as follows:

Song, "Maryland, My Maryland;" reading of Scripture selection; roll call, with appropriate questions; reading of President Roosevelt's letter; singing, "Song of Arbor Day," by seven pupils; recitation, "The Schoolhouse Yard;" recitation, "If I Were a Sunbeam," by a primary pupil; short poems; song, "Arbor Day March;" planting exercise; closing exercises.

The program is contained in the Maryland Teachers' Year Book, and is followed by the words of the songs to be sung, a selection from the Scriptures, President Roosevelt's letter, in full, to to the schoolchildren; planting suggestions; history of the liberty tree standing on the campus of St. John's College, Annapolis, and many other selections for reading and recitations.

GORTNER.

Miss Anna Schrock, who has been staying with her sister, Mrs. Joe Yoder, of Meyersdale, Pa., returned home one day last week.

A bouncing big boy was added to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Lichty last Thursday.

Mrs. B. S. Forman and children are spending a few weeks with her parents at this place.

N. C. Slabaugh and family were visitors at Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Killius' Sunday.

Rev. J. A. Brilhart, of Scottdale, Pa., was in this vicinity last Saturday and Sunday.

B. S. Forman left for Cumberland last Monday.

Sunday school next Sunday at 10 o'clock a. m.

Church Services.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Pleasant Valley—Sunday school at 2 p. m.; preaching at 3 p. m.

Loch Lynn—Preaching at 7.30 p. m.

J. F. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

OAKLAND PRESBYUERIAN.

Rev. H. C. Hensley, of Cumberland, will preach in the Garrett Memorial church, Oakland, next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday evening at 7:30 o'cock. All are most cordially invited to attend these services.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows: Preaching 10:30 a. m., subject "Pure and Undefiled Religion."

Sunday school 2.15 p. m.

Semon at 7:30 p. m. "The Triumphal Entry."

There will be service each evening next week at 7:45. These services will deal with the events in the life of our Savior which took place during the week of His Passion. The public is invited to attend these services and we especially urge our own people to plan to be present at each service.

Junior League Wednesday 2.15 p. m.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows: Preaching at 10.30 a. m., and 7.30 p. m.

Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Catechise Saturday at 2 p. m.

Luther League every Wednesday at 7:30 p. m.

Preaching at Crellin next Sunday at 2.30 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

Our Millinary Display.

Don't think of buying a hat before seeing Harry Davis's. 3t

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,

HORACE R. DEWITT,
Treasurer of Garrett County.

4td

FIRE LOSS PROMPTLY PAID.

Messrs. Mathews & Hamill Complimented For Their Promptness.

BOND, Md., Jan. 1st, 1908.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL, Oakland, Md.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your letter of December 31st, enclosing me a draft for two hundred dollars in payment of my recent loss by fire. This draft arrived just fifteen days after the happening of the fire, and I desire to thank you for your promptness in paying the claim. Your promptness in paying losses is to me the best possible evidence that you represent companies which are able to pay their losses, and have no desire to take advantage of those who insure with you. It will give me pleasure to recommend you to those who may desire to insure their properties against loss by fire.

Very truly yours,

E. E. BROWN,
Supt. Bond Mill.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

Appeal Session.

The Taxpayers of Oakland will take notice that the Town Council will set at the Council Chamber in said town on from 2 to 5 p. m., and from 7 to 9 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of hearing appeals and making transfers upon the assessment books of said town.

Monday, April 20, 1908,

By order of the Council.

6 2t J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. MCCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., December, 26, 1907.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1908 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent, Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,923,073 84
Total Liabilities	13,650,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD,
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital	$1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance	3,589,757 23
Reserve for all Out standing Claims	318,272 38
Net Surplus	1,118,394 25
Total Assets	$5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total Assets	2,529,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	727,763 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,701 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,166,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Feeruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insnrance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets	$16,389,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities	7,893,860 74
Surplus as regards policy holders	8,505,591 36

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept. Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

HIS CHOICE.

He used to dance with Annabel, who waltzed with witching grace;
He called upon Elizabeth, who had a pretty face,
And Aurelie he much admired—she'd written once a book—
But, oh, he married Mary Ann, for she knew how to cook!

He gave bouquets to Beatrice and bonbons to Babette;
The songs once sung by Sylvia he thought he'd ne'er forget;
He oft made love to Lilian in cozy corner nook—
But, oh, he married Mary Ann, for sh knew how to cook!

The maids who dance and sing and play and dress in stylish clothes,
Who smile and flirt and oft coquette, all have their share of beaus,
But when in earnest for a bride the swain begins to look
'Tis Mary Ann who wins the game, for she knows how to cook!

—Elsie Duncan Yale in Woman's Home Companion.

A Leap Year Scare.

"That little girl wants to speak to you."

"I know it, but dis is leap year, an' I ain't taking no chances."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In a Good Cause.

"Cyrus, what kept you out so late tonight? It's after 12 o'clock."

"I know it, Miranda. I've been to lodge. Had to stay till it was over. We had something extra this time."

"What was it?"

"It was a—er—physical exercise demonstration."

"What kind of physical exercise?"

"A sparring match, if you must know."

"Is that a part of your regular order of business?"

"No; that came under the head of 'good of the order.'"—Chicago Tribune.

No Visible Signals.

"Yessum," said Sandy Pikes as he devoured the wedge of pumpkin pie; "I sternly object to the nefarious practice of clipping off de tails of dogs."

"Ah, I am glad you are so tender hearted, my poor man," sympathized the good housewife.

"Well, it ain't exactly dat, mum, but when a dog hasn't any tail I can't tell by de wags if he is in a good humor or not, and it makes me skeery about approaching de house."—Boston Post.

Learned at the Old Swimmin' Hole.

Two children stood in their kitchen watching a pot of chicken soup warming on the stove when suddenly it began to bubble.

"Freddie," inquired the little girl, "what makes it bubble up?"

"There's a chicken in there," explained the little boy, "and it's tryin' to talk under water."—Judge.

Breaking It Gently.

"Pardon me, sir," began the portly person in the railroad train to the man who sat next to him, "but what would you say if I sat on your hat?"

"Suppose you sit on it and then ask me," suggested the other.

"I did," admitted the portly person calmly.—Harper's Weekly.

She's His Wife Now.

Jinks—Before their marriage he used to laud her eyelashes.

Blinks—Well I remember.

Jinks—And does he pay any attention to her eyelashes now?

Blinks—No, poor fellow. He only has time to pay attention to her tongue lashes.—Detroit Tribune.

Traitor to Her Sex.

"She's a horrid child," said six-year-old Elsie. "She's forever wishing she was a boy."

"Well," replied Kitty, also six, "I'm sure I wish I was too."

"Of course, but she wishes it out loud so the boys can hear her."—Philadelphia Press.

New Use For It.

Cholly—Why, old chap, what do you keep that big copying press in your room for? You don't have any letters to copy, do you?

Fweddy—No, deah boy. I use that for creasing my trousahs, don't you know.—Chicago Tribune.

Hard to Controvert.

"Has your father given you that automobile yet?"

"No; it is so difficult to overcome his objections. He says that the gasoline cars are in bad odor and that the electric ones are simply shocking."—Baltimore American.

Way Up In G.

Mrs. Stubb (reading)—John, some of the suits on these new Atlantic liners cost $2,000 for a single voyage.

Mr. Stubb—H'm! Now I know what they mean by the "high seas."—Chicago News.

His First Banquet.

Friend (in whisper)—The toastmaster wants you to get off a good joke.

The Bashful Man—Beg pardon—er—I didn't know I was on it.—Denver News-Times.

ORDER NISI.

James E. Lish et al. vs Teompson Lish et al. No. 1496 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Ordered this 18th day of March, 1908, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above entitled cause by Julius C. Renninger and William R. Cruit, trustees, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 18th day of April, 1908, provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once a week for three sucessive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1908.

The report states the amount of the sale to be $425.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Order of Publication.

Ada A. V. Halterman vs Henry H. Halterman,

No. 1524 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree, divorcing the plaintiff, Ada A. V. Halterman, a vinculo matrimonii, from the defendant, Henry H. Halterman.

The bill states that on the 29th day of May, 1875, the plaintiff was married to the defendant at Garrett county, Maryland, where they continued to reside together as husband and wife until the 11th day of February, 1905, and that, although the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband, the said Henry H. Halterman, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant has without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that five children were born to the plaintiff and defendant as the result of said marriage, all of whom are dead, except one son, Lawrason H. Halterman, who is above the age of twenty-one years and resides in Page county, Virginia, and the plaintiff is a resident of Garrett county, Maryland, and that the defendant resides in Tucker county, West Virginia, and is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill then prays that the plaintiff may be vinorced a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant, for general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon this 14th day of March, 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of April, 1908, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May next to show cause, if anythe has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Convenience,
Protection,
Economy,

are all combined in Telephone Service. We offer you the many facilities of an efficiently operated and extensively developed system of telephones.

The rates are very low.

THE C. & P. TELEPHONE CO.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Proposals for Building Bridge.

OAKLAND, MD., March 25, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners for Garrett County, Md., will receive sealed proposals until

Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over Cherry Creek on road from Gortner to Sunnyside, said bridge to be of one span, 46 feet extreme length, and 12 feet wide, with stone abutments and to be built according to the plans and specfications now on file in the County Commissioners' office.

The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure separate from the stone work and vice versa.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board.
A. G. Ross, Clerk.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Administrator's Notiec.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Garrett County, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

LEVI SWEITZER,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 30th day of July next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 30th day of January, 1908.

JOSEPH R. GLASS,
Administrator.
Swanton, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator.
Rockwood, Pa.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING
Send for prices

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE
Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.
All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.
JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building.
Oakland, Maryland.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL
Successors to Charles A. Tower,
General Fire Insurance
OAKLAND, MD.
We offer the best possible protection.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1908. NUMBER 7

OTHERS OBEYS THE REGULARS.

Every Reason to Look for An Era of Ring Rnle.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 13.—When Gov. Crothers several weeks ago summoned a coterie of the state senate leaders to his office and demanded the passage of a primary election law in accordance with the spirit of the plank in the party platform he aroused hopes in the breasts of democrats who believe in fair play. Later he announced in an interview that he would rather resign his office than sign a bill not in accordance with the pledges made prior to election. It is now generally understood that the governor was speaking in Pickwickian sense, for during the past ten days he has signed bills which he penly declared were bad and sustained is record for helping to make vicious aws. As a prominent Democrat put , "You cannot teach an old dog new ricks. Austin Crothers," he continued, has been a machine politician all his 'e and he will continue to be a maine politician until the end of his days. is wholly subservient to the will of ring bosses and can be depended n to carry out their orders to the r. He knows that there are no her political honors ahead of him he is therefore, callous to public nion. It is painfully evident that n Senator Smith picked Crothers he gubernatorial chair he knew his y election law, which Cro- last week, legalizes for the plan employed by the sses last November in the e law is purely local in its ids successful candidates ture to vote for the candi- United States Senate who iority of the votes cast in or legislative districts of . Thus, while half of the ublica.. democratic voters of the te resides in Baltimore, their votes count in the aggregate less than -fourth of the vote of the counties. timore has twenty-eight members of two house, while the counties have ty-nine. The law does more than tically disfranchise Baltimore voters onceded democratic counties like cester, Wicomico, Howard and rs of the right to express a choice senator, as that choice is generally erstood in a primary election. In republican strongholds as Garrett, gany and Charles and other counties democrats will likewise be practicalsfranchised. This law was favory Senator Smith, State Senator an and other county bosses. And, efore, it was good enough for Cros, who is himself a county boss.

The governor made many promises of a square deal for Baltimore city, both before and after election, but when the bill came before him the "ring" blood welled up in his veins, and he affixed his signature without a tremor.

This primary election law, as is well known, is designed to aid the candidacy of State Senator Arthur P. Gorman for the United States Senate next year over Senator Rayner. Young Gorman long ago made up his minn to capture the toga and his first movement in this direction was made last falk when he espoused the cause of Col. Smith in the senatorial primary. In Howard county young Gorman has succeeded in displacing all of the old leaders and putting in their places young blood that will do his bidding to any extent. The young senator from Howard is a keen and sagacious ring politician, having inherited his political tricks from his father; but he wholly lacks the quality of statesmanship which his father possessed in large degree. Gorman, pere, was a politician and statesman, but Gorman, fils, is a politician, pure and simple, with but one desire, and that to occupy a seat in the upper house of Congress. In the furtherance of this ambition he will be aided by the state boss, Senator Smith, who is in more absolute control of the party machinery today than was the elder Gorman in recent years. Young Gorman, too, is setting his sails to succeed Senator Smith as boss of the state when the man from Worcester shall have passed from the scene of action.

Much hostile criticism of the governor is heard regarding his use of the veto power in the interest of economy. The veto power thus far has been used principally to cut down appropriations for worthy charities, but not to squelch any really big political scheme. Gov. Crothers' power in this respect has been directed against the insane, the blind and the sick, but to the ringsters and their schemes he has been very kind. Crothers bases his actions regarding certain worthy institutions on the plea of economy, but this will hardly be accepted in good faith, because he had a mighty good chance to prove his sincerity by vetoing the extra appropriation of $30,000 to defray legislative extravagances. During the session of the legislature Gov. Crothers was continually ranting about economy in the public press and urging the legislators to be careful of the public moneys, but the people have come to understand that his words were only a play to the galleries, and he is now known at his true worth. The governor's "economy" has a purpose. The good roads law, which is his pet hobby, will require a great deal of money to meet interest payments and sinking fund requirements. There is a prospect that an increase in the state tax rate may be necessary two years hence to meet the drain upon the state treasury because of the bond issue for good roads. This increase, the governor foresees will not aid the democrats in their campaign in 1911. Hence he is looking ahead and is piling up a surplus in the treasury with which to meet payments and thus avoid an increase in the tax rate.

LEVY BEING MADE.

Commissioners' Board Hard at Work Providing For Next Year's Expenses.

The annual levy meeting of the Board of County Commissioners is being held this week at the court house in Oakland, with all members of the Board present. The levy will probably be signed tomorrow, but this is not a certainty by any means.

This year the Board, under various laws passed by the Legislature, will be compelled to make some extraordinary appropriations, among the amounts being $6,338 additional for the court house commission, which amount will be used in finishing and furnishing the building. An additional sum is also asked by the Board of School Commissioners approximating some three thousand dollars, but the Caunty Commissioners nave not yet given this matter definite consideration.

Besides the two items above the sum of $3,000 must be levied to pay off the accuring interest coupons on the court house loan.

Last year the county rate of taxation was 95 cents on the $100; this year the rate will be slightly higher, but it is thought by the Commissioners that it will not exceed the sum of one dollar.

Maryland Evangelistic Association.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.

Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

This organization closes its fiscal year with a record of remarkable usefulness. Its annual report embraces accomplishments which commend it to the favor of friends of neglected childhood. Its work is done principally among the submerged the very element that especially appealed to the sympathy of the Master—the denizens of the slums. It means more to enter a home which intemperance and poverty have blighted and robbed of its refinement and comfort, bringing into its dark the light and hope of the gospel, than to enter a well-to-do home, with its luxurious appointments and its cared for childhood. There is no place too low and debased for these representatives to go with helping hand and cheering word. It is the only inter-denominational organization that does this character of work. It is also the only organization that labors in behalf of the neglected colored children of alleys, many of whom are being reared under vicious and crime-breeding conditions. It has nothing to do with the social and political phases of the problem, but believes that the moral and religious training of the colored child will lessen crime and add to the industrial power and security of the state.

This institution is getting ready to do a still more aggressive work on the mountains and islands, especially those localities remote from centres of population. Last year one of its agents organized a Sunday school about six miles from Cumberland, which has developed into a permanent religious interest, with a new chapel for the accommodation of the school and a prospective congregation for regular preaching.

The institution holds conferences for the quickening of church and Sunday school life, and mothers' meetings for the betterment of the home. While it does not ignore the educational in its Sunday school work, it strongly emphasizes the spiritual as the prime consideration.

I thought that the many who know me in Garrett county would be pleased to know that I am associated with so great a work, and that God is giving us such signal evidences of His favor.

Fraternally,
GEO. H. NOCK, State Supt.,
423 Courtland St., Baltimore, Md.

Obituary.

Miss Alice Elizabeth Friend, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Friend, of Loch Lynn, died Sunday, April 5, 1908, aged 26 years, 9 months and 2 days. She had been a great sufferer from early childhood and death, instead of being an affliction, was a relief to her. Her funeral was preached by Rev. C. W. Hudson, the pastor of the Loch Lynn Baptist church, assisted by Rev. C. B. Falls, of Westernport, and Rev. N. Hart, of Loch Lynn. She was buried Tuesday, April 7, in the White's family burying ground on the farm now occupied by J. W. Beckman. There on a knoll overlooking Pleasant Valley she lies at rest awaiting the resurrection day. She leaves to mourn their loss many relatives and friends whose grief is tempered by the thought that though they may sorrow she now rejoices with her Savior in that land where pain and sorrow are unknown.

C. W. H.

Call for Your Letters.

Mr. L. Cach, Miss Louise Chambers, Mr. L. Hyde, Ed. Nannan, Mr. Sammie Simmonds, Mrs. Martha Wilson.

GARRETT COUNTY'S NEW HIGHWAY LAW.

Some of the Provisions of the Measure Passed by the Recent Legislature

ROAD ENGINEER TO BE APPOINTED

By the Board of County Commissioners and also One Supervisor for Each Election District—Engineer will Have Complete Charge.

The new road law for Garrett county, which is printed in its entirety in another column of this paper today, at the request of the Board of County Commissioners, which will become effective on September 1st next, changes in nearly every respect the mode of constructing, maintaining and supervising the public highways of county, and also the manner of expending the funds for their construction, maintenance, etc.

The terms and language of the law are exceedingly plain and will not be hard to understand.

The law was drafted by Senator W. McCulloh Brown, who expended much labor in its preparation and followed it diligently from its introduction in the Senate until it was signed by Governor Crothers and the presiding officers of Senate and House.

Under the provisions of the new law the appointment of numberless road supervisors for each Election District by the Board of County Commissioners is done away with and the office of District Supervisor is created, the appointee to be selected by the Commissioners for each district from a list of four names from the respective districts, which persons (two from each of the dominant parties) shall be selected and voted for at the primaries in each district and their names certified to the Board of Commissioners.

The office of Road Engineer is also created, whose appointment is also made by the Commissioners. The engineer must have certain prescribed qualificatians prior to his appointment, and is to have complete charge and supervision of all the roads in the county.

The law makes it incumbent upon the County Commissioners to levy fifteen cents upon each $100 of assessable property in each district for the district road fund and provides for an additional amount to be voted by any district requesting that the question be submitted at any general election hereafter to be held.

The amount of money to be expended in the various districts under the provisions of the law, will be very materially changed, some of the more populous sections having the road funds more than doubled, while the less favored sections will be cut out of a considerable sum. However, the law provides that the road tax levied in each district must be expended in that particular district, so that the people paying the road taxes into the county treasury will derive the benefit of the funds in a direct manner.

The following comparative table of the taxable basis of each district, the amounts the various districts have been receiving for road construction and maintenance in the past and the amount to be expended under the new law has been compiled by THE REPUBLICAN:

District	taxable basis.	Levy for 1907.	Under new law.
No. 1,	$ 587,665	$ 575.00	$ 781.40
No. 2,	715,603	1,500.00*	1,073.40
No. 3,	811,199	1,175.00§	1,216.78
No. 4,	355,602	700.00	533.00
No. 5,	553,213	950.00	829.81
No. 6,	357,362	750.00	536.98
No. 7,	1,125,507	750.00‖	1,688.75
No. 8,	677,312	1,100.00	1,015.96
No. 9,	242,684	350.00§	364.02
No. 10,	584,895	600.00‡	877.34
No. 11,	235,436	650.00	353.20
No. 12,	307,300	625.00	460.95
No. 13,	214,339	150.00†	321.50
No. 14,	1,240,097	750.00	1,860.05
Tot'l	$8,008,214	$11,505.00	$11,913.23

*Exclusive of $100 levied to the Mayor and Council of Friendsville.

§Exclusive of $880 for use on the National Road which passes through Districts Nos. 3 and 9, and $150 levied to the Commissioners of Grantsville.

‖Exclusive of $800 levied to the Mayor and Council of Oakland; $100 to the Mayor and Council of Loch Lynn, and $200 to the Mt. Lake Park Community.

‡Exclusive of $100 levied to the Mayor and Council of Deer Park.

†Exclusive of $150 levied to the Mayor and Council of Kitzmillerville.

Estray Notice.

There came to the Mountain View Stock Farm, eight miles south of Oakland on April 12th, a roan and white, dehorned three-year old cow. The owner will please come forward, pay all costs and damages, prove property and take the same away.

F. W. CHASE, Manager.

KILLED IN OAKLAND.

Albert Atkinson, of Cranesville, Fell Under Train and Fatally Injured.

Last Monday evening Albert Atkinson, aged twenty-three years, son of Charles Atkinson, of Cranesville, Preston county, West Va., was injured so badly by falling beneath the wheels of a west bound freight train, that his death ensued within an hour or less after the accident.

The young man was here several hours before the accident and visited a drinking establishment where he partook of some liquor, besides purchasing two bottles. Leaving the saloon he attempted to catch the hand bar of one of the passing cars when he either slipped or fell under the wheels, which passed over his lower limbs, crushing one to a pulp almost its entire length. In addition to this his skull was badly fractured and he was entirely unconscious when his body was picked up nearly in front of the Rhoages' restaurant, and taken to the office of Dr. Legge, where he expired shortly afterward.

On his person two bottles of liquor, a revolver, a number of revolver cartridges and one cent in money were found.

The remains of the young man were prepared for burial at the undertaking establishment of Mr. D. E. Bolden and shipped to his late home Tuesday morning.

The deceased was a son of Charles Atkinson, well remembered by many Oakland people as a painter who resided in Oakland a number of years ago and who came here as soon as the death of his son was announced and accompanied the remains home.

SWANTON.

Rev. Geo. C. Show, of Cumberland, Md., will conduct a service in Anderson chapel, Swanton, at 7:30 o'clock Good Friday evening, April 17th.

Mr. William N. Sharpless, of Blaine, W. Va., a son of the late Mr. John L. Sharpless, died after a brief illness at the home of his mother in Blaine last Saturday, April 11th, 1908, in the 22nd year of his age, and was buried in the family cemetery at Mt. Zion church the following Monday. Rev. Johnson, of the U. B. church conducted the funeral services.

Swanton holds out a beckoning hand for a good resident physician. There is much sickness in the community and the field for medical practice is wide and unoccupied.

Mr. Frederick Broadwater, of the "O'Haver Settlement," has the best worked road on Dry Run this observer has seen in the county.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

DWELLING BURNED.

Home of Ex-Coanty Commissioner Adernathy Consumed Sunday Afternoon.

Last Sunday afternoon between twelve and one o'clock the residence of ex-County Commissioner Isaac W. Abernathy, located in Election District No. 8, near Wilson, caught fire from a defective flue and was entirely consumed, destroying much of the furniture, clothing and household effects generally belonging to the family.

Mr. Abernathy, who was in Oakland Tuesday, stated that the fire had its origin in the attic and when discovered the ceiling of the second floor rooms as well as the roof were in flames and were burning very rapidly owing to the high wind prevailing at the time. Only a portion of the furniture and effects were gotten out of the building. No insurance was carried on the property and as a result the loss will be a total one.

At present Mr. Abernathy and family are staying with one of their neighbors and he may rebuild later.

The Cement Industry In 1905.

The advance statement given below has been prepared for the press, and is issued in this form for the benefit of the producers, whose prompt returns have facilitated its complications.

The following statement, issued by the United States Geological Survey, shows the total production of Portland, naturalrock and puzzolan cements in the United States for the calendar year 1907.

This statement is issued in advance of the annual report on the production of hydraulic cement in the United States, which is now in preparation, and is based on the returns from all the active cement plants in this country.

The total production of all kinds of hydraulic cement in 1907 was 52,230,342 barrels, valued at $55,903,851.

Of the above total quality of cement manufactured in 1907 in the United States, 46,785,390 barrels were Portland cement, with a value of $53,992,551; 2,887,800 barrels were natural rock cement, with a value of $1,467,302, and 557,252 were puzzlan cement, with a value of $443,998.

The total production of hydraulic cement in 1906 was 51,000,445 barrels, valued at $55,302,277. Comparison of these totals with those above given shows an increase in quantity in 1907 over 1906 of 1,229,897 barrels, and in value of $601,574.

Four Per Cent. Interest.

The First National Bank, Friendsville, pays four per cent. interest on time deposits. Place your money in this bank where its earning capacity will be greater than in any other banking institution in the county.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
Friendsville, Md.

DIXON & KELSO

SALE OF SHOES

BEGINNING SATURDAY, APRIL 11.

Every pair of Shoes in stock will be reduced.

We have the largest and best line of Shoes in town.

If we can't please you it is useless to go elsewhere.

Our Ladies' Oxfords are better than ever, and with each pair of AMERICAN LADY OXFORDS we will give you a pair of good Hose.

Don't forget we have the

CROSSETT SHOE

for Men—the best Shoe on the market for the money today.

Also a complete line of Misses and Children's Oxfords and Shoes

P. S. Wanted 1000 Bushels Potatoes and 25 Country Cured Hams.

Yours to Please,

DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

MR. H. B. STURTEVANT.
representing
L. E. HAYES & CO.,
TAILORS, of Cincinnati, O., will be pleased to meet you at my store
Friday and Saturday,
APRIL 17 AND 18
to take your orders for Spring and Summer Clothing for immediate or future delivery

Mr. Sturtevant carries one of the finest lines of Woolens and Worsteds for Men's wear that has ever been shown in this town or any other. Perfect fit and satisfaction assured.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE. OAKLAND, MD

CALLS ON CONGRESS TO CRUSH ANARCHY.

"Compared With This, Every Other Question Sinks into Insignificance," The President Declares.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—In one of the shortest messages he has yet transmitted to Congress, President Roosevelt today called attention to the necessity for further legislation on anarchy. The message reads:

"I herewith submit a letter from the Department of Justice which explains itself. Under this opinion, I hold that existing statutes give the President the power to prohibit the Postmaster-General from being used as an instrument in the commission of crime, that is to prohibit the use of the mails for the advocacy of murder, arson and treason, and I shall act upon such construction.

"Unquestionably, however, there should be further legislation by Congress in this matter. When compared with the suppression of anarchy, every other question sinks into insignificance. The Anarchist is the enemy of humanity, the enemy of all mankind and this is a deeper degree of criminality than any other. No immigrant is allowed to come to our shores if he is an anarchist, and no paper published here or abroad should be permitted circulation in this country if it propagates anarchistic opinions."

Besides his direction to the Postmaster-General to exclude from the mails such publications as La Questione Sociale. President Roosevelt in his letter to Attorney-General Bonaparte, asking for an opinion on the legal phase of the subject, says he has had the particular case called to the attention of the Governor of New Jersey by Secretary Root, that the Governor may proceed under the State laws.

The opinion of the Attorney-General, which the president transmits to Congress, embraces a discussion of the whole subject from many legal angles. His first conclusion is that the article in question, which advocates the use of arms and dynamite in annihilating police and soldiers that anarchy may prevail, constitutes a "seditious libel" and "is undoubtedly a crime at common law."

He declares that there is no Federal statute which makes such publications an offense against the United States, and the Federal Courts consequently have no jurisdiction in the matter. That there is full power in the possession of Congress to make such publications criminal the Attorney-General asserts, and quotes Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court and Mr. Justice Field as authority.

The greater portion of his opinion is devoted to the question whether' in the absence of legislations by Congress, the Postmaster-General has the right to exclude such publications. On this point his conclusion is:

"The Postmaster-General will be justified in excluding from the mails any issue of any periodical otherwise entitled to the privileges of second-class mail matter which shall contain any article constituting a seditious libel, and counselling such crimes as murder, arson, riot and treason."

In arriving at the latter conclusion the Attorney-General makes a clear distinction with reference to the authority of postal officials over sealed and unsealed mail matter. In conveying letters and newspapers to persons to whom they are directed, he says the United States "undertakes the business of a messenger." He adds:

"In so far as it conveys sealed documents, its agents not only are not bound to know, but are expressly forbidden to ascertain, what the purport of such messages may be; therefore neither the Government nor its officers can be held either legally or morally responsible for the nature of the letters to which they thus, in intentional ignorance, afford transportation. But in the case of printed matter, intended for general circulation and which, by virtue of the statutes above mentioned, and in consideration of the reduced rate at which it is transported, the officers of the Post-office Department have the legal right thoroughly inspect, it seems obvious that neither these officers nor the Government which employs them, can escape responsibility for the consequences if they knowingly transport matter which they must know might be reasonably expected to become, a cause of crime."

Honest effort will be made to frame some measure to check the spread of anarchy in the United States. There is a wide difference of opinion as to just now this can be done. Many suggestions have been made in the past, but all were pronounced unconstitutional by legal experts.

THE CELLAR HOLE AND THE SEWER HOLE.

BY HERBERT KAUFMAN.

A coal cart stopped before an office building in Washington and the driver dismounted, removed the cover from a manhole, ran out his chute, and proceeded to empty the load. An old negro strolled over and stood watching him. Suddenly the black man glanced down and immediately burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter, which continued for several minutes. The cart driver looked at him in amusement. "Say, Uncle," he asked, "do you always laugh when you see coal going into a cellar?" The negro sputtered around for a few moments and then holding his hands to his aching sides managed to say, "No, sah, but I jest busts when I sees it doin' down a sewer."

The advertiser who displays lack of judgment in selecting the newspapers which carry his copy often confuses the sewer and the cellar.

All the money that is put into newspapers isn't taken out again by any means. The fact that all dailies possess a certain physical likeness doesn't by any means signify a similarity in character, and it's character in a newspaper that brings returns. The editor who conducts a journalistic sewer finds a different class of readers than the publisher who respects himself enough to respect his readers.

What goes into a newspaper largely determines the class of homes into which the newspaper goes. An irresponsible, scandal-mongering, mack-raking sheet is logically not supported by the buying classes of people. It may be perured by thousands of readers but such readers are seldom purchasers of advertised goods.

It's the clean-cut, steady, normal-minded citizens who form the bone and sinew and muscle of the community. It's the sane, self-respecting, dependable newspaper that enters their homes and it's the home sale that indicates the strength of an advertising medium.

No clean-minded father of a family wished to have his wife and children brought in contact with the most maudlin and banal phases of life. He defends them from the sensational editor and the unpleasant advertiser. He subscribes to a newspaper which he does not fear to leave about the house.

Therefore, the respectable newspaper can always be counted upon to produce more sales than one which may even own a large circulation but whose distribution is in ten editions among unprofitable citizens.

You can no more expect to sell goods to people who haven't money than you can hope to pluck oysters from bushes.

It isn't the number of readers reached but the number of readers that constitutes the value of circulation. It's one thing to arouse their attention, but it's a far different thing to get their money. The mind may be willing, but the pocketbook is weak.

If you had the choice of a thousand acres of desert land or a hundred acres of oasis, you's select the fertile spot, realizing that the larger tract had less value because it would be less productive.

Just so the advertiser who really understands how he is spending his money does not measure by bulk alone. He counts productivity first. He takes care that he is not putting his money into a sewer.

IN WESTERN MARYLAND.

Contrasts Between the Eastern Shord and the Alleghany Hills.

This first week in March and the last of the Maryland Institute season finds me from two thousand to three thousand feet above sea level, among the Alleghany Mountains, in the counties of Allegheny and Garrett, in Northwestern Maryland. What a contrast to the southern part of the state, with its balmy air, long seasons, level fields and easily tilled lands, suitable for many crops, to these snow covered, rocky fields, restricted as to their crops because of the altitude, character of the soil and short season!

Cumberland, the county seat of Allegheny County, is a city of seventeen thousand, on the main line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; a railroad town, the outlet of the soft coal that abounds here and in Pennsylvania, only a few miles to the north. Here is an excellent market for products of the farms. Only 30 per cent of the land in this county is devoted to agriculture, the balance being woodland. Heretofore the forest products have exceeded the agricultural ones. From now on the former will decrease and the latter increase. Like most who have had timber in abundance, they have been prodigal of it, both in indiscriminate, wasteful cutting and in not guarding against forest fires. It is pitiable to see great tracts that have been burned over, full of blackened trunks and scrubby trees, with the vegetable matter beneath them entirely destroyed. The state has taken up and appointed a state forester, F. W. Besley, who is traveling with us. He has fire wardens in all the timber counties of the state, and the annual loss by forest fires, which was as high as $250,000, has been reduced to $50,000. There is a good local demand for fence posts, telegraph poles, railroad ties and mine props, not to speak of lumber for building.

Much of this land grew beautiful white pine, but little of it is now left, for where the fires have been the pine seeds were destroyed and hardwoods take their place. We now find maple, chestnut, two or three varieties of oak, with some beech. Most of this is small. With proper care they will be of immense value to the next generation. It is said the Appalachian range, of which the Alleghanies are the beginning, contains all the available hardwood timber in this country. Mr. Besley advises the planting of locust; in only a few cases does the locust borer do injury here. He advises using the cheaper soft woods for posts, for by treating them with creosote, at a cost of 10 cents each, they will last for twenty years; and the more valuable woods may thus be saved for more profitable uses.

I spent last night in Frostburg, a mining town of five thousand inhabitants. I noticed many comfortable, modern houses, and was told they were the homes of miners. They receive 60 cents a ton for getting out the coal. Little blasting is necessary, and they often earn from $4 to $5 a day. From this town are often loaded one hundred heavy railroad cars daily. The mines are all underneath the town; one extends into the earth five miles. When the veins run not very deep underground, after they have been worked out and the mine props have rotted away, the land sinks down and becomes worthless for agricultural purposes, as the water leaches through and it will no longer produce crops.

There is also a large disillery here, but it receives most of its grain from the West. These five thousand hungry mouths make a fine market for what the farmers raise, and the coal at $2 a ton at the mouth of the mines and 4 cents a bushel from small private mines is cheaper than the cost of cutting and preparing wood. Fire clay is also mined near here.

Early this morning we left the railroad and started by team fifty miles through the hills, making two stops by the way, in little towns, until we reached Oakland, on the other side of the county. It is a steady drive up the mountains, with an occasional drop into the valleys. A heavy body of snow makes progress very slow. The great stumps indicate what trees once grew here. Now and then one sees quite large areas of cleared land, with good buildings, indicating thrift and prosperity, but such farms are the exception. Ones rides for miles among second growth timber and stumps, now and then a log house may be seen. One "schoolhouse by the wayside stands," also built of logs, but there was no school: evidently it was too difficult to get through the snow. These people seem contented and happy, what there were of them: telephones connect most houses. Yet the line keeps running through my head: "Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay." Were I to substitute Sunnyside and Garrett County for Europe and Cathay, it would express my feeling exactly.

Such conditions always makes me ashamed when I see what these peoples and others like them are doing under adverse conditions with their short seasons, rocky, circumscribed fields, and miles away from railroads, and how eager they are to get information from the great outside world and to put to use. There is a pathos about it, too, that impresses me to do my best to help them and to make more out of my own "lines that have fallen in pleasant places."

Grantsville, where we made our first stop, is becoming quite a resort for city people in summer. The town boasts of three excellent hotels, and not a few farmers open their homes, with the natural advantages of fine, bracing air, pure water and wholesome food, on the one hand, and a source of needed cash and pleasant and helpful association on the other.

Another source of profitable income is the maple sugar orchard. I was told that in the northern part of Garrett county, about ten miles south of the Pennsylvania line, their annual output is about fifty thousand pounds of sugar and thirty thousand gallons of syrup.

Hay is grown for market. Oats and buckwheat are the chief grain crops. Most of the former is wisely fed on the farm. Some sheep are kept, and there is a small dairy on almost every farm, the product of which is made into butter, which finds ready sale in the towns. I was rather impressed to find the centrifugal separators in general use. Many calves are raised, mostly of nondescript breeding, although there are some Jerseys and Shorthorns, the latter raised for steers in the mountain pastures. There are some apple orchards, but the trees showed a good deal of fungus.

Now and then a tannery is passed. The trunks of immense hemlocks and oaks rotting where they fell mark the havoc that has been made in the past with the forests.

At Oakland, the county seat of Garrett county, the soil and lay of the land are not dissimilar to that of the rest of the county, of which I have written. The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad runs through the town and passes through a most picturesque country, threading its way along the steep hillsides. On one side the rocks are walled up in great layers by the gigantic upheavals of this planet in some of its later birth throes in the ages past. Away down in the valley below runs the Potomac, like a thread of silver. One can scarcely realize that this is the beginning of the mighty river which flows past the capital of the nation. In the misty past there were many lakes on these mountain tops, which long since have disappeared, leaving swamps as one evidence of their existence. Interesting as is the study of these geological changes in the centuries past, whose story is written in the soil and in the rocks, which the careful student may read, the things of vital interest to-day are men and their conditions.

There are large summer hotels at Oakland and Deer Park, just to the south, whither flock the city dwellers. A few, wise in their generation, are catering to this trade by growing berries and vegetables, which find here a ready market at first hand. Some fifteen years ago there settled here a German named Weber, with a family of boys and girls. He had little else of this world's goods, but was blessed with good health, common sense and a determination to succeed—all most desirable qualities. He purchased some of these old lake beds and forest lands for a small price an acre. The swamps were drained and are growing the finest of cabbage, cauliflower and celery. They were the pioneers in the berry business. A small greenhouse was put up to grow the plants for setting. That this might not be idle when not needed for plants, they began to grow some lettuce. Having the German's natural love for flowers, they grew a few carnations. Those did so well that their cultivation has been extended until now they have several acres under glass and rank with the best carnation growers in the country. They have their own sawmill, where the material for their houses as well as their shipping boxes is got out from timber from their own trees.

The father died some years ago, but the three sons and two daughters are carrying on the business. Each has his or her particular work. One son has charge of the carnations, another the truck crops and berries, another the teams, cattle and construction, and the daughters attend to the office work. All work for the common good. This subdivision of work accounts for their success along so many different lines. Many acres have been added to the original purchase, and a fine house among the trees attests to their prosperity.

The success of these men in a locality where ordinarily the field would seem to be limited is another illustration of what industry and intelligent effort in improving opportunities as they exist will always accomplish.—Edward Van Alstine in New York Tribune.

Subscribe for the Republican.

"SPEAK SOFTLY: CARRY STICK."

A Roosevelt Maxim As Delivered To A French Reporter.

Andre Tardieu, foreign editor of the Temps, gives in that newspaper his impressions of Theodore Roosevelt gained during several conversations with the President of the United States when M. Tardieu was in America recently.

"I was struck by Roosevelt's alert vigor and youthfulness," writes Tardieu. "He looks to be only 40. He speaks French with force and color."

In asking Tradieu to dine with him the President told him he would meet Archbishop Ireland, Bishop O'Gorman and the Protestant Bishop of Boston, and added:

"I am a Calvinist, but I detest religious tyrants as much as I detest ecclesiastical tyranny."

At the dinner Mr. Roosevelt remarked:

"In the United States we are liberal, not anti-clerical. In my Cabinet there is one Catholic and one Jew; the others are Protestant. Everyone agrees splendidly with the others."

Later Mr. Roosevelt said:

"You know the crusade I am leading and the attacks with it brings upon me, but in my struggle against plutocracy I am the enemy of socialism and of anarchism. Plutocracy is the worst regime for a people; there is only one other so detestable, and that is demagogy—the reign of money or mob law—one is as bad as the other.

"Plutocracy is the best ally of socialism and anarchism. I am in my way, conservative; that is why I denounce plutocratic abuses."

"Mr. Roosevelt ceased to ea[t]," writes Tardieu. "He spoke with energetic gestures of head and arms and even of his body. One gesture was a downward cut of the hand, like a guillotine blade falling. Again he formed a canal with both hands, as if to carry his argument to his interviewer."

Again quoting the President:

"I know that in Wall street they denounce me as a Judas Iscariot. But that is because I speak to Americans as a truthful man and a good patriot. Moreover, I am not supersensitive. Let them attack me; I will defend myself by appealing to the spirit of justice of my country. I will return the blows."

"The joy of combat breathed in these words," Tardieu comments. "Theodore Roosevelt's animation is almost exaltation. He returned to the directing idea of his home policy."

"What do I say to workman?" he asked, "I tell them that i[n] their favor I will do all that d[e]pends on me; but that if progre[ss] and reforms be possible, there [is] one essential condition—or[der]. The first duty of the head of [a] state is to guarantee order. Whe[n] during a strike, there have be[en] threats of disorder I have sen[t] the scene even more troo[ps] were needed to preserv[e] did that to show that [I] a force; I did it in the [in]terest the workmen themse[lves] the best method to pr[o]tect der. There can be [no] without order.

"As for the plutoc[rats] people who would m[ake] Tyre or Carthage, they ... mak[e] of anarchy. If one gave them free hand they would bring [the] country to anarchy. That is w[hy] I fight them."

In general conversation the I[-]sident repeated that the two gr[eat] dangers in the United States [are] the plutocrats and the dema[gogues]. Against these dangers [his] idea is to combine the honest [men] in the country's great centers.

"This is not only a matte[r of] politics, but of political morali[ty]," he said.

"In answer to a remark al[l] sending the whole fleet," w[rites] M. Tarbieu, "the President st[ood] his right hand on his left and s[aid]:

"'Send part of the fleet? [No], no; I would never have d[one] that. That is a method too c[on]demned by experience. [No] doubt we will have two fleet[s] the future, but until then no[t] tle parcels," as you say in Fra[nce].

"'In America we say "Sp[eak] softly and carry a big stic[k]. That is the best method in h[is] affairs, and it is also best as a [for]eign policy. Prevention is be[tter] than cure. Even immigrants [will] similate these ideas in a gen[era]tion or two; America has a s[tro]ng digestion.'"

The President uttered s[ome] warm expressions of admira[tion] and friendship for France.—[Special] Correspondence, New York Wo[rld].

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Sho[op's] Cough Cure will surely stop it, and [with] perfect safety. It is so thorou[ghly] harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mot[hers] to use nothing else even with [the] young babies. The wholesome g[reen] leaves and tender stems of a lung h[ealing] ing mountainous shrub furnish the c[ura]tive properties to Dr. Shoop's C[ough] Cure. It calms the cough, and h[eals] the sensitive bronchial membra[nes]. No opium, no chloroform, not[hing] harsh used to injure or suppress. [De]mand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. [Sold] dealers.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake P[ark] Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as b[oard]ing house and has good patronage; [large] ground; splendid location; two b[locks] from new auditorium; city water [and] of the best built houses in the [town] about 75 feet of porches. Will [ex]change for smaller property. A [great] bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Lake Park, Md.

lills and Home

BY LULU JOHNSON.

Copyrighted, 1903, by Homer Sprague.

The porter smiled cheeringly as Miri- emerged from her berth and made : way down the aisle toward the essing room.

'Good mawnin'," he observed as he ang to take her bag. "This yer's a ore bad day. Th' dinin' cah 'll be on ha'f an hour."

Ie surrendered her bag at the door the dressing room and returned to work. There were few berths left make up, and Miriam had been the last to rise.

Another woman and half a dozen men constituted the passenger list on the through car, so when Miriam returned to her berth it was all in order. The car, too, was deserted, as the first call for breakfast had summoned all fellow passengers to the diner, l of any break in the monotony of avel.

'M SURE OBLIGED TO THAT CHAP MEEKER."

Miriam followed the others, rejoic- g in the conductor's assurance that the evening she would eat her supr on firm land, for at nightfall they ere due at Schofield, the little station here Miriam Bradley was to change the slow stagecoach that would carher to Muddy Bend and her new ld of labor.

She was glad that there remained but hours of train travel. It had proved tiresome trip, though back home she looked forward with eagerness to journey.

nce she had run down from her rmont home to Boston, and there been short visits to nearby smaller es, but she had never traveled so and naturally had anticipated much asure in the novelty.

ut, after all, she had found the long rney disappointing. The long, bare tches of prairie were a novelty at t to this girl brought up in the heart the Green mountains, but they be- ie interminable, and now her eyes gered for the sight of her native ls.

Under the driving rain the sodden in looked more dreary than it had day before. She tried to fix her oughts on a book, but the letters nced before her eyes, and she caught rself looking through the car win- w and wondering if there were no lls at all in this dreary expanse.

Back home there must be snow on ground, and the boys and girls e doubtless enjoying the coasting, ile the evenings would call out the bobs, and her own crowd would e their part in the fun. Vaguely wondered if these children of the ins ever knew the delights of the g, swift journey down the glitter- white incline, and she sighed for little valley she had always known home.

Yet she thought sternly that she had ne the one possible thing. The field the east was already overcrowded th teachers, and she had heard that ly in the great and growing w I a newcomer have a chance for ncement. And teaching it must be marriage with Jimmy Meeker. ven now, with hundreds of miles been them, she could feel her face ush as she recalled how he had asked r to marry him that she might have ome and his protection.

He had meant well, no doubt, and er since they had gone to school toether he had shown his manly prefence for her, but he had put it rawly t evening, to say the least. With nerves still stinging from the shock discovering that her entire heritage d gone down with the local bank, his oposal, so awkwardly worded, had en the final straw. Indignantly she minded him that he had not spoken ntil her need of support made his offr ring with pity, and she wanted not ty, but love, from the man she marsd.

It had all seemed very dignified, alost heroic at the time, but now, with e vastness of the unbroken prairies ttling down upon her like a black adow, her heart somehow had room ly for his answering plea that he uld not ask her to be his wife while was a struggling lawyer and she the only heiress of the comfortable Bradley estate.

As the day passed and she was hurried through the flat, dismal country both her reason and her heart rose in rebellion, and when the call for luncheon was sounded nervousness had done its work. She wanted nothing to eat.

The porter had seen just this brand of homesickness before, and he asked permission to bring some tea and toast, at least, to her section. Abashed by the tears that came to her eyes at his friendly suggestion, he sought another car and the conductor. Then this kindly official sat down beside his tired young passenger and tried to make conversation. They were just passing a section house with its few surrounding buildings and tiny schoolhouse. Near the latter was an improvised "slide."

"That's the way the prairie children make hills," he said, little dreaming that he was touching a very raw spot in his companion's heart. "They pile up the snow industriously, pour water on it just before sundown, and in the morning it is a jolly fine slide."

After that Miriam watched for the manufactured hills. The pitiful substitute for the sport of her girlhood somehow made her feel more desperately than ever the mighty chasm she was cutting between her old life and her new.

And when she was not watching for "hills" she was trying to drown the recollection of a certain tender, pleading voice in the incessant, insistent song of the revolving wheels beneath her.

It was an actual relief when Schofield was reached and she stood on the narrow strip of platform in front of the station. She peered through the dusk in a vain search for some break in the level stretch of plain. A man in rough, heavy clothing came forward bashfully.

"You Miss Bradley, for over to Muddy Bend?" he asked, with hat awkwardly uplifted. Miriam merely nodded.

"Well, I'm on the school board," he said in some embarrassment. "I come over a-purpose to see you and mebbe save you the long stage ride."

"That was very kind of you," said Miriam, trying to be cordial. "But I was fully resigned to the stage."

"Oh, I don't mean that," said the man, with growing nervousness. "But, you see, there's been some mistake—I don't know as you'd call it that either—but something happened unexpected since we wrote you. Kate Higgins, our old teacher, was all right. We liked her well enough, but our doc said she'd have to go south for her throat. When she got as fur as St. Louis a doctor there said it wasn't her throat at all, and he fixed her up. And, being as Kate was all satisfactory and she wants to stay—well, we were wondering if we couldn't make some arrangement with you to get another school round here somewheres, or we'd pay your fare back and give you whatever you thought was right. You see, we don't feel like going back on Kate"—

"Certainly not," replied Miriam, with such warmth that the brawny westerner, as he said afterward, was "plum locoed" for a few seconds. "I think you should pay my fare both ways, and then we will call it square. I could not have stayed very long anyhow. You see, I am to be married soon. May I send a telegram before I go to the hotel?"

Her interested host followed her into the station, protesting that the school board must put her up at the hotel until the Overland passed through in the early morning, eastbound. And so he heard the telegram which the operator read aloud for verification:

James Meeker, Wellington, Vt.:

Am returning at once to where there are hills—and homes. MIRIAM.

"I'm sure obliged to that chap Meeker, whoever he may be," the westerner mused as he led the way across the rain soaked road to the hotel. "I wonder what she meant about the hills?"

But, being courteous, he did not ask, and Miriam did not offer an explanation. She was content to think that within twelve hours the Overland Limited would be scurrying her across the deserted plains toward the happiness which she had so foolishly fled.

Shakespeare's Wild Animals.

Shakespeare makes use of no fewer than twenty species of British wild animals. Of these the badger, the otter and the water rat are once each employed by name merely as terms of abuse. The polecat and hedgehog are also terms of abuse, but are so far "described" as to be called respectively "stinking" and "thorny." The dormouse and ferret are each used once as adjectives for "sleepy" and "fierce." The shrew gives its name to a play, but is never mentioned as an animal. The mole is mentioned twice as being "blind," the wildcat once as "sleeping by day," the cony as "struggling in the net" and "dwelling where she is kindled" and the squirrel as "the fairies' coachmaker" and as having already hoarded that year's nuts on May day.

The rat and the mouse, being only the M. domesticus, required no "observation" by the poet, so that the above represents the total of Shakespeare's natural history with regard to all but six of his British quadrupeds. The poet's only "original" references to the weasel are [illegible] mentioned three times, making it the animal—once wrongly as a [illegible] the swallow, [illegible] fancifully as the "martlet," one of whose "[illegible] wings" [illegible] made the [illegible] and [illegible] the bat [illegible] "blind flight," as flying the hour of Duncan's murder.

The fox of course affords endless opportunities for metaphor and simile, and Shakespeare's description of it as the fox of fable and tradition could not be surpassed.—London Saturday Review.

What the Filipinos Want.

By BENITO LEGARDA, Delegate to Congress From the Philippine Assembly.

THE FILIPINOS LOOK FORWARD TO THE TIME WHEN THEY WILL BE ABLE TO GOVERN THEMSELVES. IT IS THE FOND HOPE OF EVERY FILIPINO TO TAKE PART IN A REPUBLICAN FORM OF GOVERNMENT, BUT THE IDEAS PROPOSED ARE VARIED.

Owing to an unusually long drought the rice and other crops have been poor this year, but the islands are ADVANCING STEADILY. The street railway in Manila has been completed, and new sections of the islands are being opened up by steam roads. WE WANT FREE TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES and believe that we have the right to ask for it. There should be no tariff on products shipped to the United States. Our lumber industry is increasing very rapidly, and a great deal of American capital is being invested in the islands.

Progress is in evidence throughout the islands, and we see GREAT PROSPERITY AHEAD OF US if we can secure the repealing of the tariff on our products.

As soon as the president announced that he was going to send the Atlantic fleet to Pacific waters all talk regarding war with Japan was dropped by our newspapers, and, in fact, the various rumors were given little or no credence in our country. The Japanese are NOT POPULAR with us, and for some reason they do not stay long in the Philippines. The supposition that we need Japanese laborers is very erroneous. We have PLENTY OF LABORERS and of a standard equal, I believe, to that in the United States.

WE ARE NOT SEEKING ANYTHING THAT WOULD PROMOTE INCREASED TRADE WITH JAPAN, BUT WE DO WANT AN OPPORTUNITY TO INCREASE OUR TRADE WITH THIS COUNTRY, OF WHICH WE ARE NOW A PART.

The "New Federalism" and Its Dangers.

By Dr. HENRY WADE ROGERS, Dean of the Yale Law School.

A TENDENCY HAS DEVELOPED WITHIN A FEW YEARS TO INCREASE THE POWER OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AT THE EXPENSE OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT, AND IN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT TO ENHANCE THE POWER OF THE EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT AT THE EXPENSE OF BOTH THE JUDICIAL AND LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENTS.

* * *

A disposition has also manifested itself to ignore the canons of constitutional construction WHICH HERETOFORE HAVE GUIDED THE COURTS OF THIS COUNTRY and to establish a new theory which shall give to the constitution that quality of ELASTICITY which is the characteristic of the common law. There also appear an increasing antagonism to the courts and an attempt to create a feeling that they are ANTIDEMOCRATIC and should be shorn of their power to nullify unconstitutional legislation. An antipathy is expressed to the limitations of power which the constitution has imposed and which the fathers reverenced and deemed necessary. These tendencies are found to some extent in both the great parties and in all sections of the country.

ONCE THE QUESTION WAS WHETHER THE STATES WOULD DESTROY THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT. NOW THE QUESTION IS WHETHER THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT SHALL BE PERMITTED TO DESTROY THE STATES. ACTUAL ABOLITION OF THE STATES IS IMPOSSIBLE. THERE ARE, HOWEVER, FORCES IN OPERATION WHICH SEEK TO REDUCE THE STATES TO ADMINISTRATION DEPARTMENTS LIKE THOSE OF FRANCE.

* * *

We are threatened with a revival of federalism, and with a FEDERALISM THAT IS MORE EXTREME AND RADICAL than the leaders of the old Federal party ever sanctioned. The argument proceeds on the assumption that the states have failed to perform their duty properly, so that great EVILS have grown up which the states cannot or will not properly remedy and from which we should have been free if only the federal government had exercised the authority and not the states.

A Man Can Do Little Without Friends.

By HERBERT H. VREELAND, President of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, New York City.

INEXORABLE AS THE RULE IS THAT A MAN MUST DO HIS OWN WINNING, THERE IS LITTLE HE CAN WIN WITHOUT FRIENDS. THEY WILL NOT SUPPLY THE ELEMENTS OF SUCCESS—INDUSTRY, INTEGRITY, ABILITY—BUT EVEN WITH ALL OF THESE HE MUST HAVE FRIENDS. THERE MUST BE THOSE AT HAND WHO WILL SAY THE RIGHT THING FOR HIM AT THE RIGHT TIME IN THE RIGHT PLACE. NO MAN'S ABILITY WAS EVER GREAT ENOUGH TO GIVE HIM FORTUNE OR POWER UNLESS SURROUNDING AND SUSTAINING HIM WAS THE FAVOR OF A FEW LOYAL FRIENDS.

It is the marvel of human nature that so PRICELESS a jewel is so easily achieved. All that a man must do to make friends IS TO BE SINCERE. We live in a practical world. It concerns itself with the present. It does not look far ahead nor far behind. It likes a man that can turn to and DO THINGS.

* * *

It will accept leaders and let them make the pace, but they MUST LEAD IN THE DIRECTION WHERE IT WANTS TO GO. It is jealous of its comfort. It will consider reforms, but they must not be too inconvenient. It possesses a great capacity of righteous indignation, but it should not be provoked PREMATURELY. The man who would avail himself of its strength, who would summon its affection, its valor and its resources to the aid of his ambition, must be, ITS SINCERE FRIEND, must see with its eyes, feel with its heart and speak the language of its hopes and fears.

THAT KICKER EDITOR

He Has Another Great Scheme as a Benefit to Mankind.

WANTS MOUNTAINS REMOVED

Gets the Opinion of a Large Number of Individuals and Newspapers on the Project—Would Add $20,000,000 Yearly to Wealth of Country.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

We have long felt that the Rocky mountains and other mountain ranges in the west took up room that should be devoted to agriculture and other things to increase the population and prosperity of the country, and a few days since, after securing the closest estimate possible, we addressed the following inquiry to a large number of individuals and newspapers:

"It is estimated that the mountains of the west cover 60,000,000 acres of land, capable of supporting 2,000,000 people and adding at least $20,000,000 of wealth to the country every year. It will cost $1,000,000,000 to level these mountains and make farming lands of the sites. Are you in favor of the government entering upon the work as a case of philanthropy?"

Up to the present date we have received over forty replies to the above and have selected the following samples for publication:

Not by a durned sight! If the government has got $1,000,000,000 to give away, let it pass the plunks over to us. We are out of coal and have only one tail left to our coat.—Hon. Thomas Renfew.

We have to meet a note at the bank tomorrow and haven't got a plunk to do it with and are therefore thinking of something besides mountains. We can only say that we think it a reasonably fair scheme. We hope some of the new settlers will have money to lend.—Judge Hansen of California.

"WE HAVE A NOTE DUE TOMORROW."

In leveling the mountains spare at least one tree and on that hang the living carcass of Jim Heliso of the Arizona Kicker. That's all we have to say about it.—Idaho Tribune.

In going into the thing the government should stipulate that the occupants of the land should devote their entire energies to raising pumpkins and preparing a new kind of breakfast food of the rinds. We haven't enough of them. Otherwise we shall fight the idea tooth and nail.—Judge Sherwin of Ohio.

We like the scheme in a general way, but there are bears in the mountains, and what about digging them out and turning them loose upon a cold and unfeeling world? We have been without a home ourself and know what it is. Provide for the bears and then go ahead.—Ex-Senator Bailey.

Favors Scheme on One Condition.

We shall favor the scheme only upon one condition, and that is that every other settler on the new site has got to raise cocktails for the market and keep the price down to a reasonable figure. We have always believed that philanthropy and cocktails were one and inseparable.—Montana Magnet.

No, sir; we can't favor your little scheme. For one thing, there's not enough graft in it to go round, and again the moment a competitor in philanthropy steps in Andrew Carnegie is going to throw up his job, and the beef trust is sure to raise prices. Let the old mountains alone and give more attention to your back yards.—Professor Swayzee of Harvard.

By John, but it's a scheme to beat the band! How did you ever think of it? Yes, sir; dump those mountains into the holes and valleys and send to Italy for three or four million of its population and let 'em all go in for raising peanuts and bananas. In time those things would no longer be luxuries and out of my reach. You have solved the problem for the poor men of this country.—John D.

No, sir! No, sir! Let the mountains remain right where they are. To go at it and destroy all the spots in the United States where a soap manufacturer can advertise his wares would make a desert of a continent and retard the cause of education 10,000 years. You are a villain for suggesting such a thing, sir—an unhung villain!—Professor Melish of Yale.

We have given your scheme some thought, but can't make up our minds as yet. Why not be more explicit? Why not make an estimate of what there is in it for us? In your estimating estimate that we should have to buy up part of congress and at least five state legislatures. Do they know anything about "Where did you get it out west?" Awaiting your early reply, we remain, Graft & Gobble, contractors.

Odell Doesn't Favor It.

For heaven's sake don't appeal to me nor try to draw me into any new scheme. Go to grass with your old mountains! Things have got so mixed up in this state that it will take me two years at least to find out where I am at. Why in blazes can't you let things alone at a time like this?—Odell.

How much is there in it for me?—Senator Blank.

If there's a whole page of advertising in it for us for six months at regular rates, count on our support. If not, we are agin it and will beat the game.—California Advertiser.

I can't favor your scheme because I have a better one. Instead of grading the mountains down why not lift the whole of the United States up to their level and thus reach a higher plane as a nation? Don't try to hog my idea, now, for I have it patented.—J. H. H., Grandson of Thomas Jefferson.

There's something in it. At first we smiled in derision, but after reading your letter a second time we became satisfied that you had the interests of the country at heart. If the government takes the scheme up, which it doubtless will, you as the originator will have a good deal to say about it. Please speak for a job for us. Let it be an inside job at about $10 per, with more per on the outside. We are quite willing to divvy with you, but shouldn't want any scandal to arise, as we are supposed to be strictly honest and have a family of thirteen children to look at us accusingly in case we are caught with the goods on us. Keep us posted, Mr. Heliso, and we will do our best to aid you. We are now making out a list of legislators who can be bought for from $50 up and will have it finished in a few days. Remember, an inside job and $10 per; also please arrange that my accounts are not to be audited. That auditing nonsense has spoiled many a good thing. This is all at present. With love, Nevada Times.

M. QUAD.

Had Showed Him the Right Way.

The colored boy was up in the children's court for the fifth time on charges of chicken stealing. This time the magistrate decided to appeal to the boy's father.

"Now, see here, Abe," said he to the old darky, "this boy of yours has been up in court so many times for stealing chickens that I'm sick of seeing him here."

"Ah don't blame you, sah," returned the father. "Ah's sick ob seein' 'im hyah too!"

"Then why don't you teach him how to act? Show him the right way, and he won't be coming here."

"Ah has showed 'im de right way, sah," declared the old man earnestly. "Ah has suttenly showed 'im de right way, but he somehow keep gittin' caught comin' 'way wid dose chickens!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Too Suggestive.

Dusty Dan—Sometimes I wish I could stop riding fast freights and ride in a first class passenger coach.

Wintry Walter—Well, you don't know when you are well off, pard. Why, in each passenger coach der is an ax and saw to remind you of a woodpile.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

New Duties.

"You want a job as a racing chauffeur, eh?"

"Yessir."

"What are your recommendations?"

"I know all about autos, an' I'm a champeen ice cutter an' snow shoveler."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Then He Catches It.

Towne—Luschman is troubled a great deal by his wife's insomnia.

Browne—I didn't know that before.

Towne—Yes; she usually has a severe attack of it every night when he comes in late, and then the trouble begins.—Philadelphia Press.

Expansive Possibilities.

"It is said that some of our greatest financiers go around with only a few dollars in actual cash."

"Yes. But think what a real financier can do with a few dollars in actual cash!"—Washington Star.

All Golfers Are.

Scotch Caddie (after listening to a good deal of swagger from total stranger)—Man, I dinna ken what sort of a gowfer you are, but you're a maist interesting spectacle!—Scraps.

Imperfect Sight.

The Benedict—My wife is a woman who knows a good thing when she sees it.

The Bachelor—Possibly; but, judging from her choice of a husband, she is evidently nearsighted.—Chicago News.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1908.

DEMOCRATIC GAG.

Under the editorial caption, "What the Democratic State Machine is Aiming At," the Baltimore News, independent in politics, lays bare the object of the recent Democratic legislature in passing the State Primary Election Law. The News says:

"Having signed the State primary-election bill which directly repudiated the pledge of his party, there was no reason to think that Governor Crothers would hesitate to sign the Senatorial primary-election law because it did the same thing. The Democratic party, therefore, has the unique distinction of having met in convention, issued a declaration of principles, made its campaign before the people upon them, elected its ticket, and then with full power to carry out its pledges of having deliberately refused to do it. For cynical disregard of the promises of a platform, it would be difficult to show a parallel to the record of the recent Legislature.

"The provisions of the Senatorial primary law are so well understood that it is unnecessary to explain them. We have been through one election, and know how it works. The law aims, as does pretty much everything else the state machine does these days, to minimise the influence of Baltimore in the selection of State candidates and in the conduct of the State government. The reason for this is that the group of men who dominate the party realize that their grip on the machine depends upon keeping the city under. Heretofore Baltimore has been able to make its voice heard, even though its representation in the State Convention is pitiably small, by the threat that unless it received a square deal the independent vote would swing to the Repudlican ticket. Nobody questions that what political progress has been made in the past dozen years has been due to fear on the part of the Democratic machine of a revolt which would overwhelm it. It yeilds as much as and no more than it feels it is forced to yield to save its skin.

"The things which the leaders are now bent upon doing is to free themselves from the constant fear of what Baltimore city may do by making Maryland a one-party State. They propose to accomplish this by eliminating the negro vote. With the Republican party shorn of this part of its strength, years would elapse probably before it would be in position again to offer formidable opposition. It would still have within its ranks negro voters, and the negro-vote bugaboo would still be worked for all it is worth, just as it is now.

"With the Republican party thus crippled, with Baltimore city bound hand and foot by a primary-election law for the nomination of State officers and of United States Senators which gives the city but one-fourth of the representation in the State Convention and in the Legislature, the select coterie of gentlemen which now dominates the Democratic party of this State would be about as safely intrenched as is the Republican machine in Pennsylvania or Tammany Hall in New York city. And that is the end to which all the moves that are now being made on the political chessboard are directed."

GOV. CROTHERS' CLAIMS.

In vetoing the Sinnepuxent Bay Oyster Bill Governor Crothers takes occasion to reply to his critics. His veto is commendable, although it is impossible to see that he could have done anything else in the face of the promises of his party and his own positive pledges. His only escape would have been in the agreement claimed to have been made when the Haman bill was passed, but that would have been utterly inadequate, and he very sensibly said that even if such an agreement existed it was in nowise binding on him. But aside from all excuses and entanglements, his action is extremely gratifying, because it gives us the hope that the oyster culture law is to have a fair trial and is not to be amended into innocuous desuetude.

We regret that we cannot follow him in his laudation of the recent legislature, and it is rather disastrous to his purpose that in the evident desire to impress the public he has sadly overdone it. A eulogy of that kind must hold together; like a chain its strongest part is its weakest link, and the Governor slips up dismally when he commends the Primary Election Law, except that it is "not in exact accord with the platform" of the Democratic party, and when he says: "We promised to pass a United States Senatorial Primary Election Law. Whatever I may say in reference to the same from a personal standpoint, it is in absolute and exact accord with the plank in the platform in reference to the same." Let us place the words of the platform in contrast with the Governor's words:

We favor the passage of a primary election law for the whole state which shall provide that aspirants for state offices shall have the right to submit their candidacy to a direct vote of the people, and that candidates for the United States Senate may submit their candidacies to the people of the state at a primary election.

The simplest will understand that it pledges the party to a primary election law providing for a direct vote of the people of the whole state. Instead of that, the new law perpetuates the old county and direct system, by which Baltimore city with 650,000 of the population has twenty-eight votes and the counties with 650,000 population have 100 votes. Hairsplitting may separate the platform pledge so as to claim that the phrase "direct vote" does not occur in the part of the sentence referring to the senatorial primaries, but fair-minded persons will take it all together and get a different meaning.

It is very evident that the people of the state will not be impressed by this method any more than they will be led to believe the claim of economy for the session that grabbed $170,000 as a beginning and added $30,000 to it at the close, nor will they forget that the $300,000 the Governor says he sayed from appropriations came from the needs of some of our most useful institutions.

GRANTSVILLE.

There will be communion services in the M. E. Church of Grantsville Sunday morning, April 19, instead of the regular Easter program.

Mr. James Bevens and son Joseph, of Grafton, W. Va., formerly of this place, were here calling on old friends. They will return later and make a more extended visit.

Dr. Oliver Getty and wife, of Meyersdale, were here to see their mother, Mrs. Getty, who is still very ill.

Miss Blanch Miller is home again.

Miss Nellie Bevans spent Sunday with her people here.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine are entertaining some of their grandchildren—a little son and daughter of Mr. Englehart, of Accident, and Master Paul McMillen.

Mrs. Salhe Slicer is moving to Addison, to reside with some relatives.

Mrs. Mary Miller and danghter, Mrs. Mathew, have gone to Keyser to visit relatives.

There will be a temperance rally in Grantsville at the M. E. church on Sunday evening, May 3rd, Hon. Lawrence Green being one of the speakers.

The fever patients at Mr. Durst's are doing nicely.

Dr. Robinson is back home.

With joyful Easter wishes for our editor.

B.

FIKE.

The weather conditions have been the past week, very unpleasant. We hope for more sun shine shortly.

Wm. H. Thomas was helping J. A. Fike one day last week to construct a telephone line.

Mr. Lloyd K. Fike was at Markleysburg, Pa., on business one day last week.

Mr. Hiram Fike was helping W. H. Thomas last week.

Mrs. Isaiah Umbel has been sick but is some better at this writing.

Mr. Roy Chisholm is the champion fisher of this vicinity, as we understand he was fishing and brought home fifteen or twenty pounds of large fish, while those that were with him only caught a few small fish.

Mr. J. A. Fike made a business trip to Kingwood, W. Va., one day last week.

Mr. James Evans started last Monday to buy and trade horses, as he is our professional horse trader.

Dr. H. P. Meyers sold his stock in the Connecting Telephone Co. to Mr. M. N. Thomas.

Nearly every one around here complain of having bad colds.

CARTER.

BITTINGER.

The continued mild weather, with an unnsual lack of frost at night, has brought the maple sugar season to a close and many camp owners are closing up their camps and storing away their equipment.

Thomas B. Wiley shipped a large quantity of fine maple syrup to customers in New Jersey and Florida last Monday.

Miss Myrtle Wiley left her home last Monday for a few weeks stay in Cumberland.

Oliver Heyward and daughter, Miss Beatrice, of Bond, were visiting here last Sunday.

Salem Broadwater, of New Germany, passed through this village last Monday morning.

Messrs. P. G. Stark and O. C. Buckle shipped a consignment of maple sugar and syrup from Swanton last Monday.

Solomon Orendorf and Miss Amanda Brenneman were married in the Amish church near this place last Sunday morning.

Messrs. Albert Brenneman and Melchor Hetrick made a business trip to Oakland last week.

Subscribe for the Republican.

LAW PROTECTS THE LAWYERS.

No Person Else Can Perform Services of Attorney at Law.

It is announced that the Legislature has passed a law prohibiting anyone but a lawyer from writing deeds, wills, etc., for pay or reward. Local attorneys have copies of the law. The bill was introduced by a Harford county member of the Legislature, and provides that no person shall practice the profession or perform the services of an attorney at law within this state without being admitted to the bar, as required by the old law, and any person who shall give any legal advice, represent any person, in the trial of any case at law or equity, or perform any written instrument affecting the title of real estate, for pay or reward shall be deemed an attorney at law for the purpose of the article.

The penalty is a fine of not more than $100 or not more than 30 days in jail, or both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

NORTH GLADE.

We are glad to observe that we have a good prospect for fruit this year.

Our farmers are beginning to plant potatoes and sow oats.

Wm. Brenneman, as well as several others, have been putting up a large amount of wire fence.

W. H. O'Brien is building a fine new house. Clyde Knox is doing the work.

Jamie Mason, son of John Mason, has been seriously ill for some time.

We wish to congratulate Lloyd Winters and Miss May Rhodes, who were married recently.

C. S. Harvey and Louis Beckman will put in new telephones shortly.

Elijiah Moon has moved his family to Jennings where he and his boys have good positions.

Rev. Manges, of Oakland, conducted the funeral services of Mrs. Knox last week at the Lutheran chapel.

Rev. Engle preached a good sermon for us Sunday morning, after which our Sunday school was reorganized with the following officers, viz: Geo. W. Moon, Supt., C. T. Rhodes, Ass't; Gussie Rhodes and G. B. Moon, secretaries; Jno. I. O'Brien, Treas., and Lista Lee, libraian. All are cordially invited to attend and help make our Sunday school a success.

GORTNER.

A. T. Baker was rusticating among the West Virginia Hills Sunday.

S. W. Slabach and R. D. Becker were pleasant callers at the home of H. L. Killius Sunday last.

Daniel Lichty and sister, Miss Lizzie, went to Bittinger last Saturday to be present at the Orendorf Brenneman nuptials, which was celebrated at the above place on Sunday.

Miss Barbara Gortner, who has been staying at Kingwood, W. Va., returned home last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Swartzentruber were calling on Aurora friends last Sunday.

Ben DeWitt was a pleasant caller at D. W. Dodge's recently.

The following officers were elected by the Gortner Sunday School for the ensuing year: Superintendent, Jacob Shettler; assistant superintendent, S. W. Slabach; secretary, A. W. Killius; treasurer, Frank Gortner; librarians, Will Sanders and Harvey Gortner; chorister, Laura Sanders. Sunday school meets at at 9.30 a. m. and everyone is earnestly invited to come and help along. Preaching at 10.30.

WILLIE.

Pipe-Line Finished.

The Pure Oil Pipe Line Company which for the past year has been engaged in building a pipe-line system through this State and Pennsylvania to Marcus Hook on the Delaware River has finally completed the work and a test of the system will be made as soon as the weather is suitable. For some time the line has been finished save for a short section west of Waynesboro where legal proceedings had held up the work. This section was laid within the past few weeks and the line is now complete throughout a distance of 219 miles.

Now that the line is completed the company is only waiting for suitable weather conditions to make a test of the line, pumping water through it. The water will be pumped in at the western terminus of the line, and with men patrolling the entire line watching for leaks, water will be forced through for some days in order that any leaks may be discovered and repaired before oil is turned in.

The line consists of one line of six-inch pipe and will have a capacity of 100 barrels of oil an hour.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. All dealers.

THE DEATH RECORD.

MRS. IDA ABERNATHY.

Mrs. Ida Abernathy, widow of the late Arthur S. Abernathy, son of Rev. and Mrs. Isaac W. Abernathy, of near Wilson, died at her home in Thermopolis, Wyoming, of pneumonia and peritonitis, on March 6th, 1908, and was buried at the Abernathy cemetery in this county on March 12th. She left one son, aged 13 years, who is making his home with his grandparents. Concerning Mrs. Abernathy the Thermopolis Record of March 14th, contained the following, which was contributed to that paper by Mrs. Eugene McCoy, a resident of Thermopolis: "How still the river flows as it nears the boundless waters of the mighty deep, where the roses shower its bosom with scented blossoms and the tumult of the human world breaks over its course, slowly moving, silently, surely, until lo! how still and deep and grand. And over it rang the voice of God speaking over the deeps of creations, and the music of the shining spheres thrilled from Heaven, to the Heaven of Heavens, and the song reached the earth. The river has widened and the current of a young and generous life is swallowed up in the glories of the eternal world. Death, do you call it. Nay, nay, not so! She did not deem it as such, and if she could speak to us from the bright world to which she has gone, she would say, 'I am so happy! All is beautiful here! Do not mourn. My sorrow, my pain, my disappointment, are all gone. I did not mean to leave you, but I fell asleep that morning and the Angels awoke me with the sweetest song I ever heard, and lo! I was in Paradise. I am studying the pictures of Heaven. Love is supreme and the place is full of God. I shall wait for you.'

"The beauty of her character was that of a Christian lady, always ready to lend a helping hand, to comfort, to uplift, and as her suffering drew to a close a Heavenly voice seemed to speak to her, 'It is enough, tired soul! What is unfinished I will finish for you, and you may repay me with service in the brighter world.' Welcome to her was the morning bright on the golden hills beyond the river. The spirit took its flight and the tired soul went home to God to finish her work. She has gone, but from the brink of the river where the throne light and sunlight is blending in colors of Heavenly delight she calls back to us, 'do not mourn because I died.'"

As the shadows seemed to flee
When she heard the Angels call;
Then she closed her dear, tired eyes,
Clinging to the Crucified
She awoke in Paradise.

Did we weep? Forgive the tear;
When we saw our dear friend there
In the casket, white as snow,
Beautiful as a lovely bride.
"Do not mourn because I died."

Mrs. Abernathy was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Moreland, of Fort Pendleton, this county.

MRS. MARY HOLLY BROWNING.

Died, on Monday, April 13th, after an illness of two or three months resulting from paralysis, at her home in Kitzmillerville, this county, Mrs. Mary Holly Browning, beloved wife of Mr. Meshack A. Browning. Mrs. Browning, while on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. B. F. Laughlin, at the time residing in Kingwood, W. Va., suffered a stroke of paralysis. Later she was conveyed to her home and everything possible was done for her that medical skill could suggest, but she gradually grew weaker until death relieved her. The deceased lady was a most amiable woman, a consistent Christian, a devoted mother and a loving wife. She was the mother of four daughters and one son, namely: Mrs. Edward J. Hamill, Mrs. R. A. Smith, Mrs. V. G. Pew, all of Kitzmillerville, Mrs. B. F. Laughlin, of Deer Park, and Russell. Mrs. Browning's funeral occurred on Tuesday afternoon from the Methodist Episcopal church of Kitzmillerville, of which she was a member for many years. The services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Funk, the paster, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and neighbors. As a mark of respect to the deceased lady all the public works of Kitzmillerville and Blaine were closed down for the day and business was generally suspended. The interment was made in the Hamill cemetery near the town.

Labor Still Homing East.

The exodus of foreign born laborers continues. Including the departures yesterday the record for the year so far is 111,234 greater than it was in a similar period last year. The Barbarossa of the North German Lloyd fleet will take out about 2,000 on Thursday and the Prinzess Irene, which sailed yesterday for the Mediterranean, carried away 900. Gustav H. Schwab of the North German Lloyd Line said that many foreign laborers now temporarily employed would take advantage of the low rates to the Mediterranean, which will enable them to spend the time at sea as cheaply as they could at home. Only 67,193 immigrants arrived in the last three months. In the first three months of last year there were 251,861 arrivals.—New York Sun.

WANTED—A good team suitable for farm work. Apply to Wm. M. Kelley, Coketon, W. Va.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time f you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the u and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all the tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of o Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant.
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

COAL TRADE HAS GREATLY REVIVED.

Consolibation Mines Worked To The Limit Last Week, Making Full Time.

Not in many weeks has the coal trade been so active in the Georges' Creek field. Last week the mines of the Consolidation Coal Company, which employs about 2,200 men have been working full time and the indications are that the prosperous condition will continue. The lake trade has opened up after having been closed by ice since November, and this week the Consolidation Coal Company shipped to the lakes alone seven thousand tons. This company produces about 8,000 tons a day so the output last week has been almost a record breaker.

Other mines along the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad, including those of the Black-Sheridan-Wilson Company have also been very busy. The total daily output of the Georges Creek field when the mines are busy is about 17,000 tons. An official said yesterday: "Coal trade could not have been better this week. We could hardly have filled any more orders. Business has certainly picked up and we have every reason to hope for very busy times in our line."

License Remains at $1,000.

The council at Grafton, W. Va., having aroused a storm of indignation by voting to reduce the annual liquor license fee from $1,000 to $600 met and reconsidered its action. After some members had explained why they had voted for the reduction, it was decided by a unanimous vote to let the fee remain as at present $1,000. One of the councilmen said he had been misinformed, that he had been told that if the license remained at $1,000 but five saloons would take it out, while at $600 twelve saloons would keep in business. There are now fourteen applicants for licenses at the $1,000 rate.

Odd Fellows Anniversary Service.

Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., w celebrate the eighty-ninth anniversa of the order in America in the I Lynn United Brethren church, S day, April 25th, at 8 o'clock There has been an elaborate pr arranged and an enjoyable time ticipated. The speakers will be Philip Willett, a noted lecturer fo ly of Pennsylvania now of Mt. Park; Rev. Chenoweth, a Baptist ter from Terra Alta, and Dr. H McComas whom we all know an to hear at any time. Good vocal will be furnished. All members o Lodge are requested, and other bers of the order are invited to n Odd Fellows Hall, Loch Lynn, a p. m. The public is cordially inv come and enjoy the evening with

JOHN W. REAM,
ENOCH E. KESNE
HARVEY N. CUPE
Commi

Have Returned Home.

Mrs. Mary Browning of Oaklan who was called here some weeks the accident that befell her so Robert Browning, a B. & O. bra who had the misfortune to fal a train and have his foot so badly ed that amputation was found sary, departed last evening accon by the son, for home. Mrs. Br desires us to thank all who have k kind to her since coming to Graft well as the many friends who wer tinuous and faithful in extending ever aid they could to her sufferin Both mother and son are very gr for the kind treatment they re especially are they grateful to the and officials of the City Sanitari are glad to note that the conditio young man has greatly improv that he is now able to go a crutches. Mrs. Browning mad friends while in Grafton, and all o will be pleased to have her vis in the future and under happier stances.—Grafton Republican.

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's strength, puts fat on thin people, makes a fretful baby happy, brings color to a pale girl's cheeks, and prevents coughs, colds and consumption.

Food in concentrated form for sick and well, young and old, rich and poor.

And it contains no drugs and no alcohol.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00.

ENGLAND SAYS
NO ALUM
IN FOOD

and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder—

So does France
So does Germany

The sale of alum foods has been made illegal in Washington and the District of Columbia, and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder,

Say plainly—

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

and be very sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

Prof. J. C. Beahm, of Accident, spent a day or two in Oakland this week.

Miss Nell Browning, of Elkins, West Va., is here for a week as the guest of relatives.

Mr. Charles A. Deffinbaugh, of the Democrat, spent Sunday in Cumberland with friends.

Mrs. R. T. Browning, of Thayerville, has been in Oakland a few days visiting relatives and friends.

Attorneys John T. Mitchell and E. H. Sincell returned to Oakland last Thursday from a business trip east.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak, white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

Mrs. Owen T. Treacy and little daughter went to Baltimore Tuesday afternoon to visit relatives and friends.

Mr. Jonas Glotfelty, one of our good friends from nown McHenry-way, was in the city Tuesday when he called at this office.

Surveyor of the Port R. A. Ravenscroft, of Baltimore, who spent a week in Oakland, returned to Baltimore Thursday afternoon last Mas. Leah F. Sincell, who spent the winter with her daughters at Cumberland and Lonaconing, returned to her home in Oakland Monday morning.

Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, who was in Oakland a day or two last week, went to Baltimore Saturday afternoon

Mrs. Agnes Wolf-Sauerwald, of Baltimore, arrived in Oakland Tuesday afternoon to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wolf, at their home on Oak street.

Mrs. H. A. Loraditch, who went over to Kitzmillerville last Saturday and remained there as the guest of relatives until yesterday, when she returned to her home in Oakland.

Dr. W. Ravenscroft and Mr. Samuel Lawton went to Hagerstown yesterday where they will represent Garrett County in the Congressional Convention, which assembles there today.

Mr. George L. Michaels and Mr. William H. Jacobs and son Frank, of the eastern section of Garrett county, who spent the winter in Florida, returned to their respective homes on Saturday last.

The Misses Ellery, of Wheeling, who have been residents of Oakland for a number of years past, left here yesterday afternoon for the home of their brother in Pittsburg, where they will reside.

Some magnitude of the growth of the Christian Endeavor society can be seen from the statement that in this country alone there has been a gain in membership of 60,000 during the last six months.

Mrs. Elizabeth Townshend and son Mr. Robert C. Townshend, who spent several weeks recently at Parsons, West Va., where they visited Mrs. Charles D. Smith, returned to their home in Oakland Tuesday afternoon.

For Sale or Exchange for good Jersey Cows—Two Jersey Bulls; pure St. Lambert breed; registered A. J. C. C.; age 2 years. For information and price address Walter Sanders, Foreman, Brookside Dairy Farms, Brookside, W. Va. 7-3t*

Dr. A. J. Mason and Mr. R. C. McCandlish, both af Friendsville, came up to Oakland from that place Tuesday afternoon and atttend the Masonic lodge here that evening, when Mr. McCandlish was passed to the degree of Fellow Craft.

Finley C. Hendrickson, of Cumberland, went through town Tuesday, toward Garrett county on a fishing tour, but how a prohibitionist can amuse himself when fish do not bite no mere States' Rights democrat appears to know.

Mr. S. G. Ashby, who recently came to Oakland from Bond and opened a lumber brokerage office here, returned Saturday from a week's business trip to Pittsburg, in which city he sold a number of cars of lumber and lumber mill products.

At St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church and St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church services are being held every night this week by the pastors of these congregations, to be followed on Sunday morning by the administration of the Holy Communion.

The day of cheap newspapers is drawing to an end. The postoffice department has decided to refuse second class rates of postage to papers and magazines furnished below cost and giving premiums to secure subscribers, and the result will be the death of many papers run only for advertising purposes.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

While we beautify our gardens and premises we should not forget our relatives and friends who are at peaceful rest. There are more little mounds in our cemetery than there are residents in our city and it is fitting that our Silent City should be kept in order. None of us are too poor to plant a rose above the resting place of a relative or friend.

CAPITAL 50,0 0,.0 THE SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent.

on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

ANOTHER DWELLING BURNED.

Fire on the Dixon Farm Near Oakland Destrored New Building.

At an early hour yesterday morning the dwelling house on the farm belonging to Mr. D. M. Dixon, which was recently vacated by his brother, James Dixon, Esq., who moved his family to Keyser, West Va., was completely destroyed by fire, which evidently had its origin in an incendiary manner, as the dwelling had been vacant for more than a week.

The house was erected four years ago at a cost of about $3,000 and was insured in a company represented by Mr. Fred. A. Thayer for the sum of $1,400.

This office was visited Tuesday by Misses Allie and Estelle Hart and Mr. Daniel Shaffer, the latter being home for a few days pending his transfer as a Baltimore and Ohio train auditor with Pittsburg as his headquarters to a branch line of the same company reaching Kenova, West Va., from Wheeling, when the latter city will become his headquarters.

Miss Anna Manges will leave Oakland on Tuesday next for York, Pa., where, on Thursday evening, she will recite at an entertainment to be given under the auspices and for the benefit of the Young Woman's Christian Association of that city. Before returning to Oakland Miss Manges will visit friends and relatives in Harrisburg, Lancaster and Philadelphia, Pa.

A barber in Grantsville, it is reported, has a sign out which announces—"Satisfaction Guaranteed, or Your Whiskers Refunded." Which probably induced a Frostburg minister of humorous turn to tell the Journal of how gilt letters had fallen from a shoe-store window, owned by several splendid bachelors, until it reads—"Fine H E S."—Frostburg Journal.

The three men, two of them named Robinett and the other named Green, who were arrested three or four weeks ago charged with having stolen a pair of rubber shoes from a rack in front of Mr. J. N. Robinson's store on Second street, were released from jail last Thursday by the committing magistrate upon bond in the amount of $300 for their appearance at the June term of court being furnished. Mr. D. E. Offutt, of Oakland, became their bondsman.

A subscriber once received a dun through the postoffice, and it made him mad. He went to see the editor about it, and the editor showed him a few duns of his own—one for paper, one for type, one for fuel and several others. "Now," said the editor, "I didn't get mad when these came because I knew that all I had to do was to ask several reliable gentlemen like you to come and help me out, and then I could settle all of them." When the subscriber saw how it was he relented, paid up, and renewed for another year.

The last of the series of articles on Maryland and its productive soils, which have been reprinted in this paper from the columns of the New York Tribune, to which paper they were contributed by Mr. Edward Van Alstine, of Kinderhook, N. Y., one of the Maryland Farmers' Institute workers, appears in THE REPUBLICAN today. Mr. Van Alstine's last article deals primarily with Garrett county farms and forests. It is a very readable article and should be studiously scanned by the agriculturalists of Garrett county.

Ex-Senator U. G. Palmer, of Hutton, who will have charge of the Oakland Normal Sceool this summer, returned to his home at Hutton from a ten days' visit to various Normal schools in the States of Pennsylvania and New York. Among the schools visited by Mr. Palmer were those located at Tiago, New Castle and Titusville, Pa., and Elmira and Corning, New York. At those schools Mr. Palmer received many new ideas connected with Normal school work which he will put into practice when the school opens in Oakland on next Monday.

Miss Louise W. Brooks, of New York City, executive secretary of the National Young Woman's Christian Association, was in Oakland and at Mountain Lake Park on Friday and Saturday completing arrangements for the summer conference of the society she represents which will meet at the the Park on August 28th for a ten days' session. Miss Brooks was very much gratified with the Park and did not hesitate in pronouncing it most attractive and the accommodations afforded for the gathering far surpassing those of many other places where such conferences are annually held.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

WILL BE IMPROVED.

Heating Plant to Be Installed in Presbyterian Church This Summer.

A contract has been let for the installation of a heating plant in the Oakland Presbyterian church, work upon which will be commenced within a short time.

For the accommodation of the boiler and as a storage room for fuel excavation beneath the building will be made on the west side and a flue will be erected along the outside wall of the church.

The church has been heated by two large stoves ever since its erection a great many years ago, and while always comfortable the dust and cold dirt has to some extent marred the walls. With the installation of the heating plant this trouble will be obviated.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Jesus Teaches Humility—John 13, 1-20.

The Oakland Normal.

The prospects of a large attendance at the Oakland Normal are flattering. Already teachers are arranging for board and in some instances families are coming for the season in order to obtain the full benefit of the school privileges for their children.

Inasmuch as all the schools are to be merged into one at Oakland for the last three weeks students evidently consider it will be an advantage to attend the full session here.

Oakland, with its good school equipment, reasonable prices for board, excellent church facilities and central location, is an ideal place to spend ten weeks in study.

The people of Oakland manifest a great interest in the public schools and are always glad to accord the teachers of Garrett a kindly welcome.

Prof. Gibson and Miss Phoenix, who are foremost among teachers in this country in their line of work, have been heard from and will be on hand promptly at the beginning of the three weeks session.

Their instruction will be of the highest order and for practical everyday work in the school room, and no teacher who wishes to keep abreast of the times can afford to miss a single lecture by them. The work by Miss Phoenix in Physical Culture, while somewhat of an innovation, will be very practical and beneficial She will also give a library recital on one Friday evening and Prof. Gibson a concert on anoth during the term.

Orphans' Court Proceedings.

The semi-monthly session of the Orphans' Court for Garrett county was held on Tuesday of this week with Judges Fitzwater, Kamp and Moon on the bench and Register Friend in attendance, when the following business was transacted:

Letters of testamentary were granted to Thurman and William M. Umbel on the personal estate of their recently deceased father, Isaac M. Umbel; also to William H. Wilson on the personal estate of the late Jacob Wilson.

Isaac W. Abernathy was appointed guardian of Keith Abernathy, son of the late Arthur S. and Ida Abernathy.

The first and final account of Ephraim and Ezra Lee, administrators of James W. Lee, was ratified.

First and final account of Catharine Teats, administratrix of the late Jonas Teats, ratified.

First and final account of William A. Smith, administrator of Minnie M. Smith, ratified.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ⅓ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

The Exchange.

The exchange to be conducted at the store of H. C. Sincell & Co., by the ladies of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church, Sunday morning, afternoon and evening, where you can buy your Easter dinner, consisting of dressed chickens, home made bread, pies, rolls, Maryland biscuit, cakes of all kinds, cookies, hermit cakes, ginger snaps, old-fashioned ginger bread like our mothers used to make; also colored eggs in every color, so don't color them at home. Fancy articles will also be on sale. If you don't want to buy call upon the ladies anyway.

Church Bazar and Supper.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's M. E. church will hold a bazar and supper in the Townshend store building on Alder street, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of next week. Many domestic ane fancy articles will be offered for sale at reasonable prices.

Your presence and patronage is kindsolicited.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

SPECIAL MUNICIPAL ELECTION.

Will Be Held in Oakland to Pass Upon The Question of Issuing Bonds.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held Tuesday night of this week when judges and clerks were appointed to conduct a special election to be held Monday, May 4th, when the residents of the town will vote upon the question of issuing bonds to the extent of $60,000 for the purpose of erecting a system of water works and sewerage for the town.

As yet the provisions of the Act empowering Council to call for this election are unknown to the people generally. The Act has been signed by the Governor but has not been transmitted to the local authorities.

The officials appointed by Counsel to conduct the election were: Judges, Dr. E. H. Bartlett, George W. Legge and John Helbig. Clerks, Arthur Lawton and Thomas E. Flanigan.

Eggs For Easter.

Garthright wants all the eggs in Garrett county for Easter. He will pay the highest market price for them either in cash, part cash and part trade or all trade. Take the eggs to Garthright; he will handle all that may come.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C.&P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

ACCIDENT NORMAL.

We will organize April 20th and continue till June 12th.

This work is designed to give teachers and others a thorough knowledge of all branches taught in the Free Schools.

It will be an opportune time for those just entering the profession of teaching.

Those who have taught should make this summer's work a stepping stone to a HIGHER GRADE of work and BETTER SALARIES.

We will endeavor to make it both pleasant and profitable for you. Come and spend a busy session with us.

The Commissioners have arranged a uniform rate of $5 TUITION for the entire time. BOARDING is abundant, cheap and convenient.

For further information address

J. C. BEAHM, Principal, Accident, Md.

Or

H. W. BROWNING, Vice-Principal, Friendsville, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down P...

Su'

NEW ALIGNMENT OF THE DEMOCRATS

Senatorship The Prize For Which Fight Will Be Made In Two Years.

INDEPENDENTS AGAINTS CROTHERS

Feel That They Were Deceived In The Last Campaign—Republicans Are Pleased.

A new line up in the Democratic party is indicated as a result of the recent Legislature's work and the political battles in prospect, and the wiseacres are scheming it our as follows:

One the one side:
Senator John Walter Smith,
Governor Crothers,
John J. Mahon,
Arthur P. Gorman.
On the other side:
Senator Rayner,
Ex-Governor Warfield,
Ex-Governor Frank Brown,
The Independents.

In the last election Governor Crothers had the support of a united party. His action in connection with the primary election and Senatorial primary laws, however, has had the effect of alienating many of those who were with him in that campaign. The Governor's action in ignoring ex-Governor Brown of the prominent part which that gentleman took in the campaign, it may be assumed has not made Mr. Brown more friendly to the dominent faction of the party. Senator Rayner is bound to be antagonistic to that faction because it proposes to send Mr. Gorman to the Senate to succeed Mr. Rayner, and the latter intends to succeed himself if he can.

The independents are thoroughly sore with the controlling spirits of the party organization because of the ruthless way in which the party pledges were disregarded by the Legislature, particularly in connection with the primary election and the oyster laws. In Baltimore city this feeling is enhanced because of the discrimination shown against the city.

It is realized by the anti-organization element that the primary election law passed by the Legislature puts an enormous power into the hands of the organization. It has the right to decide whether direct or convention primaries be held, and in Baltimore county it has the appointment of the election officials. In the other counties and in Baltimore city the election officials are appointed by the party members of the Supervisors of Elections. This virtually puts the matter of good officials up to Governor Crothers, who appoints the Supervisors and can remove them if they violate their oath of office.

The anti-organization forces, however, proposes to make a weapon of public opinion. The Republican party will be held up as a menace. "If you don't give us a square deal, we will vote the Republican ticket," will be the threat.

In this connection, it is the opinion of many of the best-informed men that the disfranchising amendment is as good as dead already. It will be opposed by many Democrats who would have supported it had a fair direct-primary law been passed, but who do not care to make a one-party State of Maryland until such a time as every element in the party is given a chance to make its influence felt.

Republicans are feeling very cheerful over the Legislature's record. They say that they have got enough campaign material for a dozen elections. The one element of doubt as to the fate of the suffrage amendment lies in the uncertainty regarding the operation of the new Wilson law. Its provisions have been extended to ...hester and Queen Anne's ...d that feature of it re... ballots has been ... this will ... few Republican votes remain to be seen.

There are three big political campaigns in prospect—the Presidential election, that in which the suffrage amendment will be approved or disapproved, and the Senatorial primaries, which will determine the man to succeed Senator Rayner. Local politicians are less interested in the Presidential election than the other two.

THE WORLD IS NOT ALL A STAGE.

Error of Shakespear's Pointed Out by a Square Jawed Woman.

"The children of the stage may be the little angels they are represented in print to be, but I want to be shown," said the man with the Florida coat of tan. "Here's one reason why:

"During the bathing hour at Palm Beach one forenoon last month a number of ladies, most of them the mothers of children, were seated in reclining chairs on the beach, watching the bathers, when a fresh youngster of 8 or 10, flashily but expensively togged out, turned up and started to have fun with them. They were all sitting facing the sea of course, and it struck this sooner kid that it would be heaps of larks for him to sneak up behind their chairs and yank at the loose wisps of their back hair.

"Maybe he didn't know those loose wisps of back hair on women are called 'scolding locks,' but there were heaps of things he didn't know, that was plain. So he started in to enjoy himself, slinking up behind the women, one after the other, pulling their heads by grabbing hold of their loose back hair and then darting off in his merry little laughing way.

"The annoyed women turned around in their chairs and glared at the impudent snip, but their glares had no effect upon him. He would simply wait until they'd quieted down and forgotten about him and then he'd creep up and take a grab at another woman's back hair.

"Finally he picked a loser, as everybody must who sticks around with one game too long. He made a grab at the back hair of a square jawed woman with iron rimmed spectacles, who had a large grown family of her own in bathing out in front of her, and the square jawed woman was waiting for him.

"He didn't get within a foot of catching hold of her hair before she had him in a grip in which she showed she'd had plenty of practice when she was raising youngsters herself away back yonder.

"'Now,' she said, to the squirming tyke as he tried to break loose from her, 'what kind of a monkey are you, anyhow, and why can't you behave instead of making such a nuisance of yourself?'

"The spoiled kid tried his best to strike and kick her, but she had him in an iron grip and he couldn't get his hands or feet into action. Then the snoozer, finding that he could not break loose, struck an absurdly theatrical attitude and vipped at her:

"'You let go of me! You don't know who I am! I am——— and he squeaked the name of a well known kid of the stage, 'and I play leads! You let go of me!'

"'Oh, you're an actor, and you play leads—whatever that is—do you?' She said, and then she began to place him over her knee with the greatest deliberation in the world. 'Then, my son, you need to be taught about two minutes at least that all the world is not a stage, in spite of what Mister Shakespeare had to say on that subject. I don't play leads, my fresh little friend, but I imagine I haven't forgotten how to play the kind of a tattoo that you need more than any boy of your age that ever I saw.'

"And despite his frantic struggles and wailing she clapped him across her ample knees and proceeded, with her business-like right hand working like a flail, to teach that too previous youngster of the stage more about the necessity of good manners than he'll ever know until he's grown up. It is about 100 to 1 that he had never felt the weight of a punishing hand in all his mollycoddled and spoiled young life.

"The other women in the chairs looked on approvingly, and the men who had watched the performance from the beginning clapped their hands.

"The kid slouched off blubbering and knuckling his eyes and all of the freshness for the time being taken out of him, when the woman with the square jaw set him on his feet with a jolt that must have jarred his milk teeth and turned him loose.

"A few minutes later the stage youngster's wild eyed and utterly unreasonable mother came flaring and fronting down to the beach, but the square jawed woman had left for the golf links, for she looked as if, had it come to that, she wouldn't have hesitated to spank the mother just as she had spanked the brat."—Philadelphio Record.

VENERATE THE HYMN

Sailors Show Respect And Love For National Anthem.

The sound of the first bar of the national hymn brings every naval man who hears it to attention. The mental attitude is one of intense respect as well. That anthem never becomes a bore to the officers and men. Its notes are a call to duty, and, and the salute, when it is ended, is a public pledge of fealty to the flag. No music is played on ship more carefully and with more earnest effort to get shade of feeling out of the notes. Reverence for the time is a living thing, and after one has been on shipboard for a week he begins to feel ashamed of the public indifference to the tune ashore.

Let one incident reveal the regard for the hymn on shipboard. We were steaming just below the equator on the way to Rio Janeiro one evening, when showers made it impossible for the band to play on deck. The concert was held in a casement and the humidity added great discomfort to the intense heat. The members of the crew off duty had stripped to their undershirts and trousers. The musicians had also thrown off their coats. Their faces ran with sweat as they played.

Every concert ends with "The Star Spangled Banner." It was the time to play it. All the musicians stood up and the men who had crowded in to hear the music came to attention, but not one move toward lifting his baton would the bandmaster make until every one of his men had put on his coat and hat. They might play Strauss waltzes and even Wagnerian selections in their undershirts, but no note of the national hymn could be played until every man was in dress befitting the occasion. All this is nothing unusual, but it is imprsssive to the man who sees it for the first time.

So, although there is no place for comfortable loafing and sometimes it is lonely, a civilian passenger on one of these ships after all can find entertainment and other things to interest him. Day by day he feels his patriotic impulses xuickened. Day by day he is more and more glad that he is an American citizen. And when taps is sounded and he knows that the men not on duty are swinging quietly in their hammocks, tired out from their work, he can understand and appreciate the full significance and beauty of the refrain which sooths one and all with its soft goodnight: "Go to sleep! Go to sleep! G-o t-o s-l-e-e-p!"

All the News Everything that happens in the home town; the births, marriages, deaths, the social affairs, the comings and goings of the people—your neighbors; the notes of the schools and churches; all these and many other new and interesting things this paper will give you All the Time

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

Beany Hendrix Of the Big Y.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

It was while he was riding down Little Bear trail that Beany Hendrix saw her. She was riding up the trail, and they met at the narrowest point, where the steep walls of the canyon shut out the sunlight, leaving a gloomy tunnel through which there was barely room for two riders to pass. Hendrix backed his cayuse against the rocky wall and tried to shrink his huge form into smaller compass.

She, Edith Van Tine, looked at him from the level of grave, gray eyes questioningly. She bowed politely and then smiled. All women smiled when they met Hendrix's genial gaze. They smiled in approval of the warm kindliness of his good looking face, at the strength of his great body and at the good heart shining through his honest brown eyes.

Miss Van Tine's smile faded, however, as she saw the narrow trail that became almost a footpath as it wound up the canyon, and her cheek paled. In spite of this formidable outlook she urged her horse forward, bravely determined not to reveal her cowardice to this big cow puncher, who sat, hat in hand, waiting for her to pass.

"You're not afraid, are you, ma'am?" he drawled as she hesitated.

"Not in the least, thank you," she replied crisply.

"I was about to say," he continued soberly, "that if you're a stranger in these parts this is a nasty bit of country for a lady to get about in alone."

"Thank you," she repeated, still more coldly, "but I—was only resting my horse."

Hendrix looked curiously solemn; indeed, his features assumed a rigid expression. One who knew might have said that Hendrix was suppressing a smile. He threw one leg over the pommel of his saddle, thus permitting his cayuse to hug the wall more closely, and looked amiably upon the pretty stranger. Pretty girls were rare in the Bear creek district.

She flushed under his frank, admiring gaze and dug her spurred heel into her horse's flank with angry impatience. The animal bounded forward, striking fire with his scattered hoofs. There was a faint cry from the girl as she dashed away, and instantly Hendrix turned his mount and followed her.

"LET US GO TOGETHER ALWAYS," HE SAID CONTENTEDLY.

It was impossible for him to pass her on the narrow trail without inflicting serious injury to either one of them, but somehow he managed to extend his length along his horse and grasp the bridle rein of her terrified animal.

"Now," he said kindly, "just you let me follow you up till you get out of this hole. As I said before, this is a nasty bit of country for a lady to get about in."

"And as I said before," she began tartly, with eyes fixed toward the mouth of the canyon, "I'm not afraid."

"We won't quarrel about that, ma'am," returned Hendrix calmly. "There isn't room for two to quarrel here."

Edith smiled faintly. Beany Hendrix, riding at her horse's flank, could see the dimple in her cheek and the curl of her lip, and a troubled look came into his eyes, and a deep wrinkle found place between his brows.

As they passed out of the canyon and into the open she turned toward him. The smile had fled from her face, and there was a cold, hard look in the gray eyes.

"Thank you, sir, for your kindness. I believe I shall get along famously now."

Hendrix removed his hat and passed a bronzed hand through his shock of sunburnt hair. "If you will excuse me, ma'am," he said, with his slow drawl, "I'd like to say that you better ride home by the long trail; it's easy riding, and it's safer than the canyon."

"But I don't know the long trail. I have never been about here before," she returned blankly.

"I should be pleased if you will let me take you to the other trail. Oh, I'm all right," he added hastily as she turned a doubtful glance in his direction. "I'm Beany Hendrix, from the Big Y outfit."

"Beany Hendrix!" she repeated, suppressing a smile.

"You never heard of me before, I dare say, ma'am. I'm only a cow puncher," said Hendrix, with a dogged look about his pleasant mouth.

"Your name sounds familiar," she said, with a return to her stiff manner. "I will be very grateful if you will show me the other way around."

"Certainly." He fell into line at her side, and they rode in silence for several miles. Presently Edith became conscious that the cow puncher was observing her furtively, and her cheeks flushed. She turned indignantly toward him, but he was gazing fixedly away across the plain, although there was that tense line about his jaw which indicated some repressed feeling.

"I believe he is laughing at me," she thought angrily, and then, mindful of his gentle courtesy and of the fact that he was going out of his way to make her journey safe and pleasant, she turned a softened face toward him. "I am afraid I am making you a great deal of trouble," she said.

"Not at all," he returned. "I was out looking for some stray critters. If I don't round 'em up today I will tomorrow."

"That is what I like about this western country," she said wistfully. "There isn't the hurry and bustle of the east and the undying conviction that what isn't done today will never be done at all. Every day is so crowded with events that there is no time to really live!" She spoke bitterly now, and her eyes were turned away toward the low line of serrated hills before them.

"I thought you were from the east," he said quietly. "Where are you staying?"

"At Anderson's. You like the west better than the east?" she asked timidly.

He removed his hat and looked about the level expanse of country that was visible from the slight rise they had gained, at the bending blue sky, the gray green of the sagebrush and the greener slopes of feeding grounds dotted with cattle.

"Who wouldn't?" he replied briefly.

She sighed softly. "I didn't know it was so beautiful—out here," she said, rather sadly, he thought. "They said I must come for my health, and here I am."

"I came—because—somebody in the east was tired of me—said she never wanted to see me again," drawled Hendrix, turning his eyes away from her downcast face.

"Oh, no!" she exclaimed warmly. "Not that"— She flushed vividly.

"Something like that," he returned calmly.

There was silence for a time, she riding with drooping head and sad mouth and he watching her with tender pity in his eyes.

"Here is your trail, ma'am," he said at last, drawing in his horse with sudden energy.

There was a startled look in her face as she raised her eyes to his and then glanced at the well defined trail that led to Anderson's.

"It's easy to follow and will take you straight as a die to Anderson's." He pulled his horse to one side and removed his hat.

"It—it is safe for me to go—alone?" she faltered as she turned her horse into the trail and glanced appealingly at him.

Hendrix hesitated. She saw the red creep into the bronze of his cheek and a strange light invade his eyes. "Safe as time, ma'am," he said stubbornly, facing his horse about and preparing to leave her.

She rode a few paces away from him and then stopped. "Benforth," she said tremulously over her shoulder, "I don't want to go alone—any longer. I want you to come with me!"

He was at her side instantly.

"Do you mean it, Edith?" he questioned eagerly. "Do you mean it?"

"Yes," she whispered softly. "I came after you, Benforth. I wanted you! Will you come with me—now?"

"Let us go together—always," he said contentedly.

Gave Her Carte Blanche to Eat.

A woman who has been a victim of indigestion and is kept to a dyspeptic's diet most of the time was invited to a dinner which she was anxious to attend.

She went to her telephone, and, trusting to a somewhat unreliable memory, she asked to be connected by the ever obliging "central" with telephone 2394. When the connection had been made she began her plaintive query without any prefatory, "Is that you, doctor?"

"I want very much to go to a little dinner tomorrow night," she began rapidly, "and do you think it would hurt me if I ate just a taste of soup and perhaps a little fish or the least trifle of game and a bit of salad or ice? I really think my stomach"—

Here she was interrupted by a voice from the other end of the wire.

"Madam," it said softly, "eat whatever you choose and as much as you choose. The more you eat the better it will please me. I am not your doctor, but I'm Burriam, the undertaker."—Exchange.

Harrow Etiquette.

Harrow is not strong in customs, but even the school on the hill has a few peculiar to itself.

One of the most singular is that which strikes every visitor—the hugging of the wall in the street by small boys, whether they are in flannels or out of them, whether they are covered with mud or immaculately clean and smart, whether other and older pedestrians are elbowed into the gutter or not.

Never do you see the younger Harrovians walking in the road. Why? Because that is "swagger," a crime of the first magnitude.

No; custom prescribes that the place for any boy who is not a "three-yearer" is as close to the wall as he can possibly get.—London Chronicle.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" stamp out fever for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is easier than to be sick and obliged to stay in afterwards. To begin with Preventics will cause a deeply seated cold to be taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break up head colds in early stages. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Price 25 cents for 25 boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 10. Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. E. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Buildin
Particular attention given to Conveyar ..g
Investigation of land titles and collection o claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

* Daily. † Daily except Sunday. § Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.34 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive 9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart 9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.56 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.34 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows.

An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;

Hamiltonian; 825.

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $75.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.
Oakland, Md

THE MARYLAND AGRICULTURAL COLLEG
COLLEGE PARK, MD.
MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
Six Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S.
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scienti
Horticultural. Civil Engineering. Chemic
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have wor with a will.

Each Department supplied with the m modern and approved apparatus. Practi work emphasized in all Departments. Gr uates qualified to enter upon life's work.
Boarding Department supplied with modern improvements—Bathrooms, Ste Heat and Electricity.
New Buildings with modern improvemen
Location unsurpassed for health. Tuitic Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Me cal attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical a Athletic fees. All included in an annu charge of $200 payable quarterly in advan
Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sani rium for isolation of any patient with con gious diseases.
Catalog giving full particulars sent on a plication.
Attention is called to Short Course of T Weeks in Agriculture.
Write for particulars.
Term commences September 19th, 1907.
Early application necessary for admittan
R. W. SILVESTER, Pres'
22 st College Park M

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

Davis' 100 per cent Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, sev other houses near me were painted other paints. There is a big cont today between the appearance of house and others." J. H. PRUIT Chincoteague,

If you compare adulterated paint v Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will r ily know why my house painted w Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SONS,
Agent

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery
Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

TAFT ANSWERS BRYAN'S QUESTIONS

War Secretary Answered Even Before Questions Were Asked.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—Recently while upon his continuous campaign speech-making tour, William J. Bryan stopped off in Kansas City long enough to make an address. At that time he took occasion to propound certain questions concerning William H. Taft as to what he stands for and what he would do in regard to certain matters of public policy.

Herewith appended are some of the questions which Mr. Bryan asked, and the answers of Mr. Taft, given in each instance in his public utterances before they were propounded by the Democratic leader:

"What does Secretary Taft stand for?" says Mr. Bryan.

One thing which Secretary Taft stands for is well-ordered, well-safeguarded liberty against state socialism and government ownership. Said Mr. Taft in his address in Boston on Dec. 30, last:

"If the abuses of monopoly and discrimination cannot be restrained, if the concentration of wealth made possible by such abuses continues and increases, and it is made manifest that under the system of individualism and private property the tyranny and oppression of an oligarchy of wealth cannot be avoided, then socialism will triumph and the institution of private property will perish. The administration has been thus far successful in showing that dangers from individualism can be effectively regulated, and that the abuses in the exercise of private property can be restrained. Thus a great conservative victory has been won and the coming of socialism has been stayed.

"The question which you have ultimately to meet is not whether we shall return to a condition of unregulated railways and unregulated trusts, but is whether we shall maintain a strict system of regulation of railways and trusts, or whether we shall turn the country over to the advocates of government ownership and state socialism. Any one who seeks a retrograde step from the policy of the administration is blind to every political sign of the times."

"What would he do with the trusts?" asked Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Taft in his speech at Columbus on August 19, last said:

"I would restrain unlawful trusts with all the efficiency of injunction process and would punish with all the severity of criminal prosecution every attempt on the part of aggregated capital through the illegal means I have described, to suppress competition. The attitude of the government toward combinations of capital for the reduction in the cost of production should be exactly the same as toward the combinations of labor for the purpose of bettering the conditions of the wage-worker and of increasing his share of the joint profit of capital and labor. They are both to be encouraged in every way so long as they conduct themselves within the law."

"What does he propose on the tariff question?" asked Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Taft proposes a revision of the Dingley schedules next year by a republican Congress. He believes in the protection of American wage-earners, and reasonable but not exorbitant profits for American manufacturers. In his Columbus speech, referred to concerning the coming of tariff revision, Mr. Taft said:

"It will affect only those persons injuriously who are making an unreasonable profit out of an excessive rate. It now seems to me that even most of the extremists in the matter of tariff are of the opinion that it would not only be unwise, but unsafe, for the party to fail in its next national platform to pledge itself to a revision of the tariff as soon after the next presidential election as possible. Those of us who favor immediate revision can well afford to wait until after the next presidential election in order to secure substantial acquiescence by all republicans."

"What reform does Secretary Taft propose for the benefit of labor?" asks Mr. Bryan.

Mr. Taft has expressed the conviction that a law can be enacted regulating the liability of interstate railroad companies to employes injured in their service that will have nothing to fear from the scrutiny of the Supreme Court.

Upon the subject of injunctions Mr. Taft in his Cooper Institute speech on January 10, 1908, said:

"Upon the original Federal judiciary act, it was not permissible for the Federal courts to issue an injunction without notice. There had to be notice and, of course, a hearing. I think it would be entirely right in this class of cases, to amend the law and provide that no temporary restraining order should issue at all until after notice and at hearing. Then the court could be advised by both sides with reference to the exact situation, and the danger of issuing a writ too broad or of issuing a writ without good ground would generally be avoided."

He also expressed himself as favoring "a provision allowing the defendant in contempt proceedings to challenge the judge issuing the injunction and to call for the designation of another judge to hear the issue."

At the conclusion of that speech he was asked by one in his audience why a blacklisted laborer should not be allowed an injunction as well as a boycotted capitalist. To this Mr. Taft replied promptly, "He ought to be and if I were on the bench, I would give him one mighty quick."

"What relief does Secy. Taft propose to give us from the burdens which imperialism has imposed upon us?" asks Mr. Bryan.

In his McKinley birthday anniversary speech at Cleveland last January, Mr. Taft referred to the fact that "imperialism" so-called, had added to the country's trade something like $100,000,000. He added: "I do not think that is important except as a beginning. If the government continues its friendly policy toward Porto Rico, and the Philippines, this trade will double and quadruple in a marvelously short time, so that merely from the standpoint of material progress, the mutual benefits for the people we are helping and ourselves will be no mean justification for the policy."

Here epitomized are Mr. Taft's answers to Mr. Bryan's questions.

Our Millinary Display.

Don't think of buying a hat before seeing Harry Davis's. 3t

If you are a business man, did you ever think of the field of opportunity that advertising opens to you? There is almost no limit to the possibilities of your business if you study how to turn trade into your store. If you are not getting your share of the business of your community there's a reason. People go where they are attracted — where they know what they can get and how much it is sold for. If you make direct statements in your advertising see to it that you are able to fulfill every promise you make. You will add to your business reputation and hold your customers. It will not cost as much to run your ad in this paper as you think. It is the persistent advertiser who gets there. Have something in the paper every issue, no matter how small. We will be pleased to quote you our advertising rates, particularly on the year's business.

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on
2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.
2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.
2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice — buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank
Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices
Grain Drills, Harrows AND Plows
AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,
Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

Transferred to Baltimoro Presbytery.

The officials of the Oakland Presbyterian church have been advised that at the meeting of the Grafton Presbytery in session at Fairmont, West Va., this week, the petition of the local church asking that it be allowed to withdraw from the Grafton Presbytery and join the Baltimore Presbytery, was granted.

Fire Destroys Valuable Property.

A large barn on the property of Mr. Robert L. Green, known as Detmold Farm, was destroyed by fire at an early hour Saturday morning. Two valuable horses, a large stack of hay, 100 bushels of oats, 100 bundles of straw, 2 wagons, about 100 chicken and a reaper, are counted among Mr. Green's losses. The loss exceeds one thousand dollars. It is reported that the building was not protected by insurance.—Lonaconing Star.

Church Services.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows: Preaching at Elder Hill at 11 a. m. and at Deep Creek church, Thayerville at 7:30 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows: Early pray and praise service at 6 a. m.; sermon 10.30, "The Master's Easter Command"; Sunday school at 2.15; p. m.; preaching at 7.30 p. m. Special music will be be rendered by the choir.

Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Wesley Chapel—Sunday school 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.

Class meeting, at Mt. Lake Park at 10 a. m.; Sunday school, 2.30; preaching, 8 p. m.; Epworth League, 7 p. m. Junior League, 3.30 p. m.

All are welcome.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

OAKLAND PRESBYTERIAN.

Dr. J. H. Flanagan, of Grafton, will preach in the Oakland Presbyterian church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Immediately following the services a congregational meeting will be held for the purpose of extending a call for a pastor to serve the congregation regularly.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows: Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Reception of new members, preparatory services and communion at 10:30 a. m.; Easter services by the Sunday school scholars at 7:30 p. m.; the announced service for Deer Park is revoked.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,
HORACE R. DEWITT,
4td Treasurer of Garrett County.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

Found in The Chip File.

A Schell correspondent of the Keyser Echo says: The pocketbook that Tom Blackburn thought he lost on the train last fall whilst coming up from Cumberland, was found by Mrs. Blackburn this spring when the snow melted. It was among the chips at the woodpile. The pocketbook was badly damaged, but his $50 was O. K., and now Tom is rejoicing and says "the prodigal son has returned."

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

CHAPTER 391.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Roads," and to add new sections to be numbered 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and to provide for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

SECTION 1.—Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Roads" be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, and that new sections be added to said Article 12 to be known and designated as Sections 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and that provision be made for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for Roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

200. The Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appoint annually one Road Supervisor for each Election District; and to remove any supervisor at any time, at the pleasure of said Beard, and appoint his successor.

201. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County shall appoint a Road Engineer for the County, who shall hold office for a term of four years, unless removed by a unanimous vote of the board. Before appointment he must present to the Board of County Commissioners a certificate setting forth his competency to perform the work required of him. The Board shall fix his annual compensation, and allowance for expenses, and determine the amount of bond that shall be required of him.

202. The Road Engineer shall have direct and complete charge and direction of the opening and repair of all roads and bridges in the county; he shall advise with, and direct the work of all District Supervisors; he shall furnish estimates and specifications for all new construction or repairs to roads and bridges, and shall supervise their construction whether done by labor, or contract; he shall act as surveyor to the Board of Viewers, in the opening or relocation of roads or bridges, and make plats and profiles of the same without extra charge to the county; he shall care for all tools and machinery and other material owned by the County, and see that the same is kept in repair, inspecting all bridges of twenty-five feet or over in length, at least twice annually; he shall issue an illustrated book, to be paid for by the County, giving full and detailed rules and illustrations of the methods to be followed in the making of roads by District Supervisors; he shall, between the first day of April and the first day of September in each year, keep in constant touch with District Supervisors, and go from one district to another while the work of repairs is in progress; by and with the consent of the Board of County Commissioners, he may contract for any work or material which shall not cost upward of two hundred dollars; he shall in the fall of each year make a detailed report to the Board of County Commissioners of the work which has been done in each Election District, and the cost of the same, the condition of the roads and bridges, and make any recommendationss for the ensuing year which in his judgment will be of benefit.

203. In January of each year the Board of County Commissioners shall appoint one Road Supervisor for each of the Election Districts of the county, the appointee to be named from a list furnished them as hereinafter provided in Section 206G; but nothing shall prevent their filling a vacancy at any time. They shall fix the per diem of supervisors, which shall not be less than two dollars, and determine the amount of the bond which shall be required; they shall also fix the rate per diem of hired labor, teams with driver, etc., for the ensuing year. Upon recommendation of the Road Engineer they shall purchase all necessary tools, machinery, material or other things advisable or necessary for the opening or repairing roads or bridges, and they shall at any time advertise and let all contracts for improvements costing upwards of two hundred dollars.

204. District Road Supervisors shall qualify by taking oath of office and giving bond to the County Commissioners as soon as may be after their appointment; they shall have charge of the working and repair of all roads in their respective districts, under the general direction of the Road Engineer, and may contract for the building or repair of any culvert or bridge that shall not exceed in cost the sum of ten dollars; they may hire, and pay for out of funds in their hands, such men and teams as shall be necessary for the proper working of their roads; and shall annually render an itemized statement under oath with vouchers, to the Road Engineer to be by him transmitted to the Board of County Commissioners setting forth the number of men and teams employed, with the number of days for each, and the amounts paid to each, (his own account being given separately), the total amount received by him, or placed to his credit, and the amount expended; the amount of statute labor employed and the road assessment collected by him and from whom.

205. District Supervisors shall in April in each year, or earlier if possible, make a general inspection of all the roads in their districts, noting carefully the flow of water, and the drainage that will be necessary; they shall consult abutting property owners, and may if they see fit contract for a sum less than ten dollars, with owners for doing certain specified work and repair to roads and culverts bounding upon their lands, such work to be finished not later than May thirtieth; they shall pay for all hire of men and of teams, and for material purchased, from the road funds placed to their credit with the Treasurer of Garrett county, or in their hands, and shall take receipts for all money thus paid out; they shall consult the Road Engineer upon all important repairs and shall follow wherever possible the printed instructions which the engineer shall furnish them in regard to the methods and manner of making roads.

206. The Board of County Commissioners shall annually levy upon the taxable basis of the county such an amount as they may deem necessary for the construction, maintenance, and repair of roads and bridges; when this levy is made fifteen cents on each one hundred dollars of the taxable basis of each and every separate Election District shall be set aside to the exclusive use of the roads and bridges in that particular district, the increase above that rate only going into the general road fund of the county; they shall cause the amount thus apportioned to each district to be placed in the hands of the County Treasurer, subject to the order of the Supervisor of the District.

206A. When the District Supervisors shall have given the bond required of them by the County Commissioners, all funds shall be placed to their credit, and subject to their order in the hands of the County Treasurer.

206B. Each of the District Supervisors shall do, or cause to be done all the regular annual repairs upon the roads and bridges under his control before the first day of September in each and every year; each of the District Supervisors shall be required to set aside five per cent of all the monies coming into their hands from time to time for general road repair, this money so set aside shall be used only between the first day of September and the first day of April of the following year, for the unforseen and accidental repairs of roads or bridges and for draining of roads, opening of breakers and culverts and snow drifts. Any money remaining in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of any District Supervisor at the expiration of the latter's term of office, shall be placed to the credit of the succeeding supervisor of that District.

206C. Every resident of Garrett county who shall habitually use a wagon wearing tires of three inches in width for all loads of one to two thousand pounds, and tires of four inches in width for loads of over two thousand pounds, shall receive a credit of five per cent on his annual road tax.

206D. When a public road forms the dividing line between Election Districts the County Commissioners shall apportion and designate what part of said road shall be worked by the several supervisors.

206E. Upon the petition of fifty voters, who are taxpayers of any Election District in Garrett county, addressed to the Board of County Commissioners, asking that an additional levy be made upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in that district, it shall be the duty of the County Commissioners to certify the fact in accordance with law, to the Supervisors of Elections, who shall advertise the same as in case of the submission of other questions, and shall at the next ensuing election provide for the submission of the question to the voters of that particular district only, whether or not the County Commissioners shall at their next annual levy, levy upon the taxpayers of that particular district an extra amount to be named in the petition and indicated upon the ballot, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in the district so petitioning and voting. The Supervisors of Election shall have printed on the official ballot of the district to which the proposition of an extra levy is to be submitted the words "For Proposition of Levy for Roads;" and "Against Proposition of Levy for Roads."

206F. In case the vote in accordance with the preceeding section 206E, shall be "For Proposition of Levy for Roads" then the Board of County Commissioners shall make the extra levy for roads or bridges upon the total taxable basis of the district so voting, and shall place the funds when collected, in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the Road Supervisor of that district, to be worked out by him under the direction of the Road Engineer; but if the vote be "Against Propsition of Levy for Roads" then the County Commissioners shall not levy an extra amount for roads in that district.

206G. At the respective District Primaries of the two dominant political parties of the state, held in each Election District next preceding the annual Noyember election, the qualified voters of each of said parties, attending such party primaries shall nominate by ballot two taxpayers of their party whom they consider qualified to act as Road Supervisors from their district; and shall cause their names to be certified to by the Chairman and Secretary, or other officers of the Primary in writing, and have the same forwarded to the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county, to be put upon file by him, for the use of the Board, during the ensuing year.

SECTION 2.—And be it further enacted; That this Act shall take effect on the first day of September, 1908.

Approved April 8, 1908.

FIRE LOSS PROMPTLY PAID.

Messrs. Mathews & Hamill Complimented For Their Promptness.

BOND, Md., Jan. 1st, 1908.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL, Oakland, Md.

GENTLEMEN:—I am in receipt of your letter of December 31st, enclosing me a draft for two hundred dollars in payment of my recent loss by fire. This draft arrived just fifteen days after the happening of the fire, and I desire to thank you for your promptness in paying the claim. Your promptness in paying losses is to me the best possible evidence that you represent companies which are able to pay their losses, and have no desire to take advantage of those who insure with you. It will give me pleasure to recommend you to those who may desire to insure their properties against loss by fire.

Very truly yours,
E. E. BROWN,
Supt. Bond Mill.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., December, 26, 1907.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

as required by law, for the purpose of making the 1908 Levy. All persons having accounts for same are requested to file them on or before above date.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Proposals for Building Bridge.

OAKLAND, MD., March 25, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners for Garrett County, Md., will receive sealed proposals until

Tuesday, April 14th, 1908,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over Cherry Creek on road from Gortner to Sunnyside, said bridge to be of one span, 46 feet extreme length, and 12 feet wide, with stone abutments and to be built according to the plans and specifications now on file in the County Commissioners' office.

The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure separate from the stone work and vice versa.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Convenience.
Protection,
Economy,

are all combined in Telephone Service. We offer you the many facilities of an efficiently operated and extensively developed system of telephones.

The rates are very low.

THE C. & P. TELEPHONE CO.

THE OLD RELIABLE

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent. Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,920,603 84
Total Liabilities	13,650,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD.
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital	$1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance	5,380,757 25
Reserve for all Out standing Claims	318,272 38
Net Surplus	1,118,394 25
Total Assets	$5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total Assets	2,529,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	727,763 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,701 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,166,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Fecruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets	$16,389,452 16
Total Amount of all liabilities	7,895,960 74
Surplus as regards policy holders	8,503,591 50

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

ORDER NISI.

James E. Lish et al, vs Teompson Lish et al, No. 1496 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

Ordered this 18th day of March, 1908, by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, sitting in Equity, that the sale made and reported in the above entitled cause by Julius C. Renninger and William R. Offutt, trustees, be ratified and confirmed, unless cause to the contrary be shown on or before the 18th day of April, 1908, provided a copy of this order be published in some newspaper published in Garrett County, once a week for three sucessive weeks before the 11th day of April, 1908.

The report states the amount of the sale to be $425.

E. Z TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Order of Publication.

Ada A. V. Halterman vs Henry H. Halterman.

No. 1520 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree, divorcing the plaintiff, Ada A. V. Halterman, a vinculo matrimonii, from the defendant, Henry H. Halterman.

The bill states that on the 20th day of May, 1875, the plaintiff was married to the defendant at Garrett county, Maryland, where they continued to reside together as husband and wife until the 11th day of February, 1906, and that, although the conduct of the plaintiff towards her husband, the said Henry H. Halterman, has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant has without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted her, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that five children were born to the plaintiff and defendant as the result of said marriage, all of whom are dead, except one son, Lawrason H. Halterman, who is above the age of twenty-one years and resides in Page county, Virginia, and the plaintiff is a resident of Garrett county, Maryland, and that the defendant resides in Tucker county, West Virginia, and is a non-resident of the State of Maryland.

The bill then prays that the plaintiff may be vinculo matrimonii from the defendant, for general relief and an order of publication.

It is thereupon, this 18th day of March, 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, sitting in Equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Garrett county, once in each of four successive weeks before the 18th day of April, 1908, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 4th day of May next to show cause, if any, he has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True copy—test:
E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors,
Hoyes, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Notice is here given to the qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that a Special Election will be held at the Office of the Supervisors of Election in said town on Monday, May 4th, 1908,

from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of submitting the question, as to whether the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at its January Session, 1908, with reference to issuing Municipal bonds to the amount of $60,000 for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of Water Works and Sewerage in said town, shall be enforced or vice versa.

By order of the Council.

J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk,
Town Council of Oakland.

Appeal Session.

The Taxpayers of Oakland will take notice that the Town Council will set at the Council Chamber in said town on Monday, April 20, 1908,

from 2 to 5 p. m., and from 7 to 9 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of hearing appeals and making transfers upon the assessment books of said town.

By order of the Council.

6-2t J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix,
McHenry, Md.

Subscribe for The Republican.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice that the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor.
7-6t Frostburg, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator.
Rockwood, Pa.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

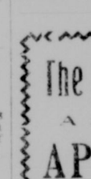
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.

Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies



J. B. WILLIAMS CO.
FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND
IRON FENCING
Send for prices

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould in to the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Land for Sale

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building site just East of Oakland on the North side of Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.
6-tf Oakland, Md.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL

Successors to Charles A. Tower

General Fire Insurance
OAKLAND, MD.

We offer the best possible protection.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1908. NUMBER 8

ANOTHER DWELLING BURNED.

One of Judson Foster Was Destroyed Friday Morning Last.

Last Friday morning the home of Mr. Judson Foster, residing on the Nelson Ervin farm, a few miles north of Oakland was completely destroyed by fire, the flames having their origin near a flue, which evidently was defective.

With Mr. Foster and family his grandfather, Mr. J. Nelson Ervin, resided, who is quite aged and broken in health.

Mr. Foster succeeded in saving some of the affects contained in the building, but all the bed clothing, wearing apparel, contained in rooms on the second floor of the building were destroyed. Mr. Foster places his loss at $1000 with no insurance.

THE DEATH RECORD.

DAVID SLOAN.

Daved Sloan, one of the most widely known citizens of Allegany county, died at his home, Lonaconing, Thursday morning, aged 63 years. Mr. Sloan was born at Mount Savage, and when a youth worked at mining at various places in the county. In 1863 he located at Lonaconing, and soon became prominent in the business affairs of that place, and, in fact, one of its leading spirits. He is survived by an aged mother and two brothers (Duncan Sloan and ex-Senator James M. Sloan).

At the time of his death, and for many years previous, he was president and manager of the Lonaconing Savings Bank. Mr. Sloan, while an ardent Republican, never sought office but once, when he accepted the Republican nomination for the House of Delegates. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum and other societies.

Mr. Sloan took a prominent part in banking affairs, not only county, but state and national. He was for a number of years a director in the Second National Bank of Cumberland, until the organization of the Lonaconing Savings Bank, about 15 years ago, when he became its first president, which office he had held continuously ever since. He was a member of both the State and National Bankers' Association, and served as a member of the executive council of the national, and also served as president of the Maryland Bankers' Association.

Mr. Sloan was twice married, and leaves the following children by his first marriage: Alexander, Douglas, Percy, Eleanor and Anna, all at home.

Estray Notice.

There came to the Mountain View Stock Farm, eight miles south of Oakland on April 12th, a roan and white, dehorned three-year old cow. The owner will please come forward, pay all costs and damages, prove property and take the same away.

F. W. CHASE, Manager.

COL. GEORGE A. PEARRE RENOMINATED THURSDAY

By The Republicans of The Sixth District at Hagerstown.

THE DISTRICT IS FOR TAFT.

Delegates to National Convention Elected Dr. Webster Ravenscroft of Oakland Elected An Alternate to Attend Big Gathering.

At Hagerstown on last Thursday Congressman George A. Pearre was unanimously renominated by the Republicans in the Sixth district, the Montgomery delegation withdrawing the name of Brainard H. Warner, Colonel Pearre's only opponent, after a vote had been taken.

Brainard H. Warner, Jr., son of the candidate, who was a member of the delegation, made a strong and effective speech, counseling harmony and pledging the support of his father and Mr. Warner's friends in electing the ticket from top to bottom.

The action taken was in keeping with the statement made by Colonel Warner and serves to restore the harmony which was temporarily threatened and which the Democrats had hoped would result in a permanent break. Colonel Pearre will receive the undivided Republican vote in the district and his majority will be as great if not greater than it was two years ago.

The only ripple in the proceedings was caused by the remarks of A. A. Braddock, of Montgomery, who openly stated he was opposed to Colonel Pearre's nomination and also to that of Secretary Tatt. The objection to the Congressman was evidently based on an alleged failure to properly recognize Montgomery in the distribution of offices and against Secretary Taft because of a fancied grievance on the part of the Typographical Union at Washington. No other delegate from Montgomery made a direct objection. W. Tyler Page, who placed Colonel Warner in nomination, devoting his presentation entirely to his candidate for the position.

Mr. Page also endeavored to have considered a resolution attacking the critics of the Supreme Court, but the convention, not understanding its import, declined to report it back.

Aside from these happenings, nothing occurred to mar the harmony of the proceedings.

The convention was the best attended of any held in years. Nearly every county sent a mass delegation, and the Courthouse in which the convention was held was filled in every part. The greatest enthusiasm was manifested, every reference to President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft and Congressman Pearre being greeted with vociferous applause.

Colonel Pearre remained at the hotel while the convention was in progress, and after adjournment was surrounded by the enthusiastic delegates and heartily congratulated.

The convention was called to order by Charles D. Waggaman, chairman of the county committee, who proceeded to effect a temporary organization.

Alexander Armstrong, of Washington county, was unanimously elected temporary chairman, and Richard J. Bruce, of Allegany, and George R. Dennis, of Frederick, were elected temporary secretaries.

Mr. Armstrong made a short but vigorous speech, in which, after thanking the convention for the honor conferred, he called attention to the importance of the work of this convention, inasmuch as it would assist in naming the next standard-bearer of the Republican party, who will be elected in November. His reference to the administration of President Roosevelt was greeted with enthusiasm, the warmth of which was only exceeded when he followed this with a splendid tribute to Secretary Taft. In conclusion, he complimented the district's representative in Congress, who should be returned so that he might in the future as in the past lend his efforts in carrying out the policy of the administration.

Nominations for Congress were declared to be in order, and Allegany first called, presented through Fred N. Zihlman, of Cumberland, the name of Col. George A. Pearre. Mr. Zihlman paid a high tribute to the Congressman, and when he mentioned his name the convention broke into prolonged applause.

The nomination was seconded by Col. John R Rouzer, on behalf of Frederick, by Senator Wm. McCulloh Brown for Garrett and by Capt. Leander H. Kuhn, of Washington.

W. Tyler Page presented the name of Brainard H. Warner, of Montgomery. He made a strong speech in behalf of Montgomery's candidate and predicted the district would ultimately recognize his worth and send him to Congress.

Mr. Page was followed by A. A. Braddock, who convulsed the convention with a poetical effusion which was intended to second the nomination of Mr. Warner, and indirectly cited a grievance because of a lack of recognition.

The vote was then taken by counties. Before it was announced Mr. Brainard H. Warner, Jr., arose, and in a speech fraught with much feeling withdrew the name of his father and requested the delegation to permit him to make the nomination of Colonel Pearre unanimous. Tremendous applause followed, which was continued when Mr. Page, on behalf of the delegation, moved that the nomination of Colonel Pearre be made unanimous.

District delegates to the national convention were next chosen. Only the names of Senator John P. H. Mathias, of Frederick, and William U. Roulette, of Washington, were presented, and they were unanimously elected. The alternates chosen were Dr. Webster Ravenscroft, of Garrett, and William Snouffer, of Frederick, neither of whom was opposed.

For presidential elector Moses Bomberger, of Washington county, was hosen.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Miss Iva McCullough's music class gave a recital on Friday and Saturday nights, April 17th and 18th, which was well attended and enjoyed by all.

Messrs. White and Whiley of Connellsville, Pa., were guests of the Central Hotel on Friday of last week and while here caught forty-five trout.

B. & O. Superintendent Drescoll spent Thursday with his old friend, Leo L. Long, at the Central hotel.

Our hello girl is back to the switch board after a week's vacation at her home.

Dr. Mason and Mr. Bartol made a flying trip to Bittinger on insurance business.

Mr. Taylor Friend, ex-County Commissioner, who has been very sick, is slowly improving.

Quite a number of our people went to Frazee Ridge to attend Easter service. They report an excellent program.

Miss Carrie Frazee, of Somerfield, spent Friday and Saturday visiting her many friends here.

Mr. A. T. Mathews and Mr. E. I. West, of Oakland, were guests of the Crawford house Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Married.

WAGNER—KENEDY—At the Lutheran Parsonage in Oakland, by Rev. E. Manges, April 13th, Albert Washington Wagner of Cacapehon, Hampshire Co., W. Va., and Lovinia Kenedy of Deer Park, Garrett Co., Md.

OAKLAND'S DESTINY.

A Pioneer Resident Gives His Views on Water Works and Sewerage.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Only one week from Monday next the citizens of Oakland will be called upon to decide by their ballots whether Oakland is to retrive her lost prestige as a summer and health resort or forever sink into oblivion as the country home of a few old time residents who seek to defeat the laudable efforts of its enterprising citizens and bring the town back to its former status as a splendid health and summer resort.

The motives of some opposing municipal improvements are not hard to understand as they have "an ax to grind" or owning considerable real estate are fearful of an increaseed tax rate to cover the costs of these improvements. A few of them are now washing their clothing, cooking their victuals and drinking polluted water from the Little Yough or from ancient wells that have not been cleaned for years. The open streams flowing through our town are nothing more or less than running sewers of pollution and filth and the past few years have shown that they are the deadly couriers of disease from which we shall have no relief until we stop drinking this death dealing pollution.

A number of Oakland's enterprising citizens have recently secured a charter to utilize the wasted water power of Swallow Falls which would furnish sufficient power to propel trolley cars or other machinery and the chief engineer has recently, after a careful test, stated that it will develop power enough to generate electricity with which to light several towns and besides operate heavy machinery and would thus supply a very cheap power for the development of coal, iron ore, glass sand and other deposits which are found in this section of the country. This superb power could be utilized for furnishing plenty of pure water from the mouth of Herrington creek or any other stream which is known to be pure and free from pollution and give us a plenteous supply in case of fire which the town stands badly in need of at this time.

There is no disputing the fact, that the future of Oakland and this section of Garrett county depends largely on on the development of this wonderful water power.

The old foggy argument, that paying interest on money used in municipal improvements for a long term of years does not enhance the value of real estate proportionately is a most preposterous idea. Modern sewerage and water would be worth many thousand dollars to the taxpayers of our town and property owners could not help but get a handsome return in the matter of reduced insurance rates and protection against the destruction of our town by fire, disregarding the great conveniences to be derived to every resident.

Only one week remains to think and discuss this most vital improvement for our town which means so much for its future welfare and I hope the enterprising citizens will see to it that the bonding law is approved at the polls and that our town may be put on the level of other towns in the state which are blessed with good sewerage and water works.

PIONEER RESIDENT.

FIKE.

The farmers are planting potatoes and will soon sow oats.

The condition of the weather has been favorable during this week.

Some unknown parties carried one of Mr. Bert Watson's out buildings a few hundred yards from where it was built and sawed the roof off of the building.

Mr. Isaac Frazee will in the near future move in with his parents.

Mrs. Andrew Chrise, who has been ill for some time was taken last Thursday to the Mercy hospital in Pittsburg, Pa., and we all hope for her speedy recovery and return home.

Mrs. Silbaugh who was sent to the hospital some time ago and was operated on, has returned to her home. She is in fair condition for complete recovery.

Mr. Benj. Bruner, a coal miner in this section, went to Friendsville one day last week and got drunk. While under the influence of liquor interrupted Mr. Wm. Sprucer on the public high way. Bruner was arrested and tried before Squire Hardie, was fined and not being able to pay the fine he will be sent to the county jail.

Mrs. Jasper Barnthouse is visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. Wm. H. Thomas has made his last shipment of furs for this season.

Mr. F. T. Fike is building his lime kiln.

CARTER.

JURY FOR JUNE TERM OF CIRCUIT COURT

Was Drawn Last Saturday By Associate Judge R. R. Henderson.

INCLUDES MEN OF ALL CALLINGS.

A Majority Being Farmers, Some are Merchants, One an Ex-Sheriff and Three Are Now Postmasters at Different Points in The County.

Last Saturday morning Associate Judge Robert R. Henderson, of Cumberland, who came to Oakland the evening before to attend a meeting of the Garrett County Court House Commission, which was held upon his arrival here, drew the jurors to serve at the June Term of the Circuit Court. The drawing was conducted in the office of Clerk E. Z. Tower of the Circuit Court in the presence of the members of the local bar and the court attaches.

In the list, which is printed below, appears the names of many of the best citizens of the county, many of them being prominent farmers and business men, while there is also one ex-Sheriff, Mr. Albert L. Lee, of Kitzmillerville, and three postmasters viz.: William W. Sweet, of Swanton; Jacob Stump, of Bloomington, and Asa E. Riley, of Selbysport.

The jurors drawn by Judge Henderson are as follows:

District No. 1, William S. Beaver, Matthias Barker, William W. Sweet.

No. 2, Jefferson Guard, William Plasket, William F. Hone, Jacob S. Myers, Edward M. Liston, Jacob E. Bowser, Asa E. Riley, F. S. Raybeck.

No. 3, Martin L. Winterberg, Charles C. Hanft, Milton W. Kinsinger, Chas. H. Younkin, Samuel E. Broadwater, Henry C. Butler.

No. 4, Jacob Stump, Edward E. Brown.

No. 5, Solomon Glass.

No. 6, Edgar F. Jenkins, Dougald McLean, Ami D. Lewis.

No. 7, Albert A. Smouse, Erastus C. Cuppett, James L. Bernard, Edward S. Sembower.

No. 8, Calvin Anderson, Frank W. Chase, John H. Roth, George H. Gauer, Michael S. Harvey.

No. 9, Michael Cunningham.

No. 10, Sebastian Hinebaugh, John W. Comp.

No. 11, Levi Bittinger.

No. 12, James Bowser, Levi Resh.

No. 13, Albert L. Lee, Richard Tasker, Winfield S. Pew.

No. 14, John A. Grant, William J. Sowers, Isaac R. Hoge, Ernest Townshend, Alpha Hinebaugh, Charles L. Wamsley, Martin A. Carney.

Subscribe for the Republican.

BITTINGER.

Easter Sunday passed off very quietly in this village. There were no seasonable celebrations and the belles were not permitted to display their new Easter bonnets on account of the falling rain and high wind which prevailed all day.

Edward S. Brenneman and Agnes Bittinger, two popular young people of this place, as well as successful teachers in this county, drove up to Oakland last week and were quietly married and returned to their home at this place on Sunday afternoon. We extend our hearty congratulations and best wishes for a pleasant voyage through life and we hope to hear their young friends show their appreciation of the event by making the town ring with the horrible noises of a rural serenade.

The new road law for Garrett county drafted by Senator Brown and enacted by the Legislature does not seem to meet the approval of our best thinking people and is receiving very severe criticism.

Master Harry Davis and his grandfather, of near Markleysburg, Pa., were visiting Master Paul Davis of this place last week.

Mrs. F. M. Bittinger and Miss Estelle Reckner were visiting over in Somerset county, Pa., last Saturday and Sunday.

Master Austin Bittinger, who is living with his grandparents at this place, was considerably hurt last Monday evening while feeding cattle in his grandfather's barn. The lad became entangled in a rope by which he was leading a calf and but for the timely assistance of the grandfather the boy might have been seriously injured.

Thomas Swan and his sister, Miss Helen, of Bloomington, Md., were the guests of the Misses Ralston on Easter Sunday and Monday.

Madison Durst, of New Germany, passed through here last Monday.

Mrs. James O'Brien of Beckman, was visiting her parents here last week.

Wade H. Lohr, of Swanton, made a brief visit to this place last week.

Oliver Heyward and daughter, of Bond, spent last Sunday night in town.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Our Heavenly Home.—John 14, 1-31.

Four Per Cent. Interest.

The First National Bank, Friendsville, pays four per cent. interest on time deposits. Place your money in this bank where its earning capacity will be greater than in any other banking institution in the county.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
Friendsville, Md.

DIXON & KELSO

SALE OF SHOES

BEGINNING SATURDAY, APRIL 11.

Every pair of Shoes in stock will be reduced.

We have the largest and best line of Shoes in town.

If we can't please you it is useless to go elsewhere.

Our Ladies' Oxfords are better than ever, and with each pair of AMERICAN LADY OXFORDS we will give you a pair of good Hose.

Don't forget we have the

CROSSETT SHOE

for Men—the best Shoe on the market for the money today.

Also a complete line of Misses and Children's Oxfords and Shoes

P. S. Wanted 1000 Bushels Potatoes and 25 Country Cured Hams.

Yours to Please,

DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Now is the time to buy your

LOW SHOES

FOR SUMMER

while Stock is Complete.

I have a large stock in the best styles for every member of the family. There is a great demand for TANS, so I think it wise to get them early as indications are that there will be a shortage in the supply later on. I have plenty of them now.

COME AND SEE.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.

NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

FACTS ABOUT OUR CONGRESSMEN.

Allegany County Has Had More Than Her Share.

HAD ONE GOVERNOR AND SENATOR

Only Once—Frank Thomas Had Most Terms—Pearre Comes Next—Some Interesting Historical Facts About Sixth District.

The approaching Congressional election is and will be one of considerable interest and I might say of animation. Never was there such a turnout of voters at primary election before. It was in appearance much like an actual election.

Some historical facts in regard to this Congressional district and the names of persons elected to Congress therefrom might be of some interest to readers and voters. The main facts will be to show who has been elected in three or four generations. Michael C. Spriggs of this county, was the first elected in 1827 and 1829. Next came the well-known and remembered Frank Thomas of Frederick county, elected in 1831-33-35-37-39; followed by Jno. Thompson Mason, of Washington county in 1841. Then F. Brengle, of Frederick county, in 1843, and then Allegany's favorite, Thomas Perry, in 1845, for one term. The next was J. Dixon Roman, of Washington county, in 1847. Then followed W. T. Hamilton, from the same county, for three terms, 1839-51-53. The next was H. W. Hoffman, of our county, in 1855, for one term. Then Jacob Kunkle, of Frederick county, in 1857-59.

Then the return of Frank Thomas, this time from Allegany, elected in 1861-63-65. Next came Patrick Hamill of our own county, elected in 1868, for a single term; followed by John Ritchie, of Frederick, in 1870. Then came our own Lloyd Lowndes in 1872 for one term; followed by William Walsh, of Cumberland, elected in 1874 and 1876, two terms. Milton G. Urner, of Frederick county, elected in 1878-80, two terms. Louis E. McComas, of Washington county, elected, in 1882-85-86-88; Wm. M. McKaig, of this county, elected in 1890-92; Geo. L. Wellington, of our city, elected in 1804, and the following year to the U. S. Senate for six years. He was succeeded as Congressman by Capt. Jno McDonald, of Montgomery county, in 1896, for a single term. And lastly the present incumbent, Col. Geo. A. Pearre, since 1898, five continuous terms, with wishes and bright prospects of the sixth election. He is now the second in seniority of Congressional honors to Governor Frank Thomas.

It will thus be seen that Allegany county has had ten different Congressmen in its life time—all since the year 1827. Washington county four since that date and Frederick county four, Montgomery county only one, but that county has not belonged to the district many years.

Allegany county, 118 years old, was slow in getting an M. C., but is now largely ahead of any other county in the district. Indeed one more than all the rest within the time named. Garrett county is now 35 years in age, had never had a member. But it can be truthfully said, that Frank Thomas while in Congress from Allegany was a resident of the territory that later formed Garrett county. Frankville was his lonely abode, where he was accidently killed by the railroad cars in 1876. He served longer in Congress than any other member from the district, perhaps in the State—about 16 years in all. The next in time length is our present able and active member, Geo. A. Pearre, with five successive elections, with prospect of another election, the coming Novem- which he is now seeking with much energy.

Besides these Congressional honors, Allegany can boast of a Governor for four years in the person of Lloyd Lowndes, from 1896 to 1900, and a U. S. Senator, George L. Wellington, a native of Cumberland, from 1896 to 1900. Still active in political, as well as financial life. So Allegany county has considerable to excite county pride.

It can here be stated as a historic fact that our State in times past, with a population of less than one third of that of the present, had nine members in the Lower House of Congress. Now only six members, with a population of a million and a quarter of people. This may seem strange to some, yet it is true. As population increased the basis for Congressional representation was diminished. I would say six fit Congressmen can attend to all our national affairs in that body. A number of other old states have lost representatives in the same manner and without detriment to public interests.

It might be stated in conclusion that by an act of the Legislature in 1868, our members of Congress were made elective in the even years, instead of the odd ones, as before, beginning with the November election of 1868. Patrick Hamill was the first to be elected under the changed law. J. B.

Cumberland, Md., April 17.

SOLDIER'S WIDOWS.

Nobody will begrudge the increase of the pension of the soldier widow to $12 a month from a paltry $8. The widows of the veterans have been insufficiently provided for in the pension laws and appropriations heretofore, and the increase now given them is tardy justice. Widows of veterans, also, except those who married them since July 27, 1890, will not lose pensions because of remarriage after the death of the soldier husband. Nearly 182,000 widows of soldiers of the civil war will benefit from the act, besides some thousands of widows of other ways.

The widow of the veteren soldier is as worthy of her pension as the the veteran himself if she lived with him through his youth and cared for him in his age. Many a wife kissed the husband goodbye with a brave heart as he went to war, not knowing whether he would return or find a grave in a southern trench. Many a sweetheart sent her soldier boy to glory or the grave, and then waited in maiden widowhood. Husband and lover were cheered with messages of hope and affection as they fronted the enemy. Many a heart and arm were strengthened for the fray by the letter from home. How much of victory was due to these women behind the guns only the soul of the poet knows. They helped mightily.

The woman who was widowed by war, the one who received her husband back from the slaughter maimed, perhaps, and broken in health, the maiden who waited her soldier boy and became his bride until death did part them—all these are worthy of the new mark of the nation's appreciation (it is small enough) of a sacrifice that was no less real than that of the man who faced the volley and charged rampant on entrenchment, or stood with his comrades as a stone wall against the sweep of confederate brigades and divisions.

More hearts bled in the time that tried men's souls than the ones that were hit by the bullets of the enemy; often the bullet that buried itself in the breast of a man gave a death wound to another breast. The women of this nation suffered and died with the men who fell in battle or survived to cherish those who returned, giving their lives as truly in the one instance as in the other. All honor to them, living or gone beyond, and praise to congress for its recognition, little as it is, of the worth of the army of them yet with us, the mothers of the restored union, whose gray hairs are as a silver crown of glory.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

Subscribe for The Republican.

TRAGIC STORY OF "BEN HUR"

How Ganeral Lew Wallace Came to Write This Religious Romance.

The influences that lead one to great achievements are always of interest, and how the late General Wallace came to write "Ben-Hur" is especially so to every one who has read the story, or who have seen it in dramatic form.

The first chapters of the book which refer to the meeting of the three wise men and the appearing to them of the Star of Bethlehem was written and published before General Wallace conceived the idea of writing "Ben-Hur." He was journeying from Chicago to Indianapolis many years ago, when in passing the door of a stateroom in his sleeper in the early morning he heard a familiar voice. He rapped and partly entered in response to a cheery "Come in." Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll was the occupant.

"I will come in," said Wallace "If I may choose the subject of conversation."

"You certainly may," replied Colonel Ingersoll, undoubtedly thinking that the "Mistakes of Mose" and "Creeds" were to be barred from the conversation.

General Wallace seated himself opposite Colonel Ingersoll and looking him square in the face, he asked: "Is there a God?"

Without an instant's hesitation Colonel Ingersoll replied: "I don't know, do you?"

"Was Christ divine?"

Again, "I don't know, do you?"

"The floor is your's Colonel," remarked General Wallace, settling himself back in his seat in anticipation of the brilliant discourse he knew that he was to listen to, and for which he had laid the foundation.

It was many years before General Wallace spoke of that conversation, and it was not until after the production of "Ben-Hur" as a drama that he went into details. He then stated that he was amazed by his own ignorance of the subject he had led Colonel Ingersoll to discuss. When he parted with the Colonel it was with the determination to know more of it. It was this study of Christianity that led him to believe in the divinity of Christ and indirectly inspired him to write "Ben-Hur."

For years General Wallace was besought by managers and actors for the right to present "Ben-Hur" as a drama. Lawrence Barrett was particularly anxious to portray its hero, but General Wallace declined to entertain any proposition. No one who approached him could explain a practical way in which the great sea-fight and the rescue of Arrius by Ben Hur, the chariot race and the miracle scene could be presented as incidents of a dramatic story, or how the religious atmosphere of the story could be maintained in its entirety without offence to Christian people. For twenty years he turned a deaf ear to all applicants, until Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger begun negotiations with him. They approached him in a practical way. They had already solved all the mechanical difficulties, and could demonstrate how the sea-fight and chariot race could be presented as realities, or so cleverly mimicking realities as to seem real.

"But what about the Nazarene? The story of 'Ben-Hur' cannot be told in a play without the miracle scene," remarked General Wallace. His main objection to the dramatization of his work had always centered in this incident. He would never consent to the story being dramatized in a form that involved the appearance of Christ as a personality. The difficulties attendant upon the presentation of a realistic rea-fight and chariot race he had always made secondary to a reverent interpretation of the touching incident of the healing of the lepers on the Mount of Olives, where he believed the tale of "Ben-Hur" for dramatic purposes should end.

"True," was the reply to the General's ocjection, "but we have a plan which will be perfectly effective and yet treat the subject with all possible reverence and respect. We would represent the miracle incident but instead of the Nazarene appearing as a personality we would simply suggest His presence with a shaft of light." Genneral Wallace sat for some time in deep study. Finally he raised his head.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I think that you have devised plans which will lead to a perfect presentation of 'Ben-Hur' on the stage. For years I have refused to consider such propositions, because those who made then could not demonstrate to me how my own conception of this story as a play could be realized. You have done so completely, and I will accept your proposition."

The contract signed that day has resulted in the greatest artistic and financial success that the stage has ever known—in an exhibition of the most exalted dramatic and scenic art that has held the stage in all the important cities of the United States and Canada as well as historic Drury Lane in London.

Maple Sugar Making.

The maple sugar season is with us once more (the sweetest time of all the year). I would like to offer a few suggestions which may prove helpful to the readers of this page in regard to making a superior quality of syrup and sugar—at sight of which people will exclaim: "Oh, my! how nice! That's too white for maple; it must be half granulated sugar." Never mind what people say, as long as you can make the desired product with a clear conscience. But this requires pains taking in every detail of work. All will notice as the sap flows from the tree it is pure, clear and transparent. If you can keep it in this state from start to finish you will have a fine product of delicious flavor, which appeals at once to the most fastidious lover of sweets.

To begin with, tap the trees very shallow, as the deeper the boring the darker the flow of sap. Use small metal spiles and tin sap buckets. Avoid wood as much as possible. You should have a sap house, well filled with seasoned wood and with good top ventilation for the escape of steam; a tight, well built arch for the accommodation of an evaporator, or clean, bright sap pans, which must be well washed after each day's using. If scum arises while boiling have this removed with a long handled skimmer. Syrup off in small batches, as the color and flavor depend largely on the period of time over the fire. Syrup must be strained through woolen or linen cloth as it is taken from the arch. On reaching the house the sap should be turned immediately into a large tin (or cans) and allowed to stand undisturbed from twelve to twenty-four hours, so that every particle of dust, dirt or foreign substance will fall to the bottom. By this method your syrup will need no further cleansing or skimming until you near the bottom of the can.

Make sugar in small cakes from one to two and a half pounds. Ours are made mostly two and a half pounds, as that is a good shipping weight. Have two small sugar pans. Begin by dipping from the top of the can to the sugar pan just enough for one cake; set over the stove with a hot fire. It should be done in fifteen or twenty minutes. Pour into a small sized tin pan and stir with a maple spoon. Have your cake tin brushed with butter or sweet cream; turn the sugar into it just before granulation begins; let it remain in the tin till cold. It will keep you busy making only one cake at a time, but you will be amply repaid as you take each white glistering cake from its tin and place on edge with air space between each cake on your pantry shelf. Just try it. It is not heavy work, and with each cake you can make three or four patty cakes, which always command a fancy price.

To make syrup put double the quantity of sap in the sugar pan and test with the syrup tester. When of proper thickness turn into a long, deep tin can till full. Let it stand twenty-four hours. Then fill your gallon cans from this until you come near the bottom of the can, which always contains more or less sugar, grit and sandy substance. In this way your syrup will be pure and wholesome, the last spoonful being as clear as the first. So many people can their syrup boiling hot, thinking it will keep no other way. It is a mistake, as the resin and surplus solder enter the syrup and your can is never full when the syrup becomes cold, thus leaving space for the accumulation of dry mould. And as the consumer reaches the bottom of the can she finds a goodly portion which she must throw away or use with injurious effects. The settlings of large cans above mentioned I turn into another can or pail used for the accumulation of these. When you have a spare day this can be thinned with sap and cleansed with milk or white of eggs.

I will not mention storing and shipping, as my letter is already too long. Suffice it to say, never offer for sale what you would not use yourself.

Delhi, N. Y. MARION KEMP.

MEETING TO BE IN FAIRMONT

Program of the Allegany Conference Maryland Synod, Lutheran Church.

Allegany Conference, Maryland Synod, Lutheran Church, will meet at Fairmont, W. Va., June 8-10, in Grace Lutheran church, Rev. A. G. Null, pastor. The conference had intended to meet at Clarksburg, but as the church there is without a pastor the cordial invitation to Fairmont has been accepted. Following is the program:

Monday Evening.—7.30, conference sermon, by the president, Rev. J. Wm. McCauley, Cumberland, Md.

Tuesday Morning—9.00, devotional services, Rev. C. J. Hines, Huntington, W. Va.

9.30, organizetion, election and business.

Tuesday Afternoon—2.00, "The Laymen's Movement," in charge of lay delegates. (1) The General Movement; (2) The Local League.

3.00, Mt. Lake Reunion. "Young Lutheran" and District Missions.

Tuesday Evening—7.30, sermon by Rev. Wm. C. Ney, Elkins, W. Va.

Wednesday Morning—9.00, devotional services, Rev. E. Manges, Oakland, Md.

9.30, business.

10:00, practical Discussion, Ministerial Acts." (1) Baptismal Obligation and Home Training, led by Rev. A. Jugel, Bittinger, Md. (2) Pastoral Visitation, led by Rev. J. S. Braren, Cumberland, Md. (3) Marriage and Divorce, led by Rev. C. P. Bastian, Keyser, W. Va. (4) The Funeral Service, led by Rev. Wm. A. Wade, Westernport, Md.

Wednesday Afternoon.—2:00, closing business session and trip to Monongah.

Wednesday Evening.—7:30, addresses, "The Temple of God." (1) The Church ("My House Shall be Called a House of Prayer"), Rev. F. R. Wagner, Frostburg, Md. (2) Man ("Ye Are the Temple of the Holy Ghost"), Rev. A. F. Richardson, W. Va.

Presentation of resolutions and adjournment.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

AT HOME AGAIN.

The fleet is at home again. After months of absence and thousands of leagues of cruising through three zones it has cast anchor once more in the coastal waters of the United States. True, it is thousands of miles from its starting point, off a coast on which Coronado raised the flag of Spain two generations before John Smit first traversed Hampton Roads, and a coast which was still alien and all but unknown to us long after Virginia became the Mother of Presidents. These circumstances strikingly impress the imagination with the magnitude of the American domain and with the extent of its conquests in tha era of expansion before the word "expansion," suggested by some petty and unsought acquisitions, became conspicuous in our political vocabulary. It is no small thing to have two home ports twenty-two hundred miles apart in the same continental fatherland. There are other countries which can make the same boast, but they are very few.

No less impressed, but far less gratifying, is the fact that in order to get from a Virginian to a Californian port less than eight hundred leagues away our fleet was compelled to steam past the shores of nearly a score of alien lands and a distance of half way round the world. "Thou art so near and yet so far!" might well be the cry of Hampton Roads to San Diego Bay. It is true that the long cruise has been accomplished in perfect safety, and a capacity for making it in record breaking time has been evinced. The fact remains to gall us that our two shores, less than eight hundred leagues apart as the crow flies, are still four thousand leagues apart as the ship sails. Nature decreed it so, but the greatness of man is in his conquests of adverse nature. We know of no more welcome pendant to the news of the fleet's arrival at San Diego than that which provided in the news from Panan that the actual excavation work on the canal last month amounted to 3,480,270 cubic yards, and that of the excavation needed when we acquired the incomplete French enterprise nearly one-fourth has now been done.

It is cause for profound congratulation that the fleet has pursued its course thus far without disaster, or even mishap, and without delay. Those who are wise after the event may glibly say that this is only what was to be expected, and anything else would have been discreditable, but against that we may place the vaticinations of disaster which were with equal glibness made at the time of starting. There are no such slighting comments made abroad. The other great naval powers of the world appreciate what it is for so great a flotilla to be conveyed half round the globe without a hitch or a single breakdown. It is cause for sincere regret that the infirmities which are a part of the penalty of devotion to the public service have prevented the distinguished commander of the fleet from remaining to the end in the place of immediate direction which he occupied at the beginning of the cruise, but the honor and credit of the achievement are his just the same, and are as cordially given to him by his subordinates of every grade as by the admiring public.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Co Cure. It calms the cough, and h the sensitive bronchial membra No opium, no chloroform, no harsh used to injure or suppres mand Dr. Shoop's. Take no oth dealers.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Md; 13 rooms and attic; used a ing house and has good patrona ground; splendid location; two from new auditorium; city wa of the best built houses in th about 75 feet of porches. change for smaller property. bargain. Address F. P. Arn Lake Park, Md.

Dorothy's Dime.

By CARL WILLIAMS.

Copyrighted, 1907, by M. M. Cunningham.

Grayce looked grim as he threw open the door and stumbled over the roll of rugs that lay just within.

"Another night has come, and that landlord still lives his evil life," he called, and from the dimly lighted parlor came an answering sniff.

Bert Grayce hung up his coat on the half shrouded hatrack and entered the room. The furniture was swathed in burlap and excelsior, and the piano was covered with old blankets and other soft wrappings, and trunks and boxes were piled with some attempt at order along the bare walls and upon the equally bare floor.

On top of the upturned soap box a group of candles guttered dismally, their feeble rays serving to accentuate the absence of gas. Desolation—the desolation of an exodus—brooded everywhere, even upon the face of the woman who sat in a low rocker beside the candles and vainly made pretense of reading.

Hers was a lovable face, framed in masses of silver hair, and Grayce's smile softened and grew more tender as he bent to kiss the still smooth forehead.

THE LONG, SLENDER HAND WAS CLASPED IN BERT'S OWN.

"Cheer up, mother mine," he said laughingly. "All is not yet lost, though the painters remain on strike. Tomorrow the new home will be painted. By Saturday we shall be comfortably settled."

"Are you sure?" demanded Mrs. Grayce wistfully. "If you are, we will not have the gas turned on again."

"There are electric lights in the new home," he reminded. "You will forget these nights of Egyptian darkness, and the next time we move we shall not order the current turned off until we are safely out of the house."

"To think that at the last moment, with all packed and ready to move, this strike should have come up!" said Mrs. Grayce, with a groan. "Are you positive, Bert, that the painter you have engaged will not be won over by the strikers?"

"Never more certain of anything in my life," was the laughing response. "The painter is no less a person than your accomplished son. I stopped in and ordered the paint sent over this morning. Tomorrow I shall go and wield the brush, so you must wake and call me early. I must put in a full day."

Bert passed on to his own room, lighting his way with matches, and his mother heaved a sigh of relief. For eight days they had virtually camped in the apartment they had given up waiting for their new quarters to be finished. The packers had done their work, the man had come to cut off the gas and the moving vans were backed up to the door when a telephone message came to the effect that, owing to a strike of the painters, the new rooms were not yet ready for occupancy. From day to day the landlord had promised that something would be done at once, but now a full week had passed, and hope had commenced to fail until Bert decided to do the work himself.

He made an early start, and 8 o'clock found him in a suit of jeans applying the paint with as skillful a brush as though painting were his regular occupation. He worked rapidly and well and the rooms had begun to assume a habitable aspect when he heard the hall door open and close and looked up, expecting to see the landlord.

Instead he faced about to encounter the gaze of a pair of brown eyes which seemed to pierce his paint stained jacket and give him an oddly queer sensation about the heart. The possessor of the eyes was a fragile slip of a girl whose pure oval face was oddly like a picture by some old master. The slender form was wholly concealed by a brown holland pinafore, and this was splashed with color. A dab of blue which had sought a higher resting place made a saucy beauty patch against the dimpling chin.

"So you have come," she said at length. "I was beginning to think that you would be out on strike all winter. I was promised that my floors should be shellacked first."

"Yes, but"— began Bert.

"I want no answers," said the girl, with a stamp of her tiny foot. "I am have an exhibition day after tomorrow, and the floors must be done then, do you hear?"

Yes, ma'am," said Bert meekly.

Then pick up your pail and brush I come along," was the quiet command. "If I had not smelled the paint the hall you would have spent the day here, when I need you so much more. Come on, please."

She turned to lead the way as though there was no argument to be made, and Bert, grinning over the ridiculousness of the affair, followed after. He saw with pleasure that the other apartment was only across the hall from his own. It was a much smaller place, and it did not take Bert long to paint the floors. The girl stood in the doorway superintending the work, and Bert was sorry when at last he rose from his knees and announced the completion of the job.

"You will still have time to finish the other apartment," said the girl severely. "Next time do as you are told, and you will have less trouble. You know very well that the agent told you to do this apartment first. He promised me that he would."

"He'll promise anything," began Bert grimly, but the tiny foot stamped a warning. The girl did not care to argue the point with a workman, and she dismissed him with a nod.

"Come in tomorrow and give it a second coat," she commanded. "Wait a moment," she added as Bert turned to go. "Buy yourself a good cigar," she finished as she handed him a coin.

Bert dropped the dime in his pocket with a murmured word of thanks and backed out of the door. Once on the other side, his embarrassment died down, and he paused long enough to ascertain from the card on the door that it was Dorothy Remsen who occupied the apartment. That she was a china decorator he already knew, and vaguely he remembered having heard of her skill.

He was tired when he sought his home that night, but the thought that he would see the girl again on the morrow gave him a feeling that the day had been well spent. He carefully slipped the dime in a locket which he wore on his watch fob and smiled as he thought of his "tip."

He painted the studio floors the first thing next morning and then turned his attention to his own apartment. It was late in the afternoon when he had finished and was cleaning up. There came a ring at the door, and he opened it to confront a young woman who radiated confusion and penitence.

"I have come to apologize," she said, blushing redly. "I stopped in to thank the agent for sending me a painter, and he did not know that my floors had been done. Then he recalled that you were painting your own place and explained my error."

"It's a very natural one," he said, with a laugh. "If you were half as desperate as my mother, I should not blame you for kidnaping me with a full knowledge of the facts. I am only glad that I have been of service to you."

"You don't know how greatly you have aided me," she cried. "I can never repay your kindness. I am so sorry that I was abrupt yesterday. Will you pardon me?"

The long, slender hand was clasped in Bert's own, and he smiled down into the brown eyes that dropped shyly before his gaze.

Dorothy slipped back into her own apartment, and Bert, closing his door, drew the dime she had given him from his locket.

"The job's going to cost you more than that, little woman," he said as he smiled to himself. "It's going to cost you your heart and hand, and they are worth millions of dimes."

As It Happens.

They parted as girls; they met as women.

"And what of all your sweethearts?" asked the old time chum at length.

"Gone the way of all good things," answered the captivator.

"That tall, lanky blond with the fierce mustache, for instance?"

"Went insane!"

"Gracious! And Jimmie Bowles—'the little muskrat,' as you used to call him—who was so devoted?"

"Killed in an auto accident trying to save my life."

"Dear me! And your needy artist swain, who found in you the only customer for his wonderful paintings?"

"Became a waiter and married an heiress!"

"And the kinky haired little French count?"

"Ran away with my maid!"

"Worse and worse! And how about Reggie? You did profess to love him, you know."

"Now my brother-in-law!"

"Never! Well, that Mr. Hardflint, who used to snub us all, yourself included? I hope he met his deserved finish."

"He did. Come up to the house and I'll introduce you to him. He's my husband!"—Young's Magazine.

How the Other Half Gives.

"That sentiments of tender charity are innate among the poor can be seen from a case which presented itself among a group of little children at a school where we visited," writes Mrs. John Van Vorst in Woman's Home Companion. "They were of the most destitute, this little class, but as regular as soldiers in attendance. After an unusual absence of two days one of the small pupils, Mary by name, was closely questioned by the teacher on her return. Very reluctantly she responded that they had been without food at home and that she was obliged to come hungry to school.

"No comment was made before the other children. Nothing further was said.

"The following morning a small procession filed before the teacher's desk—a procession of little people, tiny, poor, ignorant. Yet not one of them came empty handed. One brought an apple, one a piece of cheese, one a roll, one a slice of meat. And each as she put her meager offering down whispered to the teacher, 'It's for Mary.'"

Man's Place In the Universe.

By Sir OLIVER LODGE, English Scientist.

ON this planet we are the highest of the forms of life that we see. You are apt to think that you are the highest that exists, whereas THERE IS NO REASON FOR THINKING SO at all. We are sometimes asked whether other planets are inhabited. I think we may say we know that the moon is not. Any life there may once have been on it appears now to be extinct. Its whole surface looks dead and inert.

WE SOMETIMES THINK THAT THE PLANET MARS IS INHABITED. PERHAPS IT IS, BUT I VENTURE TO THINK THAT ON THE WHOLE IT IS MOST PROBABLE THAT WE ARE AT THE PRESENT TIME THE ONLY INTELLIGENTLY INHABITED PLANET IN THE SOLAR SYSTEM.

Men have not been here long. I do not pretend to say how long. I may take it that the earth has gone through a LONG LABOR OF PREPARATION for the existence of the human race. We know less about the history of the human race than we know about the history of the planet.

* * *

Thus, then, the chances are that if we visit a planet chosen at random we shall find it either in the labor of preparation or in the state of rest after activity. The duration of the existence of a race akin to the human race may be but AN EPISODE IN THE LIFE OF A PLANET, and if the earth has been inhabited for only 1,000,000 out of 200,000,000 years it may be conjectured that there is a chance of only 1 in 200 in favor of any other planet chosen at random being similarly inhabited.

* * *

In our solar system, however, there are planets of all sizes, ONE A THOUSAND TIMES BIGGER THAN THE EARTH—namely, Jupiter—others smaller than the earth, and there are still smaller lumps of matter careering around the sun, of which one occasionally falls on the earth and can be dug up. There are also large quantities of minute particles down even to separate atoms. The sun is so large that it has not had time to cool even on the surface. It is a BLAZING MASS OF GAS and is not likely to be inhabited, nor is Jupiter. Others are cool enough to be inhabited, but it is not clear whether they have reached the period of the human race. One or two may have reached a period at which SOMETHING RECOGNIZABLY HIGHER THAN THE HUMAN RACE is existing upon it.

THE SOLAR SYSTEM IS BUT A FRAGMENT OF THE UNIVERSE. EVERY STAR IS A SUN WITH A SOLAR SYSTEM. IT IS POSSIBLE THAT THERE MAY BE MILLIONS OF PLANETS INHABITED BY BEINGS HIGHER OR LOWER THAN OURSELVES. WHAT WE SEE GOING ON IS WHAT WE CALL THE PROCESS OF EVOLUTION—FROM BROKEN FRAGMENTS TO COHERENT MASSES AND TO INHABITED WORLDS, FROM CHAOS TO COSMOS. A STRUGGLE UPWARD OF THE UNIVERSE, FROM SOMETHING LOWER AND DISORGANIZED TO SOMETHING HIGHER AND ORGANIZED.

As to how life ORIGINATES on these planets science is ignorant at present. IT IS AN ENTIRE MYSTERY. I would not have you build too much on that. I do not think it will always remain a mystery.

No Real Representatives of The People In Congress.

By WILLIAM M. IVINS, Prominent Lawyer of New York City.

WITHIN the last few years we have seen grow up a condition distinctly peculiar to our country. Great corporations have seen fit to PERVERT THE LAW by securing legislation for their own ends without thought of the interests of the community as a whole.

THE RESULT IS THAT THE STATE HAS CEASED TO REPRESENT THE PEOPLE AND THAT LEGISLATORS HAVE CEASED TO REPRESENT THE PEOPLE. WE HAVE TODAY IN OUR CONGRESS AT WASHINGTON NO REAL REPRESENTATIVE. WE HAVE IN OUR LEGISLATURE AT ALBANY ONLY A FEW MEN WHO REALLY REPRESENT THE FOUR AND A HALF MILLIONS OF PEOPLE OF NEW YORK CITY.

We have seen the passage of laws by CORPORATION INFLUENCE—laws passed only for those who see fit to take part in the speculation of purchasing legislation. There has been a complete perversion of power. Corporations have been trying to reap REWARDS AND PROFITS THAT DO NOT BELONG TO THEM. We have come to the point where we are on the eve of what would be, were we not the people that we are, a REVOLUTION. Instead we will have an evolution worked out on lines which look to those things that concern the GOOD OF THE ENTIRE PUBLIC.

Woman's Interest In Country Equal to Man's.

By JULIA WARD HOWE, Author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," Etc.

THE RELIGION WHICH MAKES ME A MORAL AGENT EQUALLY WITH MY FATHER AND BROTHER GIVES ME MY RIGHT AND TITLE TO THE CITIZENSHIP WHICH I AM HERE TO ASSERT. I OUGHT TO HAVE EQUALLY WITH THEM ITS PRIVILEGES AND ITS DUTIES.

No man can have more at stake in the community than I have. Imposition of taxes, laws concerning public health, order and morality AFFECT ME PRECISELY AS THEY AFFECT THE MALE MEMBERS OF MY FAMILY, and I am bound EQUALLY with them to look to the maintenance of a worthy and proper standard and status in all of these departments.

With EQUAL MORAL AND MENTAL CAPACITY we now have education equal to that enjoyed by men. Where is the deficit, where the deficiency, which bars our way to the full exercise of our social and political efficiency?

BOWSER'S CHANGE.

Sudden Access of Good Nature Greatly Alarms His Wife.

SHE FEARS THE WORST.

Week Goes by Without a Kick From the Old Man—Doctor Reassures Mrs. Bowser—All Men, He Says, Occasionally Act That Way.

[Copyright, 1907, by T. C. McClure.]

It was Sunday evening that Mrs. Bowser observed the change in Mr. Bowser. He found two clothespins in the back yard, but he did not come in and charge her with being the most reckless housekeeper in town and talk about the poorhouse.

He discovered that a pane of glass in one of the bay windows was loose, but he did not charge her with having dug out the putty and sold it.

He found the tack hammer lying around with the head off, but he drove in the handle without a word. Mrs. Bowser couldn't make it out and was worried.

Monday.—Mr. Bowser got up and dressed without finding any holes in his socks or jawing around about his collar and tie. The breakfast bacon was fried too hard, but he didn't seem to notice it. When he came home in the evening a policeman called and wanted him to run for mayor at the next campaign, but Mr. Bowser firmly declined. He further absolutely declined to invest in a patent four handled jug that the inventor brought around. He denied to Mrs. Bowser that he had a headache or had been attacked by a new sort of rheumatism. He offered to go into Green's and play poker for a couple of hours, but his conduct was so unusual that Mrs. Bowser made an excuse not to go. He held the cat on his lap all the evening and made no remark when a boy threw a stone and hit the front door.

HE WAS BEATEN TWENTY-EIGHT STRAIGHT GAMES OF EUCHRE.

Tuesday.—Mr. Bowser dressed without ripping off any buttons or doing any cussing. He had put one of his socks in the pocket of his nightshirt on going to bed and had to hunt for it for ten minutes, but he displayed no impatience.

Made no assertions that the world was cold and unselfish and that Mrs. Bowser would be glad to collect his life insurance.

Cook had got up late and in her hurry had mixed the tea and coffee together, but Mr. Bowser drank the compound and never made complaint.

During the evening of that day a man called to sell him a Jersey cow, but he wouldn't even go around into the alley to look at her.

Another man called with an invention to throw cats off the back fence, but his reception was so chilling that the cats rejoiced.

Mrs. Bowser said that some furnace coal must be ordered at once and then stood by for an outbreak, but none followed.

Wednesday.—Mr. Bowser was awakened half an hour ahead of his usual time by a row between two milkmen, but he did not blame Mrs. Bowser for it. On the contrary, he got up and looked out of the window and really enjoyed the scrap. Some change had fallen out of his pantaloons, but he didn't charge Mrs. Bowser with having tried to rob him during the night.

Turns Down a Good Thing.

When he reached home that evening he found a man at the gate who wanted to sell him a cannon that would shoot twenty-four miles, but he turned him down with a smile and wouldn't even invest at half price.

On the front steps was a second man who had a fire escape that could also be used as a spare bed in case company arrived, and he wanted to sell a half interest. He was waved aside.

In the hall sat a man who had been waiting a whole hour for Mr. Bowser to tell him that he had discovered on his farm a spring the waters of which would grow hair on a fence rail. He was asked to take a walk.

As there was no growling at dinner on account of the bone the butcher had sent with the meat, Mrs. Bowser became alarmed and suggested cards for the evening. Mr. Bowser was willing. He sat down with her and was beaten twenty straight games at eucher and never yelled out. In some of the hands she deliberately "nigged" in hopes to arouse him, but he refused to see it. On the contrary, he praised her for a good player and criticised himself.

When through playing, she showed him the gas bill for the previous month and characterized it as an outrage, but he said he had changed his mind about such things. There was a time when he looked upon the gas man as a highway robber and a liar, but he had come to the conclusion that he had done him gross injustice.

The cook called Mrs. Bowser up to her room and said that she was afraid to stay in the house overnight. She once worked in a family where the man of the house made just such a sudden change, and after a week he got up one night and killed four people with an ax.

Thursday.—Still the meek and uncomplaining Mr. Bowser. There were only toast and coffee for breakfast, and by Mrs. Bowser's orders the toast had been burned, but nothing whatever was said. Indeed, Mr. Bowser ate with hearty enjoyment.

The Smile Won't Come Off.

Coming home on the car that evening the conductor short changed him out of 10 cents, but he got off the car smiling.

On the car a fat woman poked an elbow into his ribs and asked him why he didn't wear a wig and keep his vest pulled down, but he let it all go without a word.

He had only got into the house and hung up his overcoat and hat when a man called and sought to interest him in a refrigerator that used cobblestones instead of ice, but he was worked out doors in the midst of his guarantee that there was at least $5,000,000 in it.

Mrs. Bowser had determined that something must be done. At dinner she suggested the theater. Her suggestion was at once accepted. Mr. Bowser got ready without the slightest fuss. On the car going down he had to stand up, and a man beside him called him "old man" and asked him to get off and have a drink, but there was no row.

It was a poor play, and Mrs. Bowser fell asleep, but Mr. Bowser stayed awake and endured it without a complaint. While those around him were wishing they had potatoes to throw at the actors he simply felt sorry for the whole cast and wished he could find them jobs in a sawmill.

Plenty of provocation, but no row going home. On the steps was a man who had been waiting for three hours to sell Mr. Bowser a soup ladle that turned with a crank, like an egg beater, but he was gently lifted up and deposited outside the gate, and his feelings were not hurt by any hard words.

Friday.—A heavenly calm before breakfast, a heavenly calm during the meal, a bland smile on Mr. Bowser's face as he left home. He hadn't got to the corner when Mrs. Bowser called up the doctor by telephone and related affairs and asked what should be done.

He replied that he was busy, but would read up on the case and let her know as soon as possible.

When Mr. Bowser came home at night he was followed from the car by three men who wanted to sell him chicken farms, but he smiled benevolently and turned them down.

No finding fault with the dinner.

No startling remarks when told that the cook had given notice.

No observations of any sort when told that the iceman had sent in his bill and that it was a dollar too much.

Mr. Bowser Holds the Cat.

Mr. Bowser held the cat and read his newspaper during the evening. Men called to offer him investments in strawberry farms, war balloons, hair dyes and pitchforks that would pitch a ton of hay over the barn, but by his orders Mrs. Bowser met them at the door and kindly replied, "Nothing wanted tonight, thank you."

Saturday.—No trouble with Mr. Bowser before breakfast.

Not an unkind word at breakfast.

Same blandness, some beatitude.

At noon the doctor called and heard the story. When all the symptoms had been specified he burst into a laugh and said to the tearful Mrs. Bowser:

"Suffer no more anxiety. This is what the medical profession terms a lucid interval. Nearly all husbands have them. Bowser will probably come home tonight to fling down his hat in the hall, kick over a chair or two in the sitting room and then go down to dinner to yell at you and ask what in blazes you have got corned beef for when you know that he wanted roast mutton."

"Do you really believe he will, doctor?"

"Of course I do."

"Then I am so glad—so very, very glad! I thought sure that he was going to die!" M. QUAD.

Not In It.

Especially Little Brothers.

Stella—Children should be seen and not heard.

Bella—I believe they should be compelled to give warning, like autos.—Harper's Weekly.

Coming to This?

First Broker—How is business?

Second Broker—Improving a little. I've got a good barker out in front of my office now.—Brooklyn Life.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

CONGRESSMAN PEARRE.

At Hagerstown on last Thursday afternoon the Republicans of the Sixth District of Maryland conferred a merited honor by renominating Col. Pearre for the position he has so acceptably filled for a number of years past as the Representative of the people of this section of the State in the National Congress.

The Republicans of the Sixth District have always been true to the principles of the party; they are unqualifiedly thorough in their endorsements of men and measures, leaving nothing to be inferred or doubted as will readily be seen by glancing back over the political history of the party in this District for a number of years past.

In the support at Hagerstown on Thursday the Republicans paid a splendid tribute to Col. Pearre's faithful and efficient servcie as a public official. Each time he has been returned to Congress he has been given a greater majority, and, judging from present indications the best record in this respect will be broken at the November election of 1908.

Having done full justice to Col. Pearre, new forward lines were marked in the matter of endorsement of a Presidential candidate, the delegates to the National Convention being instructed "to vote for the nomination of Hon. William H. Taft as the Republican candidate for President until the said William H. Taft received the nomination of said convention, for the office of President of the United States or has been clearly and unquestionably defeated therefor."

We recall no similar resolution and it may be taken as a proof of the deep earnest sentiment of Maryland for the Ohio statesman. Unquestionably Western Maryland will give him an unprecedented majority, the bulk of the votes coming from the hills and vales of patriotic, zealous and enthusiastic Garrett.

Swanton Easter Festival.

A bright and very delightful Easter commemoration was enjoyed by the Protestant Episcopal Sunday school of Anderson Chapel, Swanton, Sunday morning, April 19th, 1908.

The morning did not wear an inviting outlook and was rather a damper upon Easter anticipations of flooding sunshine, opening flowers and spring in her loviest raiment, but the spirit of attendance and expectancy of observance reached the homes and moved their inmates, and, while sunbeams and rain clouds were alternating in fitful chases of light and shadows over the April skies, the children with parents and friends, irrespective of denominational affiliations, gathered at the appointed hour for an occasion simple in form but interesting from start to finish.

Age and custom were relegated generally and hopelessly to the back ground while young pioneers occupied the front no less as chiefs in the various features than as Easter buds of today to grow among the monarchs of tomorrow in the human forest. All faces were bright and all spirits in happy keeping with the gladsome season. Easter music, recitations and readings filled out an excellently designed and successfully rendered programme; after which eggs in such a variety of beautiful hues as might have excited the envy of Joseph in his coat of many colors, oranges of deep red and lucious flavor and other gifts were distributed to the members of the school. At the shanks of the ending programme, the superintendent tried an attestation of a few facts prominent in the Easter lesson but all had been so winsomely touched and brought out in the children's song and said that either reprodvction or repetition was beyond his reach.

RELLIM.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85.000.000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.

52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

MUNICIPAL LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to all parties interested that the undersigned will be at the Council Chamber in the opera house in the town of Oakland, Md., on

Monday, May 4, 1908,

from one until four o'clock p. m., for the purpose of issuing licenses to those who under the law are required to take out same.

By order of the Town Council.

JOHN C. DUNHAM, Clerk.

Sheriff's License Notice.

To Merchants, Traders and Others:

All persons and bodies corporate or politic of Garrett county who are or shall be exercising or pursuing any business, or shall be in the occupation at any house or place for any purpose for which license is made necessary by the laws of Maryland, are hereby warned to obtain a license or renew the same on or before the next ensuing under the penalties prescribed by the said laws for the infraction thereof.

First Day of May

The attention of all persons proposing to engage in the sale of spirituous, fermented and intoxicating liquors is especially called to the provisions of the Acts of Assembly.

AUSTIN BROWN, Sheriff.

CHAPTER 639.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 71 passed at the present session of the General Assembly of the State of Maryland for the year 1908.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 71 of the Acts of 1908, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment so as to read as follows:

SECTION 6. No spirituons or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any Election District of said County except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act; and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, house, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said Clerk by at least seven respectable free-holders, assessed for at least two thousand dollars, living in the Election District in which said saloon is to be located and with in two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article, and until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall file with said Clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said Clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditionally to the payment of all fine, penalties, costs and damages to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this state and said Clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this Section, unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond; and that in no event shall any person sell such article on the Sabbath day, commonly called Sunday, and for violation of this provision such person, natural or artificial, shall be subjected to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act, provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, shall still remain in full force and virtue in law, (and provided further that this Act shall not apply to any incorporated town having a paid police force).

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1908.

LEVY LIST, 1908.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, Levied on the 18th Day of April, 1908, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Marvland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.

Levied as per Act of Legislature.

Dist. No. 1—Swanton	$	881 50
" 2—Selbysport		1,073 40
" 3—Grantsville		1,216 80
" 4—Bloomington		533 40
" 5—Accident		829 82
" 6—Sang Run		536 04
" 7—East Oakland		1,688 26
" 8—Ryans Glade		1,015 97
" 9—Johnsons		364 03
" 10—Deer Park		877 24
" 11—Elbow		353 15
" 12—Bittinger		460 95
" 13—Kitzmillersville		321 51
" 14—Oakland		1,860 15
Total		$12,012 32

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of—
Oakland	$ 800 00
Deer Park	100 00
Loch Lynn	100 00
Friendsville	300 00
Kitzmillersville	150 00
Commissioners of Grantsville	150 00
Mt. Lake Park Community	200 00
Total	$1,800 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett National Bank	$ 600 00
Same, use Davis Nat'l Bank	700 00
Same, balance	440 25
Total	$1,740 25

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay expenses for June, September and December, 1908, and March Term, 1909	$3,085 00

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay Judges	$464 64
E. E. Friend, Register of Wills	175 10
Total	$639 74

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. L. Lee, late Sheriff, use Garrett National Bank	$ 500 00
Same, use Dixon & Kelso	852 11
Same, balance	1,358 46
Estimate to pay Sheriff's salary, prisoners' board, etc., for 1908, subject to order	3,000 00
Estimate to pay Warden's salary, subject to order	900 00
Estimate to pay Jail Cook's salary, subject to order	300 00
E. I. West, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland	17 50
C. J. Brown, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use of First National Bank of Oakland	22 00
Daniel Vaughn, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland	30 00
Daniel Jamison, taking care of David Saucer at jail	7 50
J. W. Purnell, taking care of C. C. Michael at jail	42 00
Total	$7,029 57

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners for support schools	$17,000 00
To build new school houses	3,000 00
Total	$20,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING & PUBLISHING.

Benj. H. Sincell, publishing and printing, use Garrett National Bank	$ 462 50
James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett National Bank	262 50
Chas. A. Deffinbaugh, publishing	116 65
Total	$841 65

ELECTION EXPENSES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$3,800 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same for 1908	$4,000 00
Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn, part payment for bridge over Little Yough near Loch Lynn	125 00
Total	$4,125 00

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$250 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1908	$2,600 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1908	$1,050 00

STATE WITNESSES BEFORE J. P.

Estimate for 1908	$100 00

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$1,000 00
A. G. Ross, Clerk, balance	600 00
F. A. Thayer, Attorney	150 00

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 187—
A. C. Mason, surveyor	$ 10 00
Chauncey Kimmell, examiner, 2 days	4 00
Eugene Teats, examiner 2 days	4 00
W. T. Sines, " 2 days	4 00
Samuel Kimmell chainman, 1 day	1 50
Guy Kimmell, chainman, 1 day	1 50
J. S. Hardesty, axeman, 1 day	1 50
Road Case No. 188—
C. M. Miller, surveyor	15 25
Rudolph Beckman, examiner, 3 days	6 00
J. L. Fitzwater, examiner, 3 days	6 00
P. P. McAndrews, " 3 "	6 00
Jno. A. Beckman, flagman, 2 "	3 00
Jas. W. Kisner, axeman, 2 "	3 00
Stuart A. Paugh, chainman, 2 "	3 00
Luther C. Winter, " 2 "	3 00
Road Case No. 190—
P. C. Boucher, surveyor	10 00
H. S. Coleman, examiner, 1 day	2 00
David Popp, " 1 day	2 00
B. F. Michael, " 1 day	2 00
Noah McKenzie, chainman, 1 day	1 50
Jos. Minnick, " 1 day	1 50
Road Case No. 191—
W. McCulloh Brown, surveyor	20 00
Jas. W. Harvey, examiner 4 days	8 00
James Lish, " 4 days	8 00
L. C. Hamill, " 3 days	6 00
L. C. Hamill, roadman, 3 days	4 50
George Plum, axeman, 2 days	3 00
Richard Bray, chainman, 3 days	4 50
Clever Pool, " 2 days	3 00
Hamill Coal & Coke Co., damages	1 00
Manor Mining & Mfg Co., "	22 15
Garrett County Coal Co., "	20 45
Road Case No. 192—
Getty Browning, surveyor, use Garrett National Bank	35 00
Jonas Glotfelty, examiner, 1½ days	3 00
F. D. Dewitt, examiner, 1½ days	3 00
W. A. Smith, " 1 day	2 00
Lee Browning, chainman, 4 days	6 00
Fred. Shank, " 4 days	6 00
Road Case No. 193—
James A. Sincell, surveyor	15 00
Martin Hughes, examiner, 2 days	4 00
P. H. Rodeheaver, " 3 days	6 00
Henry Myers, " 2 days	4 00
W. M. Lawton, chainman, 1 day	1 50
Delbert Rodeheaver, " 1 day	1 50
Edmund Jamison, " 1 day	1 50
Total	$279 85

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS

Districts Nos. 1, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13 and 14, subject to order	$1,378 89
Districts Nos. 3, 9, 11 and 12, subject to order	500 00
Districts Nos. 2, 5 and 6, subject to order	400 00
Total	$2,278 89

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, late State's Attorney	$1,339 47
J. T. Mitchell, 2 misdemeanors	10 00
C. G. Watson, 2 "	10 00
Thos. J. Peddicord, 1 felony	10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, 4 misdemeanors and 2 felonies	40 00
Norman S. Heindel, 1 felony	10 00
Renninger & Offutt, 1 "	10 00
E. H. Sincell, 1 misdemeanor	5 00
G. S. Hamill & Ferdinand Williams, 1 felony	10 00
Ferdinand Williams, 2 misdemeanors	10 00
Asa T. Matthews, 1 felony	10 00
S. F. Hamill, 1 "	10 00
G. S. Hamill, Jr., 1 "	10 00
Hamill & Matthews, 1 felony	10 00
J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney	15 00
Total	$1,519 47

CONSTABLES' FEES.

Dist. No. 1—Jos. R. Glass	$ 11 60
" 2—Chas. H. Liston	10 95
" 4—Jac. Stump, special	3 75
" 7—Wm. A. Maffett	280 15
" 10—E. G. Miller	8 70
" 14—J. H. White, special	45 05
" 14—Wm. Newman, "	24 40
Total	$384 60

MAGISTRATES' FEES.

Dist. No. 3—Peter Nathan	$ 44 40
" 5—Henry Kahl	7 95
" 7—A. S. Teats	130 29
" 10—Wm. D. Hoye	18 00
" 14—Andrew B. Gonder	60 40
Total	$261 04

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

John Kanada, support Frances Cooper, subject to order	$ 25 00
Sarah Sanbower, support Hubert Sanbower, subject to order	50 00
Silas Cuppett, support Emily Forsythe, subject to order	100 00
Jacob Beeman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order	25 00
Francis Fike, support Nancy Vansickle and daughter, subject to order	120 00
Esther Glotfelty, support self, subject to order	96 00
Simon Nair, support self, subject to order	60 00
J. I. Ringer, support John R. Ringer, subject to order	120 00
Amelia Turney, support self, subject to order	50 00
Alpheus and Mary Yeast, support self, subject to order	150 00
James W. Gilpin, support self, subject to order	100 00
Estimate for others	200 00
Total	$1,096 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

On the body of Anna Boger—
Philip Georg,	Juror	$ 1 00
Samuel Mosser,	"	1 00
Louis Durst,	"	1 00
Floyd Deahl,	"	1 00
Valentine Kahl,	"	1 00
William Bowman,	"	1 00
Daniel Bowman,	"	1 00
Solomon Glass,	"	1 00
Newton Geis,	"	1 00
Smith Friend,	"	1 00
William Garringer,	"	1 00
J. P. Spiker,	"	1 00
Dr. H. R. Boyer		10 00
Leonard Shartzer, summoning jurors		1 50
On body of George H. Marville
Samuel P. Specht,	juror	1 00
William H. Clary,	"	1 00
George Marley,	"	1 00
James T. Shaffer,	"	1 00
Walter C. Bowman,	"	1 00
Sanson S. Savedge,	"	1 00
George L. Coffman,	"	1 00
F. L. Warnick,	"	1 00
Chas. B. Savedge,	"	1 00
Alex. C. George,	"	1 00
Enoch R. Clark,	"	1 00
John Snyder,	"	1 00
Dr. J. K. Cole		10 00
G. W. Haulenbeck, for team		50
On body of Joseph Harris—
George T. Miller,	juror	1 00
James Coffman,	"	1 00
Jesse Harris,	"	1 00
Edward Miller,	"	1 00
George Moorehead,	"	1 00
Lawrence Garvey,	"	1 00
Robert Moorehead,	"	1 00
Lewis Mitter,	"	1 00
Daniel Raley,	"	1 00
Adam Elliott,	"	1 00
James Spence,	"	1 00
James Reynolds,	"	1 00
Marcus M. Fazenbaker, coroner		5 00
Dr. H. M. Kemp		10 00
Thomas Burk,	Witness	33
J. P. Cleary,	"	33
Gilbert Warnick,	"	33
Harmon Elliott,	"	33
R. A. C. Howard,	"	33
Thomas Moorehead,	"	33
Dominick Flynn,	"	33
Edward Devine,	"	33
Russell Patterson,	"	33
Frank Flynn,	"	33
Stephen Flynn,	"	33
Lewis Baldwin,	"	33
Lon Buckhannon,	"	33
Renx Buckhannon,	"	33
Charles D. Moorehead,	"	33
Thomas P. Swan,	"	33
Charles Brentlin,	"	33
Michael Flynn,	"	33
Joseph Paugh,	"	33
Lewis Mitter,	"	33
Cole Duckworth,	"	33
Joseph Moran,	"	33
William Elliott,	"	33
Charles Flynn,	"	33
Mrs. John Howell,	"	33
Charles H. Hill,	"	33
Gus Wilson,	"	33
George Ward,	"	33
Andy Hotchkiss,	"	33
Charles Ball,	"	33
Scott Elliott,	"	33
Howard Miller,	"	33
Mrs. Gilbert Warnick,	"	33
Mrs. C. D. Moorehead,	"	33
Benj. Fazenbaker,	"	33
On body of Robert E. Clingan—
Edward J. Frantz,	juror	1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"	1 00
G. M. Mason,	"	1 00
J. N. Robinson,	"	1 00
D. M. Mason,	"	1 00
W. Ravenscroft,	"	1 00
John Sweeney,	"	1 00
R. K. Maroney,	"	1 00
Owen Tracy,	"	1 00
Thomas Little,	"	1 00
Charles Liller,	"	1 00
W. H. Hinebaugh,	"	1 00
Dr. H. W. McComas		10 00
Dr. J. E. Legge		10 00
J. A. Cross,	Witness	33
Mattie Cross,	"	33
Holmes Browning,	"	33
Charles Whetsell,	"	33
James Frantz,	"	33
Philip Davis,	"	33
On body of John Collins—
George Mason,	juror	1 00
Edward J. Frantz,	"	1 00
Daniel Vaughn,	"	1 00
George Geissman,	"	1 00
B. H. Sincell,	"	1 00
E. A. Weimer,	"	1 00
E. Baumgartner,	"	1 00
D. M. Mason,	"	1 00
George D. White,	"	1 00
Charles Liller,	"	1 00
Robert Townshend,	"	1 00
James A. Sincell,	"	1 00
Earl Durst, witness		33
Dr. John E. Legge		10 00
On body of Bartholomew Hileman—
D. M. Mason,	juror	1 00
L. J. Brown,	"	1 00
J. M. Stanton,	"	1 00
A. J. Harne,	"	1 00
E. J. Frantz,	"	1 00
Austin Brown,	"	1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"	1 00
Elwood Offutt,	"	1 00
Benj. H. Sincell,	"	1 00
Samuel Rodeheaver,	"	1 00
Clyde C. Liller,	"	1 00
Harper Bartlett, use Chas. Liller		1 00
Dr. Mahlon Hinebaugh		10 00
Total		$162 86

COURT HOUSE BONDS.

To pay bond No. 1	$5,000 00
" " interest from Aug. 1st, 1908, to July 31st, 1909	3,000 00
Total	$8,000 00

COURT HOUSE COMMISSION.

Deficiency in bond sale	$3,138 50
To be used for the necessary grading, steps, walks and approaches on court house lot, (as per Act of Legislature)	5,000 00
Total	$8,138 50

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. J. E. Legge, Health Officer	$ 100 00
Same, Physician to jail	100 00
James Denmark, scavenger, subject to order	25 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor to c.h.	200 00
Henry M. Casteel, coal for c.h. and jail, use Garrett N. Bn'k	110 51
Same, for same, balance	51 17
Lincoln Callis, repairing road machines	21 21
Oakland Pharmacy, medicine for paupers and at jail	29 80
W. M. Thayer, hauling lumber for culverts	4 00
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers	45 60
D. E. Offutt & Sons, supplies furnished Mrs. Gilpin	15 00
Same, electric lamps, etc.	2 95
The Falconer Company, stationery for Clerk of Court	44 25
Lantz Bros., supplies for c.h.	10 91
Thomas Harne, hauling	6 00
G. A. Shirer, supplies for jail	4 95
Wm. J. C. Dulany Co, stationery for Clerk of Court	46 84
J. M. Davis & Sons, supplies for jail and court house	39 70
Corlies, Macy & Co., stationery for court house	188 25
James D. Hamill, stationery for Clerk's office	5 00
Alva Bushnell Co. same	15 75
W. H. H. Friend, issuing burial permits	6 80
Sines & Fries, coffin for pauper	20 00
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs and supplies jail sewer pipe	355 26
Baltimore Office Supply Co., supplies for Clerk's office	37 45
D. E. Bolden, repairs at c.h. coffins for paupers, etc.	168 63
George Geissman, coal for jail	18 75
Felty & Co., lumber for court house platform	9 96
Dixon & Kelso, supplies court house and jail	52 90
John W. Maroney, digging pauper graves	4 00
M. E. Frazee, coffin, pauper, &c	15 00
J. M. Jarboe, kindling for c.h.	4 00
E. W. Helbig, wood for jail	10 50
Garrett Co. Telephone Co. rent of 'phone at jail	6 50
E. W. Helbig, paper hanging at jail	39 85
M. A. Rhoages, support Anna R. Maust	31 10
The Corkins Chemical Co., disinfectant for jail	23 50
Oakland Electric Co., light for court house and jail	552 55
Total	$2,445 64

COUNTY TREASURER.

William H. Hollinger, commissions on county tax	$1,337 92
Same, commissions on state tax	183
Total	$1,521 07
Contingent Fund	$4,215 62

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$12,012 32
Corporations	1,800 00
Clerk of Circuit Court	1,740 25
Court Fund	3,085 00
Orphans' Court	639 74
Sheriff's Office	7,029 57
Public Schools	20,000 00
Public Painting & Publishing	841 65
Election Expenses	3,800 00
Bridge Account	4,125 00
Fox and Cat Certificates	250 50
Almshouse and Asylum Fund	2,600 00
Maryland Hospital	1,050 00
Est. to pay J. P. Witnesses	100 00
Commissioners' Office	1,750 00
New Roads	279 85
Special Road Appropriations	2,278 89
Attorneys' Fees	1,519 47
Constables' Fees	384 60
Magistrates' Fees	261 04
Outside Pensioners	1,096 00
Coroners' Inquests	162 86
Court House Bonds	8,000 00
Court House Commission	6,138 50
Miscellaneous Account	2,445 64
County Treasurer	1,521 07
Contingent Fund	4,215 62
Total	$89 127 07

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the Assessment Books amounts to $8,408,214.00, which at $1.06 on the $100 will make the above amount for County purposes $89,127.07.

Deducting $734,866.00 for Corporations paying direct to the State Treasurer leaves the basis $7,673,348.00 at 16 cents on each $100 makes $12,277.36 and this added makes the taxes for State and County purposes $101,404.43.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant,
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's strength, puts fat on thin people, makes a fretful baby happy, brings color to a pale girl's cheeks, and prevents coughs, colds and consumption.

Food in concentrated form for sick and well, young and old, rich and poor.

And it contains no drugs and no alcohol.

ALL DRUGGISTS: 50c. AND $1.00.

ENGLAND SAYS NO ALUM IN FOOD

and strictly prohibits the sale of alum baking powder—

So does France
So does Germany

The sale of alum foods has been made illegal in Washington and the District of Columbia, and alum baking powders are everywhere recognized as injurious.

To protect yourself against alum, when ordering baking powder,

Say plainly—

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

and be very sure you get Royal.

Royal is the only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It adds to the digestibility and wholesomeness of the food.

Mr. J. Arthur White of Allegany, Pa., is home on a vacation.

Mrs. Paul White and little child, of Keyser, are here as the guests of relatives.

Dr. W. W. Davis, of the Park, was here yesterday and today, leaving on train No. 55 for points west.

Miss Joe Robinson returned to her home in Oakland Tuesday from a short visit to friends in Paw Paw, W. Va.

Mr. John Helbig, of near Mouat Savage, Allegany county, visited his father, Mr. John Helbig, and other relatives in Oakland last Sunday and Monday.

Miss Anna Manges left Oakland Tuesday afternoon for York, Pa., where she will give a recital tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Young Woman's Christian Association of that city.

Mrs. Mary A. Byrne and daughter Miss Julia, of Kingwood, who have been staying during the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Benj. H. Sincell, will go to their home over at Kingwood this afternoon, being accompanied by Mrs. Sincell.

St. Paul's M. E. Sunday school made the largest offering for Missions last Sunday ever made in its history, the total being $83.19. The infant department gave almost $18, while a class of six young ladies gave $10.81. They are to be congratulated.

Mr. C. J. Burkholder, of near Grantsville, who has been suffering many weeks with an attack of rheumatism, was taken to the Western Maryland Hospital in Cumberland on last Friday, being conveyed to that city in an ambulance over the old National Road.

The Oakland Normal School, with Messrs. U. G. Palmer and W. E. Bishoff, instructors, opened on Monday with an enrollment of forty in the advanced grades. This number has been slightly increased since the opening day and a large school is anticipated by the teachers.

Mr. Charles A. Wilt, once a resident of Garrett county, moving from here to Elk Lick, Pa., and thence to Bayard, West Va., where he is at present engaged in the general merchandising business, was in Oakland on last Thursday and Friday, when he made this office a brief business visit.

Mr. E. R. Jones, a son of merchant W. C. Jones, of Deer Park, who is now student of Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, Ohio, has been elected alumni editor of the Tpanscript, the weekly publication of the college students. All places on the staff are competitive and are considered among the most prominent in the University.

Mr. Henry Lauer, of Oakland, who was in Baltimore last week attending the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias, as a representative of Garrett Lodge of Oakland, has returded to his home and at the next meeting of the local lodge he will make a verbal report of the proceedings of the grand lodge, at which time all members are requested to be present.

Mr. D. E. Bolden, the furniture and carpet man of Oakland, returned to his home here on last Saturday after an absence of a week spent in Philadelphia and New York where he made purchases of furniture, carpets, etc., for immediate delivery. The visit to New York was of less than a day's duration, but Mr. Bolden says he saw enough of the town to impress him with its greatness.

We very much regret to note the very serious illness of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Renninger, of Oakland, who was taken ill at Eglon a week or two ago with typhoid fever. The condition of he little one this morning is such that the attending physician has but little hope for its recovery. Our sympathy goes out in a great measure to the sorrowing parents.

For Sale or Exchange for good Jersey Cows—Two Jersey Bulls; pure St. Lambert breed; registered A. J. C. C.; age 2 years. For information and price address Walter Sanders, Foreman, Brookside Dairy Farms, Brookside, W. Va. 7-3t*

A ten days' meeting closed at Crellin on last Wednesday, which was conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. M. Lister. The meetings were all well attended. On Tuesday evening Mr. S. A. Kendall, president of the Kendall Lumber Company, made a very forceful address to a large audience. His talk was much appreciated by his auditors, the majority of whom being employes of the Kendall interests.

Messrs. Thomas B. Wiley, Albert Brenneman and Amos Recknor, all of the sugar producing section of Garrett county in District No. 12, were in Oakland yesterday, having brought to town some of the products of their camps. Mr. Wiley brought 700 pounds of sugar and 14 gallons of syrup; Mr. Recknor's load amounted to about 1500 pounds of sugar and Mr. Brenneman brought thirty gallons of syrup.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

CAPITAL 50,000.00 — THE — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

Easter Service At Swanton.

The Methodist Episcopal Sunday school did not have its usual Easter service this year, but the Epworth League (which by the way is one of the best Leagues in the county) held on Sunday evening one of the best and most interesting Easter services that we have ever had in Swanton. The program consisted of addresses, recitations, select reading and good live appropriate singing. Notwithstanding the muddy roads the congregation was a large one and for nearly two hours the people gave careful attention to the very interesting and instructive program. The children had been well trained by Mrs. Oliver G. Sweitzer and they certainly performed their part with credit. One feature of the program was the presentation by the president, W. W. Sweet, of a beautiful card to each person present. G.

At the congregational meeting of the Oakland Presbyterian church held on Sunday evening last after the preaching services conducted by Dr. Flanagan, of Grafton, a call was extended Rev. L. B. Hensley, at present pastor of Southminister Presbyterian church, South Cumberland, which church Rev. Hensley built. Rev. Hensley has also received a call to serve the Presbyterian church at Cairo, West Va., and is holding both calls under consideration.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

The compositorial force of THE REPUBLICAN office this week has had more than the accustomed portion of typesetting to do owing to the local laws and the annual levy which we print today. With this great mass of matter to handle and get in the proper shape for publication within a space of two days has served to crowd out of our columns some news items and other things which we had intended publishing today, but the laws and county levy has the right of way, hence our columns are "scarce of news but long on law."

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. All dealers.

Mr. W. E. Hollinger, the new County Treasurer, will take charge of the affairs of his office on Tuesday, at which time Mr. H. R. DeWitt, who served as such for the past two years, will retire as a public official and return to private life on his farm near Hoyes. Mr. DeWitt has been a most excellent officer and has given his undivided time to the financial affairs of the county. Mr. Hollinger, the new treasurer, will have as his deputy Mr. James W. White, of Oakland, whose past experience in the office well qualifies him to fulfill the duties with honor to himself and credit to the county.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

We understood that there is a strong likelihood of the congregation of St. Paul's M. E. church making a material addition to its property holdings in the very near future. The old parsonage, which has stood the storms of some forty winters, is not in keeping with adjacent property, nor is it comfortable as a home for the pastor of the church. there is talk of either a new building or else the purchase of the Ison residence on 4th street for a home for the pastor at present. An option has been secured on the Ison property, we understand, at a reasonable figure, but just what action will be taken will be determined a congregational meeting that church on Sunday night.

Odd Fellows Anniversary Service.

Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., will celebrate the eighty-ninth anniversary of the order in America in the Loch Lynn United Brethren church, Saturday, April 25th, at 8 o'clock p. m. There has been an elaborate program arranged and an enjoyable time is anticipated. The speakers will be Hon. Philip Willett, a noted lecturer formerly of Pennsylvania now of Mt. Lake Park; Rev. Chenoweth, a Baptist minister from Terra Alta, and Dr. H. W. McComas whom we all know and glad to hear at any time. Good vocal music will be furnished. All members of Oak Lodge are requested, and other members of the order are invited to meet at Odd Fellows Hall, Loch Lynn, at 7:30 p. m. The public is cordially invited to come and enjoy the evening with us.

JOHN W. REAM,
ENOCH E. KESNER,
HARVEY N. CUPPETT,
Committee.

SHORT RUN.

What has become of our village boy? We have not heard from him for sometime. I suppose that he, with the rest of the farmers, are very busy plowing for their spring crops.

There is a good prospect for a large yield of all kinks of fruit this year.

Mr. A. E. Harvey and his son George have just completed a blacksmith shop at Kitzmillerville. Alf will continue blacksmithing at Dodson and George will run the new shop at Kitzmillerville. We wish him much success.

Our school has closed under the instruction of Miss Merle Fowler. All were sorry to see her go, and would like to have her with us again next winter.

Mr. Burt Wilson, who has been home on a vacation, has returned to his work.

Mr. Ney Wilson, of Elkins, was here on business last Saturday.

Leap year has not deprived us of any of our old bachelors yet. Instead of decreasing they have increased two.

Mr. Alex Wilson, who was in Florida, has returned home bringing an alligator with him. He says it is "lonely to travel alone."

Prof. Chas. W. Moore is not working for Judge Wilson.

Mr. J. T. Harvey, one of our hustling farmers, is building a large barn.

Mrs. Geo. W. Moon and Miss Helen Harvey were visiting Mrs. Stullenbarger last week. They reported a good time.

Miss Ida Wilson expects to attend normal this year.

Mrs. Bertha Harvey was visiting her mother last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sharpless of Wildell, W. Va., were visiting here last week.

Miss Emma Harvey, who taught school at Hubbard, is at home now.

The grange has purchased a cemetery near the Short Run church.

Let us here from Mildred Howe again.

GERALDINE VEILLE.

Died.

At her home in Grantsville yesterday Mrs. Wm. R. Getty, relict of the late Hon. Wm. R. Getty, who represented Garrett county in the Senate of Maryland for many years in its early history Deceased was a prominent lady especially in the northern section of the county where she spent most of her long life. She leaves a number of children and other relatives to mourn their loss.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed; for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ⅓ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

Church Services.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Preaching at Lyndale at 10.30 a. m.; Loch Lynn at 7:30 p. m.

J. F. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Wesley Chapel—Sunday school 10 a. m.; class meeting at 11 a. m.

Mt. Lake Park—Class meeting at 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m.; Sunday school at 2.30 p. m., Junior League 3.30 p. m., and Epworth League 7.30 p. m.

Cottage prayer meeting at the home of J. W. Feather tonight, April 23.

Deer Park—Sunday School at 10 a.m.; Epworth League at 7, and preaching at 8p. m.

All are welcome.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows: At 10.30 a. m. the Sacrament of The Lord's Supper will be administered.

Sunday school at 2.15 p. m.

Evening Devotion and Song service at 7.30 p. m. Following the devotional service there will be a business meeting of the membership of the church to take action on the purchase or building of a parsonage property. The entire membership is or should be interested in this meeting and is urged to be present.

Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:

Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Preaching 10:30 a. m., and 7.30 p. m.

No Catechise.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows: Preaching at Deer Park at 11 a. m.; at Loch Lynn 3 p. m., and at Ferndale at 8 p. m.

A Sunday school will be organized at Deep Creek (Thayerville) church 2 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE PRESIDENT
S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. [illegible], ASSISTANT CASHIER

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO., OAKLAND, MD., April 23, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, May 12th, 1908,

to transact any business that may be brought before it.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

School Board Meeting.

The Board of School Commissioners will meet in their office on Tuesday, May 5, 1908,

for the purpose of appointing Trustees and transacting routine business.

By order of the Board.
ED A. BROWNING,
County Superintendent.
26

CHAPTER 505.

AN ACT to provide for the appointment of a deputy sheriff and a cook to the jail in Garrett county by repealing Sections 2, 3 and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enacting the same with amendments, and to add a new section to said Act to be known as Section 4A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted be the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 2, 3, and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enact the same with amendments, so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2. The Sheriff of Garrett county shall appoint a fit person as Deputy Sheriff of said county, who shall also act as Warden of the Jail of said county, and who shall perform the services of said jail as Janitor and Warden, and shall have charge of said jail in keeping it heated and cleaned, and of the care and custody of prisoners therein, and shall be responsible for escapes of prisoners occasioned in the same manner and to the same extent as the Sheriff of said County and shall perform all duties required of him by the Sheriff of said County.

SEC. 3 The said Deputy Sheriff, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take the same oath before the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, as now required by law to be taken by Sheriffs, and shall give such bond to the State of Maryland with sureties to be approved in due form, in the sum of three thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such Deputy Sheriff, which bond shall when approved be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court and disposed of as the Sheriff's bond is disposed of.

SEC. 4. The first Deputy Sheriff appointed under this Act, shall be appointed to serve until the first day January, 1910, unless removed sooner for cause, and appointments shall be made thereafter for the term of two years, unless sooner removed by the Sheriff for incompetentcy, disobedience or neglect of duty, or other causes, which in the judgment of the said Sheriff may be sufficient for such removal; and in case of removal as hereinbefore provided, the new appointee shall be appointed for the unexpired term of the person removed, and the salary of said Deputy Sheriff shall be not less than nine hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars in each year, and shall be levied for and paid by the County Commissioners of Garrett county in monthly installment.

SEC. 4A. And be it enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall allow the Sheriff of Garrett county the sum of three hundred dollars per year for a cook to the jail, which sum shall be paid in monthly installments to the Sheriff.

And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

Subscribe for The Republican.

A Social Impossibility

By Donal H. Haines.

Copyright, 1907, by Donal H. Haines.

DESBRO shifted in his seat, settled his eyeglasses more firmly upon his nose and, with his gloved hands folded on the top of his cane, turned his glance again to the field of play. On all sides of him men and women were abandoning themselves to excesses of enthusiasm, but his cold neutral tinted eyes followed the movements of the muddy figures on the gridiron without a trace of excitement, though they lost no details of the play.

"I beg your pardon"—Desbro's high pitched, nervous voice cut incisively into the throaty cheer of which the man next to him was delivering himself—"but can you tell me who is the black haired man at tackle?"

"Babbington," snapped the other shortly and turned again to his cheering, while Desbro murmured courteous thanks.

Turning a pair of fieldglasses upon the field, Desbro watched the struggling figures intently for a few moments; then, laying the binoculars aside and lighting a cigarette, he commenced to talk to himself in a low tone, oblivious of his surroundings.

"A matchless physique," he muttered, "coupled with a face which might have been Adam's—as devoid of the spark of intelligence as an ox's—the very embodiment of the game he is playing."

His intent gaze noted a sudden congestion of the padded figures below him and an eager craning of necks from the seats of the big stand. One of the opposing players lay stretched on the turf writhing in pain, while a group of the visiting eleven's supporters leaned from their seats and pointed impotently accusing fingers at the man called Babbington, who stood looking down at the prostrate figure with his hands on his massive hips.

A cold little sneer gathered about the corners of Desbro's mouth as he watched the incident.

"What callousness," he exclaimed softly, "what savagely unconscious callousness! Is the man an anachronism or only a brute? Such simple minded unconcern for physical agony caused by one's own hands is the mark of mere coarseness or a throwback.

"I must see more of this strange man," he told himself and walked to the gymnasium, where he sat for an hour gazing at the ceiling with a preoccupied air. When Babbington's great bulk emerged from the door leading to the baths an hour later, Desbro rose and walked to meet him.

"Mr. Babbington?" he asked. The other nodded.

"My name is Desbro," he went on rapidly, his suddenly keen eyes searching the other's face. "I come from the same part of the country that you do,

"NO," HE ANSWERED; "THIS IS WHAT I CAME FOR."

and I thought possibly you might give me news of an old friend, Morton—Harold Morton. Did you happen to know him?"

"Morton?" he said slowly. "Morton? No, don't believe I know him."

"Ah, of course," Desbro hastened to say, "I thought perhaps"— And he wove a few sentences of easy fiction before turning abruptly on his heel.

A few hours later he sat in the billiard room of his fraternity house listening curiously to the talk of the men which centered about the game of the afternoon. The comments were all lively, enthusiastic, on the team's chances, on the individual prowess of the men, and constantly recurring in the hum of conversation was Babbington's name.

"The finest type of a player the crop of new men has produced," a fair haired man with a big voice called from one end of the smoky room.

"Right you are!" Desbro broke in suddenly. The men around the tables turned in astonishment, for to have Desbro offer comment on matters of this nature was unusual.

"Right you are, I say," he repeated, leaning back in his chair and surveying the curious faces through his glasses. "This man is the very embodiment of the spirit fostered by this beautiful game of yours—built for a human chopping block or battering ram, as the case may demand! By the exertion of those muscles for which he is no more responsible than Thompson there for his red hair he brings down on his richly undeserving head the frenzied cheers of a sport crazed crowd. He sends a man less fortunately endowed physically than himself into a few moments of unhappy oblivion and then grins at you with crass satisfaction when you cheer him—not for himself or because his name means anything, but simply for what he has done.

"This Babbington comes out of nowhere," Desbro continued, "a graceless, coarse fibered clod, with a giant's strength and the broad ideas of a goat, hungry for notoriety of the sort his great muscles can command, and you pamper his cheap cravings with unction. You sit in the stands and shout yourselves hoarse while he is battering some poor fellow in the arena, and you will go further. You will desire the capture of this athletic lion in spite of the fact that he is a—a social impossibility, and you will be crowding around trying to put your fraternity pins on his coat. Bah!

"I talked with the man, looked into his great, oxlike eyes—dead, devoid of the spark of real life"—

The unfinished sentence broke abruptly, and every eye in the room followed Desbro's startled glance to the doorway, where, turning his cane in his hands and staring at the speaker with an expression wholly indescribable, stood Babbington. For a moment there was the dead silence of utter embarrassment; then one by one the men turned to the tables, while Babbington cleared his throat and spoke.

"I came to see if possibly I hadn't misunderstood you," he said, turning to Desbro. "That name you mentioned was Morton, wasn't it?"

Desbro, redder than any man had ever seen him, nodded without speaking.

"I thought possibly I hadn't understood," Babbington explained, backing awkwardly out of the door, "and I did know a man named Horton."

A few moments later Desbro passed the door of the billiard room, wearing the raincoat and slouch hat which he invariably wore on the evening walks which were as much a part of his existence as his meals.

No man pretended to know the object of these nightly walks of Desbro's. To all inquiries he responded that "they gave him a chance to think without interruption."

At the gate Desbro paused to light a cigarette, and the flare of the match as he shielded it from the snappy October wind brought his thin features into prominence against the darkness. Babbington, standing under a tree not a dozen yards away, turned as the sulphur sputtered and saw. His great hand clinched instinctively into a fist, and he had already taken a step forward when Desbro turned and started quickly down the street.

Babbington waited a few moments, then stepped lightly on to the sidewalk and followed, quietly at first and then without caution as Desbro paid no attention to the footfalls behind him. He glanced now and then at the receding lights and then increased the length of his strides as Desbro's phrases throbbed through his mind.

"Social impossibility!" he muttered, gritting his teeth over the phrase. "I'll teach the little whelp!"

His eyes never left the little spark which marked the other's position, but every time he started to close the gap between them something checked him. His thoughts refused to run to any but a given point—a fierce desire to get his hands upon the man who had held his ignorance up to a roomful of men while he stood and listened helplessly. As he had stood under the tree in front of the house he had felt only a sense of impotency, of shame, a gulping feeling of disappointment which was not easy to understand, a sickening realization that some of Desbro's words had rung true.

Block after block the man in front walked, turning now to the right and now to the left, sometimes walking rapidly and again idling along at a snail's pace. They passed through the business streets, lonely and deserted under the harsh glare of the arc lights. Here Desbro paused to talk with a policeman with whom he seemed to be on excellent terms, and, turned suddenly cold at the sight of the patrolman, Babbington crossed the street and nearly lost his man, who wheeled abruptly into a dark side street.

Babbington was conscious that a struggle had commenced within him and that the first heat of anger was passing. He grew ashamed of his growing calmness, fearful lest the cooling influence of the walk rob him of the merited retaliation which he knew his massive arms could administer.

Desbro stopped abruptly to light another cigarette, and his pursuer halted in the midst of a stride. For an instant he paused irresolute, divided between the lingering desire to close his fingers on Desbro's neck and a sudden impulse to run, to get away from everything, back to the life where other men had lived and talked like himself. The hotter sensation triumphed, and Babbington had taken three quick, elastic steps toward his victim when, silent as the shadows from which they sprang, a little knot of men threw themselves at Desbro.

The shock of the attack not only drove from Babbington's mind every vestige of his own wrath, but bereft him for an instant of the power of motion. He heard Desbro give a low exclamation and saw by the last flicker of the match the slight figure attempting to shield itself by leaping behind an iron pole. In another instant he found himself in the center of a press of struggling figures. He received blows and felt the impact of his hand against flesh as he returned them.

"Where are you, Desbro?" he shouted. "Sing out!"

"Here," came a choking voice from behind him, "quick!"

A club struck Babbington's arm with a numbing shock, but he kicked the man who wielded it into insensibility and the next instant was tearing another ruffian from off Desbro's prostrate form. Two of the assailants lay on the ground, mere blotches in the darkness. The others had disappeared.

Desbro rose to his feet slowly and took a step toward his rescuer.

"I say," he commenced, then stopped abruptly. "So this is the cheap 'coals of fire' method you pursue, is it?" he continued, with a sneer.

A sudden easy smile passed over Babbington's face.

"No," he answered shortly; "this is what I came for," and he struck Desbro squarely in the face, felling him instantly.

For an instant the knowledge of the strength in his great muscles frightened him, and he leaned over Desbro anxiously. Satisfied that he had struck

"WILL YOU SHAKE HANDS, BABBINGTON?" HE ASKED.

no harder than he intended, he leaned against the iron post panting from his exertions. The two roughs on the ground recovered their senses and scuttled off into the night. He could hear Desbro's watch ticking and kept track of the seconds for two full minutes. Then he noticed that the fallen man was bareheaded and puttered about on his hands and knees in the dead leaves and the filth of the gutter until he found Desbro's hat.

"Can you walk?" he asked shortly. The disheveled figure nodded, and in silence they made their way back through the deserted streets. In front of the fraternity house they separated without words.

Desbro gave up his nightly walks for a week and was seen but little outside his room. He explained his marred cheek and a stiffness in one leg by a fall through a broken crossing.

* * * * * * *

"Going to make another character study of the game, Desbro?"

Desbro shook his head and smiled.

"I'm continuing one," he answered shortly.

It was with a more interested, less coldly critical expression that he followed the movements of the men on the white striped field beneath him. The problem confronting the varsity team was a different one from that which Desbro had watched on the first occasion, for instead of feeble opponents who would only afford them good practice they faced an eleven of their own class.

From the first the enemy's tactics had been obvious. They realized that in Babbington there was a living opposition which barred all progress to the varsity's goal line, and toward the wearing down of his great strength they had directed their efforts. Men had been led to the side lines pale and bleeding, and the list of the visitors' substitutes was diminished, but still Babbington formed the center of every attack and was the rock about which split the enemy's onslaughts. It was not a showy exhibition, but it was a splendid piece of physical stamina, and the great crowd was appreciative. They saw that Babbington's endurance would make victory possible, and they rose in a great wall of color and cheered him furiously.

"Babbington! Babbington!"

Close to the goal posts Babbington raised his great frame from the tangle of the last attack which had shattered its force upon him and faced the shouting crowds. Slowly he raised a huge fist and shook it in the face of the multitude, which grew wonderingly silent.

"Curse you," he shouted, and the sound of his hoarse voice carried to every part of the stands, "leave my name alone!"

Desbro smiled quietly.

"In the term 'social impossibility,'" he muttered, "I was guilty of gross injustice."

When the whistle sounded the end of the half, he scrambled down from his seat, climbed the wire fence inclosing the field and walked toward Babbington, who, with hanging head, was walking slowly toward the side lines.

"Will you shake hands, Babbington?" he asked, smiling.

Babbington looked up in surprise. Then his somewhat heavy features lighted up, and the big hand shot out.

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,
HORACE R. DEWITT,
4td Treasurer of Garrett County.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive gusrantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information, address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL,
Successors to Charles A. Tower,
General Fire Insurance,
OAKLAND, MD.

We offer the best possible protection.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator.
Rockwood, Pa.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Notice is here given to the qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that a Special Election will be held at the Office of the Supervisors of Election in said town on Monday, May 4th, 1908,

from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of submitting the question, as to whether the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at its January Session, 1908, with reference to issuing Municipal bonds to the amount of $80,000 for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of Water Works and Sewerage in said town, shall be enforced or vice versa.

By order of the Council,
J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk,
Town Council of Oakland.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office "Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent, Oakland, Md.
Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets..... $18,920,603 84
Total Liabilities..... 13,659,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders..... 5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND.
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD.
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital..... $1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance..... 3,580,757 25
Reserve for all Out standing Claims..... 318,272 38
Net Surplus..... 1,118,394 25
Total Assets..... $5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND.
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up..... $1,000,000 00
Total Assets..... 2,529,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities..... 727,763 59
Surplus as regards policy holders. 2,801,701 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company..... 2,166,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Feeruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets..... $16,399,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities..... 7,895,860 74
Surplus as regards policy holders. 8,503,591 36

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoves, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor.
5-3t Frostburg, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" and save danger for Pneumonia. We say it with confidence, for we have found it fully equal to cure it afterwards. Preventics are little Cold Cure Candies. Tasteless and pleasant to take—all the sneezy grippy symptoms break up at the head of them early. That's grandly better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. 25 cents for 50 boxes for the pocket, also in 25c tins of 8 Preventics. Insist on your druggist giving you

Preventics
"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. F. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building,
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Schedule effective June 2, 1907.
OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *9.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *9.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.25 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

3 Thoroughbred Jersey Cows.

An excellent opportunity to purchase a good family cow.

1 Dark Bay Yearling Colt.

1 Five Year Old Bay Mare;

Hamiltonian; $250.

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write to
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

THE MARYLAND
AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.
COLLEGE PARK, MD.
MARYLAND'S SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY
Six Courses of Instruction
Leading to professional degree of "P. S."
Agricultural. Mechanical. Scientific.
Horticural. Civil Engineering Chemical.
Trains for a life's work.
Positions assured to those who have worked with a will.

Each Department supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. Practical work emphasized in all Departments. Graduates qualified to enter upon life's work.

Boarding Department supplied with all modern improvements—Bathrooms, Steam Heat and Electricity.

New Buildings with modern improvements.

Location unsurpassed for health. Tuition, Books, Heat, Light, Laundry, Board, Medical attention, Annual Deposit, Chemical and Athletic fees All included in an annual charge of $200 payable quarterly in advance. Daily visit by Physician in charge. Sanitarium for isolation of any patient with contagious diseases.

Catalog giving full particulars sent on application.

Attention is called to Short Course of Ten Weeks in Agriculture.

Write for particulars.

Term commences September 19th, 1907.

Early application necessary for admittance.

22-8t R. W. SILVESTER, Pres't.
College Park Md.

A Comparison.

"Some years ago, I used

Davis' 100 per cent Pure Paint

on my home, at the same time, several other houses near me were painted with other paints. There is a big contrast today between the appearance of my house and others." J. H. PRUITT, Chincoteague, Va.

If you compare adulterated paint with Davis 100 per cent Pure, you will easily know why my house painted with Davis looks well and wears well.

J. M. DAVIS & SON,
Agents.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregorie, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,

Okland, Md.

PIE AND ETIQUETTE.

Story of a Sentry Who Had Not Quite Learned His Business.

Captain Roald Amundsen, Norway's famous explorer, tells this story about a national guard encampment last summer:

"A new volunteer, who had not quite learned his business, was on sentry duty one night when a friend brought a pie from the canteen.

"As he sat on the grass eating the pie the major sauntered up in undress uniform. The sentry, not recognizing him, did not salute, and the major stopped and said:

"'What's that you have there?'

"'Pie,' said the sentry good naturedly—'apple pie. Have a bite?'

"The major frowned.

"'Do you know who I am?' he asked.

"'No,' said the sentry, 'unless you're the major's groom.'

"The major shook his head.

"'Guess again,' he growled.

"'The barber from the village.'

"'No.'

"'Maybe'—here the sentry laughed—'maybe you're the major himself.'

"'That's right; I am the major,' was the stern reply.

"The sentry scrambled to his feet.

"'Good gracious!' he exclaimed. 'Hold the pie, will you, while I present arms!'"—Harper's Weekly.

Never Could Catch 'Em.

"Yes," said Miss Passay, "I discovered a burglar in our parlor last night."

"My gracious!" put in Miss Pert. "Did you faint?"

"No; I tried to catch him, but"—

"Ah, your usual luck with men, eh?"—Philadelphia Press.

The Objection.

"Nearly everybody makes mistakes at some time or another," said the philosophic person.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne; "you can forgive anybody for making mistakes if he isn't so egotistic as to insist on your admiring them."—Washing Star.

The Play.

Manager—Now, as to the moral quality of the piece, we wish that to be very conspicuous.

Playwright—By its absence?

Manager—Oh, when it comes to mere details of method we leave everything to you, of course. We don't care how you manage it.—Puck.

A Lover's Suggestion.

"Might I suggest, sir, as long as I am going to court your daughter regularly, that you place a new comfortable armchair in your parlor? I have to work hard at the office all day, and I can't afford to have my framework worn out at night."—New York Life.

Presence of Mind.

The gallant rescue of a shipwrecked mariner.

Not Tactful.

"I met Mrs. Hardup the other day, and she looked queer and evaded me when I asked her what her husband was doing now."

"No wonder."

"Why, what is he doing?"

"Time."—Baltimore American.

Reformed.

"Do you think horse racing a crime?"

"Sure."

"But you owned a string of horses last season."

"That's just it. I was referring to the way in which my horses raced."—New York Telegram.

More Up to Date.

De Style—They say that in Mexico now the bull fighters enter the arena in automobiles.

Gunbusta—Then I suppose the toreadors will now call themselves motoreadors.—Harper's Weekly.

Popular.

Clara—What kind of face powder do you use?

Maud—Why do you ask?

"Charlie Spooner says it's the best he ever tasted."—New York Life.

The Frame.

He sent to her his photograph.
'Twas in a frame of gold,
With butterflies and ivy leaves
And starry lilies scrolled.
He went without cigars a week
And lunched on apple pie
And to and from his office walked,
The costly thing to buy.

She thanked him in a charming note
That filled his soul with bliss,
And then she took his picture out—
Oh, sly, deceitful miss!
She put her own, in regal pose,
With opera cloak and fan,
In that expensive frame and sent
It to another man.
—Minna Irving in New York Press.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C.&P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,

Table and Floor Oil Cloths,

Lace Curtains,

Dotted Swiss,

Window Blinds,

Sheets and Pillow Cases,

Table Linen, Towels,

Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Fnamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows AND Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor, Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

CHAPTER 370.

AN ACT to authorize and empower the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county to levy certain sums of money for use upon the building and grounds of the new court house in said county.

WHEREAS, By Chapter 788 of the Acts of 1906 a Commission was created to contract for the erection of a new court house for Garrett county, and the Board of County Commissioners were empowered to issue bonds bearing interest at the rate of five percent. to the amount of $75,000 for that purpose; and

WHEREAS, The Court House Commission entered into contracts based upon an expenditure of the above sum of $75,000; and

WHEREAS, When the bonds were offerred for sale by the County Commissioners, it was their judgment to place the interest at four per cent, thereby making a material saving to the county in the total interest to be paid, but on this account causing the bonds to sell below par, thus reducing the amount available to the use of the Court House Commission by $3138,50; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary that the Commission have not less than $75,000 available to meet the necessary expenses of the construction of the Court House; therefore

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand one hundred and thirty eight dollars and fifty cents ($3138.50) to be expended upon the new Court House, and that this amount be placed to the credit of the Court House Commission for Garrett county.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) or so much thereof as in their judgment may be necessary, for the substitution of stone columns in place of wood columns in the portico of the new court house; and for the necessary grading of the court house lot, after the building is completed; and for the building of necessary steps, walks, and approaches to said new building.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage,

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 514.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Friendsville," and add two new sections thereto designated as section 111J½ and 111J¾.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Friendsville," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment, and two sections added so as to read as follows:

111J. The Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have power and authority to pass ordinances to locate and condemn lands inside the corporate limits of the town of Friendsville, for sites for any public works or improvements in said town, and repairing roads, streets, lanes and alleys, and to open, locate, close, alter, widen, lengthen and relocate the same; and that whenever they shall pass an ordinance to open, locate, widen, alter, lengthen or relocate a public street, lane, road or alley, or condemn any land for a building site or other purposes, they shall immediately appoint three examiners who shall be voters and freeholders of said town, who after being sworn, and giving two weeks' notice of their appointment and time and place of meeting, go upon the ground to be condemned, or upon the street, lane, alley, or road, so proposed to open, locate, widen, lengthen, alter, or relocate such streets, lanes, alleys or roads, and shall cause the same to be surveyed by a competent surveyer, and shall estimate the damages or benefits if any, to the person or persons who own said lands so condemned, or over whose lands the proposed street, lane, alley or road, passes or whose land is in any way affected by the proposed opening, locating, widening, altering, lengthing or relocating, and shall return an account of the proceedings, under their hands to the said Mayor and Council, who before actually using said land so condemned, or opening, widening, lengthing or altering said streets, lanes, alleys, or roads as the case may be, shall pay or tender to the person or persons, his or their agents, or legal representatives, the amount of damages so awarded; and if any person shall feel aggreived by the award of said examiners, he may take an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county within ten days after said award is returned by the said examiners, and the said Mayor and Council shall thereupon file the said return in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and the court shall as soon as convenient thereafter hear and determine upon the said award, affirm the same or remand it for a new hearing, nothing herein shall prevent the said Mayor and Council from opening, locating, widening, lengthing or altering any street, lane, alley or road with the consent of the owner of the land, which shall be taken for said purposes, and to agree and pay said owner a reasonable sum therefor.

SECTION 111J½. And be it enacted, that the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall retain jurisdiction over the county roads and bridges inside the corporate limits of the town of Friendsville, and the Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have jurisdiction and supervision over all sidewalks along said county road, and regulate the speed of travel of persons on horse back or in vehicles over the county roads and bridges in Friendsville by ordinance and impose and collect fines for a violation of said ordinances.

SEC. 111J¾. And be it enacted, That at the time of making the county levy in each year the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall levy three hundred dollars to be collected by the County Treasurer and turned over to the Mayor and Council of Friendsville to be applied to and used on the road beds in the town of Friendsville.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 391.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," and to add new sections to be numbered 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and to provide for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Roads" be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, and that new sections be added to said Article 12 to be known and designated as Sections 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and that provision be made for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for Roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

200. The Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appoint annually one Road Supervisor for each Election District; and to remove any supervisor at any time, at the pleasure of said Beard, and appoint his successor.

201. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County shall appoint a Road Engineer for the County, who shall hold office for a term of four years, unless removed by a unanimous vote of the board. Before appointment he must present to the Board of County Commissioners a certificate setting forth his competency to perform the work required of him. The Board shall fix his annual compensation, and allowance for expenses, and determine the amount of bond that shall be required of him.

202. The Road Engineer shall have direct and complete charge and direction of the opening and repair of all roads and bridges in the county; he shall advise with, and direct the work of all District Supervisors; he shall furnish estimates and specifications for all new construction or repairs to roads and bridges, and shall supervise their construction whether done by labor, or contract; he shall act as surveyor to the Board of Viewers, in the opening or relocation of roads or bridges, and make plats and profiles of the same without extra charge to the county; he shall care for all tools and machinery and other material owned by the County, and see that the same is kept in repair, inspecting all bridges of twenty-five feet or over in length, at least twice annually; he shall issue an illustrated book, to be paid for by the County, giving full and detailed rules and illustrations of the methods to be followed in the making of roads by District Supervisors; he shall, between the first day of April and the first day of September in each year, keep in constant touch with District Supervisors, and go from one district to another while the work of repairs is in progress; by and with the consent of the Board of County Commissioners, he may contract for any work or material which shall not cost upward of two hundred dollars; he shall in the fall of each year make a detailed report to the Board of County Commissioners of the work which has been done in each Election District, and the cost of the same, the condition of the roads and bridges, and make any recommendationss for the ensuing year which in his judgment will be of benefit.

203. In January of each year the Board of County Commissioners shall appoint one Road Supervisor for each of the Election Districts of the county, the appointee to be named from a list furnished them as hereinafter provided in Section 206G; but nothing shall prevent their filling a vacancy at any time. They shall fix the per diem of supervisors, which shall not be less than two dollars, and determine the amount of the bond which shall be required; they shall also fix the rate per diem of hired labor, teams with driver, etc., for the ensuing year. Upon recommendation of the Road Engineer they shall purchase all necessary tools, machinery, material or other things advisable or necessary for the opening or repairing roads or bridges, and they shall at any time advertise and let all contracts for improvements costing upwards of two hundred dollars.

204. District Road Supervisors shall qualify by taking oath of office and giving bond to the County Commissioners as soon as may be after their appointment; they shall have charge of the working and repair of all roads in their respective districts, under the general direction of the Road Engineer, and may contract for the building or repair of any culvert or bridge that shall not exceed in cost the sum of ten dollars; they may hire, and pay for out of funds in their hands, such men and teams as shall be necessary for the proper working of their roads; and shall annually render an itemized statement under oath with vouchers, to the Road Engineer to be by him transmitted to the Board of County Commissioners setting forth the number of men and teams employed, with the number of days for each, and the amounts paid to each, (his own account being given separately), the total amount received by him, or placed to his credit, and the amount expended; the amount of statute labor employed and the road assessment collected by him and from whom.

205. District Supervisors shall in April in each year, or earlier if possible, make a general inspection of all the roads in their districts, noting carefully the flow of water, and the drainage that will be necessary; they shall consult abutting property owners, and may if they see fit contract for a sum less than ten dollars, with owners for doing certain specified work and repair to roads and culverts bounding upon their lands, such work to be finished not later than May thirtieth; they shall pay for all hire of men and of teams, and for material purchased, from the road funds placed to their credit with the Treasurer of Garrett county, or in their hands, and shall take receipts for all money thus paid out; they shall consult the Road Engineer upon all important repairs and shall follow whereever possible the printed instructions which the engineer shall furnish them in regard to the methods and manner of making roads.

206. The Board of County Commissioners shall annually levy upon the taxable basis of the county such an amount as they may deem necessary for the construction, maintenance, and repair of roads and bridges; when this levy is made fifteen cents on each one hundred dollars of the taxable basis of each and every separate Election District shall be set aside to the exclusive use of the roads and bridges in that particular district, the increase above that rate only going into the general road fund of the county; they shall cause the amount thus apportioned to each district to be placed in the hands of the County Treasurer, subject to the order of the Supervisor of the District.

206A. When the District Supervisors shall have given the bond required of them by the County Commissioners, all funds shall be placed to their credit, and subject to their order in the hands of the County Treasurer.

206B. Each of the District Supervisors shall do, or cause to be done all the regular annual repairs upon the roads and bridges under his control before the first day of September in each and every year; each of the District Supervisors shall be required to set aside five per cent of all the monies coming into their hands from time to time for general road repair, this money so set aside shall be used only between the first day of September and the first day of April of the following year, for the unforseen and accidental repairs of roads or bridges and for draining of roads, opening of breakers and culverts and snow drifts. Any money remaining in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of any District Supervisor at the expiration of the latter's term of office, shall be placed to the credit of the succeeding supervisor of that District.

206C. Every resident of Garrett county who shall habitually use a wagon wearing tires of three inches in width for all loads of one to two thousand pounds, and tires of four inches in width for loads of over two thousand pounds, shall receive a credit of five per cent on his annual road tax.

206D. When a public road forms the dividing line between Election Districts the County Commissioners shall opportion and designate what part of said road shall be worked by the several supervisors.

206E. Upon the petition of fifty voters, who are taxpayers of any Election District in Garrett county, addressed to the Board of County Commissioners, asking that an additional levy be made upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in that district, it shall be the duty of the County Commissioners to certify the fact in accordance with law, to the Supervisors of Elections, who shall advertise the same as in case of the submission of other questions, and shall at the next ensuing election provide for the submission of the question to the voters of that particular district only, whether or not the County Commissioners shall at their next annual levy, levy upon the taxpayers of that particular district an extra amount to be named in the petition and indicated upon the ballot, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in the district so petitioning and voting. The Supervisors of Election shall have printed on the official ballot of the district to which the proposition of an extra levy is to be submitted the words "For Proposition of Levy for Roads;" and "Against Proposition of Levy for Roads."

206F. In case the vote in accordance with the preceeding section 206E, shall be "For Proposition of Levy for Roads" then the Board of County Commissioners shall make the extra levy for roads or bridges upon the total taxable basis of the district so voting, and shall place the funds when collected, in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the Road Supervisor of that district, to be worked out by him under the direction of the Road Engineer; but if the vote be "Against Propsition of Levy for Roads" then the County Commissioners shall not levy an extra amount for roads in that district.

206G. At the respective District Primaries of the two dominant political parties of the state, held in each Election District next preceding the annual November election, the qualified voters of each of said parties, attending such party primaries shall nominate by ballot two taxpayers of their party whom they consider qualified to act as Road Supervisors from their district; and shall cause their names to be certified to by the Chairman and Secretary, or other officers of the Primary in writing, and have the same forwarded to the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county, to be put upon file by him, for the use of the Board, during the ensuing year.

SECTION 2.—And be it further enacted; That this Act shall take effect on the first day of September, 1908.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 67.

AN ACT to designate and define the boundarins of the fourteen election districts of Garrett county as now existing.

WHEREAS, No Act of the General Assembly has been passed since the formation of Garrett county in 1872, which described or defined the boundaries of all the election districts, the terms of Chapter 369 of the Acts of 1874, being very vague and unsatisfactory, and

WHEREAS, Many of the original districts have had portions of territory cut from them to form other districts, leaving their present limits without adequate description, therefore

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the boundaries of the fourteen election districts now existing in Garrett county shall be as follows:

SEC. 2. District Number One (1) shall be known as the Swanton District and shall begin on the State line upon the right bank of the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run up the south prong of said run a westerly direction to where the mud bridge crosses said run branch on the Wilson and Kitzmiller county road; then with said road crossing the top of Backbone mountain to Wilson store upon the Baltimore and Ohio railway; then by a staight line to the head of Deep creek; then down Deep creek to the mouth of Meadow Mountain run; then up Meadow Mountain run to its head; then by a straight line to the head of north branch of Middle Fork run near Buckner Mason's; then with said north fork to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 12 degree east to Thomas' Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road, westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then up the right or east bank of the Potomac river to the beginning opposite Three Fork run near Chaffee.

SEC. 3. District Number Two (2) shall be known as Selbysport District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear creek; then by a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then with the State line due north to Mason and Dixon's line; then due east with the Pennsylvania line to the point of beginning on Winding Ridge.

SEC. 4. That District Number Three (3) shall be known as the Grantsville District and shall begin at the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place and run with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head or Harton Hollow; then across to William W. Broadwater; then across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place in the "Backwoods"; then to Horse pond or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross' residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Spiker's former place where the county road from Bittinger to Engles Mills crosses the mountain top; then in a straight line in a northerly course to the forks of the Morgantown road and the National Pike west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon's line; then with it due east to a point which is due north of the west side of what was formerly know as Recknor's tavern upon the old National Pike; then by a due south line from the above point and round west of Recknor's Tavern south to the intersection of said line with Mud Lick run; then down Mud Lick run to its mouth at Savage river; then down Savage river to the bridge over said river near John Wilhelm's place, the point of beginning.

SEC. 5. District Number 4 shall be known as Bloomington District and shall begin in the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Folly run, and run thence down the Potomac to a point south of the center of the mouth of Savage river; then north to the center of the mouth of Savage river; thence with the line of Allegany to the intersection of said line with Mill run; then up Mill run to the head of the west fork of said run; then by a straight line to the old ford in Savage river; then up said river to the mouth of Bear Pen run; then up Bear Pen run to its head near James Reshe's place; then by a straight line to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 20 degrees east to Thomas Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river, the point of beginning.

SEC. 6. District Number 5 shall be known as Accident District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear Creek; then in a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then by a straight line to the summit of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of county roads at the old West place; then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with the crest of Negro mountain in a northerly direction to where the county road from Bittinger to Engle Mills crosses said mountain; then by a straight line a notherly direction to the forks of the Morgantown road and the old National Turnpike, west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon line; then with it due west to Winding Ridge and the point of beginning.

SEC. 7. District Number 6 shall be known as Sang Run District and shall begin at the mouth of White Rock run on the Youghiogheny river and run thence by a straight line to the top of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of the county road at the old West place, then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the headspring of Meadow Mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then down Meadow Mountain run to Deep Creek; then down Deep Creek to its mouth on the Yohghiogheny river; then up the said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run: then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due north with the State line to its intersection with White Rock run or a point due west of the head of said run; then to and down White Rock run to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 8. District Number 7 shall be known as East Oakland District and shall begin at the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner, and run in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep Creek; then up Deep Creek to the State dam; then by a straight line to a point designated as "the burnt school house"; then by a straight line to the Head spring on Broad Ford run; then with Broad Ford run to its mouth on Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn, and running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso gap to the summit of the mountain; then running along the crest of the Back Bone mountain in a southwesterly direction to the point where the old Moorefield turnpike formerly crossed said mountain; then with the outline of the old Moorefield turnpike in a westerly direction to the Mason county road; then with the Mason road to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner, the point of beginning.

SEC. 9. District Number 8 shall be known as Ryans Glade district and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner; then with the Mason road to where the old Moorefield road crossed the said Mason road; then with the old Moorefield road eastward to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then with the crest of the said mountain northeasterly to the county road leading from Mountain Lake to Ryans Glade; then with said Ryans Glade road to the forks of the road at the M. E. church; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river to its source; then with the State line due north to the beginning at the intersection of Rhine fork of Youghiogheny river

SEC. 10. Be it enacted, That District Number 9 shall be known as Jonnson District and shall begin on the summit of Great Savage mountain where said mountain is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line and run with the line of Alleghany county to where said line intersects Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line, crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then up Savage river to the mouth of Mudlick run; then up said run to a point from which a line drawn due north will pass just west of a point which was formerly known as the Recknor tavern upon the old National Pike; then from the above described point, on Mudlick run due north to Mason and Dixon's line; thence with Mason and Dixon's line due east to the summit of Savage mountain, the point of beginning.

SEC. 11. District Number 10 shall be known as Deer Park District and shall begin at the State dam across Deep creek east of Thayerville and run by a straight line to the burnt school house on Hoop-pole Ridge; then by a straight line to the head of Broad Ford run; then with said run to where it empties into Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn; then running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso's gap to the M. E. church in Ryans Glade at the forks of the Ryans Glade and Altamont roads; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right and east bank of the Potomac river near Schell; then down the right or east bank of the river to a point opposite the mouth of Lost Land run; then up the north prong of Lost Land run to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then along the crest of the mountain in a northeasterly direction to where the county road leading from Kitzmillerville to Wilson's store crosses said mountain; then with the county road to Wilson's store upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railway; then by a straight line to the head of Deep Creek; then down with Deep Creek to the State dam, and the point of beginning.

SEC. 12. District Number 11 shall be known as the Elbow District and shall begin on Mill run at a point where the line dividing Allegany and Garrett counties intersects said run; and run with the line of Allegany county to the intersection of said line with Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then running with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head of Horton Hollow; thence across to William W. Broadwater's; thence across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place; then down Bear Pen run to Savage river; then down with said river to the old ford; thence by a straight line to the head of the west fork of Mill run; then down Mill run to the point of beginning.

SEC. 13. District Number 12 shall be known as Bittinger District and shall begin at the head of Bear Pen run near the James Resh place in the Backwoods, and run thence to Horse Pond, or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Speicher's former place; then with the top of said mountain southward to the county road leading from John Harman's to the town of Accident; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the head spring of Meadow mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then to the head of north branch of Middle fork, near Buckner Mason's; then with said North fork to the month of Black Hawk run; then by a straight line to the head of Bear Pen run at James Reshe's, the point of beginning.

SEC. 14. District Number 13 shall be known as Kitzmillerville District and shall begin on the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run thence with said Three Forks run in a westerly direction up the South prong to where the said bridge crosses said branch on the Wilson and Kitzmillerville county road; then with said road to the top of Back Bone mountain; thence with the crest of said mountain in a southwesterly direction to a point due north of the north-east branch of Lost Land run; then to and down with the meanders of said run to its mouth and to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then down with the river to the beginning opposite the mouth of Three Forks run.

SEC. 15. District Number 14 shall be known as West Oakland District and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine Fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner; then in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep creek; then down Deep creek to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river; then up said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run; then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due south with the State line to the beginning, on Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 16. Be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Approved March 10, 1908.

CHAPTER 550.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof before a Justice of the Peace or the Circuit Court for Garrett county, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars and stand committed until said fine and costs are paid or be released by due process of law.

SEC. 3. Be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT for the further protection of pheasant, partridges or quail, woodcock, wild turkeys and rabbits in Garrett County.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That no Person, corporation or company, shall at any time kill or expose for sale, transport, have in possession any pheasant, partridge, or quail, Woodcock, wild turkey and rabbit, after the same has been killed for any purpose, except for consumption or food within Garrett county; nor kill, expose for sale, or have in possession any of the above named game, with the intention of sending or transporting or having the same sent or transported beyond the limits of said county; provided that nothing herein shall prevent the barter or sale of such game for house consumption only by residents of said county, provided also, that nothing herein shall prevent non-residents who have taken out license to hunt in said county from taking with them out of said county any of the above named game which they may have killed in said county.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett county, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars, and not more than one hundred dollars, for each offence, and stand committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid, or until released by due process of law. One half of said fine to go to the informer or informers, upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect on the date of its passage.

Approved February 25, 1908.

CHAPTER 564.

AN ACT to repeal Section 183 and the five succeeding Sections of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, known as Poe's Code, Edition of 1904, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," in so far as said sections apply to Garrett county.

SEATION 1. And be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 183 and the five succeeding section of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," be and the same are hereby repealed in so far as they relate to Garrett county, as to which county the mortgage tax is hereby repealed, but this repeal shall not affect the mortgage tax in Worcester, Wicomico, Somerset, Garrett, Carroll, Howard, Montgomery, Frederick and Dorchester counties but shall be and remain in full force and effect in said counties.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1908. NUMBER 9

MRS. MARGARET C. GETTY.

Tribute to The Memory of an Amiable Lady.

To the Editor of THE REPUBLICAN:

Margaret Cross Getty, widow of the late Hon. Wm. R. Getty, deceased on the 22nd of April, 1908, at her quiet home in Grantsville, Garrett county, from a long and wasteful sickness of a complicated nature, in her 71st year. Death was slow in its arrival, but sure with many warnings of the sad event, but not of the day or hour. Yet she was prepared and willing to answer the summons which has brought sadness and grief to many hearts. Many are they who have lost a devoted friend in the death of Margaret Getty. She was kind, amiable, friendly and sociable in her ways, and manners, at all times, hence the plentitude of friendship for her. Nature had granted her a full share of womanly ladyship, which she kept to the end.

Her husband, W. R. Getty, died in September, 1902, at the ripe age of 70 years. His loss is still felt by the whole people of the county and the vacuum caused by his death is still unfilled. No extended remarks as to him need be made here. His useful life still speaks for him and itself.

Mrs. Getty was happily married under the name of Margaret Cross to her late husband in July, 1854, in what is now Garrett county. Her father was Uriah Cross, who died several years ago, a veteran soldier in the civil war. Five willing sons, brothers of this subject, followed him in the same service. A fine exhibit in the line of patriotsm. She was tenderly put away to her final rest in the Grantsville cemetery, by the side of her departed husband.

The two parents left eight children, six sons and two daughters: Dr. Oliver G. Getty, Alvin F., J. Clarence, deceased, John O., Charles B. and Leonard E., a minor. The daughters are Ellen B., wife of Dr. G. Keller, and Francis B., wife of Dr. Bruce Leichty.

OLD ACQUAINTANCE.

April 24, 1908.

Building An Addition.

Rev. John M. Davis is having an addition of two rooms and bath erected to his residence on Second street. To make room for the new building the old portion of the house had to be razed. That part torn down was probably the oldest building in the town. It originally stood near where the Baltimore and Ohio station is now located and was moved to the Davis lot many years ago. The timbers were in a splendid state of preservation.

Call for Your Letters.

Mrs. Frank Collins, Mr. W. E. Crawford, Miss Vena Kennedy, Miss Lee Kesner, Mr. T. L. Martin, J. O. Teats, Miss Edna Ward, Mrs. Flora Wolf.

Subscribe for the Repubilcan.

THE COUNTY TAX RATE WAS FIXED AT $1.06.

Notwithstanding Extraordinary Appropriations The Rate Kept Down.

COMMISSIONERS ARE COMMENDED

Indreased Appropriations Amount to More Than $14,000. The Bulk of Which Will Be Used For Court House and to Pay Off Bonds.

The following was prepared for publication in this paper last week, but owing to a press of other matter it was crowded out:

The Board of County Commissioners, which was in session last week making the annual levy, adjourned on Friday, after having provided for the financial needs of the county for the year.

The levy was signed early on Friday morning, the tax rate for county purposes being fixed at $1.06 on the $100. The state rate of taxation being 16 cents on the $100 the taxes for state and county purposes for the present year will therefore be $1.22, a net increase over the rate last year of 13 cents.

The Commissioners had a number of extraordinary appropriations to make, namely: One of $5,000 to pay off accruing bonds for the new court house; $6,133.50 as an additional fund for the completion and furnishing of the court house; a levy of nearly $2,500 in excess of last year's figures for road purposes, and an additional levy of $1,000 for the public schools, which totals $14,600 more than was appropriated last year. In addition to these figures many other items of less amounts, but aggregating a considerable sum had to be provided for.

In view of the above exposition of the work done by the Board they are to be congratulated for keeping the rate as low as it is.

Must Pay Full Rate.

G. L. Potter, third vice president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, has issued an order that hereafter employes of that road must pay the full express rates and that no more express matter will be carried free of charge. This order is said to be the result of complaints made by the express companies and will effect every trainman on the line, as well as some of the higher officials. It has been customary for the men in charge of baggage and express cars to handle express matter for trainmen without charge. The practice was extended to all parts of the system and the express companies claim to have lost thousands of dollars.

Subscribe for THE REPUBLICAN.

GARRETT COUNTY'S OLDEST CITIZEN DEAD.

James Kisner, Aged One Hundred Years, Died Sunday Near Deer Park.

On Sunday last, at the home of Samuel Williams, near Deer Park, Garrett county's oldest citizen, in the person of James Kisner, died of infirmities incident to advanced age. The deceased was one hundred years old and was born in this county, where he resided his entire lifetime. His funeral took place on Tuesday, the interment being made near the home where his death occured.

THE DEATH RECORD.

H. BECKWITH MORELAND.

On April 22nd, at the age of 81 years, eleven months and twenty-two days, H. Beckwith Moreland died at the home of his son Mr. J. E. Moreland, near German, Garrett county.

BABY LOWER.

At Loch Lynn Heights on last Saturday, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Lower died after a short illness. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. E. J. Westfall, of the M. E. church.

EMORY E. HINEBAUGH.

Died, Saturday last, at his residence in Baltimore, after many months of suffering with tuberculosis, Emory E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hinebaugh, of Oakland, aged forty years. The deceased was the third eldest son of this well known and highly respected Christian couple. He was a member of one the Lutheran churches in Baltimore. The funeral took place in that city Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. P. A. Hileman, of the Lutheran church.

MRS. THOMAS CARR.

Died, at her home in Morgantown, W. Va., on Thursday of last week, Mrs. Thomas Carr, aged 71 years. The deceased lady will be remembered by many of Oakland's residents as the wife of the late Thomas Carr, who for many years was supervisor of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, being stationed and residing in Oakland. Mr. Carr died several years ago at Morgantown, to which city the family removed from Piedmont, W. Va. In the latter place Mrs. Carr's funeral took place on Saturday. She leaves a large family of grown children.

THOMAS BENTON FLOWER.

Thomas Benton Flower, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Flower, of Alexander, W. Va., formerly of Garrett county, died at his home in Gassaway, W. Va., March 28th, 1908, of typhoid-pneumonia and complication of diseases, aged 37 years and 9 days, after a lingering illness of three months. He was patient throughout his entire illness and was ready to meet his Master. He was loved and respected by all who knew him.

Mr. Flower was twice married, his first wife being Miss Ella McDonnell of Grafton, deceased, and his second wife was Carrie Martin, of Minneapolis, Minn.

He leaves to mourn his sad taking away a wife, father, mother, four brothers and five sisters.

His funeral service was conducted by Rev. Clark, of the M. E. church, of Buckhannon.

JOSEPH KENNETH RENNINGER.

In the death of Kenneth, the twenty-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius C. Renninger, of Oakland, which occurred at the residence of Mr. Julius Scherr, at Eglon, the loving parents of this bright little jewel suffered a sorrow which comes sooner or later to all, for death is a certainty. The little one was taken ill two weeks prior to its demise with typhoid fever and while everything that medical skill could suggest was done for the relief of the child it gradually grew weaker until its sufferings were released by the visitation of the Death Angel, which came with the setting of the sun on Thursday April 23rd, and bore its spirit to the eternal home above. To Mr. and Mrs. Renninger the sympathy of THE REPUBLICAN is extended. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, being concucted by Rev. E. Manges, of St. Mark's Ev. Lutheran church of Oakland, the interment being made at Eglon.

CONRAD C. MICHAEL.

Died, at the county hospital where he had been cared for since being brought to Oakland from Allegany City, Pa., several weeks ago, Conrad C. Michael, aged seventy-four years. The deceased had been a great sufferer from epilepsy for many years and his demise was not at all surprising to his friends and relatives. Mr. Michael was an ex-Union soldier, having enlisted at the age of 27 years in Co. O, Sixth West Virginia Infantry, and at the close of the war he was honorably discharged from service. During his period of enlistment the command to which Mr. Michael was attached rendered valuable service to the Government by partolling the line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, over which great masses of men and munitions of war were transported from the east to the west and vice versa. The deceased was a corporal of his company for a period of several months prior to his discharge. His funeral took place from St. Paul's M. E. church in Oakland on Monday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, the services at the church being conducted by Revs. John M. Davis and J. B. Workman. At the cemetery the members of the Grand Army Post of Oakland conducted the service. Mr. Michael leaves a wife, two sons and three daughters and hosts of friends to regret his death.

JOHN CROWE.

Mr. John Crowe, one of the best known and oldest residents of Garrett county, died at his home on Little Savage Mountain about five miles west of Lonaconing about 3 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon, at the age of 89 years. Mr. Crowe was one of the pioneers of that section and was one of the oldest citizens of the county. Mr. Crowe was the owner of one of the finest farms in that section of Garrett county, and was considered to be quite well-to-do. He is survived by his wife and a large family of grown children, most of them married and having families of their own. The funeral took place Friday morning at ten o'clock from the home. The interment was made in Blocher's cemetery.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by Potomac Castle No. 17, A. O. K. of M. C., of Blaine, W. Va., April 21st, 1908.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God in His wise and infinite wisdow to sever our chain and take therefrom one of our links in the person of our beloved brother Wm. Sharpless; therefore be it

Resolved, That we murmer not against the command of our Supreme Ruler, realizing that our brother has just been transfered to and made a part of that eternal chain that will never be severed, but the links remain continually bright; and be it further

Resolved, That while we miss his form and voice from our Castle chamber and his home has a vacant chair, that it remains for us to decide whether we will meet the departed where fraternal nor kindred ties are never broken; and be it further

Resolved, that we as a fraternity extent the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and cause to be sent to them a copy of these resolutions and cause the same to be printed in our local papers and spread on the minutes of our Castle

Submitted in L. O. & F.

L. C. HAMILL,
D. W. WILT,
S. C. RICE,
Committee.

GRANTSVILLE.

Don't forget the temperance rally on the night of May 3rd, in the M. E. church at Grantsville.

Our community has been saddened by the death of Mrs. Wm. R. Getty. She leaves to mourn her loss seven children and several brothers and sisters. That she was well and favorably known was witnessed by the large concourse that followed her to her last resting place. She had been a faithful member of the Reformed church for a number of years, attending the services whenever it was possible to do so. The family have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. Josiah Durst died Saturday morning, April 25. Interment will be made in our home cemetary this morning, 27th, at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Durst died of typhoid fever. She leaves eight children, and several brothers and sisters to mourn her loss. Mrs. Durst was a kind and faithful wife and mother and had many friends. She was a member of the Lutheran church and was regular in her attendance. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of the community.

We are glad to have Prof. Loraditch with us again.

Miss Joe Callahan, of Ohio, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Englehart, of Accident, is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Augustine.

Misses Nannie and Grace Yutzy are in town.

Normal here started off very favorable with about thirty scholars. We hope to see many more.

METHODISTS WILL BUY THE ISON PROPERTY

Located on Fourth Street As a Home For The Minister.

OLD PARSONAGE ANTIQUATED.

Needed Repairs to Present Building Considered a Waste of Money and a Structure to Harmonize With Surroundings Urged.

The congregational meeting of the membership of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church held on Sunday evening last to consider the advisability of purchasing a new home for the pastor of the church or to have the old parsonage repaired, decided upon the former proposition and instructed the Board of Trustees of the church to purchase the Ison residence on Fourth street, upon which an option at a stipulated price has been held by the church officials for a month past.

The matter of providing for the comfort of the pastor and his family in the way of a home commensurate with their needs and to be in harmony with the surrounding property, has been a most vexatious one for a long time past. The old building has been in use for nearly half a century, and in that length of time has become antiquated and badly in need of repairs. To make the house comfortable would require the expenditure of a considerable sum and in the end the property would not be architecturally modern or convenient.

The Ison property is well adapted to the requirements and with the expenditure of a few hundred dollars the property can be put in the best of repair.

The purpose of the congregation in making the purchase of the Ison house is to hold it until the church is financially able to erect a new parsonage on the site now occupied by the old one, at which time the property authorized to be purchased will be disposed of and the new building erected.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: The Mission of the Holy Spirit.—John 16, 1-24.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

SAW MILL FIRE.

In Which Local People Lose Considerable Property.

The saw mill located at Rowan's Siding, on the Western Maryland Railroad, two miles south of Bloomington in this county, was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin Monday night of this week. The mill had not been in operation since Saturday, the engine having been dismantled and taken to Piedmont for repairs, and there is little possibility of the fire having been otherwise than of an incendiary nature.

The mill was recently purchased by the Ashby Lumber Company of Oakland, which corporation operated it with a large force of men. Nothing but oak and other hardwoods were manufactured at the plant, the product being sold for export.

By the burning of the mill a number of men will be thrown out of employment, among them being several who moved to the place from Oakland and vicinity when it was acquired by the Ashby Company.

So far as can be learned there was no insurance and the loss will probably be three thousand dollars.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Mrs. Geo. Frazee is visiting her parents and friends at her old home, Addison, Pa.

Miss Minnie Liston, who has been in Watsondale for some time, made her parents a visit Saturday and Sunday, returning on Monday morning.

Our sick list includes Mrs. Mary Frantz, acute tonsilities, and Bula Ross, typhoid fever.

Mr. Thos. Fike opened a summer school here on Tuesday morning, April 28th. We hope he may have a successful school as he is a very good instructor, and well able to manage same.

Mr. Bruce Mitchel and wife were in in Romney, W. Va., last week attending the funeral of his grandmother.

Mr. Geo. D. Browning, who has been spending a few days in town returned to Swallow Falls on Monday.

Clarence Nicklow, who was visiting friends in Confluence and Addison last week, returned on Saturday.

Mrs. Geo. R. Long and little daughter are visiting friends and relatives in Connellsville and Uniontown at this writing.

Mrs. Arthur Chisholm gave a party, to her young friends on Tuesday of last week, which was well attended and all reported a fine time.

Four Per Cent. Interest.

The First National Bank, Friendsville, pays four per cent. interest on time deposits. Place your money in this bank where its earning capacity will be greater than in any other banking institution in the county.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
Friendsville, Md.

DIXON & KELSO

Will make a cut of 20 per cent. on their $2,000.00 Clothing Stock consisting of Clothing of every description.

Yours to Please,
DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Dessirable Clothing For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

FUNNY STORIES EMINATED FROM THE CLOAK ROOM

At Least That is The Popular Impression of Congressional Anecdotes.

MINISTER WU WANTS TO KNOW.

The Distinguished Chinese Diplomat Who Resolves Himself Into An Animated Interrogation Point Upon All Occasions.

Washington, April 28.—He wore a frock coat, a wide-rimmed, soft black hat and his shoes squeaked. He wanted to see the cloak room of the Senate.

"I've read so many funny stories about Senators" he said, "and every one of them happened in the cloak room—except a few which were told at the water-cooler," he added, on reflection.

When he was shown the cloak room, he was surprised. Evidently he had pictured in his mind's eye a cloak room all cluttered up with assorted garments, no matter what the weather was, and made uninhabitable by mud-splattered goloshes, damp, smelly raincoats, umbrellas in corners and all that sort of thing.

This visitor is only one of those who have an imaginative idea of what the cloak room is like. It is doubtful whether half a dozen people outside of those who live in Washington, or who have been here in a more or less intimate capacity have ever seen the cloak room.

The reality is much different from the imagined. The cloak rooms, as all who have seen them know, are furnished with great attention to solid comfort. They are good places to lounge about and tell stories—that's why so many stories are "hung" on the cloak rooms.

Some of the lounging rooms of fairly prominent clubs are insignificant compared to the government cloak rooms. The thick carpet is scrumptions; there is a profusion of chairs, every one of them inviting and comfortable, and a half a dozen comfortable davenports are scattered about.

In the old days, when a member could register as John Smith and Jag, the davenports about the cloak rooms—both Democratic and Republican — worked overtime. One could often see a statesman having his nap. Nowadays, when nothing stronger than tea is served in the Capitol restaurants and drunkenness is looked upon as bad form in a legislator, there is little sleeping in the cloak room. But they are popular places.

In these rooms the burdens roll away from the minds of the statesmen; the legislative back unbends and a smile chases away the wrinkles of dignity and deep thought. They tell stories, laugh at jokes, josh one another, and, if they are in the mood, sometimes broil everyone from the President to the page boy, from the Constitution to the eighteenth assistant secretary of state who does not know his place.

Sometimes they fry each other on the pan and there is generally an interested audience when one Senator has a little something to say to another.

Correspondents who are keen for good stories usually pay great attention to the cloak room gossip. There is always something interesting being talked about. And, again, correspondents know that the cloak room is the proper place to mention as the scene of a funny incident or a comic story.

Minister Wu, who has been back in Washington as the representative of the Chinese government for several weeks, is a much-changed man. He has not been asking questions.

While his disposition to interrogate is not entirely suppressed, he does not seek nearly as much information as when he was here before.

Several years ago on meeting an admirer, Minister Wu would look blandly and innocently while he asked, without any preliminary leading up to the subject: "How old are you?"

On being informed, he would ask in what month his visitor was born. Then he would follow with a half hundred other questions, many of them rather puzzling, but in the end, the visitor was rather pleased than otherwise that the Chinese minister was sufficiently interested to interrogate.

Senator Burkett, of Nebraska, caused the Senators to sit up and take notice a few days ago when he shatteree a tradition by deliberately proceeding to flay Senator Hale, of Maine. Senator Hale is the second or third oldest Senator, but he is more—he is the custodian of traditions and the emeritus of the dignity of the Senate.

Senator Burkett is scarcely 40 years old. He had often heard that Senator Hale represents as does no other man—and as no other man ever did—the theory that to the elders belong all the rights of the Senate. He knew it was regarded as a fearful and awesome thing to be called down by the elderly Senator and he knew that few courted this fate. Senator Burkett did not care very much, however, for when he considered that it was necessary he essayed a little calling down himself.

Senator Hale had moved a reconsideration of the army appropriation bill. Incidentally, in making that motion, he mentioned that the country was running riot with extravagance in its war department.

Mr. Burkett frankly accused Senator Hale of withholding his criticisms until after the bill was passed and then using his position to play politics on the floor.

Everyone expected to see Burkett struck by lightning—but he wasn't.

The recent feeling developed by disputes with Venezulela recalls the fact that it is now three years since President Castro, of Venezuela, announced that he had serious designs of landing at New Orleans with an army of 100,000 men and proceeding on a triumphal contest through the United States.

At that time, the assertion accredited to Castro was regarded as a huge joke, notwithstanding that those who know the man could well understand that he might, possibly, really believe such a campaign possible.

But the fact remains that the United States army and navy authorities have since taken steps to figure out how to handle any possible disturbances with Central American countries. The war department is marvelously well-informed concerning the rest of the three American.

Cuba was the first foreign soil to be brought under the observation of American engineers and map makers. Then the whole Caribbean region was charted. Trouble in South America might eventually result from enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine, therefore it was deemed expedient to map that country. And now, if it is found necessary to send an expedition to Venezuela, there would be a plan waiting for handling every detail.

Stop that tickling Cough! Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure will surely stop it, and with perfect safety. It is so thoroughly harmless, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers to use nothing else even with very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung healing mountainous shrub furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. All dealers.

Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale the Joseph WeWitt farm, containing 78½ acres, located one and a-half miles northeast of Hoyes. For information, terms, etc., address Mrs. Maggie DeWitt, 45 Golf street, Dayton, Ohio.

PROJECT THAT PAYS.

Make Your Town the Heart of the Community.

CO-OPERATION A BIG FACTOR.

How a Town and the Surrounding Country Are Dependent on Each Other—Value of Loyalty to Home Institutions.

Does the average individual owe allegiance to any body or anything? Is he always sufficient unto himself, or is he dependent upon and does he likewise contribute to others efforts?

These are questions which can best be discussed by considering the conditions as they are found in any prosperous community, and one will answer for all, says Guy T. Mitchell in Maxwell's Talisman. We will assume that the native resources of this particular locality are ample. The soil is fertile and mellow, the methods of farming are good, the crops are uniformly heavy, and the farmers are prosperous. Under normal conditions the towns of such a rural district should share this prosperity. Here we find one which partakes of this condition. The visitor observes that the houses are well built, the grounds well kept and the homes attractive and artistic. He is impressed at once with the fact that the value of the beautiful is appreciated by the citizens and that the spirit of co-operation is abroad. But why should perhaps the very next town or village, not ten miles distant, surrounded by the same good farming land, support conditions the exact reverse? Why should its houses and stores be so poorly built, inartistic, gauch and with no attempt at beauty, with no idea that the mellowing influence of time shall enhance rather that diminish their attractiveness? Why are there so few yards well kept, with shade trees and green lawns and ornamental shrubs and flower beds, and why, in every way, should there be such a general appearance of neglect and unthrift.

What is the reason for the difference?

Because it will be found that in every progressive community a small coterie of energetic, public spirited men and women have systematically gone about the improvement of their homes. They have set examples; they have devoted themselves to fostering the spirit of local pride, of home town work; they have determined to make their town a place most satisfactory to live in, a town of beauty, convenience and health; they have directed their energies toward making their town the real heart of the surrounding community. Every town, every village, is the center, the heart of the surrounding country. It may be a weak, inactive heart, scarcely carrying its feeble impulse into the arteries which ramify to the country-side, or it may be a strong, enthusiastic, pulsating heart, carrying the current of its influence vigorously into the remotest corner of the territory it dominates.

Just as we are considered as a nation practically sufficient unto ourselves, so as citizens of different states we are loyal to home institutions—state pride is a most healthy attribute—and to carry the idea still further we may with profit support the institutions of our individual communities. But as individual citizens we are incomplete. For a full measure of prosperity we must depend upon us. As every dollar that is sent out of the United States to Europe or elsewhere for the purchase of things which we have at home is a distinct loss to the country, so money sent out of our particular state into another state enriches that state at the expense of our own, which it is equally true that our individual community suffers to the same extent through the purchase of goods in distant places which we might buy at home.

The heart of the community is worth stimulating, worth nourishboth from within and without, for it is the central force which makes of the community a virile, active and aggressive place. As an instance of the value to the entire community of the activity of the heart, take the case of an up to date Iowa town of some 18,000 to 20,000 population. A few years ago the place supported two miserable little hotels. On the road, among the traveling men, that great moving army throughout the west, this town was known as "rotten." The drummers skipped the town when possible, or if they had to make it they came in on one train and out on the next. They got through their business as expeditiously as possible, even slighting it to get to the next place on their route, where good meals and a good night's lodging could be had; then the town concluded that its business required a good hotel, and while the people were about it they put up a "swell" one. Now every traveling man likes to make ——. He stays over Sunday there. He stays there as long as he can and canvasses every store for the sale of his goods. What is the result of simply having this fine hotel? The stores have a full line of goods of all descriptions, the people of the community come to town to buy, for they can get what they want, and the merchants do a big business.

A good farming community buys much. The people live well and raise a wholesome variety of products, but they buy through the year many things. According to census statistics, the average of the farmers of the United States spends $627 a year for supplies—clothing for the family, household utensils, food that is not raised at home, farm implements, etc. This is the average. Some buy more, some much less. Now, this means a large circulation of money, perhaps $300,000 or $400,000 expended annually by the farmers within five or six miles of any small town. How and where do they spend it? Is the town itself such as to impress them with the feeling that it is the real heart of their community? Is it a pretty town, a beautiful town, in which they cannot but feel just pride? Has it wide, well kept streets and good roads leading into it over which it is a delight to drive either with a light buggy or a heavily laden wagon carrying a load of produce to market? Has it long rows of shade trees and some public parking to make it attractive? Are its citizens taking a pride in making their own grounds and yards beautiful and their houses vine covered and not commonplace? In short, is it such a place as a man may be glad to visit, to patronize and to call "his town" and where as he retires in his later years from the active work of farm life he may move or look forward to moving into and be coming himself a resident?

The poorer classes of Italian and Chinese laborers earn their wages in our country and send it away—to their homes. For that reason they are not desirable citizens. The member of the community who sends his money out of the community either for investment or to purchase the necessities and luxuries of life is pursuing a course as detrimental to the community as does the foreigner who sends his money away. And he is acting against his own best interests. Take the outlying farms of any small town. They will not have to be exceptionally rich to produce half a million dollars' value from the soil in a year over and above the home consumption. Can any one doubt that with that sum flowing through the heart of the community year after year the heart will not strengthen and grow—double—and be able to send back through its channels a stream of prosperity and increased value to the farms out of which it is the growth, that the entire community will not be the stronger? The community will become a better place to live, in both the town and country section. The town will afford a better market for the sale of the products of agriculture, and it will be a better place in which to buy things. It will have better schools, more churches, and if the spirit of local civic improvement is fostered it will become constantly more beautiful, more attractive, more influential.

With the spirit of co operative effort stimulated in a community, great things have been accomplished. Through persistence in pulling together communities have grown and thrived where the natural advantages have been poor. They have forged ahead and passed other communities with far greater natural advantages where the spirit of co-operation has been dormant.

The man who has pride in his home town and who, if it does not meet his ideal, works and strives to arouse enthusiasm in others to make it such is the best of citizens. He is worth dollars to the community. He may be advancing his own interests, but he is likewise increasing the market value of the community. He is helping his town, the heart of the community, and therefore the community. He is entitled to the support of its citizens, their enthusiastic support and co-operation.

C. O. D. LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

An Industry in West Virginia Finally Suppressed.

A consent order has been entered by Judge Nathan Goff, of the United States Circuit Court for this circuit whereby the United States Express Company may not longer receive or deliver in any part of West Virginia C. O. D. shipments of intoxicating liquors.

The case in which this has been ordered is the injunction suit of the Crescent Liquor Company et al vs. the United States Express Company, which has been pending in the Federal Circuit Court for a year or more. At the institution of the suit the federal court granted the plaintiff liquor companies a temporary injunction, by which the express company was compelled to accept and deliver C. O. D. liquor pending the hearing of the case. Judge Alston G. Dayton, of the Federal District Court, of this district, had decided shortly before in other cases that the express company and its agents were indictable in particular instances for delivering C. O. D. liquor, so the conflict between the two federal courts was marked.

The order now entered, which was consented to by both parties to the controversy is in a sense a victory for Judge Goff. Moreover, it no doubt puts an end to the C. O. D. liquor traffic in West Virginia, which was developing, particularly among the "dry" counties, into considerable proportions.

A Business Proposition

Did you ever stop to think, Mr. Business Man, that the news of your business is as much a part of the local events as a wedding or a church fair? The ladies are just as much interested in a new fabric you have on the shelves as they are in any home happening. Your store news and anouncements in these columns will reach a large circle of eager buyers. This will enable you to sell your goods while they are new and fresh and you will not have to sacrifice later at remnant counter prices. Think it over.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

GOOD ROADS APOSTLE.

Charles Thatcher Advocates Highway From Ocean to Ocean.

Preaching the gospel of good roads, Charles Thatcher, a resident of Wheeling, W. Va., is now traveling from city to city endeavoring to interest the citizens of the nation in permanent highways and primarily one or more great arteries for vehicle travel from ocean to ocean, says a Bloomington (Ill.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean. While he was in Bloomington his curbstone talks to the audiences, attracted by the unique outfit accompanying him, were marked by earnestness and enthusiasm. He is not working any grafting or advertising dodge. No one is asked for money, and he has nothing to sell. For this reason he is attracting attention and is winning supporters in his movement.

After a residence of some years in the far west he became imbued with the idea that the absence of good roads leading from the east to the west was a serious handicap to the latter and that the possession of good roads would attract tourists in their automobiles and assist in developing the country. He decided to travel from city to city and not only try to arouse interest in the movement, but to secure signatures to petitions asking the president and congress to take some action. He will reach Washington late this year and will lay his petitions before President Roosevelt and ask him to use his influence to introduce a resolution in congress to investigate the project. Thatcher travels in a light buggy and is attired in regulation cowboy costume. His outfit is pulled by two western burros, and when he reaches a city he is always sure of an audience. He aims to attend all meetings in the interest of good roads.

His third road will tap New Orleans and thence via the southern tier of states to California. North and south roads extending from the great cities to the main highways are also planned. He has planned a road connecting Chicago and St. Louis which will pass through Bloomington and Springfield. He believes that congress should co-operate with the various states in the construction of these roads, thereby keeping the expense divided equally between the states crossed. Thatcher has traveled 7,000 miles in his unique tour of education and believes that he has inaugurated a movement which will not die.

Last Notice to Delinquent Tax Payers.

As County Treasurer my term of office expires during the month of April and I desire to settle up my books at an early a date as possible, I therefore give this as the last notice to delinquent tax payers that if taxes due and in arrear for the years 1906 and 1907 are not paid on or before May 1st next I will collect same in the manner prescribed by law, much as I regret to pursue this course. All delinquents, therefore, will please take notice that unless they make settlement as above I will in justice to myself and the financial interests of the county, be compelled to adhere strictly to the law, which, if invoked will add costs in many cases often exceeding the amount of taxes involved.

Very respectfully,
HORACE R. DEWITT,
4td Treasurer of Garrett County.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
73 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscr of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained, the Orphans' Court of Garrett Cou Maryland, Letters of Administration personal estate of ANNA BOGER. late of Garrett county, deceased. persons having claims against the dec are hereby warned to exhibit the same vouchers thereof legally authenticat the subscriber, on or before the 12th September next; they may otherwise be excluded from all benefit of said All persons knowing themselves indeb said estate are requested to make imm payment.

Given under my hand this 12th March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNI
Administr
Rockwoo

CHAPTER 370.

AN ACT to authorize and empower the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county to levy certain sums of money for use upon the building and grounds of the new court house in said county.

WHEREAS, By Chapter 788 of the Acts of 1906 a Commission was created to contract for the erection of a new court house for Garrett county, and the Board of County Commissioners were empowered to issue bonds bearing interest at the rate of five percent. to the amount of $75,000 for that purpose; and

WHEREAS, The Court House Commission entered into contracts based upon an expenditure of the above sum of $75,000; and

WHEREAS, When the bonds were offerred for sale by the County Commissioners, it was their judgment to place the interest at four per cent, thereby making a material saving to the county in the total interest to be paid, but on this account causing the bonds to sell below par, thus reducing the amount available to the use of the Court House Commission by $3138,50; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary that the Commission have not less than $75,000 available to meet the necessary expenses of the construction of the Court House; therefore

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand one hundred and thirty eight dollars and fifty cents ($3138.50) to be expended upon the new Court House, and that this amount be placed to the credit of the Court House Commission for Garrett county.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) or so much thereof as in their judgment may be necessary, for the substitution of stone columns in place of wood columns in the portico of the new court house; and for the necessary grading of the court house lot, after the building is completed; and for the building of necessary steps, walks, and approaches to said new building.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 514.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Friendsville," and add two new sections thereto designated as section 111J½ and 111J¾.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Friendsville," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment, and two sections added so as to read as follows:

111J. The Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have power and authority to pass ordinances to locate and condemn lands inside the corporate limits of the town of Friendsville, for sites for any public works or improvements in said town, and repairing roads, streets, lanes and alleys, and to open, locate, close, alter, widen, lengthen and relocate the same; and that whenever they shall pass an ordinance to open, locate, widen, alter, lengthen or relocate a public street, lane, road or alley, or condemn any land for a building site or other purposes, they shall immediately appoint three examiners who shall be voters and freeholders of said town, who after being sworn, and giving two weeks' notice of their appointment and time and place of meeting, go upon the ground to be condemned, or upon the street, lane, alley, or road, so proposed to open, locate, widen, lengthen, alter, or relocate such streets, lanes, alleys or roads, and shall cause the same to be surveyed by a competent surveyer, and shall estimate the damages or benefits if any, to the person or persons who own said lands so condemned, or over whose lands the proposed street, lane, alley or road, passes or whose land is in any way affected by the proposed opening, locating, widening, altering, lengthing or relocating, and shall return an account of the proceedings, under their hands to the said Mayor and Council, who before actually using said land so condemned, or opening, widening, lengthing or altering said streets, lanes, alleys, or roads as the case may be, shall pay or tender to the person or persons, his or their agents, or legal representatives, the amount of damages so awarded; and if any person shall feel aggreived by the award of said examiners, he may take an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county within ten days after said award is returned by the said examiners, and the said Mayor and Council shall thereupon file the said return in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and the court shall as soon as convenient thereafter hear and determine upon the said award, affirm the same or remand it for a new hearing, nothing herein shall prevent the said Mayor and Council from opening, locating, widening, lengthing or altering any street, lane, alley or road with the consent of the owner of the land, which shall be taken for said purposes, and to agree and pay said owner a reasonable sum therefor.

SECTION 111J½. And be it enacted, that the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall retain jurisdiction over the county roads and bridges inside the corporate limits of the town of Friendsville, and the Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have jurisdiction and supervision over all sidewalks along said county road, and regulate the speed of travel of persons on horse back or in vehicles over the county roads and bridges in Friendsville by ordinance and impose and collect fines for a violation of said ordinances.

SEC. 111J¾. And be it enacted, That at the time of making the county levy in each year the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall levy three hundred dollars to be collected by the County Treasurer and turned over to the Mayor and Council of Friendsville to be applied to and used on the road beds in the town of Friendsville.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 391.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Roads," and to add new sections to be numbered 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and to provide for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That sections 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, and 206 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Roads" be and the same are hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, and that new sections be added to said Article 12 to be known and designated as Sections 206A, 206B, 206C, 206D, 206E, 206F, and 206G, and that provision be made for the submission to the voters of the several Election Districts of said County seperately, when petition is made to the Board of County Commissioners, whether or not an additional assessment shall be made for Roads, on the taxable basis of the district so petitioning.

200. The Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appoint annually one Road Supervisor for each Election District; and to remove any supervisor at any time, at the pleasure of said Beard, and appoint his successor.

201. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County shall appoint a Road Engineer for the County, who shall hold office for a term of four years, unless removed by a unanimous vote of the board. Before appointment he must present to the Board of County Commissioners a certificate setting forth his competency to perform the work required of him. The Board shall fix his annual compensation, and allowance for expenses, and determine the amount of bond that shall be required of him.

202. The Road Engineer shall have direct and complete charge and direction of the opening and repair of all roads and bridges in the county; he shall advise with, and direct the work of all District Supervisors; he shall furnish estimates and specifications for all new construction or repairs to roads and bridges, and shall supervise their construction whether done by labor, or contract; he shall act as surveyor to the Board of Viewers, in the opening or relocation of roads or bridges, and make plats and profiles of the same without extra charge to the county; he shall care for all tools and machinery and other material owned by the County, and see that the same is kept in repair, inspecting all bridges of twenty-five feet or over in length, at least twice annually; he shall issue an illustrated book, to be paid for by the County, giving full and detailed rules and illustrations of the methods to be followed in the making of roads by District Supervisors; he shall, between the first day of April and the first day of September, in each year, keep in constant touch with District Supervisors, and go from one district to another while the work of repairs is in progress; by and with the consent of the Board of County Commissioners, he may contract for any work or material which shall not cost upward of two hundred dollars; he shall in the fall of each year make a detailed report to the Board of County Commissioners of the work which has been done in each Election District, and the cost of the same, the condition of the roads and bridges, and make any recommendationss for the ensuing year which in his judgment will be of benefit.

203. In January of each year the Board of County Commissioners shall appoint one Road Supervisor for each of the Election Districts of the county, the appointee to be named from a list furnished them as hereinafter provided in Section 206G; but nothing shall prevent their filling a vacancy at any time. They shall fix the per diem of supervisors, which shall not be less than two dollars, and determine the amount of the bond which shall be required; they shall also fix the rate per diem of hired labor, teams with driver, etc., for the ensuing year. Upon recommendation of the Road Engineer they shall purchase all necessary tools, machinery, material or other things advisable or necessary for the opening or repairing roads or bridges, and they shall at any time advertise and let all contracts for improvements costing upwards of two hundred dollars.

204. District Road Supervisors shall qualify by taking oath of office and giving bond to the County Commissioners as soon as may be after their appointment; they shall have charge of the working and repair of all roads in their respective districts, under the general direction of the Road Engineer, and may contract for the building or repair of any culvert or bridge that shall not exceed in cost the sum of ten dollars; they may hire, and pay for out of funds in their hands, such men and teams as shall be necessary for the proper working of their roads; and shall annually render an itemized statement under oath with vouchers, to the Road Engineer to be by him transmitted to the Board of County Commissioners setting forth the number of men and teams employed, with the number of days for each, and the amounts paid to each, (his own account being given separately), the total amount received by him, or placed to his credit, and the amount expended; the amount of statute labor employed and the road assessment collected by him and from whom.

205. District Supervisors shall in April in each year, or earlier if possible, make a general inspection of all the roads in their districts, noting carefully the flow of water, and the drainage that will be necessary; they shall consult abutting property owners, and may if they see fit contract for a sum less than ten dollars, with owners for doing certain specified work and repair to roads and culverts bounding upon their lands, such work to be finished not later than May thirtieth; they shall pay for all hire of men and of teams, and for material purchased, from the road funds placed to their credit with the Treasurer of Garrett county, or in their hands, and shall take receipts for all money thus paid out; they shall consult the Road Engineer upon all important repairs and shall follow wherever possible the printed instructions which the engineer shall furnish them in regard to the methods and manner of making roads.

206. The Board of County Commissioners shall annually levy upon the taxable basis of the county such an amount as they may deem necessary for the construction, maintenance, and repair of roads and bridges; when this levy is made fifteen cents on each one hundred dollars of the taxable basis of each and every separate Election District shall be set aside to the exclusive use of the roads and bridges in that particular district, the increase above that rate only going into the general road fund of the county; they shall cause the amount thus apportioned to each district to be placed in the hands of the County Treasurer, subject to the order of the Supervisor of the District.

206A. When the District Supervisors shall have given the bond required of them by the County Commissioners, all funds shall be placed to their credit, and subject to their order in the hands of the County Treasurer.

206B. Each of the District Supervisors shall do, or cause to be done all the regular annual repairs upon the roads and bridges under his control before the first day of September in each and every year; each of the District Supervisors shall be required to set aside five per cent of all the monies coming into their hands from time to time for general road repair, this money so set aside shall be used only between the first day of September and the first day of April of the following year, for the unforseen and accidental repairs of roads or bridges and for draining of roads, opening of breakers and culverts and snow drifts. Any money remaining in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of any District Supervisor at the expiration of the latter's term of office, shall be placed to the credit of the succeeding supervisor of that District.

206C. Every resident of Garrett county who shall habitually use a wagon wearing tires of three inches in width for all loads of one to two thousand pounds, and tires of four inches in width for loads of over two thousand pounds, shall receive a credit of five per cent on his annual road tax.

206D. When a public road forms the dividing line between Election Districts the County Commissioners shall apportion and designate what part of said road shall be worked by the several supervisors.

206E. Upon the petition of fifty voters, who are taxpayers of any Election District in Garrett county, addressed to the Board of County Commissioners, asking that an additional levy be made upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in that district, it shall be the duty of the County Commissioners to certify the fact in accordance with law, to the Supervisors of Elections, who shall advertise the same as in case of the submission of other questions, and shall at the next ensuing election provide for the submission of the question to the voters of that particular district only, whether or not the County Commissioners shall at their next annual levy, levy upon the taxpayers of that particular district an extra amount to be named in the petition and indicated upon the ballot, for the repair and improvement of the roads or bridges in the district so petitioning and voting. The Supervisors of Election shall have printed on the official ballot of the district to which the proposition of an extra levy is to be submitted the words "For Proposition of Levy for Roads;" and "Against Proposition of Levy for Roads."

206F. In case the vote in accordance with the preceeding section 206E, shall be "For Proposition of Levy for Roads" then the Board of County Commissioners shall make the extra levy for roads or bridges upon the total taxable basis of the district so voting, and shall place the funds when collected, in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the Road Supervisor of that district, to be worked out by him under the direction of the Road Engineer; but if the vote be "Against Propsition of Levy for Roads" then the County Commissioners shall not levy an extra amount for roads in that district.

206G. At the respective District Primaries of the two dominant political parties of the state, held in each Election District next preceding the annual November election, the qualified voters of each of said parties, attending such party primaries shall nominate by ballot two taxpayers of their party whom they consider qualified to act as Road Supervisors from their district; and shall cause their names to be certified to by the Chairman and Secretary, or other officers of the Primary in writing, and have the same forwarded to the Clerk of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county, to be put upon file by him, for the use of the Board, during the ensuing year.

SECTION 2.—And be it further enacted; That this Act shall take effect on the first day of September, 1908.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 67.

AN ACT to designate and define the boundarins of the fourteen election districts of Garrett county as now existing.

WHEREAS, No Act of the General Assembly has been passed since the formation of Garrett county in 1872, which described or defined the boundaries of all the election districts, the terms of Chapter 369 of the Acts of 1874, being very vague and unsatisfactory, and

WHEREAS, Many of the original districts have had portions of territory cut from them to form other districts, leaving their present limits without adequate description, therefore

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the boundaries of the fourteen election districts now existing in Garrett county shall be as follows:

SEC. 2. District Number One (1) shall be known as the Swanton District and shall begin on the State line upon the right bank of the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run up the south prong of said run a westerly direction to where the mud bridge crosses said run branch on the Wilson and Kitzmiller county road; then with said road crossing the top of Backbone mountain to Wilson store upon the Baltimore and Ohio railway; then by a staight line to the head of Deep creek; then down Deep creek to the mouth of Meadow Mountain run; then up Meadow Mountain run to its head; then by a straight line to the head of north branch of Middle Fork run near Buckner Mason's; then with said north fork to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 12 degree east to Thomas' Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road, westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then up the right or east bank of the Potomac river to the beginning opposite Three Fork run near Chaffee.

SEC. 3. District Number Two (2) shall be known as Selbysport District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear creek; then by a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then up White Rock run, west to the State line; then with the State line due north to Mason and Dixon's line; then due east with the Pennsylvania line to the point of beginning on Winding Ridge.

SEC. 4. That District Number Three (3) shall be known as the Grantsville District and shall begin at the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place and run with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head or Harton Hollow; then across to William W. Broadwater; then across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place in the "Backwoods"; then to Horse pond or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross' residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Spiker's former place where the county road from Bittinger to Engles Mills crosses the mountain top; then in a straight line in a northerly course to the forks of the Morgantown road and the National Pike west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon's line; then with it due east to a point which is due north of the west side of what was formerly know as Recknor's tavern upon the old National Pike; then by a due south line from the above point and round west of Recknor's Tavern south to the intersection of said line with Mud Lick run; then down Mud Lick run to its mouth at Savage river; then down Savage river to the bridge over said river near John Wilhelm's place, the point of beginning.

SEC. 5. District Number 4 shall be known as Bloomington District and shall begin in the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Folly run, and run thence down the Potomac to a point south of the center of the mouth of Savage river; then north to the center of the mouth of Savage river; thence with the line of Allegany to the intersection of said line with Mill run; then up Mill run to the head of the west fork of said run; then by a straight line to the old ford in Savage river; then up said river to the mouth of Bear Pen run; then up Bear Pen run to its head near James Reshe's place; then by a straight line to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 20 degrees east to Thomas Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river, the point of beginning.

SEC. 6. District Number 5 shall be known as Accident District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear Creek; then in a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then by a straight line to the summit of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of county roads at the old West place; then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with the crest of Negro mountain in a northerly direction to where the county road from Bittinger to Engle Mills crosses said mountain; then by a straight line a notherly direction to the forks of the Morgantown road and the old National Turnpike, west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon line; then with it due west to Winding Ridge and the point of beginning.

SEC. 7. District Number 6 shall be known as Sang Run District and shall begin at the mouth of White Rock run on the Youghiogheny river and run thence by a straight line to the top of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of the county road at the old West place, then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the headspring of Meadow Mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then down Meadow Mountain run to Deep Creek; then down Deep Creek to its mouth on the Yohghiogheny river; then up the said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run: then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due north with the State line to its intersection with White Rock run or a point due west of the head of said run; then to and down White Rock run to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 8. District Number 7 shall be known as East Oakland District and shall begin at the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner, and run in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep Creek; then up Deep Creek to the State dam; then by a straight line to a point designated as "the burnt school house"; then by a straight line to the Head spring on Broad Ford run; then with Broad Ford run to its mouth on Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn, and running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso gap to the summit of the mountain; then running along the crest of the Back Bone mountain in a southwesterly direction to the point where the old Moorefield turnpike formerly crossed said mountain; then with the outline of the old Moorefield turnpike in a westerly direction to the Mason county road; then with the Mason road to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner, the point of beginning.

SEC. 9. District Number 8 shall be known as Ryans Glade district and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner; then with the Mason road to where the old Moorefield road crossed the said Mason road; then with the old Moorefield road eastward to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then with the crest of the said mountain northeasterly to the county road leading from Mountain Lake to Ryans Glade; then with said Ryans Glade road to the forks of the road at the M. E. church; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right and east bank of the Potomac river near Schell; then down the right or east bank of the river to a point opposite the mouth of Lost Land run; then up the north prong of Lost Land run to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then along the crest of the mountain in a northeasterly direction to where the county road leading from Kitzmillerville to Wilson's store crosses said mountain; then with the county road to Wilson's store upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railway; then by a straight line to the head of Deep Creek to the State dam, and the point of beginning.

SEC. 10. Be it enacted, That District Number 9 shall be known as Johnson District and shall begin on the summit of Great Savage mountain where said mountain is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line and run with the line of Alleghany county to where said line interesects Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line, crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then up Savage river to the mouth of Mudlick run; then up said run to a point from which a line drawn due north will pass just west of a point which was formerly known as the Recknor tavern upon the old National Pike; then from the above described point, on Mudlick run due north to Mason and Dixon's line; thence with Mason and Dixon's line due east to the summit of Savage mountain, the point of beginning.

SEC. 11. District Number 10 shall be known as Deer Park District and shall begin at the State dam across Deep creek east of Thayerville and run by a straight line to the burnt school house on Hoop-pole Ridge; then by a straight line to the head of Broad Ford run; then with said run to where it empties into Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn; then running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso's gap to the M. E. church in Ryans Glade at the forks of the Ryans Glade and Altamont roads; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right and east bank of the Potomac river near Schell; then down the right or east bank of the river to a point opposite the mouth of Lost Land run; then up the north prong of Lost Land run to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then along the crest of the mountain in a northeasterly direction to where the county road leading from Kitzmillerville to Wilson's store crosses said mountain; then with the county road to Wilson's store upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railway; then by a straight line to the head of Deep Creek; then down with Deep Creek to the State dam, and the point of beginning.

SEC. 12. District Number 11 shall be known as the Elbow District and shall begin on Mill run at a point where the line dividing Allegany and Garrett counties intersects said run; and run with the line of Allegany county to the intersection of said line with Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then running with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head of Horton Hollow; thence across to William W. Broadwater's; thence across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place; then down Bear Pen run to Savage river; then down with said river to the old ford; thence by a straight line to the head of the west fork of Mill run; then down Mill run to the point of beginning.

SEC. 13. District Number 12 shall be known as Bittinger District and shall begin at the head of Bear Pen run near the James Resh place in the Backwoods, and run thence to Horse Pond, or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Speicher's former place; then with the top of said mountain southward to the county road leading from John Harman's to the town of Accident; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the head spring of Meadow mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then to the head of north branch of Middle fork, near Buckner Mason's; then with said North fork to the month of Black Hawk run; then by a straight line to the head of Bear Pen run at James Reshe's, the point of beginning.

SEC. 14. District Number 13 shall be known as Kitzmillerville District and shall begin on the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run thence with said Three Forks run in a westerly direction up the South prong to where the mud bridge crosses said branch on the Wilson and Kitzmillerville county road; then with said road to the top of Back Bone mountain; thence with the crest of said mountain in a southwesterly direction to a point due north of the north-east branch of Lost Land run; then to and down with the meanders of said run to its mouth and to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then down with the river to the beginning opposite the mouth of Three Forks run.

SEC. 15. District Number 14 shall be known as West Oakland District and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine Fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner; then in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep creek; then down Deep creek to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river; then up said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run; then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due south with the State line to the beginning, on Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 16. Be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Approved March 10, 1908.

CHAPTER 550.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof before a Justice of the Peace or the Circuit Court for Garrett county, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars and stand committed until said fine and costs are paid or be released by due process of law.

SEC. 3. Be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT for the further protection of pheasant, partridges or quail, woodcock, wild turkeys and rabbits in Garrett County.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That no Person, corporation or company, shall at any time kill or expose for sale, transport, have in possession any pheasant, partridge, or quail, Woodcock, wild turkey and rabbit, after the same has been killed for any purpose, except for consumption or food within Garrett county; nor kill, expose for sale, or have in possession any of the above named game, with the intention of sending or transporting or having the same sent or transported beyond the limits of said county; provided that nothing herein shall prevent the barter or sale of such game for house consumption only by residents of said county, provided also, that nothing herein shall prevent non-residents who have taken out license to hunt in said county from taking with them out of said county any of the above named game which they may have killed in said county.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett county, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars, and not more than one hundred dollars, for each offence, and stand committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid, or until released by due process of law. One half of said fine to go to the informer or informers, upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect on the date of its passage.

Approved February 25, 1908.

CHAPTER 564.

AN ACT to repeal Section 183 and the five succeeding Sections of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, known as Poe's Code, Edition of 1904, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," in so far as said sections apply to Garrett county.

SEATION 1. And be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 183 and the five succeeding section of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," be and the same are hereby repealed in so far as they relate to Garrett county, as to which county the mortgage tax is hereby repealed, but this repeal shall not affect the mortgage tax in Worcester, Wicomico, Somerset, Carroll, Howard, Montgomery, Frederick and Dorchester counties but shall be and remain in full force and effect in said counties.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 30, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

BUSINESS RECOVERY.

The progress toward a complete resumption of high-pressure activity in all branches of industrialism has been steady during the four months of the present year. That quickly responsive barometer—public confidence—is beginning to act normally again. This is clearly indicated by the fact that many railroad and other stocks last week advanced to new high-record prices for the year. The big Pennsylvania Railroad loan of $40,000,000 has been favorably received in European money centers. Gold has recently been sent abroad in large quantities and there is more to follow, but this is not causing any special uneasiness. The outward movement of gold is not generally attributed to any adverse situation in our foreign trade balances. While exports have fallen off from last year's records, so also have imports in like proportions. The simplest and most likely explanation of the outward movement of the yellow metal is that money is now easier in this country than in Europe.

The resumption of industrial enterprises, employing labor in large force, is a yet more hopeful sign that the country is getting back again to the "good times" status. The recent announcement of preparations for resumption of full activity in the coal-mining industries in certain of the Western Maryland and West Virginia fields is only one among numerous important starting-up events to be noted in the industrial record of the past thirty days. During last week the cheering news was given out that the cotton duck mills are assured of orders that will keep them running to full capacity for perhaps twelve months or even longer. As eleven of the twenty cotton duck mills of the United States are located in the immediate industrial sphere of Baltimore, this latter resumption of full working capacity possesses a much more than ordinary local interest.

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, in a recently given out stetement, has declared that the growing crop situation is of splendid promise. Cotton, wheat, rye, oats, barley—all the great staple agricultural crops that are in the plant stage are doing well. Grasshoppers, drouth, army worms, greenbugs, boll weevils, frosts—there has been no wail concerning any of these promoters of evil from Kansas, Texas, the Dakotas or any other of the agricultural areas which usually send our crop alarm messages. The price of cotton has receded greatly from the scare prices that were reached during the summer of last year. The prices of wheat, corn and agricultural products generally are at figures far above the last ten-year average of prices, however. The agricultural situation, taking the country over, was never more satisfactory. Business of all kinds is tending to a condition of high-pressure activity, and there is an abundance of underlying and contributory reasons why this tendency should be steady and of unimpeded progress.

FARMERS OF THE STATE AND GOOD-ROADS BUILDING.

We hope the report is true that the farmers of the State are going to interest themselves in good-roads building and do their share to see that the work is done well and economically. They can do something to keep the public mind on the amount of money which the improvement costs and on the absolute necessity of having the expenditure wisely directed.

But, after all, good-roads building is a business which requires expert knowledge backed by experience. It is altogether likely that a contractor can fool ninety out of a hundred farmers who have not made a study not only of the various methods of road building but of the materials used on improved highways. Stone which looks alike to the inexperienced eye may tell a different and vitally important story to the man who knows. Nevertheless, it is undoubtedly true that local knowledge is helpful to the road engineer in many ways, and this the farmer can contribute.

For the proper expenditure of the $5,000,000 fund appropriated for good roads, however, we must look to the knowledge, skill, experience and honesty of the men directly in charge of the work. The Commission to be appointed by the Governor can help to obtain good results, but it is idle to expect the Commissioners to spend their whole time watching the actual work of construction. This must be left to the engineers, who draw up the specifications and who pass upon the work as it is done by the contractors. That is the reason why it is so important to have engineers who thoroughly understand the work of building good roads and who are familiar with conditions and materials in this State.

In the Geological Survey we now have an organization which has, or which ought to have, both the knowledge and the practical experience so much needed. If it has these qualities, it will be a great pity if the Survey's organizatian is not made use of by the new Commission. If it hasn't these qualities after its ten years' existence, then we are forced to the conclusion that the Survey as a body is not properly carrying out the work it is expected to do and should be radically changed.

FIKE.

The weather during the past week was delightful and all the farmers are busy with their Spring crops.

The people of this place have ordered new music books for the church and Sunday school.

Russel E. Frazee, son of Isaac Frazee, died April 21, 1908. The funeral was preached on the following day at the Asher Glade church by Rev. Donachy and interment was made in the cemetery near the church. The deceased was 3 months and 28 days old.

Mr. Lloyd K. Fike bought a horse one day last week.

Mr. P. F. Fike was helping W. H. Thomas last week.

For some time Jasper Fike has been trying to keep his marriage a secret, but let me tell you Jasper you might as well not try any longer.

Mr. John S. Fike lost one of his horses a short time ago.

Mrs. Emma Thomas has been sick for some time.

Mrs. F. F. Bowser is suffering with the la grippe.

GORTNER.

The spring fever is holding forth in this vicinity at present.

Mr. J. Z. Gibson and force of men are busy quarrying rock for the new bridge across Cherry creek.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Killius spent Sunday with relatives at Breedlove, W. Va.

Menno Miller, of near Grantsville, was calling on his many friends here last week.

Fred Gortner, one of our progressive farmers, has purchased a sulky plow and can read the newspaper while he plows.

Rumor says there will be a wedding in this vicinity soon, and the cow-bell brigade will be equal to the occasion.

A. W. Killius and D. S. Lichty were visiting the beautiful scenery in the Ryans Glade district last Sunday.

Preaching Sunday at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the Menonites; Sunday school at 9:30.

BITTINGER.

Oliver Beachy can ploy more acres of ground, dig more post holes or plant more "taters" in a day than any man in the community, since the arrival of a young son at his home on Thursday, April 23rd.

Prof. E. A. Browning and Editor Deffinbaugh, of Oakland, were guests of C. E. Ellithorp at his home in this village last Sunday evening and night. Mr. Ellithorp accompanied his guests to Grantsville on Monday morning.

J. L. Beachy, of Beechly, Pa., was in this section last Monday and Tuesday.

O. C. Buckle and Leonard Stark made a business trip to Salisbury, Pa., last Monday.

W. L. Thomas and Lloyd K. Fike, of Fike, Md., were calling on friends here last Sunday afternoon.

E. E. Pugh, the pain king man of Somerset, Pa., spent last Sunday at this place, the guest of Amos H. Reckner and family.

E. H. Bittinger made a hasty business trip to Accident last Monday.

P. Y. Lohr, who spent the past two months here, left last Monday for Oakland.

Max Broadwater, of near Merrill, was seen in this village last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brenneman were calling on Mrs. O. C. Buckle last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stark went to Baltimore last week to visit their son Jacob.

Fire destroyed the residence and contents of Jerry Hantwork near this place one day last week.

John Mason, an employee on Mason Bros'. saw mill near here, had his jaw broken by a peice of flying slab on last Thursday.

SHORT RUN.

After another little shower we are having some beautiful weather again.

The farmers are busy getting in their spring crops.

Messrs. Earl Hamill and Joe Lee were visiting Mrs. S. E. Harvey Saturday and Sunday.

Prof. C. W. Moore was visiting friends at Mt. Lake Park Saturday.

Mrs. W. E. Reckley and daughters Bessie and Alta, of Moore's Siding, W. Va., are visiting Mrs. S. E. Wilson.

Mr. James Paugh is building a barn foundation for Mr. J. T. Harvey.

Miss Geraldine Veille was calling on Mildred Howell Sunday evening.

Miss Ida Wilson who is attending normal at Kitzmillerville spent Sunday at home.

Master Jas. A. Wilson was visiting his sister, Mrs. H. L. Pool at Kitzmillerville Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. B. Moon attended the funeral of Thos. Davis Sunday.

Mr. Alex Wilson is visiting friends at Elder, Md., at this writing.

Mr. Chas. Moon takes a great interest in Mrs. Mary Wilson's chickens.

With best wishes to THE REPUBLICAN.

KID.

The Law For Lawyers.

Grantsville, Md., April 27, 1908.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Will you please publish for the benefit of the public generally the law passed at the recent session of the Maryland Legislature prohibiting the writing of deeds or other legal papers affecting the title to real estate by those other than regularly practicing attorneys.

A CITIZEN.

The law above referred to is known as Chapter 638 and reads as follows:

Section 1—Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 1 of Article 10 of the Code of Public General Laws of this State be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments, so as to read as follows:

Section 1. No person shall practice the profession or perform the service of an attorney at law within this State without being admitted to the bar as hereinafter directed; and any person who shall give any legal advice, represent any person in the trial of any case at law or in equity, or prepare any written instrument, affecting the title to real estate, for pay or reward, shall be deemed an attorney at law for the purpose of this Article.

Church Services.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Wesley Chapel—Sunday school 10 a. m.; class meeting at 11 a. m.

Mt. Lake Park—Class meeting at 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m.; Sunday school at 2.30 p. m., Junior League 3.30 p. m., and Epworth League 7.30 p. m.

Deer Park—Sunday School at 10 a.m.; Epworth League at 7, and preaching at 8 p. m.

Bond—Class meeting at 10 a. m.; Sunday school at 2.30 p. m.

Proaching every Wednesday night.

All are welcome.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:

Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Preaching at 8 p. m.

Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Preaching in Deer Park Lutherau courch next Sabbath at 11 a. m.

Also services during the week at 8 p. m. Rev. C. P. Bastian, pastor Lutheran church at Keyser, W. Va., will preach on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Communion at Deer Park on the 10th of May at 11 a. m.

On account of the services at Deer Park the appointment at Hutton will be postponed one week. There will be preaching at Huttons on Thursday, May 14th, at 8 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Elder Hill—Union Sunday school 10 a. m., and preaching at 11 a. m.

Deep Creek—Sunday school at 2 p. m., and preaching at 3 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Sunday school at 9.15 a. m.

Preaching at 10:30 a. m. by Rev. J. M. Davis.

There will be no services at night owing to the absence of the pastor.

Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

At Warsaw, Ind., it is said that a citizen has achieved wonderful success in teaching his dog to talk. He can already pronounce several words of the English language. His phenomenal intelligence is also strikingly manifested in the fact that he feeds the horses. Of course, this may well be true. In time this canine genius should not only speak English, but French and German. He may balk at Sanskrit, Chinese and Choctaw, as, indeed, some human beings do. No doubt, in due season, he will learn to cook breakfast for the family, cut the stove wood and do the weekly washing, besides playing the piano after supper. He ought to be able to render "Old Dog Tray" with great effect. But there is one thing the dog can never learn, and that is to be a first-class, able-bodied Indiana liar.

Estray Notice.

There came to the Mountain View Stock Farm, eight miles south of Oakland on April 12th, a roan and white, dehorned three-year old cow. The owner will please come forward, pay all costs and damages, prove property and take the same away.

F. W. CHASE, Manager.

CHAPTER 677.

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bond by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for constructing, erecting and maintaining water works and sewerage in said town of Oakland; condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and for fire protection, and for establishing, erection, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and direction to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland to an amount not exceeding $60,000,00, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said bonds shall be for sums not less than $1,000 each, not more than $1,000.00 each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Town Council and countersigned by the Clerk of Town Council with the corporate seal of said town thereto be affixed, bearing interest at not more than five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable two years from date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of bond No. 1 in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding twenty-five years from date of issue; that all of said bonds issued as aforesaid shall be due and payable within 61 years from the date of their issue, and shall forever be exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purpose in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses, streams, and to use and occupy forever or for a term of years any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams which they may deem expedient and necessary for the purposes of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town, and the maintenance of said sewerage system; if for any cause the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, water streams, or water courses, or any other material which partakes of or is a necessary part of realty or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduct of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated; and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as is provided by said Section 251 of said Art. 23. The said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have full power to fix schedules of rates for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Town Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income thereof shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bouds and a sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturity.

SEC. 3 And be it enacted, That the title to said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts thereto shall when completed or acquired, vest in the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland; and every person who shall knowingly or willfully pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or stand pipe in connection with the said water works so built or constructed by throwing any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves, or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the sources of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same, shall, upon conviction of such offense, be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than three hundred dollars for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland by a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Town Council for the purposes of this Act

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Town Council shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town not exceeding twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars to pay the interest thereon and the sum of one thousand dollars of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of one thousand dollars shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Town Council as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity; and the said Mayor and Town Council shall from time to time deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in State or such other bonds satisfactory to the said Mayor and Town Council as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of any of said bonds as may be offered for sale and redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds the Mayor and Town Council they shall immediately be cancelled by stamping across their face "cancelled by the sinking fund," and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the Treasurer or Tax Collector on account of taxes to the extent of said sum of one thousand dollars shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account of failure of assessment or collections.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of bonds, which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof, to the highest responsible bidder, shall be deposited in bank to the credit of said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland and subject to their check, and the Clerk of said town of Oakland shall keep a book to be especially provided for the purpose the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds sold and the amount realized on the sales, together with the serial numbers of the bonds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, that in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act, the accused and the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have the right of appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county, within thirty days, and a jury trial. Any person or persons convicted before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act who shall pray an appeal to the said Court shall be held by recognizance or be committed to the county jail to appear before the next regular jury term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, that the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of the said bonds as hereinbefore provided in section 5 of this act, or so many thereof as to the Mayor and Town Council may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this act, and the said Mayor and Town Council are fully authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations and to pass all necessary ordinances, with penalties for their violation, and to do all other necessary acts for the proper managing, maintaining and repairiag the said water works and sewerage system and for the protection thereof.

SEC. 8, And be it enacted, that the funds realized from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purposes of this act, and shall be paid by check signed by the Mayor and the President of the Council, and the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to pass such orders for payment of money due for the construction of said water works and sewerage or to the contractor or contractors for the construction of the same, as shall, from time to time, be due or earned by the contractor or contractors in the prosecution of said works, and also from time to time to pass orders for the payment of property purchased or condemned, and for material furnished in persuance of the provisions of this act, and may in its discretion employ a competent hydrographical engineer to superintend the work of constructing such water works and sewerage.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, that on the first Monday in May, 1908 there shall be a special election held in the town of Oakland, which election shall be held in the same manner and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether this act shall take effect to the legal voters of said town, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words: For water and sewerage, and the words Against water and sewerage, and all voters desiring to vote for the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote against the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "For water and sewerage." And if the judges of election shall decide that a majority of the votes are cast for "water and sewerage" then this Act shall be in full force of law otherwise of no effect. The judges of election shall under their hands immediately after said election certify to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland the result of the said election.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted that this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant.
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 30-13

Subscribe for The Republican.

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fa and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

Confidence

when eating, that your food is of highest wholesomeness—that it has nothing in it that can injure or distress you—makes the repast doubly comfortable and satisfactory.

This supreme confidence you have when the food is raised with

ROYAL
Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made with Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

There can be no comforting confidence when eating alum baking powder food. Chemists say that more or less of the alum powder in unchanged alum or alum salts remains in the food.

House cleaning is on.

Best hand-made tinware at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Dr. J. E. Legge was in Piedmont a few hours Sunday evening.

Winter is not doing much of that lap-lingering business this A. D.

Mr. D. J. Bender, of Accident, was in the city on business Saturday.

Justice W. A. Harvey, of Gorman, was in the city on business Tuesday.

Offutt's big store has added to its equipment a handsome delivery wagon.

Miss Leah Bolden and Miss Julia Reynolds spent yesterday in Cumberland.

See Barlow & Wilson's Great New York Minstrels at the Opera House to-night.

Attorney Thomas J. Peddicord was in Cumberland yesterday on professional business.

Mr. G. Semmes Hamill went to Baltimore yesterday on professional business.

Mr. Andrew Friend, of near Friendsville, was a visitor to Oakland Tuesday on business.

Mrs. Harland L. Jones is spending the present week with relatives in Terra Alta, W. Va.

"Life is a dream," says Count Tolstoi. And to some people it is a horrible nightmare.

Mr. Fred. T. Martin, of Grafton, spent a few days recently with his family in Oakland.

Largest assortment of highest grade enameled ware at bargain prices at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

There are things in women's wear that you can overlook, but not the Merry Widow hat.

Mr. S. A. Kendall, of Meyersdale, Pa., was in the city a day or two this week on business.

G. A. Shirer & Co. offer good prices on cooking stoves and ranges for the months of May and June.

Miss Sue Shirer, of Grafton, spent Sunday in Oakland with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Shirer.

Dr. W. W. Davis, of the Park, spent a few days this week at Philippi and other West Virginia points.

Full line of Galvanized Goods—gutters, conductors, ridge roll, tubs, buckets, etc., at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4*

Mr. D. E. Bolden was at Piedmont Monday where he officiated as undertaker at a funeral held there that day.

Rev. E. Manges left Oakland Tuesday night for Washington, D. C., where he will endeavor to secure a pension for the widow of one of his parishioners.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anythimg in this line.

Mr. Henry Myers, of near Oakland, will leave here to night for Preston, Minn., where he will visit relatives several weeks.

Mrs. G. A. Bolden and Mrs. J. E. R. Ellis, of Grafton, were guests of friends and relatives in Oakland for a few hours Sunday evening.

April this year has the distinction of having two new moons, the first being on the first day of the month and the second on the last day.

Mr. James S. Lakin, of Terra Alta, was the guest Sunday and Monday of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Offutt at their residence on Second street.

Miss Nelle Workman is in Davis, West Va., visiting her aunt, Miss Wellman, and attending commencement exercises of the Davis High School.

Mr. J. Grant Hayden, of Westernport, was in Oakland Monday attending the funeral of his uncle, the late C. C. Micheals, who was buried here that day.

For Sale or Exchange for good Jersey Cows—Two Jersey Bulls; pure St. Lambert breed; registered A. J. C. C.; age 2 years. For information and price address Walter Sanders, Foreman, Brookside Dairy Farms, Brookside, W. Va. 7-3t*

Mr. Henry E. Felty has moved his stock of goods and fixtures from the Felty building on Alder street to the Mountain Lake Park store operated by Felty & Co.

Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird, of Cumberland, came up to Oakland Monday afternoon and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Offutt at their home on Second street.

Mr. Christian Felty of Connellsville, Pa., was in the city a few hours yesterday the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. Grant Smith on the West Side.—Grafton Republican.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

Mr. Oliver Heyward and family, of Bond, arrived here Monday evening from that place and will reside in the Loraditch home on Liberty street during the summer months.

Mr. S. O. Wiley, who has been residing for a number of years at Meyersdale, Pa., will leave that town shortly for Southern Maryland where he expects to reside in the future.

Mr. W. R. Browning, who was recently appointed policeman by Mayor West, will assume his duties tomorrow, thus relieving William Newman, who has been filling his place as a substitute for the past month.

Mr. Josephus Howell, of Bond, accompanied by his daughter, came to Oakland on Monday where the latter entered the Normal. Mr. Howell returned to Bond the same evening.

Miss Irene Haulenbeek has returned to her summer home at Deer Park. Together with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Haulenbeek, she has been visiting in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Mrs. H. Weber and daughter Miss Mamie Weber were at Lonaconing Sunday where they attended the funeral of Nelson H. Meese, who died a day or two previous at his home near Barton.

Rev. J. B. Workman will conduct quarterly meetings at Davis and Thomas, West Va., next Saturday and Sunday. While absent Rev. J. M. Davis will fill his pulpit in St. Paul's M. E. church.

County Superintendent E. A. Browning and Mr. Charles A. Deffinbaugh, of the County School Commissioners' Board, spent a few days this week on a visit to the Normal schools at Accident and Grantsville.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fleming and children, of Salem, West Va., have moved to Oakland and are occupying the Austin Brown residence on Second street, which Mr. Fleming rented several weeks ago.

If you have Catarrh, rid yourself of this repulsive disease. Ask Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., to mail you free, a trial box of his Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. A simple, single test, will surely tell you a Catarrh truth well worth your knowing. Write to-day. Don't suffer longer. All dealers.

Mr. L. M. Albright, a retired merchant, and Dr. S. A. Pratt, a prominent physician, both of Kingwood, were in Oakland Monday where both gentleman met with a number of old-time acquaintances and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shirer went to Piedmont yesterday morning to attend Hines-Mattingly wedding. The former returned to Oakland last night, while Mrs. Shirer will remain at Piedmont a few days visiting friends.

Barlow & Wilson's Greater New York Minstrels will fill a one-night engagement at the People's Opera House in Oakland to-night, when popular prices will prevail. Reserved seats may be obtained at the Oakland Pharmacy.

Dr. Brooke, the retiring State Fish Commissioner for the Western Shore, accompanied by Mr. J. H. Miller, of Montgomery county, were guests on Monday and Tuesday of Ex-Senator and Mrs. R. T. Browning at their home at the State Dam.

Last Friday Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Ward entertained Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Lister, of Aurora; Rev. and Mrs. E. J. Westfall, of Mountain Lake Park; Rev. Woodyard, of Newburg; Rev. D. Westfall, of Sistersville, and Rev. J. W. Engle, of Terra Alta, West Va.

Miss Virginia Johnson returned to her home in Oakland last Friday after an absence of several months which she spent in Florida, Baltimore and Washington. She was preceded home by her mother, who also spent the winter in Florida, two or three weeks ago.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest Coffee Imitation ever yet produced. This, the finest Coffee Substitute ever made, has recently been produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real Coffee in it either. Health Coffee is made from pure toasted cereals, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for Coffee. No twenty or thirty minutes boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. All dealers.

One small farmer, whom we know, feeds and clothes his family from the proceeds of butter and milk which he gets from one Jersey cow. The record of this one cow last year was 900 pounds of butter and 1,000 gallons of milk, which netted the owner about $250.

Barlow & Wilson's Minstrels, which will appear at the People's Opera House tonight, will present one of the best shows ever witnessed in Oakland. The company is composed exclusively of artists of national reputation, having filled engagements in all the large cities of the country.

Ex-Sheriff Albert L. Lee, of Kitzmiller, was in Oakland on Tuesday when he qualified before Clerk E. Z. Tower as Justice of the Peace for District No. 13, having been recently appointed to the position by Governor Crothers, succeeding Mr. C. M. Wilson.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventics, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventics contain no Quinine, no laxative, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by all dealers.

From every view point the farming class of this county is in better shape now than at any period since the civil war. More people own their own homes and little farms; more are free from the yoke of bondage inflicted by burdensome debts; more are becoming independent each year by making a comfortable living for their families; more are waking up to the necessity of giving their children better educational advantages, and withal, prosperity and contentment seem to prevail throughout the country. Let progress still be our watchword.

An order has been entered by the Post Office Department at Washington changing the name of the Kitzmillerville post office to that somewhat less elongated name of Kitzmiller. This order of the Department will have no effect on the name of the town or the bank located there.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hinebaugh arrived in Oakland yesterday afternoon faom Baltimore, being accompanied here by their daughter, Mrs. Richard Connell, of Morgantown, all of whom were in Baltimore at the funeral of Emory E. Hinebaugh, whose death is mentioned in another column of this paper today.

Mr. Robert Downing, until recently one of America's foremost Shakespearian artists, will be at the Student's Conference to be held at Mountain Lake Park June 21st 28th, and will take a prominent part. Mr. Downing was converted at a revival meeting held in Washington several weeks ago and immediately left the stage to take up evangelistic work.

A well studied, prayerful sincere sermon will always help somebody. Of that there is not a doubt. Some regard it as sound and thunder, and others may feel in a general sense that an angel spake, but some silent thinker is sure to go away saying to himself, surely that voice was for my sake alone. The word is not void and like water spilled upon the ground.

Mr. J. M. Jarboe, Jr., has entered the employ of the Garrett National Bank as a bookkeeper, filling the position made vacant by the resignation of Mr. Albert W. Clary, which will take effect within a few days. The latter has been in the employ of the bank for more than a year and is well liked by all. Mr. Jarboe is a sterling young man and no doubt will prove satisfactory to his employer.

The Kendall Lumber Compay has instituted proceedings in the Circuit Court for this county to condemn the right of way now occupied by the tracks of the plaintiff over the Yough Manor Land Company's holdings in Election Districts Nos. 2 and 6. Sheriff Brown will sommon a jury to meet at Friendsville about May 15th when the land will be gone over and the amount of damage accruing to the defendants will be fixed upon.

A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. It's a pity that sick ones continue to drug the Stomach or stimulate the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves, not the organs themselves, need this help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative has, and is promptly helping so many sick ones. It goes direct to the cause of these diseases. Test this vital truth, and see. All dealers.

The fastest record on the line of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad between Cumberland and Baltimore, was broken a few days ago by Engineer J. J. Brady, of Baltimore, with Jack Chisholm, a former Garrett countian as fireman, who made the run between the two points in four hours and five minutes, which included stops. The actual running time was three hours and fifty-two minutes. The run was made with a special passenger train running as second section of train No. 6. The fastest time for train No. 6 regularly is four hours and forty minutes.

We are pleased to note a determination on the part of our citizens in general, and the ladies in particular, to plant flowers and beautify our City of the Dead. This is certainly most commendable but there is a sequel to the story. Occasionally people visit our cemetery from other counties and pull these flowers. We say they come from other counties because it is not possible that we have those in our own county so low down in the scale of humanity that they would steal flowers from the dead. Let no one pluck a flower in our cemetery. To steal from the living is bad enough but to steal form the dead multiplies the enormity of the crime.

Mr. Herman Creutzburg, who recently purchased the Felty building on Alder street, which he will occupy both as a residence and place of business, has about completed the necessary alterations and repairs to the property making it very attractive and convenient for his needs both as a dwelling and store room. The upper floor will contain several nice suites of rooms. A reception hall for the dwelling and the store room occupy the lower floor. Into the latter Mr. Creutzburg moved his stock of goods yesterday from the Mitchell building on Second street. As soon as possible he will greatly enlarge his stock of groceries and will at all times have on hand a large supply of all kinds of meats and provisions.

Rev. L. B. Hensley, pastor of the Southminster Presbyterian church, yesterday teddered his resignation of the pastorate. Rev. Hensley made the announcement to the congregation at the forenoon service yesterday. At the session of the Presbytery in Baltimore city last week Rev. Hensley was given the privilege of accepting the call recently extended to him by the Presbyterial congregation at Oakland. He will go to Oakland to take his new charge on the 1st of May. Rev. Hensley has been pastor of the Southminister church since the origanization of the congregation two years ago. The congregation have not as yet taken up the matter of selecting a successor to Rev. Hensley.—Cumberland News.

CAPITAL $50,000.00 — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $29,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. Offutt, John M. Davis, G. S. Hamill.
George W. Legge, John T. Mitchell, S. T. Jones.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. BAILEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

MUNICIPAL LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to all parties interested that the undersigned will be at the Council Chamber in the opera house in the town of Oakland, Md., on

Monday, May 4, 1908,

from one until four o'clock p. m., for the purpose of issuing licenses to those who under the law are required to take out same.

By order of the Town Council.

JOHN C. DUNHAM,
Clerk.

School Board Meeting.

The Board of School Commissioners will meet in their office on Tuesday, May 5, 1908,

for the purpose of appointing Trustees and transacting routine business.

By order of the Board.
ED A. BROWNING,
County Superintendent.

2t

CHAPTER 505.

AN ACT to provide for the appointment of a deputy sheriff and a cook to the jail in Garrett county by repealing Sections 2, 3 and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enacting the same with amendments, and to add a new section to said Act to be known as Section 4A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted be the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 2, 3, and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enact the same with amendments, so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2. The Sheriff of Garrett county shall appoint a fit person as Deputy Sheriff of said county, who shall also act as Warden of the Jail of said county, and who shall perform the services of said jail as Janitor and Warden, and shall have charge of said jail in keeping it heated and cleaned, and of the care and custody of prisoners therein, and shall be responsible for escapes of prisoners occasioned in the same manner and to the same extent as the Sheriff of said County and shall perform all duties required of him by the Sheriff of said County.

SEC. 3 The said Deputy Sheriff, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take the same oath before the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, as now required by law to be taken by Sheriffs, and shall give such bond to the State of Maryland with sureties to be approved in due form, in the sum of three thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such Deputy Sheriff, which bond shall when approved be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court and disposed of as the Sheriff's bond is disposed of.

SEC. 4. The first Deputy Sheriff appointed under this Act, shall be appointed to serve until the first day January, 1910, unless removed sooner for cause, and appointments shall be made thereafter for the term of two years, unless sooner removed by the Sheriff for incompetentcy, disobedience or neglect of duty, or other causes, which in the judgment of the said Sheriff may be sufficient for such removal; and in case of removal as heremnbefore provided, the new appointee shall be appointed for the unexpired term of the person removed, and the salary of said Deputy Sheriff shall be not less than nine hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars in each year, and shall be levied for and paid by the County Commissioners of Garrett county in monthly installment.

SEC. 4A. And be it enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall allow the Sheriff of Garrett county the sum of three hundred dollars per year for a cook to the jail, which sum shall be paid in monthly installments to the Sheriff.

And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

Settlement In Full.

By LULU JOHNSTON.

Copyrighted, 1907, by N. E. Daley.

Dick Staley, perched on a furniture crate, looked disconsolately at Billy Blaine, who was regarding the wall paper and trying hard not to laugh. In spite of Blaine's efforts the twitching corners of his mouth curved, and as he met Staley's eye he exploded in a roar of laughter which served only to deepen Staley's gloom.

"Laugh, confound you!" growled Staley. "It's funny to you. It's not so funny to me. I've got to get this place settled in five days, and upon my soul I don't know what to do first!"

"The first step is easy," chuckled Blaine. "Get a man in to scrape the walls. The paper is the worst I ever saw."

"It looked all right in the book," said Staley defensively. "It was the prettiest thing in the whole book of samples."

"It may be all right in a sample," admitted Blaine, with another glance at the flowered monstrosity, "but there is only one square yard of the sample. It looks different, Dick, when you have a roomful of it."

"I know it," admitted Staley, "but that doesn't help matters. It only serves to make them worse. I wanted to surprise the matter by bringing her to her own home instead of taking her to a hotel. She hates to give up her old home, and I wanted to make the change as easy as possible."

The smile died from Blaine's face at the allusion to Mrs. Staley. He was Dick's chum, and he knew how tenderly Dick loved the gentle faced woman who within the month had lost both husband and daughter. Now she was coming to live with Dick, and for weeks he had planned to take an apartment that she might not feel too keenly the loss of the home that had been hers since marriage.

"I'll tell you what we'll do, Dick," suggested Blaine. "Let's go downtown for some lunch. I'll phone Nell for one of those professional fixers for you. She knows a crackerjack, a girl who used to move in good society and whose father lost his money. She knows what's what and how to do it, and Nell will get her to do it for you."

Dick patted his chum on the back while his eyes glistened. Nell Blaine was the most accomplished matron of his acquaintance. She would extricate him from his trouble. Together they left the apartment, and while Staley ordered lunch Billy Blaine hung over the telephone in the restaurant.

"COMPLETE?" SHE ASKED, NOT QUITE CATCHING HIS MEANING.

"She'll bring her over tonight at 8," reported Billy as he took his seat. "Eat with a good appetite and consider yourself settled already."

Billy's words restored confidence, and when Dick Staley met Marion Wadleigh that evening his last doubt vanished. The girl did not laugh at his blunders nor even at the wall paper. She listened with sympathy and took from her chatelaine the tablets on which to make notes of what she wanted. With increasing admiration Staley followed her through the various rooms, noting the quick, businesslike way in which she condoned his errors and approved his successes.

"I can do it over in four days," she said briskly when she had shut up her memorandum book and returned to the parlor where Nell Blaine, Billy's sister-in-law, still sat in rapt admiration of the garish wall paper. "Suppose, Mr. Staley, that you drop in here Friday afternoon? Then you can suggest any last changes you wish made, and the place will be ready for your mother Saturday evening. Shall I get you a servant also?"

"Can you?" Staley had heard of the servant problem, and he had worried greatly. This businesslike girl offered even to take that trouble off his hands. He was rapidly coming to regard Marion Wadleigh as a tailor made angel.

He dropped in the next morning on his way to the office and found a paper hanging crew already installed, removing the paper that had proved so disappointing. Marion was there in a gingham apron even more becoming than the cloth costume of the night before, and Dick's heart beat faster in answer to her greeting.

There was something "homey" in her appearance that appealed strongly to the man who for years had enjoyed but an occasional glimpse of home in vacation time. The soft dark hair was hidden by a cap and the piquant face was flushed with exertion, but the heightened color only added to her beauty, and the cap did not shadow the tender light in the brown eyes.

Dick went to his office with his head in a whirl. Ever since he had come to the city he had sunk himself in work. Fortune had come his way rapidly, and up to the present he had found work all sufficient. Now he began to realize that the years had been lonely.

Marion was not at the house when he dropped in the following morning, nor did he see her again until Friday afternoon, when he went to make his final inspection of her work.

Dick gasped as he entered the apartment. In place of the gaudy paper the walls were now covered with quiet tones and the flowered carpets had been exchanged for rugs whose soft tints harmonized with the new paper. Instead of the solid officelike furniture were lighter and more tasteful pieces, and the whole apartment suggested a feminine presence.

Best of all, Marion Wadleigh was there. The print dress had been exchanged for an afternoon costume, and immediately Dick decided that after all a print dress was not the most becoming costume which Marion could wear, though that had been his impression since he had seen her last.

Quietly she moved about the place, giving an account of her expenditures, and Dick followed, hearing only the rich voice, full tones, without caring what she said. At last the tour of the rooms was ended, and she returned to the parlor.

"If you like," she said, "I can buy the material for dinner tomorrow and be here to welcome Mrs. Staley when she arrives. Mrs. Blaine wanted to come over, but she had to leave town last night with her husband."

"I should be delighted if you could arrange to be here tomorrow," said Staley. "I am sure that my mother will wish to add her thanks to mine for the beautiful home you have provided. You will stay to dinner?"

"I only suggested being here to welcome her," said Marion, her face flushed. "You see—in business—it is best to maintain strictly business relations. You don't have to thank me for what I have done. My charges cover all services, you know."

"But money could not pay for pulling me out of a hole and settling me," insisted Dick. "Besides, I don't want to maintain a purely business relationship unless you insist, Miss Wadleigh."

"I don't insist," the girl answered softly. "I have been much interested in your devotion to your mother, and I am sure that I shall be glad to know her better. She must be a dear old lady to deserve such affection."

"I want you to know her very well," explained Dick. "You see you have only partly settled mother. You have provided her with a home, but I want a home of my own, and I want you to furnish it complete."

"Complete?" she asked, not quite catching his meaning.

"Even to a wife," explained Dick. "I don't ask an answer now, but will you consider the proposition?"

"As a business woman I have always considered propositions," she said, with a laugh, but the look in her eyes belied the briskness of her words, and Dick realized that when they should know each other better there was a prospect of being settled "in full," as he termed it some months later when he placed a solitaire on Marion's finger.

He Got the Job.

He called at the house and asked if she had any carpets to beat, adding that he had been in the business for over twenty years.

"How much to beat that parlor carpet?" she asked.

"Four shillings."

"Why, that's awful! There was a man here yesterday who offered to do the job for 2 shillings."

"Exactly, madam, but how was he prepared?"

"He had a stick in his hand."

"I presume so. He intended to take the carpet out on a vacant piece of land, didn't he?"

"Yes; our yard is too small, you know."

"Exactly. That is a tapestry brussels carpet. It is badly worn. He would make a great show in getting it out and in here. Out on the piece of land he would give your name to every one who asked who the carpet belonged to. Is that the way to do a job of this sort?

"I take the carpet out through the back yard. I wheel it home. I beat it in a yard surrounded by a high board fence, and while I am returning it, all nicely rolled up and covered with a cloth, if any one asks me what I have I reply that it is a velvet carpet for 224 Blank street. If no one asks any questions I call at the houses on either side of you and ask if they have just ordered a new wilton. They watch me and see me come in here."

He was given the job.—Pearson's.

A Poet's Vision.

For years the poet Francis Thompson had been one of the "submerged," selling matches, calling cabs, anything to obtain the pence necessary to buy food. At last he yielded to despair, and having for some days saved up all he could earn, he devoted it to the purchase of a single dose of laudanum sufficient to end his troubles. With this he retired at night to his haunt, the rubbish plot in Covent Garden market. Then by his own narrative the following incident occurred: He had already taken half the fatal draft when he felt a hand upon his arm and, looking up, saw one whom he recognized as Chatterton forbidding him to drink the rest, and at the same instant memory came to him of how, after that poet's suicide, a letter had been delivered at his lodgings which, if he had waited another day, would have brought him the relief needed.

It happened so with Thompson, for after infinite pains the editor of a magazine who had accepted and printed an essay and a poem of his, but could not discover his address, had that very morning traced Thompson to the chemist's shop where the drug was sold, and relief for him was close at hand.—London Academy.

JIM JONES.

Jim Jones gets up at half past four in rain or shine or cold
And leaves the papers at the doors. He's only twelve years old.
But, my, he's big and makes me wish I had some work like his.
He says to me: "Poor kid, of course you'd like my job. Gee whiz!
If you could hear the things I hear and see the things I see
When I get up at half past four, you'd wish that you was me!"
He squints his eyes. "Why, Chub," he says, "I own the whole blame street.
And if you knew the things I know you'd say they're hard to beat."
"Oh, Jim," I say, "please tell me now what all these things can be."
"Not yet," says Jim; "you're lots too young. Wait till you're big like me."
"But, Jim, it must be awful cold in winter when its dark."
"Oh, sure," he says, "so fine and cold it's just a perfect lark.
Of course I never dare to laugh for fear
my face will crack;
Nor I can't frown, for it might freeze and turn an awful black.
So I just wear a halfway grin, and if my face should freeze
I'd be all right to look at with a cheerful smile to please.
You poor young kid," he says real sad.
"I'm sorry as can be
You pa won't let you go to work and see the things I see.
I cross my heart they're true," he says
each time I talk with him.
Oh, dear, why can't I get up, too, at half past four, like Jim?
—Louise Ayres Garnett in Woman's Home Companion.

Hard to Part.

The Tenor (dramatically)—Leave me, madam; leave me, I say! (Aside) Why the deuce don't you go off?

The Real Boss.

The insurance agent climbed the steps and rang the bell.

"Whom do you wish to see?" asked the careworn person who came to the door.

"I want to see the boss of the house," replied the insurance agent. "Are you the boss?"

"No," meekly returned the man who came to the door; "I'm only the husband of the boss. Step in; I'll call the boss."

The insurance agent took a seat in the hall, and in a short time a tall, dignified woman appeared.

"So you want to see the boss?" repeated the woman. "Well, just step into the kitchen. This way, please. Bridget, this gentleman desires to see you."

"Me th' boss?" exclaimed Bridget when the insurance man asked her the question. "Indade O'm not. Sure, here comes th' boss now."

She pointed to a small boy of ten years who was coming toward the house.

"Tell me," pleaded the insurance agent when the lad came in the kitchen, "are you the boss of the house?"

"Want to see the boss?" asked the boy. "Well, you just come with me."

Wearily the insurance agent climbed up the steps. He was ushered into a room on the second floor and guided to the crib of a sleeping baby.

"There," exclaimed the boy, "that's the real boss of this house."—Puck.

Noncommittal.

"Young Mrs. Jenkins is a very hard woman to pump. She always gets out of giving you any information when you ask her anything."

"I heard she was very close mouthed."

"You know it was reported that she and her husband did not get on very well together, so when I asked her quite casually what her husband gave her the other day for a birthday present (to see if they were on good terms) I couldn't tell from her answer whether he had given her a handsome piece of bric-a-brac or whether they had quarreled."

"What did she say?"

"She just said, 'He gave me a jar.'"
—Baltimore American.

The Retort Courteous.

At the terminal of an up the state railroad one day last week a conductor was making a verbal report to the general manager. Among the things that he reported was that his train had struck a bear on the way in.

"Was it on the track?" asked the general manager.

"No," replied the conductor. "The train had to go in the woods after him."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Progress.

Towne—Old Skinner declares he does all he can to further the natural progress of all men.

Browne—Yes, his idea of natural progress is for rich men to get richer and poor men poorer.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Complimentary.

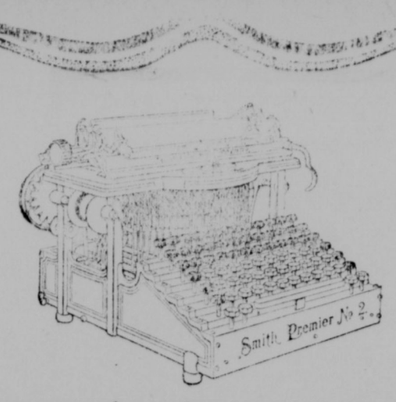
"All my friends say I made a mistake in marrying you!" cried the shrewish beauty. "We were never meant for each other, for you're just as different from me as you can be."

"Ah," retorted her husband, "you flatter me."—Houston Post.

All That Money Can Buy.

Family Friend—There is Miss Pedigree, who is such a society belle. She has so much aplomb.

Mr. Comeup—Then my girl must get some too. She's got to have everything going.—Baltimore American



ASK your stenographer what it means to change a typewriter ribbon three times in getting out a day's work.

The New Tri-Chrome Smith Premier Typewriter

makes ribbon changes unnecessary; gives you, with one ribbon and one machine, the three essential kinds of business typewriting—black record, purple

This machine permits not only [illegible]

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 15th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 15th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 9th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor.
Frostburg, Md.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Notice is here given to the qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that a Special Election will be held at the Office of the Supervisors of Election in said town on Monday, May 4th, 1908,

from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of submitting the question, as to whether the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at its January Session, 1908, with reference to issuing Municipal bonds to the amount of $80,000 for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of Water Works and Sewerage in said town, shall be enforced or vice versa.

By order of the Council,

J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk,
Town Council of Oakland.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,

Real Estate Bought and Sold.

Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.

Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information, address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent, Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,020,063 84
Total Liabilities	13,650,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department,
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD.
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital	$1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance	3,380,757 23
Reserve for all Out standing Claims	318,272 38
Net Surplus	1,118,394 25
Total Assets	$5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total Assets	2,525,496 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	737,726 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,701 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,166,350 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Feeruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets	$16,369,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities	7,865,960 74
Surplus as regards policy holders	8,503,591 36

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., April 23, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, May 12th, 1908,

to transact any business that may be brought before it.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" would save [illegible] Pneumonia. [illegible] Preventics is safer than to be obliged to [illegible] otherwise. [illegible] vention [illegible] when even a deeply [illegible] taken early—at the [illegible] head of these early colds. That's [illegible] That's why they are called "Preventics." Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures, [illegible] no physic, nothing sickening. [illegible] children—and thoroughly safe for [illegible] gladly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, [illegible] Preventics. Promptness may also save [illegible] usual plethora. And don't forget your [illegible] there is feverishness, slight chill, [illegible] ably has Preventics treating [illegible] 25 boxes for the pocket, 25c. [illegible] Preventics. Insist on your druggist [illegible]

Preventics
"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second st

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyan[illegible]
Investigation of land titles and collection o[illegible]
claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

* Daily. † Daily except Sunday. § Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBDELAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or wri[illegible]

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO
Oakland, M[illegible]

Oakland Pharm[illegible]

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationer[illegible]

Cameras and Photo Su[illegible]

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,

Okland, Md.

MISLEADING ESTIMATES.

Why Municipal Lighting Plants Generally Cost More Than Expected.

It is most unusual for a municipal lighting plant to be erected at a cost that comes anywhere near the estimate presented to the city officials. In some cases these officials are directly to blame for accepting the estimates of representatives of manufacturing companies, who are, of course, more anxious to make a sale than to protect the citizens from ultimate disappointment. When an electrical engineer is called upon for an estimate it might seem as though the council had done its full duty, but unfortunately, in some cases at least, the temptation to secure a percentage on the construction cost is great enough to overcome professional honor, and estimates are submitted which are absolutely inadequate. The only remedy for this would seem to be to obtain an independent estimate from a consulting engineer who would have no further interest in the matter.

Perhaps, however, the most common cause for disappointment is due to the fact that engineers in estimating cost fail to take into consideration what ought to be well known by this time—that cities cannot, as a rule, construct plants at as low figures as private companies can. This is due partly to the inexperience of city officials, which is taken advantage of in many cases, and also to the fact that the large amount of red tape which seems to be a necessary feature of such contracts has to be allowed for by bidders. It is therefore perfectly possible that an estimate for a municipal plant may be exceeded by 30 per cent when it would be an adequate one if the construction were to be undertaken by a private company. This is a feature of municipal ownership which has not been heretofore given the consideration that it deserves.

ANTI M. O. TIDE RISING.

Many Defeats In Many Places In the Last Few Months.

The rising of the tide of public resentment against municipal ownership is shown by the many defeats it has suffered during the past few months. Among those previously unrecorded in these pages are the following:

The voters of Canon City, Colo., declared against constructing municipal waterworks.

In Hot Springs, S. D., M. O. candidates for aldermen were defeated in every ward.

The expenditure of $50,000 to $65,000 to develop electrical power was voted down in Shelburne, Ont.

In Shullsburg, Wis., the vote was nearly six to one against bonding the city for an electric light plant.

The committee appointed by the town of Winchester, Mass., to investigate the subject of municipal lighting reported as follows:

"The committee is unanimously of the opinion that the town should not at this time undertake to own or control any municipal lighting plant, nor should it, in the opinion of the committee, engage in the manufacture or distribution either of electricity or gas for municipal use or for the use of its inhabitants."

Galena Well Out of It.

The electric light plant of Galena, Ill., was installed in 1898 at a cost of $18,000. It was sold the other day for $13,000, but this price included a twenty-five year light, power and traction franchise. Under the new contract the city will get practically twice the amount of street lighting that was furnished by the municipal plant at only 10 per cent greater cost. The sale met with the unanimous approval of the mayor and city council, as the plant had not been a success. One account of it says:

"Its management was changed as often as new political cliques gained power, and at times there was no street illumination at all. The commercial service was inferior."

Would Forfeit Vast Revenues.

As long ago as 1902 the then $17 street railways paid to the various municipalities and states $13,366,355 a year in taxes, according to our bureau of census. Adding the taxes on street railway securities as property of the holders and the additions, the total is now fully $25,000,000 a year. Municipal ownership would forfeit that great sum as state and municipal revenue.—Walter J. Ballard in Los Angeles Times.

No Exposures For Him.

"Now, here," said the enthusiastic real estate agent to the prominent politician, "is one of the most desirable houses in the capital. It has exposures all around"—

"Good heavens," cried the prominent politician, with a start of dismay, "that's just what I'm trying to get away from!"—Baltimore American.

Sentiment Not Enough.

The mere sentiment for ownership is not enough. It must be accompanied by the cold figures to demonstrate its practicability under a strictly business test. Unfortunately the sentimentality of the case is too often indulged first and to the exclusion of the necessary facts and figures.—Bloomington (Ill.) Pantagraph.

The beauties of the English language are again evident in the case of the western man who had skipped with the town funds and was described as "six feet tall and $10,000 short."—Exchange.

The city council of Pine Bluff, Ark., has rejected the municipal ownership scheme and has renewed the contract for lighting for five years.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. &P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,

Table and Floor Oil Cloths,

Lace Curtains,

Dotted Swiss,

Window Blinds,

Sheets and Pillow Cases,

Table Linen, Towels,

Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows and Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Survey, Sincell Building, Oakland

The Tariff Tinker Never Sleeps.

The tariff tinker is one of the most unique of modern freaks. In promoting his favorite scheme for the unbalancing of business equilibrium he never sleeps. He is the festering sore and the intermittent fever that afflicts struggling enterprises and he yields only to heroic remedies.

It is undoubtedly true that the tariff could never be adjusted to suit everybody. Probably each and every one of the 500 manufacturers who assembled in New York recently could suggest a tariff that would benefit his particular business.

But how about the thousands of workingmen, manufacturers and merchants whose interests would not be considered in the revision?

No matter who demands free trade or its substitute, tariff "revision," there is no question that under present schedules the nation is enjoying a period of greatest prosperity in its history.

Why not leave well enough alone? —Scranton Tribune.

Printer's Ink

When used on good presses and neatly displayed type for your stationery is valuable. We have every facility for doing the best of job work, at a minimum price.

Don't Preach About Home Trade

and at the same time send your orders for job printing out of town. Your home printer can do your work just as good, and in nine cases out of ten he can beat the city man's prices, because he pays much less for running expenses. By sending your next printing order to this office you'll be better satisfied all around, and you'll be keeping the money at home.

FOR SALE.

A good farm of 115 acres, 3 miles from Frankville and 5 miles from Swanton; 60 acres in cultivation; improved by 2 dwelling houses, 3 small barns and other outbuildings; 2 orchards of choice fruit, excellent water and convenient to church and school. Possession given at once, the purchaser to pay for labor and seed for any crop that may have been put in the ground at time of transfer.

Price, $1800; ⅓ cash and balance to suit purchaser.

Apply to Fred. A. Thayer, Oakland, Md. 5-4t

For Sale.

I offer for sale Military Lot No. 791, containing 50 acres, lying about five miles west of Frostburg, and near the old Blocher place in District No. 9 of Garrett county. The property will be sold cheap and on easy terms. Apply to W. E. Wilson, 107 Virginia Avenue, Cumberland, Md.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

Sheriff's License Notice.

To Merchants, Traders and Others:

All persons and bodies corporate or politic of Garrett county who are or shall be exercising or pursuing any business, or shall be in the occupation at any house or place for any purpose for which license is made necessary by the laws of Maryland, are hereby warned to obtain a license or renew the same on or before the next ensuing under the penalties prescribed by the said laws for the infraction thereof.

First Day of May

The attention of all persons proposing to engage in the sale of spirituous, fermented and intoxicating liquors is especially called to the provisions of the Acts of Assembly.

AUSTIN BROWN, Sheriff.

MATTHEWS & HAMILL,

Successors to Charles A. Tower,

General Fire Insurance,

OAKLAND, MD.

We offer the best possible protection.

AN ACT, to repeal and re-enact with amendments, Section 113 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, in 1906, Chapter 423.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 113 of the Code of Public Laws of Article 12, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of 1906, Chapter 223, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

SEC. 113. That the male citizens of said town of the age of twenty-one years and upwards being citizens of the United States, and who have resided in said town for six months thereto preceding, shall elect by ballot on the first Monday in April, of the year 1908, a Mayor, to serve for two years or until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified, and five Councilmen, three to serve for one year and two to serve for two years from the date of their election, or until their successors have been duly elected and qualified, and an election shall be held thereafter every second year for the election of a Mayor to serve for two years and an election shall be held thereafter every year for the election of two or three Councilmen as the case may be, to serve for the term of two years, the number of Councilmen thus to be elected to correspond with the number of Councilmen whose terms expire at the time of such election. In case of death, resignation or failure to qualify of any party elected as Mayor or Councilmen the corporate board (not less than a quorum being present) shall fill such vacancy by the election of some other qualified inhabitant of Grantsville to fill the unexpired term of the party whose place shall thus have become vacant. The Mayor and Councilmen during their official term shall hold no other corporation office nor be interested in any contract to which said corporation is a party, or where the money for said contract is to be paid out of the corporation treasury.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 296.

AN ACT to repeal Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County" sub-title "Dogs" and to authorized the County Commissioners to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund" created by said Act; to re-enact Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892; and to add a new Section to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Sheep" to be designated 214A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," be and the same is hereby repealed, and that the County Commissioners are hereby authorized to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund," created by said Act; and that Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" be re-enacted as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892 and a new section be added to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep," to be designated 214A.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That after the first day of April, 1908, that the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county shall have power to place any balance which may remain in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the "Sheep Fund" after all the claims for sheep killed by dogs have been paid, to the credit of the general Road Fund of the county and in case the claims proven for loss of sheep by dogs prior to April first, 1908, cannot be met by the "Sheep Fund" then the County Commissioners shall pay such claims out of the general funds of the county.

214. It shall be lawful to kill any dog seen running sheep in Garrett county and the owners of dogs shall be liable for all sheep killed or injured by them, and any person seeing such dogs running at large may lawfully kill the same.

214A. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county upon the petition of taxpayers, if they elect, shall have power to levy a tax, or license fee upon dogs and bitches owned, kept, or harbored within their county and to provide for the enrollment of said dogs and bitches designating officer or officers to do the same, and they may designate the time and manner of collecting the tax or license fee, and appoint tee officer or officers to make such collection or enrollment, and, may require them to give bond: and upon the petition in writing of the taxpayers of any one election district the County Commissioners, if the see fit, shall have power to levy an amount upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, which amount shall be applied in that district only to re-imburse the owners of sheep or lambs residing in said district for all sheep or lambs injured or killed by dogs, at a flat rate of three dollars per head; provided that this payment shall not be made when the ownership of the dog which did such killing can be proved. The County Commissioners are hereby authorized to make all rules and and regulations covering the custody and disbursement of this special fund.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this Act shall take effect upon the first day of April, 1908.

Approved April 1, 1908.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1980, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 3 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge intefest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER.
Treasurer.

LEVY LIST, 1908.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, Levied on the 18th Day of April, 1908, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Marvland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.
(Levied as per Act of Legislature.)

Dist. No. 1—Swanton	$	881 50
" 2—Selbysport		1,073 40
" 3—Grantsville		1,216 80
" 4—Bloomington		533 40
" 5—Accident		829 82
" 6—Sang Run		536 04
" 7—East Oakland		1,688 26
" 8—Ryans Glade		1,015 97
" 9—Johnsons		364 03
" 10—Deer Park		877 24
" 11—Elbow		353 15
" 12—Bittinger		460 95
" 13—Kitzmillersville		321 51
" 14—Oakland		1,860 15
Total	$	12,012 32

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of—Oakland	$	800 00
Deer Park		100 00
Loch Lynn		100 00
Friendsville		300 00
Kitzmillersville		150 00
Commissioners of Grantsville		150 00
Mt. Lake Park Community		200 00
Total	$	1,800 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett National Bank	$	600 00
Same, use Davis Nat'l Bank		700 00
Same, balance		440 25
Total	$	1,740 25

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay expenses for June, September and December, 1908, and March Term, 1909	$	3,085 00

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay Judges	$	464 64
E. E. Friend, Register of Wills		175 10
Total	$	639 74

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. L. Lee, late Sheriff, use Garrett National Bank	$	500 00
Same, use Dixon & Kelso		852 11
Same, balance		1,358 46
Estimate to pay Sheriff's salary, prisoners' board, etc., for 1908, subject to order		3,000 00
Estimate to pay Warden's salary, subject to order		900 00
Estimate to pay Jail Cook's salary, subject to order		300 00
E. I. West, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland		17 50
C. J. Brown, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use of First National Bank of Oakland		22 00
Daniel Vaughn, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland		30 00
Daniel Jamison, taking care of David Saucer at jail		7 50
J. W. Purnell, taking care of C. C. Michael at jail		42 00
Total	$	7,029 57

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners for support schools	$	17,000 00
To build new school houses		3,000 00
Total	$	20,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING & PUBLISHING.

Benj. H. Sincell, publishing and printing, use Garrett National Bank	$	462 50
James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett National Bank		262 50
Chas. A. Deffinbaugh, publishing		116 65
Total	$	841 65

ELECTION EXPENSES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$	3,800 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same for 1908	$	4,000 00
Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn, part payment for bridge over Little Yough near Loch Lynn		125 00
Total	$	4,125 00

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$	250 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1908	$	2,600 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1908	$	1,050 00

STATE WITNESSES BEFORE J. P.

Estimate for 1908	$	100 00

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$	1,000 00
A. G. Ross, Clerk, balance		600 00
F. A. Thayer, Attorney		150 00

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 187—
A. C. Mason, surveyor, 5 days	$	10 00
Chauncey Kimmell, examiner, 2 days		4 00
Eugene Teats, examiner 2 days		4 00
W. T. Sines, " 2 days		4 00
Samuel Kimmell chainman, 1 day		1 50
Guy Kimmell, chainman, 1 day		1 50
J. S. Hardesty, axeman, 1 day		1 50
Road Case No. 188—
C. M. Miller, surveyor		15 25
Rudolph Beckman, examiner, 3 days		6 00
J. L. Fitzwater, examiner, 3 days		6 00
P. P. McAndrews, " 3 "		6 00
Jno. A. Beckman, flagman, 2 "		3 00
Jas. W. Kisner, axeman, 2 "		3 00
Stuart A. Paugh, chainman, 2 "		3 00
Luther C. Winter, " 2 "		3 00
Road Case No. 190—
P. C. Boucher, surveyor		10 00
H. S. Coleman, examiner, 1 day		2 00
David Popp, " 1 day		2 00
B. F. Michael, " 1 day		2 00
Noah McKenzie, chainman, 1 day		1 50
Jos. Minnick, " 1 day		1 50
Road Case No. 191—
W. McCulloh Brown, surveyor		20 00
Jas. W. Harvey, examiner 4 days		8 00
James Lish, " 4 days		8 00
L. C. Hamill, " 3 days		6 00
L. C. Hamill, roadman, 3 days		4 50
George Plum, axeman, 2 days		3 00
Richard Bray, chainman, 3 days		4 50
Clever Pool, " 2 days		3 00
Hamill Coal & Coke Co., damages		1 00
Manor Mining & Mfg Co., "		22 15
Garrett County Coal Co., "		20 45
Road Case No. 192—
Getty Browning, surveyor, use Garrett National Bank		35 00
Jonas Glotfelty, examiner, 1½ days		3 00
F. D. Dewitt, examiner, 1½ days		3 00
W. A. Smith, " 1 day		2 00
Lee Browning, chainman, 4 days		6 00
Fred. Shank, " 4 days		6 00
Road Case No. 193—
James A. Sincell, surveyor		15 00
Martin Hughes, examiner, 2 days		4 00
P. H. Rodeheaver, " 3 days		6 00
Henry Myers, " 2 days		4 00
W. M. Lawton, chainman, 1 day		1 50
Delbert Rodeheaver, " 1 day		1 50
Edmund Jamison, " 1 day		1 50
Total	$	279 85

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS.

Districts Nos. 1, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13 and 14, subject to order	$	1,378 89
Districts Nos. 3, 9, 11 and 12, subject to order		500 00
Districts Nos. 2, 5 and 6, subject to order		400 00
Total	$	2,278 89

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, late State's Attorney	$	1,339 47
J. T. Mitchell, 2 misdemeanors		10 00
C. G. Watson, 2 "		10 00
Thos. J. Peddicord, 1 felony		10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, 4 misdemeanors and 2 felonies		40 00
Norman S. Heindel, 1 felony		10 00
Renninger & Offutt, 1 "		10 00
E. H. Sincell, 1 misdemeanor		5 00
G. S. Hamill & Ferdinand Williams, 1 felony		10 00
Ferdinand Williams, 2 misdemeanors		10 00
Asa T. Matthews, 1 felony		10 00
S. F. Hamill, 1 "		10 00
G. S. Hamill, Jr., 1 "		10 00
Hamill & Matthews, 1 felony		10 00
J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney		15 00
Total	$	1,519 47

CONSTABLES' FEES.

Dist. No. 1—Jos. R. Glass	$	11 60
" 2—Chas. H. Liston		10 95
" 4—Jac. Stump, special		3 75
" 7—Wm. A. Maffett		280 15
" 10—E. G. Miller		8 70
" 14—J. H. White, special		45 05
" 14—Wm. Newman, "		24 40
Total	$	384 60

MAGISTRATES' FEES.

Dist. No. 3—Peter Nathan	$	44 40
" 5—Henry Kahl		7 95
" 7—A. S. Teats		130 29
" 10—Wm. D. Hoye		18 00
" 14—Andrew B. Gonder		60 40
Total	$	261 04

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

John Kanada, support Frances Cooper, subject to order	$	25 00
Sarah Sanbower, support Hubert Sanbower, subject to order		50 00
Silas Cuppett, support Emily Forsythe, subject to order		100 00
Jacob Beeman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order		25 00
Francis Fike, support Nancy Vansickle and daughter, subject to order		120 00
Esther Glotfelty, support self, subject to order		96 00
Simon Nair, support self, subject to order		60 00
J. I. Ringer, support John R. Ringer, subject to order		120 00
Amelia Turney, support self, subject to order		50 00
Alpheus and Mary Yeast, support self, subject to order		150 00
James W. Gilpin, support self, subject to order		100 00
Estimate for others		200 00
Total	$	1,096 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

On the body of Anna Boger—Philip Georg, Juror	$	1 00
Samuel Mosser, "		1 00
Louis Durst, "		1 00
Floyd Deahl, "		1 00
Valentine Kahl, "		1 00
William Bowman, "		1 00
Daniel Bowman, "		1 00
Solomon Glass, "		1 00
Newton Geis, "		1 00
Smith Friend, "		1 00
William Garringer, "		1 00
J. P. Spiker, "		1 00
Dr. H. R. Boyer		10 00
Leonard Shartzer, summoning jurors		1 50
On body of George H. Marville—Samuel P. Specht, juror		1 00
William H. Clary, "		1 00
George Marley, "		1 00
James T. Shaffer, "		1 00
Walter C. Bowman, "		1 00
Sanson S. Savedge, "		1 00
George L. Coffman, "		1 00
F. L. Warnick, "		1 00
Chas. B. Savedge, "		1 00
Alex. C. George, "		1 00
Enoch R. Clark, "		1 00
John Snyder, "		1 00
Dr. J. K. Cole		10 00
G. W. Haulenbeck, for team		50
On body of Joseph Harris—George T. Miller, juror		1 00
James Coffman, "		1 00
Jesse Harris, "		1 00
Edward Miller, "		1 00
George Moorehead, "		1 00
Lawrence Garvey, "		1 00
Robert Moorehead, "		1 00
Lewis Mitter, "		1 00
Daniel Raley, "		1 00
Adam Elliott, "		1 00
James Spence, "		1 00
James Reynolds, "		1 00
Marcus M. Fazenbaker, coroner		5 00
Dr. H. M. Kemp		10 00
Thomas Burk, Witness		33
J. P. Cleary, "		33
Gilbert Warnick, "		33
Harmon Elliott, "		33
R. A. C. Howard, "		33
Thomas Moorehead, "		33
Dominick Flynn, "		33
Edward Devine, "		33
Russell Patterson, "		33
Frank Flynn, "		33
Stephen Flynn, "		33
Lewis Baldwin, "		33
Lon Buckhannon, "		33
Renx Buckhannon, "		33
Charles D. Moorehead, "		33
Thomas P. Swan, "		33
Charles Brentlin, "		33
Michael Flynn, "		33
Joseph Paugh, "		33
Lewis Mitter, "		33
Cole Duckworth, "		33
Joseph Moran, "		33
William Elliott, "		33
Charles Flynn, "		33
Mrs. John Howell, "		33
Charles H. Hill, "		33
Gus Wilson, "		33
George Ward, "		33
Andy Hotchkiss, "		33
Charles Ball, "		33
Scott Elliott, "		33
Howard Miller, "		33
Mrs. Gilbert Warnick, "		33
Mrs. C. D. Moorehead, "		33
Benj. Fazenbaker, "		33
On body of Robert E. Clingan—Edward J. Frantz, juror		1 00
W. A. Maffett, "		1 00
G. M. Mason, "		1 00
J. N. Robinson, "		1 00
D. M. Mason, "		1 00
W. Ravenscroft, "		1 00
John Sweeney, "		1 00
R. K. Maroney, "		1 00
Owen Tracy, "		1 00
Thomas Little, "		1 00
Charles Liller, "		1 00
W. H. Hinebaugh, "		1 00
Dr. H. W. McComas		10 00
Dr. J. E. Legge		10 00
J. A. Cross, Witness		33
Mattie Cross, "		33
Holmes Browning, "		33
Charles Whetsell, "		33
James Frantz, "		33
Philip Davis, "		33
On body of John Collins—George Mason, juror		1 00
Edward J. Frantz, "		1 00
Daniel Vaughn, "		1 00
George Geissman, "		1 00
B. H. Sincell, "		1 00
E. A. Weimer, "		1 00
E. Baumgartner, "		1 00
D. M. Mason, "		1 00
George D. White, "		1 00
Charles Liller, "		1 00
Robert Townshend, "		1 00
James A. Sincell, "		1 00
Earl Durst, witness		33
Dr. John E. Legge		10 00
On body of Bartholomew Hileman—D. M. Mason, juror		1 00
L. J. Brown, "		1 00
J. M. Stanton, "		1 00
A. J. Harne, "		1 00
E. J. Frantz, "		1 00
Austin Brown, "		1 00
W. A. Maffett, "		1 00
Elwood Offutt, "		1 00
Benj. H. Sincell, "		1 00
Samuel Rodeheaver, "		1 00
Clyde C. Liller, "		1 00
Harper Bartlett, use Chas. Liller		1 00
Dr. Mahlon Hinebaugh		10 00
Total	$	162 86

COURT HOUSE BONDS.

To pay bond No. 1	$	5,000 00
" " interest from Aug. 1st, 1908, to July 31st, 1909		3,000 00
Total	$	8,000 00

COURT HOUSE COMMISSION.

Deficiency in bond, sale	$	3,138 50
To be used for the necessary grading, steps, walks and approaches on court house lot, (as per Act of Legislature)		3,000 00
Total	$	6,138 50

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. J. E. Legge, Health Officer	$	100 00
Same, Physician to jail		100 00
James Denmark, scavenger, subject to order		25 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor to c.h.		200 00
Henry M. Casteel, coal for c.h. and jail, use Garrett N. Bn'k		110 51
Same, for same, balance		51 17
Lincoln Callis, repairing road machines		21 21
Oakland Pharmacy, medicine for paupers and at jail		29 80
W. M. Thayer, hauling lumber for culverts		4 00
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers		45 60
D. E. Offutt & Sons, supplies furnished Mrs. Gilpin		15 00
Same, electric lamps, etc		2 95
The Falconer Company, stationery for Clerk of Court		44 25
Lantz Bros., supplies for c.h.		10 91
Thomas Harne, hauling		6 00
G. A. Shirer, supplies for jail		4 95
Wm. J. C. Dulany Co, stationery for Clerk of Court		46 84
J. M. Davis & Sons, supplies for jail and court house		39 70
Corlies, Macy & Co., stationery for court house		188 25
James D. Hamill, stationery for Clerk's office		5 00
Alva Bushnell Co. same		15 75
W. H. H. Friend, issuing burial permits		6 80
Sines & Fries, coffin for pauper		20 00
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs and supplies jail sewer pipe		355 26
Baltimore Office Supply Co., supplies for Clerk's office		37 45
D. E. Bolden, repairs at c.h. coffins for paupers, etc		168 63
George Geissman, coal for jail		18 75
Felty & Co., lumber for court house platform		9 96
Dixon & Kelso, supplies court house and Jail		52 90
John W. Maroney, digging pauper graves		4 00
M. E. Frazee, coffin, pauper, &c		15 00
J. M. Jarboe, kindling for c.h.		4 00
E. W. Helbig, wood for jail		10 50
Garrett Co. Telephone Co. rent of 'phone at jail		6 50
E. W. Helbig, paper hanging at jail		39 85
M. A. Rhoages, support Anna R. Maust		31 10
The Corkins Chemical Co., disinfectant for jail		23 50
Oakland Electric Co., light for court house and jail		552 55
Total	$	2,445 64

COUNTY TREASURER.

William H. Hollinger, commissions on county tax	$	1,337 92
Same, commissions on state tax		184 16
Total	$	1,521 07

Contingent Fund	$	4,215 62

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$	12,012 32
Corporations		1,800 00
Clerk of Circuit Court		1,740 25
Court Fund		3,085 00
Orphans' Court		639 74
Sheriff's Office		7,029 57
Public Schools		20,000 00
Public Painting & Publishing		841 65
Election Expenses		3,800 00
Bridge Account		4,125 00
Fox and Cat Certificates		250 50
Almshouse and Asylum Fund		2,600 00
Maryland Hospital		1,050 00
Est. to pay J. P. Witnesses		100 00
Commissioners' Office		1,750 00
New Roads		279 85
Special Road Appropriations		2,278 89
Attorneys' Fees		1,519 47
Constables' Fees		384 60
Magistrates' Fees		261 04
Outside Pensioners		1,096 00
Coroners' Inquests		162 86
Court House Bonds		8,000 00
Court House Commission		6,138 50
Miscellaneous Account		2,445 64
County Treasurer		1,521 07
Contingent Fund		4,215 62
Total	$	89 127 07

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the Assessment Books amounts to $8,408,214.00, which at $1.06 on the $100 will make the above amount for County purposes $89,127.07.

Deducting $734,866.00 for Corporations paying direct to the State Treasurer leaves the basis $7,673,348.00 at 16 cents on each $100 makes $12,277.36 and this added makes the taxes for State and County purposes $101,404.43.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

CHAPTER 639.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 71 passed at the present session of the General Assembly of the State of Maryland for the year 1908.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 71 of the Acts of 1908, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment so as to read as follows:

SECTION 6. No spirituons or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any Election District of said County except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act; and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, house, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said Clerk by at least seven respectable free-holders, assessed for at least two thousand dollars, living in the Election District in which said saloon is to be located and with in two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article, and until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall file with said Clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said Clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditionally to the payment of all fine, penalties, costs and damages to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this state and said Clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this Section, unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond; and that in no event shall any person sell such article on the Sabbath day, commonly called Sunday, and for violation of this provision such person, natural or artificial, shall be subjected to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act, provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, shall still remain in full force and virtue in law, (and provided further that this Act shall not apply to any incorporated town having a paid police force).

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 71.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, entitled An Act to repeal and re-enact with the amendments Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890, entitled an Act to enable the qualified voters of Garrett county to determine by ballot whether spirituous or fermented liquors or acoholic bitters shall be sold in said county and to regulate the terms and conditions on which the sale thereof may be made in case the majority of the voters of said county shall determine said question in the affirmative, and to regulate the sale thereof by druggists and pharmacists.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890 as repealed and re-enacted by Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

6. No spirituous or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any election district of said county except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said clerk by at least seven respectable freeholders assessed for at least two thousand dollars living in the election district in which said saloon is located and within two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article. Provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chaptor 554 of the Acts of 1904 shall still remain in full force and virtue in law. Nor until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall haye filled with said clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned to the payment of all fines, penalties, costs and damages, to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this State and said clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this section unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond; and that in no event shall any person sell such articles on the Sabbath day commonly called Sunday; and for violations of this provision such person, natural or artificial shall be subjected to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 10, 1908.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's white oak and rock oak street 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1908. NUMBER 10

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS ORGANIZED.

Mr. D. M. Mason Elected President; Mr. Edmund Jamison, Chosen Clerk.

Tuesday afternoon Clerk E. Z. Tower administered the oath of office to Messrs. D. M. Mason, Samuel Lawton and Clarence V. Guard, who were appointed by Governor Crothers Supervisors of Elections for Garrett county at the same time the other local appointments were made by the Executive.

The Supervisors organized Tuesday evening by the election of Mr. D. M. Mason as president of the Board. Mr. Edmund Jamison, of Crellin, who has filled the office as clerk to the Board for a number of years, was reappointed to the position. Mr. G. Semmes Hamill, Jr., was chosen attorney to the Board.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Miss Ida I Mason, of Durbin, W. Va., is visiting her brother, Dr. A. J. Mason; also Mrs. D. W. LaPaugh and little daughter.

Miss Iva A. and Elma McCullough returned home from Pittsburg where they had been spending a few days.

Mr. R. C. McCandlish and Mr. Landis made a business trip to Swallow Falls on Thursday last.

Mr. Clarence Nicklo, Mr. Wm. Dunham and Miss Kate and Lillie Hanftling spent Sunday at the young ladies home at Accident.

Mr. Amster Friend and little daughter, of Pittsburg, spent a few days with his parents.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Mason attended the funeral of Mrs. Inskip of Addison, Pa., on Monday of this week.

The Lock Haven Lumber Co., closed their store on May 1st.

Mrs. C. V. Guard, who has been very sick for a few days with mumps and cold, is very much improved.

Prof. H. W. Browning was seen on our streets Saturday evening.

Our police is parading the streets swinging his club and whistling—it is a boy girl.

Broke from Lockstep.

Jesse Briggs, a negro serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary at Moundsville, W. Va., was shot and killed by Warden C. G. Dawson Saturday. Briggs broke from the lockstep, and when ordered to got back in line began throwing stones at the warden. Dawson then shot him throught the breast, killing him instantly. Briggs had been sentenced to hang for murder but the Governor commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. The coroner's jury, which sat immediately, exonerated Dawson.

Subscribe for the Republican.

SOME DRY SPOTS IN GARRETT COUNTY.

New Local Option Law Prohibits Sale of Liquor in Prescribed Sections.

TOWN OF ACCIDENT IS VERY ARID.

Other Retailers Refused Licenses On Account of The Recommenders' Law—Friendsville Dealers to Test Recent Election Held There.

The new local option law passed at the recent session of the Maryland Legislature, created at least one dry spot in the county, that being the town of Accident, where one saloon, operated by F. C. Ries, has been in existence for more than forty years with the exception of a year or two when the entire county was dry. Efforts have been put forth at regular intervals for the past several years to make Accident dry, a bill to this effect having been passed two years ago, but was vetoed by Governor Warfield. Last winter a like measure was introduced but was unfavorably reported by the committee and was killed in the House. The new local option bill, however, turned the trick, as Section 11 of the law, framed in unmistakable language, says "it shall not be lawful to sell intoxicating liquors within one mile of any school house or church after the passage of this act unless the same be situated within the corporate limits of an incorporated town." This being the law Clerk Tower was prohibited from issuing a license to Mr. Ries, hence Accident is arid.

Seemingly the above section affected Accident only, as all others applying for license under the local option law, received the same. Under the provisions of the recommenders' law, however, license to sell was refused in the case of Charles D. Gillaspie, of near Gorman, as his recommenders do not reside within the limits prescribed by the law—a radius of two miles where he intended to conduct the saloon.

Friendsville dealers, who were forced to close their places of business on May 1st, the residents of the town having voted it dry at the election held early in the spring, made a tender of the license fee to the Mayor and Council of town, and demanded that license be issued them. This was refused and now they are contemplating making a test case of the matter by getting out a mandamus compelling the corporate authorities to grant them licenses.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

FROM FITZGERALD, GEORGIA.

Rev. J. B. Shoup Writes of Conditions In The South.

To the Editor of The Republican:

As the greater number of my intimate friends among the readers of THE REPUBLICAN are fellow-farmers, a word or two about things agricultural will not be out of place.

March and April, 1908, will stand as record breakers in precipitation. In March we had four inches of rain-fall in 80 hours, and this month has given us not less than ten inches. Of course this coming in a few days, was excessive, and considerable damage has resulted to the farmer. But we are not greatly disheartened; we have some things, and others coming. Peas, white potatoes and new cabbage, with turnips, asparagus, strawberries and mulberries are on the table, while corn-tassel, melon-bloom and oat-pods are showing, with beans, tomatoes and cucumbers formed. Replanting of corn and cotton is largely necessary. No frost since the last day of February, and the gauge has read up into the 80's. The Georgia farmer has hope, and by spells seeks the shade for comfort.

Times are hard down here; we just begin to realize this. Some things come southward slowly. The potato-bu was 20 years finding our patches, and money panics filter downward leisurely; but both bugs and panics stick tight when they get here. However things financially may shape themselves with you, we shall have tight squeezing for a year to come.

Hoke Smith wants another term as Governor, and will have an up-hill pull, because the jug people say he brought on the hard times by signing the Georgia prohibition bill. And this thirsty crowd will fight him all the harder, because it does prohibit, in very large measure, at least. There are lots of thirsty people in dry Georgia to-day, and they are "good and mad" at everything that makes dry.

"But I started out to tell some Maryland friends a thing or two. And first of all: Don't come to Georgia just now with a lean purse. Living is high, and wages low. But with money you could not choose a better time. Hotels and business houses will sell "way down" for a year to come. If I had a wagon load of money I should put it into real estate right here. A full set of country buildings for new Ben Hill county must go up in Fitzgerald, additional railroads and manufacturing plants are on the way to us; and a $500,000 National Soldier's Home is being pressed for in Congress. With the soil, the climate, the push and the "pull-all-together" we will see 25,000 "at home" in Fitzgerald inside the next ten years.

We need very urgently a crate-making mill, and some of Garrett's young hustlers should come and set it going.

Fraternally,
J. B. SHOUP.

Fitzgerald, April 30, 1908

GRANTSVILLE.

There was much interest shown in the temperance rally, both rooms being well filled. The speakers were Hon. Lawrence Green and Rev. George Yoder. Both were very earnest and able speakers. There was several temperance selections sung by the full choir also two beautiful solos by Dr. Ebersole, of Chicago, and one by Prof. King.

We are certainly sorry that Rev. McCoy is sick and couldn't be with us in the rally. We hope to see him well again soon.

Mrs. Annabel Brown and little son Albert, of St. Louis, are here for the summer.

Mrs. James Bevans and son left for their home in Grafton, W. Va.

Mr. Conrad Burkholder, who was taken to the hospital at Cumberland, a couple of weeks ago for treatment, died and was brought home and interment made at Springs. Mrs. Burkholder is very sick; also two of their children are down with typhoid fever. They certainly have the sympathy of the people.

Miss Ethel Broadwater was spending a few days in Cumberland and Frostburg.

Miss Nellie Broadwater was in Frostburg a few days visiting a sick relative.

Snow Storm Sunday Night.

In many sections of Garrett county and extending as far east as Cumberland, a snow storm of more than ordinany severity swept over the country Sunday night. At Grantsville, Frostburg, Meyersdale, Pa., and near Cumberland, snow to the depth of more than an inch covered the ground Monday morning. Strange to relate Oakland escaped the snow.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

TOWN ELECTION AT DEER PARK.

Citizens Ticket, With One Exception, Won at the Polls Monday.

Last Monday the regular annual election for the town of Deer Park was held, when two tickets, the Citizens' and the "Sidewalk," were in the field, the former winning with one exception.

The total vote cast at the election numbered sixty, divided among the various candidates as follows:

Citizens' Ticket—For mayor, W. W. Hennen, 34; Councilmen, John Speicher, 34; L. D. Thrasher, 34; Chas. A. Ashby, 37; C. R. Savage, 23.

"Sidewalk" Ticket—For Mayor, Rev. W. H. Clary, 26; Councilmen, J. L. Wheeler, 22; E. B. King, 28; S. W. Friend, 25; M. V. Flanigan, 24.

Pretty Church Wedding.

A very pretty church wedding was solemnized Wednesday morning, April 29, 1908, in St. Peter's Catholic church, Westernport, at nine o'clock, by the pastor, Rev. Thomas E. Gallagher, who used the solemn and impressive mass marriage ceremony. The contracting parties were Mr. Edward F. Hines and Miss Genevieve Mattingly. Miss Olia Mattingly, of Hoyes, Md., a cousin of the bride, was bride's maid, and Mr. James P. Hines, a brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Messrs. Charles C. Culbertson, Charles Bell, Ray Arnold, and Harry Lannon. A number of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony.

The bride and bride's maid were attired in lovely white princess gowns and carried white carnations and the groom and his brother wore the conventional black. Miss Bernadette Bell played the wedding march.

The groom is a son of the late B. & O. Engineer and Mrs. Thomas Hines, a prominent citizen and popular young man with a host of friends. The bride is the handsome, accomplished and popular daughter of Mr. Stephen and Mrs. Loretta Mattingly, of Fairview street, and although a resident of Piedmont but a couple of years, has a large circle of friends and acquaintances and is deservedly popular.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mattingly served a tempting wedding breakfast, which was enjoyed by about 90 friends other than the immediate families of the contracting parties. The menu was very extensive and all that the most exacting could desire.

Among the out of town relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Shirer, of Oakland, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Echard and Miss Bessie Echard, of Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Mr. Hines is erecting a spacious residence on Fairview street, which he and his bride will occupy as soon as completed.

The bride was the recipient of many pretty, useful and costly presents. Among them were: Cut glass comport, John Gannon; pictures, Miss Lillian Goshorn, Martin Walsh, Levi Echard and Charles Bell; parlor rug, J. P. L. Laffey; table linen, Mrs. F. W. Seaber, Mrs. Winfield Shaffer, John Hines, Mrs. Christian Wotring; rockers, C. M. Lewis and family, Brian Healey and sisters, P. P. Codire, Mrs. J. F. Hoban, Mrs. C. T. Neff; hand painted china, James and Mary Hines, linen napkins, Joseph Graney; linen towels, Mrs. Denel, Mrs. Annie Orendorf, Mrs. Wm. Mattingly; bed spreads, Mesdames, Kate Dailey, Levi Echard, Mary Moran, M. F. O'Donnell, Chas. H. Smith; center piece, Misses Doyle; silver knives and forks, Mrs. J. L. Echard; silver tea spoons, Mrs. M. A. Carney, Mrs. Calvin Echard; silver napkin rings, Harry Lannon; silver cake basket, Mrs. Chas. Athey; silver butter and sugar shell, Mrs. M. Mattingly; gold lined sugar shell, Mrs. F. P. Graney; hand painted china clock, Mr. H. P. Dawson; gold clock, D. A. Laffey; set hand painted china plates, C. C. Culberson, R. E. Kimmel, J. H. Feaster; silver berry spoon, Ola Mattingly; silver pickle fork, Eugene Paddison; silver bon bon dish, A. L. Wheeler; silver crumb tray, W. L. O'Brien; silver bread plate, Charles Levell; silver butter dish and knife, W. S. Laidlow; silver fruit dish, Mrs. R. M. Moxley; hand painted china card tray, Mrs. F. C. Jamesson, china salad dish, Mrs. Carrie Levell; clock, Bessie Echard; cracker jar, David Lewis, Mrs. Johnson; sugar shell, Mrs. Wm. Hines; silver nut bowl, Mrs. W. C. Shirer; linen towels, Mrs. Elsie Ashby, Mrs. J. G. Schramm; silver salad set, Mrs. James Carey; glass fruit dish, Marguerite Hines; silver gravy tureen, Hamilton Hines; china sugar bowl and cream pitcher, Mrs. C. E. Frankland; china pitcher, E. E. Smith; china salt and pepper shaker, Montie Mattingly; silver gravy ladle, Genevieve Hines; china berry set, Mrs. M. F. O'Brien; silver cream pitcher, Mrs. Patrick Walsh; cut glass silver set, Mrs. McGuigan.—Piedmont Herald.

Subscribe for The Republican.

WATER WORKS AND SEWERAGE PROPOSITION

Was Carried by an Exceedingly Large Majority at Monday's Election.

VOTE STOOD 189 FOR: 52 AGAINST

Bonds To The Amount of $60,000 Voted With Which to Install System In All Parts of The Town—Source of Supply Yet to be Found

At the special election held in Oakland on Monday when the qualified voters of the town decided by a large majority to issue bonds for the purpose of installing a water works and sewerage system for the town, was a step taken in the right direction, provided the funds voted for the purpose are ample to furnish the entire municipahty with the system.

The vote was taken at the office of the Board of Supervisors, and while much interest was shown in the matter and earnest work was done by those favorin as well as by those opposing the issuance of the bonds, everything was quite and in order.

A total of 241 ballots were cast, the count revealing the startling fact that of the total vote cast only about one in every four ballots were against the proposition, the figures being 189 for the bonds and only 52 against the measure.

Under the law giving the citizens of the town the right to vote upon the question, it is provided that should the vote be in favor of the proposition, then the Mayor and Council shall issue bonds to an amount not exceeding $60,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of "establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and for fire protection, and for establishing, erecting, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purpose."

The voters having decided that the town should establish such systems the matter now rests with the Council. That body will in all probability employ a competent water engineer who will locate the source of supply, make the necessary surveys and calculate the probable cost. Should the $60,000 be sufficient to erect the system work will be started at soon as possible. On the other hand if the amount carried in the law should be insufficient then the establishment of the system must be postponed for at least two years, or until the people by Legislative enactment are again permitted to vote upon the question carrving with it a bond issue of larger amount.

BIG LANDSLIDE ON THE GRADE.

Tons of Earth and Rock Loosened by Continuous Rains Blocked Traffic.

A tremendous landslide from the mountain at Oss's Siding, a point located near Frankville on the Seventeen Mile Grade of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, brought down upon the tracks of that company hundreds of tons of earth and rock about eleven o'clock Tuesday night, covering both tracks to a depth of more than twenty feet for a distance of about fifty feet.

The slide caught a helping engine which was going down the grade from Altamont to Piedmont and overturned the tender, thus making the blockade of the tracks more effective.

The superintendent of the railway soon had a large force of men at work clearing away the debris but it required some eight or ten hours of more than a hundred trackmen to open one of the tracks.

Nearly all passenger trains moving both east and west were detoured over the Western Maryland and Pittsburg Divisions, train No. 93 yesterday morning, arrived here about three hours late, being the first west bound train to get through.

BITTINGER.

The cherries and other early fruit which were in the splendor of full bloom, were killed by a severe freeze last week, but it is reported that the apple bloom escaped.

Thomas Turney, of Foxtown, was taken to the Baltimore hospital last Sunday and his case was so critical that an operation was performed immediately upon his arrival. A telegram from the city on Monday announced his condition as serious.

Thomas Swann, of Bloomington, spent last Sunday with Miss Ida Ralston of this place.

Messrs Lloyd and Cleaver Brenneman went over to Springs, Pa., last Monday to resume their old positions as sawyer and setter on a saw-mill near that place.

C. J. Beachy, who has been employed by the Ashby Lumber Co., in the vicinity of Deer Park for some time is back in this section again.

Dennis Detrick unfortunately lost a valuable young colt last week.

Mrs. Fannie Weitzel and son George, of Avilton, were visiting relatives in this community last week.

T. H. Bittinger, of Grantsville, was here setting a tomb stone in the village cemetery last Saturday.

Dr. Boyer, of Accident, was making professional calls in this settlement last week.

On last Monday morning we awoke to find the earth covered with snow and considerable sleet formed on trees and fences.

DIXON & KELSO

Will make a cut of 20 per cent. on their $2,000.00 Clothing Stock consisting of Clothing of every description.

Yours to Please,
DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton. Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

THE DUKE OF WEST VIRGINIA, ELKINS

Serious and Frivolous Facts As Seen By Samuel Blythe in The Saturday Evening Post.

WEST VIRGINIA SENATOR HAS A KING BEATEN.

Senior Senator Has More Titles Than Italy's Ruler According to Who's Who and Why.

The following article concerning Senator Elkins appeared in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post:

What is this news that comes chirping over the cable? What are these words that trickle in from Rome. The King of Italy intends to make Stephen Benton Elkins a duke, or something in order to equalize matters pending the marriage of Miss Elkins to the Duke of Abruzzi, Ha; or as Senator Scott, his colleague, would say, Ha! Ha! Ha!

It seems the Duke of Abruzzi has a look in at the Italian throne. If a large number of coroneted and other wise uplifted persons should pass away in a group—persons now abiding in Sunny Italy and having no occupation except to hope those between them and the crown will choke—the Duke might get to be King. Whereas, it would be exceedingly bad form for the papa-in-law of the prospective King—a long, dim, mimeographed prospect, by the way—to have no titles, and it is the idea of the present King to pin a few decorations on the manly chest of Stephen, to go to the button-box and get a button or two for him in order that there may be no comeback from the other crowned heads of the world if somebody should come around one bright morning, tap the duke of the Abruzzi on the shoulder and say: "Hustle down to the palace and get on the job."

The King of Italy undoubtedly means well, but he lacks full information. He hasn't kept up his card index on the name of Elkins. Stephen Benton Elkins can show a line of titles as long as any Italian scion of nobility, and, what is more, if he needs others he is the boy who can go out and get them. Titles for Stephen Benton Elkins! Forsooth! Look what he has now: Duke of West Virginia, Graf of Grafton, Margrave of Sistersville, Grand Elector of Parkersburg, and Prince of Gassaway and Gracelands. Come on, you puny Italian princelings and lay your goods down on the counter! If more are needed, if this bewildering array is not enough we might be able to slip down to New Mexico and tack on a few Spanish ones, just to help along, for, as is known to everybody, Mr. Elkins has been acquiring titles for many years, titles not only for himself, but, also, to various mines, railroads, coal lands, timber lands, ranches and other bric-a-brac of a similar nature, including a large and lucrative interest in Henry Gassaway Davis, late candidate for vice-President on the Democratic ticket—one of the latest, in fact, we have had in some years, inasmuch as he never did get started until it was all over.

It seems absurd, when we look at it calmly, after the first outburst of derision, that the King of Italy should think any puny title within his fist could add to the majesty, the dignity or the availability as a relative of Stephen Benton Elkins. We who have known him all these years can do naught but laugh at this befogged monarch over there in Italy, beating his kingly forehead with his mailed fist and scanning the royal almanac to see where he can pick out something that will fit the case. Stephen Benton Elkins needs no title from that musty Count. Not he. But—and just here a few words for the kingly ear, kind words to kinder advice—if Elkins ever becomes a relative to that Court, it is up to the Court to watch out. Stephen will have the haughty head of the House of Savoy working for him as a chauffeur before he has been around the palace for a week and will be doing the reigning himself.

You see, we have watched Stephen perform for years and years, and he is a good, consistent performer. His creed is simple and may be divided into two sections. (a) When you want anything, go out and get it; and (b) bring it back with you. He is a large and forceful man, with a most pleasant and engaging countenance, and a smile that would lure a bird out of a tree. However, indisolubly connected with that pleasant and engaging countenance is one large and protuberant chin, somewhat rectangular in form, and adding what might be called a tinge of firmness to the ensemble. There is always a twinkle in those eyes, a real genial twinkle, and always there is the appealing smile; but when you look into that frank, open, ingenuous face and mentally decide here is a person on whom you can unload something, a flash at that chin causes a hasty revision of your decision. Meanwhile, Mr. Elkins has unloaded something on you.

He has been fortunate in his environments. He was born in Ohio, where he acquired his political sense. He was educated in Missouri, where he acquired the disconcerting habit of requiring to be shown. He went to New Mexico, where he acquired Spanish, two terms in the house of representatives, the basis of a fortune and some other desirable appurtenances, and from there he proceeded to West Virginia, where he acquired a cabinet place under Harrison, a senatorship, Henry Gassaway Davis and several additiodal tons of that vulgar dross we call money.

References has been made to his New Mexico titles, but, in reality, they are merely subsidiary. West Virginia is the correct Elkins principality. The House of Savoy has been dubbing along in Italy for centures, doing the best it could, and it hasn't much to show for it. The House of Elkins has been doing business in West Virginia for about thirty years, and what it has to show for it is the whole show: S. B. Elkins, general manager, and H. G. Davis, silent partner, and not so blamed silent, at times, when it comes to that.

One of the first stirring articles a new correspondent writes when he comes to Washington to tell the public just what is what hereabouts is a strong piece about the Millionaires' Club, meaning the senate. In the old days it was easier than it is now for it was neat and impressive to start off with William A. Clark, of Montana, at a hundred millions, or two hundred, or six for that matter, if the typewriter was working well. Now, of course Clark has gone, has left that forum of discussion where he never discussed anything, except on that fatal day when he beat them to it and resigned, and the Millionairs' Club is lacking its most conspicuous member. Still, there are a few left, and the list looks pretty good. Along about third or fourth from the top the name of Stephen B. Elkins always appears. They shove him at anywhere from twelve to thirty millions.

While it is quite probable the banks would not accept a rating given in a Millionaires' Club, it can be stated authoritatively that Mr. Elkins can take a little vacation any time he likes and not be worried about the hotel bill, which information, mayhap, has been noted by the House of Savoy. You see, West Virginia is a sizable state, with things underneath it and on top of it that can be cashed in the busy marts of trade, and Stephen B. Elkins not only knows the way to market, but owns a good section of the underneath and the on top.

With that rare, that precise, that almost preternatural sense of the fitness of things so frequently observed in the making of committee assignments in the United States senate, Mr. Elkins was selected to be chairman of the committee on interstate commerce. It is most fitting that a man of his great experience in railroading and in all transportation problems should hold this place. Formerly it was held by Uncle Shelby Cullom, of Illinois, and nobody ever accused him of knowing the difference between a differential and a preferential, nor did he make any claims. Soon, however, there came a chance to put Uncle Shelby at the head of foreign relations, and then Mr. Elkins took the committee, signaling his advent with his justly-celebrated Elkins anti-rebating bill, by the terms of which any railroad caught rebating on and after said date would be slapped on the wrist three severe slaps. A railroad man himself, holding intimate relations of the country—who could be better fitted to deal with the railroad problem of the senate? Not a soul, unless, perchance, it might be E. H. Harriman.

But that is neither here nor there. What concerns us is the news that Victor Emmanuel II has designs on Stephen B. Elkins and may decide to make him a duke. If he does he will discover Elkins saw it coming a long time ago and made a duke out of himself, Duke of West Virginia, which he holds in feoff, as gentlemen have discovered who tried to take it away from him. Still, kings are dull. Victor Emmanuel may persist, and, if he does, there is naught left to do but recall to Mr. Elkins those immortal words of his father-in-law, Henry Gassaway Davis, who, when he was notified, in 1904, at White Sulphur Springs of his nomination for the vice-presidency, advanced to the edge of the platform, out there under the trees and in a voice shaking with emotion said: "Oh, my fellow-Americans, don't, I beg of you, go and do what them Romans done."

METHODISTS MET MAY 6TH

Unusual Interest in Proposed Work of the General Conference.

The Methodist general conference which met Wednesday, May 6th, in Baltimore is attracting more than usual interest. A number of very important matters will come before the organization and the West Virginia Conference people are expected to play an important part. One of the big features of the convention will occur on the 16th of the month when the entire conference will go to Washington where a reception will be tendered in the McKinley Memorial Hall by one of the trustees of the American college, Theodore Roosevelt.

Rev. S. J. Miller and Rev. S. K. Arbuthnot, of Wheeling; Rev. Joseph Lee, of Mt. Lake Park; Rev. R. B. Ward, of Oakland, and Rev. Lewis Ressenger, of Roncevert, represent the clergy of this conference district and Judge McWhorter, of Charleston; Hon. Harvey Harmer, of Clarksburg; Judge J. H. Holt, of Grafton; R. J. Berry, of Sutton, and C. W. Evans, of Fairmont, represent the laymen.

Among the important matters to come up at the Baltimore conference will be the matter of a time limit on ministers. Originally there was a limit of one year, later two and three, then five years and the past 12 years there has been no limit at all and ministers have remained with their congregations so long as each got along harmoniously. Now in the central and western churches there is a movement favoring the restoration of this time limit and the eastern church is opposed to such a step.

The matter of amusement will also be discussed at length and the question of whether legislating against amusement is the proper way to regulate the matter in the church will come up. The election of secretaries and editors to the various conference officers and publications will come up as will also the election of perhaps ten or twelve new bishops. In all it is expected the meeting will be one of the largest and most successful conference sessions, and the attendance will likely run to a total of 882 ministers and laymen.

MEXICAN DEMAND FOR CEMENT.

Report by American Consul General Gottschalk of Interest to Manufacturers.

A few months ago, upon the request from the Deparement of Commerce and Labor, the Department of State instructed the various consular officers to report on the cement industry and the machinery employed in its manufacture. Among the reports received the following from Consul General A. L. M. Gottschalk, of Mexico City, covering the cemeut industry in the republic, will be interesting to American manufacturers:

There is practically an unlimited future for the use of concrete as a building material in this city, as well as in the other large cities of the Mexican republic, especially for the hollow concrete block. There are, I am told, in the capital city only some three hundred houses built of concrete, and this comparatively small number is due to the fact that the material only began to find general acceptance with architects and builders a very short time ago, much prejudice having been felt against it owing to the fact that some years ago certain speculators undertook to launch upon the market concrete blocks of so poor a quality that they were universally condemned. This prejudice has, however, entirely disappeared. A very telling ocular demonstration of the strength and soldity of cement block construction was afforded in this city in April, 1907, when an earthquake lasted two and one-half minutes and causing a recorded sway of sixty centimetres in certain buildings in town, left utterly unscathed a residence building of concrete block, while countless numbers of neighboring houses were more or less damaged.

There are more than twenty manufacturers of concrete blocks or ornamental work in this city alone. The methods in use among them are usually of the crudest, with the exception of two concerns which import American molds. The system generally in vogue is to have moulds made of plaster of paris of parts into which the cement is run, after which the mould is pried or chipped off. Many manufacturers make their moulds of a sort of an elastic glue, commonly called "cola," whose composition I could not ascertain, which permit them to turn out numbers of very artistic undercut or scrolled pieces.

The importation of fancy moulds which covers only a few years time, and which, I am informed, has been almost exclusively from the United States, has not amounted to more than 1,500 Mexican pesos ($747 United States currency). A much greater number would, of course be imported if our factories could turn out moulds of the standard size in use in this country. As an example the standard balustrade of balconies and cornices in the United States is between 15 and 18 inches high, with a diameter of 5 inches; in Mexico these balustrades are invariably 60 centimetres in height (approximately 24 inches). It may, however, be said that ornamental cement work is gradually supplanting the old fashioned carved stone work which characterized all Mexican buildings of any pretensions until comparatively recently.

Imported moulds for cement blocks are practically all of American make, though there is an occasional French or Geeman one to be seen. The chief difficulty which works against the American manufacturer of cement block moulds who desire to export these to Mexico is the fact that American moulds are never made to conform in size to the standard (metric) measurements in use by Mexican architects and builders. Moreover, the Mexican architect, bound by the traditions of old Spanish engineering, is much inclined to believe that a wall less than sixteen inches thick can hardly be of sufficient strength to stand. Up to September, 1907, about $50,000 United States currency worth of the moulds had been imported, chiefly for use in this city and vicinity. One concern has a complete set of American equipment in this line, said to be worth over $24,000 United States currency. Most of the importations are manufactured at South Bend, Ind., by the Ideal Concrete Machinery Company.

An important item in recent importations of concrete machinery from the United States has been sewer pipes moulds, made by a firm is Minneapolis. I am told that importations of this article to the value of $9,960 United States currency have entered the country within the year.

Concrete sidewalks are in use in practically every large city in the republic, and the older fashioned stone flag sidewalks are gradually being relegated to such town as are still unfortunate enough not to possess railroad transportation for the carrying of cement.

Concrete roofing made in slabs 1½ feet by 3 or 4 inches thick and ribbed, and joined together by asphalt joints, are mader here by the firm of J. G. Zwicker & Co., under a United States and Mexico patent. These have been used very satisfactorily on roofing one or two public buildings and several private residences of the wealthy.

It is only quite recently that the system of reinforced or "armored" concrete for buildings has been taken up by Mexican architects. Up to the present time there are but few examples of such buildings in this city, one or two of them large drygoods stores. The systems best known are the Kaha (of the United States) and the Hennebique. Four such new buildings are about being completed.

Steel bars for reinforcing have been imported, but only in small quantities thus far, from the United States. Some expanded metal of English manufacture and some American rib metal have also been imported. Quite recently a fairly heavy tonnage of corrugated bars and similar material has been ordered by the Mexican government from two American concerns.

A Business Proposition

Did you ever stop to think, Mr. Business Man, that the news of your business is as much a part of the local events as a wedding or a church fair? The ladies are just as much interested in a new fabric you have on the shelves as they are in any home happening. Your store news and anouncements in these columns will reach a large circle of eager buyers. This will enable you to sell your goods while they are new and fresh and you will not have to sacrifice later at remnant counter prices. Think it over.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator,
Rockwood, Pa.

GENERAL MUSTER ON A WARSHIP.

Graphic Description of Naval Ceremony.

As one becomes accustomed to the naval routine there are some ceremonies that he skips as a matter of course and some that he does. One of the latter is the general muster of the officers and crew on a Sunday morning once a month. Quarters are sounded as usual and then comes the inspectors of the ship and the men in their stations, while the band is playing lively airs. When this is over the entire ship's company not engaged in actual duty in running the ship is summoned aft. The officers and their divisions come to the quarter-deck, and each officer reports his division "up and aft" to the executive officer. The latter then orders the ship's roll to be called. The paymaster steps out from the group of officers with the roll. On the Louisiana he calls:

"Richard Wainwright!"

Captain Wainwright responds: "Captain, United States Navy."

"E. W. Eberle!"

"Lieutenant Commander, United States Navy," the executive officers responds.

"C. T. Jewell!"

"Lieutenant Commander, United States Navy," says the navigator, and so on down the roll of officers the paymaster proceeds, each man saluting as he answers to his name. Then the paymaster retires and the pay clerk steps up and takes up the call. He reads the names of the members of the crew. As each man hears his name called he answers with his designation on the roll. John Jones will answer "Coal passer, United States Navy," and William Smith will declare that he is an ordinary seaman, and so on. As each man answers to his name he drops out of the ranks, proceeds aft and walks by the captain, hat in hand. When the name of a man on duty somewhere in the ship, in the engine rooms or the bridge or elsewhere, is called, the ship's writer, who stands beside the executive officer, says:

"On duty, sir."

The absentee is marked "accounted for." Men in the sick bay are accounted for in the same way. It requires almost an hour to go through the nearly 1,000 names, and when it is all over the paymaster reports to the executive officer that all are present or accounted for and that fact is duly communicated to the captain. By that time the deck is clear of the men and only the officers remain, and these are dismissed. It is a pretty ceremony and originated, it is said, from the fact that before a complete assembly of officers and crew was made from time to time and the roll called there used to be padded rolls in the navy, and the captain and paymaster shared the swag. You see, graft was known in the old days, as in the modern ones; but it must be added that the navy put a stop to the form of padded pay rolls decades and decades ago and make the work effective by providing a most impressive ceremony.

It's a fine thing to see a fine crew individually and size up each man. When the President was on the Louisiana it is said that he took the keenest interest in the personal appearance of every man on the quarter-deck in answer to the call of his name and showed his satisfaction over the appearance of the men as he stood beside the captain and watched each one of the husky lads pass by.—New York Sun.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home o your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

CHAPTER 370.

AN ACT to authorize and empower the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county to levy certain sums of money for use upon the building and grounds of the new court house in said county.

WHEREAS, By Chapter 788 of the Acts of 1906 a Commission was created to contract for the erection of a new court house for Garrett county, and the Board of County Commissioners were empowered to issue bonds bearing interest at the rate of five percent. to the amount of $75,000 for that purpose; and

WHEREAS, The Court House Commission entered into contracts based upon an expenditure of the above sum of $75,000; and

WHEREAS, When the bonds were offerred for sale by the County Commissioners, it was their judgment to place the interest at four per cent, thereby making a material saving to the county in the total interest to be paid, but on this account causing the bonds to sell below par, thus reducing the amount available to the use of the Court House Commission by $3138.50; and

WHEREAS, It is necessary that the Commission have not less than $75,000 available to meet the necessary expenses of the construction of the Court House; therefore

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand one hundred and thirty eight dollars and fifty cents ($3138.50) to be expended upon the new Court House, and that this amount be placed to the credit of the Court House Commission for Garrett county.

SEC. 2. Be it further enacted, That the Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to levy upon the taxable basis of Garrett county the sum of three thousand dollars ($3,000) or so much thereof as in their judgment may be necessary, for the substitution of stone columns in place of wood columns in the portico of the new court house; and for the necessary grading of the court house lot, after the building is completed; and for the building of necessary steps, walks, and approaches to said new building.

SEC. 3. Be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage,

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 514.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Friendsville," and add two new sections thereto designated as section 111J½ and 111J¾.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 111J of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Friendsville," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment, and two sections added so as to read as follows:

111J. The Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have power and authority to pass ordinances to locate and condemn lands inside the corporate mits of the town of Friendsville, for tes for any public works or improvements in said town, and repairing roads, streets, lanes and alleys, and to open, locate, close, alter, widen, lengthen and relocate the same; and that whenever they shall pass an ordinance to open, locate, widen, alter, lengthen or relocate a public street, lane, road or alley, or condemn any land for a building site or other purposes, they shall immediately appoint three examiners who shall be voters and freeholders of said town, who after being sworn, and giving two weeks' notice of their appointment and time and place of meeting, go upon the ground to be condemned, or upon the street, lane, alley, or road, so proposed to open, locate, widen, lengthen, alter, or relocate such streets, lanes, alleys or roads, and shall cause the same to be surveyed by a competent surveyer, and shall estimate the damages or benefits if any, to the person or persons who own said lands so condemned, or over whose lands the proposed street, lane, alley or road, passes or whose land is in any way affected by the proposed opening, locating, widening, altering, lengthing or relocating, and shall return an account of the proceedings, under their hands to the said Mayor and Council, who before actually using said land so condemned, or opening, widening, lengthing or altering said streets, lanes, alleys, or roads as the case may be, shall pay or tender to the person or persons, his or their agents, or legal representatives, the amount of damages so awarded; and if any person shall feel aggreived by the award of said examiners, he may take an appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county within ten days after said award is returned by the said examiners, and the said Mayor and Council shall thereupon file the said return in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and the court shall as soon as convenient thereafter hear and determine upon the said award, affirm the same or remand it for a new hearing, nothing herein shall prevent the said Mayor and Council from opening, locating, widening, lengthing or altering any street, lane, alley or road with the consent of the owner of the land, which shall be taken for said purposes, and to agree and pay said owner a reasonable sum therefor.

SECTION 111J½. And be it enacted, that the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall retain jurisdiction over the county roads and bridges inside the corporate limits of the town of Friendsville, and the Mayor and Council of Friendsville shall have jurisdiction and supervision over all sidewalks along said county road, and regulate the speed travel of persons on horse back or in hicles over the county roads and bridges in Friendsville by ordinance and impose and collect fines for a violation of said ordinances.

SEC. 111J¾. And be it enacted. That at the time of making the county levy in each year the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall levy three hundred dollars to be collected by the County Treasurer and turned over to the Mayor and Council of Friendsville to be applied to and used on the road beds in the town of Friendsville.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 677.

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bond by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for constructing, erecting and maintaining wa'er works and sewerage in said town of Oakland; condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and for fire protection, and for establishing, erection, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and direction to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland to an amount not exceeding $60,000,00, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said bonds shall be for sums not less than $1,000 each, not more than $1,000.00 each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Town Council and countersigned by the Clerk of Town Council with the corporate seal of said town thereto be affixed, bearing interest at not more than five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable two years from date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of bond No. 1 in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding twenty-five years from date of issue; that all of said bonds issued as aforesaid shall be due and payable within 61 years from the date of their issue, and shall forever be exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purpose in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses, streams, and to use and occupy forever or for a term of years any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams which they may deem expedient and necessary for the purposes of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town, and the maintenance of said sewerage system; if for any cause the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, water streams, or water courses, or any other material which partakes of or is a necessary part of realty or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduct of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated; and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as is provided by said Section 251 of said Art. 23. The said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have full power to fix schedules of rates for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Town Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income thereof shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bouds and a sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturity.

SEC. 3 And be it enacted, That the title to said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts thereto shall when completed or acquired, vest in the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland; and every person who shall knowingly or willfully pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or stand pipe in connection with the said water works so built or constructed by throwing any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves, or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the sources of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same, shall, upon conviction of such offense, be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than three hundred dollars for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland by a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Town Council for the purposes of this Act

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Town Council shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town not exceeding twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars to pay the interest thereon and the sum of one thousa d dollars of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of one thousand dollars shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Town Council as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity; and the said Mayor and Town Council shall from time to time deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in State or such other bonds satisfactory to the said Mayor and Town Council as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of any of said bonds as may be offered for sale and redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds the Mayor and Town Council they shall immediately be cancelled by stamping across their face "cancelled by the sinking fund," and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the Treasurer or Tax Collector on account of taxes to the extent of said sum of one thousand dollars shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account of failure of assessment or collections.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of bonds, which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof, to the highest responsible bidder, shall be deposited in bank to the credit of said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland and subject to their check, and the Clerk of said town of Oakland shall keep a book to be especially provided for the purpose the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds sold and the amount realized on the sales, together with tho serial numbers of the bonds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, that in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act, the accused and the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have the right of appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county, within thirty days, and a jury trial. Any person or persons convicted before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act who shall pray an appeal to the said Court shall be held by recognizance or be committed to the county jail to appear before the next regular jury term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, that the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of the said bonds as hereinbefore provided in section 5 of this act, or so many thereof as to the Mayor and Town Council may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this act, and the said Mayor and Town Council are fully authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations and to pass all necessary ordinances, with penalties for their violation, and to do all other necessary acts for the proper managing, maintaining and repairiag the said water works and sewerage system and for the protection thereof.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, that the funds realized from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purposes of this act, and shall be paid by check signed by the Mayor and the President of the Council, and the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to pass such orders for payment of money due for the construction of said water works and sewerage or to the contractor or contractors for the construction of the same, as shall, from time to time, be due or earned by the contractor or contractors in the prosecution of said works, and also from time to time to pass orders for the payment of property purchased or condemned, and for material furnished in persuance of the provisions of this act, and may in its discretion employ a competent hydrographical engineer to superintend the work of constructing such water works and sewerage.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, that on the first Monday in May, 1908 there shall be a special election held in the town of Oakland, which election shall be held in the same manner and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether this act shall take effect to the legal voters of said town, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words: For water and sewerage, and the words Against water and sewerage, and all voters desiring to vote for the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote against the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "For water and sewerage." And if the judges of election shall decide that a majority of the votes are cast for "water and sewerage" then this Act shall be in full force of law otherwise of no effect. The judges of election shall under their hands immediately after said election certify to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland the result of the said election.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted that this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anythimg in this line.

CHAPTER 67.

AN ACT to designate and define the boundarins of the fourteen election districts of Garrett county as now existing.

WHEREAS, No Act of the General Assembly has been passed since the formation of Garrett county in 1872, which described or defined the boundaries of all the election districts, the terms of Chapter 369 of the Acts of 1874, being very vague and unsatisfactory, and

WHEREAS, Many of the original districts have had portions of territory cut from them to form other districts, leaving their present limits without adequate description, therefore

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the boundaries of the fourteen election districts now existing in Garrett county shall be as follows:

SEC. 2. District Number One (1) shall be known as the Swanton District and shall begin on the State line upon the right bank of the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run up the south prong of said run a westerly direction to where the mud bridge crosses said run branch on the Wilson and Kitzmiller county road; then with said road crossing the top of Backbone mountain to Wilson store upon the Baltimore and Ohio railway; then by a staight line to the head of Deep creek; then down Deep creek to the mouth of Meadow Mountain run; then up Meadow Mountain run to its head; then by a straight line to the head of north branch of Middle Fork run near Buckner Mason's; then with said north fork to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 12 degree east to Thomas' Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road, westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then up the right or east bank of the Potomac river to the beginning opposite Three Fork run near Chaffee.

SEC. 3. District Number Two (2) shall be known as Selbysport District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear creek; then by a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then up White Rock run, west to the State line; then with the State line due north to Mason and Dixon's line; then due east with the Pennsylvania line to the point of beginning on Winding Ridge.

SEC. 4. That District Number Three (3) shall be known as the Grantsville District and shall begin at the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place and run with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head or Harton Hollow; then across to William W. Broadwater; then across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place in the "Backwoods"; then to Horse pond or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross' residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Spiker's former place where the county road from Bittinger to Engles Mills crosses the mountain top; then in a straight line in a northerly course to the forks of the Morgantown road and the National Pike west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon's line; then with it due east to a point which is due north of the west side of what was formerly know as Recknor's tavern upon the old National Pike; then by a due south line from the above point and round west of Recknor's Tavern south to the intersection of said line with Mud Lick run; then down Mud Lick run to its mouth at Savage river; then down Savage river to the bridge over said river near John Wilhelm's place, the point of beginning.

SEC. 5. District Number 4 shall be known as Bloomington District and shall begin in the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Folly run, and run thence down the Potomac to a point south of the center of the mouth of Savage river; then north to the center of the mouth of Savage river; thence with the line of Allegany to the intersection of said line with Mill run; then up Mill run to the head of the west fork of said run; then by a straight line to the old ford in Savage river; then up said river to the mouth of Bear Pen run; then up Bear Pen run to its head near James Reshe's place; then by a straight line to the mouth of Black Hawk run, north of Tom Ridge; then down Middle Fork run to its junction with Crab Tree creek; then by a line south 20 degrees east to Thomas Dump on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad; then westward along said railroad 140 perches to a point 15 perches west of the Frankville depot; then leaving the railroad and running by a line south 20 degrees east 248 perches to four bounded chestnut trees, near the laurel thicket at McRobie's Path; then running along the north side of the Westernport and Clarksburg road westerly to Folly run; then down with the meanders of said run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river, the point of beginning.

SEC. 6. District Number 5 shall be known as Accident District and shall begin at or near the summit of Winding Ridge, where said ridge is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line, and run with the summit of said ridge in a southwesterly direction to Bear Creek; then in a straight line to a spring upon the west side of the county road at Elder; then by a straight line to the Youghiogheny river at the mouth of White Rock run; then by a straight line to the summit of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of county roads at the old West place; then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with the crest of Negro mountain in a northerly direction to where the county road from Bittinger to Engle Mills crosses said mountain; then by a straight line a notherly direction to the forks of the Morgantown road and the old National Turnpike, west of Keyser; then due north to the Mason and Dixon line; then with it due west to Winding Ridge and the point of beginning.

SEC. 7. District Number 6 shall be known as Sang Run District and shall begin at the mouth of White Rock run on the Youghiogheny river and run thence by a straight line to the top of Bishoff's hill; then by a straight line east to the forks of the county road at the old West place, then by a straight line in an easterly direction to the summit of Negro mountain where the county road leading from John Harman's to Accident crosses said mountain; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the headspring of Meadow Mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then down Meadow Mountain run to Deep Creek; then down Deep Creek to its mouth on the Yohghiogheny river; then up the said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run: then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due north with the State line to its intersection with White Rock run or a point due west of the head of said run; then to and down White Rock run to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 8. District Number 7 shall be known as East Oakland District and shall begin at the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner, and run in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep Creek; then up Deep Creek to the State dam; then by a straight line to a point designated as "the burnt school house"; then by a straight line to the Head spring on Broad Ford run; then with Broad Ford run to its mouth on Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn, and running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso gap to the summit of the mountain; then running along the crest of the Back Bone mountain in a southwesterly direction to the point where the old Moorefield turnpike formerly crossed said mountain; then with the outline of the old Moorefield turnpike in a westerly direction to the Mason county road; then with the Mason road to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner, the point of beginning.

SEC. 9. District Number 8 shall be known as Ryans Glade district and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason roads at Gortner; then with the Mason road to where the old Moorefield road crossed the said Mason road; then with the old Moorefield road eastward to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then with the crest of the said mountain northeasterly to the county road leading from Mountain Lake to Ryans Glade; then with said Ryans Glade road to the forks of the road at the M. E. church; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right or east bank of the river near Schell; then up the right or east bank of the Potomac river to its source; then with the State line due north to the beginning at the intersection of Rhine fork of Youghiogheny river

SEC. 10. Be it enacted, That District Number 9 shall be known as Johnson District and shall begin on the summit of Great Savage mountain where said mountain is crossed by Mason and Dixon's line and run with the line of Alleghany county to where said line interesects Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line, crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then up Savage river to the mouth of Mudlick run; then up said run to a point from which a line drawn due north will pass just west of a point which was formerly known as the Recknor tavern upon the old National Pike; then from the above described point, on Mudlick run due north to Mason and Dixon's line; thence with Mason and Dixon's line due east to the summit of Savage mountain, the point of beginning.

SEC. 11. District Number 10 shall be known as Deer Park District and shall begin at the State dam across Deep creek east of Thayerville and run by a straight line to the burnt school house on Hoop-pole Ridge; then by a straight line to the head of Broad Ford run; then with said run to where it empties into Little Youghiogheny river; then to the Ryans Glade county road as formerly located east of Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn; then running with the Ryans Glade road crossing the Back Bone mountain at Kelso's gap to the M. E. church in Ryans Glade at the forks of the Ryans Glade and Altamont roads; then along the Altamont road to the bridge over Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run near the Davis mill; then down said Laurel run to the State line upon the right and east bank of the Potomac river near Schell; then down the right or east bank of the river to a point opposite the mouth of Lost Land run; then up the north prong of Lost Land run to the summit of the Back Bone mountain; then along the crest of the mountain in a northeasterly direction to where the county road leading from Kitzmillerville to Wilson's store crosses said mountain; then with the county road to Wilson's store upon the Baltimore and Ohio Railway; then by a straight line to the head of Deep Creek; then down with Deep Creek to the State dam, and the point of beginning.

SEC. 12. District Number 11 shall be known as the Elbow District and shall begin on Mill run at a point where the line dividing Allegany and Garrett counties intersects said run; and run with the line of Allegany county to the intersection of said line with Wrights run; then up said run by its west fork to the head thereof; then by a straight line crossing Savage mountain to the bridge over Savage river near the John Wilhelm place; then running with the Barton and Lonaconing road to Mrs. Hanson Brown's place on Pea Ridge; then south on Pea Ridge with the Barton road and on to Henry Broadwater, Jr., at the head of Horton Hollow; thence across to William W. Broadwater's; thence across to the headwaters of Bear Pen run near James Reshe's place; then down Bear Pen run to Savage river; then down with said river to the old ford; thence by a straight line to the head of the west fork of Mill run; then down Mill run to the point of beginning.

SEC. 13. District Number 12 shall be known as Bittinger District and shall begin at the head of Bear Pen run near the James Resh place in the Backwoods, and run thence to Horse Pond, or Poplar run by way of Ashford Warnick's at old lumber camp near Perry Broadwater's; then with said run to one of its springs at James Madison Durst; then running in a straight line to the top of Meadow mountain; then with said mountain to James Ross residence; then by a direct line to Charles O. Warnick's residence; then by way of Jacob Hoover's to county road near Benedict Beachy's farm; then to top of Negro mountain by Rushe's mill and John Speicher's former place; then with the top of said mountain southward to the county road leading from John Harman's to the town of Accident; then with said road east to the forks of the road leading toward McHenry near John Harman's; then by a straight line to the head spring of Meadow mountain run on east side of Meadow mountain; then to the head of north branch of Middle fork, near Buckner Mason's; then with said North fork to the month of Black Hawk run; then by a straight line to the head of Bear Pen run at James Reshe's, the point of beginning.

SEC. 14. District Number 13 shall be known as Kitzmillerville District and shall begin on the State line on the Potomac river opposite the mouth of Three Forks run near Chaffee, and run thence with said Three Forks run in a westerly direction up the South prong to where the mud bridge crosses said branch on the Wilson and Kitzmillerville county road; then with said road to the top of Back Bone mountain; thence with the crest of said mountain in a southwesterly direction to a point due north of the north-east branch of Lost Land run; then to and down with the meanders of said run to its mouth and to the State line upon the right or east bank of the Potomac river; then down with the river to the beginning opposite the mouth of Three Forks run.

SEC. 15. District Number 14 shall be known as West Oakland District and shall begin on the State line where that line crosses the Rhine Fork of the Youghiogheny river, and run down said river to the mouth of Cherry creek; then up Cherry creek to the mouth of Bungey's run; then up Bungey's run to where that run was formerly crossed by the old Moorefield turnpike; then by a straight line to the forks of the West Union and Mason county roads at Gortner; then in a northerly direction with the West Union and Oakland road to Oakland; then passing through Oakland by Third street to the Hoop-pole Ridge road and with it to Deep creek; then down Deep creek to its mouth on the Youghiogheny river; then up said river to the mouth of Muddy creek; then up Muddy creek to the mouth of Hoyes run; then west up Hoyes run to its intersection with the State line; then due south with the State line to the beginning, on Youghiogheny river.

SEC. 16. Be it enacted, That all acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

Approved March 10, 1908.

CHAPTER 550.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County."

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 2 of Chapter 792 of the Acts of 1906, entitled "An Act to Prohibit the Pollution of Streams of Water in Garrett County," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

SEC. 2. Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof before a Justice of the Peace or the Circuit Court for Garrett county, shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than fifty dollars and stand committed until said fine and costs are paid or be released by due process of law.

SEC. 3. Be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 6.

AN ACT for the further protection of pheasant, partridges or quail, woodcock, wild turkeys and rabbits in Garrett County.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That no Person, corporation or company, shall at any time kill or expose for sale, transport, have in possession any pheasant, partridge, or quail, Woodcock, wild turkey and rabbit, after the same has been killed for any purpose, except for consumption or food within Garrett county; nor kill, expose for sale, or have in possession any of the above named game, with the intention of sending or transporting or having the same sent or transported beyond the limits of said county; provided that nothing herein shall prevent the barter or sale of such game for house consumption only by residents of said county, provided also, that nothing herein shall prevent non-residents who have taken out license to hunt in said county from taking with them out of said county any of the above named game which they may have killed in said county.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, that any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this Act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, before any Justice of the Peace of Garrett county, or before the Circuit Court of said county, shall be fined not less than fifty dollars, and not more than one hundred dollars, for each offence, and stand committed to the county jail until the fine and costs are paid, or until released by due process of law. One half of said fine to go to the informer or informers, upon whose evidence the conviction is obtained.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect on the date of its passage.

Approved February 25, 1908.

CHAPTER 564.

AN ACT to repeal Section 183 and the five succeeding Sections of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, known as Poe's Code, Edition of 1904, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," in so far as said sections apply to Garrett county.

SEATION 1. And be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That section 183 and the five succeeding section of Article 81 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, title "Revenue and Taxes," sub-title "Tax on Mortgages," be and the same are hereby repealed in so far as they relate to Garrett county, as to which county the mortgage tax is hereby repealed, but this repeal shall not affect the mortgage tax in Worcester, Wicomico, Somerset, Carroll, Howard, Montgomery, Frederick and Dorchester counties but shall be and remain in full force and effect in said counties.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

LINING UP AGAINST BRYAN.

Some months ago it looked as if Colonel Bryan's renomination could not be prevented. Today the indications are that he is going to have the fight of his life to win the much-coveted honor of leading his party in a third presidential contest.

The biggest state in the Union when it comes to number of delegates, after a vigorous fight for and ferninst instructions, selected an unpledged delegation. As goes New York so will go a number of Eastern states.

Delaware instructed its delegates to Denver for Judge Gray, even after he had sent written protest against any such action on the part of the Democracy of his home state.

Johnson will have the solid and enthusiastic support of Minnesota, in the Democratic National convention.

Hoke Smith is being put forward not only as the favorite son of Georgia, whose governor he is, but as the favored of other Southern States.

Naturally with so much opposition developing to his candidacy Colonel Bryan is being put in a position where he is going to have to fight hard for the nomination, with the tide running strongly against him. He could easily win more than half the delegates, but when it comes to prevailing on a full two thirds of them to enlist under his banner, the proposition is anything but an easy one.

With practically every Southern and Eastern newspaper of any consequence insisting that a third Bryan nomination means certain defeat for the party, no wonder that the practical politicians are lining up against Bryan instructions, to the end that when the delegates get together they may be free to pick a leader who is not loaded down with so many heavy handicaps as The Peerless would be constrained to labor under. They want someone to lead them who is not grown stale with defeat after defeat.

If the party can pull itself together at Denver—that is to say if the delegates are not irrevocably bound to Bryan by iron-clad instructions—the selection of some other than Bryan to lead the Democratic hosts in the 1908 campaign is a consummation easily within the range of probability.

THE MAIL ORDER HOUSE

A HARDSHIP ON THE COUNTRY.

An exchange publishes the following against mail order houses and in favor of the home merchant.

The mail order business is the quack doctor of commerce. It promises much and guarantees nothing. Like some patent medicines the directions are on the inside, and you have to buy a non-returnable package before you can find out what they are.

No mail order house hepled to build the little white school house in your district, or turnpike the road past your door. No mail order house ever took you by the hand when you were in distress and told you to let that little account go until the harvest.

No mail order house ever sold you an article and then spent every cent of its profit in the community where your neighbors could get it all back again. No mail order house ever rejoiced when you were glad nor spoke encouraging words to you in affliction, nor stood with uncovered heads beside the grave when your loved ones died.

No! The mail order house is after your money. Every dollar it gets its hands on will be jerked out of your neighborhood forever.

All mail order houses in Christendom would not increase the value of our farms one cent. They create no local market for the products you have to sell. They have no property which can be assessed to help bear your burden of taxation.

Your local dealer's business is legitimate because its success contributes to the general prosperity of the community that builds it up.

He helps build up your community, and makes it a better place for you both to live in.

His success depends on your prosperity.

He swears by the goods branded with the trademarks of the most skillful manufacturers on earth—which are none too good for that major general of industry, the American Farmer.

LINED UP FOR TAFT.

From present indications it is generally conceded that Secretary Taft will receive the Republican nomination for President at the Chicago convention in June. The reasons for this belief are convincingly set forth in the following editorial in yesterday's Baltimore American under the caption "Lining Up For Chicago." Barring the fact that Secretary Taft has been the choice of the American, the figures given by that newspaper are interesting and evidence the trend of Republican sentiment towards Ohio's distinguished citizen. The American says:

There have now been chosen to the Republican National Convention, which will convene in Chicago on the 16th of next month, 736 delegates. There are yet to be chosen 244. There are 361 of the delegates already selected that are either instructed for Taft by state or district conventions or that are otherwise committed to the Ohio man by formal declaration. There are instructed for six other candidates 233 delegates. This leaves 142 of the delegates so far chosen in the classification of "uninstructed." At the beginning of last week The American made the prophecy that it would be a "Taft week," and a Taft week it was. Five of the state conventions held last week, including that of Maryland, gave formal instructions to the delegations chosen to vote for Taft. In addition a large number of scattering district conventions electing delegates also gave instructions for the Ohio man. So that the week's record stands 136 delegates chosen, of which 60 were instructed directly or indirectly for Secretary Taft, 4 for Senator Knox, 2 for Governor Hughes, 2 for Vice President Fairbanks and 2 for Senator Foraker, leaving 56 classified as uninstructed.

The on-the-surface showing of the foregoing summary indicates a tremendous lead for Mr. Taft. And the under-the-surface facts, when fairly apprised, indicate a very much stronger position in the contest for the Ohio man than the 361 votes which are accredited to him show for. The delegations of various states instructed for "favorite sons" constitute a very delusive factor in the surface indictions when estimate is made of the aggregate vote that is opposed to the leading candidate. Of the New York delegation 54 of the 78 have been instructed to vote for Governor Hughes. But it is known that more than half of the 74 delegates thus far chosen in the Empire State are friendly to Taft, and will surely swing to him as soon as Governor Hughes shall have been eliminated. The Illinois delegation, of which 46 out of the total of 54 are under instructions to vote for Cannon, stands in almost exactly the same attitude toward Secretary Taft and the New York delegation. More than half—probably two-thirds—the Illinois delegation would straightly declare for Taft if Speaker Cannon were to withdraw from the contest. Not a single one of the favorite son delegations, there is fair warrant for saying, will hold together for any opposition candidate to the Ohio man other than the home candidate to which each of these delegations has been particularly committed.

According to the rule adhered to in Republican national conventions, a majority vote of the delegates only is necessary to nominate the candidates of the party for President and Vice President. If the selection of delegates to the Chicago convention were to cease with the 736 thus far chosen, 369 would be the number requisite to nominate each candidate. Taft has 361 delegates instructed or declared for him—only 8 short of what would be the requisite majority of the delegates chosen. But if an actual test were forced, at least one-third of the uninstructed delegates and one-half the favorite-son delegates would quickly join the Taft aggregation. And in the delegates already chosen the combined opposition to the Ohio man has made its high-record score. During the present week state conventions are to be held in New Jersey, Connecticut, Alabama, Kentucky, Wyoming and Utah; besides, there will be 35 scattered district conventions. All told, 94 additional delegates to Chicago will be selected before the close of the week. In Utah and Wyoming the State Republican Committees have indorsed Taft, and there is every reason for expecting that the solid delegations from these states will be for him. In New Jersey, while there is a strong opposition to Taft, led by the two United States senators from that state, there is a powerful favoring public sentiment for the Ohio man, and this sentiment is being represented by a leader no less able and determined than Governor Fort. It looks as though the Taft forces will win a sweeping victory in Kentucky, the state upon which Mr. Fairbanks has had his expectant hopes centered. Not one of the opposition candidates to Taft has hitherto realized expectations in securing instructed delegations. And the situation is not in any wise growing more hopeful for the allied opposition.

I. O. R. M. Special Services.

Nantaquas Tribe, I. O. R. M., of Swanton, will have a special service in the Methodist Episcopal church, Swanton, on next Sunday, May 10, at 10 a. m. The sermon will be preached by Rev. A. F. George. Addresses will be made by John D. Hayden and William W. Sweet. There will be good singing. Everybody is cordially invited to attend this service. All members of the I. O. R. M. are invited to meet at the hall at 9:30 a. m. This will be an interesting service.

J. W. McROBIE,
GEORGE G. LEE,
JEREMIAH MANKIS,
Committee.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE.

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 29th day of May, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THOSE LOTS OR PARCELS OF LAND KNOWN AS LOTS "V" AND "W", IN BLOCK NUMBER 35 as shown on the Plat of the Mountain Home Company, of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Liber E. Z. T., No. 1, folio 2, one of the Plat Records of said county, and being the same lots or parcels of land conveyed to John L. Rice by Mountain Home Company by deed dated the 31st day of December, 1894, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 199, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Lot "V" contains 273-1000 of an acre and lot "W" .26 of an acre. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John L. Rice.

No. 2.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUATITY OF SIXTY-TWO AND ONE-HALF ACRES, excepting the mineral, coal and fire clay rights thereunder, located in Election District No. 14 of Garrett county, and particularly described in a deed for the same from Abraham L. Sines and others to Newton A. Reams, bearing date the 8th day of April, 1907, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 543, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land being contained within the the following courses and distances, metes and bounds: Beginning for the same at a planted stone standing southwest three feet from the point of a large rock marked "X," and at the end of the 5th line of a tract of land called "Joseph's Camp," and running thence with the lines thereof South 40½ degrees East, 78 perches to a stone pile, South 23 degrees West, 72 perches to a stone pile at the end of the seventh line of said tract of land, and running thence with the first line thereof as corrected South 25 degress West, 16 perches to a bounded chestnut tree and with a part of the second line thereof as corrected North 58 degress West, 113 perches, North 38 degrees East, 110 perches, South 57½ degrees East, 13 perches, to the beginning. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Newton A. Reams.

No. 3.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-HALF ACRES, and being a part of the original tract called "Strawberry Plains," which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Henry G. Davis and others to Mary E. Reams, bearing date the 30th day of April, 1892, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 19, folio 505, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary E. Reams.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF SIX AND FIVE-EIGHT ACRES, which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Parker Ashby and others to Henry Mosser, dated the 22nd day of July, 1901, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 528, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, by the following courses and distances, metes and bounds: Beginning for the same at a planted stone standin at the end of the seventh line of a tract of land called "Piney Bottom," which point is also at the end of the second line of a tract of land called "Maryland," and running thence with the third line of said tract called "Maryland" with an allowance of 3½ degrees for variation, South 39½ degrees West, 23 perches and 3 links to a stone, North 49 degrees West, 18 perches to a stone standing on the East side of the county road, North 18 degrees East, 19 perches and 9 links to a bounded maple tree standing on the east side of said road, South 89½ degrees West, 15½ perches to a stone, North 58½ degrees West, 21½ perches to a stone, North 44 degrees East, 19½ perches to a stone, North 28 degrees East, 6 perches to a stone standing at the end of the sixth line of the said tract called "Piney Bottom," and thence by a straight line to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Henry Mosser.

No. 5.—FIFTY ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS "WILLIAM AND MARY," and being the same land which was conveyed to Isaac Elliott by F. A. Thayer and others, trustees, by deed dated the 3nd day of August, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 246, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said land being described in said deed as follows: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of the first line of the whole lot No. 3 of the sub-division of the tract called "William and Mary," and running thence with the second line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 77 degrees West, 95½ perches to the end of the second line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with the third line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 3 degrees West 83⅔ perches to a stake, thence running across said whole Lot No. 3 South 77 degrees East, 95½ perches to a stake standing in the first line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with said first line South 3 degrees East, 83⅔ perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Isaac Elliott.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED ON THE CRELLIN ROAD, CONTAINING SEVEN ACRES, MORE OR LESS, and described in a deed for the same from Carrie Smith and others to Ettie M. Moon, dated the 4th day of February, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No 46, folio 409, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, as follows: Beginning for the same at a stone standing North 67 degrees West, 1 perch from a stake standing at the end of 9½ perches from the beginning of the fifth and last line of a tract of land conveyed by George W. Legge et ux. to A. G. Sturgiss et al., and running thence North 67 degrees West, 50 perches, South 52 degrees East, 46 perches to a stake and stone pile, thence with the northwest limits of an old road North 40½ degrees East, 19¾ perches, thence to the beginning. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Ettie M. Moon. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett County.

No. 7. THIRTY-FIVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT, which land is described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth F. Cecil to Clarence A. Knight, bearing date the 26th day of September, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 141, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth F. Cecil.

No. 8. ALL THAT PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ABOUT ONE ACRE, being the same lot conveyed by Gilmor S. Hamill, attorney, to Jennie Smith by deed dated the 4th day of February, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 120, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, saving and excepting therefrom that part of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Jennie Smith by deeds of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court for Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jennie Smith.

No. 9. ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SIX AND ONE-QUARTER ACRES OF LAND, BEING PART OF A TRACT CALLED "AVON'S VALE," located in Ryan's Glade and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Henry Thompson and others to Isreal Thompson, dated the 25th day of October, 1889, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 16, folio 80, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and also in a deed from Isaac I. Thompson and wife to said Isreal O. Thompson, dated the 25th day of November, 1898, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 36, folios 50, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is situated in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905, as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Israel O. Thompson.

No. 10. MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND TWO, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES OF LAND, which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Aaron Liller and wife to Sarah Devers, bearing date the 2nd day of May, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folios 557, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Sarah Devers.

No. 11. MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO, CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE HUNDRED ACRES, said lots being particularly described in a deed for the same from Catharine Lefler to Charles Hook bearing date the 10th day of May, 1890, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 318, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles Hook.

No. 12. ALL THAT LOT LOCATED IN THE TOWN OF GORMAN, CONTAINING 77 POLES AND 128 FEET, MORE OR LESS, and being the same land which was conveyed by Charles F. Bailey and others to Lydia A. Bosely by deed dated the 26th day of May, 1899, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 38, folio 586, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described as follows: Beginning at a stake standing at the third corner of a lot formerly owned by Joseph Shillingberg and running thence North 25 degrees West, 4 3-5 poles to a stake, thence North 80¼ degrees East, 18½ poles to a stake, thence South 6 degrees West, 8 poles to another stake, being a corner of said Joseph Shillingberg's lot, then with the line of the same reversed North 89 degrees West, 14 1-7 poles to the beginning. Said lot is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Lydia A. Bosely.

No. 13. ALL THE SURFACE OF MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SIX AND TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being described in a deed from Moses R. Hamill and wife to John S. Hamill, dated the 3rd day of June, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folios 233, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John S. Hamill.

No. 14. MILITARY LOT NUMBER FORTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, and being the same Lot which was conveyed to Hiram P. Tasker by D. James Blackiston by deed dated the 1st day of July, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 77, one of the Land records of said Garrett county, This lot is located in Election District No. 7 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Hiram P. Tasker.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany County.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant.
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

Confidence

when eating, that your food is of highest wholesomeness—that it has nothing in it that can injure or distress you—makes the repast doubly comfortable and satisfactory.

This supreme confidence you have when the food is raised with

ROYAL
Baking Powder
Absolutely Pure

The only baking powder made with Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

There can be no comforting confidence when eating alum baking powder food. Chemists say that more or less of the alum powder in unchanged alum or alum salts remains in the food.

Mrs. R. E. Sligar spent yesterday in Cumberland with relatives.

Messrs. Eli and Uriah M. Stanton, of Grantsville, were in the city yesterday on business.

Mr. Julius C. Renninger spent Sunday at Eglon, West Va., where Mrs. Renninger is the guest of relatives.

Messrs. James Guard and Leon Hardie, both of Friendsville, were in Oakland Sunday afternoon and Monday morning.

Best hand-made tinware at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Miss Mable Shank, who was on an extended visit to her sister at Confluence, Pa., has returned to her home in Oakland.

Miss Jessie Moreland, a prominent young society lady of Morgantown, spent Sunday in Oakland with her aunt, Mrs. Delia I Totten.

Miss Rosa Miller, of Accident, after visiting friends in Cumberland, came to Oakland yesterday and accompanied her brother Mr. William Miller home.

Rev. John T. Green and Mr. Hugh Weir, both of District No. 11, were in Oakland Monday and Tuesday on business before the Board of School Commissioners.

It pays to read the advertisements of enterprising home merchants. They are the people who make it possible to have conveniences right at your door, so to speak.

Largest assortment of highest grade enameled ware at bargain prices at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Mr. Herrman Creutzburg completed the removal of his stock of goods from the Mitchell building on Second street to the Felty building on Alder street Tuesday afternoon.

Under the starlight at Thayerville: "Our mail-carrier, Blaine Giessman, renders splendid service on the star route, especially to some, as he often makes half a trip on Sunday."

Mr. T. C. Friend, of near Cranesville, one of the prominent farmers of that section of Garrett county, was in Oakland last Thursday afternoon when he made this office a brief business visit.

Mrs. S. E. Shirer left last Friday for Alexandria, Va., where she will visit her sister Mrs. G. W. Keys, for several weeks. Mrs. Shirer will also visit relatives in Baltimore before returning home.

Messrs. Stuart F. Hamill, Thomas Gonder and Claude Brown were in Cumberland Monday evening when they attended the Maryland theatre where Ben-Hur was presented. The young men returned to Oakland Tuesday morning.

Rev. C. P. Bastian, pastor of the Keyser (W. Va.) Lutheran church, was in Oakland Tuesday as the guest of Rev. E. Manges and family. During the week Rev. Bastian preached to the Lutheran congregation at Deer Park, his sermons being well received.

The Board of School Commissioners met at the Board office in Oakland Tuesday when the appointment of trustees for the various schools of the county was made. In some cases entirely new boards of trustees were named, while in others the old boards or at least individual members of the boards were retained.

Full line of Galvanized Goods—gutters, conductors, ridge roll, tubs, buckets, etc., at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4*

Capt. James A. Hayden, of the Park, State Statistical Agent for Maryland, left his home this morning for a tour of a portion of the State in the interests of agriculture. He will spend tomorrow in Washington county, Saturday in Frederick county and on Sunday he will be at Westminister. He expects to be absent on the trip for at least two weeks.

Frank R. White, of the Government Public School Service in the Phillippines, is in this country on a peculiar mission. Mr. White is here to gather together about 250 men and women who are willing to go to the Philippines to become teachers. One peculiarity about his mission is that he wants teachers who will teach the Filipinos and who will not fall in love with young army officers and government employes in the islands. The positions of teachers pays from $900 to $1,560 per annum, and Mr. White is desirous of taking a majority of young men if he can get them, as he considers them less susceptible to matrimonv.

G. A. Shirer & Co. offer good prices on cooking stoves and ranges for the months of May and June.

A young man went to a preacher to get married, and the preacher asked "How old are you, John?" He replied, "I am half as old as my father. He is two years older than my mother. My eldest sister is two years older than my youngest sister. My youngest sister is four years older than my youngest brother." "How old are they altogether?" asked the preacher. The young man replied that the five children are seventeen years older than his father and mother. How old is John and each of the children and his father and mother?—Exchange. Well, if the young man isn't married until the preacher gets his age figured out, Methuselah would be a kid compared to him.

CAPITAL 50,000.00 — THE — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $29,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

THE DEATH RECORD.

LAURA B. LANTZ.

Mrs. Laura B. Lantz, wife of Jacob Lantz, of Stoyer, Md., died May 2nd, 1908, aged 34 years, 5 months and 6 days. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John G. Riley. She was twice married first to David Tucker, and later Mr. Jacob Lantz, who survives her. She leaves two children—one by each marriage. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. In the absence of her pastor, her funeral was conducted by Rev. E. C. Bedford before a large congregation of relatives and friends. I.

NOAH J. MILLER.

Noah J. Miller, of Gormania, W. Va., was born in the Old Dominion fifty-four years ago. He dropped dead in a log camp about ten miles from Dobbin, May 2, 1908. His funeral was conducted by his pastor at Gormania, May 6th, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and neighbors. He leaves a widow, five sons, two daughters, and a host of other relatives. He was a mumber of K's of P. and the Red Men lodges. Both lodges attended the funeral in a body.

E. P. I.

Married.

HOFF—ORMSBY—An especially pretty house wedding was that last Thursday evening of Miss Ellen Estabrook Ormsby and J. Morgan Bainbridge Hoff, which took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Ormsby, parents of the bride, in Black street, Pittsburg. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock by the Rev. D. Kinsey Smith, using the ritnal of the Episcopal Church, in the presence of the two families and was was followed by a reception to relatives and friends. The house was beautifully decorated with palms, southern fern, vines and flowers. The drawing room where the ceremony was performed was draped with southern smilax and banked with palms and ferns and standards of Easter lilies. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an empire gown of white messaline satin hand embroidered and trimmed with duchess lace. Orange blossoms fastened her long tulle veil to her hair and she carried lilies of the valley and orchids. The bridegroom was attended by John B. Guthrie as best man. The dining room, where a buffet luncheon was served, was decorated with daisies, daffodils and vines. After a southern wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Hoff will make their home in the St. Regis apartments. The out of town guests were Mrs. Jane Ormsby Morgan, grandmother of the groom, Mr. R. T. Semmes and Mrs. Semmes, the mother of Mr. Hoff.

Rev. Dr. R. B. Ward, Presiding Elder of the Oakland District, Methodist Episcopal church, left Oakland Tuesday night for Baltimore where he went as a delegate from the West Virginia Conference to the General Conference of the church which is being held in that city, having convened yesterday, and will probably remain in session for a period of four weeks. Dr. Joseph Lee, of Mountain Lake Park, who is also a delegate from the local conference, accompanied Dr. Ward.

We like to work and we like to see others work, but we just arise to remark that when we get to be worth as much money as some we know, work with us will cease. We could never discover why men sixty and seventy years of age and worth from forty to one hundred thousand dollars should continue to toil, from early until late and in all kinds of weather. We like to see a man provide something for his family after they are gone, but the average boy is better off if not left too much property. You who have labored your three score years should stop work, and enjoy life the few short years you have left to remain with us.

While we are not a prophet or the son of a prophet but it is becoming a popular fad to give weather forecasts, so here is our prediction for this month: During the first half there will be some brisk winds from the north, but every day the sun will rise, and ofter there'll be gloomy skies; some days, however, may be fair, with southern winds and mellow air. Those things will happen sure we know, because they always happen so. This good month's moon will full, and office seekers work their "pull." Some lucky ones will land the prize, while other men esteemed as wise will fail in all they undertake and find they've made a sad mistake, for Charlatans to forture ride while modest worth is thrust aside. These things will happen, we know, because they've always happened so. In this good month of 1908 the boys and girls will have their fun. They'll go to parties, dance and spark; they'll kiss each other in the dark; they'll marry and begin their life, a happy, hopeful man and wife, and sometime they will own a kid, just like their dads and mammies did. These things will happen, sure, we know, because they've always happened so.

Farm For Sale or Rent.

I have a farm 3 miles north of Oakland and 1½ miles west of Deer Park, containing 126 acres, with new eight-room house and good barn, which I offer for rent or sale.

D. M. DIXON.

Mr. Stork Quite Busy.

In these latter days Mr. Stork has been working overtime, having visited four homes in one section of town within the past three or four days, leaving happiness and contentment behind him.

To Mr. and Mrs. James Willison a son was born last Thursday night, followed on Friday evening by the birth of a daughter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin H. Echard. Monday the bird did a double turn, leaving a daughter at the respective homes of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Gonder and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Green.

Loch Lynn Municipal Election.

At the municipal election held in Loch Lynn Heights on Monday the following were elected: Mayor, Z. C. Gibson; councilmen, Smith Lish and E. E. Kesner; treasurer, W. N. Wilson; bailiff, A. Friend; clerk, Henry Gibson; tax collector, Floyd White.

Government Test.

The Postoffice Department will on Thursday of next week test the device recently patented by Rev. C. W. Hutsier, Williamsport, for catching and delivering mail sacks while trains are in motion. The test will be made at Salisbury, between Hagerstown and Williamsport, on the Western Maryland Railroad. The Government will pay a large sum for the device if it meets all requiremencs. The deviec is intended to remove the danger of mail matter falling beneath the cars and being destroyed, as often happens when sacks are thrown from rapidly moving cars.

Italian Injured.

Yesterday morning as a special train of laborers was being taken from the west to a landslide which occurred the night previous at a point on the Seventeen Mile grade near Frankville, one of the men, an Italian, fell from the train at Deer Park and was quite painfully hurt, one rib being broken and his shoulder badly bruised. Dr. McComas, the railroad physician, attended the man and he was sent back to the camp train a few hours afterward.

Tax Sales.

In this paper today Mr. E. A. Weimer, late County Treasurer, advertises at tax sale a number of parcels of real estate located in various districts of the county. The sale will occur on Friday, the 29th inst., in front of the court house in Oakland.

Church Services.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 9.15 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m., subject "The Perils of Middle Life and How to Meet Them."
Preaching at 8 p. m.
Epworth League Monday 8 p. m.
Junior League Wednesday 4.15 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.
Preaching at 8 p. m.
Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.
Communion at Deer Park Lutheran church, Sunday, at 11 a. m.
Preaching at Hutton Thursday, May 14, at 8 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.
Loch Lynn—Preaching at 3 p. m.
Ferndale—Preaching at 8 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

BOW LOW the head—do reverence to the old man, once like you. The vicissitudes of life have silvered his hair and changed the round, merry face to the worm visage before you. Once the heart beat with aspiration, crushed by disappointment, as yours, perhaps, is destined to be. Once that form stalked proudly through the gay scenes of pleasure, the beau ideal of grace; now the hand of time, that withers the flowers of yesterday, has bent that figure and destroyed that noble carriage. Once, at your age, he possessed the thousand thoughts that pass through your brain, now wishing to accomplish deeds equal to a nook in fame; anon imagining life a dream that the sooner he awoke the better. But he has lived the dream very near through; the time to awaken is very near at hand; his eye never kindles at old deeds of daring, and the hand takes a firmer grasp of the staff. Bow low the head, boy, as you would in your old age be revered.

Store and Station Robbed.

The store of William Pendergast, located at Hutton, about five miles west of Oakland, was entered and robbed of a large quantity of groceries, flour and feed Saturday night. The station of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company was also broken into and a quantity of flour and coffee taken from the wareroom. It is supposed the robbery is the work of a regular gang as this is the third time Mr. Pendergast's store has been robbed within the past year.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE-P'T. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. RALE, ASSISTANT CASHIER

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

GORTNER.

Rev. Daniel Yoder and son Ito, of near Salisbury, Pa., were visiting relatives in this yicinity the past week.

Miss Lizzie Lichty left on Wednesday for Millersburg, Ohio, where she will spend a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. John Stutzman.

Contractor Gibson was forced to discontinue work on the Cherry Creek bridge on account of the heavy rains the past few days.

Rev. Ed. Miller, of Springs, Pa., delivered several interesting and instructive sermons at the Union church Sunday.

Joshua Brenninger and Frank Gortner are visiting friends at Bittinger and Grantsville this week.

Sunday school at 10 o'clock a. m.

CHAPTER 505.

AN ACT to provide for the appointment of a deputy sheriff and a cook to the jail in Garrett county by repealing Sections 2, 3 and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assenbly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enacting the same with amendments, and to add a new section to said Act to be known as Section 4A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted be the General Assembly of Maryland, That Sections 2, 3, and 4, of Chapter 17, of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, for the Session of 1906, entitled An Act to repeal Chapter 285 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, and re-enact the same with amendments, so as to read as follows:

SECTION 2. The Sheriff of Garrett county shall appoint a fit person as Deputy Sheriff of said county, who shall also act as Warden of the Jail of said county, and who shall perform the services of said jail as Janitor and Warden, and shall have charge of said jail in keeping it heated and cleaned, and of the care and custody of prisoners therein, and shall be responsible for escapes of prisoners occasioned in the same manner and to the same extent as the Sheriff of said County and shall perform all duties required of him by the Sheriff of said County.

SEC. 3. The said Deputy Sheriff, before he enters upon the duties of his office, shall take the same oath before the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, as now required by law to be taken by Sheriffs, and shall give such bond to the State of Maryland with sureties to be approved in due form, in the sum of three thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties as such Deputy Sheriff, which bond shall when approved be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court and disposed of as the Sheriff's bond is disposed of.

SEC. 4. The first Deputy Sheriff appointed under this Act, shall be appointed to serve until the first day January, 1910, unless removed sooner for cause, and appointments shall be made thereafter for the term of two years, unless sooner removed by the Sheriff for incompetentcy, disobedience or neglect of duty, or other causes, which in the judgment of the said Sheriff may be sufficient for such removal; and in case of removal as hereinbefore provided, the new appointee shall be appointed for the unexpired term of the person removed, and the salary of said Deputy Sheriff shall be not less than nine hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars in each year, and shall be levied for and paid by the County Commissioners of Garrett county in monthly installment.

SEC. 4A. And be it enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county shall allow the Sheriff of Garrett county the sum of three hundred dollars per year for a cook to the jail, which sum shall be paid in monthly installments to the Sheriff.

And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

HE WANTED SPACE.

Immediate Application Was Necessary In This Case.

"Is Mr. Champion in this car?"

The question, uttered in a loud, anxious and even appealing tone, arrested the attention of everybody in the elevated railway coach, which was crowded to its utmost capacity.

"I mean Mr. W. J. Champion!"

All eyes were turned upon the speaker, a tall, wild eyed west sider, who was clinging desperately to a strap and trying to steady himself without digging the brim of his hat into somebody's eyes or stepping on some helpless passenger's corns as the car lurched from side to side.

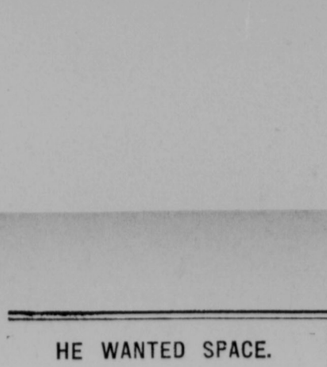
"I ask again! Is Mr. Champion—I beg your pardon, sir—in the car?"

"What do you want of him?" gasped the surly passenger clinging to the next strap.

"Do you see that sign?" howled the tall man, pointing with his free hand to one of the advertising cards near the ventilators. "It says, 'For Space In This Car Apply to W. J. Champion.' I want space! I want it understood that I am applying for space in this car right now! If Mr. Champion is not here, gentlemen, is there any person legally authorized to represent him? I want space enough to live in, space enough to breathe in"—

But here the train stopped at a station, and the rush of passengers who wanted to get off swept the tall man, still protesting at the top of his voice, out into the open air.—Chicago Tribune.

Exceptions Prove the Rule.



Angelina (gushingly)—And so you're a poet! Oh, I do so love poets! There is something so ethereal about them!

She Knew.

A physician in a town not far from Philadelphia who has some practice among the colored population in the vicinity was once awakened in the middle of the night by a frantic ring at his bell. Putting his head out of the window, he inquired, "Who's there?"

"It's me, doctah. It's Dinah."

"Dinah! What do you want?"

"Ef yer please, sah, I wants yer ter come quick ter see my ole man. He's pow'ful sick."

"Too bad. What seems to be the matter with him?"

"I know what's de matter wid him, all right. It's indigestion ob de kidneys."

"You mean congestion of the kidneys?"

"No, sah; it's indigestion of the kidneys. He done eat four platefuls ob 'em, stewed, for supper, and he ain't done slep' a wink since."—Lippincott's.

Natural.

There is a stalwart negro in a town of Alabama whose naturally fine singing voice is the feature of the local colored church choir.

On one occasion when the singer was suffering from a protracted illness one of the deacons called to ascertain how the patient was "gittin' on."

"He's got an awful bad cough jest now," explained the singer's wife, with a most mournful sigh.

"Well, dat's too bad, dat's too bad!" exclaimed the deacon, casting about for some means of consolation. Then a happy thought struck him. "Come to think of it," he added, "it ain't no wonder, wif dat strong voice he was pressin' on his lungs. He's shore due to have a cough now 'n' then, ain't he?"—Harper's Weekly.

Cool and Calculating.

"I suppose you heard about Miss Koy's behavior during the fire. Why, when the first fireman came up the ladder for her she wouldn't go with him."

"What was the matter with her—out of her mind?"

"Not at all. She saw that the second fireman who was coming up was handsomer."—Philadelphia Press.

Not a Consistent Performer.

"It must be some encouragement to learn that your European son-in-law is disposed to be very economical."

"H'm!" rejoined Mr. Cumrox thoughtfully. "He makes distinctions. He is not as economical with my money as he is with his own."—Washington Star.

Better Than a Mask.

"You say he married the cook?"

"Yes, but she was a college girl in disguise."

"Well, if she was a good cook it was a mighty thorough disguise."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Tiresome Sport.

Patience—Which do you think the more tiresome, golf or skating?

Patrice—Oh, golf! A person sits down more while skating!—Yonkers Statesman.

And Charged For Accordingly.

The steeplejack was climbing the flagstaff surmounting the clock tower.

"This is what I call working over time," he chuckled.—Chicago Tribune.

GASOLENE-ELECTRIC CAR

Detail of the Irene, Which Is Being Tested Over Eastern Railroad.

A car which is being tested over all the main steam lines in the East was finished early this year by the J. C. Brill Company, of Philadelphia, for the Strang Gas-Electric Company. It consists of a gas engine with a direct connected generator, electric transmission and control, direct electrical connection between the generator and truck motors and a storage battery.

The operation of the car is practically the same as an interurban trolley car, but, unlike it, it produces its own current, and is therefore independent of trolley wire and powerhouse. The generator and engine have a capacity for a long run, the generator furnishing all the current necessary, but when starting or when ascending a grade the curret necessary would demand an engine and generator of much larger capacity were it not for the storage battery. It therefore takes care of the "peak" of the load, or that which is in excess of normal requirement. The storage battery is charged while the car is running down grades, coming to a stop or standing still.

The Strange system, with its storage battery, admits of a comparatively small power plant. The battery is placed underneath the car, as shown in the cut, and the engine room needs only to be large enough for the engine and the generator. The engine has its six cylinders in line to make it as narrow as possible, thus leaving ample room for persons to enter the compartment and see the operation of the system.

Multiple unit control, which enables the car to furnish current to other car equipped with motors to which it may be coupled, is used on the car.

The car seats seventy-five passengers, and can attain a speed of fifty-five miles an hour. In can be made the motor car of a train, being capable of hauling three trailers carrying seventy-five passengers each. In the case of a mishap, its double system of power allows its batteries to drive it for fifteen miles, if necessary, to a roundhouse or station. The car is built of steel, with the exception of the interior, which is composed of vermilion wood, richly carved and inlaid. Behind the engine room is a compartment furnished with transversely placed seats, upholstered in red leather, and the rear compartment has comfortable wicker chairs and the usual fittings of a Pullman club car.

ROOSEVELT AT CLOSE RANGE.

He Goes To His Office Every Day But Sunday.

The President repairs to his office every morning at 9.30, except on Sunday, and to it come to seek him the high and the low—if there be any low in a Republic like this of ours. Before you admit them in imagination get the permanent features of the scene in mind.

Imagine at the desk sometimes, on the divan sometimes, sometimes in a chair in the farthest corner of the Cabinet room, more often on his feet—it may be anywhere within the four walls—the muscular, massive figure of Mr. Roosevelt. You know his features—the closeclipped brachycephalous head, closely clipped mustache, pince nez, square and terribly rigid jaw. Hair and mustache indeterminate in color; eyes a clear blue; cheeks and neck ruddy. He is in a frock coat, a low collar, with a four-in-hand, a light waist-coat and gray striped trousers—not that you would never notice all that unless you pulled yourself away from his face and looked with deliberate purpose. Remember that he is almost constantly in action, speaking earnestly and with great animation; that he gestures freely and that his whole face is always in play. For he talks with his whole being—mouth, eyes, forehead, cheeks and neck all taking their mobile parts. The President is in the pink of condition today, his face clear, his weight I should say well-nigh a stone less than was his habit back of a year ago. Look at him as he stands and you will see that he is rigid as a soldier on parade. His chin is in, his chest out. The line from the back of his head falls straight as a plumb line to his heels. Never for a moment, while he is on his feet, does that line so much as waver, that neck unbend. It is a pillar of steel. Remember that steel pillar. Remember it when he laughs, as he will do a hundred times a day—heartily, freely, like an irresponsible schoolboy on a lark, his face flushing ruddier, his eyes nearly closed, his utterance choked with mirth and speech abandoned or become a weird falsetto. For the President is a joker, and (what many jokers are not) a humorist. He is always looking for fun—and always finding it. He likes it rather than he does a fight—but that's fun, too. You have to remember, then, two things to see the picture: a room filled with constant good humor, breaking literally every five minutes into a roar of laughter, and a neck of steel.

Not that the President always stands at attention. He doubles up when he laughs, sometimes. Sometimes—though only when a visitor whom he knows well is alone with him—he puts his foot on a chair. When he sits, however, he is very much at ease—half the time with one leg curled up on the divan or maybe on the Cabinet table top. And, curiously, when the President sits on one foot his visitor is likely to do the same, even if, like Mr. Justice Harlam or Mr. J. J. Hill, he has to take hold of the foot and pull it up.

All this may be very idle, yet it is all part of the scene.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Don't Preach About Home Trade

and at the same time send your orders for job printing out of town. Your home printer can do your work just as good, and in nine cases out of ten he can beat the city man's prices, because he pays much less for running expenses. By sending your next printing order to this office you'll be better satisfied all around, and you'll be keeping the money at home.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION

33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

All the News Everything that happens in the home town; the births, marriages, deaths, the social affairs, the comings and goings of the people—your neighbors; the notes of the schools and churches; all these and many other new and interesting things this paper will give you All the Time

ASK your stenographer what it means to change a typewriter ribbon three times in getting out a day's work.

The New Tri-Chrome Smith Premier Typewriter

makes ribbon changes unnecessary; gives you, with one ribbon and one machine, the three essential kinds of business typewriting—black record, purple copying and red.

This machine permits not only the use of a two-color ribbon or single-color

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county, hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letter of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor,
7-6t Frostburg, Md.

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Notice is here given to the qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that a Special Election will be held at the Office of the Supervisors of Election in said town on Monday, May 4th, 1908,

from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of submitting the question, as to whether the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at its January Session, 1908, with reference to issuing Municipal bonds to the amount of $60,000 for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of Water Works and Sewerage in said town, shall be enforced or vice versa.

By order of the Council,

J. C. DUNHAM, Clerk,
Town Council of Oakland.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,

Real Estate Bought and Sold.

Particular Attention Given Railroad & Mine Surveying.

Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from B. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 16 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information, address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent. Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,920,673 84
Total Liabilities	13,670,153 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,250,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD,
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital	$1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance	638,757 23
Reserve for all Out standing Claims	318,272 38
Net Surplus	1,118,384 25
Total Assets	$5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK,
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,000,000 00
Total Assets	2,329,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	727,763 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,702 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,160,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK,
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets	$16,399,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities	7,465,890 71
Surplus as regards policy holders	8,933,561 39

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett county, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors,
Hoyes, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., April 23, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, May 12th, 1908,

to transact any business that may be brought before it.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, when taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break up head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes at all Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

Preventics

"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.

Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,

Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.

Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.

Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.

Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing, Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m. Arrive *7.12 a. m., *5.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m., †local, *4.31 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *5.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write to

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars

Cameras and Photo Supplies

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

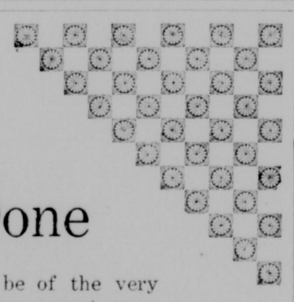
Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

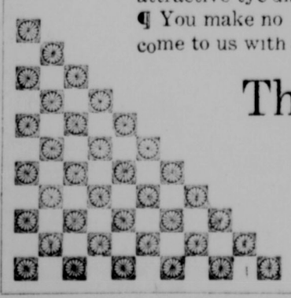
When You Need Printing Done



You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing



The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

UP TO DATE SCHOOL CHILD.

Make haste to school, my little child,
Or else you will be late;
Your books are all aseptic now,
And here's your sterile slate.

Your pencil has been boiled an hour—
'Tis germless, now, I hope;
And don't forget to wash your desk
With this carbolic soap.

And lest about the schoolroom floor
Some unseen microbes lurk,
Just sprinkle formaline around
Before you set to work.

You'd better put, for safety's sake,
Bichloride in the ink,
And water that has not been boiled
You must not dare to drink.

Of course, when recess comes around
Some food you'll want to munch;
So in this disinfected box
Is prodigested lunch.

And since 'tis said that in a kiss
Bacteria may dwell
I may not give you, as I'd like,
A mother's fond farewell.

Make haste to school, my little child,
And leave my tender care,
And may you still be safely kept
From microbes in the air.
—Elsie Duncan Yale in New York Life.

Stung.

A little girl was being put to bed one summer night, and after she had said her prayers her mother kissed her good night and said:

"Now go to sleep, dear. Don't be afraid, for God's angels are watching over you."

In a short time, while the mother and father were at tea, a small voice from upstairs was heard.

"Mamma!"

"Yes, little one! What is it?"

"God's angels are buzzing around, and one's bitten me!"—Harper's Weekly.

Must Marry.

Friend—One of your clerks tells me you raised his salary and told him to get married under penalty of discharge.

Business Man—Yes; I do that to all my clerks when they get old enough to marry. I don't want any of your independent, conceited men about my place.—Tit-Bits.

Who Doubts It?

The Trout—Pickerel is said to be extremely rich.

The Bass—Yes; he is believed to be the possessor of a million bones.—Kansas City Times.

Tit For Tat.

"Some people," growled Grouchey, "make me sick."

"I should think nearly everybody would make you sick," replied Peppey.

"Why so?"

"Well, 'turn about is fair play,' you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Sorry It Came.

Howell—Did you find that umbrella you lost?

Powell—Yes.

Howell—I'll bet you were glad to get it back.

Powell—You lose. I left it at my mother-in-law's, and when it came back she came with it.—Puck.

Worth Trying.

"Why in the world," asked the theatrical manager's assistant, "have you engaged that woman? She has no reputation at all."

"Never mind. She frankly told me that she couldn't act, but she said she was anxious to learn."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Kind She Saw.

"Old?" echoed the lady, with much hauteur. "Why, I would have you know that I have only seen eighteen springs."

"Eighteen springs!" laughed the low comedian. "Where, sister—in a parlor sofa?"—Detroit Tribune.

Business.

"I note that you are always advising people to economize."

"Yes," answered Mr. Dustin Starr; "they can't possibly afford to buy the articles controlled by my trust unless they do."—Washington Star.

A Gentle Gibe.

"I wonder why this gun kicks so," complained the amateur sportsman, after missing another easy shot.

"Maybe," suggested the guide sarcastically, "it's kicking at your hard luck."—Philadelphia Press.

As He Would Put It.

"Any woman," she said, "can make a fool of a man."

"No," he replied, "you are mistaken. Any man can be made a fool of by some woman."—New York Press.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

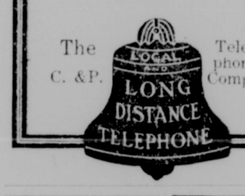
W. G. RILEY.
BREEDER OF
High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.
I have 14 of the leading varieties.
Eggs, $1 for 15.
Lowest price for best quality.
DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. &P. Telephone Comp'y



An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building,
Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.
Cheapest place to buy
MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING
Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.
2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.
2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices
Grain Drills, Harrows & Plows
AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,
Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now,

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

FIKE.

During the past week we had considerable snow and rain.

The farmers greatly fear the fruit has all been frozen.

Mr. L. K. Fike and Wm. L. Thomas were out in the Bittinger vicinity a couple of days last week.

A party of young people met at Mr. Hiram Fike's on last Wednesday evening and at Wm. H. Thomas' on Saturday evening and had a little singing and all enjoyed the evenings at both places.

Mr. J. A. Fike's fourteen year old daughter is suffering with pneumonia. Dr. H. P. Meyers is attending the case.

Mr. John R. Fike has been working at Beaver Creek, Pa., for a few weeks.

Mrs. F. J. Bowser is still on the sick list.

Mrs. Andrew Chrise is still in the hospital, and is recovering slowly.

CARTER.

BETHLEHEM.

Rain is the order of the day now, and it is appreciated more that snow and freezing atmosphere.

Farmers have been very busy sowing oats; but most of them have that completed. It is not often they are done sowing oats in April.

Dr. Z. H. Moon is having good success with his poultry. He has a fine lot of Black Minorcas.

Mr. James L. Harvey who has been suffering for sometime past with a fractured limb, is, we are glad to say, able to walk again.

Near the Schell road on the 28th day of April Miss Minnie Lipscomb killed a blacksnake which was 5 feet 5 inches in length.

Mr. William Harvey recently killed a rattle snake which had eleven rattles and a button.

Rev. Hardesty is suffering severely with inflamed eyes. Hope he will soon recover.

On Sunday last quite a number of people from this section attended the funeral of Mrs. Laura Lantz at the White church.

Mr. J. B. Lipscomb has got to be quite a trapper, having recently caught an owl that measured four feet four inches from tip to tip.

Miss Cassie Wilson and Prof. Chas. Moore were calling on Mrs. J. J. Moon last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Granville Harvey and Joseph Lee, of Pennsylvania, have been visiting friends at this place. Glad to have them with us again.

Mr. James E. Lish is busy with his blacksmith tools at present.

People are very much afraid the fruit is killed but as the old man said when on board the ship and found he had left his almanac at home and could not find weather predictions: "By gosh, we'll jest hey to take her as she comes."

FARMER.

Call for Your Letters.

Miss Addie Bernard, Miss Allie Fouthe, Mr. Alex Johnson, Mr. Charles Montgomery, Miss Mamie Smith.

Musical Recital.

A recital will be given by some of Miss Daisy Grant's pupils, in the basement of the Lutheran church, on Thursday evening, May 14th, at eight o'clock. Their friends and the public are cordially invited to be present. No admission charged.

Order of Publication.

Della Lynch and Edward Lynch, Plaintiffs, vs.
Loyolen McKinzie, Anna McKinzie, Noah McKinzie, Inez McKinzie, Annie McKinzie, Helen Walker, Robert Walker, Dora McKinzie, Richard McKinzie, George McKinzie, Rose McKinzie, Laura McKinzie, Peter McKinzie, Dora McKinzie, Lucy McKinzie, Nancy Robison and Olin Robison, Defendants.

No. 138 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate devised in the last will and testament of Francis McKinzie, deceased, late of Garrett county, for the purpose of partition among the parties entitled to interest therein.

The bill states that on or about the ——— day of March, in the year 1894, the said Francis McKinzie departed this life leaving a last will and testament, devising his real estate to his wife during her natural life, and then to his children share and share alike; that the said widow of the said Francis McKinzie departed this life about one year ago, and that he left as his only heirs under his said last will and testament, the following children: Loyolen McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Annie McKinzie; Noah McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Inez McKinzie; Annie McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Dora McKinzie, his daughter, intermarried with Richard McKinzie; George McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Rose McKenzie; Laura McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Lucy McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Nancy Robison, his daughter, intermarried with Olin Robison, all of Garrett county, State of Maryland; Della Lynch, his daughter, intermarried with Edward Lynch; Peter McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Dora McKinzie, all of Allegany county, State of Maryland; Helen Walker his daughter, intermarried with Robert Walker, of Salisbury, Somerset county, State of Pennsylvania; that all of said children are adults. That said real estate consists of a farm and cannot be divided among the parties entitled to interest therein, without loss and injury.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of said real estate and for a distribution of the proceeds thereof among the parties entitled thereto, according to their respective interests therein; for general relief; for subpoena against the resident defendants and an order of publication against non resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 4th day of May, in the year 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Equity, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 8th day of June, 1908, giving notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 22nd day of June, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
10 4t E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

AN ACT, to repeal and re-enact with amendments, Section 113 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, in 1906, Chapter 423.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 113 of the Code of Public Laws of Article 12, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of 1906, Chapter 223, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

SEC. 113. That the male citizens of said town of the age of twenty-one years and upwards being citizens of the United States, and who have resided in said town for six months thereto preceding, shall elect by ballot on the first Monday in April, of the year 1908, a Mayor, to serve for two years or until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified, and five Councilmen, three to serve for one year and two to serve for two years from the date of their election, or until their successors have been duly elected and qualified, and an election shall be held thereafter every second year for the election of a Mayor to serve for two years and an election shall be held thereafter every year for the election of two or three Councilmen as the case may be, to serve for the term of two years, the number of Councilmen thus to be elected to correspond with the number of Councilmen whose terms expire at the time of such election. In case of death, resignation or failure to qualify of any party elected as Mayor or Councilmen the corporate board (not less than a quorum being present) shall fill such vacancy by the election of some other qualified inhabitant of Grantsville to fill the unexpired term of the party whose place shall thus have become vacant. The Mayor and Councilmen during their official term shall hold no other corporation office nor be interested in any contract to which said corporation is a party, or where the money for said contract is to be paid out of the corporation treasury.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 296.

AN ACT to repeal Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County" sub-title "Dogs" and to authorized the County Commissioners to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund" created by said Act; to re-enact Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892; and to add a new Section to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Sheep" to be designated 214A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," be and the same is hereby repealed, and that the County Commissioners are hereby authorized to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund," created by said Act; and that Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" be re-enacted as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892 and a new section be added to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep," to be designated 214A.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That after the first day of April, 1908, that the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county shall have power to place any balance which may remain in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the "Sheep Fund" after all the claims for sheep killed by dogs have been paid, to the credit of the general Road Fund of the county and in case the claims proven for loss of sheep by dogs prior to April first, 1908, cannot be met by the "Sheep Fund" then the County Commissioners shall pay such claims out of the general funds of the county.

214. It shall be lawful to kill any dog seen running sheep in Garrett county and the owners of dogs shall be liable for all sheep killed or injured by them, and any person seeing such dogs running at large may lawfully kill the same.

214A. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county upon the petition of taxpayers, if they elect, shall have power to levy a tax, or license fee upon dogs and bitches owned, kept, or harbored within their county and to provide for the enrollment of said dogs and bitches designating officer or officers to do the same, and they may designate the time and manner of collecting the tax or license fee, and appoint tee officer or officers to make such collection or enrollment, and, may require them to give bond: and upon the petition in writing of the taxpayers of any one election district the County Commissioners, if the see fit, shall have power to levy an amount upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, which amount shall be applied in that district only to re-imburse the owners of sheep or lambs residing in said district for all sheep or lambs injured or killed by dogs, at a flat rate of three dollars per head; provided that this payment shall not be made when the ownership of the dog which did such killing can be proved. The County Commissioners are hereby authorized to make all rules and and regulations covering the custody and disbursement of this special fund.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this Act shall take effect upon the first day of April, 1908.

Approved April 1, 1908.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1906, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 3 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge intefest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Treasurer.

LEVY LIST, 1908.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, Levied on the 18th Day of April, 1908, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Marvland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.
[Levied as per Act of Legislature.]

Dist. No. 1—Swanton	$	881 50
" 2—Selbysport		1,073 40
" 3—Grantsville		1,216 80
" 4—Bloomington		533 40
" 5—Accident		829 82
" 6—Sang Run		536 04
" 7—East Oakland		1,688 26
" 8—Ryans Glade		1,015 97
" 9—Johnsons		364 03
" 10—Deer Park		877 24
" 11—Elbow		353 15
" 12—Bittinger		460 95
" 13—Kitzmillersville		321 51
" 14—Oakland		1,869 15
Total	$	12,012 32

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of—
Oakland	$	800 00
Deer Park		100 00
Loch Lynn		100 00
Friendsville		300 00
Kitzmillersville		150 00
Commissioners of Grantsville		150 00
Mt. Lake Park Community		200 00
Total	$	1,800 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett National Bank	$	600 00
Same, use Davis Nat'l Bank		700 00
Same, balance		440 25
Total	$	1,740 25

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay expenses for June, September and December, 1908, and March Term, 1909	$	3,085 00

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay Judges	$	464 64
E. E. Friend, Register of Wills		175 10
Total	$	639 74

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. L. Lee, late Sheriff, use Garrett National Bank	$	500 00
Same, use Dixon & Kelso		852 11
Same, balance		1,358 46
Estimate to pay Sheriff's salary, prisoners' board, etc., for 1908, subject to order		3,000 00
Estimate to pay Warden's salary, subject to order		900 00
Estimate to pay Jail Cook's salary, subject to order		300 00
E. I. West, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland		17 50
C. J. Brown, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use of First National Bank of Oakland		22 00
Daniel Vaughn, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland		30 00
Daniel Jamison, taking care of David Saucer at jail		7 50
J. W. Purnell, taking care of C. C. Michael at jail		42 00
Total	$	7,029 57

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners for support schools	$	17,000 00
To build new school houses		3,000 00
Total	$	20,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING & PUBLISHING.

Benj. H. Sincell, publishing and printing, use Garrett National Bank	$	462 50
James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett National Bank		262 50
Chas. A. Deffinbaugh, publishing		116 65
Total	$	841 65

ELECTION EXPENSES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$	3,800 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same for 1908	$	4,000 00
Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn, part payment for bridge over Little Yough near Loch Lynn		125 00
Total	$	4,125 00

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$	250 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1908	$	2,600 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1908	$	1,050 00

STATE WITNESSES BEFORE J. P.

Estimate for 1908	$	100 00

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$	1,000 00
A. G. Ross, Clerk, balance		600 00
F. A. Thayer, Attorney		150 00

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 187—
A. C. Mason, surveyor	$	10 00
Chauncey Kimmell, examiner, 2 days		4 00
Eugene Feats, examiner 2 days		4 00
W. T. Sines, " 2 days		4 00
Samuel Kimmell chainman, 1 day		1 50
Guy Kimmell, chainman, 1 day		1 50
J. S. Hardesty, axeman, 1 day		1 50
Road Case No. 188—
C. M. Miller, surveyor		15 25
Rudolph Beckman, examiner, 3 days		6 00
J. L. Fitzwater, examiner, 3 days		6 00
P. P. McAndrews, " 3 "		6 00
Jno. A. Beckman, flagman, 2 "		3 00
Jas. W. Kisner, axeman, 2 "		3 00
Stuart A. Paugh, chainman, 2 "		3 00
Luther C. Winter, " 2 "		3 00
Road Case No. 190—
P. C. Boucher, surveyor		10 00
H. S. Coleman, examiner, 1 day		2 00
David Popp, " 1 day		2 00
B. F. Michael, " 1 day		2 00
Noah McKenzie, chainman, 1 day		1 50
Jos. Minnick, " 1 day		1 50
Road Case No. 191—
W. McCulloh Brown, surveyor		20 00
Jas. W. Harvey, examiner 4 days		8 00
James Lish, " 4 days		8 00
L. C. Hamill, " 3 days		6 00
L. C. Hamill, roadman, 3 days		4 50
George Plum, axeman, 2 days		3 00
Richard Bray, chainman, 3 days		4 50
Clever Pool, " 2 days		3 00
Hamill Coal & Coke Co., damages		1 00
Manor Mining & Mfg Co., "		22 15
Garrett County Coal Co., "		20 45
Road Case No. 192—
Getty Browning, surveyor, use Garrett National Bank		35 00
Jonas Glotfelty, examiner, 1½ days		3 00
F. D. Dewitt, examiner, 1½ days		3 00
W. A. Smith, " 1 day		2 00
Lee Browning, chainman, 4 days		6 00
Fred. Shank, " 4 days		6 00
Road Case No. 193—
James A. Sincell, surveyor		15 00
Martin Hughes, examiner, 2 days		4 00
P. H. Rodeheaver, " 3 days		6 00
Henry Myers, " 2 days		4 00
Wm. M. Lawton, chainman, 1 day		1 50
Delbert Rodeheaver, " 1 day		1 50
Edmund Jamison, " 1 day		1 50
Total	$	279 85

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS

Districts Nos. 1, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13 and 14, subject to order	$	1,378 89
Districts Nos. 3, 9, 11 and 12, subject to order		500 00
Districts Nos. 2, 5 and 6, subject to order		400 00
Total	$	2,278 89

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, late State's Attorney	$	1,339 47
J. T. Mitchell, 2 misdemeanors		10 00
C. G. Watson, 2 "		10 00
Thos. J. Peddicord, 1 felony		10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, 4 misdemeanors and 2 felonies		40 00
Norman S. Heindel, 1 felony		10 00
Renninger & Offutt, 1 "		10 00
E. H. Sincell, 1 misdemeanor		5 00
G. S. Hamill & Ferdinand Williams, 1 felony		10 00
Ferdinand Williams, 2 misdemeanors		10 00
Asa T. Matthews, 1 felony		10 00
S. F. Hamill, 1 "		10 00
G. S. Hamill, Jr., 1 "		10 00
Hamill & Matthews, 1 felony		10 00
J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney		15 00
Total	$	1,519 47

CONSTABLES' FEES.

Dist. No. 1—Jos. R. Glass	$	11 60
" 2—Chas. H. Liston		10 95
" 4—Jac. Stump, special		3 75
" 7—Wm. A. Maffett		280 15
" 10—E. G. Miller		8 70
" 14—J. H. White, special		45 05
" 14—Wm. Newman, "		24 40
Total	$	384 60

MAGISTRATES' FEES.

Dist. No. 3—Peter Nathan	$	44 40
" 5—Henry Kahl		7 95
" 7—A. S. Teats		130 29
" 10—Wm. D. Hoye		18 00
" 14—Andrew B. Gonder		60 40
Total	$	261 04

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

John Kanaga, support Frances Cooper, subject to order	$	25 00
Sarah Sanbower, support Hubert Sanbower, subject to order		50 00
Silas Cuppett, support Emily Forsythe, subject to order		100 00
Jacob Beeman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order		25 00
Francis Fike, support Nancy Vansickle and daughter, subject to order		120 00
Esther Glotfelty, support self, subject to order		96 00
Simon Nair, support self, subject to order		60 00
J. I. Ringer, support John R. Ringer, subject to order		120 00
Amelia Turney, support self, subject to order		50 00
Alpheus and Mary Yeast, support self, subject to order		150 00
James W. Gilpin, support self, subject to order		100 00
Estimate for others		200 00
Total	$	1,096 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

On the body of Anna Boger—
Philip Georg,	Juror	$	1 00
Samuel Mosser,	"		1 00
Louis Durst,	"		1 00
Floyd Deahl,	"		1 00
Valentine Kahl,	"		1 00
William Bowman,	"		1 00
Daniel Bowman,	"		1 00
Solomon Glass,	"		1 00
Newton Geis,	"		1 00
Smith Friend,	"		1 00
William Garringer,	"		1 00
J. P. Spiker,	"		1 00
Dr. H. R. Boyer			10 00
Leonard Shartzer, summoning jurors			1 50
On body of George H. Marville—
Samuel P. Specht,	Juror		1 00
William H. Clary,	"		1 00
George Marley,	"		1 00
James T. Shaffer,	"		1 00
Walter C. Bowman,	"		1 00
Sanson S. Savedge,	"		1 00
George L. Coffman,	"		1 00
F. L. Warnick,	"		1 00
Chas. B. Savedge,	"		1 00
Alex. C. George,	"		1 00
Enoch R. Clark,	"		1 00
John Snyder,	"		1 00
Dr. J. K. Cole			10 00
G. W. Haulenbeck, for team			50
On body of Joseph Harris—
George T. Miller,	Juror		1 00
James Coffman,	"		1 00
Jesse Harris,	"		1 00
Edward Miller,	"		1 00
George Moorehead,	"		1 00
Lawrence Garvey,	"		1 00
Robert Moorehead,	"		1 00
Lewis Mitter,	"		1 00
Daniel Raley,	"		1 00
Adam Elliott,	"		1 00
James Spence,	"		1 00
James Reynolds,	"		1 00
Marcus M. Fazenbaker, coroner			5 00
Dr. H. M. Kemp			10 00
Thomas Burk,	Witness		33
J. P. Cleary,	"		33
Gilbert Warnick,	"		33
Harmon Elliott,	"		33
R. A. C. Howard,	"		33
Thomas Moorehead,	"		33
Dominick Flynn,	"		33
Edward Devine,	"		33
Russell Patterson,	"		33
Frank Flynn,	"		33
Stephen Flynn,	"		33
Lewis Baldwin,	"		33
Lon Buckhannon,	"		33
Renx Buckhannon,	"		33
Charles D. Moorehead,	"		33
Thomas P. Swan,	"		33
Charles Brentlin,	"		33
Michael Flynn,	"		33
Joseph Paugh,	"		33
Lewis Mitter,	"		33
Cole Duckworth,	"		33
Joseph Moran,	"		33
William Elliott,	"		33
Charles Flynn,	"		33
Mrs. John Howell,	"		33
Charles H. Hill,	"		33
Gus Wilson,	"		33
George Ward,	"		33
Andy Hotchkiss,	"		33
Charles Ball,	"		33
Scott Elliott,	"		33
Howard Miller,	"		33
Mrs. Gilbert Warnick,	"		33
Mrs. C. D. Moorehead,	"		33
Benj. Fazenbaker,	"		33
On body of Robert E. Clingan—
Edward J. Frantz,	juror		1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"		1 00
G. M. Mason,	"		1 00
J. N. Robinson,	"		1 00
D. M. Mason,	"		1 00
W. Ravenscroft,	"		1 00
John Sweeney,	"		1 00
R. K. Maroney,	"		1 00
Owen Tracy,	"		1 00
Thomas Little,	"		1 00
Charles Liller,	"		1 00
W. H. Hinebaugh,	"		1 00
Dr. H. W. McComas			10 00
Dr. J. E. Legge			10 00
J. A. Cross,	Witness		33
Mattie Cross,	"		33
Holmes Browning,	"		33
Charles Whetsell,	"		33
James Frantz,	"		33
Philip Davis,	"		33
On body of John Collins—
George Mason,	juror		1 00
Edward J. Frantz,	"		1 00
Daniel Vaughn,	"		1 00
George Geissman,	"		1 00
B. H. Sincell,	"		1 00
E. A. Weimer,	"		1 00
E. Baumgartner,	"		1 00
D. M. Mason,	"		1 00
George D. White,	"		1 00
Charles Liller,	"		1 00
Robert Townshend,	"		1 00
James A. Sincell,	"		1 00
Earl Durst, witness			33
Dr. John E. Legge			10 00
On body of Bartholomew Hileman—
D. M. Mason,	juror		1 00
L. J. Brown,	"		1 00
J. M. Stanton,	"		1 00
A. J. Harne,	"		1 00
E. J. Frantz,	"		1 00
Austin Brown,	"		1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"		1 00
Elwood Offutt,	"		1 00
Benj. H. Sincell,	"		1 00
Samuel Rodeheaver,	"		1 00
Clyde C. Liller,	"		1 00
Harper Bartlett, use Chas. Liller			1 00
Dr. Mahlon Hinebaugh			10 00
Total	$		162 86

COURT HOUSE BONDS.

To pay bond No. 1	$	5,000 00
" " interest from Aug. 1st, 1908, to July 31st, 1909		3,000 00
Total	$	8,000 00

COURT HOUSE COMMISSION.

Deficiency in bond sale	$	3,138 50
To be used for the necessary grading, steps, walks and approaches on court house lot, (as per Act of Legislature)		3,000 00
Total	$	6,138 50

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. J. E. Legge, Health Officer	$	100 00
Same, Physician to jail		100 00
James Denmark, scavenger, subject to order		25 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor to c.h.		200 00
Henry M. Casteel, coal for c.h. and jail, use Garrett N. Bn'k		110 51
Same, for same, balance		51 17
Lincoln Callis, repairing road machines		21 21
Oakland Pharmacy, medicine for paupers and at jail		29 80
W. M. Thayer, hauling lumber for culverts		4 00
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers		45 60
D. E. Offutt & Sons, supplies furnished Mrs. Gilpin		15 00
Same, electric lamps, etc		2 95
The Falconer Company, stationery for Clerk of Court		44 25
Lantz Bros., supplies for c.h.		10 91
Thomas Harne, hauling		6 00
G. A. Shirer, supplies for jail		4 95
Wm. J. C. Dulany Co, stationery for Clerk of Court		46 84
J. M. Davis & Sons, supplies for jail and court house		39 70
Corlies, Macy & Co., stationery for court house		188 25
James D. Hamill, stationery for Clerk's office		5 00
Alva Bushnell Co. same		15 75
W. H. H. Friend, issuing burial permits		6 80
Sines & Fries, coffin for pauper		20 00
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs and supplies jail sewer pipe		355 26
Baltimore Office Supply Co., supplies for Clerk's office		37 45
D. E. Bolden, repairs at c.h. coffins for paupers, etc		168 63
George Geissman, coal for jail		18 75
Felty & Co., lumber for court house platform		9 96
Dixon & Kelso, supplies court house and jail		52 90
John W. Maroney, digging pauper graves		4 00
M. E. Frazee, coffin, pauper, &c		15 00
J. M. Jarboe, kindling for c.h.		4 00
E. W. Helbig, wood for jail		10 50
Garrett Co. Telephone Co. rent of 'phone at jail		6 50
E. W. Helbig, paper hanging at jail		39 85
M. A. Rhoages, support Anna R. Maust		31 10
The Corkins Chemical Co., disinfectant for jail		23 50
Oakland Electric Co., light for court house and jail		552 55
Total	$	2,445 64

COUNTY TREASURER.

William H. Hollinger, commissions on county tax	$	1,337 92
Same, commissions on state tax		184 16
Total	$	1,521 07

Contingent Fund

Fox and Cat Certificates		250 50
Almshouse and Asylum Fund		2,600 00
Maryland Hospital		1,050 00
Est. to pay J. P. Witnesses		100 00
Commissioners' Office		1,750 00
New Roads		279 85
Special Road Appropriations		2,278 89
Attorneys' Fees		1,519 47
Constables' Fees		384 60
Magistrates' Fees		261 04
Outside Pensioners		1,096 00
Coroners' Inquests		162 86
Court House Bonds		8,000 00
Court House Commission		6,138 50
Miscellaneous Account		2,445 64
County Treasurer		1,521 07
Contingent Fund		4,215 62
Total	$	89 127 07

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the Assessment Books amounts to $8,408,214.00, which at $1.06 on the $100 will make the above amount for County purposes $89,127.07.

Deducting $734,866.00 for Corporations paying direct to the State Treasurer leaves the basis $7,673,348.00 at 16 cents on each $100 makes $12,277.36 and this added makes the taxes for State and County purposes $101,404.43.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

CHAPTER 629.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 71 passed at the present session of the General Assembly of the State of Maryland for the year 1908.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 71 of the Acts of 1908, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment so as to read as follows:

SECTION 6. No spirituons or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any Election District of said County except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act; and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, house, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said Clerk by at least seven respectable free-holders, assessed for at least two thousand dollars, living in the Election District in which said saloon is to be located and with in two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article, and until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall file with said Clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said Clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditionally to the payment of all fine, penalties, costs and damages to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this state and said Clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this Section, unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond; and that in no event shall any person sell such article on the Sabbath day, commonly called Sunday, and for violation of this provision such person, natural or artificial, shall be subjected to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act, provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, shall still remain in full force and virtue in law, (and provided further that this Act shall not apply to any incorporated town having a paid police force).

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 71.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, entitled An Act to repeal and re-enact with the amendments Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890, entitled an Act to enable the qualified voters of Garrett county to determine by ballot whether spirituous or fermented liquors or acoholic bitters shall be sold in said county and to regulate the terms and conditions on which the sale thereof may be made in case the majority of the voters of said county shall determine said question in the affirmative, and to regulate the sale thereof by druggists and pharmacists.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890 as repealed and re-enacted by Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

6. No spirituous or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any election district of said county except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said clerk by at least seven respectable freeholders assessed for at least two thousand dollars living in the election district in which said saloon is located and within two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article. Provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chaptor 554 of the Acts of 1904 shall still remain in full force and virtue in law. Nor until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall have filled with said clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned to the payment of all fines, penalties, costs and damages, to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this State and said clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this section unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond. And that in no event shall any person sell such articles on the Sabbath day commonly called Sunday; and for violations of this provision, such person natural or artificial shall be subject to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 10, 1908.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1908. NUMBER 11

MEMORIAL DAY IN OAKLAND.

ual Decoratlon of the Graves of the Honored Dead.

Crook Post No. 35, Grand Army of the Republic, desires that there be a general turnout of the citizens, public school children and all organized bodies of the town, and visitors from the surrounding country are also invited to participate with the Post on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30th, in decorating the graves of the noble dead who have answered the last roll call and are now resting in our cemeteries. Rev. E. Manges of the Lutheran church, an old soldier himself, will deliver the address.

Crook Post will assemble at Sturgiss' Hall at 10.30 o'clock and proceed to the cemetery where the beautiful ritual of the order will be carried out.

Donations of flowers will be thankfully received and can be left at Sturgiss' drug store.

By order of the Post,

A. G. STURGISS,
Commander.

J. A. HAYDEN,
Adjutant.

STOYER.

Rain is the order of the day now, and it is appreciated more than snow.

Farmers are getting some rest during the rainy days, after working hard to get oats sowed and their corn ground ready to plant.

Most of the people in Stoyer wish they were on farms during the dull times in mining, but they can't do as they like. Some men made from three to five dollars every day, but they spent it as fast as they made it, so hard times are facing them.

We are rejoicing since the Gorman and Stoyer saloons closed the first of the month for lack of indorsement under the new law.

Mrs. John Harvey, of near Wilson, W. Va., was visiting Mrs. J. T. Steyer last week.

Mrs. J. B. Shockey and daughter Ruby are visiting at home a few days.

Mr. E. H. Alderton, postmaster at Stoyer, resigned his position the first of [illegible] and is now visiting his home near Oakdown, Md. Mr. Tom Meloin, of Midland, Md., is postmaster at present.

Messrs. Willie and Virgil Steyer were visiting their brother, George Steyer, who is attending college at Buckhannon.

W. R. Fishel bought a small farm near Stoyer last week.

W. H. Harper is on our streets once more.

The Stoyer Sunday school is doing fine. Virgil T. Steyer is superintendent.

Miss Emma Steyer, who has been confined to her room for eight months, was taken very ill last week. We learn she is some better.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

RESIDENCE BURNED.

Mr. Henry Sines Lost Home By Fire Monday Morning.

The home of Mr. Henry Sines, located near Sines, this county, five miles northwest of Oakland, was completely destroyed by fire about nine o'clock Monday morning.

The fire originated on the roof of the kitchen, which was one story, and from this the flames quickly communicated to the main building, a two-story log structure, built many years ago, being one of the oldest and best preserved buildings of this charcter in the county.

The members of Mr. Sines' family discovered the fire too late to save the building and concentrated their efforts toward saving the furniture, all of which with the exception of some bed clothing on the second floor and a large range in the kitchen, was carried out.

Mr. Sines will rebuild a modern dwelling on the site of the old house, work upon which will be commenced at once.

BITTINGER.

After ten days of wet, cool weather, this week begins with more favorable conditions.

Samuel J. Brenneman is at work on the public roads with a gang of men this week and there will doubtless be much improvement in the condition of the highways.

Thomas Turney, of this section, died at the University Hospital, Baltimore, at about one o'clock p. m., Monday, May 4th, only a few hours after a surgical operation for the relief of some stomach ailment. The deceased was but 28 years of age, was a son-in-law of James K. Stark, a farmer residing near here, with whom he made his home, and is survived by a young wife and many other relatives. The interment was made near Markleysburg, Pa., on the following Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Bittinger were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Charles Sechler, at Accident, last Sunday.

The good ladies of the Lutheran church, armed with buckets, brushes and brooms, made war upon the cobwebs and winter's accumulation of dust in the parsonage on last Monday morning and in a few hours had the house thoroughly cleansed for the reception of the new pastor, who is expected to arrive next week.

John O'Brien, of North Glade, was a business visitor to this village last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ellithorp drove over to Blaine, W. Va., last Saturday and returned on Sunday.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

R. C. KERENS IS OPTIMISTIC.

Missourian Who is Largely Interested With Elkins in W. Va., Talks Hopefully.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The arrival of Hon. Richard C. Kerens, a noted Republican leader, not only of Missouri, but of the nation, revived memories of the good old McKinley days and for that matter of the equally good old days of Ben Harrison's administration. We who have been in politics a few years, recall that Kerens was a powerful man in many national campaigns and that he belongs to the class of big business men who did so much towards the revival of prosperity in the days of Harrison and McKinley. While Mr. Kerens may regret some of the business backsets of the last few months, he is not inclined to be pessimistic, but shares some of the optimism for which his friend Senator Elkins is noted. Even so he did not gush in his talks here this trip and talked quietly and with courage about the outlook, both business and political. He remarked with a show of confidence: "The Republican party has grown so strong in Missouri that I expect it to remain in the Republican column for a long time. You may not reflect that Missouri has been drawing a large population from nearby states like Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas and, as a rule, the settlers from these states are firm and rugged Republicans. My opinion is that the Republican party is united in Missouri. We are getting together and we will carry the state this year. The sentiment has long been strong for Roosevelt and our delegates are instructed for Taft."

Colonel Kerens has long been interested in the wonderful development of West Virginia along with Senator Elkins and they have a few political views in common. Both are ardent admirers of Cortelyou, whose career has been such a notable one and it might be added that Colonel Kerens is an admirer of Senator Foraker's ability and statesmanship. While here this week Colonel Kerens will talk with all the Republican leaders and his long association with party managers will make his views yearned for and valued.

Although Senator Bulkely and Brandagee, of Connecticut, were not elected delegates-at-large from their state to the Chicago convention, they are not cast down and some of the wisest Taft men express the fear that the Connecticut Republicans acted unwisely in forcing a Taft endorsement. There was no opposition to Taft manifested by the two senators, but they only insisted that it has not been the custom of the state to instruct and that there should be no exception this year. When the senators learned that instructions would be forced through, both Bulkely and Brandagee wired that they did not care to be instructed delegates and the convention took them at their word and left them off the delegation. The two senators are very prominent men at home and here.

GRANTSVILLE.

Mrs. Elisha Durst, who had been away at the Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment, has returned home and doing nicely.

We are sorry to note that Dr. Robinson is on the sick list.

Dr. Briscoe has moved in his new home, but is now in Baltimore attending the funeral of an only brother.

Dr. Bone seems to be kept pretty busy.

Messrs. Peter Gortner and M. J. Brenninger, of Gortner, were in Grantsville calling on friends and relatives.

Mr. Henry Bonig has moved in his new home.

The Epworth League is growing in interest and numbers. H. H. Baker lead the meeting for us last night.

Rev. McCoy, who was quite sick, is improving.

Miss Lena Winterburg, of Patterson, N. J., and Mrs. Montgomery, of Cumberland, are here for a short visit to their mother,

Mr. J. Shaw is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Augustine are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Englehart, of Accident.

Dr. Keller has gone to Accident for a short time.

Interesting news is scarce, hence we close.

Death of An Infant.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rawlings, residing near Swanton, died on last Saturday, and was buried from the Swanton M. E. church on Monday of this week, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. William Barnard, of Swanton. The interment was made in the cemetery near the home of Rev. A. F. George.

A COMPLICATED HORSE STEALING CASE.

Three Animals Stolen From Near Hutton Friday Night by Three Men.

One of the most complicated cases of horse stealing ever occurring in this section of the country took place last Friday night when animals belonging to Messrs. Fred. A. Thayer, Dennis Glover and Jerome Kisner were stolen near Hutton by three men, two of them being Charles and Henry Kisner, sons of Jerome, and George Arnold.

The horses were taken from stables and during the night were traded or sold to Bert McCall, a horse trader who moved from near Oakland to Terra Alta the day preceding, McCall paying, so it is alleged, $90 in cash and giving a check for $40 on the Garrett National Bank of Oakland for the balance. The check was turned over to Charles Kisner and presented at the bank here on Saturday morning for payment. In the meantime McCall telephoned to the bank to stop payment. Kisner left town for Terra Alta on the morning accommodation and was arrested there and later brought to Oakland and committed to jail.

In the meantime the horses were again stolen, presumably by Henry Kisner and George Arnold and taken to Kingwood, where they were located by Sheriff Brown, who went over to that place Saturday and endeavored to recover the property, but was prevented from doing so by McCall's attorney, the lawyer putting up a stiff argument and Brown came home empty handed and riled. The animals were left in Kingwood in charge of the Sheriff of that county. Sunday Jerome Kisner went to Kingwood and recovered his horse and also Mr. Glover's, bringing them home with him. Mr. Thayer's animal was left behind and on Monday night it was stolen again, this time from the Sheriff, who had it in charge. Tuesday morning Mr. Thayer went to Kingwood, but on the way over he was informed that his property had disappeared. It was later recovered, being found by a resident of Terra Alta wandering along the roadway, who turned it over to its rightful owner.

McCall accompanied Sheriff Brown to Kingwood and while in that town fell on the pavement and broke his leg. He is now confined to a hospital in that town.

Henry Kisner and George Arnold, two of the alleged thieves, are still at large.

Resolutions of Respect.

The following resolutions were adopted by Acme Lodge, K. of P., of Gormania, and are published by request:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, the Supreme Ruler of the universe, in His infinite wisdom to remove from our midst the esteemed and highly respected Brother Noah J. Miller;

WHEREAS, The Lodge has sustained the loss of a true and faithful brother, a loyal Knight, a true and loving husband and father, therefore be it

Resolved, That while be bow with humble submission to the will of the Ruler of the universe we do not the less mourn for our brother who has been called from his labor to his rest.

Resolved, That we as a Lodge extend our heartfelt sympathy to his wife and family in this hour of their bereavement.

Resolved That a copy or these resolutions be placed upon the minutes of the Lodge, a copy be sent to the wife and family, also a copy be sent to the local papers and the Pythian Banner.

W. H. MYERS,
G. W. HARVEY,
G. DILGARD,
Committee.

The Oakland Normal.

The Oakland Normal is progressing well under the directors, Profs. Palmer and Bishoff. Prof Palmer has charge of arithmetic, geography, physiology, orthography and physics, while Prof. Bishoff instructs in algebra, history, grammer, bookkeeping, geometry, and general history.

There is an enrollment of sixty-three and the number is still increasing.

The entire School Board consisting of Messrs. Miller, Bishoff, Deffinbaugh and County Superintendent E. A. Browining visited the school last Wednes and gave very interesting speeches, suggestions, criticisms and information. On the whole they were well pleased with the work being done.

Of the number of students in the school it is impossible to tell just how many are first or second grades as many are taking part first and part second grade studies.

The school will turn out at least forty-five or fifty teachers from the present number of scholars.

A STUDENT.

Call for Your Letters.

Mr. Geo. Brant, Mr. Bruce Fichtner, The Glades, Mr. J. W. Lewis (2), Mr. William Miller, Mr. Frank Parker, Miss Mary Railley, Mrs. Tola Wolf.

CLAIM "SNAKE" IN GARRETT LAW.

F. C. Ries, Accident, Long Pursued, is Only SaloonKeeper Affected By Act.

It is contended by the liquor men that there was a "snake" in the new local option law passed by the last legislature for Garrett county. It puts out of business the bar in connection with the hotel conducted at Accident by F. C. Ries. There had been a bar in connection with this hotel for forty years and it had always been operated by the Ries family. Two years ago, Governor Warfield vetoed a bill to make Accident a prohibition district. A bill along similiar lines was introdubed in the last Legislature. It was unfavorable reported by the Temperance committee and the motion of Delegate Green to substitute the bill for the unfavorable report was lost after a bitter debate. It was charged at the time that it was a political trick to put Ries out of business. The new law says "it shall not be lawful to sell intoxicating liquors within one mile of any schoolhouse or church, after the passage of this act unless the same be situated in the corporate limits of an incorporated town." This being the law Clerk Tower was prohibited from issuing a license to Mr. Ries and Accident is now dry after forty years. The Ries hotel is an historic stopping place. The section affected Accident only, as all others applying for license under the local option law received the same. Under the provisions of the recommenders' law, however, license was refused Charles Gillespie, of near Gorman, Garrett county, as his recommenders do not reside within the limits prescribed by the law—a radius of two miles where he intended to conduct the saloon. Mr. Gillespie, it will be remembered, established the town of Brooklyn Heights, W. Va., in order to get saloon license, after he had been refused license at Hendricks, just opposite. Later the county court refused him license at Brooklyn Heights.—Cumberland News.

THE DEATH RECORD.

JAMES W. SKILES.

This highly esteemed resident of Accident District died on the 4th inst. at his home and was buried on Wednesday last after services conducted by Rev. J. E. Johnson, of the U. B. church, of which the deceased was a consistent member. Mr. Skiles was born Sept. 28, 1841, and was aged 66 years, 7 months and 24 days. He was married in 1869 to Miss Sarah Jane Suter. As a result of this union eight children were born, four of them yet living. Mr. Skiles was a true Christian gentleman and was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Largest assortment of highest grade enameled ware at bargain prices at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

FRIENDSVILLE.

Mrs. Stoffer was at Somerset, Pa., attending commencement of the high school, of which school her niece was one of the graduating class.

Mr. Geo. D. Browning came down from Swallow Falls to attend a meeting of the coal company.

Mr. R. C. McCandlish spent Saturday and Sunday in Cumberland and Piedmont returning on Sunday evening.

The stork visited the family of Mr. Jacob Stotler on Sunday last, leaving them a 10 pound daughter.

The F. A. C. held an ice cream supper and box social on Saturday night at Allen's hall. A good time was reported.

Mr. Frank Spears, B. & O. scale inspector, is spending a few days at his home here.

A special meeting of the stockholders of The Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company was held at their general office in Friendsville on Monday, May 11, 1908. C. L. Pullen, Esq., of New York, was in the chair, and J. N. Alsip, acting secretary. DeWarren H. Reynolds, Esq., of Cumberland, general counsel of the company, was present and in his usual logical and convincing manner stated the object and purposes of the meeting and upon a unanimous vote the following changes were decided upon: The amended charter was accepted and the name of the company changed to The Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company; the capital stock increased from $100,000 to $2,000,000; bond mortgage for $1,000,000 and income bond mortgage for $100,000 was authorized; the board of directors was increased from seven to ten and three directors elected, Messrs. Byrne, York, and Crane, of New York City. Mr. Reynolds assured the stockholders that the financial end of the corporation was assured, and work will be commenced on a large scale in a few weeks, and the people of Friendsville, and in fact, Garrett county, is to be congratulated on the prospect of such an industry within its bounds.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

Subscribe for The Republican.

DIXON & KELSO

Will make a cut of 20 per cent. on their $2,000.00 Clothing Stock consisting of Clothing of every description.

Yours to Please,
DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

A REAL FARM HIGH SCHOOL.

Real Agricultural Training Given to Boys and Girls of Cecil County, Md.

At a recent institute at Rising Sun, Cecil county, Md., I noticed some thirty-odd boys and girls come into the meeting, and was told they were from the high school, which did not impress me very much, except that I wondered if it would be possible to interest them. In speaking of the composition of a fertilizer, wanting to get the boys' attention, I remarked: "That would be a good example for you in arithmetic. I suppose you were never asked to figure the analysis of a fertilizer in school?" To my amazement the answer came, "Oh yes, we do." When the session closed the head of the school, Professor H. O. Sampson, whom I met last summer at the summer school of agriculture at Cape May, came and spoke to me and introduced his two women assistants, and said these were his scholars and that he was teaching a high school at Calvert, about five miles distant, situated right out in the open country. He had brought in three wagonloads of his pupils to attend the institute, who were all studying agriculture. They stayed throughout the day and were among the most interested listeners.

At the suggestion of Professor Sampson, of which I was very glad to avail myself, a girl and a boy each read an essay at the afternoon session. They were not written for the occasion, but were their regular school compositions. The girl's was particularly clean cut, and the boy's showed a familiarity and knowledge of the subject not always met with on the part of those long in the dairy business. So good were they that I am sending them to the editor of this paper, both as an illustration of what this school is doing and an incentive for other girls and boys. How much more sensible such subjects for compositions for country pupils than one on "Spring" or some other threadbare subject.

The building was formerly an old Friends' school. The land was held under grant from William Penn. As those of this persuasion have gradually scattered the school has been closed for years. They were only too glad to give the use of it for an agricultural school, although not permitted to sell the land. The following extract from a bulletin from the United States Department of Agriculture on "Progress of Agricultural Education in 1906" concisely states the conception and equipment of the school, as well as the course of study followed.

Upon request of the patrons in the northern part of Cecil county, Md., for the establishment of a high school at Calvert, the Cecil county school board decided, in the summer of 1906, to establish such a school and give the course of study an agricultural trend. The school board applied to R. W. Silvester, of the Maryland Agricultural College, and to the United States Department of Agriculture for aid in organizing the school. Mr. H. O. Sampson, a graduate of the Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, who had had experience in teaching elementary agriculture in a high school in Pennsylvania, was furloughed from this office to take charge of the school as principal and teacher of agriculture. The school was opened November 5, 1906, in a small two room school building rented from the Society of Friends, and having an available area of about nine acres of land adjacent to it. Thirty-eight pupils were enrolled on the first day, and the number has since grown to fifty-one. A small recitation room has been converted into a laboratory and meagrely equipped with simple apparatus, mostly the handiwork of the principal and pupils. Here experiments in which the pupils take part are performed daily. The agricultural work is popular among the pupils and is also arousing much interest among the farmers of the county. Some of the county papers are devoting part of a column each week to the Calvert school. The principal visits other schools in the vicinity for the purpose of getting their teachers and pupils interested in agricultural subjects.

The regular work of the school begins with the seventh year, but at the present time some sixth grade work is being done in order to allow the other schools to bring their work up to a point where it will marticulate with the Calvert course.

Professor Sampson is assisted by his sister, Miss Nevada B. Sampson, of Mason City, Iowa, and Miss H. Louis Mann, of Washington.

Being out in the country, the pupils have to come in from a distance, many driving their horses and stabling them in sheds near by. A more enthusiastic lot I have seldom seen. The girls are fully as much interested as the boys. When a corn show was held in the town a year ago the girls asked that they, too, might compete, and made as good showing as the boys.

They propose to use the suitable land—about five acres—for experimental plots. They have helped the farmers directly by spraying orchards, under the direction of Professor Sampson, compounding rations, mixing fertilizers, treating oats for smut and testing seeds. The work has been so practical that the plants and farmers generally appreciate the good work and are the most enthusiastic supporters of the school. Surely such practical education is in itself a blessing, and not only engenders a love for agriculture but inclines those receiving it to avail themselves of the higher education of our agricultural colleges, and puts them in proper shape for what is given there.

There has been $5,000 granted by the state for a new building. Up to this time what has been done has been by local support, with the aid of the Department of Agriculture at Washington in detailing Professor Sampson for this work in an old dilapidated building and with crudely made apparatus.—Edward Van Alstyne, Kinderhook, N. Y.

COALING SHIP BY HAND LABOR.

Remarkable Work Done by Japanese Without Aid of Machinery.

Through lack of machinery and because of the cheapness of labor ships are loaded at Nagasaki, Japan, by hand. Run of mine coal is put into the ships' bunkers for $6.50 a ton. Labor costs $7.50 cents a shift of from eight to thirteen hours. T. S. Reilly, in "The Railway and Engineering Review," says that on an average there are three ladder gangs to each chute, and, when in haste, each ladder is supplied with a double line of "lifters," as the men and women on each ladder are called.

On the lighter at the foot of the ladder there are nearly always from five to ten men and women loading the coal into baskets and passing them up to the ladder gangs. The baskets hold about twenty-five pounds of coal each, and each basket is thrown down into the lighter as fast as emptied. This provides each unit gang with from twenty to twenty-five men and women—the line being shortened or extended by the addition or subtraction of individuals, as may from time to time be requisite. The flexibility is obviously most advantageous.

Mr. Reilly says two thousand tons have been put into the bunkers of a steamer in eight hours, and the record is twelve hundred tons into another steamer in three hours. As this means from 250 to 400 tons an hour, the machine-like operation can be readily conceived. In the two thousand ton case, six chutes of three gangs of twenty-five individuals make 450 people. So the cost of handling is only about 8 cents a ton.

QUEER AUSTRALIAN GAME.

Native Pheasant and Quail—The Bustard—Soup of Kangaroo Tail.

It is on the billabongs and creeks of the back country that the best sport is to be obtained. In wet seasons ducks and teal are to be shot, and in the ranges between the Murray and the Murrum-bridgee rivers the "native pheasant," or mallee hen, is to be found. This is a fine table bird, quite equal, in my opinion, to any English pheasant. It is very shy and not easy to obtain. I knew a man who kept a few bloodhounds for hunting dingoes. He used to go into the scrub where there were mallee hens, put the dogs on their tracks and canter after them. The birds would sometimes rise in an open space in the scrub, and I have known him to bring down a brace of them when shooting from the saddle.

Good duck shooting might be had at the large water holes if it were possible to get near without being seen, and in the summer evenings excellent sport is obtainable by waiting for the bronze-winged pigeons, which at sunset fly to water. There is also a small quail, like the Egyptain, to be shot in New South Wales after harvest. There they strip the wheat i. e., merely the heads off with a stripping machine, leaving the straw. I have known half a dozen guns make a capital bag without dogs.

The Australiam game bird, however, is the native bustard, or "wild turkey," as it is there called, although it is now very scarce except in the extreme back country. At one time it was common enough in Victoria, though now rare in that State, but on the back blocks of New South Wales it was quite plentiful a few years ago.

They were, nevertheless, difficult to stalk on foot, but, curiously enough, will allow one to drive quite within range, and I have seen many shot from a buggy toward the Darling river. They are capital table birds, often larger than the biggest turkey one could buy at an English Christmas market. The flesh of the breast is brown and tastes like wild duck. Properly cooked the Australian bustard has hardly its equal. It prefers arid plains, and I have shot them on the gold-fields of Western Australia, where there is little or no water. They must be able to fly great distances, for one never sees them about the desert country of West Australia in the hot weather.

Imported hares are very numerous in certain parts, and the rabbit is ubiquitous. I remember an Australian squatter, who was ruined by rabbits, saying that he had not much left, but he would be glad to subscribe a pound toward a monument to the idiot who introduced rabbits and foxes into Australia! Rabbit shooting is to be had almost everywhere, and as they are trapped and poisoned by the hundred thousand perhaps they too may become extinct in time. No one has not seen the rabbit warrens in the sandy back country of the Darling would credit the enormous number which exist there. I have passed miles of sandhills at dusk which seemed absolutely alive with the vermin, as Australians call them. This reminds me of an Englishman engaged to coon for the shearers on a back station, who by way of a treat made a rabbit pie for the men. He was nearly murdered for his pains! Australian shearers had not come, they said, to eat vermin!

Twenty or thirty years ago the back country squatters, in order to destroy kangaroos, used to dig huge pits at the corners of their paddocks, running yards of calico along their wire fences and then drive the kangaroos into the pits, clubbing and shooting them. In those days kangaroo skins were of no value; now that they are almost extinct there is a great demand for them. The flesh of a young kangaroo is by no means to be despised, and kangaroo tail soup is a delicacy now hardly to be obtained.

B. & O. R. R. SOLD ITS MINES.

Western Maryland Railroad Still Owns Large Coal Interests.

Baltimore railroad men are very much interested in the case to test the "commodity clause" of the Hepburn law prohibiting railroads from owning commodities shipped over their lines, except such as are regarded for their own use as common carriers.

The Baltimore and Ohio anticipated the operations of the law when it separated the Georges Creek coal mines, most of which it owned, from the railroad property some time ago. This is the Consolidation Coal Company, which was an adjunct of the railroad corporation, the executives of the one also directing and controlling the other. This property was sold to Messrs. C. W. Watson, J. H. Wheelwright and their associates more than a year ago. They now operate and presumably own it, though it is admitted that they have 30 years in which to make payment, the installments of price covering that length of time. In the meantime the Baltimore and Ohio derives its profit from its haul of the output and to this extent it is certainly no worse off than when it owned and operated the mines.

The Western Maryland Railroad Company owns extensive coal mines in West Virginia Central and Pittsburg branch. This is recognized as one of the chief sources of revenue to the company as it sells the bulk of this coal, though it also consumes a great deal in the operation of its trains. The Western Maryland being in the hands of receivers by order of the United States Circuit Court, is necessarily a ward of that court and will continue to be until a reorganization is effected and the receivers discharged. If the penalties provided in the Hepburn law, therefore, were now effective and enforced the receiver would naturally refer the matter to the court, of which he is only an officer, for adjudication and settlement. What the court would do in such an emergency cannot be conjectured. As was aptly said in the discussion of the matter by a transportation official, "it is a bridge which probably will not be crossed until it is reached."

Mr. Winslow S. Pierce, former president of the Western Maryland Railroad, and now general counsel for George J. Gould, is in Baltimore in connection with the receivership of the Western Marylandr He is stopping at the Hotel Belvedere, Baltimore.

Mr. F. S. Landstreet, former vice-president of the same road, is also at the hotel, and called upon Mr. Pierce. It was rumored that they were in consultation with a prominent attorney regarding the receivership, but this was denied by both. Mr. Pierce said that he was here in an advisory capacity for the convenience of the receiver, and for that reason only.

Later in the evening Mr. Landstreet consulted his attorney, Mr. Edgar H. Gans, and said that his visit to Baltimore was in connection with the suit instituted against him in the county court, which case was called at Towson yesterday.

A Business Proposition

Did you ever stop to think, Mr. Business Man, that the news of your business is as much a part of the local events as a wedding or a church fair? The ladies are just as much interested in a new fabric you have on the shelves as they are in any home happening. Your store news and anouncements in these columns will reach a large circle of eager buyers. This will enable you to sell your goods while they are new and fresh and you will not have to sacrifice later at remnant counter prices. Think it over.

THE CREOSOTING OF WOOD.

Data As To The Amount of The Oil Required For Railroad Ties.

Ever since 1837 the process of wood preserving by creosoting has been in use. J. C. Williams, of the Barber Asphalt Paving Company, is authority for the following information on the subject. Railroad and construction engineers are almost unanimous in the opinion that creosoting is a scientifically correct and a practically successful way of preserving timber from decay and the ravages of the toredo, Mr. Williams says:

The standard quantity of oil injected in this altitude (Maurer, N. J.) is twelve pounds to the cubic foot, or about 1.4 gallons. For sound and square edge yellow pine ties we use ten pounds a cubic foot. On account of the heavy treatment, up to twenty-four pounds a cubic foot, used for marine work in tropical and semi-tropical climates, the average quantity of oil injected throughout this country is 15.8 pounds a cubic foot. Never having attempted complete saturation of any timber, we have no data as to the maximum oil each class of timber will take. The writer once inspected the treatment of a cylinder of shortleaf pine boards 1½ by 4½ inches, which absorbed thirty pounds during the process of filling the cylinder, and consequently without pressure. This was an exceptional case, and was due to the wood being air dry and then being steamed and subjected to a vacuum, the work having been done under a specification which called for the artificial seasoning and making no provision for the treatment of air dry material. The best practice now is not to use steam or vacuum if the lumber is air dry.

Creosote oil and zinc chloride are the two most successful preservatives of the two hundred or more which have been tried.

Greenland's Ice Cap.

The largest mass of ice in the world fills up nearly the whole of the interior of Greenland. It is one and a half miles thick. This ice has accumulated since before the dawn of history. It is believed to form a block 600,000 miles in area. According to these statistics, this lump of ice is larger in volume than the whole body of water in the Mediterranean.

Electricity as an Aid to Memory.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Society of Canada, Sir James Grant, M. D., presented a paper on the neurons and cells of the brain in their relation to the faculty of memory, and, after stating that, as with the other tissues of the body, so with the cells of the brain, evidence of lessening power and activity appears with the passage of years, he added the very interesting statement that the line of present investigation demonstrates that the electrical current through the brain rotates its molecules to such a degree as to produce a most notable physological response in the direction of improved memory.

Light From Windmills.

On the Danish island of Sjalland there is an electric lighting system which is driven by a windmill. The wheel is 46 feet in diameter, and is supported by a tower 43 feet high. The area of the blades exposed to the wind is 340 square feet, and with a wind blowing at the rate of 23 feet a second the mill will give 8.6 horsepower. The speed is then 24 revolutions a minute. Current is supplied to 378 incandescent and six arc lamps, besides several small motors.

Subscribe for the Republican.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

SCHOOL BOOK REFORM.

Fault Found With Long Lines of Type and Shiny Paper.

An association made up of women principals of schools in this city has undertaken to seek the correction of certain evils which they believe are hurtful to children's eyes. One is the length of the lines of type in some school books. Unless the lines are well separated—"leaded," as a printer would say—a person experiences difficulty in finding the beginning of a fresh line after finishing the one before. The trouble is bad enough with adults, but it is even more embarrassing with the young. The other evil is the use of a highly glazed paper in illustrated books. A shiny surface is considered necessary by publishers when they use halftone reproductions of photographs, for such a finish on the paper makes the picture stand out better than it would otherwise. The light reflected from the surface, however, is considered injurious to sensitive eyes.

For the first of these troubles there is apparently no good excuse, except possibly economy in typesetting. Hence, the mere discussion of the subject may lead to the desired reform—a shortening of the lines. To secure a reform in the second instance may not be easy. A well known medical periodical recommends a return to the old-fashioned wood engraving for purposes of illustration. Such pictures would be very artistic, and might possibly make the use of unglazed paper feasible, but the cost of the wood engraving is greater than that of the halftone. The engraving industry has now practically disappeared.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator.
Rockwood, Pa.

Order of Publication.

Della Lynch and Edward Lynch, Plaintiffs,
vs.
Loyolen McKinzie, Anna McKinzie, Noah McKinzie, Inez McKinzie, Annie McKinzie, Helen Walker, Robert Walker, Dora McKinzie, Richard McKinzie, George McKinzie, Rose McKinzie, Laura McKinzie, Peter McKinzie, Dora McKinzie, Lucy McKinzie, Nancy Robison and Olin Robison, Defendants.

No. 1534 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate devised in the last will and testament of Francis McKinzie, deceased, late of Garrett county, for the purpose of partition among the parties entitled to interest therein.

The bill states that on or about the —— day of March, in the year 1894, the said Francis McKinzie departed this life leaving a last will and testament, devising his real estate to his wife during her natural life, and then to his children share and share alike; that the said widow of the said Francis McKinzie departed this life about one year ago, and that he left as his only heirs under his said last will and testament, the following children, Loyolen McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Annie McKinzie; Noah McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Inez McKinzie; Annie McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Dora McKinzie, his daughter, intermarried with Richard McKinzie; George McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Rose McKenzie; Laura McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Lucy McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Nancy Robison, his daughter, intermarried with Olin Robison, all of Garrett county, State of Maryland; Della Lynch, his daughter, intermarried with Edward Lynch; Peter McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Dora McKinzie, all of Allegany county, State of Maryland; Helen Walk his daughter, intermarried with Rob Walker, of Salisbury, Somerset county State of Pennsylvania; that all of said children are adults. That said real estate consists of a farm and cannot be divided among the parties entitled to interest therein without loss and injury.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of said real estate and for a distribution of the proceeds thereof among the parties entitled thereto, according to their respective interests therein; for general relief; for subpoena against the resident defendants and an order of publication against non resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 4th day of May, in the year 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Equity, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 5th day of June, 1908, giving notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 22nd day of June, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
5-9 4t E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

LEVY LIST, 1908.

Annual Levy for Garrett County, Maryland, Levied on the 18th Day of April, 1908, by the Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County, Marvland.

GENERAL ROAD LEVY.
[Levied as per Act of Legislature.]

Dist. No. 1—Swanton		$ 881 50
" 2—Selbysport		1,073 40
" 3—Grantsville		1,216 80
" 4—Bloomington		533 40
" 5—Accident		829 82
" 6—Sang Run		536 04
" 7—East Oakland		1,688 26
" 8—Ryans Glade		1,015 97
" 9—Johnsons		364 03
" 10—Deer Park		877 24
" 11—Elbow		353 15
" 12—Bittinger		460 95
" 13—Kitzmillersville		321 51
" 14—Oakland		1,860 15
Total		$12,012 32

CORPORATIONS.

Mayor and Council of—
Oakland	$ 800 00
Deer Park	100 00
Loch Lynn	100 00
Friendsville	300 00
Kitzmillersville	150 00
Commissioners of Grantsville	150 00
Mt. Lake Park Community	200 00
Total	$1,800 00

CLERK OF CIRCUIT COURT.

E. Z. Tower, use Garrett National Bank	$ 600 00
Same, use Davis Nat'l Bank	700 00
Same, baiance	440 25
Total	$1,740 25

COURT FUND.

Estimate to pay expenses for June, September and December, 1908, and March Term, 1909	$3,085 00

ORPHANS' COURT.

Estimate to pay Judges	$464 64
E. E. Friend, Register of Wills	175 10
Total	$639 74

SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

A. L. Lee, late Sheriff, use Garrett National Bank	$ 500 00
Same, use Dixon & Kelso	852 11
Same, balance	1,358 46
Estimate to pay Sheriff's salary, prisoners' board, etc., for 1908, subject to order	3,000 00
Estimate to pay Warden's salary, subject to order	900 00
Estimate to pay Jail Cook's salary, subject to order	300 00
E. I. West, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland	17 50
C. J. Brown, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use of First National Bank of Oakland	22 00
Daniel Vaughn, taking care of David Saucer at jail, use First National Bank of Oakland	30 00
Daniel Jamison, taking care of David Saucer at jail	7 50
J. W. Purnell, taking care of C. C. Michael at jail	42 00
Total	$7,029 57

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

To the Public School Commissioners for support schools	$17,000 00
To build new school houses	3,000 00
Total	$20,000 00

PUBLIC PRINTING & PUBLISHING.

Benj. H. Sincell, publishing and printing, use Garrett National Bank	$ 462 50
James D. Hamill, publishing, use Garrett National Bank	262 50
Chas. A. Deffinbaugh, publishing	116 65
Total	$841 65

ELECTION EXPENSES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$3,800 00

BRIDGE ACCOUNT.

Estimate to build same for 1908	$4,000 00
Mayor and Town Council of Loch Lynn, part payment for bridge over Little Yough near Loch Lynn	125 00
Total	$4,125 00

FOX AND CAT CERTIFICATES.

Estimate to pay same for 1908	$250 00

ALMSHOUSE AND ASYLUM FUND.

Estimate for 1908	$2,600 00

MARYLAND HOSPITAL.

Estimate for 1908	$1,050 00

STATE WITNESSES BEFORE J. P.

Estimate for 1908	$100 00

COMMISSIONERS' OFFICE.

Estimate for County Commissioners	$1,000 00
A. G. Ross, Clerk, balance	600 00
F. A. Thayer, Attorney	150 00

NEW ROADS.

Road Case No. 187—
A. C. Mason, surveyor	$ 10 00
Chauncey Kimmell, examiner, 2 days	4 00
Eugene Teats, examiner 2 days	4 00
W. T. Sines, " 2 days	4 00
Samuel Kimmell chainman, 1 day	1 50
Cyrus Kimmell, chainman, 1 day	1 50
J. S. Hardesty, axeman, 1 day	1 50
Road Case No. 188—
C. M. Miller, surveyor	15 25
Rudolph Beckman, examiner, 3 days	6 00
J. L. Fitzwater, examiner, 3 days	6 00
P. P. McAndrews, " 3 "	6 00
Jno. A. Beckman, flagman, 2 "	3 00
Jas. W. Kisner, axeman, 2 "	3 00
Stuart A. Paugh, chainman, 2 "	3 00
Luther C. Winter, " 2 "	3 00
Road Case No. 190—
P. C. Boucher, surveyor	10 00
H. S. Coleman, examiner, 1 day	2 00
David Popp, " 1 day	2 00
B. F. Michael, " 1 day	2 00
Noah McKenzie, chainman, 1 day	1 50
Jos. Minnick, " 1 day	1 50
Road Case No. 191—
W. McCulloh Brown, surveyor	20 00
Jas. W. Harvey, examiner 4 days	8 00
James Lish, " 4 days	8 00
L. C. Hamill, " 3 days	6 00
L. C. Hamill, roadman, 3 days	4 50
George Plum, axeman, 2 days	3 00
Richard Bray, chainman, 3 days	4 50
Clever Pool, " 2 days	3 00
Hamill Coal & Coke Co., damages	1 00
Manor Mining & Mfg Co., "	22 15
Garrett County Coal Co., "	20 45
Road Case No. 192—
Getty Browning, surveyor, use Garrett National Bank	35 00
Jonas Glotfelty, examiner, 1½ days	3 00
F. D. Dewitt, examiner, 1½ days	3 00
W. A. Smith, " 1 day	2 00
Lee Browning, chainman, 4 days	6 00
Fred. Shank, " 4 days	6 00
Road Case No. 193—
James A. Sincell, surveyor	15 00
Martin Hughes, examiner, 2 days	4 00
P. H. Rodeheaver, " 3 days	6 00
Henry Myers, " 2 days	4 00
W. M. Lawton, chainman, 1 day	1 50
Delbert Rodeheaver, " 1 day	1 50
Edmund Jamison, " 1 day	1 50
Total	$279 85

SPECIAL ROAD APPROPRIATIONS

Districts Nos. 1, 4, 7, 8, 10, 13 and 14, subject to order	$1,378 89
Districts Nos. 3, 9, 11 and 12, subject to order	500 00
Districts Nos. 2, 5 and 6, subject to order	400 00
Total	$2,278 89

ATTORNEYS' FEES.

F. A. Thayer, late State's Attorney	$1,339 47
J. T. Mitchell, 2 misdemeanors	10 00
C. G. Watson, 2 "	10 00
Thos. J. Peddicord, 1 felony	10 00
Gilmor S. Hamill, 4 misdemeanors and 2 felonies	40 00
Norman S. Heindel, 1 felony	10 00
Renninger & Offutt, 1 "	10 00
E. H. Sincell, 1 misdemeanor	5 00
G. S. Hamill & Ferdinand Williams, 1 felony	10 00
Ferdinand Williams, 2 misdemeanors	10 00
Asa T. Matthews, 1 felony	10 00
S. F. Hamill, 1 "	10 00
G. S. Hamill, jr., 1 "	10 00
Hamill & Matthews, 1 felony	10 00
J. C. Renninger, State's Attorney	15 00
Total	$1,519 47

CONSTABLES' FEES.

Dist. No. 1—Jos. R. Glass	$ 11 60
" 2—Chas. H. Liston	10 95
" 4—Jac. Stump, special	3 75
" 7—Wm. A. Maffett	280 15
" 10—E. G. Miller	8 70
" 14—J. H. White, special	45 05
" 14—Wm. Newman, "	24 40
Total	$384 60

MAGISTRATES' FEES.

Dist. No. 3—Peter Nathan	$ 44 40
" 5—Henry Kahl	7 95
" 7—A. S. Teats	130 29
" 10—Wm. D. Hoye	18 00
" 14—Andrew B. Gonder	60 40
Total	$261 04

OUTSIDE PENSIONERS.

John Kanada, support Frances Cooper, subject to order	$ 25 00
Sarah Sanbower, support Hubert Sanbower, subject to order	50 00
Silas Cuppett, support Emily Forsythe, subject to order	100 00
Jacob Beeman, support Elizabeth Spiker, subject to order	25 00
Francis Fike, support Nancy Vansickle and daughter, subject to order	120 00
Esther Glottelty, support self, subject to order	96 00
Simon Nair, support self, subject to order	60 00
J. I. Ringer, support John R. Ringer, subject to order	120 00
Amelia Turney, support self, subject to order	50 00
Alpheus and Mary Yeast, support self, subject to order	150 00
James W. Gilpin, support self, subject to order	100 00
Estimate for others	200 00
Total	$1,096 00

CORONERS' INQUESTS.

On the body of Anna Boger—
Philip Georg,	Juror	$ 1 00
Samuel Mosser,	"	1 00
Louis Durst,	"	1 00
Floyd Deahl,	"	1 00
Valentine Kahl,	"	1 00
William Bowman,	"	1 00
Daniel Bowman,	"	1 00
Solomon Glass,	"	1 00
Newton Geis,	"	1 00
Smith Friend,	"	1 00
William Garringer,	"	1 00
J. P. Spiker,	"	1 00
Dr. H. R. Boyer		10 00
Leonard Shartzer, summoning jurors		1 50
On body of George H. Marville—
Samuel P. Specht,	juror	1 00
William H. Clary,	"	1 00
George Marley	"	1 00
James T. Shaffer,	"	1 00
Walter C. Bowman,	"	1 00
Sanson S. Savedge,	"	1 00
George L. Coffman,	"	1 00
F. L. Warnick,	"	1 00
Chas. B. Savedge,	"	1 00
Alex. C. George,	"	1 00
Enoch R. Clark,	"	1 00
John Snyder,	"	1 00
Dr. J. K. Cole		10 00
G. W. Haulenbeck, for team		50
On body of Joseph Harris—
George T. Miller,	juror	1 00
James Coffman,	"	1 00
Jesse Harris,	"	1 00
Edward Miller,	"	1 00
George Moorehead,	"	1 00
Lawrence Garvey,	"	1 00
Robert Moorehead,	"	1 00
Lewis Mitter,	"	1 00
Daniel Raley,	"	1 00
Adam Elliott,	"	1 00
James Spence,	"	1 00
James Reynolds,	"	1 00
Marcus M. Fazenbaker, coroner		5 00
Dr. H. M. Kemp		10 00
Thomas Burk,	Witness	33
J. P. Cleary,	"	33
Gilbert Warnick,	"	33
Harmon Elliott,	"	33
R. A. C. Howard,	"	33
Thomas Moorehead,	"	33
Dominick Flynn,	"	33
Edward Devine,	"	33
Russell Patterson,	"	33
Frank Flynn,	"	33
Stephen Flynn,	"	33
Lewis Baldwin,	"	33
Lon Buckhannon,	"	33
Renx Buckhannon,	"	33
Charles D. Moorehead,	"	33
Thomas P. Swan,	"	33
Charles Brentlin,	"	33
Michael Flynn,	"	33
Joseph Paugh,	"	33
Lewis Mitter,	"	33
Cole Duckworth,	"	33
Joseph Moran,	"	33
William Elliott,	"	33
Charles Flynn,	"	33
Mrs. John Howell,	"	33
Charles H. Hill,	"	33
Gus Wilson,	"	33
George Ward,	"	33
Andy Hotchkiss,	"	33
Charles Ball,	"	33
Scott Elliott,	"	33
Howard Miller,	"	33
Mrs. Gilbert Warnick,	"	33
Mrs. C. D. Moorehead,	"	33
Benj. Fazenbaker,	"	33
On body of Robert E. Clingan—
Edward J. Frantz,	juror	1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"	1 00
G. M. Mason,	"	1 00
J. N. Robinson,	"	1 00
D. M. Mason,	"	1 00
W. Ravenscroft,	"	1 00
John Sweeney,	"	1 00
R. K. Maroney,	"	1 00
Owen Tracy,	"	1 00
Thomas Little,	"	1 00
Charles Liller,	"	1 00
W. H. Hinebaugh,	"	1 00
Dr. H. W. McComas		10 00
Dr. J. E. Legge		10 00
J. A. Cross,	Witness	33
Mattie Cross,	"	33
Holmes Browning,	"	33
Charles Whetsell,	"	33
James Frantz,	"	33
Philip Davis,	"	33
On body of John Collins—
George Mason,	juror	1 00
Edward J. Frantz,	"	1 00
Daniel Vaughn,	"	1 00
George Geissman,	"	1 00
B. H. Sincell,	"	1 00
E. A. Weimer,	"	1 00
E. Baumgartner,	"	1 00
D. M. Mason,	"	1 00
George D. White,	"	1 00
Charles Liller,	"	1 00
Robert Townshend,	"	1 00
James A. Sincell,	"	1 00
Earl Durst, witness		33
Dr. John E. Legge		10 00
On body of Bartholomew Hileman—
D. M. Mason,	juror	1 00
L. J. Brown,	"	1 00
J. M. Stanton,	"	1 00
A. J. Harne,	"	1 00
E. J. Frantz,	"	1 00
Austin Brown,	"	1 00
W. A. Maffett,	"	1 00
Elwood Offutt,	"	1 00
Benj. H. Sincell,	"	1 00
Samuel Rodeheaver,	"	1 00
Clyde C. Liller,	"	1 00
Harper Bartlett, use Chas. Liller		1 00
Dr. Mahlon Hinebaugh		10 00
Total		$162 86

COURT HOUSE BONDS.

To pay bond No. 1	$5,000 00
" " interest from Aug. 1st, 1908, to July 31st, 1909	3,000 00
Total	$8,000 00

COURT HOUSE COMMISSION.

Deficiency in bond sale	$3,138 50
To be used for the necessary grading, steps, walks and approaches on court house lot, (as per Act of Legislature)	3,000 00
Total	$6,138 50

MISCELLANEOUS ACCOUNT.

Dr. J. E. Legge, Health Officer	$ 100 00
Same, Physician to jail	100 00
James Denmark, scavenger, subject to order	25 00
Wm. H. Walker, janitor to c.h.	200 00
Henry M. Casteel, coal for c.h. and jail, use Garrett N. Bn'k	110 51
Same, for same, balance	51 17
Lincoln Callis, repairing road machines	21 21
Oakland Pharmacy, medicine for paupers and at jail	29 80
W. M. Thayer, hauling lumber for culverts	4 00
A. G. Sturgiss, stationery and medicine for paupers	45 60
D. E. Offutt & Sons, supplies furnished Mrs. Gilpin	15 00
Same, electric lamps, etc.	2 95
The Falconer Company, stationery for Clerk of Court	44 25
Lantz Bros., supplies for c.h.	10 91
Thomas Harne, hauling	6 00
G. A. Shirer, supplies for jail	4 95
Wm. J. C. Dulany Co, stationery for Clerk of Court	46 84
J. M. Davis & Sons, supplies for jail and court house	39 70
Corlies, Macy & Co., stationery for court house	188 25
James D. Hamill, stationery for Clerk's office	5 00
Alva Bushnell Co. same	15 75
W. H. H. Friend, issuing burial permits	6 80
Sines & Fries, coffin for pauper	20 00
A. D. Naylor & Co., repairs and supplies jail sewer pipe	355 26
Baltimore Office Supply Co., supplies for Clerk's office	37 45
D. E. Bolden, repairs at c.h. coffins for paupers, etc.	168 63
George Geissman, coal for jail	18 75
Felty & Co., lumber for court house platform	9 96
Dixon & Kelso, supplies court house and jail	52 90
John W. Maroney, digging pauper graves	4 00
M. E. Frazee, coffin, pauper, &c	15 00
J. M. Jarboe, kindling for c.h.	4 00
E. W. Helbig, wood for jail	10 50
Garrett Co. Telephone Co. rent of 'phone at jail	6 50
E. W. Helbig, paper hanging at jail	39 85
M. A. Rhoades, support Anna R. Maust	31 10
The Corkins Chemical Co., disinfectant for jail	23 50
Oakland Electric Co., light for court house and jail	552 55
Total	$2,445 64

COUNTY TREASURER.

William H. Hollinger, commissions on county tax	$1,337 92
Same, commissions on state tax	184 16
Total	$1,521 07
Contingent Fund	$4,215 62

RECAPITULATION.

General Road Levy	$12,012 32
Corporations	1,800 00
Clerk of Circuit Court	1,740 25
Court Fund	3,085 00
Orphans' Court	639 74
Sheriff's Office	7,029 57
Public Schools	20,000 00
Public Painting & Publishing	841 65
Election Expenses	3,800 00
Bridge Account	4,125 00
Fox and Cat Certificates	250 50
Almshouse and Asylum Fund	2,600 00
Maryland Hospital	1,050 00
Est. to pay J. P. Witnesses	100 00
Commissioners' Office	1,750 00
New Roads	279 85
Special Road Appropriations	2,278 89
Attorneys' Fees	1,519 47
Constables' Fees	384 60
Magistrates' Fees	261 04
Outside Pensioners	1,096 00
Coroners' Inquests	162 86
Court House Bonds	8,000 00
Court House Commission	6,138 50
Miscellaneous Account	2,445 64
County Treasurer	1,521 07
Contingent Fund	4,215 62
Total	$89 127 07

To pay this amount it was ascertained that the taxable property as shown by the Assessment Books amounts to $8,408,214.00, which at $1.06 on the $100 will make the above amount for County purposes $89,127.07.

Deducting $734,866.00 for Corporations paying direct to the State Treasurer leaves the basis $7,673,348.00 at 16 cents on each $100 makes $12,277.36 and this added makes the taxes for State and County purposes $101,404.43.

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

CHAPTER 677.

AN ACT providing for the issuing and sale of bond by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland for constructing, erecting and maintaining water works and sewerage in said town of Oakland; condemn such land as may be necessary for the building of said works, and to levy taxes on the assessable property of said town to redeem said bonds and to pay the interest thereon.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That for the purpose of establishing, constructing and maintaining water works capable of furnishing the residents of said town with a good and sufficient supply of water for ordinary purposes and for fire protection, and for establishing, erection, constructing and maintaining a sewerage system in said town for drainage and sewerage purposes the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered and direction to issue bonds in the name of the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland to an amount not exceeding $60,000.00, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid. The said bonds shall be for sums not less than $1,000 each, not more than $1,000.00 each, to be signed by the Mayor and President of the Town Council and countersigned by the Clerk of Town Council with the corporate seal of said town thereto be affixed, bearing interest at not more than five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually in each and every year and dated on the first day of their issue; the said bonds shall be numbered serially. Bond No. 1 shall be due and payable two years from date of issue, and thereafter each bond shall mature and be payable each consecutive year from the maturity of bond No. 1 in the order of their consecutive numbers; provided, however, the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby given the option to redeem any or all bonds outstanding twenty-five years from date of issue; that all of said bonds issued as aforesaid shall be due and payable within 61 years from the date of their issue, and shall forever be exempt from all county and municipal taxation for any purpose, and shall have printed on them a reference to the Act of Assembly authorizing the issue thereof

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to construct and erect water works and sewerage for said town and to contract for the purpose in fee simple or lease for a term of years, renewable at their pleasure, any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses, streams, and to use and occupy forever or for a term of years any land, real estate, springs, brooks, water courses or streams which they may deem expedient and necessary for the purposes of furnishing said town with water and maintaining said sewerage, and they are hereby invested with all the rights and powers necessary for the induction of water into the said town, and the maintenance of said sewerage system; if for any cause the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall be unable to agree with any owner of real or leasehold property, springs, brooks, water streams, or watercourses, or any other material which partakes of or is a necessary part of realty or for any right of way which they may find necessary for the conduct of said water and sewerage in its entry into or in said town or if such owner is under any disability or incapacity to contract or absent out of the county or unknown the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland is hereby clothed with the power of condemnation under the right of eminent domain as provided in Section 251 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland as fully as if said section had been herein incorporated; and their manner of procedure of condemnation for the purpose of this Act shall in all particulars be the same as is provided by said Section 251 of said Art. 23. The said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have full power to fix schedules of rates for furnishing water and sewerage to private residences and other buildings, and the said Mayor and Town Council shall have power to collect the same as other taxes are collected and the income thereof shall be applied, first, for expenses and maintenance, and afterwards for the payment of the interest on the bouds and a sinking fund to meet the bonds at maturitv.

SEC. 3 And be it enacted, That the title to said water works and sewerage, and all lands, estates and water courses, waterways, conduits, pipes, machinery and all other parts thereto shall when completed or acquired, vest in the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland; and every person who shall knowingly or willfully pollute any spring, stream, brook, water course, reservoir or stand pipe in connection with the said water works so built or constructed by throwing any impure or deleterious substance or thing into the same, or by swimming, bathing or washing themselves, or by washing clothes or any other thing therein, or by committing any nuisance in or near the sources of supply or the reservoir or standpipe for said water works so as to pollute the same, shall, upon conviction of such offense, be liable to a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than three hundred dollars for each offence, to be recovered by the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland by a Justice of the Peace as other fines are recoverable, or to imprisonment in the county jail or House of Correction for a term of not less than six months nor more than eighteen months, or both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the Justice of the Peace, one-half of such fine to go to the informer and the balance to the Mayor and Town Council for the purposes of this Act

SEC. 4. And be it enacted, That for the purpose of redeeming said bonds at their maturity and for securing the prompt payment of the interest thereon, the Mayor and Town Council shall for the year of the issue of said bonds and annually thereafter until the maturity of said bonds, levy a tax on the assessable property of said town not exceeding twenty-five cents on the one hundred dollars to pay the interest thereon and the sum of one thousand dollars of the principal of said debt for the payment of the same at maturity. The said sum of one thousand dollars shall be held and invested by the Mayor and Town Council as a sinking fund for the redemption of said bonds at their maturity; and the said Mayor and Town Council shall from time to time deposit the money belonging to said sinking fund and the increment thereof in some safe depository which pays interest on deposits, or shall invest the same in State or such other bonds satisfactory to the said Mayor and Town Council as to them may seem best, or in the purchase or redemption of any of said bonds as may be offered for sale and redemption, and upon the purchase of any such bonds the Mayor and Town Council they shall immediately be cancelled by stamping across their face "cancelled by the sinking fund," and no portion of said sinking fund so levied shall ever be diverted to any other purpose than to the purchase and liquidation of said bonds. The money collected each year by the Treasurer or Tax Collector on account of taxes to the extent of said sum of one thousand dollars shall be set apart for said sinking fund, and a separate account shall be kept thereof and be deposited to the credit of said fund, and no part of which shall be chargeable to insolvencies on account of failure of assessment or collections.

SEC. 5. And be it enacted, That the money arising from the sale of bonds, which said bonds shall be sold either at auction or by sealed bids, after due advertisement thereof, to the highest responsible bidder, shall be deposited in bank to the credit of said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland and subject to their check, and the Clerk of said town of Oakland shall keep a book to be especially provided for the purpose the names and addresses of the purchasers of the bonds soid and the amount realized on the sales, together with tho serial numbers of the bonds.

SEC. 6. And be it enacted, that in any prosecution before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act, the accused and the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland shall have the right of appeal to the Circuit Court for Garrett county, within thirty days, and a jury trial. Any person or persons convicted before a Justice of the Peace under Section 3 of this act who shall prav an appeal to the said Court shall be held by recognizance or be committed to the county jail to appear before the next regular jury term of the Circuit Court for Garrett county.

SEC. 7. And be it enacted, that the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to negotiate, sell and dispose of the said bonds as hereinbefore provided in section 5 of this act, or so many thereof as to the Mayor and Town Council may be deemed necessary for the purposes of this act, and the said Mayor and Town Council are fully authorized to make all necessary rules and regulations and to pass all necessary ordinances, with penalties for their violation, and to do all other necessary acts for the proper managing, maintaining and repairiag the said water works and sewerage system and for the protection thereof.

SEC. 8. And be it enacted, that the funds realized from the sale of said bonds shall be applied to the purposes of this act, and shall be paid by check signed by the Mayor and the President of the Council, and the said Mayor and Town Council of Oakland are hereby authorized and empowered to pass such orders for payment of money due for the construction of said water works and sewerage or to the contractor or contractors for the construction of the same, as shall, from time to time, be due or earned by the contractor or contractors in the prosecution of said works, and also from time to time to pass orders for the payment of property purchased or condemned, and for material furnished in persuance of the provisions of this act, and may in its discretion employ a competent hydrographical engineer to superintend the work of constructing such water works and sewerage.

SEC. 9. And be it enacted, that on the first Monday in May, 1908 there shall be a special election held in the town of Oakland, which election shall be held in the same manner and under the same regulations as other municipal elections held in said town, for the purpose of submitting the question as to whether this act shall take effect to the legal voters of said town, and all ballots at said election shall have printed on them the words: For water and sewerage, and the words Against water and sewerage, and all voters desiring to vote for the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "against water and sewerage," and all voters desiring to vote against the provisions of this act shall mark out the words "For water and sewerage." And if the judges of election shall decide that a majority of the votes are cast for "water and sewerage" then this Act shall be in full force of law otherwise of no effect. The judges of election shall under their hands immediately after said election certify to the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland the result of the said election.

SEC. 10. And be it enacted that this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anything in this line.

Musical Recital.

A recital will be given by some of Miss Daisy Grant's pupils, in the basement of the Lutheran church, on Thursday evening, May 14th, at eight o'clock. Their friends and the public are cordially invited to be present. No admission charged.

AN ACT, to repeal and re-enact with amendments, Section 113 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title, "Garrett County," sub-title "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, in 1906, Chapter 423.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 113 of the Code of Public Laws of Article 12, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Grantsville," as amended by the Acts of 1906, Chapter 223, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments to read as follows:

SEC. 113. That the male citizens of said town of the age of twenty-one years and upwards being citizens of the United States, and who have resided in said town for six months thereto preceding, shall elect by ballot on the first Monday in April, of the year 1908, a Mayor, to serve for two years or until his successor shall have been duly elected and qualified, and five Councilmen, three to serve for one year and two to serve for two years from the date of their election, or until their successors have been duly elected and qualified, and an election shall be held thereafter every second year for the election of a Mayor to serve for two years and an election shall be held thereafter every year for the election of two or three Councilmen as the case may be, to serve for the term of two years, the number of Councilmen thus to be elected to correspond with the number of Councilmen whose terms expire at the time of such election. In case of death, resignation or failure to qualify of any party elected as Mayor or Councilmen the corporate board (not less than a quorum being present) shall fill such vacancy by the election of some other qualified inhabitant of Grantsville to fill the unexpired term of the party whose place shall thus have become vacant. The Mayor and Councilmen during their official term shall hold no other corporation office nor be interested in any contract to which said corporation is a party, or where the money for said contract is to be paid out of the corporation treasury.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6, 1908.

CHAPTER 296.

AN ACT to repeal Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County" sub-title "Dogs" and to authorized the County Commissioners to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund" created by said Act; to re-enact Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892; and to add a new Section to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," subtitle "Sheep" to be designated 214A.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Chapter 309 of the Acts of 1906, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Dogs," be and the same is hereby repealed, and that the County Commissioners are hereby authorized to allot and adjust the "Sheep Fund," created by said Act; and that Section 214 of Article 12 of the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep" be re-enacted as amended by Chapter 195 of the Acts of 1892 and a new section be added to the Code of Public Local Laws, title "Garrett County," sub-title "Sheep," to be designated 214A.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That after the first day of April, 1908, that the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county shall have power to place any balance which may remain in the hands of the County Treasurer to the credit of the "Sheep Fund" after all the claims for sheep killed by dogs have been paid, to the credit of the general Road Fund of the county and in case the claims proven for loss of sheep by dogs prior to April first, 1908, cannot be met by the "Sheep Fund" then the County Commissioners shall pay such claims out of the general funds of the county.

214. It shall be lawful to kill any dog seen running sheep in Garrett county and the owners of dogs shall be liable for all sheep killed or injured by them, and any person seeing such dogs running at large may lawfully kill the same.

214A. The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett county upon the petition of taxpayers, if they elect, shall have power to levy a tax, or license fee upon dogs and bitches owned, kept, or harbored within their county and to provide for the enrollment of said dogs and bitches designating officer or officers to do the same, and they may designate the time and manner of collecting the tax or license fee, and appoint tee officer or officers to make such collection or enrollment, and, may require them to give bond; and upon the petition in writing of the taxpayers of any one election district the County Commissioners, if the see fit, shall have power to levy an amount upon the taxable basis of the district so petitioning, which amount shall be applied in that district only to re-imburse the owners of sheep or lambs residing in said district for all sheep or lambs injured or killed by dogs, at a flat rate of three dollars per head; provided that this payment shall not be made when the ownership of the dog which did such killing can be proved. The County Commissioners are hereby authorized to make all rules and and regulations covering the custody and disbursement of this special fund.

SEC. 3. And be it enacted, That the provisions of this Act shall take effect upon the first day of April, 1908.

Approved April 1, 1908.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 366, Acts of 1880, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 3 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge intetest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Treasurer.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MAY 14, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

WHAT IS probably the longest local law ever passed at any session of the Maryland Legislature applicable to Garrett county is that appearing in this paper today, which is known as the Local Option or Anti-Saloon Law. The language of the act is very clear. Certain sections can vote on the question of local option by filling with the Board of Supervisors a petition asking a vote on the question except those communities which are already "dry." By the provision of the act liquor can not be sold legally within a mile of any house of worship or school building except in an incorporated town, which has resulted so far in closing a number of saloons. In Oakland, where the great majority of the saloons are located, the people, under Section 25 of the Act, are prohibited from voting upon the question whether or not liquor shall be sold in the town. Both Districts of Oakland, Numbers 7 and 14, are already dry outside the corporation limits, hence the law, in so far as being a benefit to the people of this section of the country, is a detriment, denying them the right to settle this much vexed question by popular vote.

STING OF CONSCIENCE.

The innocent know nothing of the agony of the man who has done wrong and whose conscience has not been seared. One of the most striking instances of the misery that the wrong door undergoes is found in the confessions of the former auditor and the paying teller of one of Pittsburg's largest banking institutions. These men were old and trusted employes of the bank, but in a fatal moment the longing for greater wealth overcame their scruples and they connived to use the funds of the bank to obtain their desires.

The story of their downfall is not a new one, but it has some features that may make an impression on young men who are in like positions of honor and trust and nerve them to withstand temptation, and preserve the integrity of their characters. No one but themselves know the torture these men suffered after taking the first step, from fear of detection. In an extensive account of their crime a Pittsburg paper relates that the face of one of them, the auditor, was seen to turn deathly pale in the bank one day when the truth began to dawn on him that the beginning of the end had started. He quickly recovered, however, and kept on at work. But the relief was only temporary. The account continues:

Few men have succeeded in getting away after committing such big thefts or remaining long in hiding, if they did try it. No persons knew this better than these men, who had been in the bank business for years. They waited as calmly as they could for the end; when it came they confessed without a single attempt at denial; they even offered to help verify every word they said.

This done, both men actually seemed to feel a sense of relief that had not been natural to them for years. Burned with guilty consciences and made desperate by one bitter disappointment after another both men were gradually becoming nervous wrecks. After confessing everything — unburdening themselves—they seemed for awhile almost like little children. The agony of confessing had not been as trying as living with that constant burden on their minds and making nervous starts many times a day whenever their guilty consciousness made them suspect something said carelessly or trivially indicated suspicion on the part of others. It was a condition of high tension one moment and sudden relaxation the next, when their error of suspicion was discovered, and left them weakened for a time. It was that kind of existence that made confession relatively easy for the men after they knew they had discovered and it brought them subsequently a feeling as nearly akin to relief as is possible to persons under such circumstances.

If any man believes he can do wrong and escape he has only to reflect on the experiences of these two defaulters. The only safe path to walk in is the honest one, and it is also well to know that a dollar unlawfully obtained is never enjoyed. The inevitable penalty some times long delayed, is wretchedness and woe for the thief, and humiliation and shame for the innocent ones close to the offender in ties of relationship and friendship.

Musical Recital.

A recital will be given by some of Miss Daisy Grant's pupils, in the basement of the Lutheran church, on Thursday evening, May 14th, at eight o'clock. Their friends and the public are cordially invited to be present. No admission charged.

Stockholders' Meeting of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company.

Notice is hereby given that a general meeting of the stockholders of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company (successor to the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company of Garrett county, Md.), will be held at the office of the Company in the town of Friendsville, Garrett county, Md., on Tuesday, May 26th, 1908, at the hour of two o'clock p. m. The object of such meeting being: To elect a board of ten directors to serve for the ensuing year; to repeal and renact the by-laws of said company; to consider the proposition of Willard Brown and others, for the purchase or lease of a part of the Company's property for the installation of a power plant on Youghiogheny River, and generally for the consideration of such business as may be properly brought before a stockholders general meeting.

This notice is given by virtue of an order passed at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company, of Garrett county, Md., held at Friendsville, Md., on May 11th, 1908, accepting the amended charter of the company as provided by Chapter 364 of the Acts of 1908.

J. R. TENNANT, Secretary.
Friendsville, Md., May 12th, 1908. 11-2t

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

BENJAMIN F. BOWSER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 14th day of May 1908.

AMOS BOWSER,
Administrator.
R. F. D. No. 2, Accident, Md.

Proposals For Building Wrought Iron Bridge

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will receive sealed proposals on Tuesday, the 2nd day of June, '08,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over little Yough at the Close crossing about one mile from Oakland, the superstructure to consist of one span feet long and 12 feet wide. The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure seperate from the stone work and vice versa.

The bids for substructure can be either for stone or concrete, the Board to decide which is to be used at the date of letting.

Plans and specifications to be seen in the Commissioners Office on and after May 22, 1908.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,

A. G. ROSS, Clerk

CHAPTER 649.

AN ACT to prohibit the granting of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain prescribed territory of Garrett County and to provide for the creation by popular vote of Anti-Saloon territory within Garrett County, within which territory, except as herin provided, the sale of intoxicating liquors and the licensing of such sale shall be prohibited for the enforcement of prohibition, in such territory, and for the abolution by like means of the territory so created.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the words and phrases mentioned in this section as used in this Act and in proceedings pursuant hereto, shall unless the same be inconsistent with the context be construed as follows: "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall mean all territory within the limits of Garrett county, or any election district, city, town, village or ward in said county in which through the action the legal voters therein, as provided by this Act, the sale of intoxicating liquors except as herein provided, is prohibited; city, town or village shall mean an incorporated city, town or village as the case may be, "political sub-division" shall mean county, election district, city, town, village or ward; district shall mean territory in which after the same has become Anti-Saloon Territory, the limits of political sub-division has been changed. "Law" shall include public General Laws, Public Local Laws and all municipal ordinances; in the phrase shall this become "Anti Saloon Territory," the proper designation whether "county" "election district" "city" "town" "village" or ward shall be understood to be inserted in the the blanks, and the same shall be inserted in the petitions, filed by and the ballots prepared for the voters of any county, election district, city, town, village or ward; said proposition shall mean the proposition: shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward, as the case may be, become "Anti Saloon Territory"; "Supervisors of Elections" shall mean the Board of Supervisors of Elections of Garrett county; legal voter or voters shall mean a duly registered legal voter; election shall mean an election held on Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in any year; court shall mean the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and Judge shall mean a Judge of said Court; intoxicating liquors shall include whiskey, brandy, rum, gin, wine, ale, beer, and all other fermented, distilled, spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and every mixture of liquor which shall contained more than two per cent. by weight of alcohol, and every mixture of liquors which shall contain less than two per cent. of alcohol if the same shall be intoxicating.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election of a petition as in this Act provided, directed to such Supervisors of Election, containing the signatures of legal voters of any political sub-division in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast in such political sub-division at the last election therein to submit to the voters of such political sub-division the proposition: "Shall this ——— become Anti Saloon Territory," said proposition shall be submitted at such election as in this Act provided, to the legal voters of such political subdivision and if a majority of the legal voters, voting upon said proposition shall vote "yes" such political subdivisions shall become Anti-Saloon Territory, such petition shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

(Continued on page 8.)

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE.

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 29th day of May, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THOSE LOTS OR PARCELS OF LAND KNOWN AS LOTS "V" AND "W", IN BLOCK NUMBER 35 as shown on the Plat of the Mountain Home Company, of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Liber E. Z. T., No. 1, folio 2, one of the Plat Records of said county, and being the same lots or parcels of land conveyed to John L. Rice by Mountain Home Company by deed dated the 31st day of December, 1894, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 199, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Lot "V" contains 273-1000 of an acre and lot "W" .26 of an acre. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John L. Rice.

No. 2.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUATITY OF SIXTY-TWO AND ONE-HALF ACRES, excepting the mineral, coal and fire clay rights thereunder, located in Election District No. 14 of Garrett county, and particularly described in a deed for the same from Abraham L. Sines and others to Newton A. Reams, bearing date the 8th day of April, 1907, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 543, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land being contained within the the following courses and distances, metes and bounds: Beginning for the same at a planted stone standing southwest three feet from the point of a large rock marked "X," and at the end of the 5th line of a tract of land called "Joseph's Camp," and running thence with the lines thereof South 40½ degrees East, 78 perches to a stone pile, South 23 degrees West, 72 perches to a stone pile at the end of the seventh line of said tract of land, and running thence with the first line thereof as corrected South 25 degress West, 16 perches to a bounded chestnut tree and with a part of the second line thereof as corrected North 58 degress West, 113 perches, North 38 degrees East, 110 perches, South 57½ degrees East, 13 perches, to the beginning. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Newton A. Reams.

No. 3.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF THIRTY-THREE AND ONE-HALF ACRES, and being a part of the original tract called "Strawberry Plains," which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Henry G. Davis and others to Mary E. Reams, bearing date the 30th day of April, 1892, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 19, folio 505, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary E. Reams.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF SIX AND FIVE-EIGHT ACRES, which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Parker Ashby and others to Henry Mosser, dated the 22nd day of July, 1901, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 528, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, by the following courses and distances, metes and bounds: Beginning for the same at a planted stone standin at the end of the seventh line of a tract of land called "Piney Bottom," which point is also at the end of the second line of a tract of land called "Maryland," and running thence with the third line of said tract called "Maryland" with an allowance of 3½ degrees for variation, South 39½ degrees West, 23 perches and 3 links to a stone, North 49 degrees West, 18 perches to a stone standing on the East side of the county road, North 18 degrees East, 19 perches and 9 links to a bounded maple tree standing on the east side of said road, South 89½ degrees West, 15½ perches to a stone, North 58½ degrees West, 21½ perches to a stone, North 44 degrees East, 19½ perches to a stone, North 28 degrees East, 6 perches to a stone standing at the end of the sixth line of the said tract called "Piney Bottom," and thence by a straight line to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Henry Mosser.

No. 5.—FIFTY ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS "WILLIAM AND MARY," and being the same land which was conveyed to Isaac Elliott by F. A. Thayer and others, trustees, by deed dated the 3nd day of August, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 246, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said land being described in said deed as follows: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of the first line of the whole lot No. 3 of the sub-division of the tract called "William and Mary," and running thence with the second line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 77 degrees West, 95½ perches to the end of the second line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with the third line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 3 degrees West 83¾ perches to a stake, thence running across said whole Lot No. 3 South 77 degrees East, 95½ perches to a stake standing in the first line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with said first line South 3 degrees East, 83¾ perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Isaac Elliott.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED ON THE CRELLIN ROAD, CONTAINING SEVEN ACRES, MORE OR LESS, and described in a deed for the same from Carrie Smith and others to Ettie M. Moon, dated the 4th day of February, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No 46, folio 409, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, as follows: Beginning for the same at a stone standing North 67 degrees West, 1 perch from a stake standing at the end of 9¼ perches from the beginning of the fifth and last line of a tract of land conveyed by George W. Legge et ux. to A. G. Sturgiss et al., and running thence North 67 degrees West, 50 perches, South 52 degrees East, 46 perches to a stake and stone pile, thence with the northwest limits of an old road North 40½ degrees East, 19⅞ perches, thence to the beginning. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Ettie M. Moon. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett County.

No. 7. THIRTY-FIVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT, which land is described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth F. Cecil to Clarence A. Knight, bearing date the 26th day of September, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 141, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth F. Cecil.

No. 8. ALL THAT PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ABOUT ONE ACRE, being the same lot conveyed by Gilmor S. Hamill, attorney, to Jennie Smith by deed dated the 4th day of February, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 120, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, saving and excepting therefrom that part of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Jennie Smith by deeds of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court for Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jennie Smith.

No. 9. ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-SIX AND ONE-QUARTER ACRES OF LAND, BEING PART OF A TRACT CALLED "AVON'S VALE," located in Ryan's Glade and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Henry Thompson and others to Isrea Thompson, dated the 25th day of October, 1889, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 16, folio 80, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and also in a deed from Isaac I. Thompson and wife to said Isreal O. Thompson, dated the 25th day of November, 1898, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 36, folios 50, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is situated in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905, as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Israel O. Thompson.

No. 10. MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND TWO, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES OF LAND, which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Aaron Liller and wife to Sarah Devers, bearing date the 2nd day of May, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folios 557, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Sarah Devers.

No. 11. MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO, CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE HUNDRED ACRES, said lots being particularly described in a deed for the same from Catharine Lefler to Charles Hook bearing date the 10th day of May, 1890, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 318, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as in charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles Hook.

No. 12. ALL THAT LOT LOCATED IN THE TOWN OF GORMAN, CONTAINING 77 POLES AND 128 FEET, MORE OR LESS, and being the same land which was conveyed by Charles P. Bailey and others to Lydia A. Bosely by deed dated the 26th day of May, 1899, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 38, folio 586, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described as follows: Beginning at a stake standing at the third corner of a lot formerly owned by Joseph Shillingberg and running thence North 25 degrees West, 4 3-5 poles to a stake, thence North 80½ degrees East, 18¾ poles to a stake, thence South 6 degrees West, 8 poles to another stake, being a corner of said Joseph Shillingberg's lot, then with the line of the same reversed North 89 degrees West, 14 1-7 poles to the beginning. Said lot is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Lydia A. Bosely.

No. 13. ALL THE SURFACE OF MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR, TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SIX AND TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-NINE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being described in a deed from Moses R. Hamill and wife to John S. Hamill, dated the 3rd day of June, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folios 233, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John S. Hamill.

No. 14—MILITARY LOT NUMBER FORTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, and being the same Lot which was conveyed to Hiram P. Tasker by D. James Blackiston by deed dated the 1st day of July, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 77, one of the Land records of said Garrett county. This lot is located in Election District No. 7 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Hiram P. Tasker.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

Tne New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant,
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building.
Oakland, Maryland.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. -13

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE PRES. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

Mr. Oliver Heyward, of Bonb, spent last night in Oakland with his family.

Mr. Robert T. Semmes, of Cumberland, was in the city yesterday on business.

Mrs. Camden Lantz, of Terra Alta, spent Monday afternoon in Oakland shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Englehart, of Accident, spent a day or two this week in Oakland with friends.

Mr. J. B. Lipscomb, of near Deer Park, was in the city Monday when he called at this office.

Mrs. Charles A. Tower and two children, of Cumberland, are in Oakland visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. Alvin Getty, of Cumberland, is visiting her father, Mr. E. D. Kepner, and other relatives in Oakland.

Mrs. C. Ellwood Offutt and Misses Nell and Bess Offutt left Oakland Monday for a week's visit to Baltimore.

Mrs. G. W. Haulenbeek, accompanied by her two daughters and little grandchild, was in Oakland Tuesday.

Best hand-made tinware at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t

Mrs. Mary C. Loar visited her sons, Messrs. Lawson L. and George W. Loar at Grafton several days this week.

Mrs. F. G. Hyde, after a visit of several weeks to her sister in Pittsburg, returned to Oakland last Saturday morning.

Miss Dick Porter, of Terra Alta, was in Oakland Monday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harland L. Jones at their home on Third street.

Mr. Ross Durst, one of the Oakland Normal students, was a very pleasant and entertaining visitor at this office office yesterday afternoon.

Full line of Galvanized Goods—gutters, conductors, ridge roll, tubs, buckets, etc., at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t

Miss Mame Miller, who spent two or three weeks with Mrs. Thorne, in Washington, returned to her home in Oakland Tuesday afternoon.

Judson Loar, son of Mrs. M. C. Loar, Second street, fell from a ladder at the home on last Friday and sustained a very painful injury to his side.

Mr. Joseph Brown, of near Kingwood, spent Sunday and Monday in Oakland as the guest of his relatives, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ravenscroft.

At Morgantown on Tuesday Judge John W. Mason, of the Criminal Court, sentenced three members of the Black Hand to ten years in West Virginia penitentiary.

Mrs. Richard Connell, of Morgantown, who was here a week or more as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hinebaugh, returned to her home Monday afternoon.

G. A. Shirer & Co. offer good prices on cooking stoves and ranges for the months of May and June.

Messrs. Bartlett & Brown, two of Oakland's young painting contractors, yesterday completed the painting of The Republican building The work presents a very pleasing appearance.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anything in this line.

Mr. B. Fraley, of Terra Alta, visited his son, Mr. G. A. Fraley, in Oakland, a day or two this week, being accompanied to his home by Mr. Fraley's little daughter Monday afternoon.

We acknowledge a very pleasant visit made this office on Monday by Mr. A. Frederick George, of Swanton, who was in the city on business connected with church and Sabbath school matters.

County Treasurer W. E. Hollinger, of near Guard, accompanied by Mr. Fred Mitchell, of Friendsville, came up to Oakland Tuesday on business, returning to their homes yesterday afternoon.

Mr. W. W. Grant, who has completed his second year in the dental department of the University of Maryland, Baltimore, arrived home Thursday morning last, and will resume his position in the Oakland Pharmacy in a few days.

A young married man wanted with no children or a very small family; the wife to do the cooking for four men, the man to work by the year or month; house ready till June. Write at once; reference wanted. C. J. Yoder, Grantsville, Md. 11-3t

The different clubs of the city, literary and otherwise, are living examples of what woman is doing to broaden the mind of her sex, and in broadening touch other lives and cause them at least to form some conception of what their mission is in the world.

Rev. J. B. Workman, pastor the St. Paul's M. E. church, left Oakland this morning for Baltimore, where he will spend several days at the General Conference of his church. En route to Baltimore Mr. Workman will stop over in Washington for a day or two.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sincell returned from Baltimore Saturday night. The former underwent a slight surgical operation while in the east and is now well on the road to recovery and a permanent cure of the ailment with which he has suffered for a number of months.

Mr. A. D. Naylor, who spent several days at his old home near Martinsburg, West Va., where he was called owing to the extreme illness of his father, returned to Oakland Tuesday night. Yesterday Mr. Naylor, Sr., was taken to the University Hospital in Baltimore where he will be treated and probably operated upon.

Deputy County Treasurer James W. White, who has been engaged in making up the tax bills for several days past, is yet engaged in the arduous task, but hopes to complete the work this week. There are more than five thousand persons to whom the Treasurer must send bills and to do this work much time is consumed.

Rev. L. B. Hensley, who was recently called by the local Presbyterian congregation to serve as pastor in Oakland, arrived here Tueseay afternoon from Cumberland where he was pastor of the Southminister church from the time of its organization several years ago. The family of Mr. Hensley will arrive here some time next week when they will occupy the manse on Third street.

CAPITAL $50,000.00 — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

THE First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor. COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED Remains Interred Here.

The remains of the late Emery E. Hinebaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hinebaugh, of Oakland, whose death occurred two or three weeks ago in Baltimore, were received in Oakland on Monday from that city and interred in the ceremony here that day by Mr. D. E. Bolden.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Jesus' Death and Burial.—John 19, 17-42.

Church Services.

OAKLAND PRESBYTERIAN.

Services on Sunday, to which all are cordially invited, will be preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

L. B. HENSLEY, Pastor.

UNITED BRETHREN.

Preaching at Lyndale at 10.30 a. m.; Loch Lynn at 7:30 p. m.

J. F. PRITCHARD, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows: Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m., and 8 p. m.
Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

We know a father in a neighboring town in this county who used to talk to his boys like he did to vicious animals, and used a strap on them at ramdom. He said he was curbing their disposition. In years that came every one of those lads went to the bad. In age they had no more respect for that father than they did for Satan. By some means a father should gain the love and admiration of his boys.

The more pleasing and pleasant our government can make farm life the better it is for the government. Our cities are over-crowded with worthless loafers that might be honorable and respectable farmers. The rural route is one of the things that has been provided to make farm life more desirable and attractive, and as we all have to live off the farmers nothing should be left undone that could be done to make the farm inviting.

In these days of strife between two great political parties we must remember that after all we are just a band of brothers here on earth, traveling from the cradle to the grave. We live side by side, our children attend the same school and after the smoke of the battle has cleared away, we will still be friends and neighbors. Let the bitter things go unsaid. At best, life is short, and we get out of it a full measure of sorrow. Let us in our little city live as one big, good natured family.

While the modern system of school work may be deficient in some respects, and no doubt the tendency is to take on more work and too many branches of study for the pupil to master thoroughly in the time the average boy or girl is allowed for schooling, yet there is a fault on the part of parents which is persistently left out of account in the argument of the critic. The pupils, especially in the higher grades, are allowed to spend the nights during the week in various amusements which distract their minds from school work, and the loss of sleep incapacitates them for good work during school hours.

Sheriff Austin Brown went to Friendsville Tuesday where he summoned a jury of condemnation yesterday to go over the lands of the Yough Manor Land Company for the purpose of condemning the right of way now occupied by the railroad tracks of the Kendall Lumber Company and assessing the damages accruing to the property owners by reason of the occupancy of the lands by the tracks of the Kendall Company. Sheriff Brown was accompanied to Friendsville by ex-Sheriff Edward J. Frantz, who will visit friends and relatives there a few days before his return to Oakland.

Dr. W. W. Davis, Superintendent of the Mountain Lake Park Association, after spending a day or two here, returned to Baltimore yesterday morning. While in Oakland Dr. Davis secured quite a large line of advertising for the Summer Program for the Mountain Chautauqua, which will be printed at this office this year. Twenty-thousand copies of the Program will be printed, each containing 48 pages. Into the composition of this work more than a ton of paper will enter, exclusive of the cover, which will require an additional several hundred pounds. The Program will be completed by June 25th and will then be mailed.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County, in Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

HARVEY B. NEWMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of May, 1908.

S. T. JONES,
Executor.
Oakland, Md.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 5th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1. ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND KNOWN AND DESIGNATED AS MILITARY LOT NUMBE ELEVEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, lying and being in Election District No. 10 of Garrett county and being the same lot which was conveyed by Elizabeth F. Cecil to Elizabeth Paugh et al. by deed bearing date the 1st day of June, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 99, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth Paugh.

No. 2. ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, KNOWN AS MILITARY LOT NUMBER THIRTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE, which was conveyed by William M. Lohr, late Treasurer of Garrett county, to William A. Hauser by deed bearing date the 3rd day of November, 1903, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 301, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Adolphus Osse to Charles Osso dated the 2nd day of July, 1894, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 331, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county iu the name of the said William A. Hauser.

No 3.—ALL THOSE LOTS LOCATED IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK KNOWN AS LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, being fully described in a deed for the same from James C. Peddicord, Trustee, to D. James Blackiston, dated the 3rd day of December, 1896, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 585, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said D. James Blackiston.

No. 4.—PART OF A LOT KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER TWENTY-ONE OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED LOCHIEL, CONTAINING TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE ACRES, and being the same land which was conveyed by F. P. Green and wife to Mary C. Love by deed bearing date the 26th day of August, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 147, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is more particularly described in a deed for the same to the said F. P. Green executed by John T. Mitchell and wife, bearing date the 30th day of January, 1869, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 36, folio 224, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 or said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary C. Love.

No. 5.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND LOCATED IN LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth A. White and husband to William C. White, bearing date the 13th day of July, 1896, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 369, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, and beginning for the same at a stake at the northwest corner of a lot conveyed to Eulalia E. Lish and with it South 63½ degrees East, 130 feet to an alley, thence South 63½ degrees West, 49 feet, thence North 63½ degrees West 130 feet to Seneca Avenue extended, and with same North 26½ degrees East, 49 feet to the beginning containing 15-100 of an acre, nearly. Said lot is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said William C. White.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK described in a deed for the same from Mary E. Mayers to Annie V. Cunningham, dated the 10th day of April, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 433, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said description being as follows: Beginning at a stone on the southwest corner of Spruce and E streets and running with E street South 50 feet to a stake for a place of beginning, thence with the South line of Lot No. 107, 120 feet to an alley, thence South along said alley 25 feet to a stake, thence East 120 feet to E street, thence North along E street 25 feet to the place of beginning, said lot being shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association as recorded in the plat records of Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Annie V. Cunningham.

No. 7. LOTS NUMBERS THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY AND THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-TWO as shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio 809, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed by Mountain Lake Park Association to Mary B. Wilson et al., by deed dated the 28th day of January, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 341, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the heirs of George M. Wilson.

No. 8.—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THREE, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FOUR, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Lands of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gay and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 9.—ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE AND THREE-QUARTER ACRES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "POTOMAC MANOR," being the same land which was patented to General John Swan by the State of Maryland the 24th day of December, 1800, and conveyed by the Manor Mining Company to Abraham I. Wilson, by deed dated the 16th day of January, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 132, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as it charged on the Asfessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Abraham I. Wilson.

No. 10. THE SURFACE OF ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND CONTAINING SIXTY-FIVE ACRES, BEING A PORTION OF THE TRACT KNOWN AS "BANK TERRITORY," and being the same lot of ground described in a deed from Adelaid S. Hubbard and others and conveyed by them to Benjamin S. Tasker dated the 23rd day of October, 1900, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 137, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the As, sessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Benjanin S. Tasker.

No. 11.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE ACRE, and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Albert L. Lee then Sheriff of Garrett county, to Walter C. Bowman, dated the 2nd day of January, 1907, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 222, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of William Enlow.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent per annum and all costs. Conveyoncing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO., OAKLAND, MD., May 11, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, June 2nd, 1908,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Ruby and R.F.D.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Across the fields the heat waves shimmered "like an invisible jelly," as Dabney Forbush put it to his sister.

"I wouldn't go to town with the handsomest man in the postal service," he declared laughingly as Ruby firmly stamped a tiny foot on the floor. "I don't think you're fair to the poor chap," he went on, more seriously. "Suppose he becomes so hopelessly in love that at the end of the season, when you go back to town, he finds the Parkvale girls dull and uninteresting. Perhaps he will commit suicide."

"I wish you would keep quiet," said Ruby hotly. "I have to go to town to get some silks for that sofa pillow I am making for you. If Mr. Perkins is so kind as to take me in, you should be grateful to him."

"If it's for that class pillow you're making for me, I'll go in after it myself," offered Dabney. "It will save Perkins the trouble of hitching up and driving back here again. That's no part of his postal labors."

"I WANT TO SAY GOODBY TO YOU HERE UNDER THE TREES."

Ruby stamped her foot again.

"I think you are perfectly horrid," she declared. "Just as though you could pick out the right colors!"

"A man ought to know his own class colors," Dabney defended. "You say I never do anything for you, and then when I offer to take a hot trip to town and walk all the way back you call me horrid. Here comes Peter Perkins now. I guess I'll slide into the house. Great emotions always upset me."

He dodged into one of the low windows before Ruby could reach him with the cushion she had caught up from one of the chairs, and his mocking laugh rang out as the girl gave a little shake to her ruffled plumage and started down the shady walk to the gate.

The ramshackle wagon used in the rural free delivery service was just drawing up to the block, and she climbed lightly to a place beside the stalwart young fellow, whose glad smile showed all too plainly the pleasure he felt.

"It was awfully good of you to come back this way for me," she said after her hand had lingered an instant in his muscular grip. "Dab does make such a martyr of himself when he does anything for me, and Mr. Slocum will not let us have the horses in the harvesting season."

"I was only too glad to come back," said Perkins simply. "You can't blame Slocum about the horses. He needs them all just now. If you come to a real farmhouse to spend the summer, you cannot expect a livery outfit like those places where the biggest crop they raise is summer boarders."

"It has been such a real summer," she said smilingly. "I hate the round of fashionable hotels. This has been ideal."

"Parkvale is a pretty nice place," he said reflectively. "I don't know when I ever spent a more pleasant summer myself."

"You have done a very great deal toward making things pleasant for me," said Ruby. "I don't know when I ever saw Dabney so disobliging. If it had not been for you, I don't know what I should have done."

"We are supposed to be polite," he reminded. "It's in the regulations."

Ruby wondered if the regulations required him to hitch up a fresh rig and drive her back to the farm after her purchases were made, as he had done a score of times.

From the first she had been attracted to the handsome young driver of the rural delivery. He was so unlike the men she knew in town. She shuddered at the name of Peter Perkins. It did not match his manner or his appearance, but she had almost forgotten his name except when her brother teased her about it. At first Ruby had simply utilized her inherent flirtatious instinct, but later she had come to realize that she loved the mail driver, and at times the knowledge frightened her.

Peter broke the silence.

"You'll be going back home pretty soon now, won't you?" he asked.

Ruby nodded.

"We expect to leave Saturday. Dabney must visit an uncle from whom he has expectations, and mother wants me to come to her for a few weeks. She is in the mountains."

"I'm glad that you're going," he said abruptly.

"Glad!" Ruby turned in her seat to face him. "I don't think that you are very polite!" she cried.

"I couldn't bear to think of your being here after I am gone," he exclaimed simply.

"You are going?" she asked. "I thought you lived here."

"I was here only for the summer," he explained. "I must go back home too."

"I suppose you will carry pleasant recollections of this delightful country," she said. "I know that I shall always remember this summer most pleasantly."

"I want to take away something else," he said slowly. Ruby turned her face away and let her gaze wander over the fragrant flowering buckwheat. "I want to take with me your promise that some day I may come for you," he went on—"that some day I may come and claim you for my bride. May I, dear?"

Gently Ruby drew from his grasp the hand he had seized. Her heart cried "Yes," but there came into her mental vision the prospect of her ambitious mother. Mrs. Forbush would never consent to their union, and Mrs. Forbush could make life very unpleasant when she elected.

"I am sorry," she said softly, "but I cannot answer you as you want me to. I shall always remember most pleasantly this happy summer. Please do not ask more of me."

"You do not love me?" he demanded bluntly.

"I do like you," she said. "I—I cannot say more."

Peter flicked his horse with his whip, and the patient animal jogged on. He spoke no more of his love, and Ruby was grateful to him.

She went about her shopping while Peter drove over to the postoffice to report. When he returned to meet her it was with a livery rig.

"I cannot use the delivery horses now," he explained. "I am no longer working for the contractor. Shall we go home by the river road?"

Her eyes made answer. The river road was the longest and prettiest, and she would not deny herself this last trip with the man she loved. Tomorrow he must pass out of her life. Tonight she wished only that she might drive on and on far into the soft summer night.

But Peter kept the horse at a trot, and presently they were at the farm. He was a favorite with Mrs. Slocum, and she insisted that he come in and take supper with them. He lingered in the gloom of the trees until the moon was high, but at last he had to go.

"I want to say goodby to you here under the trees," he said as he rose to his feet. "After I have harnessed up the whole family will come out. I am sorry you could not say 'Yes,' dear, but I do not blame you, and I shall always love you and cherish the memory of this summer."

He bent over her and lightly brushed her forehead with his lips. Then he strode off toward the barn, and presently she heard the grating of the buggy wheels upon the graveled walk. There was the sound of voices as he took farewell of the group on the back porch, and then the carriage came down the drive and turned into the road.

For a moment the world seemed to stand still for Ruby; then she leaped from the hammock and went flying down the dusty road after the buggy.

"Peter! Peter!" she called softly. "Come back. It was all a mistake. I do love you, and I will marry you, no matter what mother says."

In an instant he had sprung from the buggy and had her in his arms. Dabney came running up.

"I want to be the first to congratulate you, old man," he said as he grasped Peter's hand. "I knew you'd win, even if sis does hate all the men I know."

"All the men you know!" gasped Ruby.

"This is Pennington, Pete Pennington," he explained, "my roommate at college. He took the job to meet you without the disadvantage of my indorsement."

"I would have loved him anyhow," declared Ruby stoutly, "millionaire or R. F. D. clerk, as you like."

When You Are Bilious.

The only salvation for the person with a torpid liver, according to What to Eat, is through a changed system of dietectics, combined with exercise in the outdoor air, calisthenics and deep breathing. The person with a bad liver should habitually practice deep and long breathing, filling the lungs at each inhalation. The curative dietary must consist principally of nerve or brain food, including fish and a reasonable amount of beef, with generous quantities of cereal foods and the fruits that are rich in acids. In warm weather it is best to abstain from milk altogether. Butter and vegetable fats, olive oil, boiled rice, baked apples, baked potatoes, graham or whole wheat bread, soft boiled eggs, all constitute a safe and nourishing diet for the bilious person. At the first symptom of biliousness squeeze the juice of half a lemon in the water you drink just before breakfast and before going to bed at night.

CHAPTER 639.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 71 passed at the present session of the General Assembly of the State of Maryland for the year 1908.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 71 of the Acts of 1908, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendment so as to read as follows:

SECTION 6. No spirituons or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any Election District of said County except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act; and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, house, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said Clerk by at least seven respectable free-holders, assessed for at least two thousand dollars, living in the Election District in which said saloon is to be located and with in two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article, and until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall file with said Clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said Clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditionally to the payment of all fine, penalties, costs and damages to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this state and said Clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this Section, unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond; and that in no event shall any person sell such article on the Sabbath day, commonly called Sunday, and for violation of this provision such person, natural or artificial, shall be subjected to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act, provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, shall still remain in full force and virtue in law, (and provided further that this Act shall not apply to any incorporated town having a paid police force).

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this Act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 8, 1908.

CHAPTER 71.

AN ACT to repeal and re-enact with amendments Section 6 of Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, entitled An Act to repeal and re-enact with the amendments Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890, entitled an Act to enable the qualified voters of Garrett county to determine by ballot whether spirituous or fermented liquors or acoholic bitters shall be sold in said county and to regulate the terms and conditions on which the sale thereof may be made in case the majority of the voters of said county shall determine said question in the affirmative, and to regulate the sale thereof by druggists and pharmacists.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 6 of Chapter 610 of the Acts of 1890 as repealed and re-enacted by Chapter 554 of the Acts of 1904, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted with amendments so as to read as follows:

6. No spirituous or fermented liquors or alcoholic bitters shall be sold in any election district of said county except as provided for by Section 5 of this Act and also upon the following terms, viz: Each and every applicant, person or persons, corporation, company or association shall be recommended to said clerk by at least seven respectable freeholders assessed for at least two thousand dollars living in the election district in which said saloon is located and within two miles of the place where said liquors or alcoholic bitters are to be sold, as a fit person to traffic in the article. Provided that the exception made by the last clause of Chaptor 554 of the Acts of 1904 shall still remain in full force and virtue in law. Nor until such applicant or applicants applying for such license, shall have filled with said clerk a bond with at least two sureties to be approved by said clerk in the penal sum of two thousand dollars, conditioned to the payment of all fines, penalties, costs and damages, to which the person or persons obtaining said license may become liable for any violation of any of the license laws of this State and said clerk is hereby prohibited from approving any bond under this section unless it shall appear to him by good evidence that the sureties on said bond are worth in real estate double the amount of the penalty of such bond. And that in no event shall any person sell such articles on the Sabbath day commonly called Sunday; and for violations of this provision, such person natural or artificial shall be subject to the penalties provided for in Section 4 of this Act.

SEC. 2. And be it enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved March 10, 1908.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive gusrantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION

33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

All the News Everything that happens in the home town; the births, marriages, deaths, the social affairs, the comings and goings of the people—your neighbors; the notes of the schools and churches; all these and many other new and interesting things this paper will give you All the Time

ASK your stenographer what it means to change a typewriter ribbon three times in getting out a day's work.

The New Tri-Chrome Smith Premier Typewriter

makes ribbon changes unnecessary; gives you, with one ribbon and one machine, the three essential kinds of business typewriting—black record, purple copying and red.

This machine permits not only the use of a three-color ribbon, but also of a two-color or single-color ribbon. No extra cost for two or three colors.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

CHRISTIAN KLOTZ,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 13th day of February, 1908.

LEWIS KLOTZ,
R. F. D. No. 1, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, letter of Administration on the personal estate of

ANDREW J. TEATS,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 27th day of August, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 27th day of February, 1908.

ANASTASIA TEATS,
Administratrix.
Oakland, Md.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor.
Frostburg, Md.
7-6t

SPECIAL ELECTION.

Notice is here given to the qualified voters of the Town of Oakland, Maryland, that a Special Election will be held at the Office of the Supervisors of Election in said town on Monday, May 4th, 1908,

from 8 o'clock a. m. to 6 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of submitting the question, as to whether the Act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at the January Session, 1908, with reference to issuing Municipal bonds to the amount of $60,000 for the purpose of installing and maintaining a system of Water Works and Sewerage in said town, shall be enforced or vice versa.

By order of the Council,

J. C. DENHAM, Clerk,
Town Council of Oakland.

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.

Office "Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.

Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:

One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.

Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.

Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.

For further information, address

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent, Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets..... $18,990,678 84
Total Liabilities..... 13,650,158 39
Surplus to Policy-holders..... 5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department,
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONNECTICUT FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
OF HARTFORD,
January 1, 1908.

Cash Capital..... $1,000,000 00
Reserve for Reinsurance..... 3,580,757 23
Reserve for all Out standing Claims..... 318,252 38
Net Surplus..... 1,118,394 25
Total Assets..... $5,817,423 86

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK,
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up..... $1,000,000 00
Total Assets..... 2,329,196 17
Total amount of All Liabilities..... 227,703 59
Surplus as regards police holders. 2,801,304 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company..... 2,160,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, February 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement of the Condition of
THE CONTINENTAL INSURANCE CO.,
OF NEW YORK,
December 31, 1907.

Total Assets..... $16,399,452 10
Total Amount of all liabilities 7,496,860 74
Surplus as regards policy holders. 8,902,591 36

State of Maryland, Office of State Insur. Dept.
Baltimore, February 19 1908

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract from the statement of the above named company.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., April 25, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on Tuesday, May 12th, 1908,

to transact any business that may be brought before it.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break up head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics.

Preventics are little Candy Cold Cures. No Quinine, no physic, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes or at Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

Preventics
"ALL DEALERS"

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST,
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.

Schedule effective June 2, 1907.

OAKLAND.

* Daily. † Daily except Sunday. § Sunday only.

For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK. Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.34 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m. Arrive *7.12 a. m., §3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.

For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.

For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.

For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.

For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.

For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.

For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., §3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

1 Gasoline Engine,

8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,

operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write to

THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy

JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.

Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,

Okland, Md.

HIS TROUBLE.

It Was Waiting For Wifey to Get Through Kissing the Baby.

A small, quiet looking man, smoking a large cigar, sat by the side of a medium sized automobile that was drawn out of the road as a large touring car came along, driven by a man with an interrogatory aspect.

The man in the touring car slowed up and leaned over.

"How long you been here?"

"About two hours."

"Can't you find out what the matter is?"

"No."

"Inlet valve all right?"

"Yes."

"Trouble with spark plug?"

"Think not."

"How are your batteries?"

"O. K."

"Haven't got a short circuit, have you?"

"Oh, no."

"How's your commutator?"

"Great."

"Perhaps your worm gear is clogged."

"No; all clear."

"Got any gasoline in your tank?"

"Plenty."

"How about your circulation? Cylinder isn't bound, is it?"

"No, sir."

"Tires seem all right?"

"Never better."

"Well, maybe your vibrator isn't adjusted."

"That's all right."

"Have you looked at your carburetor?"

"Yes."

"How about the cam shaft?"

"Grand."

"Have you tightened your connecting rods, examined your clutches and gone over the differentials?"

"Yes, yes."

The man in the touring car paused a moment and then, looking at the stranger by the roadside, said at last:

"Would you mind telling me, sir, just what's the matter with that machine of yours?"

In answer the man pointed to a large red farmhouse in the distance.

"See that house out there?" he asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Well, sir, there isn't anything the matter with this machine, but since noon my wife has been in that house kissing her sister's first baby goodby. When she gets through, if you are not over a thousand miles away and will leave your address, I will telegraph or cable you the glad news at my own expense."—Collier's Weekly.

Hard to Answer.

The golfer had a very good opinion of himself, says a writer in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and after making a fairly good drive he turned to his caddie.

"I suppose," he said, "you have been round the links with worse players than me, eh?"

The caddie took no notice, and the golfer began again.

"I say," he said loudly, "I suppose you've been round the links with worse players than me, eh?"

"I heard you the first time," replied the caddie calmly. "I'm just thinking about it."

The Harvest.

The Man—May, dear, I hope you may never have to reap as you sew.—Harper's Weekly.

She Was Ready.

A young lady from a rural district, who was something of a belle in backwoods society and used to having considerable homage paid to her, especially by neighbors of the opposite sex, boarded a railway train for the first time not long ago. After she had secured a seat, removed her wraps, adjusted her baggage and smoothed out the wrinkles in her dress she called the attention of a passing brakeman and demurely said:

"You may tell the conductor I'm ready, please."—Lippincott's.

Accounting For It.

"No," said the stubborn man, "nobody can alter my regard for Jiggins. He's a man you don't meet every day."

"I admit that," replied Markley, "but I attribute it to the fact that I loaned him $10 several months ago."—Catholic Standard and Times.

On the Sidewalk.

"What is your favorite amusement?" asked the peach kernel.

"My favorite amusement," answered the banana peel, "is tripping the light fantastic toe."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Their Meaning.

The goldenrod is glowing
Serenely on the hill,
The lily's softly blowing
Upon the placid rill,
And sadly they berattle
The poet's weary soul,
Who feels the nearing battle
For grate and furnace coal.
—New York Press

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. &P. Telephone Comp'y

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,

Table and Floor Oil Cloths,

Lace Curtains,

Dotted Swiss,

Window Blinds,

Sheets and Pillow Cases,

Table Linen, Towels,

Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE

Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays, 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, J. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows and Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞ For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor, Sincell Building, OAKLAND MD.

CHAPTER 549.

(Continned from page 4.)

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act shall become operative on the first day of May next after the day of election at which such vote is cast.

SEC 4. And be it further enacted, That a petition for submission of said proposition shall be in substantially the following form: "To the Board of Supervisors of Election of Garrett county; the under signed legal voters of the ——— (insert the legal name or correct designation of the political sub-division) respectfully petition that you cause to be submitted in the manner provided by law to the voters thereof, at the next election the proposition "Shall this ——— become Anti-Saloon Territory such petition shall consist of sheets havin such form printed or written at the top thereof and shall be signed by the legal voters in their own proper persons only, and opposite the legal signature of each legal voter shall be written the house number and street name if there be such; and if the petition is for the entire county the city, town, village or election district as the case may be in which he resides and the date of signing the same, no signature shall be valid or counted in considering such petition unless these requirements are complied with and unless the date of signing is less than six months preceding the date of filing the same. At the bottom of each sheet of such petition shall be added a statement signed by a resident of the political subdivision in which the signers thereof reside, with his residence address as aforesaid, stating that the signatures on that sheet of said petition are genuine and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the persons so signing were at the time of signing said petition legal voters of the said political subdivision, that their respective residences, when required to be stated, are correctly stated therein, and that each signer signed the same on the date set opposite his name. Such statement shall be sworn to before some officer residing in said county where such legal voters reside, authorized to administer oaths therein; such sheets shall be fastened together in one document filed as a whole, and when filed shall not be withdrawn or added to. No signature shall be withdrawn after the filing of such petition; such petition so verified or a copy thereof duly certified as hereinafter provided shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures, statement of residence here required to be stated and dates upon the petition are genuine and true and that the persons signing the same are legal voters of the political subdivisions named therein. Upon request of any one filing such a petition and verified statement and paying or tendering to the Supervisors of Elections one dollar for each one hundred names, or fraction thereof signed thereto, together with a copy thereof, the Supervisors of Election shall immediately compare the original and copy attach to such copy and delivered to such person their official certificate that such copy is a true copy of the original, stating the day when such original was filed in their office. Whoever in making the sworn statement above prescribed shall knowingly, willfully and corruptly swear falsely shall be deemed guilty of perjury and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly; whoever forges the signature of any person upon any petition or statement provided for in this Act shall be deemed guilty of forgery, and on conviction thereof be punished accordingly.

Name of Signer	City, Town, Village or Election District petition is for.	House number, if any	Street, if named	Date of signing

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided in this Act shall cause notice to be given in the manner provided by law for giving notice of an election of the submission of said proposition at the next election to the voters of the political subdivision named in such petition. Publication of the submission of said proposition to the voters of such political subdivision shall likewise be made in the manner provided by law for the publication of the list of nominations to be voted for at an election, provided that the failure of such Supervisors to Election to cause such notice to be given or the failure to make publication of the submission of said proposition as above provided, shall not affect the validity or binding force of the vote upon said proposition.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided by this Act shall cause the proposition, "shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward (as the case may be) become Anti Saloon Territory," to be placed on the official ballots to be used in the political subdivision in which the manner prescribed by Section 56 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904, at any election where said proposition is submitted. The persons managing the interests of those opposed to said proposition shall have respectively the right to designate and keep a challenger and watcher at each election place. A certificate signed by the presiding officers of the committee managing the interest of those in favor of, or opposed to said proposition, shall be sufficient evidence of the right of such challenger and watcher to be present at the polling room. Such challengers and watchers shall have the powers which are conferred upon challengers and watchers by sections 62 and 69 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections shall as soon as conveniently may be after receiving and canvassing the result of any election at which the proposition as to whether any political subdivision shall become or continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory is submitted to the voters thereof, proclaiming the result of said election and publish such proclamation in some newspaper published in the county, if the owners of such newspapers will publish the same at current rates of advertisements and shall record in a well bound book to be kept in their office by them and their successors the result of the vote upon said proposition and such result may be proven in all courts and in all proceedings by such records or by the official certificate of the Supervisors of Election, and in cases where such a record or certificate shows that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "Yes" the same shall be conclusive evidence that the political subdivision to which such vote was applicable has become "Anti-Saloon Territory," unless the proclamation of the Supervisors of Election shall be reversed after a contest of the election in accordance with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That all the territory within any political subdivision which has become "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent notwithstanding any change that may be made in the limits of said such political subdivision until the legal voters thereof have voted according to provisions of this Act. To discontinue such Anti-Saloon Territory the following section shall be construed in harmony herewith. In all "Anti-Saloon Territory" during the time that it continues to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" the operation of all laws providing for the restriction, regulation, or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors within any portion or the whole of such territory so far as inconsistent with its status as "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall be suspended.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election in any political subdivision of a petition directed to such Supervisors of Election containing the signature of legal voters of an "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast therein at the last election to submit to the voters thereof the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," provided such petition corresponds in all other respects with the petition in this Act before described, such proposition shall be submitted at such election to the voters of such political subdivision or district, and the provisions of sections one (1), four (4), five (5), six (6) and seven (7) of this Act shall apply in all respects so far as applicable to the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," to the submission of such proposition to such voters, to the position therefor, to the recording of the vote thereon and to the proof and evidence of the petition and vote, except that in a district such proposition shall be submitted by seperate ballot. If a majority of the legal voters, voting upon such last mentioned proposition in any such political subdivision or district vote, no such political subdivision or district shall cease to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," and all laws providing for the restriction, regulation or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, the operation of which was in any wise suspended within such political subvision or district by virtue of the vote therein to become "Anti-Saloon Territory" with all additions and amendments which in the meantime may have been made thereto, shall, if not in the meantime be repealed, become and be in force within said political subdivision or district to the same extent only, however, as the same would then be in force, had such political subdivision or district never became "Anti-Saloon Territory." The petition mentioned in this section shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act in and for any political subdivision upon the proposition "shall this ——— become Anti-Salooon Territory," or in and for any political subdivision or district upon the proposition "shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be a bar to the submission to the voters thereof either division or district only, until after the lapse of 23 month.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to sell intoxicating liquor nor for the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett county to grant or issue any license to sell intoxicating liquors within one mile of any house of worship or school house after the passage of this Act, unless the same be situated within the limits of an incorporated town and not otherwise prohibited, nor within the limits of any political subdivision or district whateyer, within this county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," and if any such license be granted or issued in violation hereof the same shall be void, provided that this shall not apply to sales made by a person under a provision of law requiring him to sell personal property.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That every retail liquor dealer except druggists, trafficking personally or by agent in intoxicating liquor in any political subdivision which becomes "Anti-Saloon Territory" by vote of the people thereof as herein provided, shall remove or cause to be removed all intoxicating liquors from such place, its appurtenance or dependences, within ten days from the first of May next following such vote. Failure to comply with the provisions of this Section shall be prima facie evidence that such liquor is kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That whoever shall by himself or another, either as principal, clerk or servant, directly or indirectly sell, barter or exchange any intoxicating liquors in any quantity whatever within the limits of any political subdivision or district in said county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," or keep and have in his possession any intoxicating liquors with intent to sell or otherwise dispose of same in violation of the provisions of this Act, shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200), or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than thirty days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provision of this section, and shall subsequently violate any provision of this section, he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than one hundred dollars (100) nor more than five hundred ($500) dollars and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days. And in like manner if he shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section for such third and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than two hundred dollars ($200) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1000) and confined in the Maryland House of Correction for not less than three months nor more than one year. The State's Attorney for Garrett and Justice of the Peace in and for said county having knowledge of any previous conviction of any person accused of violating the provisions of this Section, in preparing warrants, presentments and indictments shall allege such previous conviction therein, and it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county to furnish information concerning such prior conviction to the State's Attorney and grand jury. A certified transcript from the docket of any Justice of the Peace or a certified copy of the record under the seal of the Clerk of the Circuit Court shall be sufficient evidence of a previous convictions under any section of this Act. It shall be sufficient in such presentment or indictment to allege briefly that person has been convicted of a violation or violations of the provisions of this Section.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That the giving away, delivering or handling of intoxicating liquors by any store keeper or at any place of business or the taking or soliciting of orders, or the making of agreements at or within any political subdivision or district while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory" for the sale or delivery or future giving away of any intoxicating liquors or any other shift or devise to evade any provisions of this Act, shall be held to be an unlawful selling.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That places where intoxicating liquors is sold in violation of any provisions of this Act shall be taken and held and are declared to be common nuisances and may be abated as such; and shall be the part of the judgment upon the conviction of the keeper that the place where liquor is found to have been sold contrary to this act be shut up and abated until the keeper shall give bond with sufficient security to be approved by the Court in the penal sum of one thousand dollars ($1000) payable to the State of Maryland conditioned that he will not sell intoxicating liquor contrary to law, and will pay all fines, costs and damages assessed against him for the use of Garrett county for any fine or fines that may be assessed against under this Act.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county are hereby authorized to use any part of the fines and forfeitures collected for the violation of this Act for hiring detectives or secret service officers to secure the enforcement of the same, and when there are no funds available from fines or forfeinures collected for the violation of this Act, such County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appropriate not more than two hundred dollars from the general revenue fund for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That any Supervisor of Election, Judge of Election, police officer or other officer of the law, who shall wilfully refuse or neglect or fail to discharge any duty imposed by this Act, and any one who signs a petition, provided for in this Act, knowing he is not quaified to do so or who files with the Supervisors of Elections any such petition or any sheet or other part thereof, knowing that it contains the signature of a person not qualified to sign the same, or who received, requests or demands, or gives, offers or promises anyreward for signing or refraining from signing of any such petition, or who by treating or giving intoxicating liquors or any thing else of the same or different kind, or by threats to injure another person or property, or by betting or other devise either directly or indirectly, influence or attempt to influence any one to sign or refrain from signing any such petition, shall upon conviction thereof be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200) or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provisions of this section and shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section, for such second and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician to issue a prescription for intoxicating liquors except in writing, or in any case unless the person for it is issued is actually sick, or such liquor is required as a medicine Every prescription for intoxicating liquors shall contain the name and quantity of liquor prescribed; the name of the person for whom prescribed, the date on which the prescription is written and directions for use of the liquor so prescribed and it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician who has been convicted of issuing verbal prescriptions for intoxicating liquors or of issuing prescriptions for intoxicating liquor, knowing the same to be for use as a beverage, or of issuing prescriptions that do not in form comply with this Act, thereafter to issue any prescription for intoxicating liquor for any purpose for a period of two years from the date of such conviction. Every prescription issued in violation of the provisions hereof shall be held to be an unlawful selling and on conviction therefor the person issuing same shall be punished accordingly.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to forbid or prevent the sale within "Anti-Saloon Territory" by a druggist or pharmacist of liquor for medical or sacramental purposes only, or of alcohol for medicine, chemical or mechanical purposes only; not to be drunk upon the premises under any circumstances; provided the following requirements are fully complied with and such druggist or pharmacist in good faith shall keep a true and exact record in book which he shall provide for the purpose, in which shall be entered at the time of every sale of intoxicating liquor made by him, or in and about his place of business to all persons whomsoever, the date of such sale, the name of the purchaser, who shall also sign his name in said book as a part of said entry, and his residence, stating the street and house number if there be such, the kind, quantity and price of such liquor, the purpose for which it was sold; and when the sale is for medicinal purposes, the book shall also contain the name of the physician issuing the prescription therefor. Such prescriptions shall be cancelled by writing on it the words "cancelled" and the date on which it was presented and filled, and kept on file. No prescription shall be filled a second time. Such book shall be in form substantially as follows:

Date	Name of purchaser	Residence	Kind and quality	Purpose of use	Price	Name of physician	Signature of purchaser

and the book and all such prescriptions before provided for shall be open to inspection by any State's Attorney, Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, Judge of any court, or any sheriff, constable or other police officer. Any druggists or pharmacist who shall fail to keep such record, or shall fail or refuse to make any entry therein required by law, or shall destroy or alter or change in any way, any such record or any entry therein or any prescription, or procure the same to be destroyed, altered or changed, or shall refill any prescription or shall refill any prescriptien or shall sell intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes in written prescription or for sacramental purposes without an order signed by a clergyman shall for each sale in violation of the provisions of this Section be deemed guilty of unlawful selling and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a sale by such druggist of such liquor as may be needed by or for a sick person in case of extreme illness, when delay may be dangerous. It shall be unlawful for any druggist or pharmacist who has been convicted of selling intoxicating liquors in violation of this Act thereafter to sell intoxicating liquors for any purpose personally or by agent for two years in any "Anti Saloon Territory" and upon a second conviction for violating the provisions of this Act any such druggist or pharmacist shall have his certificate to practice pharmacy revoked, and the Justice of the Peace or the Judge before whom such druggist or pharmacist is convicted of a second violation of this Act shall so order and send a copy of such order to the Commissioners of Pharmacy, upon receipt of which such certificate shall forthwith be revoked by such Commissioners of pharmacy, and shall not be renewed within one year from the date of such revocation.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person, or public or private carrier to knowingly accept or receive for shipment, transportation or delivery to any person or place within any "Anti-Saloon Territory" or to carry, bring into, transfer to any other person, carrier or agent, handle, deliver or distribute in any "Anti-Saloon Territory" any intoxicating liquor, regardless of the name by which it may be called and whoever shall bring himself or another, either as principal, clerk, agent or servant, knowingly, violate any of the provisions of this Section shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and upon conviction of any subsequent violation of this Section in addition to such fine shall be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than six months. Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to individuals who may bring into any "Anti-Saloon Territory" upon their person or as their personal baggage, and for their private use, such liquor in quantity not to exceed one gallon, nor to physicians or druggists to whom any public carrier may deliver such goods in unbroken packages, in quantity not to exceed five gallons at any one time nor to deliveries to churches, or the proper officers thereof of wine in unbroken packages for sacramental purposes, nor to deliver at private residences which are not places of business or public resorts by manufactures or wholesalers, by their own conveyances in unbroken packages of liquors, the contract for the sale of which was consummated outside of "Anti-Saloon Territory"; nor to deliveries within any city which is not "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent; nor to shipments of liquor in continuous transits to a point outside of such "Anti-Saloon Territory"; this section shall apply to all packages of intoxicating liquor whether broken or unbroken. Each package of intoxicating liquor regardless of the name by which it may be called, accepted, received, carried, transferred, handled, delivered or distributed in violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offence, the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transferring, handling, delivering or distribution of intoxicating liquor under false or fictitious names in an "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall work a forfeiture of such liquor. It is further expressly provided that no provision of this section is intended or shall be construed to violate or be in conflict with any provision of the Constitution and laws of the United States respecting "Inter-State Commerce"; but this section and all parts of same are intended to prohibit the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transfering, handling, delivery or distribution as herein provided, of intoxicating liquor to such extent only as the same is not expressly permitted under the Constitution and laws of the United States. If any provision of this Section shall be held to be void or unconstitutional, it is hereby provided that all other portions of same which are not expressly held to be void or unconstitutional, shall continue in full force and effect.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That all prosecutions for violations of this Act, which are hereby declared to be misdemeanors may be either upon presentment or indictment, or by trial before a Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, who shall have jurisdiction, original and concurrent with the Circuit Court for Garrett county; and the Justice shall have the power to issue all process, and to do all acts which may be necessary to the exercise of his said jurisdiction, and may try and determine all cases whereof he may have jurisdiction, and may pronounce judgment and sentence therein, in the same manner and to the same extent as the Circuit Court for Garrett county, could do in such cases, if such cases were tried before said Court without the intervention of a Jury; provided, however, that if any person, when brought before any justice having jurisdiction of the case, shall before trial for the alleged offence pray a jury trial, or if the State's Attorney for said county, shall before trial of such alleged offence pray a jury trial on the part of the State, it shall be the duty of such Justice to commit such alleged offender for trial, or to hold him to bail to appear for trial the Circuit Court for Garrett county, if it be in session, or at its next session, if it be not in session, and return said commitment or recognizance, with the names and residence of the witnesses for the prosecution endorsed thereon forthwith to the Clerk of said Court; and the Justice before whom the case is brought shall in every such case inform the person charged of his rights to a jury trial.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That in all prosecutions under this Act by indictmhnt or otherwise, it shall not be necessary to state the kind of liquor sold, nor to show the knowledge of the principal to conviet for the acts of an agent or servant; nor to state the name of any person to whom liquor is sold nor to set forth the facts showing that the required number of legal voters petitioned for the submission to the voters of said proposition, nor that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "yes"; but it shall be sufficient to state in that regard that the Act compained of took place in "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district. The issuance of an Internal Revenue Special Tax Stamp or receipt by the United States to any person as a wholesale or retail dealer in liquor or in malt liquor at any place within territory which at the time of the issuance thereof is "Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be prima facia evidence of the sale of intoxicating liquor by such person at such place or at any place of business of such person within such territory where stamps or receipt is posted, and at the time charged in any suit or prosecution under this Act; provided, such time is within the life of such stamp or receipt.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That if any person makes a sworm complaint or affidavit before any Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, or Judge of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, particularly describing the house or place to search and the things to be searched for that he has reasons to believe and does believe that intoxicating liquors are sold or kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act, such Justice of the peace, Judge shall issue his warrant directed to any officer whom the complainant may designate having power to serve criminal process commanding him to search the premises described and designated in such complaint and warrant, and the appurtenances thereof and if any such shall there be found, to take into his possession and safely keep all intoxicating liquors and the vessels in which it is contained if the same shall be found in quantities and under such conditions as to suggest that it is kept for sale and all the means used for the sale of the same, all the paraphanalia or part of the paraphanalia of a bar room or drinking saloon, and any United States Internal Revenue tax receipt for the sale of intoxicating liquors, effective for the period of time covering the alledged offence, and forthwith report in writing all the facts and make immediate return on said warrant. B the warrant for search shall be directed to the proper officer and shall show by a copy of the affidavit inserted therein or annexed and referred to or recite all the material facts alleged in the affidavit and particularly describe the thing to be searched for and place to be searched.

A warrant for search substantially in the following form shall be sufficient,

State of Maryland Garrett county towit:

To ——— Greeting——

Whereas there has been filed with the undersigned an affidavit of which the following is a copy:

here copy affidavit

These are therefore to command you in the name of the State of Maryland together with the necessary and proper assistance to enter into——— (here describe house or place described in the affidavit) of the said ———of———in the county aforesaid and there diligently search for the said intoxicating liquor and means used for the sale of same (here describe the articles as in the affidavit) and that you bring the same or any part thereof found in such search forthwith before me to be disposed of and dealt with according to law. Given under my hand this———day of———A. D.

Such liquor and means used for the sale of same shall be held subject to the order of the Justice of the Peace or Court issuing the warrant to be used as evidence in the prosecution of any case for the violation of this Act. C. If fluids be poured out or otherwise destroyed when the premises are searched or about to be searched, said fluids shall be held prima facie to be intoxicating liquors and intended for sale in violation of this Act. D. If upon final judgment of the Justice of the Peace or Court the accused shall be found guilty, the intoxicating liquor seized from him shall after the time for appeal has expired and if no appeal is taken, be ordered to be destroyed and the other property shall be held as property of the accused or owner. If the accused shall be found not guilty the whole of the property seized shall be returned to the person from whom it was taken. E. When any liquor shall have been seized by virtue of such warrant the same shall not be discharged or returned to any person claiming the same reason of any alleged in sufficiency in the description in the complaint or warrant of the liquor or place; but the claimant shall be entitled to a hearing when the case is tried. F. If no one is found in possession of the premises where intoxicating liquor may be found, the officer taking the same shall post in a conspicuous place on said premises a copy of his warrant and take possession of such liquor and means used for the sale of the same and hold them subject to the order of the Court or Justice of the Peace issuing the warrant and make return of his doings thereon whereupon it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace or Court to fix a time for hearing and determining the purpose for which such liquor is kept and issue a notice thereof to the officer who shall post a copy thereof on the premises where the liquor were found. If no one appears at the time fixed for said hearing, nor within thirty days thereafter, to claim such liquor and means used for the sale of same, the Justice of the Peace or Court shall order the same destroyed. G. No warrant shall be issued to search a private residence occupied as such unless it or some part of it is used as a store or shop, hotel, or boarding house, or unless such residence is a place of public resort. H. The person making affidavit for the warrant to search any place where intoxicating liquor is believed to be disposed of contrary to this Act, may personally or by agent accompany the officer who serves the warrant and enter the place with such officer and give information and assistance to such in searching such places for such intoxicating liquor; J. Liquor seized as hereinbefore provided, and the means used for the sale of the same shall not be taken from the custody of the officer by a writ of replevin or other process while the proceedings herein provided are pending, and final judgment of conviction in such proceedings shall be in all cases a bar to all suits for the recovery of any liquor seized or the value of the same, or damages alleged to arise by reason of the seizing and detention thereof. K. When any prosecution is commenced before any Justice of the Peace or Court for a violation of this Act, and the liquor seized under this section is to be used as evidence in such trial, the hearing must take place in not more than thirty days if such Court be then in session, and if it be not in session if at the time appointed for the trial the returns have not been properly made, or for other sufficient cause, the trial may be postponed to a further date, not more than fifteen days beyond said thirty days. L. The word liquor when used in this Section unless the same be inconsistent with the context, shall be construed to include the vessels containing the same. The phrase "means used for the sale of same" shall include all furniture, implements, or paraphernalia of a bar-room or drinking saloon or any part of same, and any United States internal revenue tax receipt effective for the period of time covering the alleged offense.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, that any five legal voters of any political sub-division in which an election shall have been held as provided for in this Act may, within ten days after the canvass of the returns of such election, and upon filing a bond for costs in a penalty to be fixed by the presiding judge, and with a surety or sureties to be approved by him, contest the validity of such election by filing a verified petition in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, setting forth the grounds for the contest. Upon the filing of such petition a summons shall forthwith issue from such Court addressed to the supervisors of elections with whom the petition for such election was filed, notifying such supervisors of election, of the filing of said petition and directing them to appear in such Court on behalf of such political sub-division at the time named in the summons, which time shall be not less than five nor more than fifteen days after the filing of such petition. The procedure in such cases shall be the same as that provided by law for contesting an election to a public office, so far as the same is applicable. The said Court shall have final jurisdiction to hear and determine the merits of such cases. Any legal voter in the political sub-division in which such election shall have been held, may be permitted by the Court in its description to appear in person or by attorney in any such contested election case in defence of the validity of such election.

SEC. 25. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall apply to the incorporated town of Oakland.

SEC. 26. And be it further enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6th, 1908.

Order of Publication.

Della Lynch and Edward Lynch, Plaintiffs,
vs.
Loyolen McKinzie, Anna McKinzie, Noah McKinzie, Inez McKinzie, Annie McKinzie, Helen Walker, Robert Walker, Dora McKinzie, Richard McKinzie, George McKinzie, Rose McKinzie, Laura McKinzie, Peter McKinzie, Dora McKinzie, Lucy McKinzie, Nancy Robison and Olin Robison, Defendants.

No. 138 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate devised in the last will and testament of Francis McKinzie, deceased, late of Garrett county, for the purpose of partition among the parties entitled to interest therein.

The bill states that on or about the ——— day of March, in the year 1896, the said Francis McKinzie departed this life leaving a last will and testament, devising his real estate to his wife during her natural life, and then to his children share and share alike; that the said widow of the said Francis McKinzie departed this life about one year ago, and that he left as his only heirs under his said last will and testament, the following children: Loyolen McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Annie McKinzie; Noah McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Inez McKinzie; Annie McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Dora McKinzie, his daughter, intermarried with Richard McKinzie; George McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Rose McKenzie; Laura McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Lucy McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Nancy Robison, his daughter, intermarried with Olin Robison, all of Garrett county, State of Maryland; Della Lynch, his daughter, intermarried with Edward Lynch; Peter McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Dora McKinzie, all of Allegany county, State of Maryland; Heien Walker, his daughter, intermarried with Robert Walker, of Salisbury, Somerset county, State of Pennsylvania; that all of said children are adults. That said real estate consists of a farm and cannot be divided among the parties entitled to interest therein, without loss and injury.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of said real estate and for a distribution of the proceeds thereof among the parties entitled thereto, according to their respective interests therein; for general relief; for subpoena against the resident defendants and an order of publication against non resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 4th day of May, in the year 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Equity, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 8th day of June, 1908, giving notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 22nd day of June, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
5-4t E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

Subscribe for the Republican.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1908. NUMBER 12

MEMORIAL DAY IN OAKLAND.

Annual Decoration of the Graves of the Honored Dead.

Crook Post No. 35, Grand Army of the Republic, desires that there be a general turnout of the citizens, public school children and all organized bodies of the town, and visitors from the surrounding country are also invited to participate with the Post on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30th, in decorating the graves of the noble dead who have answered the last roll call and are now resting in our cemeteries. Rev. E. Manges of the Lutheran church, an old soldier himself, will deliver the address.

Crook Post will assemble at Sturgiss' Hall at 10.30 o'clock and proceed to the cemetery where the beautiful ritual of the order will be carried out.

Donations of flowers will be thankfully received and can be left at Sturgiss' drug store.

By order of the Post,

A. G. STURGISS,
Commander.

J. A. HAYDEN,
Adjutant.

BITTINGER.

A severe electrical storm passed over this region last Sunday and there was considerable fall of rain and some hail.

Miss Jennie Wyland, who has been employed in J. T. Lohr's home for some weeks, was taken suddenly and seriously ill on last Sunday and Drs. Bowen and Robinson were called, and it is reported that the young lady is suffering from an attack of pneumonia-fever.

Albert Bittinger is putting spouting on John Stark's residence this week.

Mrs. Harmon, the aged mother of J. B. Harmon, fell from a porch at her home one day last week and dislocated her thigh and sustained other injuries, and her condition is critical.

John H. Stark made a business trip to Confluence, Pa., last week and while there purchased a desirable property.

County Commissioner Otto Fike with his wife and little daughter, passed through this village last week.

Thompson Seibert, an aged veteran of the civil war and a resident of this section, has been granted a pension of $12 per month.

F. L. Snyder, of Frostburg, was visiting about here last week.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: Jesus Risen from the Dead.—John 20, 1-18.

All members of the Y. M. C. S. are urged to be present Sunday, May 24, at 4 o'clock p. m.

CRAZY, KILLS WIFE GETS SANE AGAIN

Rev. S. A. Coffman, M. E. Clergyman, Cuts His Companion's Throat.

SURRENDERS AT ONCE TO POLICE

Had Been Conducting Series of Revival Meetings at Fairmont—Was Married in Oakland July 18, 1906, by Rev. J. B. Workman.

FAIRMONT, W. Va., May 18.—Temporary insane, according to his own statement, the Rev. S. A. Coffman, aged 50 years, a prominent Methodist Episcopal clergyman, killed his wife early today by cutting her throat from ear to ear. A moment after the crime, he says, he regained his senses and realized what he had done. He immediately surrendered himself and was locked up.

Rev. Mr. Coffman resides at Rosstown, about three miles from here, and is in charge of two or three local churches. His wife was a member of a prominent family, and was 43 years old. During the past week or two Rev. Mr. Coffman has been conducting a series of revival services and has been adding to the membership of the churches under his care. Yesterday he finished his revival and appeared to be well pleased with the result. About midnight he and his wife were discussing the services, when he suddenly seized a poker and began striking her on the head.

There was a struggle, during which Mrs. Coffman succeeded in escaping from the house to a garden at the rear. She was followed closely, however, by her husband, and when he caught up with her another battle for her life took place, when she was overpowered. Rev. Mr. Coffman had taken a knife with him when he followed his wife to the garden, and when he had her powerless in his grasp he cut her throat from ear to ear, causing instant death.

According to the statement made by Rev. Mr. Coffman, when he looked on the lifeless body of his wife his sanity was immediately restored and he realized what he has done. He came here and surrendered himself to the police. Rev. Mr. Coffman said it had been his intention to kill not only his wife, but also his family and himself.

Rev. and Mrs. Coffman were married in Oakland by Rev. J. B. Workman, of St. Paul's M. E. church, on July 18th, 1906. Mrs. Coffman at the time of the wedding being a Deaconess attached to the Deaconess' Home at Mountain Lake Park, her maiden name being Miss Lily Elliott, a daughter of late Rev. and Mrs. Felix Elliott, of Kingwood, West Va., and a sister of Messrs. Felix and Edward S. Elliott, both of Kingwood, the latter at one time being assistant United States Attorney for for the district of West Virginia. Mrs. Coffman is well known to many Garrett countians. Mr. Coffman was at one time stationed at Blaine, West Va., where he preached and was looked upon at that time as a man of very peculiar views.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Parson Westfall and wife are in Baltimore, attending the General Conference of the M. E. church.

Mrs. Cora Bishoff and daughter, Mrs. Allie Haymand and Mr. 'Gene Commeford, of Fairmont, W. Va., opened up their cottages last Friday.

Mrs. W. J. Havmond, of Clay Center, Kansas, is at home in her cottage in Cozy Row.

Miss Rose Wilson took No. 2 Tuesday morning for a visit to Baltimore.

Mrs. Capt. Cocheran, of Wheeling, arrived at Loch Lynn Tuesday on No. 8.

J. Power Allen and wife, of Cumberland, Md., and Mrs. H. K. Fulton, of Washington, D. C., reached the Park last Monday.

Merchant Garthright visited Lonaconing last Saturday.

It is a boy. The father's name is Rosely C. Wilson. Happy? I should say! Mother and child doing well.

Miss Decker and Mrs. Perine and daughter, of New York, took possession of the Bates cottage last Friday.

Major Burns and family have opened their summer home on I street.

Mr. John Turner, of Baltimore, took in the Park last Sabbath.

W. C. Dunnington and family, and Mr. T. B. Guest, of Philippi, W. Va., are quartered in Hotel Chautauqua.

Miss Tanneyhill, of Wheeling, is a guest at Hotel Faherty, Loch Lynn.

Mrs. Howard Smouse, of Fairmont, W. Va., is a guest of the Pennsylvania cottage, Loch Lynn.

Chas. Washington, who spent the winter at Fairmont, has returned to his Loch Lynn home.

Mr. A. E. White and family, of Terra Alta, have moved into the second floor of Mr. Joseph Rathbun's house, Loch Lynn.

J. E. Hardesty, of Terra Alta, is clerking for P. T. Garthright of this place. Mr. H. and family have moved into the Jarboe cottage.

FROM ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

A large party of our handsomest young ladies, and some not so young, accompanied Pastor Westfall to Bond, Md., Thursday of last week to attend a box social given by the ladies of the M. E. church of that place. This was the second visit for most of the party. They all speak in the highest terms of the kindness shown them by Mr. N. U. Bond and the people of the entire town. Some even expressed a desire to make Bond their future home.

Among late arrivals we note Mrs. McKinney and Mr. L. P. Carr and family.

Mr. E. W. Williams and family, of Clarksburg, W. Va., will occupy their cottage here the last of this week.

Our good neighbor of Loch Lynn, Mr. George P. White, we are sorry to say is quite ill at present.

There is a talk of changing the name of our postoffice from Mountain Lake Park to Loch Lynn, as the office since the burning of our postoffice building has been located on that side of the railroad, and there is no evidence of the erection of a building on the Mountain Lake Park side. Those desiring a change of name hope thereby to get Sunday mail and possibly Sunday trains

Miss Sallie C. Harris arrived at the Park Wednesday and will soon have her fine hotel in order for summer guests.

Weather Forecast for Week Sent Out.

The weather Bureau in Washington has issued the following general forecast:

During the next seven days the temperature will be about or somewhat above the seasonal average generally over interior and eastern portions of the country.

In the Middle Atlantic and New England States a period of showery weather will prevail on Tuesday and clear away on Wednesday. Saturday and Sunday will cover another period of showers in these states. The intervening days promise to be fair.

In the Ohio and Upper Mississippi Valley and the Lake Region the rains of Monday will be followed on Tuesday by clearing, and the next rain period will begin on Thursday night or Friday and continue about 24 hours.

In the Middle and Upper Missouri and Red River of the North Valleys showers are indicated for Wednesday or Thursday and again on Saturday or Sunday.

Over the Southern States the weather on the whole promises to be settled and fair.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS OFF.

Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company's Offer Successful Resistance.

The condemnation proceedings instituted by the Manor Land and Oakland Railroad Company, of which Samuel A. Kendall is president, against the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company, of Garrett county, came to a sudden termination at Friendsville Friday, when Sheriff Austin Brown requested the jury not to consider the matter further. The strip desired to be acquired, five miles in length, was one of the longest in a single proceeding in the history of Maryland. The proceedings were dropped at the instance of the plaintiff, who has been using the right of way under lease for the operation of a narrow guage railroad. The company has the most extensive lumber plant in Western Maryland and the railroad is the means of reaching the timber tract. The term of the lease for the right of way expired two years ago, and it was thereupon extended for a term of two years. The lease terminated last Monday.

The Manor Land and Oakland Railroad Company sought to acquire the right of way perpetually by condemnation. The Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company decided to resist the action. Thomas J. Peddicord, Esq., of Oakland, represented the plaintiff in the suit and DeWarren H. Reynold, Esq., of Cumberland, the defendant. The strip which the plaintiff desired to acquire lies along the bank of the Youghiogheny River which is known to have water power, because of the physical formation of its bed, that few streams in the country possess. Mr. Reynold had summoned as witnesses James P. Gaffney, chief engineer of the Norfolk and Southern Railway Company; J. W. Galbreath, of Baltimore, former chief engineer of the West Virginia Central and Pittsburg Railway Company, and James C. Shriver, a well known civil engineer of Cumberland. It was intended to show by expert opinion that should the land be acquired by the plaintiff and the railroad maintained that it would tend to destroy the development of the water power of the Youghiogheny river. Damage of such magnitude would have been shown that, it is understood, the plaintiff abandoned the suit, rather than meet a contingency that looked like a burden. The Manor Land and Oakland Railroad Company will be permitted to operate its road through the lands for the present, the defendant through Attorney Reynolds stating that it desired to put no obstacle in the way of the development of its immense timber interests. The Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company owns 10,000 acres in Garrett county, lying on either side of the Youghiogheny river. Mr. Jacob S. Myers, member of the last Maryland legislature was foreman of the jury of condemnation. The other members being George D. Frazee, Arthur Chisholm, William Frederick, Jr., George Kolb, Salathiel Savage, Robert R. Liston, Edward Schlossnagle, Walter Coddington, Leon Hardie, Lloyd Reckner and W. W. Schlossnagle. The jury went over the property on Thursday and met Friday morning to reach a decision when the proceedings were called off by the attorney of the plaintiff.

Married.

Mr. John Garrett, of Oakland, Md., and Mrs. Virginia Duncan, of this place, were united in marriage on Thursday at high noon by Rev. Engle of Oakland. The ceremony took place at the home of Mrs. P. K. Smith, Mineral street.

After Rev. Engle had performed the wedding ceremony and the happy couple had been congratulated they were invited to the dining room with ten of their immediate friends where they partook of a sumptuous dinner, prepared by Mrs. Smith.

After visiting for a few days they will go to Mr. Garrett's farm near Oakland, where they will reside.

Among those who attended the wedding from out of town were Mr. George Garrett and Miss Sines, of Oakland, and Mrs. Hiram Tasker of Wilson.—Keyser Echo.

BOND—VEACH—At the M. P. parsonage, Cumberland, Md., on Tuesday of this week by Rev. B. W. Kindley, Miss Carrie Rebecca Veach, of Oakland, and Mr. George Edward Bond, of Hooversville, Pa., were married in the presence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Annie R. Veach, and Mrs. Ella Miller and Mrs. J. C. Peddicord, who went to Cumberland from Oakland Tuesday morning where the party met the groom. From Cumberland the wedded pair went to Hooversville, their future home. The bride is a most highly respected young lady and numbers among her friends many Oakland people who will join with us in wishing her a happy life.

Call for Your Letters.

Miss Allison Coulter, Mr. A. E. Crowe, Mrs. Cora Custer, Mr. Charles G. Drummond, Mr. A. A. McNay, Mr. Arcy Wheatly.

KITZMILLER TO HAVE A MODERN BANK BUILDING

First National Bank of That Place to Erect a Substantial Structure

WHICH WILL COST ABOUT $8,000

Growth of the Bank's Business Demands More Room and Better Quarters Than Those Now Occupied—Building Plans Being Made.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Kitzmiller, held a few days ago, it was decided to erect a modern up-to-date banking building on a lot already secured by the bank for the purpose, the growing business of the bank and the community of Kitzmiller, the town itself promising to exceed in population and importance that of any other town along the Upper Potomac, making it incumbent upon the bank's officers to provide more room and better equipment for the transaction of business and for the convenience of the bank's officials.

Looking to this end an architect has been engaged to draw plans for the proposed building and submit the same at a future meeting of the Board of Directors, when they will likely be adopted.

The structure will be of brick and stone, two stories high, and will be equipped with burglar and fire proof vaults. The estimated cost will be in the neighborhood of $8,000.

The bank is to be congratulated upon the strides it has taken since its organization two years ago. It has been phenomenal, due to the energy and thoroughness of its officers.

STOYER.

The rain has ceased and we have been having bright, sunny days again.

We are sorry to learn our old friend at Deal Siding, Mr. Luchis, is dead. He was well up in years.

Mrs. George Price and family returned home from a long visit to Frostburg.

Mrs. Geo. Farris, who has been sick for some time, is able to be up again.

Mrs. Maggie Sollars will move to Schell next week to run a boarding house.

Miss Effie Ohaver and her brother Robert were calling in town Sunday.

Messrs. Alex and Tom Wilson, of near Blaine, were here last week.

Bessie and Virgil Steyer made a trip to Wallman last Sunday.

Mr. Sam Moreland purchased two fine driving horses last week. He also got a new two horse carriage. So we all can look for Sam.

MEMORIAL DAY AT FRIENDSVILLE

Appropriate Observances of the Day Will Be In Charge of the G. A. R.

Sherman Post No. 11, Grand Army of the Republic, desires that there be a general turnout of the citizens, public school children, Sunday schools, and all organized bodies of the town and surrounding country are also invited to participate with the Post on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30, in decorating the graves of the noble dead who are now resting in our cemeteries. Addresses and appropriate music will be rendered in the Methodist Episcopal church in Friendsville.

All participants will please assemble in front of the Lutheran church at 9.45 and march to the M. E. church where exercises will be held both forenoon and afternoon, and a detail will be made to decorate the graves in the nearby cemeteries.

Donation of flowers will be thankfully received and can be left in the M. E. church.

R. E. FRIEND,
Commander.

GEO. E. BISHOFF,
Adjutant.

Weather Predictions.

"Mans" Baughman, the somewhat noted weather prognosticator of Somerset county, Pennsylvania, has given to the Meyersdale Republican his prediction for the coming summer as follows: "There will be a noticeable absence of electrical storms, and will have no real warm weather until about the first of August. There will be a severe frost in June and of the variety known as "black frost." This damaging frost will occur, as nearly as he can calculate either the forepart or middle of June, and will do most execution in Somerset county, portions of the eastern part of Pennsylvania, and all of the states of Texas, California and Michigan. He also says that there are two feet of snow back yet, though the form of its precipitation may be in rain in portions as southerly as Somerset county. He said fruit crop would be about half crop, and wound up by stating that this would positively be the last prediction this year."

Locusts Says Big Crop.

Correspondents of the Valley newspapers says an old sign universally accepted in this section promises a bumper corn crop this fall. Heavy locust bloom, they say, means a great yield of corn and old men asserts that they have never seen the locust bear more profusely than this year. Also the bees are busy and singing in the trees, and the outlook for honey is fine.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

Subscribe for The Republican.

DIXON & KELSO

EVERY DAY
IS BARGAIN DAY
AT
Dixon & Kelso's.

Please note the following items that we have reduced for this week:

Lot of remnants of Matting at half price; also new prices of Matting, Linoleum and Carpet reduced.

Lot of Ladies' Muslin Underwear at 50 per cent. off.

Ladies' Wrappers that sold for $1.00 and $1.25, your choice for 89 cents.

We will save you 25 per cent. on Misses' and Ladies' Dress Skirts and Waists.

Ladies' 12 1-2c Vests at 8c., or 3 for 25c.

P. S. Will pay highest market price for WOOL.

Come and See
DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing
For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

THE CAPTORS OF CROOK AND KELLY

More That Forty Survivors of the Daring Party That Invaded Cumberland.

Mr. Editor:—Having spent several years in the self-imposed task of making up a list of all those who participated in the capture of the Federal Generals Crook and Kelly, at Cumberland, Maryland, February 21st, 1865, and same having been completed, I take pleasure in now giving to the readers of the Grant County Press who may be interested, the result of my labors.

A perusal of this list discloses the remarkable fact that of the sixty-six men, including Lieut. McNeill, who rode through two lines of pickets into the heart of the city of Cumberland then occupied by nearly 8000 troops and rode out with two major generals and one adjutant general on that memorable night just forty-three years ago, there are today more than forty survivors.

This list has been established and verified by evidence of the most conclusive character, and while it is possible that one or two names (not more) are omitted that should appear, and a corresponding number are on the list that should not be there, I do not think that at this late day a more accurate roll can now be made.

J. B. FAY.

The full list (including last known address of each soldier) is as follows:

Of McNeill's Rangers C. S. A., numbering forty-eight men and officers—

Lieut. Jesse C. McMeill, Seymour, Ill.

Lieut. I. S. Welton, Petersburg, W. Va.

Sergt. Harrison Taylor.

Sergt. Jos. L. Vandiver, Millwood, W. Va.

Sergt. Chas. James Dailey, Oakland, Md.

Sergt. Isaac S. Judy, Laneville, W. Va.

Sergt. David E. Hopkins, Goldthwaite, Texas.

Sergt. John H. Cunningham, San Jose, Ill.

John Ackler, Edom, Va.

Joseph V. Barnum, St. Louis, Mo.

Frederick W. Bean, Romney, W. Va.

George Carrell.

David Cowgar.

James W. Crawford, Cumberland, Md.

W. Wallace Chisholm, Silver City, N. Mex.

Samuel Daugherty, Yoakum, Tex.

Jefferson W. Duffey, Harrisonburg, Va.

John B. Fay, Washington, D.C.

C. Ritchie Hollar, Kansas City, Mo.

Geo. S. Harness, Petersburg, W. Va.

John L. Harvey, Gorman, Md.

William D. Hoye, Deer Park, Md.

David Judy, Mansfield, Ark.

George Little, Seymoursvile, W. Va.

Robert G. Lobb, Washington, Pa.

John R. Long, Louisville, Ky.

Sprigg S. Lynn, La.

James W. Mason, Oakland, Md.

Wm. H. Maloney, Romney, W. Va.

J. W. Markwood, Burlington, W. Va.

James McGinnis, Brushy Run, W. Va.

Isaac Michael.

Charles W. Nichols, Oakland, Md.

Isaac E. Oats, Elk Garden, W. Va.

William H. Pool, Blaine, W. Va.

B. Frank Richards, Harrisonburg, Va.

Oliver L. Rhodes, Baltimore, Md.

Frederick A. Stewart, Baltimore, Md.

B. William Spalding, White Plains.

Samuel H. Shafer, Laneville, W. Va.

Henry Seymour, Manhattan, Kan.

J. Snyder Stickley, Magnolia, W. Va.

Harlan P. Tabb, Obequon, Va.

Samuel S. Tucker, Pittsburg, Pa.

Henry M. Trueheart, Galveston, Tex.

Geo. V. Vandiver, Higginsville, Mo.

Charles W. Watkins, Moorefield, W. Va.

Benjamin F. Wotring, Bayard, W. Va.

Of Co. "F", Seventh Virginih Cavalry—eight men.

John S. Arnold, Ridgeville, W. Va.

Hiram R. Allen, Otterville, Mo.

George F. Cunningham, Oldtown, Md.

Leslie Davis.

George W. Everett, Purgitsville, W. Va.

Jacob Gassman, Lexington, Va.

Geo. Harness Johnson, Romney, W. Va.

Jos. W. Kuykendall, Petersburg, W. Va.

Of Co. "G" Seventh Virginia Cavalry.

Richard S. Merryman, Baltimore, Md.

Of Co. "D" Eleventh Virginia Cavalry—six men.

John Daily, Piedmout, W. Va.

Joseph S. Pancake, Staunton, Va.

John David Parsons, Shaw, Kan.

John W. Poland, Romney, W. Va.

Joseph L. Sherrark, Drozet, Va.

John Taylor, Romney, W. Va.

Maynadier T. Bruce, Dallas, Tex.

Alex. Carlisle.

—— Wilburn.

—From the Grant County Press.

PURE WATER SUPPLY VITAL.

Health of a Community is Very Largely Dependent Upon It.

Too many precautions cannot be taken toward guarding the water supply of a town. Along this line Edward Wegmann says in the Metropolitan Magazine:

The health of a community depends largely upon the purity of its water supply. Formerly it was thought that water in which chemistry failed to find any noxious elements was fit for domestic use, but in recent years the science of bacteriology has demonstrated that such water may contain the germs of dangerous diseases. These germs increase very rapidly in number and are often communicated by the contamination of a source of water supply from one infected person to a whole community. Such a case occurred in 1884-5 in Plymouth, Pa. A man who had contracted typhoid fever in Philadelphia was nursed during the winter in a house near a mountain brook which flowed into a river from which Plymouth derived its water supply. The refuse from the sickroom was thrown on the snow near the house without being disinfected. As cold weather does not kill disease germs, the typhoid germs were washed in the spring by the melting of the snow into the mountain stream referred to above, and as a consequence more than 1,000 cases of typhoid fever and about 100 deaths from this disease occurred in Plymouth, these cases being all confined to persons drinking the polluted water.

In 1892 Hamburg, Germany, was visited by a terrible epidemic of cholera. This city derives its water supply from the river Elbe. At the time of the epidemic the river water without being filtered was used for domestic purposes. It has been proved beyond question that the germs of cholera were communicated to the city's water supply by throwing into the river the excreta of a sailor who was sick with cholera on a vessel anchored in the Elbe. Nearly 9,000 persons died of cholera in Hamburg during this epidemic, but in Altona, a suburb of Hamburg, using Elbe water that had been filtered through sand, not a case of cholera occurred that could be traced to the drinking of the unfiltered water of Hamburg.

DREDGE THAT SUCKS UP CLAY.

Powerful Machine in Operation on Lake Michigan.

In the excavation of harbor channels and the removal of sand bars in rivers wonderful work has been done in the last few years with the suction dredge. This device consists of a pump, capable of drawing in through a huge pipe sand, small stones and water, and forcing a stream of the compound to a considerable distance. Some times it is discharged into a hopper on the barge which carries the pump, but usually the mixture is deposited at a convenient point on the adjacent shore. Thus the building up of a bank, where such an operation is desirable, can be carried on simultaneously with that of digging. When the material is delivered at a distance, it is forced through a second pipe that floats on scows or pontoons.

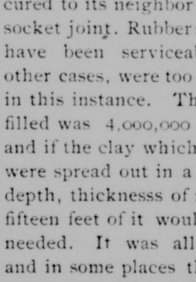
One of the most recent undertakings with such methods, is the filling in of a wide area on the waterfront of Chicago. This measured a mile in length by nearly a third of a mile (1,500 feet) in width. It was bounded by a stone breakwater composed of rock removed along the route of the Chicago Drainage Canal. It was purposod to cover the region with clay dug from the bottom in the immediate vicinity. For the performance of the work a dredging boat 148 feet long, 38 feet wide and 10½ feet deep was designed. It was equipped with a pump having a 30-inch suction pipe and discharge pipe, and an engine of 1200 horsepower. A rotary cutter, nine feet in diameter, and provid- with eight blades, served to loosen the material on the bottom. So successful was its action that many pieces four or five feet long were found in the discharge.

The dredge could be used only in favorable weather. When the lake was likely to be rough the floating pipe line was disconnected and towed to a safe place near the shore by steam tugs. The exact length of the discharge pipe is not indicated in the reports now at hand, but in was composed of sections 100 feet long, each being secured to its neighbor by a ball and socket joint. Rubber sleeves, which have been serviceable in many other cases, were too tender for use in this instance. The space to be filled was 4,000,000 cubic yards, and if the clay which went into it were spread out in a layer of even depth, thicknesss of nearly nearly fifteen feet of it would have been needed. It was all under water, and in some places the depth was as great as eighteen feet. The work was still in progress at last accounts, but going on successfully.

The designer of the Chicago dredge, A. W. Robinson, of Montreal, had had much experience in planning similar machinery. One of the dredges, employed on Lake St. Peter (in the St. Lawrence River) is said to have excavated 750,000 cubic yards of clay in a single month, and to have delivered it 2,000 feet away—nearly half a mile. The volume of material here mentioned would make a layer measuring about seven-eights of a square mile and a foot thick.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

A Business Proposition



Did you ever stop to think, Mr. Business Man, that the news of your business is as much a part of the local events as a wedding or a church fair? The ladies are just as much interested in a new fabric you have on the shelves as they are in any home happening. Your store news and anouncements in these columns will reach a large circle of eager buyers. This will enable you to sell your goods while they are new and fresh and you will not have to sacrifice later at remnant counter prices. Think it over.

DREARY VIGIL ON DESERT ISLAND.

Cable Company's Operators at Midway Islands Have Lonesom Job —Soil Taken From Hawaii.

Honolulu, T. H., May 13.—In order that a few flowers and a small patch of green grass may grow and so relieve the terrible monotomy of dazzling white sand, the Pacific Commercial Cable Company's auxiliary schooner Flaurence Ward sailed from this port recently with fifty tons of good soil as a part of her cargo for that barren rock in the Pacific known as Midway Island.

This is not the first shipment of soil which has been sent to Midway and as a result the little handful of employes of the Cable Company find some relief in cultivating in most painstaking and careful manner strongly suggestive of the play of children, but it serves to occupy the mind as well as the hands of men whose enforced isolation might otherwise become unendurable.

About a month ago the U. S. Naval authorities withdrew the fifteen or twenty marines which had been stationed there for a year past, and now only the cable company's operators and three or four laborers make up the isolated little colony. There's a life which for monotony is probably not exceeded by human beings anywhere on earth. For six months or longer at a stretch they see no other human being, for vessels usually give the isolated rock a wide berth, especially since the big Pacific Mail liner Mongolia went ashore there a year and a half ago and was nearly lost.

The islet is so barren that nothing will grow in the sand except a coarse variety of grass, unless it is mixed with soil imported, and only the unpretentions buildings of the cable company serves to break the monotony of sea and sky and glaring white of the sand.

About twice a year the Florence Ward makes the trip from Honolulu carrying food and supplies to the little colony. This round trip usually requires forty days.

Midway is about 1800 miles northwest from Honolulu and geographically is classed as the northernmost islets of the Hawaiian group. Besides the main island which is only a little over a mile long and rises at the highest point scarcely forty feet above the ocean, there are several smaller bits of sand which go under the general name of Midway from their position between Honolulu and Asia. The larger of the islands is sometimes called Sand Island.

Midway has a somewhat gruesome history, a number of wrecks having occurred there, and in 1887 the crew of a vessel cast ashore lived there for fourteen months before rescued. They suffered great hardship and lost several of their number by scurvy. Capt. H. A. Walker, who commanded the vessel, and with him at the time his wife and a number of children. The family has since lived in Honolulu.

WILL J. COOPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

MENTAL FERTILITY.

The Error of a Hasty Estimate Fully Shown.

When Dr. Osler, then of Baltimore, but now of Oxford, England, made his startling declaration about three years ago that a man's usefulness is limited by the age of forty it was received with widespread skepticism. It was possible in a few minutes for any well informed person to bring to mind so many exceptions to what was here laid down as a rule among distinguished poets, artists, scientists, statesmen and philosophers that the statement seemed to have been made without due reflection, if not to be absolutely unwarranted. Doubts as to its accuracy, possibly combined with other motives, impelled Dr. W. A. Newman Dorland to undertake an inquiry, the results of which were presented in "The Century Magazine" for April. An appeal is made to history to substantiate or disprove the theory referred to. The blographies of no fewer than four hundred of the world's chief workers and thinkers have been consulted for light on the subject. Such a method admits of a trustworthy statistical reply to Dr. Osler. In adopting it Dr. Dorland has performed a valuable bit of service.

It was found to be necessary at the outside to discriminate between men of action and men of thought, between those in which the emotional nature was transcendent and those in whom a profound mentality was the great characteristic. The former quality usually manifests itself, Dr. Dorland shows, sooner than the latter. Hence, the age at which one class of genius is manifest is often earlier than that of another. It appears from Dr. Dorland's figures that the famous musical composers began their important work at the average age of seventeen, while that of satirists and eminent humorists was delayed until thirty-two. The average age for all classes included in his comprehensive survey is twenty-four, and this represents pretty fairly the commencement of real achievement by chemists, physicians and inventors. Actors and warriors distinguish themselves at an earlier age, and mathematicians, philosophers and reformers generally attain a riper one before making their mark.

To say exactly when a great man's career culminates, or, in other words, to select his most precious contribution to civilization, is extremely difficult in many cases. An opinion of this sort often demands a critical judgment of rare excellence, and it might not go unchallenged. The estimate which one generation placed on a given deed, moreover, might differ from that of the next. Nevertheless, Dr. Dorland has undertaken to perform the task, and is led to conclude that for the performance of their master work the average age of the four hundred men included in his study is fifty. Here, as in the beginning of their careers, a rather wide range is observable. The average for chemists and physicians, for instance, is forty-one; for poets and inventors, forty-four; for physicians and surgeons, fifty-two; for philosophers, fifty-four, and for naturalists and jurists, fifty-eight.

Obviously a man's usefulness is liable to continue for a sensible period after his most valuable service has been rendered. What seems to be the most instructive deduction from Dr. Dorland's figures is that the average duration of marked mental fertility is forty years. If, then, the age of twenty-four be taken as the mean starting point, productiveness might reasonably be expected to continue until the age of sixty-four is reached, and not to stop at forty. Another way of stating the same truth is to declare that 78¼ per cent of the illustrious four hundred under consideration closed their life work between the ages of fifty and eighty years.

The argument is reinforced by seventy-three specific instances—fully one-sixth of the total number of cases studied—in which remarkable achievements were recorded at ages ranging from seventy to 103! Commodore Vanderbilt, Handel, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Gladstone, Socrates and Titian are a few of the geniuses thus cited for purposes of illustration.

Many influences have contributed to the happy result under discussion. Among them are good health, cheerfulness, enthusiasm, ambition and opportunity. If, with such aid, men of note have prolonged their fruitful mental activity nearly to or long past the Scriptural term of life, why may not less distinguished mortals, with similar resources, attain similar ends? Indeed, is it not permissible also to ask, will not the agencies now tending to prolong human life—personal hygiene, public sanitary precautions and a better understanding of the ways to which disease may be averted—serve to carry forward the point at which usefulness to one's day and generation will cease?

INGENUITY AND WILLING SACRIFICE.

How Southern Women Survived During the War and Made Things do.

Not the only heroes of war were those who bore the muskets and sword. The women and children who stayed at home and kept up heart in spite of the privation of seige are to be numbered among the valiant. A glimpse of some of the Southern domestic economies during the Civil War is given by Miss M. J. Walsh in her personal recollections printed by the Mississippi Historical Society.

Among the glorious achievements of that time the makeshifts at home deserve recognition, for they represented ingenuity and willing sacrifice. As various articles gave out, substitutes were found. If no substitute could be invented for an article, we simply did without.

Coffee, the southerner's daily beverage, was manufactured from parched corn, burnt corn bread, even burnt molasses. Sweet potatoes cut into small squares, dried, parched and ground were also used. The stimulating effect was lacking but it was all the better for our nerves. For tea, young raspberry leaves, dried, were used.

Sugar was a serious problem, and molasses was as precious as sugar.

"What will we do when the present supply of Louisiana molasses gives out?" was the burning question, and the only answer was "Do without!"

Grits were eaten for rice. When we wanted soda we swept the fireplace clean and burned corn cobs.

Mustard and pepper were made of home-grown products. Salt was costly. Every bit was shaken off of dry pork used. All brine was boiled down and dried; still the supply grew lower and lower. Some one discovered that the dirt floors of the old smokehouses were salt-mines, so to speak. The dirt was put in hoppers and run down, the brine boiled and dried.

All new cloth had to be manufactured at home from raw material. The dyestuffs were made from roots, bark, walnuts and indigo.

Shoes were rough affairs made from the hides of beeves, cured by the negroes. Buttons were made of coarse thread and persimmon seeds. Caps were cut out of cloth, and hats plaited from palmetto.

Letters were written on the blank leaves of books, the wrong side of wall paper scraps or old envelopes turned and pasted together.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION

38 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.

W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

CHAPTER 649.

AN ACT to prohibit the granting of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain prescribed territory of Garrett County and to provide for the creation by popular vote of Anti-Saloon territory within Garrett County, within which territory, except as herin provided, the sale of intoxicating liquors and the licensing of such sale shall be prohibited for the enforcement of prohibition, in such territory, and for the abolution by like means of the territory so created.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the words and phrases mentioned in this section as used in this Act and in proceedings pursuant hereto, shall unless the same be inconsistent with the context be construed as follows: "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall mean all territory within the limits of Garrett county, or any election district, city, town, village or ward in said county in which through the action the legal voters therein, as provided by this Act, the sale of intoxicating liquors except as herein provided, is prohibited; city, town or village shall mean an incorporated city, town or village as the case may be, "political sub-division" shall mean county, election district, city, town, village or ward; district shall mean territory in which after the same has become Anti-Saloon Territory, the limits of political sub-division has been changed. "Law" shall include public General Laws, Public Local Laws and all municipal ordinances; in the phrase shall this become "Anti Saloon Territory," the proper designation whether "county" "election district" "city" "town" "village" or ward shall be understood to be inserted in the the blanks, and the same shall be inserted in the petitions, filed by and the ballots prepared for the voters of any county, election district, city, town, village or ward; said proposition shall mean the proposition: shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward, as the case may be, become "Anti Saloon Territory"; "Supervisors of Elections" shall mean the Board of Supervisors of Elections of Garrett county; legal voter or voters shall mean a duly registered legal voter; election shall mean an election held on Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in any year; court shall mean the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and Judge shall mean a Judge of said Court; intoxicating liquors shall include whiskey, brandy, rum, gin, wine, ale, beer, and all other fermented, distilled, spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and every mixture of liquor which shall contained more than two per cent. by weight of alcohol, and every mixture of liquors which shall contain less than two per cent. of alcohol if the same shall be intoxicating.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election of a petition as in this Act provided, directed to such Supervisors of Election, containing the signatures of legal voters of any political sub-division in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast in such political sub-division at the last election therein to submit to the voters of such political sub-division the proposition: "Shall this ——— become Anti Saloon Territory," said proposition shall be submitted at such election as in this Act provided, to the legal voters of such political subdivision and if a majority of the legal voters, voting upon said proposition shall vote "yes" such political subdivisions shall become Anti-Saloon Territory, such petition shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act shall become operative on the first day of May next after the day of election at which such vote is cast.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That a petition for submission of said proposition shall be in substantially the following form: "To the Board of Supervisors of Election of Garrett county; the under signed legal voters of the ——— (insert the legal name or correct designation of the political sub-division) respectfully petition that you cause to be submitted in the manner provided by law to the voters thereof, at the next election the proposition "Shall this ——— become Anti-Saloon Territory such petition shall consist of sheets having such form printed or written at the top thereof and shall be signed by the legal voters in their own proper persons only, and opposite the legal signature of each legal voter shall be written the house number and street name if there be such; and if the petition is for the entire county the city, town, village or election district as the case may be in which he resides and the date of signing the same, no signature shall be valid or counted in considering such petition unless these requirements are complied with and unless the date of signing is less than six months preceding the date of filing the same. At the bottom of each sheet of such petition shall be added a statement signed by a resident of the political subdivision in which the signers thereof reside, with his residence address as aforesaid, stating that the signatures on that sheet of said petition are genuine and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the persons so signing were at the time of signing said petition legal voters of the said political subdivision, that their respective residences, when required to be stated, are correctly stated therein, and that each signer signed the same on the date set opposite his name. Such statement shall be sworn to before some officer residing in said county where such legal voters reside, authorized to administer oaths therein; such sheets shall be fastened together in one document filed as a whole, and when filed shall not be withdrawn or added to. No signature shall be withdrawn after the filing of such petition; such petition so verified or a copy thereof duly certified as hereinafter provided shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures, statement of residence here required to be stated and dates upon the petition are genuine and true and that the persons signing the same are legal voters of the political subdivisions named therein. Upon request of any one filing such a petition and verified statement and paying or tendering to the Supervisors of Elections one dollar for each one hundred names, or fraction thereof signed thereto, together with a copy thereof, the Supervisors of Election shall immediately compare the original and copy attach to such copy and delivered to such person their official certificate that such copy is a true copy of the original, stating the day when such original was filed in their office. Whoever in making the sworn statement above prescribed shall knowingly, wilfully and corruptly swear falsely shall be deemed guilty of perjury and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly; whoever forges the signature of any person upon any petition or statement provided for in this Act shall be deemed guilty of forgery, and on conviction thereof be punished accordingly.

Name of Signer	City, Town, Village or Election District petition is for.	House number, if any	Street, if named	Date of signing

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided in this Act shall cause notice to be given in the manner provided by law for giving notice of an election of the submission of said proposition at the next election to the voters of the political subdivision named in such petition. Publication of the submission of said proposition to the voters of such political subdivision shall likewise be made in the manner provided by law for the publication of the list of nominations to be voted for at an election, provided that the failure of such Supervisors to Election to cause such notice to be given or the failure to make publication of the submission of said proposition as above provided, shall not affect the validity or binding force of the vote upon said proposition.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided by this Act shall cause the proposition, "shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward (as the case may be) become Anti Saloon Territory," to be placed on the official ballots to be used in the political subdivision in which the manner prescribed by Section 56 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904 at any election where said proposition is submitted. The persons managing the interests of those opposed to said proposition shall have respectively the right to designate and keep a challenger and watcher at each election place. A certificate signed by the presiding officers of the committee managing the interest of those in favor of, or opposed to said proposition, shall be sufficient evidence of the right of such challenger and watcher to be present at the polling room. Such challengers and watchers shall have the powers which are conferred upon challengers and watchers by sections 62 and 69 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections shall as soon as conveniently may be after receiving and canvassing the result of any election at which the proposition as to whether any political subdivision shall become or continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory is submitted to the voters thereof, proclaiming the result of said election and publish such proclamation in some newspaper published in the county, if the owners of such newspapers will publish the same at current rates of advertisements and shall record in a well bound book to be kept in their office by them and their successors the result of the vote upon said proposition and such result may be proven in all courts and in all proceedings by such records or by the official certificate of the Supervisors of Election, and in cases where such a record or certificate shows that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "Yes" the same shall be conclusive evidence that the political subdivision to which such vote was applicable has become "Anti-Saloon Territory," unless the proclamation of the Supervisors of Election shall be reversed after a contest of the election in accordance with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That all the territory within any political subdivision which has become "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent notwithstanding any change that may be made in the limits of said such political subdivision until the legal voters thereof have voted according to provisions of this Act. To discontinue such Anti-Saloon Territory the following section shall be construed in harmony herewith. In all "Anti-Saloon Territory" during the time that it continues to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" the operation of all laws providing for the restriction, regulation, or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors within any portion or the whole of such territory so far as inconsistent with its status as "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall be suspended.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election in any political subdivision of a petition directed to such Supervisors of Election containing the signature of legal voters of an "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast therein at the last election to submit to the voters thereof the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," provided such petition corresponds in all other respects with the petition in this Act before described, such proposition shall be submitted at such election to the voters of such political subdivision or district, and the provisions of sections one (1), four (4), five (5), six (6) and seven (7) of this Act shall apply in all respects so far as applicable to the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," to the submission of such proposition to such voters, to the position therefor, to the recording of the vote thereon and to the proof and evidence of the petition and vote, except that in a district such proposition shall be submitted by seperate ballot. If a majority of the legal voters, voting upon such last mentioned proposition in any such political subdivision or district vote, no such political subdivision or district shall cease to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," and all laws providing for the restriction, regulation or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, the operation of which was in any wise suspended within such political subvision or district by virtue of the vote therein to become "Anti-Saloon Territory" with all additions and amendments which in the meantime may have been made thereto, shall, if not in the meantime be repealed, become and be in force within said political subdivision or district to the same extent only, however, as the same would then be in force, had such political subdivision or district never became "Anti-Saloon Territory." The petition mentioned in this section shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act in and for any political subdivision upon the proposition "shall this ——— become Anti-Salooon Territory," or in and for any political subdivision or district upon the proposition "shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be a bar to the submission to the voters thereof either division or district only, until after the lapse of 23 month.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to sell intoxicating liquor nor for the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett county to grant or issue any license to sell intoxicating liquors within one mile of any house of worship or school house after the passage of this Act, unless the same be situated within the limits of an incorporated town and not otherwise prohibited, nor within the limits of any political subdivision or district whatever, within this county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," and if any such license be granted or issued in violation hereof the same shall be void, provided that this shall not apply to sales made by a person under a provision of law requiring him to sell personal property.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That every retail liquor dealer except druggists, trafficking personally or by agent in intoxicating liquor in any political subdivision which becomes "Anti-Saloon Territory" by vote of the people thereof as herein provided, shall remove or cause to be removed all intoxicating liquors from such place, its appurtenance or dependences, within ten days from the first of May next following such vote. Failure to comply with the provisions of this Section shall be prima facie evidence that such liquor is kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That whoever shall by himself or another, either as principal, clerk or servant, directly or indirectly sell, barter or exchange any intoxicating liquors in any quantity whatever within the limits of any political subdivision or district in said county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," or keep and have in his possession any intoxicating liquors with intent to sell or otherwise dispose of same in violation of the provisions of this Act, shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200), or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than thirty days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provision of this section, and shall subsequently violate any provision of this section, he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than one hundred dollars (100) nor more than five hundred ($500) dollars and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days. And in like manner if he shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section for such third and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than two hundred dollars ($200) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1000) and confined in the Maryland House of Correction for not less than three months nor more than one year. The State's Attorney for Garrett and Justice of the Peace in and for said county having knowledge of any previous conviction of any person accused of violating the provisions of this Section, in preparing warrants, presentments and indictments shall allege such previous conviction therein, and it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county to furnish information concerning such prior conviction to the State's Attorney and grand jury. A certified transcript from the docket of any Justice of the Peace or a certified copy of the record under the seal of the Clerk of the Circuit Court shall be sufficient evidence of a previous convictions under any section of this Act. It shall be sufficient in such presentment or indictment to allege briefly that person has been convicted of a violation or violations of the provisions of this Section.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That the giving away, delivering or handling of intoxicating liquors by any store keeper or at any place of business or the taking or soliciting of orders, or the making of agreements at or within any political subdivision or district while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory" for the sale or delivery or future giving away of any intoxicating liquors or any other shift or devise to evade any provisions of this Act, shall be held to be an unlawful selling.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That places where intoxicating liquors is sold in violation of any provisions of this Act shall be taken and held and are declared to be common nuisances and may be abated as such; and shall be the part of the judgment upon the conviction of the keeper that the place where liquor is found to have been sold contrary to this act be shut up and abated until the keeper shall give bond with sufficient security to be approved by the Court in the penal sum of one thousand dollars ($1000) payable to the State of Maryland conditioned that he will not sell intoxicating liquor contrary to law, and will pay all fines, costs and damages assessed against him for the use of Garrett county for any fine or fines that may be assessed against under this Act.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county are hereby authorized to use any part of the fines and forfeitures collected for the violation of this Act for hiring detectives or secret service officers to secure the enforcement of the same, and when there are no funds available from fines or forfeinures collected for the violation of this Act, such County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appropriate not more than two hundred dollars from the general revenue fund for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Act.

(Continued on page 8.)

ENGINEERING IN BIBLICAL TIMES.

Triumphs of Peace Were Overshadowed By The Glories of War in Olden Times.

We may come down to the comparatively recent times of the Biblical annalist and feel that we know one of the great canal builders and irrigation engineers who came after Joseph and who may have drawn wisdom from what he had seen of the Nile Works, say Scribner's Magazine. He is a commanding personality in the ancient world, this Nebuchadnezzar II, who in the judgment of modern investigators, built the Kerez Sandih Canal, 400 miles long; constructed a reservoir 140 miles round and 140 feet deep; dug channels connecting the Euphrates and the Tigris and extended the use of irrigation along the southwestern or Arabian frontier. Before him Sennacherib, the shipbuilder, who brought the ships in pieces by caravan across from Trye, had confined the Tigris to its banks by building an embankment of bricks, and had constructed canals or acqueducts to bring good water to the Assyrian capital. But the military exploits of Sennacherib and Nebuchadnezzar live after them because theirs was an age of the human race when deeds of destruction by arms were accounted of greater consequence than works of sustenance, such as irrigation.

The Euphrates and the Tigris region in the twentieth century awaits the modern prototype of Nebuchadnezzar, the digger of ditches. He will be from the West, but he will not come until the railway brings him, for irrigation and railway construction are both essential to the development of this region. Nebuchadnezzar's twentieth century successor will have to study the story which the ruins of the ancient irrigation work may tell because he will need to draw lessons from them. Of course, he will have his own theory of how Chaldea's fatalida came, how the Tigris deserted its ancient and respectable bed, and in changing its course cut a new channel, gnawed away the feeder canal and then ate away the main Nahrawan itself, devouring the protective works and the attempted repairs faster than they could be completed, so that one day a moving mountain of water was roaring across the plain, crushing and engulfing all before it.

A NEWSPAPER MAN GETS TEMPTING OFFER.

A Dealer in Another State Addressed a Letter to West Virginia Newspaper Editor.

The editor of the Weston Independent replies through his paper as follows to a recent letter received by him which correspondence was clothed in the most tempting and pursuasive language. Here is what the editor takes privilege of saying in reply through the columns of his paper:

"Dear Sir—We have this day set aside for your use, four quarts of our choicest product—Hayner Old Trojan Bottled-in-Bond Whiskey—and we ask your permission to ship it to you—at our risk—and on our personal guarantee that you will find it one of the most delicious whiskies you ever tasted—and the best value you've ever known—or it will not cost you one cent. We do not ask you to send us any money in advance," etc., etc., to the extent of one entire typewritten page.

Put 'er there for sixty days old pal. You place us under renewed obligation to you for your kindness. It makes us feel awfully good to know you thought of us here in the budding springtime, with hot weather coming on, and ranging thirst aproaching. Four quarts of your Old Trojan set aside for our use! Shake again, and let it age yet a little more. They say it improves with years. We are on the water-wagon just now, and say, Uncle Hayner, don't you tempt us with your bottled best. But your offer beats stealin' it in transit, or gettin' boozy on buttermilk. You are mighty clever, indeed. If we ever come to your town we'll be at your house to stay all night.

"You see we have confidence in our products," you say; and "try it—that's all we ask," you add. Sure! Hayner's best will do the rest, to speak poetically. It helps a man to forget his woes. The other day a like product enabled a neighbor of ours to forget his sick and suffering child for medicine for which he had come to town. It made him quite content with a bunk in the calaboose as a substitute for his downy bed at home. It closed his eyes to the paling face of his little one, hushed to him its weakened cries, wiped away a watching mother's anxious tears, and downed for him her sobs. It rendered him so deaf to all pictures of his stricken home that he could forget its needs and let the saloon take from his pockets the coin that should have purchased medicine and food.

Something akin in your Old Trojan has just led a young man to end his days in Wheeling, provoked the murder of an old soldier in Kanawha; sent a dozen and two at one time to the penitentiary from Fayette; it causes more than three-fourths of all our crimes; it fills our asylums, infirmaries and jails; is the basis for enlarged taxation everywhere; stands in the way of progress, and is a menace to mankind in all conditions. And this curse of humanity so long enthroned is doomed.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

Largest assortment of highest grade enameled ware at bargain prices at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Order of Publication.

Della Lynch and Edward Lynch, Plaintiffs, vs.
Loyolen McKinzie, Anna McKinzie, Noah McKinzie, Inez McKinzie, Annie McKinzie, Helen Walker, Robert Walker, Dora McKinzie, Richard McKinzie, George McKinzie, Rose McKinzie, Laura McKinzie, Peter McKinzie, Dora McKinzie, Lucy McKinzie, Nancy Robison and Olin Robison, Defendants.

No. 1534 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate devised in the last will and testament of Francis McKinzie, deceased, late of Garrett county, for the purpose of partition among the parties entitled to interest therein.

The bill states that on or about the ——— day of March, in the year 1894, the said Francis McKinzie departed this life leaving a last will and testament, devising his real estate to his wife during her natural life, and then to his children share and share alike; that the said widow of the said Francis McKinzie departed this life about one year ago, and that he left as his only heirs under his said last will and testament, the following children: Loyolen McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Annie McKinzie; Noah McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Inez McKinzie; Annie McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Dora McKinzie, his daughter, intermarried with Richard McKinzie; George McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Rose McKenzie; Laura McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Lucy McKinzie, his daughter, unmarried; Nancy Robison, his daughter, intermarried with Olin Robison, all of Garrett county, State of Maryland; Della Lynch, his daughter, intermarried with Edward Lynch; Peter McKinzie, his son, intermarried with Dora McKinzie, all of Allegany county, State of Maryland; Helen Walker, his daughter, intermarried with Robert Walker, of Salisbury, Somerset county, State of Pennsylvania; that all of said children are adults. That said real estate consists of a farm and cannot be divided among the parties entitled to interest therein, without loss and injury.

The bill then prays for a decree for the sale of said real estate and for a distribution of the proceeds thereof among the parties entitled thereto, according to their respective interests therein; for general relief; for subpoena against the resident defendants and an order of publication against non-resident defendants.

It is thereupon, this 4th day of May, in the year 1908, ordered by the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Equity, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Garrett county once in each of four successive weeks before the 8th day of June, 1908, giving notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 22nd day at June, next, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

True Copy—test:
10-4t E. Z. TOWER, Clerk.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Somerset county, Pa., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

ANNA BOGER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 12th day of September next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of March, 1908.

WILLIAM E. BITTNER,
Administrator,
Rockwood, Pa.

THE BOY WITH A RAT.

He Got Only $3 a Week, but He Drew a Crowd.

He was a grocer's boy about fourteen years old, and he stood in the door for two or three minutes watching the pedestrians hurrying up and down, while street cars clanged past and trucks and wagons crowded each other. He was working at $3 a week and unknown to the world, but a proud smile came to his face as he realized the power placed in his hands.

Stepping back a pace, he picked up a trap with a rat in it. He was a mere nobody, and yet he had caught a rat. Night after night he had baited for the rodent and trapped him at last. Only a boy, only a rat—but wait a minute.

The boy stepped out to the curbstone, with the trap in his hand. He was a nobody, and yet at that moment he was greater than an alderman.

"A rat! A rat! A rat!" shouted half a dozen voices in chorus, and faster than you could count 'em a hundred people gathered. With them were a dozen dogs; then 200 people, then 300—500.

Only a grocer's boy working at $3 a week and yet a greater man than the mayor of the city!

"Shake him out! Give the dogs a chance!"

The boy waited. He commanded the situation. He waited until passengers jumped off the street cars, until the trucks and wagons stopped, until men came running for half a mile around, until seven or eight hundred excited men, women, boys and girls were jamming and pushing and asking each other who had dropped dead.

Just nobody's boy, and yet some one rang in a fire alarm, some one sent in a call for the ambulance, some one telephoned for the police reserves. Then when a thousand eyes were upon him, when hundreds of men were asking who he was, when fifty cur dogs were raving about his feet, the boy opened the door of the trap, shook the rat out and made his way back to the grocery and calmly sold a woman a bar of soap for 7 cents.—Chicago News.

Secondhand English.

Swede (to Englishman at Colorado Springs, noting that the Englishman's accent was unlike that of the other inhabitants)—How long you bane in dese country?

Englishman—Nine months.

Swede—You bane spake de language putty good already. Ven you bane in dese country two years you vill spake as vell as de people here.

Englishman (annihilatingly)—Man alive, I am from the country where this language is manufactured! What you are learning to speak is secondhand English.—Judge.

Uncle Tom Shows His Nephews How He Used to Duck For Apples.

—Browning's.

Caution.

"What's the matter with him anyway?"

"Sh! They're trying to keep it quiet. It's gastritis."

"Why, that's not contagious. Why should"—

"Sh! They're afraid the gas company may send in a bill against him."—Pueblo Chieftain.

Realizing Sense.

"I have always thought I knew what grinding poverty is," said Ardup, "but I never did until this morning."

"What happened this morning?" asked Short.

"I caught my wife putting burned bread crusts in the coffee mill."—Houston Post.

All's Well That Ends Well.

I am so glad as I can be;
I seeng, I dance, signore!
Ah, sooch a lucky man like me
You nevva see bayfore.
Eet ees so like w'en sky ees gray,
Den—queek!—da sun bust through
An' drivin' all da cloud away—
I tal eet all to you.
My wife an' me we no can gat
To mak' our minds da same,
W'en leetla boy ees com', for w'at
We gona call hees name.
My Rosa, dat's my wife, she say
She gotta besta right
For call da keed her owna way,
An' so, my frand, we fight.
She say she want her fadder's name,
"Giovanni," but, you see,
I want "Giacobbe" jus' da same,
Wheech ees da name for me.
Wal, den dees theeng excite us so
An' mak' so beega fuss,
Ees com' my reecha Uncla Joe
For feexin' theengs for us.
But w'en he find how hard eet seem
For feex he tal us, "Wal,
I theenk ees best you calla heem
'Giuseppe' for mysel'!"
Dees mak' da case so bothersom'
My brain ees eena whirl;
I almost weesh w'en keed ees com'
He gona be a girl.
Eh? No, he was no borna w'en
We fighta deesa way.
No baby eesa leevin' den,
But, see, ees com' today
Not only wan of heem, but three!
Eh? "Treeplets?" Yes, signore.
Ah, soocha lucky man like me
You nevva see bayfore!

—T. A. Daly in Catholic Standard and Times.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

THE PRESIDENT says that a certain Senator has sweetbreads in the place where his brains ought to be. One of the most fascinating things about the President is his talent for putting unpleasant facts in a tactful and soothing way.

OPEN A SAVINGS BANK ACCOUNT.

It requires no argument to show the wisdom of saving and many persons endorse the idea but neglect to put it into practice. The amount of funds on deposit in nine savings banks of Baltimore on January 2 aggregated the enormous sum of $73,600,908.43 belonging to 196,922 depositors. This is cited as an evidence of the popularity of savings bank accounts and the large amount of money gathered together from small savings. Residents of this section do not have to go off to Baltimore to open a savings account. All national banks in Garrett county have savings departments and allow a liberal rate of interest, usually more than that allowed by Baltimore institutions. Begin today the habit of saving and put your money in a home bank and then deny yourself luxuries and leave it there for the "rainy" day needs.

WILL IT DEFEAT BRYAN?

Prior to the Civil War the Democratic party, in order to give the Southern States the veto power in the national conventions of the party, adopted the two-thirds rule. It was then, and is now, undemocratic in principle, it being a tenet of Democracy that the majority shall rule. From the time of its adoption, however, the two-thirds rule has always been honored and observed by the national convention of the Democratic party, with a single exception. That was in 1860, when the supporters of Stephen A. Douglas, who had a large majority in the nominating convention, but were short of the necessary two-thirds, finally decided to ignore the rule and declare him the nominee for the Presidency. This led to the rupture of the party and the nomination of Breckinridge by the other faction, and was a large factor in the election of Lincoln, with all the subsequent consequences of that result.

Notwithstanding this experience, the Democrats of the country continue to violate one of the fundamental principles of Democracy, and no protest against the violation is heard from any quarter. Even Mr. Wm. J. Bryan, whose poltical fortunes may be seriously affected by it, maintains absolute silence on the subject.

If the rule of the majority were recognized there would be no doubt of Mr. Bryan's nomination by the convention at Denver. There is some question, whether he has the necessary strength to assure him a two-thirds vote. Whether his friends and supporters will be as loyal as were those of Stephen A. Douglas, deadlock the convention and either force his nomination or declare him the nominee by a majority vote, remains to be seen. The burning question in the premises is, will the two-thirds rule prevent the nomination of Mr. Bryan?

THE INFLUENCE OF THE CHURCH.

There are so many sacred memories clustering around the particular church in which we have worshiped since our early childhood years that we sometimes are not able to see that our churches of today are not keeping pace with changed conditions and are not doing all that is possible in helping men and women in the grim struggle with evil. One of the leading denominations in Maryland reports a loss of nearly 800 members the past year. Take any community and note those who are regular attendants upon the church services and it will surprise you how many stay away from the churches. Men and women are still grappling with the problem of right living and though their next door neighbor may not know it, men and women think about God and their relation to Him and their responsibility to Him and to each other. The human heart in the meanest of men at times aspires to nobler things and there is hardly a living soul that does not yearn for the things that are the fruits of Christian living. Who does not feel more a man when conscious of striving to do justly and live honestly? Who does not appreciate the kindly hand clasp of sincere friendship and the tenderness and sympathy of others who would share our sorrows and be glad with us when we are happy? The church is not made up as some think of self-righteous, but of real every-day men and women, subject to evil, and daily doing those things which they ought not to do and leaving undone those things they ought to do; in short, sinners conscious of their needs and relying upon Jesus Chirst for salvation. Some one has aptly called the church the sinners' hospital. Through its Sunday services, Sabbath schools, young peoples' societies, and other agencies the church is exerting a powerful influence for all that makes for the highest good of mankind, but there are hundreds of churches that are weak and impotent. The preacher appears on time dressed in the most approved fashion and preaches a "strong" sermon and that is all. Those in the seats are prosperous looking and exchange pleasant remarks about the sermon and go home to a good dinner. Those not so well dressed stay at home, and what is worse, nobody seems to care. A terrible grief enters a home, but unlike their Lord who went about ministering to the sick and sorrowing, binding up the broken hearted, some leaders of the people in the ministry and in the pews are as cold and inhuman as an iceburg. The church is strong and powerful only in proportion as it rings true to Christian principles and sheds abroad the true spirit of Christ. The true church is founded upon love, love to God and love to man, and no church can ever fulfil its mission without putting these cardinal principles into practice.

GORTNER.

The weather continues wet and the farmers are experiencing some difficulty in getting their corn planted.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shultz, also Nicholas Zoffsinger, all of Brunner, Ontario, B. C., are visiting friends in this vicinity this week.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Leichty were calling on friends at Aurora last week.

Rev. Moses Yoder and daughter Miss Lizzie, of Grantsville, were calling on their many friends here Sunday.

A very pretty home wedding occurred here last Saturday evening when Miss Maud C. Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sanders, and Mr. George J. Yutzy, of Sunnyside, were united in matrimony by the Rev. E. Manges, of Oakland. Both of the contracting parties are popular in this section where they are best known. They were tendered an old time serenade both on Saturday and Monday nights We extend to the happy couple our heartiest congratulations and best wishes.

Arrested Alleged Thief.

Tuesday morning upon information received here by Officers Nethken and Browning, a colored man, giving his name as Harry Kent, was arrested and held on the charge of having stolen at Piedmont the day preceeding a suit of clothing and a set of harness. On train No. 55 the same afternoon Constable Hines, of Piedmont, arrived in Oakland and identified not only the man underarrest but the stolen clothing, which was being worn by the prisoner. Officer and prisoner returned to Piedmont the same afternoon.

Electricity From the Sun.

Observations were made some little time ago at the Astrophysical Observatory at the Pic du Midi, at an altitude of 2877m, to measure the electrical charges induced by the sun and moon, and the differences between the variations of the solar potential and that of the ground. It was found that the sun induced a positive electrical charge, which is greater when the air transversed by the solar radiation is dry, and which is entirely absorbed by any cloud which may pass in front of the solar disc, or by layers of humid air. The solar charge varied from one to six volts per minute. The moon produced a similar positive electrification. Variations of the ground potential are much more intense at high altitudes than at the earth's mean surface-level, approaching in some cases to four hundred volts per minute.—Scientific American.

Church Services.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows: Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Preaching at 10.30 a. m., and 8 p. m. Installation of officers at the morning service.

Preaching at Crellin next Sunday at 2.30 p. m.

Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows: Sunday school at 9.15 a. m.

Preaching at 10.30 a. m.,

Preaching at 8 p. m.

Epworth League Monday 8 p. m.

Junior League Wednesday 4.15 p. m.

Prayer meeting Wednesday 8 p. m.

Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

Purchased Hotel Property.

Mr. Edward Smouse, of Deer Park, has purchased the Freeland Hotel at Deer Park and contemplates making great improvements to the property, among them being the installation of a modern heating plant, bath rooms, etc. The hotel will be operated by Mr. and Mrs. Smouse, who will take immediate possession of the same and have it open for guests at an early date.

REPORT ON CLIMATE

Maryland Weather Service Issues Valuable Work.

The Maryland Weather Service has issued the second volume of the new series of reports. The first volume contains a general account of the phisiography and meteorology of the State and the second is chiefly devoted to a special study of the climatic features of Baltimore and vicinity.

The report proper, which covers about 500 pages, is a comprehensive study of the climate and weather of Baltimore and vicinity, and was written by Dr. Oliver T. Fassig, directors of the Unitee States Weather Bureau at Baltimore. An introduction is by Prof. William Bullock Clark, director of the Board of Control of the Maryland Weather Services. The Board of Control consists of Prof. Clark, representing Johns Hopkins; Prof. W. T. L. Taliferro, representing thn Maryland Agricultural College, and Dr. Fassig, representing the United States Weather Bureau.

Professor Clark announces that special reports of the climate of Allegany, Garrett, Cecil, Calvert and St. Mary's counties, which have been prepared by the Maryland Weather Service and issued under the auspices of the Maryland Geological Survey in its series of county reports will be brought together with those of all others counties and published in a single volume as part of the series. The study will take several years.

"For the past three years," Professor Clark says, "several trained botanists under the direction of Dr. Forest Shreve have been engaged in the different sections of the State in making a detailed investigation of its botanical conditions. The botanical survey is now complete and will be contained in Volume III.

"A survey of the swamp lands of Maryland shows that the State has 328,800 acres of such territory, of which 124,359 are fresh-water swamps and 204,416 acres salt-water marshes. The eastern and southern counties bordering on the Chesapeake Bay and Atlantic Ocean have 328,326 acres, of which 118,912 are fresh and 204,516 are salt. The central and western counties have 5,440 acres, all of which are fresh. These figures do not include the small tract of swamp land on individual farms, which would not be considered in any plan of Government reclamation. Counting these small tracts the total area would probably reach 500,000, it is stated."

Along other lines of work, Professor Clarks states that arrangements have been made to have an expert medical climatology carefully study the State's records and prepare a report on the healthfuleess of the Commonwealth.

The Stork Still Busy.

Mr. Stork has visited two more homes in Oakland, leaving contentment and happiness behind him.

Last Friday there was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thomas a daughter, and on Monday evening to Mr. and Mrs. G. Semmes Hamill, Jr., a son was born.

Where Are Your Interests

¶ Are they in this community?
¶ Are they among the people with whom you associate?
¶ Are they with the neighbors and friends with whom you do business?

If so you want to know what is happening in this community. You want to know the goings and comings of the people with whom you associate, the little news items of your neighbors and friends—now don't you?

That is what this paper gives you in every issue. It is printed for that purpose. It represents your interests and the interests of this town. Is your name on our subscription books? If not, you owe it to yourself to see that it is put there. To do so

Will Be To Your Interest

Fred. A. Thayer, Agent, Oakland, Md.

Statement of the Condition of
HARTFORD FIRE INSURANCE CO.,
HARTFORD, CONN.

Total Admitted Assets	$18,920,073 84
Total Liabilities	13,659,158 39
Surplus to Policy-holders	5,261,450 45

STATE OF MARYLAND,
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, January 18, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford Conn. for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

Statement showing the Condition of the
FIDELITY FIRE INSURANCE CO.
OF NEW YORK.
December 31, 1907.

Capital Stock paid up	$1,0 0,000 00
Total Assets	2,529,466 17
Total amount of All Liabilities	727,765 59
Surplus as regards policy holders	2,801,700 58
Bonds and Stocks owned by the Company	2,166,950 00

STATE OF MARYLAND
Office of the State Insurance Department.
BALTIMORE, Fecruary 19, 1908.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract, taken from the Annual Statement of The Fidelity Fire Insurance Company, of New York, for the year ending December 31, 1907, now on file in this Department.

BENJ. F. CROUSE,
Insurance Commissioner.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 12th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED ON SECOND STREET IN THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, and being the same lot of ground which was conveyed to Charles A. Hesen by Amanda V. Michael and others by deed bearing date the 6th day of August, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folio 393, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described in said deed by the following metes and bounds, courses and distances: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of a line drawn North 23 degrees East, 132 perches from the northeast corner of Oak and Second streets in said town, and running thence South 67 degrees East, 53 feet to the line of a piece or parcel of land in said town of Oakland conveyed by Edward McCarty and wife to Daniel J. Brant, thence South 16½ degrees East, 60 feet, thence South 88 degrees West, to the limits of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, thence with said railroad limits to Second street, thence with said Second street to the place of beginning, excepting the portion of said lot heretofore conveyed to Sarah A. Mason by deed duly recorded among the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles A. Hesen.

No. 2.—TWENTY-TWO ACRES AND THIRTY-SIX PERCHES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "SMALL MEADOWS," being the same land which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Daniel E. Offutt and wife to Frank Graham, bearing date the 29th day of June, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 149, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, near the town of Crellin, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Frank Graham.

No. 3.—ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS THE "PROMISED LAND," and being the same land which was conveyed to Ora A. P. Weimer by Samuel B. Lee by deed dated the 29th day of April, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 567, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Ora A. P. Weimer.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND CONTAINING ABOUT ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER 21 IN WILSON'S ADDITION TO THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, and being the same lot which was conveyed to Edward Hoye by Newton B. Wayman by deed bearing date the 10th day of May, 1878, and duly recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 3, folio 762, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said lot is located on Liberty street in the town of Oakland and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of Miss Marion C. Hoye.

No. 5.—PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SEVEN, CONTAINING TWELVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF LAND, being the same land which was conveyed to Jesse S. Severe and Sarah A. Severe by deed from John M. Browning and wife, bearing date the 21st day of August, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 458, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jesse S. Severe.

No. 6.—ALL THAT LOT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS THE "RUSSELL PROPERTY," which is located on the Southwest corner of First and Water streets in the town of Oakland, in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by James W. Thomas, Attorney, to Susan M. Thomas by deed bearing date the 28th day of November, 1900, and is duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 140, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Susan M. Thomas.

No. 7.—FIFTY-FIVE AND FIVE-EIGHTHS ACRES OF LAND, being a part of Lot No. 6 of the subdivision of a tract of land called "Herrington Manor," and being the same land which was conveyed to Charles G. Teats by Elizabeth Hall Vansant and others by deed dated the first day of October, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 369, etc, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles G. Teats.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

H. R. DEWITT,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

Tne New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant,
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate and Personal Property,

In Mountain Lake Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias on judgment of condemnation, issued out of the Circuit Court of Garrett county, wherein Clarence G. Hammond is plaintiff and Verona H. Preston and South G. Preston are defendants, the same being No. 18 Judicials, June Term, 1908, the undersigned Sheriff of Garrett county, having levied upon and attached the real and personal property hereinafter mentioned, in the above entitled cause, hereby gives notice that he will sell at public auction, in front of Hayden Bros. store, formerly Hammond's old stand, on the corner of H street and Baltimore Ave., in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Maryland, on Saturday, the 20th day of June,

1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., all the following personal property, to-wit:

1 Lot Shelving, 1 Coal Box and Contents, 1 Silk Umbrella, 1 Waste Basket and Contents, A lot of books of most every description, 1 Brussels Parlor Carpet and Rugs to match, 1 Lot of other Carpets and Rugs, 1 Lot of Mattings, 1 Lot of Curtain Poles, Window Blinds and Hammocks, 1 Bread Can and Contents, 1 Trunk and Contents, 2 Boxes and Contents, 1 Lot of Bed Quilts and Comforts, 1 Lot of Men's Wearing Apparel, 1 Slicker Overcoat, 1 Rocking Chair, 1 Shelf, 1 Feather Duster, 1 Box of Souvenirs, 3 brooms, 2 Large Pictures and Frames, 1 Lot of Bed Linen and Blankets, 1 Lot of Loose Pictures, 2 Door Mats, 1 Lot of Crackers, 1 Bowl, 1 Letter Box, Table Oil Cloth, 1 Rope Swing, 1 Lot of Coal.

Also all that lot in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Md., known and designated as on the plat of Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, as recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio No. 800, this being the same property which was conveyed and more particularly described in the deed to the said Verona H. Preston from Maria Spitzer, dated June 21st, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 581, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland.

Lot Number 1004

The said personal property and real estate will be sold to satisfy said fieri facias on the aforesaid judgment of condemnation and the costs.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale.

AUSTIN BROWN,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

School Board Meeting.

OFFICE OF
BOARD OF SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS
OF GARRETT COUNTY.
OAKLAND, MD., May 20th, 1908.

The Garrett County School Board will meet

Monday, June 1, 1908,

at 2:30 P. M., for the purpose of considering new buildings and repairs and such other business as may come before them.

Bids for text books and supplies will be opened and contracts awarded at this meeting.

By order of the Board.

E. A. BROWNING, County Sup't.

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

KODAK SAFETY FILM

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. Offutt, John M. Davis, G. S. Hamill.
George W. Legge, John T. Mitchell, S. T. Jones.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER.

Circuit Court convenes in Oakland on Monday, June 1st.

Mr. E. J. Frantz, of the Frantz Hotel, was in Cumberland Tuesday on business.

Mrs. D. E. Offutt went to Dille, West Va., Monday morning, to visit a relative, who is quite ill.

Mr. W. A. Sturgiss has recently had completed at his residence in Oakland a commodious balcony.

Ex-County Commissioner Isaac W. Abernathy and little grandson, were Oakland visitors yesterday.

Miss Catherine Manges left Oakland last Thursday afternoon for a visit to York, Harrisburg, and Philadelphia.

Miss Elizabeth Hart, who was employed in this office for a number of months. gave up her position on last Saturday.

Mr. William E. Walsh, of Cumberland, was in Oakland yesterday on business connected with his real estate interests here.

Best hand-made tinware at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Mrs. George Shartzer, of near Oakland, started on Monday to drive to Uniontown, Pa., where she will visit relatives a few days.

Mrs. C. Ellwood Offutt and Miss Bess Offutt, who went to Baltimore early last week, returned to their homes in Oakland Sunday afternoon.

Superintendent W. W. Davis, of Mt. Lake Park, spent Monday and part of Tuesday in Oakland, having arrived here from Baltimore on a Monday afternoon train.

Mr. Harry Ravenscraft, of Chicago, Ill., arrived in Oakland yesterday morning and is the guest of his brother, Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft at his home on Third street.

Full line of Galvanized Goods—gutters, conductors, ridge roll, tubs, buckets, etc., at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4*

Capt. James A. Hayden, of the Agricultural Department, after making his annual visit to various section of Maryland, returned to his home last Saturday afternoon.

Monday's municipal election in Cumberland was decidedly in favor of the Democrats, that party electing its candidate for Mayor, the city clerk and five of the six councilmen.

"No matter what the weather man may do or say, spring cleaning cannot be postponed longer," says a contemporary. "Aye," adds the Cumberland News, "there's the scrub."

Rev. John M. Davis, of Oakland, is in Baltimore this week attending the sessions of the General Conference of the M. E. church, which will probably continue until well up in the month of June

G. A. Shirer & Co. offer good prices on cooking stoves and ranges for the months of May and June.

A young married man wanted with no children or a very small family; the wife to do the cooking for four men, the man to work by the year or month; house ready till June. Write at once; reference wanted. C. J. Yoder, Grantsville, Md. 11-3t

Mr. Charles E. Hilleary, of near Gorman, was in the city last Saturday, having brought to a stock dealer living near town six of a drove of more than fifty head of cattle he disposed of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Garrett, whose marriage is noted in another column of this paper today, arrived in Oakland yesterday from Keyser and went from here to their home west of town in the evening.

One of the last tributes which we can pay our beloved dead is to see that their last resting place is fittingly marked. We owe it to them as well as ourselves to place an enduring monument over their graves.

Dr. Webster Ravenscroft was at Keyser, W. Va. Tuesday and yesterday, having been called to a point near that town by the death and funeral of his uncle, Luther Ravenscroft, whose funeral took place Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. H. R. DeWitt, who retired as County Treasurer a short time ago, advertises in this paper today the sale of a number of pieces of real estate at tax sales, some of the property being located in Oakland and extremely valuable.

Senator W. McCulloh Brown, who has been in Baltimore all winter, where he has been quite ill for a great part of the time since the adjournment of the Legislature, writes THE REPUBLICAN that he has entirely recovered from his sickness and that he will return to his home a Bayard this week. Senator Brown will be in Oakland on Monday, June 1st, when he will attend a meeting of the Court House Commission to be held here that day.

Mr. George Taylor, representing the Sanitary Vacuum Cleaning Company of Morgantown, W. Va., was in Oakland yesterday making contracts for cleaning carpets, mattresses, etc. The work is done by means of a powerful engine, driving a vacuum pump which in turn sucks the dust, moths, etc., from floor coverings without removing them from the floor or disturbing the household.

If there is any great question pressing for solution, the influences of which is to affect the home-life, the women of our city ever on the alert to see that it is correctly solved. Thus working, they've formed a nucleus around which have been erected institutions that stands as a living monument in their defense of the home. All hail, then, to the queenly, white-souled women of this community!

A wealthy citizen of New York, who owns an acre or two of ground right in the heart of the metropolis has abandoned a magnificent mansion and will cultivate his patch of ground as an object lesson to teach the tenement house occupants what can be raised off of a small patch, such as he proposes to devote to cultivation. That is a good idea. Thousands of people are starving in our cities, who, if they would get out into the country where land is cheap and plenty could make a comfortable living and enjoy the privileges of three meals a day and other necessaries of life.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

CAPITAL 50,0 0,00 — THE — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

MOVE FOR MAIN ARTERY ROAD

Automobilists Inaugurated Plan to Utilize Baltimore and National Pike.

A meeting of automobile men was held last night at the Shawnee Canoe Club in this city with the view to securing the aid of the State Highway Commission to a plan to make one main artery through the state from Baltimore, passing through Frederick, Hagerstown and Cumberland to Grantsville, Garrett county. The routes of the old Baltimore and Cumberland turnpike and the old National road would be adopted in carrying out the scheme. It is hoped to secure the co-operation of the citizens of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Frederick and Howard counties in the movement and a committee was named to propose the matter. The committee composed of Robert Shriver, Archibald C. Willison, William C. Devecmon, G. Clinton Uhl and G. G. Townsend, county road engineer, will meet this afternoon and arrange for a meeting of representatives of the five counties to be held at Hagerstown, which the State Highway Commission will be asked to attend that the matter might be brought to a focus. Inasmuch as the object of the state good roads movement is to construct a permanent highway reaching from one end of the state to the other and as it could hardly be accomplished without using the old National road, it is felt that the Highway Commission will look with favor on the plan.

A committee was also appointed with Mr. Robert Shriver as chairman, to draw up a resolution to be presented to the State Highway Commission, embodying the action of the meeting. Mr. Shriver was chairman of the meeting last night and among those present were Judge Robert R. Henderson and Mr. Daniel Annan, president of the Second National Bank, besides a number of other interested citizens. The members of the Allegany Board of Road Directors present were Dr. Timonhy Griffith, of Frostburg, G. Clinton Uhl, of Mt. Savage. Road Engineer G. G. Townsend was also present.—Cumberland News.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anythimg in this line.

Attorney Fred T. Martin, who has been visiting his family in Oakland for some days returned to this city this morning and left for Chicago, where he is attending to important legal busines. He will return here Wednesday evening or Thursday morning.—Grafton Republican.

What have the women contributed toward the upbuilding of our city. Many, many things—aye, more than can be enumerated in the brief space at command. There was a time in the history of the world, way back in Paul's day, when woman was looked upon with something of disfavor. That was an unchristian era. Today the situation is vastly different, and instead of woman being inferior to man, she has proven herself to be his equal, if not his superior, in many of the virtues that make for good citizenship.

We are pleased to see so many of ou citizens taking pride in their homes. The word "home," next to that of "mother," is the greatest ever uttered by human tongue. What a refuge the home is when the darkess gathers! How glad one is to get a glimpse of home when time and space have separated him from it if even but for a brief period! There seems to be a good natured rivalry here in an effort to make "our home" look a little neater and thus be the more inviting to the occupants than all others. Such rivalry is certainly pardonable.

Alleged Horse Thief Held.

Charles Kisner, one of the alleged horse thieves implicated in the theft of Mr. Fred. A. Thayer's horse and animals belonging to Messrs. Dennis Glover and Jerome Kisner, an account of whose escapade along with his brother and George Arnold was published in this paper last week, was given a hearing on last Saturday by Justice Gonder, who in default of bond in the sum of $400 was remanded to jail for the action of the Grand Jury when it convenes next month.

For the capture of the other alleged thieves, Henry Kisner and George Arnold, Sheriff Austin Brown has offered a reward of $25 and has sent to all parts of the country cards containing a description of the two men So far as can be learned no trace of the men has yet been found Editor's Suicide.

O. J. Sturgiss, editor of the News-Standard, Uniontown, one of the best known newspaper men in Western Pennsylvania, and active in newspaper circles in that section for 25 years, died at Unointown Thursday morning as a result of a revolver wound in the right temple. He had been in poor health for the past year and was despondent as a result of nervous prostration, which it is believed prompted the act. He arose at his usual hour, took his daily walk and returned home at 7.40 o'clock. A revolver discharge was heard and Sturgiss was found bleeding and dying 35 minutes later. Besides a wife he is survived by his son, Harold, and daughter, Edith.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE.

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 29th day of May, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THOSE LOTS OR PARCELS OF LAND KNOWN AS LOTS "V" AND "W", IN BLOCK NUMBER 35 as shown on the Plat of the Mountain Home Company, of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Liber E. Z. T., No. 1, folio 2, one of the Plat Records of said county, and being the same lots or parcels of land conveyed to John L. Rice by Mountain Home Company by deed dated the 31st day of December, 1894, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 199, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Lot "V" contains 273-1000 of an acre and lot "W" .26 of an acre. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John L. Rice.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF SIX AND FIVE-EIGHT ACRES, which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Parker Ashby and others to Henry Mosser, dated the 22nd day of July, 1901, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 528, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, by the following courses and distances, metes and bounds: Beginning for the same at a planted stone standin at the end of the seventh line of a tract of land called "Piney Bottom," which point is also at the end of the second line of a tract of land called "Maryland," and running thence with the third line of said tract called "Maryland" with an allowance of 3½ degrees for variation, South 39½ degrees West, 23 perches and 3 links to a stone, North 49 degrees West, 18 perches to a stone standing on the East side of the county road, North 18 degrees East, 19 perches and 9 links to a bounded maple tree standing on the east side of said road, South 89½ degrees West, 15½ perches to a stone, North 58½ degrees West, 21½ perches to a stone, North 44 degrees East, 19½ perches to a stone, North 28 degrees East, 6 perches to a stone standing at the end of the sixth line of the said tract called "Piney Bottom," and thence by a straight line to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Henry Mosser.

No. 5.—FIFTY ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS "WILLIAM AND MARY," and being the same land which was conveyed to Isaac Elliott by F. A. Thayer and others, trustees, by deed dated the 3nd day of August, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 246, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said land being described in said deed as follows: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of the first line of the whole lot No. 3 of the sub-division of the tract called "William and Mary," and running thence with the second line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 77 degrees West, 95½ perches to the end of the second line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with the third line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 3 degrees West 83⅔ perches to a stake, thence running across said whole Lot No. 3 South 77 degrees East, 95½ perches to a stake standing in the first line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with said first line South 3 degrees East, 83⅔ perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Isaac Elliott.

No. 7. THIRTY-FIVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT, which land is described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth F. Cecil to Clarence A. Knight, bearing date the 26th day of September, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 141, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth F. Cecil.

No. 8. ALL THAT PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ABOUT ONE ACRE, being the same lot conveyed by Gilmor S. Hamill, attorney, to Jennie Smith by deed dated the 4th day of February, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 120, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, saving and excepting therefrom that part of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Jennie Smith by deeds of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court for Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jennie Smith.

No. 11. MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO, CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE HUNDRED ACRES, said lots being particularly described in a deed for the same from Catharine Lefler to Charles Hook bearing date the 10th day of May, 1890, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 318, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as in charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles Hook.

No. 12. ALL THAT LOT LOCATED IN THE TOWN OF GORMAN, CONTAINING 77 POLES AND 128 FEET, MORE OR LESS, and being the same land which was conveyed by Charles P. Bailey and others to Lydia A. Bosely by deed dated the 26th day of May, 1899, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 38, folio 586, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described as follows: Beginning at a stake standing at the third corner of a lot formerly owned by Joseph Shillingberg and running thence North 25 degrees West, 4 3-5 poles to a stake, thence North 80½ degrees East, 18½ poles to a stake, thence South 6 degrees West, 8 poles to another stake, being a corner of said Joseph Shillingberg's lot, then with the line of the same reversed North 89 degrees West, 14 1-7 poles to the beginning. Said lot is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and wil be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Lydia A. Bosely.

No. 14—MILITARY LOT NUMBER FORTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, and being the same Lot which was conveyed to Hiram P. Tasker by D. James Blackiston by deed dated the 1st day of July, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 77, one of the Land records of said Garrett county. This lot is located in Election District No. 7 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Hiram P. Tasker.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Tuesday, June 2nd, 1908,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
38 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

The Ingenuity of Agatha.

By A. W. KOENIG.

Copyright, 1907, by A. W. Koenig.

"IT'S of no use, and it might just as well be in Halifax as in my barnyard," said Ebenezer Hankins to himself. "It ain't good for anything, and, what's more, I'm sure it never will be."

Old Farmer Hankins stood looking down in evident disgust at the water trough and faucet which had just been placed in his barnyard by order of the officials of the little town of Milldale. Not a drop of water came through the faucet, although it was wide open. When the town officials applied to Farmer Hankins for permission to dig a ditch and lay a water main through his farm on the way from the springs above to the village below he told them that he did not need any of the water, and he could not understand why he should have his property damaged and all dug up merely to benefit somebody else unless he should receive a substantial and an adequate financial return. The water commissioner of the village, big, brawny Hezekiah Banks, declared that he would resort to the law with Farmer Hankins. To this Farmer Hankins replied that if he chose he might "take the law and wallop him as much as he pleased."

While sitting on Farmer Hankins' fence he had argued with the old man the greater part of a whole day on the wonderful benefit it would be to the people of the village and that Farmer Hankins could not do anything better that would bring him so many friends. In fact, he would become a public benefactor. The village was poor and could not very well afford to go to any great expense in the matter of paying for the right of way. However, all argument was useless, said Farmer Hankins. The farmers were always being swindled in every way by unfeeling corporations, and he'd be just as foolish as the rest of them if he were to follow their lead, just like a "passel o' sheep." It was at this time that a would be arbitrator appeared on the scene, Agatha Banks, the charming daughter of the water commissioner, so fair and so very sensible that Hiram Hankins, the stirring son of the old man who owned the farm, had been suspected for over a year of caring more for her than any other girl in Milldale or any of the surrounding towns. One afternoon shortly after her father's failure to come to terms with Farmer Hankins she rode over to the scene of contention with her father and sat for quite a long time in the carriage intently listening, with a sorrowful expression on her face, to the conversation of the two uncompromising men. Finally she made a proposition.

"Mr. Hankins," she said very sweetly, "if the town would put a nice water trough here in your barnyard and furnish it with a faucet, so that you could have all the water you need all the year round, would you not be satisfied to allow them to lay the pipe line through your farm?"

"MR. HANKINS," SHE SAID VERY SWEETLY.

Farmer Hankins thought that Agatha never looked prettier in all her life, but at the same time he was not to be so easily captured. If he wanted a water trough, he thought he could have put one there himself without the assistance of the town.

"But you haven's got the spring, have you?" Agatha asked innocently. So this settled Farmer Hankins' argument on the point. It was a fact that his farm was destitute of springs, so that when, as always happened in summer during the dry seasons, the wells on his farm failed his place was as dry as the desert of Sahara.

"Well, I'll have to think about it," said Farmer Hankins. "I ain't one of the kind to make up my mind in a hurry. You'd be willin' to do that, wouldn't you, Hez?"

"Why, it's really more than I ought to do," replied the commissioner, "but if you'll say right now that you'll accept the proposition made by Agatha I think we can close the bargain now. Tomorrow I might not want to do it."

"All right. So far as I am concerned it don't make no difference to me," said Farmer Hankins, with a tone of independence in his voice which immediately brought the commissioner to terms.

"I didn't propose it," said Hezekiah, "but I always stand by what Agatha says I must, and I will now."

At this remark Hiram Hankins felt his heart leap within him as Agatha gave him one of her most approving glances, and their carriage drove away. All that evening, while the two were doing the chores, Hiram labored with his father in behalf of the water trough. It was a joy to both of the young people when the next day Farmer Hankins allowed that he guessed they might go ahead with the laying of their pipe line. The water trough was duly installed in the barnyard, and the faucet was attached. Then, when everything was in readiness, on a certain day the water from the spring was let into the main. It leaped into the pipe and went rushing down to give joy to the townspeople, but not a single drop of water came through the half inch pipe which rose up from the main pipe five feet below to the trough in Farmer Hankins' barnyard.

Farmer Hankins then knew it was a conspiracy against him and the town officials never meant to do as they had agreed. Hezekiah Banks always was a rascal, and he might have known better than to trust him. But at the same time it was just as much of a puzzle to the water commissioner as to Farmer Hankins himself why the water went so scornfully past the water trough. He went all over the line himself, peering into the faucet and listening with his ear close to its mouth in the vain effort to solve the problem. Then, to satisfy himself that the work of laying the pipe and making the connections had been properly done, he ordered that the earth all be dug away and the pipe thoroughly examined. Everything was found to be right and no defect anywhere.

Finally an engineer from the neighboring city was engaged, and after very carefully examining the line he decided that, the spring being so much higher than the trough, the water came through the main pipe with such tremendous force that it had no time to stop at Farmer Hankins' farm. Some were so skeptical as to this man's judgment, however, that another engineer of still higher repute was summoned. His verdict was that the spring, instead of being higher than the trough, was, in fact, much lower; therefore there was not enough force from the spring to push the water up through the faucet.

"Now it's my turn to see what the law 'll do," said Farmer Hankins. "They promised me water, and they've got to furnish it."

Some one reminded the old farmer that the commissioner had only agreed to furnish the trough and the faucet and that the supplying of the water was not in the contract. It was a very perplexing situation. The town must either be deprived of water or the trough must be supplied with it, and Farmer Hankins brought suit against the town officials. And now Hiram and Agatha were in trouble again. What would become of their hopes and prospects for the future if matters went on like this?

"I know there must certainly be some way to get water into that trough," Agatha declared. "If I had half the knowledge some folks think they have it seems to me I could fix it."

Agatha suddenly developed a decided taste for studying water in its relation to supplying cities and towns through the medium of the gravity system. When all others would be sound asleep she would be poring over books bearing on the subject which she borrowed from the city library. Then she made numerous visits to the spring. She measured the distance between the spring and another, larger, farther up in the village, on the hillside, as accurately as she could with her eye.

Still further to complicate matters Farmer Hankins forbade his son Hiram from ever visiting Agatha again.

"We will have nothin' to do with them," he said. "They're a bad lot. I don't know as I really ever heard of anything that Hezekiah Banks had done before this, and I used to think I'd like well enough to have Agatha for a daughter, but this thing's enough to convince me that you never would have a minute's peace if you married her—a chip of the old block."

Hezekiah in the meantime declared that Hiram never must darken his doorstep again. "Good enough fellow, but what's bred in the bone will surely tell."

So matters remained thus for several weeks until it was almost time for the trial of Farmer Hankins' suit. On the night before the day of the trial Farmer Hankins was very restless and could get no sleep. He had always boasted that he never sued a man or had been sued in his life, but now the record was to be broken. While tossing on his pillow shortly after the clock had struck 12 he heard a very peculiar noise that seemed to be near the house, upon the hillside. The oftener he heard it the more mystified and curious he became. He looked out of his window, and the full moon was shining brightly, and by the aid of its beams he could clearly distinguish a man's form standing near the spring on the side of the hill, while from the ditch he heard the sounds which disturbed his slumbers. He dressed as quickly as he could and went out, creeping along the fence until he was within hearing distance.

"Now, Agatha, it's about time you get out of that ditch," he heard a voice say. "That's too hard work for you."

"All right, Hiram, but I think your hands are too sore to dig any more," was the answer Farmer Hankins heard coming from the ditch.

"I'll bet yours are blistered all over Agatha. This old ditch will kill us all, I guess."

"Oh, they'll get over it, even if they are blistered," came back the voice from the ditch clear and loud. "I have made up my mind that we will see the end of this before we go back home."

Then Farmer Hankins sprang toward the spot and looked down, with astonished face, into the ditch. There Agatha stood, with pick in hand and her face flushed red as fire.

"In the name of common sense, children, what's goin' on here?" he asked sharply.

There was a little shriek of surprise from Agatha, and Hiram made a flying leap down the hillside. But there seemed to be absolutely no way of escape, for poor, brave Agatha. However, she just leaned against the bank of earth, with her hands still grasping the pick, and her head bare to the night breeze. The long line of newly dug earth which stretched away up the hillside showed the astonished farmer that a new trench was being dug from the other large spring to the end of the pipe which supplied the village with water.

"YOU'VE WON TWO SUITS FAIR AND SQUARE."

"Oh, Mr. Hankins," Agatha cried, as something very much like a sob found its way along with her words, "I hope you will not be angry with Hiram and me, will you? It's all my fault anyway. I couldn't bear to think of letting that miserable old lawsuit go on about the trough. It has worried all of us most to death. I guess I have studied mostly all the books in the city, and finally I thought I would just get to work at it myself and use a little common sense. It seemed to me that there must be some reason why the water wouldn't run up into your water trough, and I made up my mind that if there could be a little more pressure back of the other spring that would be all that was needed. So Hiram and I have been digging this ditch. We have the pipe laid down as far as we have gone, and now we are almost to the spring. If you only hadn't come so soon!" And as Agatha spoke she turned her face away and dropped the pick.

"Come, father, won't you go back to bed and let us finish the job?" Hiram asked, after recovering his surprise. "We'll have the water running into the trough in less than half an hour. All we have to do is to make the connections between the pipes to the lower spring.

"You go to bed yourself! I'll not think of letting Agatha dig here in this dark ditch any longer!" And Farmer Hankins sprang down into the ditch, lifting her gently out of the narrow quarters in which she had been working so heroically. In a few minutes the job was completed, and the two pipes were joined by Hiram, who had provided himself with a rude kit of tools for that purpose. Then all three of them hastened down to the water trough in Farmer Hankins' barnyard. Agatha turned the faucet, her fingers trembling a little as she did so. A gurgle of joy greeted their ears, and a moment later the water came trickling through the pipe and then fairly gushed out in a stream. So that Agatha's ingenuity had solved the problem which had defied the knowledge and skill of the water commissioner and all the rest of the wise men who had made the unsuccessful attempts to run the water up through Farmer Hankins' water pipe. All three stood watching the water pouring out of the faucet for a few moments in silence. Then Farmer Hankins took Agatha by the hand and said: "Now you go home, little girl, and get a good night's rest. You've won two suits fair and square."

And that was the end of the trouble, but the town officials rewarded Hiram and Agatha for this little act, which avoided so much trouble and unpleasantness, when a few months later they set up the family hearthstone.

At the next meeting of that august body one of the officials made a motion "that a pipe line be laid from the village main to the farmyard of this worthy young couple and supply water for their stock free for all time, with a faucet at the back kitchen door within easy reach of the charming mistress." And the motion was passed and agreed to without a dissenting voice.

Why the Idle Rich Are Tolerated.

By GEORGE BERNARD SHAW, English Dramatist and Philosopher.

WE TOLERATE THE IDLE MAN OF PROPERTY BECAUSE HE GIVES EMPLOYMENT.

Everybody recoils from this proposition with a sense of FUNDAMENTAL FALLACY somewhere. The fallacy is not recondite; it lies in confusing TWO QUITE DIFFERENT THINGS—EMPLOYING A MAN AND SUPPORTING HIM. A lunatic employs his keeper; he does not support him. A father supports his daughter; he does not employ her. The idle man of property is like the lunatic—he employs a great many keepers, but he does not support them. He does not even support himself, though he employs himself as best he can in shooting, hunting, racing, motoring or as an amateur in the arts and sciences. Both HE AND ALL HIS KEEPERS HAVE TO BE SUPPORTED by the labor of those who make the food they consume, the clothes they wear, the houses they live in, etc.

Thus we find that what the idle man of property does is to plunge into MORTAL SIN against society. He not only withdraws himself from the PRODUCTIVE forces of the nation and quarters himself on them as a parasite, but HE WITHDRAWS ALSO A BODY OF PROPERTYLESS MEN and places them in the same position, except that they have to earn this antisocial privilege by ministering to his wants and whims.

* * *

He thus creates and corrupts a class of workers—many of them highly trained and skilled and correspondingly paid—whose subsistence is bound up with his income. They are PARASITES ON A PARASITE, and they defend the institution of private property with a ferocity which startles their principal, who is often in a speculative way quite revolutionary in his views.

THEY KNOCK THE CLASS WAR THEORY INTO A COCKED HAT BY FORMING A POWERFUL CONSERVATIVE PROLETARIAT WHOSE ONE ECONOMIC INTEREST IT IS THAT THE RICH SHOULD HAVE AS MUCH MONEY TO SPEND AS POSSIBLE, AND IT IS THEY WHO ENCOURAGE AND OFTEN COMPEL THE PROPERTY OWNERS TO DEFEND THEMSELVES AGAINST THE ONWARD MARCH OF SOCIALISM.

Railroads Need Not Fear the Future.

By CHARLES M. HAYS, General Manager of the Grand Trunk Railway System.

SO long as crops continue to be as satisfactory as the past year and there is no serious failure in that direction, followed by successive failures, I see NO REASON WHY PRESENT CONDITIONS SHOULD NOT, LIKE THOSE OF SIMILAR PREVIOUS OCCASIONS, BE ONLY TEMPORARY.

The decreases in net earnings of railways are accounted for in part by the INCREASED COST OF LABOR, SUPPLIES AND MATERIAL and by the creation of the depreciation fund on rolling stock provided in the recent revised classification of operating expenses determined upon by the interstate commerce commission.

Should the requirements of traffic be less the present year than the past, in our opinion the improvements made during the year in equipment, track and terminal facilities of the railways will enable them to SERVE THE COUNTRY BETTER than has been the case in the past.

I SEE NO REASON WHY FOR THE ENSUING YEAR BOTH EASTERN AND WESTERN RAILWAYS SHOULD NOT MAINTAIN EXISTING DIVIDENDS, WITH POSSIBLY ONE OR TWO EXCEPTIONS.

It would undoubtedly be better if there were but ONE METHOD OF SUPERVISION of railways, either solely federal or state.

Public Life Cleaner Than Ever Before.

By Senator JONATHAN P. DOLLIVER of Iowa.

WITHIN the last few years there has sprung up a body of critics who attack the foundations of our form of government and social fabric. In my opinion they have EXAGGERATED THE DEFECTS OF OUR AFFAIRS until millions of citizens believe we are going to the bad.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, THERE HAS BEEN A STEADY MOVEMENT TOWARD HONESTY IN GOVERNMENT IN THE NATIONAL AND STATE ADMINISTRATIONS. WE HEAR MUCH ABOUT THE EVIL OF THE LOBBY AT CONGRESS AND AT OUR STATE LEGISLATURES, BUT THE LOBBY IS A RAPIDLY DISAPPEARING DANGER.

At the beginning of the civil war a famous gambler named Pendleton, whose house was near the capitol, was the leader of the lobby. His gambling house was the vestibule of congress.

Within his gambling house could be found nightly MEMBERS OF THE CABINET, GENERALS OF THE ARMY, ADMIRALS OF THE NAVY AND DIPLOMATS. When Pendleton died a few weeks before Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated for the first term President Buchanan was one of the mourners at the funeral. His pallbearers were members of the cabinet and United States senators.

IN THESE DAYS SUCH A CONDITION COULD NOT EXIST. A QUICKENED PUBLIC CONSCIENCE DEMANDS A HIGHER STANDARD OF INTEGRITY AND MORALITY FROM THE MEN WHO REPRESENT THE PEOPLE IN LEGISLATIVE BODIES AND PUBLIC OFFICE.

Since I entered congress twenty years ago I saw drunken members of both bodies reeling about the aisles. Today such a spectacle is IMPOSSIBLE.

At that time there was a groggery of the lowest type under the dome of the building where our laws are made. THAT HAS BEEN ABOLISHED, and so have all the liquor establishments in all federal buildings in the country.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, MD.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Schedule effective June 2, 1907.
OAKLAND.
*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *2.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.
We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,
1 Gasoline Engine,
8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $75.
1 Hay Bailer,
operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.
For further information call on or write to
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.
We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:
One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from B. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.
Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.
Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.
For further information, address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 15th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

A WARNING.

He was just a common poet
Of the ordinary type,
Doomed to write his verse and sow it
Wherever the field was ripe.
But one day he wrote some twaddle
With a meter like a knell,
And the thing rang in his noddle
Till his wits began to toddle
And his brain was all a-waddle,
And they put him in a cell.

Now he sits alone and looney
In the madhouse by the way,
And whene'er the nights are moony
He writes poetry, they say,
But his muse is most erratic,
As of course 'twould have to be,
For he's floppy in the attic,
Also violently lu-nat-ic,
And a straitjacket emphatic
Is his future destiny.

Moral is, don't write a jingle
With an overeatchy rhyme,
You might make too many mingle
In the madhouse at a time.
Maniacs in an asylum
Get excited if you rile 'em,
And you cannot bake or bile 'em
In this addlepated clime.

Just refrain from all the meters
That go galloping along,
And the jolly one that teters
Like a hushaby low song.
Strike a measure sorter mopey—
Such a one, we'll say, as mine.
Let her wander, limp and lopey,
Serpent-like-ish-ly and ropey,
Till you've got your rhythm dopey—
Or else quietly resign.
—Lurana W. Sheldon in Judge.

The Usual Work.

It seemed to Bobby that there was no end to the advice and instructions his mother gave him when he was starting off with his father for a week's trip.

"Now I want to be sure you have everything you need," she said, opening his bag in spite of his assurances that it held all a boy could possibly require. "Why, Bobby, where is your hairbrush? You were forgetting it."

"No, mother, I wasn't forgetting it," said Bobby, looking desperate. "I thought you said I was going on a vacation."—Youth's Companion.

Hiked Up.

"For goodness' sake," exclaimed the boy's mother, "what are you complaining about? You wanted reg'lar suspender pants an' now you've get 'em you ain't satisfied."

"I know, mom," protested the boy, "but I'm kinder 'fraid they're too tight under the arms."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Under the Sea Telegraphy.

From Mrs. Diver to Mr. Diver: "Come home early. Baby's cut a tooth."—Sketch.

Fat Pie.

Impecunious Count—Ah, but, duke, ze father of ze American girl is one immensely wealthy man.

Deadbroke Duke—Really, count! Then I suppose you intend to lean on him after the marriage?

Impecunious Count—Lean on him! How ridiculous! I intend to fatten on him.

Haste.

"What do you think of the fashion in women's hats?" inquired the storekeeper.

"They are typical of the rapid pace we are hitting," answered the customer. "Heretofore a hat had to go out of style before it looked so very funny."—Washington Star.

Tough Subject.

Elderly Customer—Miss Cincy, when you make those googoo eyes at a young man you generally fetch him, don't you?

Lunch Counter Girl (with a killing glance)—Yes, and the old ones, too, Mr. Wellon.—Chicago Tribune.

Succeeded.

New Contributor—I try to write with a free, unhampered style.

Editor (looking over his manuscript)—Well, you succeed. I never saw anything quite so magnificently independent of the rules of grammar as this is.—Minneapolis Journal.

Caught.

"Miss Passay," said Gailey in a burst of confidence, "I admit I'm an odd man. I'd like to be different"—

"Oh, Mr. Gailey, this is so sudden!" she cried, for she, too, was odd and longed to be even.—Philadelphia Press.

Avoiding Unlucky Thirteen.

He was on trial for bigamy.

"What," queried the judge, "ever induced you to marry fourteen wives?"

"Superstition, your honor," replied the prisoner. "I consider thirteen an unlucky number."—Detroit Tribune.

Making It Even.

"There is so much water in this stock," complained the unwary investor.

"But," remonstrated the broker, "look at the amount of white in the stockholders."—Baltimore American.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.
BREEDER OF
High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.
I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.
DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. & P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building,
Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,
Table and Floor Oil Cloths,
Lace Curtains,
Dotted Swiss,
Window Blinds,
Sheets and Pillow Cases,
Table Linen, Towels,
Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS
HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.
2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.
2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited, it can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.
Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.
C. H. JENNINGS, - - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.
C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows and Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,
Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞ For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

Stockholders' Meeting of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company.

Notice is hereby given that a general meeting of the stockholders of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company (successor to the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company of Garrett county, Md.), will be held at the office of the Company in the town of Friendsville, Garrett county, Md., on Tuesday, May 26th, 1908, at the hour of two o'clock p. m. The object of such meeting being: To elect a board of ten directors to serve for the ensuing year; to repeal and renact the by-laws of said company; to consider the proposition of Willard Brown and others, for the purchase or lease of a part of the Company's property for the installation of a power plant on Youghiogheny River, and generally for the consideration of such business as may be properly brought before a stockholders general meeting.

This notice is given by virtue of an order passed at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company, of Garrett county, Md., held at Friendsville, Md., on May 11th, 1908, accepting the amended charter of the company as provided by Chapter 364 of the Acts of 1908.

J. R. TENNANT, Secretary.
Friendsville, Md., May 12th, 1908. 11-3t

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

BENJAMIN F. BOWSER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 14th day of May 1908.

AMOS BOWSER,
Administrator.
R. F. D. No. 2, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County, in Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

HARVEY B. NEWMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of May, 1908.

S. T. JONES,
Executor.
Oakland, Md.

Proposals For Building Wrought Iron Bridge

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will receive sealed proposals on Tuesday, the 2nd day of June, '08,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over little Youghiogheny at the Close crossing about one mile from Oakland, the superstructure to consist of one span 85 feet long and 12 feet wide. The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure seperate from the stone work and vice versa.

The bids for substructure can be either for stone or concrete, the Board to decide which is to be used at the date of letting.

Plans and specifications to be seen in the Commissioners Office on and after May 22, 1908.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

Subscribe for the Republican.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 5th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1. ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND KNOWN AND DESIGNATED AS MILITARY LOT NUMBE ELEVEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, lying and being in Election District No. 10 of Garrett county and being the same lot which was conveyed by Elizabeth F. Cecil to Elizabeth Paugh et al. by deed bearing date the 1st day of June, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 99, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth Paugh.

No. 2. ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, KNOWN AS MILITARY LOT NUMBER THIRTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE, which was conveyed by William M. Lohr, late Treasurer of Garrett county, to William A. Hauser by deed bearing date the 3rd day of November, 1903, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 301, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Adolphus Osse to Charles Osso dated the 2nd day of July, 1894, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 331, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county iu the name of the said William A. Hauser.

No 3.—ALL THOSE LOTS LOCATED IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK KNOWN AS LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND THIRTY-ONE, being fully described in a deed for the same from James C. Feddicord, Trustee, to D. James Blackiston, dated the 3rd day of December, 1896, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 585, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said D. James Blackiston.

No. 4.—PART OF A LOT KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER TWENTY-ONE OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED LOCHIEL, CONTAINING TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE ACRES, and being the same land which was conveyed by F. P. Green and wife to Mary C. Love by deed bearing date the 26th day of August, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 147, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is more particularly described in a deed for the same to the said F. P. Green executed by John T. Mitchell and wife, bearing date the 30th day of January, 1899, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 36, folio 224, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 or said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary C. Love.

No. 5.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND LOCATED IN LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth A. White and husband to William C. White, bearing date the 13th day of July, 1896, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 369, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, and beginning for the same at a stake at the northwest corner of a lot conveyed to Eulalia E. Lish and with it South 63½ degrees East, 130 feet to an alley, thence South 63½ degrees West, 49 feet, thence North 63½ degrees West 130 feet to Seneca Avenue extended, and with same North 26½ degrees East, 49 feet to the beginning containing 15-100 of an acre, nearly. Said lot is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said William C. White.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK described in a deed for the same from Mary E. Mayers to Annie V. Cunningham, dated the 10th day of April, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 433, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said description being as follows: Beginning at a stone on the southwest corner of Spruce and E streets and running with E street South 50 feet to a stake for a place of beginning, thence with the South line of Lot No. 107, 120 feet to an alley, thence South along said alley 25 feet to a stake, thence East 120 feet to E street, thence North along E street 25 feet to the place of beginning, said lot being shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association as recorded in the plat records of Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Annie V. Cunningham.

No. 7.—LOTS NUMBERS THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY AND THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-TWO as shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio 800, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed by Mountain Lake Park Association to Mary B. Wilson et al., by deed dated the 28th day of January, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 341, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the heirs of George M. Wilson.

No. 8.—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THREE, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FOUR, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Lands of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gay and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 9.—ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE AND THREE-QUARTER ACRES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "POTOMAC MANOR," being the same land which was patented to General John Swan by the State of Maryland the 24th day of December, 1800, and conveyed by the Manor Mining Company to Abraham I. Wilson, by deed dated the 16th day of January, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 132, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as it charged on the Asfessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Abraham I. Wilson.

No. 10.—THE SURFACE OF ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND CONTAINING SIXTY-FIVE ACRES, BEING A PORTION OF THE TRACT KNOWN AS "BANK TERRITORY," and being the same lot of ground described in a deed from Adelaid S. Hubbard and others and conveyed by them to Benjamin S. Tasker dated the 23rd day of October, 1900, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 137, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Benjanin S. Tasker.

No. 11.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE ACRE, and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Albert L. Lee then Sheriff of Garrett county, to Walter C. Bowman, dated the 2nd day of January, 1907, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 222, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of William Enlow.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent per annum and all costs. Conveyoncing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 3 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge intefest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Treasurer.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor,
Frostburg, Md.

7-8t

CHAPTER 549.

(Continned from page 7.)

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That any Supervisor of Election, Judge of Election, police officer or other officer of the law, who shall wilfully refuse or neglect or fail to discharge any duty imposed by this Act, and any one who signs a petition, provided for in this Act, knowing he is not qualified to do so or who files with the Supervisors of Elections any such petition or any sheet or other part thereof, knowing that it contains the signature of a person not qualified to sign the same, or who received, requests or demands, or gives, offers or promises anyreward for signing or refraining from signing of any such petition, or who by treating or giving intoxicating liquors or any thing else of the same or different kind, or by threats to injure another person or property, or by betting or other devise either directly or indirectly, influence or attempt to influence any one to sign or refrain from signing any such petition, shall upon conviction thereof be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200) or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provisions of this section and shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section, for such second and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician to issue a prescription for intoxicating liquors except in writing, or in any case unless the person for it is issued is actually sick, or such liquor is required as a medicine Every prescription for intoxicating liquors shall contain the name and quantity of liquor prescribed; the name of the person for whom prescribed, the date on which the prescription is written and directions for use of the liquor so prescribed and it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician who has been convicted of issuing verbal prescriptions for intoxicating liquors or of issuing prescriptions for intoxicating liquor, knowing the same to be for use as a beverage, or of issuing prescriptions that do not in form comply with this Act, thereafter to issue any prescription for intoxicating liquor for any purpose for a period of two years from the date of such conviction. Every prescription issued in violation of the provisions hereof shall be held to be an unlawful selling and on conviction therefor the person issuing same shall be punished accordingly.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to forbid or prevent the sale within "Anti-Saloon Territory" by a druggist or pharmacist of liquor for medical or sacramental purposes only, or of alcohol for meuicine, chemical or mechanical purposes only; not to be drunk upon the premises under any circumstances; provided the following requirements are fully complied with and such druggist or pharmacist in good faith shall keep a true and exact record in book which he shall provide for the purpose, in which shall be entered at the time of every sale of intoxicating liquor made by him, or in and about his place of business to all persons whomsoever, the date of such sale, the name of the purchaser, who shall also sign his name in said book as a part of said entry, and his residence, stating the street and house number if there be such, the kind, quantity and price of such liquor, the purpose for which it was sold; and when the sale is for medicinal purposes, the book shall also contain the name of the physician issuing the prescription therefor. Such prescriptions shall be cancelled by writing on it the words "cancelled" and the date on which it was presented and filled, and kept on file. No prescription shall be filled a second time. Such book shall be in form substantially as follows:

Date	Name of purchaser	Residence	Kind and quality	Purpose of use	Price	Name of physician	Signature of purchaser

and the book and all such prescriptions before provided for shall be open to inspection by any State's Attorney, Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, Judge of any court, or any sheriff, constable or other police officer. Any druggists or pharmacist who shall fail to keep such record, or shall fail or refuse to make any entry therein required by law, or shall destroy or alter or change in any way, any such record or any entry therein or any prescription, or procure the same to be destroyed, altered or changed, or shall refill any prescription or shall refill any prescription or shall sell intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes in written prescription or for sacramental purposes without an order signed by a clergyman shall for each sale in violation of the provisions of this Section be deemed guilty of unlawful selling and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a sale by such druggist of such liquor as may be needed by or for a sick person in case of extreme illness, when delay may be dangerous. It shall be unlawful for any druggist or pharmacist who has been convicted of selling intoxicating liquors in violation of this Act thereafter to sell intoxicating liquors for any purpose personally or by agent for two years in any "Anti Saloon Territory" and upon a second conviction for violating the provisions of this Act any such druggist or pharmacist shall have his certificate to practice pharmacy revoked, and the Justice of the Peace or the Judge before whom such druggist or pharmacist is convicted of a second violation of this Act shall so order and send a copy of such order to the Commissioners of Pharmacy, upon receipt of which such certificate shall forthwith be revoked by such Commissioners of pharmacy, and shall not be renewed within one year from the date of such revocation.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person, or public or private carrier to knowingly accept or receive for shipment, transportation or delivery to any person or place within any "Anti-Saloon Territory" or to carry, bring into, transfer to any other person, carrier or agent, handle, deliver or distribute in any "Anti-Saloon Territory" any intoxicating liquor, regardless of the name by which it may be called and whoever shall bring himself or another, either as principal, clerk, agent or servant, knowingly, violate any of the provisions of this Section shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and upon conviction of any subsequent violation of this Section in addition to such fine shall be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirt, days nor more than six months. Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to individuals who may bring into any "Anti-Saloon Territory" upon their person or as their personal baggage, and for their private use, such liquor in quantity not to exceed one gallon, nor to physicians or druggists to whom any public carrier may deliver such goods in unbroken packages, in quantity not to exceed five gallons at any one time nor to deliveries to churches, or the proper officers thereof of wine in unbroken packages for sacramental purposes, nor to deliver at private residences which are not places of business or public resorts by manufactures or wholesalers, by their own conveyances in unbroken packages of liquors, the contract for the sale of which was consummated outside of "Anti-Saloon Territory"; nor to deliveries within any city which is not "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent; nor to shipments of liquor in continuous transits to a point outside of such "Anti-Saloon Territory"; this section shall apply to all packages of intoxicating liquor whether broken or unbroken. Each package of intoxicating liquor regardless of the name by which it may be called, accepted, received, carried, transferred, handled, delivered or distributed in violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offence, the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transferring, handling, delivering or distribution of intoxicating liquor under false or fictitions names in an "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall work a forfeiture of such liquor. It is further expressly provided that no provision of this section is intended or shall be construed to violate or be in conflict with any provision of the Constitution and laws of the United States respecting "Inter-State Commerce"; but this section and all parts of same are intended to prohibit the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transfering, handling, delivery or distribution as herein provided, of intoxicating liquor to such extent only as the same is not expressly permitted under the Constitution and laws of the United States. if any provision of this Section shall be held to be void or unconstitutional, it is hereby provided that all other portions of same which are not expressly held to be void or unconstitutional, shall continue in full force and effect.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That all prosecutions for violations of this Act, which are hereby declared to be misdemeanors may be either upon presentment or indictment, or by trial before a Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, who shall have jurisdiction, original and concurrent with the Circuit Court for Garrett county; and the Justice shall have the power to issue all process, and to do all acts which may be necessary to the exercise of his said jurisdiction, and may try and determine all cases whereof he may have jurisdiction, and may pronounce judgment and sentence therein, in the same manner and to the same extent as the Circuit Court for Garrett county, could do in such cases, if such cases were tried before said Court without the intervention of a Jury; provided, however, that if any person, when brought before any justice having jurisdiction of the case, shall before trial for the alleged offence pray a jury trial, or if the State's Attorney for said county, shall before trial of such alleged offence pray a jury trial on the part of the State, it shall be the duty of such Justice to commit such alleged offender for trial, or to hold him to bail to appear for trial the Circuit Court for Garrett county if it be in session, or at its next session, if it be not in session, and return said commitment or recognizance, with the names and residence of the witnesses for the prosecution endorsed thereon forthwith to the Clerk of said Court; and the Justice before whom the case is brought shall in every such case inform the person charged of his rights to a jury trial.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That in all prosecutions under this Act by indictmhnt or otherwise, it shall not be necessary to state the kind of liquor sold, nor to show the knowledge of the principal to convict for the acts of an agent or servant; nor to state the name of any person to whom liquor is sold nor to set forth the facts showing that the required number of legal voters petitioned for the submission to the voters of said proposition, nor that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "yes"; but it shall be sufficient to state in that regard that the Act complained of took place in "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district. The issuance of an Internal Revenue Special Tax Stamp or receipt by the United States to any person as a wholesale or retail dealer in liquor or in malt liquor at any place within territory which at the time of the issuance thereof is "Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be prima facia evidence of the sale of intoxicating liquor by such person at such place or at any place of business of such person within such territory where stamps or receipt is posted, and at the time charged in any suit or prosecution under this Act; provided, such time is within the life of such stamp or receipt.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That if any person makes a sworm complaint or affidavit before any Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, or Judge of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, particularly describing the house or place to search and the things to be searched for that he has reasons to believe and does believe that intoxicating liquors are sold or kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act, such Justice of the peace, Judge shall issue his warrant directed to any officer whom the complainant may designate having power to serve criminal process commanding him to search the premises described and designated in such complaint and warrant, and the appurtenances thereof and if any such shall there be found, to take into his possession and safely keep all intoxicating liquors and the vessels in which it is contained if the same shall be found in quantities and under such conditions as to suggest that it is kept for sale and all the means used for the sale of the same, all the paraphanalia or part of the paraphanalia of a bar room or drinking saloon, and any United States Internal Revenue tax receipt for the sale of intoxicating liquors, effective for the period of time covering the alledged offence, and forthwith report in writing all the facts and make immediate return on said warrant. B the warrant for search shall be directed to the proper officer and shall show by a copy of the affidavit inserted therein or annexed and referred to or recite all the material facts alleged in the affidavit and particularly describe the thing to be searched for and place to be searched.

A warrant for search substantially in the following form shall be sufficient.

State of Maryland Garrett county towit:

To————Greeting————

Whereas there has been filed with the undersigned an affidavit of which the following is a copy:

here copy affidavit

These are therefore to command you in the name of the State of Maryland together with the necessary and proper assistance to enter into———— (here describe house or place described in the affidavit) of the said————of————in the county aforesaid and there diligently search for the said intoxicating liquor and means used for the sale of same (here describe the articles as in the affidavit) and that you bring the same or any part thereof found in such search forthwith before me to be disposed of and dealt with according to law. Given under my hand this————day of————A. D.

Such liquor and means used for the sale of same shall be held subject to the order of the Justice of the Peace or Court issuing the warrant to be used as evidence in the prosecution of any case for the violation of this Act. C. If fluids be poured out or otherwise destroyed when the premises are searched or about to be searched, said fluids shall be held prima facie to be intoxicating liquors and intended for sale in violation of this Act. D. If upon final judgment of the Justice of the Peace or Court the accused shall be found guilty, the intoxicating liquor seized from him shall after the time for appeal has expired and if no appeal is taken, be ordered to be destroyed and the other property shall be held as property of the accused or owner. If the accused shall be found not guilty the whole of the property seized shall be returned to the person from whom it was taken. E. When any liquor shall have been seized by virtue of such warrant the same shall not be discharged or returned to any person claiming the same reason of any alleged in sufficiency in the description in the complaint or warrant of the liquor or place; but the claimant shall be entitled to a hearing when the case is tried. F. If no one is found in possession of the premises where intoxicating liquor may be found, the officer taking the same shall post in a conspicuous place on said premises a copy of his warrant and take possession of such liquor and means used for the sale of the same and hold them subject to the order of the Court or Justice of the Peace issuing the warrant and make return of his doings thereon whereupon it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace or Court to fix a time for hearing and determining the purpose for which such liquor is kept and issue a notice thereof to the officer who shall post a copy thereof on the premises where the liquor were found. If no one appears at the time fixed for said hearing, nor within thirty days thereafter, to claim such liquor and means used for the sale of same, the Justice of the Peace or Court shall order the same destroyed. G. No warrant shall be issued to search a private residence occupied as such unless it or some part of it is used as a store or shop, hotel, or boarding house, or unless such residence is a place of public resort. H. The person making affidavit for the warrant to search any place where intoxicating liquor is believed to be disposed of contrary to this Act, may personally or by agent accompany the officer who serves the warrant and enter the place with such officer and give information and assistance to such in searching such places for such intoxicating liquor; J. Liquor seized as hereinbefore provided, and the means used for the sale of the same shall not be taken from the custody of the officer by a writ of replevin or other process while the proceedings herein provided are pending, and final judgment of conviction in such proceedings shall be in all cases a bar to all suits for the recovery of any liquor seized or the value of the same, or damages alleged to arise by reason of the seizing and detention thereof. K. When any prosecution is commenced before any Justice of the Peace or Court for a violation of this Act, and the liquor seized under this section is to be used as evidence in such trial, the hearing must take place in not more than thirty days if such Court be then in session, and if it be not in session if at the time appointed for the trial the returns have not been properly made, or for other sufficient cause, the trial may be postponed to a further date, not more than fifteen days beyond said thirty days. L. The word liquor when used in this Section unless the same be inconsistent with the context, shall be construed to include the vessels containing the same. The phrase "means used for the sale of same" shall include all furniture, implements, or paraphernalia of a barroom or drinking saloon or any part of same, and any United States internal revenue tax receipt effective for the period of time covering the alleged offense.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, that any five legal voters of any political sub-division in which an election shall have been held as provided for in this Act may, within ten days after the canvass of the returns of such election, and upon filing a bond for costs in a penalty to be fixed by the presiding judge, and with a surety or sureties to be approved by him, contest the validity of such election by filing a verified petition in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, setting forth the grounds for the contest. Upon the filing of such petition a summons shall forthwith issue from such Court addressed to the supervisors of elections with whom the petition for such election was filed, notifying such supervisors of election, of the filing of said petition and directing them to appear in such Court on behalf of such political sub-division at the time named in the summons, which time shall be not less than five nor more than fifteen days after the filing of such petition. The procedure in such cases shall be the same as that provided by law for contesting an election to a public office, so far as the same is applicable. The said Court shall have final jurisdiction to hear aud determine the merits of such cases. Any legal voter in the political sub-division in which such election shall have been held, may be permitted by the Court in its description to appear in person or by attorney in any such contested election case in defence of the validity of such election.

SEC. 25. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall apply to the incorporated town of Oakland.

SEC. 26. And be it further enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6th, 1908.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1908. NUMBER 13

DO NOT LIKE SMITH'S METHOD

Democrats Dissatisfied at Being Ignored in the Party Councils.

The democratic party in Maryland is in mighty bad shape today. There are factional differences in many parts of the state and an especially bitter fight is being waged in Dorchester county, which is on the eastern shore, the stronghold of the state boss, Senator Smith. Much comment has been aroused over the fact that Senator Smith has not taken a hand in the row and effected a compromise. The effect of the fight will be to encourage the factional contests all over the state, as there is much dissatisfaction prevailing with the existing order of things in many of the counties. Senator Smith has failed to develop those elements of leadership which count for success. He lacks tact and fails to grasp opportunities to cement the party. And as a result signs of disintegration in the new machine are already apparent. The democratic nominees will have a hard fight to win this year, because the organization is not a compact, harmonious working body. Too little attention has been paid to the small leaders, the men who do the actual work of vote getting on elect ion da These little local bosses have come to feel that they are being treated like a herd of sheep and they naturally resent it. The circle of Smith's advisers is a very charmed and select one and only a few can get the ear of the big boss. Hence the real workers have become disgruntled and are taking little or no interest in the political game.

The condition wherein the party will have its greatest effect upon the pet scheme of the Smith machine—the disfranchisement amendment. The party bosses within the charmed circle have set their heart upon the ratification of this measure at the poll next November and seem to have forgotten that the pie must be made before it can be eaten. The amendment was put through the legislature with such ease under the party whip that the state seems to have forgotten that the voters of the state have an inning coming to them. On the day of its passage the amendment had the show of being ratified at the polls and today it seems almost a foregone conclusion that it will be defeated by an overwhelming majority. Against the amendment in the campaign this fall will be found many democrats who have the confidence of the people and a solid and united republican party.

It would not cause much surprise if the amendment went down under a majority as heavy as that which buried the Poe amendment several years ago, when Gov. Warfield took his stand with the people as against the bosses. It is expected that Warfield will again take up the cudgels to defeat the amendment and lead the independent democrats in the fight.

Subscribe for the Republican.

THE DEATH RECORD.

THOMAS D. DAVIS.

Thomas D. Davis, aged thirty-six years, died at the home of his wife's father, Mr. John Yelloly, on Water street, Oakland, Monday night, May 25th, 1908, after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. The deceased was married about five years ago to Miss Emma Yelloly, who with a little son of four years, survive him. He came here with his family from his home at Columbus, Ohio, three or four weeks ago, with the hope that the change of climate would at least prolong his life. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, being conducted by Rev. J. B. Workman, of St. Paul's church. The interment was made in the Oakland cemetery.

Death of a Good Man.

On Tuesday morning last death came and released George P. White from his sufferings, which had been intense for several weeks. Deceased was 59 years old and had spent his entire life in this community, where he was highly respected. He was married in 1878 to Miss Rachel Deetz, who survives him with three sons, all married. Though quite prominent deceased had never held public office, except as mayor and councilman of Loch Lynn, but had often been suggested as a candidate for the legislature, judge of the orphans' court and county commissioner. He had been a member of the M. E. church since early manhood until recently he transferred his membership to the U. B. church on account of his enfeebled condition and the near proximity of the latter church to his residence. He held the positions of class leader and Sunday school superintendent for many years. Owing to the large family relation and the universal respect in which he was held it was determined to hold the funeral services in the old auditorium in Mountain Lake Park, today at 10:45 a. m., the interment to be in the Oakland cemetery. The lodges of K. of P. and I. O. O. F., of which he was an honored member, will be in attendance. A more extended notice will be published later.

Preparing For The Fourth.

Oak Grove Grange No. 22 is preparfor an immense celebration at Kearney on July 4th, to which the public generally is invited. Among the attractions will be a tournament, bicycle and sack races, and other amusements. Addresses will be delivered by prominant speakers. Further particulars will be announced by poster.

Baby's Leg Broken.

Virginia, the thirteen-months old daughter of ex-Senator and Mrs. U. G. Palmer, of Hutton, fell to the floor at the home of its parents Tuesday afternoon and suffered the fracture of its left leg within an inch of the hip joint. The accidental breaking of the bones of an infant is extremely rare. Dr. McComas reduced the fracture.

ROAD COMMISSION TO BE IN OAKLAND WEDNESDAY

Meeting of Citizens Requested for 8:30 A. M. at the Court House.

THE COMMISSION'S TIME LIMITED

Hence the Early Hour for the Meeting—Residents of the Entire County Are Urged To Be Present and to Participate—Commision Wants to Know Needs of County.

The State Highway Commission, including Governor Crothers, who is a member, will arrive in Oakland early on Wednesday morning of next week for the purpose of consulting with the residents of Garrett county concerning the desires of the citizens with respect to the building of permanent roads at the expense of the State, an appropriation amounting to $5,000,000 for the purpose having been vested in the Commission for this purpose at the meeting of the resent Legislature. This amount of money, of course, is to be distributed throughout the entire state, but Garrett county is entitled to and will receive a portion of it, the Commission's visit here being for the purpose of ascertaining what road or roads the residents desire to be permanently built.

Upon the day that the Commission expects to be in Oakland Circuit Court will be in session and residents from every section of the county will necessarily be present, hence they are urgently requested to be prepared to lay their views before the Commission.

The Oakland Board of Trade has taken the matter in hand and has called a meeting for Monday night at the opera house when arrangements will be perfected for the reception of the Commission and plans formulated that may result in the rehabilitation of the old National Road as well as the erection of a road on scientific lines running from the West Virginia line on the south to the Pennsylvania line on the north. Not only members of the Board of Trade are invited and expected to be at the Monday night meeting, but every resident of the county as well will be cordially welcome.

Relative to the visit of the Commissin to Oakland the following letter is self-explanatory:

To the Editor of The Republican.

Under the provisions of the State Highway Bill passed by the late legislature, the Highway Commission, lately appointed by the Governor, is empowered to select, build and maintain a system of State Highways, at state expense without cost to the counties.

In this county we are making every effort to have the National Road from Cumberland west, and the Baltimore Pike, from Cumberland east made a part of this system. If this is done, it will insure the substantial rebuilding and permanent maintenance of those import ant thoroughfares.

It would be a splendid thing for Garrett county, if, in addition to the National Road, a main road leading from it to Oakland could also be included in this State system, as that would aid in connecting the county seats of Garrett and Allegany by a first-class, modern highway, and giving the farming districts of both counties an easy route to market.

The Highway Bill carries an appropriation of $5,000,000 which is to be expended within seven years. This amount of money will build many miles of first-class road, and our end of the State is entitled to some of it.

The Highway Commission, all of whom are Eastern Maryland men, are going to hold a public meeting in Oakland on Wednrsday, June 3, to get the sentiment of Garrett connty people on this most important subject.

They will have a similar meeting in Cumberland the day to hear from Allegany county.

The Oakland meeting will be at 8:30 A. M. The one in Cumberland is to be at 1 or 2 P. M.

It behooves us to hustle if we want to get our share of the road work and now is our time to act, as this is the only opportunity to meet these men before they make their selection of roads to be adopted by the state.

Hoping that you and your neighbors will impress the importance of prompt action upon your County Commissioners, and that you will meet with success in your efforts, I am,

Very truly yours,
G. G. Townsend,
Road Engineer of Allegany Co.

WRECK NEAR OAKLAND.

Freight Cars Became Derailed and Tear Up Both Trachs of the B. & O.

Last Saturday night about nine o'clock an eastbound freight train, while approaching the Big Youghiogheny River bridge, a mile and a-half west of town, was wrecked, caused by a large steel car, loaded with coal, becoming derailed.

The derailed car dropped down upon the ties of the eastbuund track and in some manner was thrown across to the opposite track, tearing both tracks up for a distance of several hundred feet.

The wrecking crew was called from Keyser and after working for several hours the obstruction was cleared away any traffic resumed.

Train No. 1, due here at 10.26 in the evening, was held at the Oakland station several hours before it could proceed on its westward journey. All other trains were likewise delayed.

BITTINGER.

Little Webster Detrick, the six year old son of Dennis Detrick, a farmer residing about one mile west of this village, met with a painful and what might have been a fatal accident on last Monday afternoon. The child had been in the field with his father, who had been dynamiting some stumps, when about four o'clock Mr. Detrick gave the little fellow a number of dynamite caps and told him to cary them to the house and put them away. The boy did as he was bidden, but kept one of the caps and went out into the yard near the house and placed it upon a rock and struck the cap with another rock. The explosion which followed blew off the thumb and one finger from his left hand and pieces of the cap cut him about the face and legs.

Word reached this place last week of the kidnapping of little Genevieve Shoup, the five year old granddaughter of Rev. J. B. Shoup the former Lutheran pastor of this charge. The little girl was at the home of her grandparents at Fitzgerald, Ga., and when last seen by her grandmother was playing about the yard Sunday afternoon, May 10th, and it is believed that she was abducted.

Rev. Alvin Jugal, who was recently called to this charge by the Lutheran congregation, arrived here last week and began his work by preaching at this appointment last Sunday morning.

Among the out-of-town visitors to this village last week, we note Wade H. Lohr, of Swanton, Gilead Broadwater, of Grantsville, and Thomas Swan, of Bloomington.

P. Y. Lohr, of Oakland, has returned to this section and now has a position with Jennings Bros'. Lumber Co.

Gus Stanton lost a valuable young horse one day last week, and immediately replaced it by purchasing one from Noah Wilt.

Patterson Engle is a little ahead of his neighbors with his corn as he has it up and cultivating it already.

FRIENDSVILLE.

Miss Ethel Dunham has returned home from Selbysport, where she has been spending a few days with relatives.

Miss Ida Mason, who has been spending a couple of weeks with her brother, returned to her home in Durbin, W. Va.

Mrs. Geo. Long and little daughter returned home from Connellsville, Pa., where they had been spending several weeks with relatives and friends.

Miss Elizabeth Long is at this writing visiting in Connellsville, Pa.

Dr. A. J. Mason and Mr. Bartol made a flying trip to Swallow Falls on Thursday of last week.

Mr. Alsip made a business trip to Cumberland last week in the interest of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Co., returned home on Sunday night.

Don't forget the supper at the Hall on Saturday night, May 30th, given by the Dorcas Society of the Lutheran church. They want you all to come hungry and go away satisfied.

Mr. Ernest Shartzer is all smiles over the arrival at his home of a bouncing baby boy.

Mr. Ezra Hook was seen in town last week purchasing a fine new crib which he said was for Ezra Hook Jones.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

Subscribe for The Republican.

THE RIGHT WAY BLAZED.

A Well Known Garrett Countain Sees a Wonderful Future.

To the Editor of The Republican:

Oakland, after droning and sleeping for thirty years, until her popularity as a summer resort departed, has at last shaken itself awake, and by a vote of nearly four to one, placed its future destiny in the hands of younger, more brainy and progressive men. A modern pure water, sewerage, and fire protecting system will soon be installed, but the good work should not stop here.

As one of the oldest living pioneers of the town and one who thoroughly understands what he is writing about, I will be pardoned for "blazing the way" to far greater glory for Oakland, Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park, etc., than they ever dreamed of before. The way if followed as blazed, will not only benefit the summer resorts but every living soul in Garrett county by doubling the assessable value of the immense extent of undeveloped coal, fire clay, kaolin, iron ore, etc., in its borders.

Two weeks ago we published an article showing that more than 90,000 acres of our richest coal and mineral lands are already owned, or "optioned" by non-resident capitalists and speculators, who don't care a fig for Oakland's future except in so far as its enterprises pours wealth into their selfish and greedy pockets. In addition to the 90,000 acres of undeveloped territory lying northward and northwest of Oakland, which are monopolized by non-resident speculators, there are at least 10,000 acres of coal and other minerals that still belongs to resident farmers and other citizens of the county; which being added makes a total of 100,000 acres of coal lands, the development of which depends, absolutely, upon the building of cheap electric railroads with lateral branches from the mines of each individual land owner to connect with existing trunk line, or by direct standard guage electric railroad to Uniontown, Masontown, Fairmont, Morgantown, Kingwood, Fairchance, Connellsville and Pittsburg. The interest of all the owners of this vast extent of undeveloped territory, as well as the citizens of all the towns named are mutual; hence each one of them should put their shoulders to the wheel and unite, in a common effort in securing a cheap hydro-electric plant near Swallow Falls.

Capitalists, before investing, requires that each land owner who be will benefitted this by cheap power plant, shall contribute their share, in proportion to their holdings, either by ceding free right of way, supplying crossties, etc., or by subscribing to the capital stock and bonds. Each land owner who thus aids in the installation of this plant will be guaranteed reciprocal advantages, in minimum rentals for the power and lights required by them.

The first important step in the enterprise will be a standard guage electric railroad from Swallow Falls to Oakland and thence to Mt. Lake Park and Deer Park. This road will attract wealthy summer visitors from all sections of the country, many of whom will purchase the beautiful sites, all along the line, and erect villas and cottages in the finest summer climate in the world. This short line, of six miles, will also tap dozens of developed coal mines that are now paying from $1 to $1.50 per ton for hauling coal over the rough and muddy wagon roads to Oakland, and hence become a valuable feeder to the B. &. O. From Swallow Falls to Pittsburg the immense shipments from this vast region will not be dependent upon the river route alone. An ideal and much shorter route, from Swallow Falls to Uniontown and Pittsburg, is up Muddy Creek to Cranesville and thence over easy grades, as the crow flies, to Uniontown, less than thirty miles distant. This road and its branches will run right through the famous Connellsville coking coal land belonging to Hon. James M. Guffey and others. A branch 14 miles long, from the Swallow Falls and Oakland link, will connect with the standard guage railroad of the Jennings Lumber and Coal Company to Meyersdale on the B. & O. This branch will tap a score of partially developed coal mines all along the bases of Roman Nose Mountain, Negro Mountain and Meadow Mountain to the Cassellman river Coal field at Jennings.

The writer being one of the oldest living surveyors and engineers in the county, knows whereof he speaks and assures the public generally that this is no "pipe dream" but a practicable and profitable enterprise which he can demonstrate by his maps, land plats and other data which are the result of a long lifetime of careful researches.

Having "blazed the way" it is now "up to" other interested writers to take up this most vital subject which is of universal interest to every living soul in Garrett county.

H. P. T.

Washout and Landslides.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, along its line west of Piedmont up the Seventeen Mile grade, has had bad luck a-plenty during the past two months. Last Thursday afternoon a recurrence of landslides in addition to a washout at Bear Wallow, took place, which blocked traffic for twelve hours, not a wheel turning in all that time. Train No. 14, eastbound, proceded down the grade on time Thursday afternoon, but later was brought back to Oakland and the passengers went to bed at the hotels in Oakland leaving here Friday morning about 6 o'clock. The road was opened an hour or two later and traffic was resumed.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

DIXON & KELSO

EVERY DAY
IS BARGAIN DAY
AT
Dixon & Kelso's.

Please note the following items that we have reduced for this week:

Lot of remnants of Matting at half price; also new prices of Matting, Linoleum and Carpet reduced.

Lot of Ladies' Muslin Underwear at 50 per cent. off.

Ladies' Wrappers that sold for $1.00 and $1.25, your choice for 89 cents.

We will save you 25 per cent. on Misses' and Ladies' Dress Skirts and Waists.

Ladies' 12 1-2c Vests at 8c., or 3 for 25c.

P. S. Will pay highest market price for WOOL.

Come and See
DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing
For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.
NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE
OAKLAND, MD

The Fight on Little Round Top

Valor of the Twentieth Maine at Gettysburg.

How Colonel Chamberlain Won the Medal of Honor.

By FRANK H. SWEET

Copyright, 1908, by Frank H. Sweet.

THE war council of Federal generals the night before the second day's battle of Gettysburg became necessarily a frantic pretention of scanning the unknown. Outside on the lengthening ridges and between the abrupt hillsides of that intricate battlefield lay the encampments of the two hostile armies, ominous and solemn. There were few campfires. At times could be heard the voice of a sentry challenging or the drawn out clatter of a horseman on the stone pavement of the cemetery. Daybreak found cautious General Meade still listening to the reports of his division commanders, to their stories of misfortune and plans for strengthening the line of battle.

The unexpected was certain to befall both officers and men, and they must be ready to perform miracles if need be. An instance of this kind was the fight of the Twentieth Maine on Little Round Top, in token of which the colonel of the regiment, Joshua L. Chamberlain, for his daring heroism received the medal of honor.

Little Round Top had escaped the vigilance of the Federal commanders. This was the smaller of two rough hills, strewn with bowlders and bare, slippery rocks, rising sharply from a wooded swamp, behind which stretched the Confederate battle line. At the foot of Little Round Top a body of Union troops had been posted.

It was now afternoon. Lee's attack was expected momentarily, and every man was waiting intently, with his eyes fixed upon the open space that separated the two armies. Just at this time, by a fortunate chance, it occurred to General Meade to order General Warren to ride over the field in the direction of the Round Tops. Warren did so, and when he came to the foot of Little Round Top he left his horse and climbed to the summit. What was his surprise to find at this point only one soldier, an officer of the signal corps! He no sooner looked about him than it became instantly clear to him that the top of this hill was in reality the key to the whole position. His astonishment gave place to consternation.

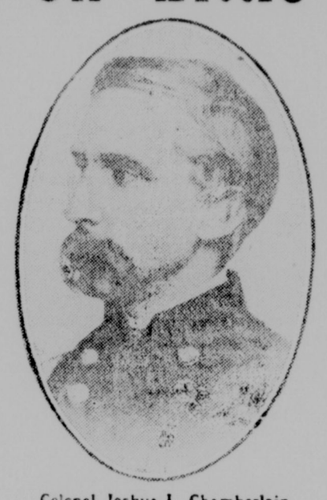
With his glass he noted the thickly wooded ridge beyond the swamp.

"Captain," he said, "fire a shot into those woods."

The captain of the rifle battery did so, and a simultaneous flash of musket barrel and bayonet revealed to the northern general the presence of a long line of the enemy far outflanking the position of the Union troops. The fact thrilled him. It was most appalling. A strong force should have been intrenched long ago on this hill. Perhaps even now it was not too late. He rushed off a messenger to General Meade with a pencilled word to send General Warren at least a division to hold the position at Little Round Top.

On the summit where the signal officer was stationed the musket balls were beginning to fly. He folded up his flags and was going to leave, but at this moment Warren came back and induced him to keep the flags waving.

"It may puzzle those people," he said, meaning the enemy, "and may keep them back for a few minutes."



Colonel Joshua L. Chamberlain In Civil War Days.

The moments of suspense came suddenly to an end with the arrival of Vincent's brigade and Hazlett's battery of rifled cannon, Fifth artillery.

The young battery lieutenant spoke. "General, what is the matter?"

"The deuce is to pay!" was the reply. "I hope you can hold out until the infantry gets into position."

"I guess I can," answered Lieutenant Hazlett. As a matter of fact, he stayed there until he was killed.

The veteran Chamberlain, now in his eightieth year, thus describes the action from this point:

"Warren started our brigade (Vincent's) before he sent Hazlett's battery to Little Round Top. My column passed Hazlett getting his guns up by hand and handspike to the summit of Little Round Top. The Twentieth Maine was placed on the extreme left of the Union army. The attack, beginning on the right of our brigade, rolled rapidly upon my front. The assault was first from the Fourth and Fifth Texas, joined by the Fourth Alabama and next by the Forty-seventh and finally by the Fifteenth Alabama.

"My regiment had already been cut down by the casualties of the service, so that only 368 muskets were in line. We first fought without seeing the extent of the opposing force, which was constantly increasing. Then the two flanking regiments (Fifteenth and Forty-seventh Alabama), preparing a 'turning attack,' were met by a change of front. I sent also a strong company out on that flank to strike this attack in flank."

"FIRE A SHOT INTO THOSE WOODS."

No sooner had Colonel Chamberlain's little force reached the portion of the hillside assigned to it than it was engaged by the Fourth Alabama. Soon it saw a dense mass of Confederates coming toward its left, for two strong regiments of the enemy, containing a thousand men, had been ordered to turn the Union flank at exactly that position. Discerning in a flash the grave peril of his command, the Maine colonel sent out a company to engage this force and ordered five companies to swing back until they formed a line at a right angle to the rest. At this instant the Alabamians attacked them on front and flank, opening with a murderous fire. There were five successive charges by this force.

Colonel Chamberlain with drawn sword moved up and down his lines. The bullets whizzed incessantly past him. His men were constantly groaning and falling on every side. Outnumbered more than three to one, their position was terrible, and it was apparently a hopeless one. Yet with dripping faces the men loaded and fired their muskets, displaying the cool expertness of true veterans. Colonel Chamberlain thought only of one thing—that the position he held was of great importance in the battle. Retreat might mean the destruction of an entire corps. There was no hope that supports would be sent him in season to save the position. He was resolved never to yield, though it seemed that in a few minutes not a man would be left alive.

HAZLETT'S BATTERY ON LITTLE ROUND TOP.

Colonel Chamberlain thus describes what followed:

"Seeing the desperate situation, I had ordered my men to use the cartridges of the fallen friend or foe. When they had fired their last cartridge into the faces of a rallying force I resolved to make a countercharge with the bayonet and so instructed my officers on the wheeling flank, on whom the brunt was to fall. Returning to my center, I was about to order the movement when Lieutenant Melcher, commanding the now salient center company, came up and asked if he might not rush forward and rescue some of our wounded before the oncoming enemy should trample them underfoot. I admired his tenderness and courage and answered: 'Yes, sir; I will give you a chance. I am about to order a charge.' I went forward to our colors and shouted 'Bayonet!' adding 'Forward!' But no mortal could hear this, the roar of fire and shouts of my men drowning all words.

"We made a sickle sweep, a great right wheel, with our whole line, astonishing the enemy into surrender or wild retreat. We cleared the whole valley between Little Round Top and brought back 400 prisoners. I had lost half my men on the center and a third of the entire regiment on the line. The company I had sent out on our left not being at first in the charging line, it was made by scarcely more than 200 men. We later advanced in midnight blackness, clambering the rough sides of Great Round Top, beyond which the remnants of Hood's division had retreated, and with the aid of two regiments held the position."

The heroic leader of this remarkable action, besides receiving the medal of honor for his work at Gettysburg, was made a brigadier general on the field in a later engagement by General Grant, and in 1865 General Chamberlain was brevetted a major general "for conspicuous gallantry in action." At the ceremony of the actual surrender of the arms and colors of Lee's army at Appomattox Chamberlain was designated to command.

Farragut

By ROBERTUS LOVE

Of Farragut the brave
Let us send a ringing stave
  Down the past,
When the fortress cannon crashed
And the admiral was lashed
  To the mast,
When the shells shrieked and broke
On the Hartford's hull of oak.

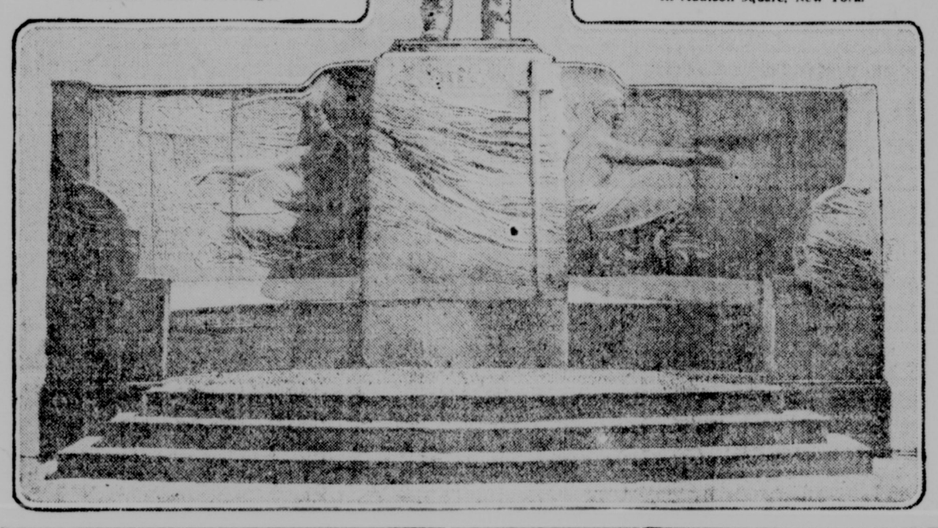
St. Gaudens' Statue of Farragut

the Brave

Copyright, 1908, by Robertus Love

Not in ships forged of steel
All the batteries of Mobile
  Did he dare,
Yet the glory of his fight
Scintillates enduring light
  On the air,
With a far shining flame
To illuminate his name.

In Madison Square, New York.



The Cutest Yankee Soldier

By MITCHEL FAY.

[Copyright, 1908, by C. N. Lurie.]

HE GOT PAST THE GUARD.

THE cutest Yankee soldier I ever knew, said the Confederate veteran, was a fellow who came down to spy on us. Talk about eels. This man was slippier than any eel that ever wriggled through five fingers. And the gall he had! A noose at the end of a rope didn't seem to have any terrors for him. We'd take him, he'd escape, and instead of getting back into his own lines he'd go on spying. He wouldn't go back to the commander who sent him until he'd finished his job and got all the information he wanted.

Our trouble was that we were in the field, where we hadn't any jail to put him in. The first time we caught him red handed, with memoranda of our forces on him, the guard was dead tired after a twenty-four hour march and went to sleep. To get away that time was easy. We caught him and shut him up in a box car on the railroad track. He sawed a hole in the bottom of the car, let himself down and got past the guard in the darkness.

Well, we caught him again, though this time he tried hard enough to make his lines, and I wanted to string him right up. The colonel came pretty near giving me an order to do so, but concluded that he'd better get the general's order, and this necessitated our keeping him overnight. This time we decided to put him in a farmhouse. We put a guard in the room with him and a double guard on the outside of the house.

The Yank, besides being slick, was the best looking chap you ever saw in your life, and he had such a pleasant smile that I hated the idea of putting an end to it. There was a half grown girl in the house, an awkward, freckled, red headed thing that none of us noticed or considered any element of danger. How the spy found a way of getting her interested in him or whether she did it all without the asking we never found out. She ran into the room where he was and excitedly told the sentry that the Yanks were coming full tilt. The guard ran out, and when he found it was only a scare and went back the prisoner wasn't there. He got away through a secret tunnel the farmer had dug.

He was a beautiful runner—we had had experience in that—and an artful dodger besides, but he had little start, and we felt no fear of not catching him. Just as we were starting in different directions a man told us of some bloodhounds near by, so we got 'em, and they picked up the scent. We didn't hurry much as soon as we found we could get the dogs, or, rather, the man I sent for 'em was a long while getting 'em, and I reckon the Yank had got about forty minutes' start; but, Lord, that wasn't anything since he was more than twenty miles from his lines, and we felt dead sure of getting him.

TOLD THE SENTRY YANKS WERE COMING.

The dogs kept the scent for about a mile, when they lost it at a creek. The Yank had walked in the water some distance, and then, instead of getting back on to dry land on the opposite side, he crossed farther up. This threw the dogs off the scent for quite awhile.

The first we heard of our man he'd taken a horse out of a widow's barn. We followed him through a clump of houses where there was a store and learned that he'd gone into the store, told the storekeeper that he was a Confederate courier in a hurry with important dispatches, helped himself to what he could find to eat and asked the storekeeper if he had any red pepper, as he was mighty fond of it on meat. The storekeeper gave him a box, and the Yank jumped on his horse and galloped away.

Funny, wasn't it—a man flying from the rope so particular about the seasoning of his food? By this time we'd tracked him some ten miles, and he was going straight in the direction of the Federal lines, but his horse didn't seem to be much of a beast for endurance, for we kept hearing of the man nearer and nearer. When about two miles ahead of us he left the road and made for a big field, letting down a rail fence to get into it. He soon struck the road again, and it was evident that he'd made a cutoff. Then we followed him up a creek that was pretty near dry and at last came to his horse, lying stone dead in a cotton field.

"Hooray!" we all shouted. "We've got him! Another mile or two 'll do the business."

But he'd been riding all the while and must have been as fresh as a daisy for running. Anyway, he gave us a lively chase. First we came upon his hat, that had doubtless been knocked off by a branch, and he hadn't lost time in picking it up. Some of our men had forced him to exchange a pair of worn out shoes for his boots, and pretty soon we found blood in his tracks. We calculated we were not half a mile behind him, and it was still five miles to the nearest Federal picket. The blood tracks grew more and more marked, and it was plain that he couldn't run very fast with bleeding feet.

THE DOGS SNEEZED AND SNEEZED.

All of a sudden the foremost dog, skipping along with his nose to the ground, stopped and sneezed. The next and the next did the same till every dog was sneezing so hard we were afraid they'd sneeze their heads off. The Yank had poured red pepper in his shoes, in which there were plenty of holes, through which it could run out into his tracks. The dogs sneezed and sneezed and then turned tail on the trail. No whipping would drive them on. Some of us followed the Yank, but we didn't get him. The last we saw of him he was scooting into the Federal lines.

What did we do with the girl who helped him get away? Nothing. And I've been glad ever since we didn't. The Yank came back after the war and married her. They're living in the house from which she helped him to escape. They've got a dozen or more grandchildren.

In Memory of the Brave.

At Gettysburg 360 Union regiments and batteries were engaged, and today these organizations are represented by almost as many monuments, which cost from $200 to $40,000 each.

Those Broken Ranks

A Memorial Day Poem by Marion Couthouy Smith.

[Copyright, 1908, by Marion C. Smith.]

ALONG the vistas of the past
We view the marching files;
We thrill to drum and bugle blast,
To parting tears and smiles.
The sighs of many a long farewell
Sound in our dreaming ears.
And, hark, the battle thunders swell
Across the gulf of years!

How strange, how swift, the after days!
Spring after spring goes by;
Voices of sorrow and of praise
In lessening murmurs die;
The ranks are thinned, their work long done,
The stately heads grown white,
And brave old comrades one by one
Pass out beyond our sight.

AND, HARK, THE BATTLE THUNDERS SWELL!

New hopes, new triumphs, projects wide,
Have filled the nation's heart.
Strong men, once children at our side,
Now fill their destined part.
But still they stand—those broken ranks—
To share with spirits dear
The incense of a people's thanks
Uprising year by year.

Alas, how soon those passing hosts
Will vanish from our view,
Their very memories be as ghosts
Of men our fathers knew!
Yet from the past, with glory fraught,
Their praises still shall ring
And tribute to their graves be brought
In lavish bloom of spring.

Fired First and Last Shot.

It is a fact not generally known that the man who fired the first gun in the civil war killed himself with another shot not long after the close of the conflict. Edmund Ruffin, who opened the bombardment of Fort Sumter by firing the first cannon shot, owned a large plantation on the James river, with many slaves. He was an old man, but intensely loyal to the south. By the fortunes of war his estate was ruined. So disappointed and humiliated was Ruffin by the failure of the southern cause that on the 17th of June, 1865, at Amelia Court House, Va., the old man loaded a musket and killed himself.

Fired From Fort Sumter.

Dr. V. Hutson Ford of Washington recently gave the National museum a forty pound cannon ball fired from Fort Sumter during the opening engagement of the civil war.

Grand Army Memorial

SCULPTOR J. MASSEY RHIND of New York is working on a monument to commemorate the founder of the Grand Army of the Republic, Dr. Benjamin Franklin Stephenson of Springfield, Ill. The memorial, a three sided obelisk, is to be erected in Washington at the junction of Louisiana avenue and Seventh and C streets, in the middle of a circular grass plot, and it is to be ready for dedication about Aug. 1, 1909, when there will be an encampment of the Grand Army to unveil it. Congress has appropriated $10,000, and G. A. R. men have raised about $25,000 additional, so that the monument will be a splendid creation.

Dr. Stephenson was regimental surgeon of the Fourteenth Illinois volunteer infantry during its three years of service in the west. His rank was that of major. He was born in Wayne county, Ill., in 1822 and died in 1871. Dr. Stephenson grew up in Sangamon county and lived many years in Springfield. It was while residing in that city shortly after the close of the war that he conceived the idea of an organization of veterans and worked out the ritual. The first G. A. R. meeting was held April 6, 1866, in Decatur, Ill.

The founder of the order met many reverses in life and died a disappointed man. It was not until after his death that the Grand Army grew to such magnificent proportions. Dr. Stephenson devoted much time and thought to the order, to the neglect of his own medical practice and the consequent impoverishment of his family. He was a generous, cheerful man, with an abiding confidence in the ultimate realization of his dreams, though he did not live to witness the nation wide growth of the G. A. R.

A warm colored granite will be used for the shaft, the panels on each side containing the figures, badges and inscriptions to be of statuary bronze.

CHAPTER 649.

AN ACT to prohibit the granting of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors in certain prescribed territory of Garrett County and to provide for the creation by popular vote of Anti-Saloon territory within Garrett County, within which territory, except as herin provided, the sale of intoxicating liquors and the licensing of such sale shall be prohibited for the enforcement of prohibition, in such territory, and for the abolution by like means of the territory so created.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That the words and phrases mentioned in this section as used in this Act and in proceedings pursuant hereto, shall unless the same be inconsistent with the context be construed as follows: "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall mean all territory within the limits of Garrett county, or any election district, city, town, village or ward in said county in which through the action the legal voters therein, as provided by this Act, the sale of intoxicating liquors except as herein provided, is prohibited; city, town or village shall mean an incorporated city, town or village as the case may be, "political sub-division" shall mean county, election district, city, town, village or ward; district shall mean territory in which after the same has become Anti-Saloon Territory, the limits of political sub-division has been changed. "Law" shall include public General Laws, Public Local Laws and all municipal ordinances; in the phrase shall this become "Anti Saloon Territory," the proper designation whether "county" "election district" "city" "town" "village" or ward shall be understood to be inserted in the the blanks, and the same shall be inserted in the petitions, filed by and the ballots prepared for the voters of any county, election district, city, town, village or ward; said proposition shall mean the proposition: shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward, as the case may be, become "Anti Saloon Territory"; "Supervisors of Elections" shall mean the Board of Supervisors of Elections of Garrett county; legal voter or voters shall mean a duly registered legal voter; election shall mean an election held on Tuesday next after the first Monday in November in any year; court shall mean the Circuit Court for Garrett county, and Judge shall mean a Judge of said Court; intoxicating liquors shall include whiskey, brandy, rum, gin, wine, ale, beer, and all other fermented, distilled, spirituous, vinous or malt liquors, and every mixture of liquor which shall contained more than two per cent. by weight of alcohol, and every mixture of liquors which shall contain less than two per cent. of alcohol if the same shall be intoxicating.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election of a petition as in this Act provided, directed to such Supervisors of Election, containing the signatures of legal voters of any political sub-division in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast in such political sub-division at the last election therein to submit to the voters of such political sub-division the proposition: "Shall this ——— become Anti Saloon Territory," said proposition shall be submitted at such election as in this Act provided, to the legal voters of such political subdivision and if a majority of the legal voters, voting upon said proposition shall vote "yes" such political subdivisions shall become Anti-Saloon Territory, such petition shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act shall become operative on the first day of May next after the day of election at which such vote is cast.

SEC 4. And be it further enacted, That a petition for submission of said proposition shall be in substantially the following form: "To the Board of Supervisors of Election of Garrett county; the under signed legal voters of the ——— (insert the legal name or correct designation of the political sub-division) respectfully petition that you cause to be submitted in the manner provided by law to the voters thereof, at the next election the proposition "Shall this ——— become Anti-Saloon Territory such petition shall consist of sheets havin such form printed or written at the top thereof and shall be signed by the legal voters in their own proper persons only, and opposite the legal signature of each legal voter shall be written the house number and street name if there be such; and if the petition is for the entire county the city, town, village or election district as the case may be in which he resides and the date of signing the same, no signature shall be valid or counted in considering such petition unless these requirements are complied with and unless the date of signing is less than six months preceding the date of filing the same. At the bottom of each sheet of such petition shall be added a statement signed by a resident of the political subdivision in which the signers thereof reside, with his residence address as aforesaid, stating that the signatures on that sheet of said petition are genuine and that to the best of his knowledge and belief the persons so signing were at the time of signing said petition legal voters of the said political subdivision, that their respective residences, when required to be stated, are correctly stated therein, and that each signer signed the same on the date set opposite his name. Such statement shall be sworn to before some officer residing in said county where such legal voters reside, authorized to administer oaths therein; such sheets shall be fastened together in one document filed as a whole, and when filed shall not be withdrawn or added to. No signature shall be withdrawn after the filing of such petition; such petition so verified or a copy thereof duly certified as hereinafter provided shall be prima facie evidence that the signatures, statement of residence here required to be stated and dates upon the petition are genuine and true and that the persons signing the same are legal voters of the political subdivisions named therein. Upon request of any one filing such a petition and verified statement and paying or tendering to the Supervisors of Elections one dollar for each one hundred names, or fraction thereof signed thereto, together with a copy thereof, the Supervisors of Election shall immediately compare the original and copy attach to such copy and delivered to such person their official certificate that such copy is a true copy of the original, stating the day when such original was filed in their office. Whoever in making the sworn statement above prescribed shall knowingly, wilfully and corruptly swear falsely shall be deemed guilty of perjury and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly; whoever forges the signature of any person upon any petition or statement provided for in this Act shall be deemed guilty of forgery, and on conviction thereof be punished accordingly.

Name of Signer	City, Town, Village or Election District petition is for.	House number, if any	Street, if named	Date of signing

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided in this Act shall cause notice to be given in the manner provided by law for giving notice of an election of the submission of said proposition at the next election to the voters of the political subdivision named in such petition. Publication of the submission of said proposition to the voters of such political subdivision shall likewise be made in the manner provided by law for the publication of the list of nominations to be voted for at an election, provided that the failure of such Supervisors to Election to cause such notice to be given or the failure to make publication of the submission of said proposition as above provided, shall not affect the validity or binding force of the vote upon said proposition.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections with whom any petition shall be filed as provided by this Act shall cause the proposition. "shall this ——— county, election district, city, town, village or ward (as the case may be) become Anti Saloon Territory," to be placed on the official ballots to be used in the political subdivision in which the manner prescribed by Section 56 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904 at any election where said proposition is submitted. The persons managing the interests of those opposed to said proposition shall have respectively the right to designate and keep a challenger and watcher at each election place. A certificate signed by the presiding officers of the committee managing the interest of those in favor of, or opposed to said proposition, shall be sufficient evidence of the right of such challenger and watcher to be present at the polling room. Such challengers and watchers shall have the powers which are conferred upon challengers and watchers by sections 62 and 69 of Article 33 of the Code of Public General Laws of 1904.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the Supervisors of Elections shall as soon as conveniently may be after receiving and canvassing the result of any election at which the proposition as to whether any political subdivision shall become or continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory is submitted to the voters thereof, proclaiming the result of said election and publish such proclamation in some newspaper published in the county, if the owners of such newspapers will publish the same at current rates of advertisements and shall record in a well bound book to be kept in their office by them and their successors the result of the vote upon said proposition and such result may be proven in all courts and in all proceedings by such records or by the official certificate of the Supervisors of Election, and in cases where such a record or certificate shows that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "Yes" the same shall be conclusive evidence that the political subdivision to which such vote was applicable has become "Anti-Saloon Territory," unless the proclamation of the Supervisors of Election shall be reversed after a contest of the election in accordance with the provisions of Section 24 of this Act.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That all the territory within any political subdivision which has become "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent notwithstanding any change that may be made in the limits of said such political subdivision until the legal voters thereof have voted according to provisions of this Act. To discontinue such Anti-Saloon Territory the following section shall be construed in harmony herewith. In all "Anti-Saloon Territory" during the time that it continues to be "Anti-Saloon Territory" the operation of all laws providing for the restriction, regulation, or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of license for the sale of intoxicating liquors within any portion or the whole of such territory so far as inconsistent with its status as "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall be suspended.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That upon the filing in the office of the Supervisors of Election at least sixty days before an election in any political subdivision of a petition directed to such Supervisors of Election containing the signature of legal voters of an "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district in number not less than one-fourth of the total vote cast therein at the last election to submit to the voters thereof the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," provided such petition corresponds in all other respects with the petition in this Act before described, such proposition shall be submitted at such election to the voters of such political subdivision or district, and the provisions of sections one (1), four (4), five (5), six (6) and seven (7) of this Act shall apply in all respects so far as applicable to the proposition "Shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," to the submission of such proposition to such voters, to the position therefor, to the recording of the vote thereon and to the proof and evidence of the petition and vote, except that in a district such proposition shall be submitted by seperate ballot. If a majority of the legal voters, voting upon such last mentioned proposition in any such political subdivision or district vote, no such political subdivision or district shall cease to be "Anti-Saloon Territory," and all laws providing for the restriction, regulation or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors or for the issuing of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquor, the operation of which was in any wise suspended within such political subvision or district by virtue of the vote therein to become "Anti-Saloon Territory" with all additions and amendments which in the meantime may have been made thereto, shall, if not in the meantime be repealed, become and be in force within said political subdivision or district to the same extent only, however, as the same would then be in force, had such political subdivision or district never became "Anti-Saloon Territory." The petition mentioned in this section shall be a public document and shall be subject to the inspection of the public.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That a vote under the provisions of this Act in and for any political subdivision upon the proposition "shall this ——— become Anti-Salooon Territory," or in and for any political subdivision or district upon the proposition "shall this ——— political subdivision or district continue to be Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be a bar to the submission to the voters thereof either division or district only, until after the lapse of 23 month.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That it shall not be lawful to sell intoxicating liquor nor for the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Garrett county to grant or issue any license to sell intoxicating liquors within one mile of any house of worship or school house after the passage of this Act, unless the same be situated within the limits of an incorporated town and not otherwise prohibited, nor within the limits of any political subdivision or district whatever, within this county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," and if any such license be granted or issued in violation hereof the same shall be void, provided that this shall not apply to sales made by a person under a provision of law requiring him to sell personal property.

SEC. 12. And be it further enacted, That every retail liquor dealer except druggists, trafficking personally or by agent in intoxicating liquor in any political subdivision which becomes "Anti-Saloon Territory" by vote of the people thereof as herein provided, shall remove or cause to be removed all intoxicating liquors from such place, its appurtenance or dependences, within ten days from the first of May next following such vote. Failure to comply with the provisions of this Section shall be prima facie evidence that such liquor is kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 13. And be it further enacted, That whoever shall by himself or another, either as principal, clerk or servant, directly or indirectly sell, barter or exchange any intoxicating liquors in any quantity whatever within the limits of any political subdivision or district in said county while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory," or keep and have in his possession any intoxicating liquors with intent to sell or otherwise dispose of same in violation of the provisions of this Act, shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200), or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than thirty days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provision of this section, and shall subsequently violate any provision of this section, he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than one hundred dollars (100) nor more than five hundred ($500) dollars and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days. And in like manner if he shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section for such third and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than two hundred dollars ($200) nor more than one thousand dollars ($1000) and confined in the Maryland House of Correction for not less than three months nor more than one year. The State's Attorney for Garrett and Justice of the Peace in and for said county having knowledge of any previous conviction of any person accused of violating the provisions of this Section, in preparing warrants, presentments and indictments shall allege such previous conviction therein, and it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county to furnish information concerning such prior conviction to the State's Attorney and grand jury. A certified transcript from the docket of any Justice of the Peace or a certified copy of the record under the seal of the Clerk of the Circuit Court shall be sufficient evidence of a previous convictions under any section of this Act. It shall be sufficient in such presentment or indictment to allege briefly that person has been convicted of a violation or violations of the provisions of this Section.

SEC. 14. And be it further enacted, That the giving away, delivering or handling of intoxicating liquors by any store keeper or at any place of business or the taking or soliciting of orders, or the making of agreements at or within any political subdivision or district while the same is "Anti-Saloon Territory" for the sale or delivery or future giving away of any intoxicating liquors or any other shift or devise to evade any provisions of this Act, shall be held to be an unlawful selling.

SEC. 15. And be it further enacted, That places where intoxicating liquors is sold in violation of any provisions of this Act shall be taken and held and are declared to be common nuisances and may be abated as such; and shall be the part of the judgment upon the conviction of the keeper that the place where liquor is found to have been sold contrary to this act be shut up and abated until the keeper shall give bond with sufficient security to be approved by the Court in the penal sum of one thousand dollars ($1000) payable to the State of Maryland conditioned that he will not sell intoxicating liquor contrary to law, and will pay all fines, costs and damages assessed against him for the use of Garrett county for any fine or fines that may be assessed against under this Act.

SEC. 16. And be it further enacted, That the County Commissioners of Garrett county are hereby authorized to use any part of the fines and forfeitures collected for the violation of this Act for hiring detectives or secret service officers to secure the enforcement of the same, and when there are no funds available from fines or forfeinures collected for the violation of this Act, such County Commissioners are hereby authorized to appropriate not more than two hundred dollars from the general revenue fund for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 17. And be it further enacted, That any Supervisor of Election, Judge of Election, police officer or other officer of the law, who shall wilfully refuse or neglect or fail to discharge any duty imposed by this Act, and any one who signs a petition, provided for in this Act, knowing he is not qualified to do so or who files with the Supervisors of Elections any such petition or any sheet or other part thereof, knowing that it contains the signature of a person not qualified to sign the same, or who received, requests or demands, or gives, offers or promises anyreward for signing or refraining from signing of any such petition, or who by treating or giving intoxicating liquors or any thing else of the same or different kind, or by threats to injure another person or property, or by betting or other devise either directly or indirectly, influence or attempt to influence any one to sign or refrain from signing any such petition, shall upon conviction thereof be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not less than twenty dollars ($20) nor more than two hundred dollars ($200) or imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days, or be both so fined and imprisoned in the discretion of the Court. If any person shall be convicted of violating any provisions of this section and shall subsequently violate any provisions of this section, for such second and each subsequent violation he shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than two hundred and imprisoned in the county jail for not less than ten days nor more than ninety days.

SEC. 18. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician to issue a prescription for intoxicating liquors except in writing, or in any case unless the person for it is issued is actually sick, or such liquor is required as a medicine. Every prescription for intoxicating liquors shall contain the name and quantity of liquor prescribed; the name of the person for whom prescribed, the date on which the prescription is written and directions for use of the liquor so prescribed and it shall be unlawful for any doctor or physician who has been convicted of issuing verbal prescriptions for intoxicating liquors or of issuing prescriptions for intoxicating liquor, knowing the same to be for use as a beverage, or of issuing prescriptions that do not in form comply with this Act, thereafter to issue any prescription for intoxicating liquor for any purpose for a period of two years from the date of such conviction. Every prescription issued in violation of the provisions hereof shall be held to be an unlawful selling and on conviction therefor the person issuing same shall be punished accordingly.

SEC. 19. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall be construed to forbid or prevent the sale within "Anti-Saloon Territory" by a druggist or pharmacist of liquor for medical or sacramental purposes only, or of alcohol for medicine, chemical or mechanical purposes only; not to be drunk upon the premises under any circumstances; provided the following requirements are fully complied with and such druggist or pharmacist in good faith shall keep a true and exact record in book which he shall provide for the purpose, in which shall be entered at the time of every sale of intoxicating liquor made by him, or in and about his place of business to all persons whomsoever, the date of such sale, the name of the purchaser, who shall also sign his name in said book as a part of said entry, and his residence, stating the street and house number if there be such, the kind, quantity and price of such liquor, the purpose for which it was sold; and when the sale is for medicinal purposes, the book shall also contain the name of the physician issuing the prescription therefor. Such prescriptions shall be cancelled by writing on it the words "cancelled" and the date on which it was presented and filled, and kept on file. No prescription shall be filled a second time. Such book shall be in form substantially as follows:

Date	Name of purchaser	Residence	Kind and quality	Purpose of use	Price	Name of physician	Signature of purchaser

and the book and all such prescriptions before provided for shall be open to inspection by any State's Attorney, Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, Judge of any court, or any sheriff, constable or other police officer. Any druggists or pharmacist who shall fail to keep such record, or shall fail or refuse to make any entry therein required by law, or shall destroy or alter or change in any way, any such record or any entry therein or any prescription, or procure the same to be destroyed, altered or changed, or shall refill any prescription or shall refill any prescriptien or shall sell intoxicating liquor for medicinal purposes in written prescription or for sacramental purposes without an order signed by a clergyman shall for each sale in violation of the provisions of this Section be deemed guilty of unlawful selling and on conviction thereof shall be punished accordingly. Nothing in this section shall be construed to prohibit a sale by such druggist of such liquor as may be needed by or for a sick person in case of extreme illness, when delay may be dangerous. It shall be unlawful for any druggist or pharmacist who has been convicted of selling intoxicating liquors in violation of this Act thereafter to sell intoxicating liquors for any purpose personally or by agent for two years in any "Anti Saloon Territory" and upon a second conviction for violating the provisions of this Act any such druggist or pharmacist shall have his certificate to practice pharmacy revoked, and the Justice of the Peace or the Judge before whom such druggist or pharmacist is convicted of a second violation of this Act shall so order and send a copy of such order to the Commissioners of Pharmacy, upon receipt of which such certificate shall forthwith be revoked by such Commissioners of pharmacy, and shall not be renewed within one year from the date of such revocation.

SEC. 20. And be it further enacted, That it shall be unlawful for any person, or public or private carrier to knowingly accept or receive for shipment, transportation or delivery to any person or place within any "Anti-Saloon Territory" or to carry, bring into, transfer to any other person, carrier or agent, handle, deliver or distribute in any "Anti-Saloon Territory" any intoxicating liquor, regardless of the name by which it may be called and whoever shall bring himself or another, either as principal, clerk, agent or servant, knowingly, violate any of the provisions of this Section shall upon conviction thereof be fined not less than fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, and upon conviction of any subsequent violation of this Section in addition to such fine shall be imprisoned in the county jail for not less than thirty days nor more than six months. Provided, nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to individuals who may bring into any "Anti-Saloon Territory" upon their person or as their personal baggage, and for their private use, such liquor in quantity not to exceed one gallon, nor to physicians or druggists to whom any public carrier may deliver such goods in unbroken packages, in quantity not to exceed five gallons at any one time nor to deliveries to churches, or the proper officers thereof of wine in unbroken packages for sacramental purposes, nor to deliver at private residences which are not places of business or public resorts by manufactures or wholesalers, by their own conveyances in unbroken packages of liquors, the contract for the sale of which was consummated outside of "Anti-Saloon Territory"; nor to deliveries within any city which is not "Anti-Saloon Territory" throughout its entire extent; nor to shipments of liquor in continuous transits to a point outside of such "Anti-Saloon Territory"; this section shall apply to all packages of intoxicating liquor whether broken or unbroken. Each package of intoxicating liquor regardless of the name by which it may be called, accepted, received, carried, transferred, handled, delivered or distributed in violation of the provisions of this section shall constitute a separate offence, the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transferring, handling, delivering or distribution of intoxicating liquor under false or fictitions names in an "Anti-Saloon Territory" shall work a forfeiture of such liquor. It is further expressly provided that no provision of this section is intended or shall be construed to violate or be in conflict with any provision of the Constitution and laws of the United States respecting "Inter-State Commerce"; but this section and all parts of same are intended to prohibit the acceptance, receiving, carrying, transfering, handling, delivery or distribution as herein provided, of intoxicating liquor to such extent only as the same is not expressly permitted under the Constitution and laws of the United States. If any provision of this Section shall be held to be void or unconstitutional, it is hereby provided that all other portions of same which are not expressly held to be void or unconstitutional, shall continue in full force and effect.

SEC. 21. And be it further enacted, That all prosecutions for violations of this Act, which are hereby declared to be misdemeanors may be either upon presentment or indictment, or by trial before a Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, who shall have jurisdiction, original and concurrent with the Circuit Court for Garrett county; and the Justice shall have the power to issue all process, and to do all acts which may be necessary to the exercise of his said jurisdiction, and may try and determine all cases whereof he may have jurisdiction, and may pronounce judgment and sentence therein, in the same manner and to the same extent as the Circuit Court for Garrett county, could do in such cases, if such cases were tried before said Court without the intervention of a Jury; provided, however, that if any person, when brought before any justice having jurisdiction of the case, shall before trial for the alleged offence pray a jury trial, or if the State's Attorney for said county, shall before trial of such alleged offence pray a jury trial on the part of the State, it shall be the duty of such Justice to commit such alleged offender for trial, or to hold him to bail to appear for trial the Circuit Court for Garrett county if it be in session, or at its next session, if it be not in session, and return said commitment or recognizance, with the names and residence of the witnesses for the prosecution endorsed thereon forthwith to the Clerk of said Court; and the Justice before whom the case is brought shall in every such case inform the person charged of his rights to a jury trial.

SEC. 22. And be it further enacted, That in all prosecutions under this Act by indictmhnt or otherwise, it shall not be necessary to state the kind of liquor sold, nor to show the knowledge of the principal to convict for the acts of an agent or servant; nor to state the name of any person to whom liquor is sold nor to set forth the facts showing that the required number of legal voters petitioned for the submission to the voters of said proposition, nor that a majority of the legal voters voting upon said proposition voted "yes"; but it shall be sufficient to state in that regard that the Act complained of took place in "Anti-Saloon Territory" or district. The issuance of an Internal Revenue Special Tax Stamp or receipt by the United States to any person as a wholesale or retail dealer in liquor or in malt liquor at any place within territory which at the time of the issuance thereof is "Anti-Saloon Territory," shall be prima facia evidence of the sale of intoxicating liquor by such person at such place or at any place of business of such person within such territory where stamps or receipt is posted, and at the time charged in any suit or prosecution under this Act; provided, such time is within the life of such stamp or receipt.

SEC. 23. And be it further enacted, That if any person makes a sworm complaint or affidavit before any Justice of the Peace having criminal jurisdiction, or Judge of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, particularly describing the house or place to search and the things to be searched for that he has reasons to believe and does believe that intoxicating liquors are sold or kept for the purpose of being sold in violation of the provisions of this Act, such Justice of the peace, Judge shall issue his warrant directed to any officer whom the complainant may designate having power to serve criminal process commanding him to search the premises described and designated in such complaint and warrant, and the appurtenances thereof and if any such shall there be found, to take into his possession and safely keep

(Continued on page 8.)

MY BEAUTY DOCTORS.

I have two "beauty doctors"
To treat me every day.
They keep my cheeks from fading,
My hair from turning gray.
They give my eyes their luster,
My form their plumply fill,
And up to date they've never Annoyed me with a bill.

They keep my lips like roses—
Or so the boys all say—
My teeth like pearls—a figure
Quite ancient, by the way.
They keep my step elastic,
My appetite serene,
And neither one nor t'other
Has mentioned the "long green."

Their office hours are steady.
One's busy day and night.
The other works from sunrise
Till Sol is out of sight.
They occupy one office—
Have done so since their birth—
And so wide is their practice
It takes in all the earth.

Wouldst know my beauty doctors?
Well, then, I'll "put you wise,"
Because these operators
Will never advertise.
One is the sun. The other
Is pure air—fresh or salt.
And if I'm not a beauty
It surely's not their fault.

—Lurana W. Sheldon in New York Times.

Returning For Credit.

The visitors are talking of the new styles, while the bright child of the household listens with delight.

"Goodness knows what we will have to look like next!" declares a lady with double chins and accessories. "This season they say we can't have any hips. No hips! What's one to do with them?"

"Mamma can return hers to the store and have them credited on next month's bill," prattles the little darling of the household, and a dense silence ensues.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Familiar Phrase.

"Talk is cheap."

What Will He Do With It?

Anent the swarm of incompetents who aspire to office John Temple Graves tells this story: While traveling one time he noticed a little yellow cur which was pursuing the train with loud barks and every sign of displeasure. An old farmer just in front of Mr. Graves was greatly amused at the sight, and, turning around, he said:

"I wonder what he'd do with it if he caught it?"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Rough on Reggy.

Reggy Sapp—Weally, I would like to be an actor, Miss Wose.

Miss Rose—An actor, Reggy? Gracious! You should go out with one of those old New England farm dramas.

Reggy Sapp—Farm dramas?

Miss Rose—Yes; you know, some of them carry live calves for the barnyard scene.—Detroit Tribune.

Bad Falls.

"Speaking of bad falls," remarked Jones, "I fell out of a window once, and the sensation was terrible. During my transit through the air I really believe I thought of every mean act I had ever committed in my life."

"H'm!" growled Thompson. "You must have fallen an awful distance!"—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Unfortunate Find.

Farmer (bursting into crossroads store)—What do you think, Silas Newcheese? The bones of a prehistoric man have been discovered on Hank Weatherspoon's farm.

Storekeeper—Great gosh! I hope poor Hank'll be able to clear hisself at the cor'ner's inquest.—Puck.

Early Indications.

"What makes you think your infant daughter is going to be a prima donna?"

"Because," answered the impresario, "she keeps vocalizing regardless of the surrounding conversation and never seems satisfied with anything."—Pittsburg Post.

Fawncy.

Madge—An' you trun him down?

Tessie—Sure. He's one of dese silk stocking aristocrats.

Madge—How do you know?

Tessie—Why, when I said "Gaspard, could you get sweet on anudder goil?" he warbled "Perish de t'ought."—Chicago News.

An Evidence.

"Charley is getting to be a regular statesman," said young Mrs. Torkins admiringly.

"What makes you think so?"

"He is always talking in his sleep about standing pat." — Washington Star.

She Didn't Buy.

Husband—Did you attend the Hawley auction sale this afternoon?

Wife—Yes, but I didn't buy anything.

Husband—Why not?

Wife—Well, I didn't see anything I didn't want.—Denver News-Times.

Not Like Other Women.

Mrs. Smith—Mrs. Bleeker is rather a strong minded woman, isn't she?

Mrs. Jones—I should say so. Why, I showed her the picture of my baby the other day, and she never said "Isn't he cute?"—Detroit Tribune.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

FOR GENERAL prudential reasons vagrant dogs and cats should be exterminated, but the danger of hydrophobia is not such as to keep the community in a nervous condition, the condition most favorable for developing convulsions from any injury. The symptoms of hydrophobia are produced by other causes then the bites of animals, while the bites generally result in no serious harm and sometimes where the animal has rabies the results are not serious. There are parts of the country where a dog that has bitten any one is immediately killed lest he should at some future date go mad and by ex-post facto operation the person he bit would have hydrophobia. This preposterous then notion is entertained by fairly intelligent people, and it shows the effect of fear upon the human mind.

EVERYBODY SWEARS.

Swearing is another name for imprecation, and imprecation is of two kinds —profane and improfane. Never heard of improfane swearing? Why it is with us every minute of the day, and its vocabulary has not limits. Its range is as wide as that of expression, and it is coextensive with every form of life. It is common to animals and to human beings to both sexes, and to all peoples of every clime and time. It is as natural as bad temper, as ancient as anger, and as univesal as life itself.

A dog swears when you try to steal its bone, a monkey when it is pinched by a mischievious comrade, and a hen when you disturb its chickens. Cats are terrific swearers. A cat will emit a string of oaths as long as Broadway. Its range of expression is very limited, but the cat gets out of it all that is felinely possible. The parrot is a rare avis among birds for vehemence of speech; but alas! for fluent and lurid profanity it would be difficult to find its equal. A parrot has been known to swear even in the presence of a clergyman.

Even fishes swear. The evidence is not sufficient to bring before a jury, because fishes are very reserved; but there is not the slightest doubt of the fact itself. Imagine the feelings of a shark just balked of its prey, or of a trout that has swallowed the hook under the impression that the hook was a fly, and then ask yourself what you would do in like case.

And as we ascend the scale of life we still find the same habit of surviving. Children swear by smashing their toys when they can't have all their own way, and by yelling and kicking the door when they are put outside for being naughty. Women swear with a look when you tread on their new dress and tear it. They swear by knocking the cat over when it has stolen a fish; they swear by slamming the door because something has gone wrong.

Men swear by banging their fist on the tables or stamping their foot on the floor, or kicking the unoffending dog out of the way. And—tell it not in Gath—clergymen swear decorously and on special occasions. They swear when, finding, say, a brass button in the offertory, they pitch the elemosynary fraud out of the window. And yet again on arriving at the vestry and finding they have brought the wrong sermon they swear by slamming it down on the vestry table. All these varieties of obligation (the parrot's excepted) constitute a mode of swearing which is inarticulate, but offensive. In contrast with this is the opposite method which is articulate, but inoffensive.

"Bother it!" says a woman when her sewing thread breaks, or "Confound it!" when the baby spills a cup of coffee over the tablecloth.

"What the dickeus!" says a man, or "Well I'll be hanged!" or if he be a refined up-stater, he adds to the gayety of his cousins of the city by such a phrase as "Gosh durn it!" This kind of objurgation bears the same relation to swearing proper as temperance beverages bears to malt liquors.

For improfane swearing in its most killing form one can be commended to the prophets ancient and modern. All other modes of malediction are as water and wine compared with their volcanic outbursts of white-hot lava, their scorching blasts of imprecation that would shrivel up an iceberg. Hot as the Harmattan, sanguine as the simoon, terrible as an army with banners, is the prophet when he gets properly wound up.

"Woe unto the wicked, it shall be ill with him; for the reward of his hand shall be given him."

"Woe unto them that draws iniquity with cords of vanity and sin as it were with a rope."

"Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil; that put darkness for light and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter."

And he is quite right.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

So far as nature is concerned the Park has put on her beautiful robes; but we do not think it would be well to follow the subject further.

Mr. and Mrs J. M. Dare, of Parkersburg, W. Va., are at the Park putting their cottage in order for the summer.

Capt. J. M. Jarboe has a force of workmen on the Bardall cottage erecting a veranda on the north side of the cottage and making other needed improvements.

Mrs. Fannie E. McKinney, who has been a guest at Haydenhurst for two weeks, will leave early next week for Arkansas, where she expects to make her future home with a sister.

Mr. Rudisill has re-arranged the post-office room, making a larger and more convenient lobby.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Grant Hayden, of Westernport, Md., were here Monday.

Druggist Gonder has opened the drug store and is prepared for business in his line.

Mr. Winchell has under way extensive improvements to his beautiful cottage in "Cosy Row."

Mr. J. A. Enlow has rented the Cuppett cottage on E street for the season and will occupy it with his family early next month.

Mrs. M. E. Hank and daughter arrived Wednesday afternoon.

Children's Day will be observed Sunday, June 6th, in the M. E. church. An interesting program is in preparation and everybody is invited to be present.

The Allegany House is being put in order under the direction of Mrs. Fetters, who conducted Briarbend last summer.

Mrs. C. W. Hopkins, who spent the winter with her daughter in Cincinnati, has joined her husband here. They are occupying apartments in the Hocking building.

The Grand Lodge Order of Golden Eagles of Maryland met here Monday. About fifty delegates from a distance were in attendance. The sessions were held in Assembly Hall.

Dr. Arbuthnot to Deliver Lecture.

Dr. S. K. Arbuthnot will deliver a lecture in the M. E. church, Mt. Lake Park, Friday evening, June 5th, under the auspices of the Epworth League. A general and cordial invitation is extended to all to be present. At is not often that an opportunity is afforded to hear so eloquent a speaker.

Church to Be Dedicated.

The recently completed new Lutheran church at Red House, which has been under construction for more than a year, will be formally dedicated on Sunday, June 14th. The dedicatory sermon will likely be preached by Rev. Dr. Singmaster, of Gettysburg College. Large numbers of people are expected at the service.

Oakland Hotel to Open Monday.

The Oakland Hotel, which was recently leased by Mrs. A. E. Body, will will be open for the reception of guests on Monday of next week. Mr. Jack Moore, of Oakland, will be in charge of the office and will look after the comfort and welfare of the prospective guests.

Stork Still on the Wing.

That bird of the fable, the stork, which visits homes, some at stated intervals, others after a lapse of years, has been kept pretty busy in Oakland during the past few week. Its last visit was to the home of Dr. and Mrs. John G. Robinson, made Tuesday morning, when it left a handsome little son.

Subordinate Granges Take Notice.

Garrett County Pomona Grange will meet with Swanton Grange Saturday, June 6th, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. Please be prompt as this will be a business session. Officers are to be elected and installed, and other grange matters looked after.

J. M. CONNEWAY, Master.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Many Saloons Out of Business.

Saturday was the last day on which saloonkeepers, in Baltimore, could take out licenses. Those who failed to do so closed their doors Saturday, but may reopen provided they pay the $500 license fee prior to May 29. The total number of licenses issued was 1992, or 336 less than were taken out one year ago. Of these the total number of saloon licenses was 1,769 whereas one year ago there were 2,152, a decrease of 383. One hundred and ten hotels are licensed to sell liquor, as compared with 130 a year ago, a decrease of 20. Of clubs there are 19, whereas one year ago there were 23; of retail grocers 28, as against 33 last May. Then there are 48 wholesale grocers, 8 wholesale druggists and 10 bottlers.

MEMORIAL DAY IN OAKLAND.

Annual Decoration of the Graves of the Honored Dead.

Crook Post No. 35, Grand Army of the Republic, desires that there be a general turnout of the citizens, public school children and all organized bodies of the town, and visitors from the surrounding country are also invited to participate with the Post on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30th, in decorating the graves of the noble dead who have answered the last roll call and are now resting in our cemeteries. Rev. E. Manges of the Lutheran church, an old soldier himself, will deliver the address.

Crook Post will assemble at Sturgiss' Hall at 10.30 o'clock and proceed to the cemetery where the beautiful ritual of the order will be carried out.

Donations of flowers will be thankfully received and can be left at Sturgiss' drug store.

By order of the Post,

A. G. STURGISS, Commander.

J. A. HAYDEN, Adjutant.

Boys Heavily Fined.

Ora Berkabile and Donald Wagner, two boys Wednesday were fined $125 each for assaulting M. D. Reel, their school teacher, at Somerset, by Judge Kooser. This with the costs, in all amounting to $328.70, was paid by the fathers of the boys. When the teacher on March 3, undertook to switch the boys for smoking at school they attacked him with an iron link and stick loaded with iron, which thay had taken to the schoolhouse for the purpose. Mr. Reel was badly beaten. He is an old teacher with a good reputation. The boys would have beaten him worse but the other pupils interfered, Church to be Reopened.

The Methodist Episcopal church at Hoyes, which has been undergoing repairs for some time, will be reopened on Sunday, June 7th. Among those to be present and participate in the reopening services will be Rev. Dr. R. B. Ward, presiding elder; Rev. Dr. W. W. Davis, superintendent of Mountain Lake Park Association. Other speakers will also be in attendance. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Lutheran Reunion Plans.

The Lutheran Churches of Pennsylvania and Maryland have completed their plans for their big reunion to be held at Pen Mar Thursday, June 23. Rev. Dr. G. W. Edwards, of York, Pa., is the leading spirit in the movement and will have charge of the literary and musical program. Rev. T. B. R. Roth, editor of the "Young Lutheran," of Greenville, Pa., will deliver his lecture on "Plymouth Rock and other Rocks." Another speaker will be Rev. Dr. J. Y. Butler, pastor of Memorial Lutheran Church, Washington, D. C.

The committee appointed to look after the affairs of the gathering are Rev. Dr. G. W. Enders, York, chairman; Rev. Dr. C. W. Miller, Rev. Patrick Henry Miller, Westminster, Md.; Mrs. W. J. Gardner, Harrisburg; Rev Dr. G. C. Henry, Shippensburg; Rev. Jacob Simon, Hagerstown; Rev. Charles Trunk, Martinsburg, W. Va.; and Rev. O. C. Roth, Chambersburg.

Thirty Years Ago.

For several yers past the Frostburg Mining Journal has been publishing items of interest, then and now, occurring years ago. The following concerning the two counties, published in the Journal nearly a third of a century ago, will be read by Garrett countains who may remember the occurrences vividly, as they were then of more than ordinary interest, touching the future welfare of the then newly created county:

The new Allegany-Garrett line cut an old friend in two—his head in one county, his feet in the other. In which county does he live? A puzzing question. But if the line ran over him laterally, it is certain all of him would be in both counties.

The House of Representatives passed a bill sanctioning the Act of General Assembly of Maryland transferring the National Pike to Allegany and Garrett so far as the Pike extends through those counties. The Journal had understood, however, that when the National Government transferred the road to the State it was made obligatory upon the latter to keep it in a proper state of repair. From that time to the present (1878) however, it has been downward course to ruin until it can be distinguished from other roads and identified only by its cast iron mile-posts and arched bridges. Would it not be well to ask Congress to pass another bill conditioning the transfer on a State appropriation to put it in its former condition of repair? The U. S. mail is carried over it many miles; it leads to the National Capitol, and has as many associations of historic value as any other public-service untility in the country. It ought to be preserved as well for all its has been as for what it is capable of becoming.

Monday, May 27, C. H. Walker, E. Wasmuth, W. J. Cooper, J. N. Benson, G. Berkebile and the Journal went to Sell's saw mill, 12 miles south of Grantsville. Caught about 200 trout. It was a rough trip over bad roads and sleeping on the ground a la war-time.

The first line of the re-survey between Allegany and Garrett struck the Potomac three-quarters of a mile and 28½ perches east of the mouth of Savage river. Thursday, May 30, the surveyors returned to summit of Great Savage to "try it again."

Call for Your Letters.

Mr. J. T. Frantz, Mr. G. F. Ganett, J. S. Jameson, John McBee, Miss Annie Miller, Mr. Dorsey Nicholson, Mrs. Annie Wondring, Mr. W. A. Worthman.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 12th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED ON SECOND STREET IN THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, and being the same lot of ground which was conveyed to Charles A. Hesen by Amanda V. Michael and others by deed bearing date the 6th day of August, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folio 393, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described in said deed by the following metes and bounds, courses and distances: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of a line drawn North 23 degrees East, 132 perches from the northeast corner of Oak and Second streets in said town, and running thence South 67 degrees East, 53 feet to the line of a piece or parcel of land in said town of Oakland conveyed by Edward McCarty and wife to Daniel J. Brant, thence South 16½ degrees East, 60 feet, thence South 88 degrees West, to the limits of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, thence with said railroad limits to Second street, thence with said Second street to the place of beginning, excepting the portion of said lot heretofore conveyed to Sarah A. Mason by deed duly recorded among the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles A. Hesen.

No. 2.—TWENTY-TWO ACRES AND THIRTY-SIX PERCHES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "SMALL MEADOWS," being the same land which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Daniel E. Offutt and wife to Frank Graham, bearing date the 29th day of June, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 149, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, near the town of Crellin, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Frank Graham.

No. 3.—ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS THE "PROMISED LAND," and being the same land which was conveyed to Ora A. P. Weimer by Samuel B. Lee by deed dated the 29th day of April, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 567, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Ora A. P. Weimer.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND CONTAINING ABOUT ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER 21 IN WILSON'S ADDITION TO THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, and being the same lot which was conveyed to Edward Hoye by Newton B. Wayman by deed bearing date the 10th day of May, 1878, and duly recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 3, folio 762, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said lot is located on Liberty street in the town of Oakland and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of Miss Marion C. Hoye.

No. 5.—PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SEVEN, CONTAINING TWELVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF LAND, being the same land which was conveyed to Jesse S. Severe and Sarah A. Severe by deed from John M. Browning and wife, bearing date the 21st day of August, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 458, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jesse S. Severe.

No. 6.—ALL THAT LOT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS THE "RUSSELL PROPERTY," which is located on the Southwest corner of First and Water streets in the town of Oakland, in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by James W. Thomas, Attorney, to Susan M. Thomas by deed bearing date the 28th day of November, 1900, and is duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 140, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Susan M. Thomas.

No. 7.—FIFTY-FIVE AND FIVE-EIGHTHS ACRES OF LAND, being a part of Lot No. 6 of the subdivision of a tract of land called "Herrington Manor," and being the same land which was conveyed to Charles G. Teats by Elizabeth Hall Vansant and others by deed dated the first day of October, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 369, etc, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles G. Teats.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

H. R. DEWITT,

Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

Tne New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant,
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate and Personal Property,

In Mountain Lake Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias on judgment of condemnation, issued out of the Circuit Court of Garrett county, wherein Clarence G. Hammond is plaintiff and Verona H. Preston and South G. Preston are defendants, the same being No. 18 Judicials, June Term, 1908, the undersigned Sheriff of Garrett county, having levied upon and attached the real and personal property hereinafter mentioned, in the above entitled cause, hereby gives notice that he will sell at public auction, in front of Hayden Bros. store, formerly Hammond's old stand, on the corner of H street and Baltimore Ave., in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Maryland, on Saturday, the 20th day of June,

1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., all the following personal property, to-wit:

1 Lot Shelving, 1 Coal Box and Contents, 1 Silk Umbrella, 1 Waste Basket and Contents, A lot of books of most every description, 1 Brussels Parlor Carpet and Rugs to match, 1 Lot of other Carpets and Rugs, 1 Lot of Mattings, 1 Lot of Curtain Poles, Window Blinds and Hammocks, 1 Bread Can and Contents, 1 Trunk and Contents, 1 Boxes and Contents, 1 Lot of Bed Quilts and Comforts, 1 Lot of Men's Wearing Apparel, 1 Slicker Overcoat, 1 Rocking Chair, 1 Shelf, 1 Feather Duster, 1 Box of Souvenirs, 3 brooms, 2 Large Pictures and Frames, 1 Lot of Bed Linen and Blankets, 1 Lot of Loose Pictures, 2 Door Mats, 1 Lot of Crackers, 1 Bowl, 1 Letter Box, Table Cloth, 1 Rope Swing, 1 Lot of Coal.

Also all that lot in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Md., known and designated as on the plat of Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 5, folio 500, this being the same property which was conveyed and more particularly described in the deed to the said Verona H. Preston from Maria Spitzer, dated June 21st, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 581, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland.

Lot Number 1004

The said personal property and real estate will be sold to satisfy said fieri facias on the aforesaid judgment of condemnation and the costs.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale.

AUSTIN BROWN,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

School Board Meeting

OFFICE OF
BOARD OF SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS
OF GARRETT COUNTY.
OAKLAND, MD., May 20th, 1908.

The Garrett County School Board will meet

Monday, June 1, 1908,

at 2:30 P. M., for the purpose of considering new buildings and repairs and such other business as may come before them.

Bids for text books and supplies will be opened and contracts awarded at this meeting.

By order of the Board.

E. A. BROWNING, County Sup't

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE P. S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

Decoration Day Saturday.

Mr. Julius C. Renninger spent Sunday at Eglon.

Circus Day Friday, June 5th. Everybody will be there.

Mr. W. A. Liller, of Keyser, was in the city Monday on business.

Mr. R. E. Sliger spent Sunday evening at Piedmont with his mother.

Mr. Oliver Heyward, of Bond, spent Sunday in Oakland with his family.

Mr Charles A. Tower, of Cumberland, was in this city Monday on business.

Merchant Charles A. Ashby, of Deer Park, was a business visitor to Oakland yesterday morning.

Mrs. J. N. Robinson went to Paw Paw, West Va., last Friday morning to visit friends and relatives for ten day.

Attorney Thomas J. Peddicord returned to Oakland last Friday from a professional trip to Harrisburg, Pa., and New York City.

Justice Andrew B. Gonder, who spent a day or two last week in Cumberland with relatives, retruned to his home in Oakland Friday.

Rev. J. B. Workman returned to Oakland Saturday last from Baltimore, where he had been a looker-on at the General Conference.

A young married man wanted with no children or a very small family; the wife to do the cooking for four men, the man to work by the year or month; house ready till July. Write at once; reference wanted. C. J. Yoder, Grantsville, Md. 11-3t

Largest assortment of highest grade enameled ware at bargain prices at G. A. Shirer & Co's. 9-4t*

Mrs. D. E. Offutt, who spent last week at Dille, West Va., at the bedside of a sick relative, returned to her home in Oakland Saturday.

Mrs. Charles A. Tower and two children, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. I. West in Oakland for two weeks, have returned to their home in Cumberland.

Mrs. U. G. Palmer, who was called to her former home up in Pennsylvania a week or two ago by reason of the death of her father, returned to Hutton last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Frank Weber, medical department student in the University of Maryland, arrived home from school last Friday morning to remain during the summer vacation.

An exchange says there are two reasons why some people don't mind their own business. One is that they hayen't any mind, and the other is that they haven't any business.

Mr. Charles S. Davis, who went to Baltimore last Friday morning to attend the sessions of the General Conference of the M. E. church, returned to his home in Oakland yesterday morning.

If the man who toils fourteen hours a day, wears overalls and a checkered shirt, and his wife wears a poor quality of calico, how does it happen that the fellow who never works at all wears broadcloth and his wife wears seal skin?

Mrs. William R. Offutt and little daughter, accompanied by Mrs. Offutt's mother, Mrs. J. Wilson Humbird, who has been here on a short visit, went to Cumberland Monday to spend a week.

Mr. Harry Ravenscraft, of Chicago, who was here for a week visiting his brother, Dr. W. H. Ravenscraft, left yesterday morning for Kingwood, where he will be the guest of friends for a short time.

Mr. Leonard Lochner, of Lonaconing, a former employe of office, arrived in Oakland from Accident, where he had been on an extended visit, Tuesday evening, and will go from here to his home at Lonaconing within a few days.

Mr. Getty Browning, son of ex-Senator and Mrs. R. T. Browning, has been appointed by the Highway Commission as a membur of the engineering corps. His work will take him to all parts of the State and he will enter upon his duties within a short time.

Work on the construction of the new court house in Oakland has been greatly delayed this week owing to the non-arrival of a car of stone which must be placed in the walls of the building before further brick laving can be done. The stone is expected here every day, having been shipped a month ago from the quarries in Indiana.

A young lady of this city went into a dry goods store the other day and blushingly asked the head clerk if he "had any of those elastic bands, capable of being elongated and adjusted at pleasure, and used by the feminine portion of mankind for putting around the lower extremities of their locomotive members to keep in the proper position and the required altitude habilaments of their tibias." The clerk is now on a sheep ranch.

Criticism is a medicine that sometimes kills, but often cures. It cured Lord Byron of some of his early foibles and lordly conceit, and it is said to have killed John Keats, on oversensitive young poet. But taken as a whole, criticism is a good thing if wisely directed, and properly administered. It corrects errors, cultivates taste, and conducts the world in the right paths to the attainment of the most substantial good to the greatest number.

An irate citizen says that hereafter he wants the editors to mind their own business My dear Christian friend, did you ever reflect, in your contemplative moments, when the moon is beaming, when the whippoorwill sings in the tree, when the hired man snores in the loft, the yellow dog sleeps on the lea, and the mosquito gets in his work,—did you ever reflect in such times upon the idea that a paper containing only accounts of the editor's own private business would be apt to prove monotonous to the general public? They might stand it for a while, but in the end it would be a thorn in the side and a weariness to the flesh, and all that sort of thing. No, brother, the true editor's business is to make everybody's business his business. That's business. So there's no use in making a chronic kicker of yourself for any one.

CAPITAL 50,0 0.00 — THE — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent. on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor. COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

HE FOUND OUT.

Alleged Horse Thief Came to Town To Find Out What He Was Wanted For.

Henry Kisner, one of the three men alleged to be implicated in the theft of three horses from Hutton and near-by on the night of the 8th inst., came to Oakland Tuesday in company with his father and made inquiries of a number of men what he was wanted for, professing ignoranoe of the crime alleged against him. He was finally directed to the Sheriff's office and upon his appearance there he was immediately placed under arrest and is now in jail to answer the charge.

Charles Kisner, brother to Henry, who is also implicated in the theft of the horses, was arrested at Terra Alta the day after the crime and has been in jail here ever since.

Another of the alleged thieves, George Arnold, is still at large, but his capture is only a matter of time.

Miss Emily Connett Pierson, a pianist of Newark, New Jersey, is at Deer Park visiting her great aunt, Mrs. G. W. Haulenbeek. Miss Pierson's residence is in the Forest Hill suburbs of of Newark, and this is her second visit to the grand old Alleghanies. She is studying music under Professor Frederick C. Baumann of the University of Music at Newark, and frequently appears in concerts at Newark, and in recitals in New York at Carnegie Hall on Fifth Avenue.

On another page of this paper today we publish a very interesting letter from the pen of Mr. Jacob Brown, the subject being the need of rehabilitating the old National Road through this county. Mr. Brown's writings upon any subject is interesting in the extreme but he excells in his reminiscences of the old Pike, its departed glories and present needs. With more men like Mr. Brown showing their interest in things pertaining to the welfare of people of all classes something can be accomplished.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent,
52-2t4s Oakland, Md.

Church Services.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Elder Hill—Union Sunday school 10 a. m., and preaching at 11 a. m.
Deep Creek—Sunday school at 2 p. m., and preaching at 3 p. m.
Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

OAKLAND PRESBYTERIAN.

Services on Sunday, to which all are cordially invited, will be preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

L. B. HENSLEY, Pastor.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Wesley Chapel—Sunday school 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.
Mt. Lake Park—Class meeting at 10 a. m.; Sunday school 2.30 p. m., Junior League 3.30 p.m.; Epworth League 7 p. m., and preaching 8 p. m.
Deer Park—Sunday School at 10 a.m.; Epworth League at 7 p. m.
All are welcome.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

ST. PAUL'S M. E.

Services next Sunday as follows:
Sunday school at 9.15 a. m.
Preaching at 10.30 a. m.
Preaching at 8 p. m.
Union services of the Senior and Junior Epworth League on Monday at 8 p. m., at which time a class of Juniors will be graduated.
Junior League Wednesday 4.15 p. m.
Prayer meeting Wednesday 8 p. m.
Everybody cordially invited to attend these services.

J. B. WORKMAN, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:
Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.
Preaching at 8 p. m.
Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.
Preaching in Deer Park Lutheran church next Sabbath at 11 a. m.
Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES. Pastor.

Store Ceiling Fell.

On Tuesday morning a portion of the ceiling in James Treacy's store, which is located in the Ravenscroft building on Second street, fell, the plastering having been loosened from some cause unknown. In its course downward the plastering struck upon two large show cases containing candies and other goods, completely demolishing the tops of the cases and completely ruining the contents. Mr. Treacy places his loss at $100.

MEMORIAL DAY AT FRIENDSVILLE

Appropriate Observances of the Day Will Be In Charge of the G. A. R.

Sherman Post No. 11, Grand Army of the Republic, desires that there be a general turnout of the citizens, public school children, Sunday schools, and all organized bodies of the town and surrounding country are also invited to participate with the Post on Memorial Day, Saturday, May 30, in decorating the graves of the noble dead who are now resting in our cemeteries. Addresses and appropriate music will be rendered in the Methodist Episcopal church in Friendsville.

All participants will please assemble in front of the Lutheran church at 9.45 and march to the M. E. church where exercises will be held both forenoon and afternoon, and a detail will be made to decorate the graves in the nearby cemeteries.

Donation of flowers will be thankfully received and can be left in the M. E. church.

R. E. FRIEND,
Commander.
GEO. E. BISHOFF,
Adjutant.

Captain Gordon Injured.

Captain Robert H. Gordon, the well known attorney, met with a painful and peculiar accident Wednesday evening. Some boys were playing ball in front of Captain Gordon's residence, when the ball dropped into a sewer. In order to aid the boys in securing the ball, Mr. Gordon raised a large iron lid which covered the manhole when the latter dropped prematurely, striking Captain Gordon on the knee cap lacerating the flesh severely and also displacing the kneecap. Captain Gordon as a consequence will be confined to his home for several days.—Cumberland Times.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

WILLIAM HACHMAN,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 28th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 26th day of May, 1908.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
SAMUEL MOSSER,
Administrators.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE.

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 29th day of May, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M. at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THOSE LOTS OR PARCELS OF LAND KNOWN AS LOTS "V" AND "W", IN BLOCK NUMBER 35 as shown on the Plat of the Mountain Home Company, of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Garrett county, in Liber E. Z. T., No. 1, folio 2, one of the Plat Records of said county, and being the same lots or parcels of land conveyed to John L. Rice by Mountain Home Company by deed dated the 31st day of December, 1894, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 199, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Lot "V" contains 273-1000 of an acre and lot "W" .26 of an acre. Said lots are located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said John L. Rice.

No. 5.—FIFTY ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS "WILLIAM AND MARY," and being the same land which was conveyed to Isaac Elliott by F. A. Thayer and others, trustees, by deed dated the 3nd day of August, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 246, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said land being described in said deed as follows: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of the first line of the whole lot No. 3 of the sub-division of the tract called "William and Mary," and running thence with the second line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 77 degrees West, 95¼ perches to the end of the second line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with the third line of said whole Lot No. 3 North 3 degrees West 83¾ perches to a stake, thence running across said whole Lot No. 3 South 77 degrees East, 95¼ perches to a stake standing in the first line of said whole Lot No. 3, thence with said first line South 3 degrees East, 83¾ perches to the beginning. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Isaac Elliott.

No. 7. THIRTY-FIVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT, which land is described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth F. Cecil to Clarence A. Knight, bearing date the 26th day of September, 1906, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 141, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth F. Cecil.

No. 8. ALL THAT PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER EIGHT HUNDRED AND FIFTY CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ABOUT ONE ACRE, being the same lot conveyed by Gilmor S. Hamill, attorney, to Jennie Smith by deed dated the 4th day of February, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 120, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, saving and excepting therefrom that part of said lot heretofore conveyed by said Jennie Smith by deeds of record in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit court for Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jennie Smith.

No. 11. MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY AND FIFTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-TWO, CONTAINING THE QUANTITY OF ONE HUNDRED ACRES, said lots being particularly described in a deed for the same from Catharine Lefler to Charles Hook bearing date the 10th day of May, 1890, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 318, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 8 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles Hook.

No. 14—MILITARY LOT NUMBER FORTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-THREE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, and being the same Lot which was conveyed to Hiram P. Tasker by D. James Blackiston by deed dated the 1st day of July, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 77, one of the Land records of said Garrett county, This lot is located in Election District No. 7 of Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Hiram P. Tasker.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

The man Who Makes A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Commissioners' Meeting.

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

The County Commissioners for Garrett county will meet at their office in Oakland on

Tuesday, June 2nd, 1908,

for the purpose of transacting all routine business.

By order of the Board,
A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first-class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
33 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

OBSERVATIONS ON PUBLIC ROADS

The Old National Pike the Leading Thought.

THE GREAT NATIONAL HIGHWAY.

Improved Carriages and the Great Increase in Their Number and Variety Require Improvement in the Roads—An Established Basis.

To the Editor of The Republican.

Of late we have been hearing much about good roads, almost to the extent of causing the phrase to be a slogan. But I do not mean to say, by any means, that too much is being said or written upon this very important subject. This popular term is applied to the old-time country, or county roads, and properly so. For a time the vast progress and powers of the railroads of this country almost put a quietus to the country road system, especially the ones of length, as the old Cumberland road, and Baltimore Pike road. They were in times past large carriers of both passengers and freight. No one sorrows for the change, but there is still room and need of good roads to reach and contribute to the railroads. They are simply common carriers, and not producers of commodities for market and for the use of the people.

The great wealth in this country lies in its agricultural productions, and all know they are of great bulk and weight. Not produced on or near the railroads, but mostly considerable distances, the vast annual products are to be conveyed from the millions of farms to the railroad depots for transportation to the many markets. Now is it not plain to be seen that country roads—good ones—are necessary to carry these agricultural products to markets? These products are on the increase all over the country, while our road system for some time has been on the decline.

It is time for the good of all that a renewal should be made, not merely for the pleasure seekers, but for general accommodation. It is a fact in many instances in times past the money appropriated for the roads has not been wisely and fairly spent—carelessly and selfishness indulged in.

Our Legislature at its last session thoughtfully and wisely provided for a loan of $5,000,000, to be used in the improvement of the roads throughout the State. It is to be hoped this large sum of the people's money will be wisely, carefully and properly used for the intended purposes, and that there be no grafts or favoritism or partisanism in it.

Now a few words about the old Cumberland (somtimes called National) road. I have on hand much matter of my own procurement in regard to it, but only a small part need be given here. The first appropriation for its making by Congress was $30,000 in 1806, followed by some twenty others, at intervals, till the last in 1838, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,284,086.31. Its beginning was at Cumberland, following the general line or course of the Braddock road through Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, till it reached East St. Louis. It was the most lengthy highway in our country.

The Maryland part of it was from Cumberland to Winding ridge, at the Pennsylvania line, about 35 miles west. In the year 1838 the United States turned the road over to the different States through which it passed. Since then the local authorities had charge of it, and treated as an ordinary country road. Such has been the case in Allegany and Garrett counties. It has for some time been in quite a worn or delapidated condition. It needs repairs badly and ought to have them. It is the most lengthy road in the two counties and the most important. Its foundation and grades are superior. It ought to be restored for the general utilization to say nothing about its historic associations. Congress is now being sought to do something for its improvement. It is still of a national nature and location. During our great Civil War it was found to be of much use in different ways, especially when the railroads were interrupted.

The Hon. John H. Bankhead, a member of Congress from Alabama, has lately made a very able speech in Congress upon the general subject of roads. He thinks Congress should take an interest in them.

The automobile though not a desirable vehicle to some persons, are becoming quite common upon the country roads, and help to fill them, and in some cases impediment is claimed. Within the past week one of our leading Cumberlanders made a home transit from Baltimore within the daylight hours of a single day. Old-time railroad speed. The manufacturing of the autos is now one of our great industries, amounting to $110,000,000 last year. They may, in time, be made to carry small freight like the trolley cars and traction engines, as well as pleasure seekers. It is a fact that there is now in the two counties named, 10 light vehicles to one 50 years ago—not a longer while to some. All these make more need for good reads. J. B.

May 23, 1908.

Mr. Brown knows the old conditions and is fully abreast of today's developments. His advice is therefore valuable.

SHOW FOR CHILDREN.

Gentry Bro's Trained Animal Circus Is Unique.

Gentry Brothers' circus, or more correctly speaking, trained animal show, is in its way unique. Although the show is given in a tent beyond this there is little to suggest the circus except, perhaps the elephants and the camels. The show, in its clean, and even rich, settings, resembles a theatrical performance more than a circus. The animals do their parts, in some cases under silk flags and on rich carpets. In fact, the whole ring is carpeted. One thing stands forth, the show is as clean and free from anything in any way objectionable or dangerous as is the opera in first-class theatre. No employe is allowed even to swear, and if one is heard using an oath, a very rare thing by the way, he is promptly discharged. Although the show is well worth while for grown folks, it primarily is a children's entertainment, and is conducted as such in every way.

The trained animals include dogs, over thirty of them, and the same number or more of horses and ponies, several elephants and perhaps the handsomest camel in America. The ponies drill at the word of command like a half company of regular cavalry; in fact they do it better then some of the mounted soldiers can guide their mounts. To see a dozen horses in a ring by themselves, acting at the word of command, as if each one was mounted by a good rider, is a sight worth going far to see.

The music is good, and the horses enjoy it. They go faster or slower, just as the music does. Only the dogs seem to dislike it.

Besides the animals are shown a series of living groups reproducing various well-known statues. The posers are all in white and powdered to resemble marble.

Then there are the tumblers and the trick mule that set the little ones in an uproar. But there is nothing done in the air, nothing in any way dangerous to life or limb. Only one long leap is made and that by a very nervy little dog from the top of a ladder into a net.

The Gentry Show will exhibit in Oakland, Friday, June 5th, giving two performances at 2 and 8 p. m. The usual street parade will entertain the yougsters hanging on the front gate or trooping alongside for blocks, but the show must be seen from the inside to be appreciated. As a children's entertainment it is the best thing that has been seen in this city for a long time.

SAVING NATURAL WEALTH.

Remarkable Conference Over the Country's Resources.

A gathering that was without precedent in history and that involved matters of profound importance to the nation as a whole was held in Washington last week, on the call of President Roosevelt. Its purpose was to consider the measures necessary to accomplish five great objects—the stoppage of the reckless and unscientific destruction of forests, checking the appalling waste in the mining methods, the reclamation of swamp lands and arid tracts in the interest of agriculture and the improvement of the inland waterways of the United States. Inasmuch as these subjects had an interast for many of the states, all of the Governors were invited to attend, and each was requested to bring three scientific or official counsellors with him. Mr. Roosevelt also asked the judges of the United States Supreme Court and several such experts in the federal service as the head of the bureau of forestry. The advice and co-operation of William J. Bryan were also sought. With remarkable unanimity the invitation was accepted, regardless of section or politics. In his address of welcome to the large company which assembled in the White House Mr. Roosevelt declared that the questions which he presented for consideration—the saving of the nation's resources for future generations—constituted the gravest problems with which the country is confronted to-day. After three days of deliberation, in which many men of national reputation—college presidents and railroad presidents among them—the conference adopted the following declaration or resolution.

"We the Governors of the states and territories of the United States of America, in conference assembled, do hereby declare the conviction that the great prosperity of our country rests upon the abundant resources of the land chosen by our forefathers for their homes, and where they laid the foundation of this great nation. We look upon these resources as a heritage to be made use of in establishing and promoting the comfort, prosperity and happiness of the American people, but not to be wasted, deteriorated or needlessly destroyed.

"We agree that our country's future is involved in this; that the great natural resources supply the material basis upon which our civilization must continue to depend, and upon which the perpetuity of the nation itself rests.

"We agree, in the light of facts brought to our knowledge and from information received from sources which we cannot doubt, that this material basis is threatened with exhaustion. Even as each succeeding generation from the birth of the nation has performed its part in promoting the progress and development of the republic, so do we in this generation recognize it as high duty to perform our part, and this duty in large degree in the adoption of measures for the conservation of the natural wealth of the capacity.

"We declare our firm conviction that this conservation of our natural resources in a subject of transcendent importance, which should engage unremitting the attention of the nation, the states and the peoples in earnest co-operation. These natural resources include the land on which we live, and which yields our food; the living waters which fertilize the soil, supply power and form great avenues of commerce; the forests which yield materials for our homes, prevents erosion of the scil and conserve the navigation and other uses of our streams, and the minerals which form the basis of our industrial life, and supply us with heat, light and power.

"We agree that the land should be so used that erosion and soil wash should cease, that there should be reclamation of arid and semi-arid regions by means of irrigation, and of swamp and overflowed regions by means of drainage; that the waters should be so conserved and used as to promote navigation, to enable the arid regious to be reclaimed by irrigation, and to develop power in the interest of the people; that the forests, which regulate our rivers, support our industries and promote the fertility and productiveness of the soil, should be preserved and perpetuated; that the minerals found so abundantly beneath the surface should be so used as to prolong their utility; that the beauty, healthfulness and habitability of our country should be preserved and increased; that the sources of national wealth exist for the benefit of all the people, and that the monopoly thereof should not be tolerated.

"We commend the wise forethought of the President in sounding the note note of warning as to the waste and exhaustion of the natural resources of the country, and signify our high appreciation of his action in calling this conference to consider the same and to seek the remedies therefor through co-operation of the nation and the states.

"We agree that this co-operation should find expression in suitable action by the Congress within the limits of and co-extensive with the national jurisdiction of the subject, and complementary hereto by the legislatures of the several states within the limits of and co-extensive with their jurisdiction.

"We declare the conviction that in the use of the natural resources states are independent and bound together by ties of mutual benefit, resonsibilities and duties.

"We agree in the wisdom of future conferences between the President, members of Congress and the Governors of the states regarding the conservation of our natural resources, with view of continued co-operation and action on the lines suggested. And to this end we advise that from time to time, as in his judgment may seem wise, the President call the Governors of the states, members of Congress and others into conference.

"We agree that further action is advisable to ascertain the present condition of our natural resources and to promote the conservation of the same. And to that end we recommend the appointment by each state of a commission on the conservation of natural resources to co operate with each other and with any similar commission on behalf of the federal government.

"We urge the continuation and extention of forest policies adapted to secure the husbanding and renewal of our diminishing timber supply, the prevention of soil erosion, the protection of headwaters, and the maintenance of the purity and navigability of the streams. We recognize the private ownership of forest lands entails responsibilities in the interests of all the people, and we favor the enactment of laws looking to the protection and replacement of privately owned forests.

"We recognize in our waters a most valuable assets of the people of the United States, and we recommend the enactment of laws looking to the conservation of water resources for irrigation, water supply, power and navigation, to the end that navigable and course streams may be brought under complete control and fully utilize for every purpose. We especially urge on the federal Congress the immediate adoption of a wise, active and thorough waterway policy, providing for the prompt improvement of our streams and conservation of their water sheds required for the uses of commerce and the protection of the interests of our people.

"We recommend the enactment of laws looking to the prevention of waste in the mining and extraction of coal, oil, gas and other minerals, with a view to their wise conservation for the use of the people, and to the protection of human life in the mines.

"Let us conserve the foundation of our prosperity."

MORAL COURAGE.

The world affords many examples of true heroism and moral courage of the highest order The pages of history record many instances of men and women who have faced suffering, privation and death with a calmness and courage that inspired those about them. In New York last week occurred another that has moved the hearts of many. Last week, Dr. William Marsh dressed a wound of a favorite dog and in some manner contracted rabies. On Sunday, after examination at the Pasteur Institute he was told that he must die before Thursday noon. The rest of the story is told in a press dispatch:

"You will die before Thursday noon. No human power can save you."

That was the dictum of Dr. William L. Wheeler, of the Pasteur Institute, delivered last Monday. It struck Dr. Marsh like a blow between the eyes, but he stood up to it man fashion.

"I have seen some pitiful sights, but I never have been so moved as I was by the clam courage, the splendid heroism of Dr. Marsh, when I told him there was no hopes for him," said Dr. Wheeler.

Returning with his physician, Dr. H. M. Culiman, to his home, in Ocean avenue, Brooklyn, Dr. Marsh at once began to make plans for the future of those near and dear to him. Himself a graduate in medicine, he knew science had said its last word:

"I am not afraid to die, the past hides nothing that should make me ashamed to face the future," he said to his frends who called when the word went forth that one about to die was waiting for the end. His only fear was that the frightful convulsions of the final stage of rabies might prove too harrowing for his family to witness, the terrifying cries too heartrending for them the hear. So he asked Dr. Culiman to keep close when the period of delirium began and be liberal with choloroform, opium or whatever might avail to stupify and sooth.

Faithful to his trust, Dr. Culiman hardly left the bedside of his patient and friend until the end. From early Tuesday afternoon until he died, Dr. Marsh was in a state of almost complete unconsciousness, induced by sedatives. Death came gently and peacefully.

None of those who sat in conference with Dr. Marsh until nearly midnight Monday would speak tonight of the occurrences in detail. It was in the ibrary of his home that he gathered them together—his wife, his sons and daughters, his son-in-law and his lawyer. There was the will to be drawn up, and, that done and the distribution of his personal property arranged for, he turned his attention to the future of his children.

Stock in the Standard Water Meter Company, the profitable business that Dr. Marsh established for the manufacture of his own invention, is held entirely by the members of the family.

Still in full possession of his faculties the only symptoms of his fatal disease being the convulsive contractions of the throat that seized him from time to time, Dr. Marsh directed and the rest consented that his second son, Ramsay, who has been associated with him in business, should undertake the management of the company as its head. There were other things talked over, too, but of their details none would speak tonight. It is safe to say, however, that of all the occupants of the house Dr. Marsh himself was the only one who slept that night.

This story has been printed the country over and it is safe to say that through this story of real heroism, many a man and waman has been inspired to buckle down and meet the trials and difficulties of life like a man.

A young married man wanted with no children or a very small family; the wife to do the cooking for four men, the man to work by the year or month; house ready till June. Write at once; reference wanted. C. J. Yoder, Grantsville, Md. 11-3t

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, MD.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyar .ag
Investigation of land titles and collection o
claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Schedule effective June 2, 1907.
OAKLAND.
*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *9.35 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. (local), *5.35 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *5.35 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.
We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,
1 Gasoline Engine,
8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $75.
1 Hay Bailer,
operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.
For further information call on or write to
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.
We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:
One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.
Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.
Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.
For further information, address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribe of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

JOHN KITZMILLER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscribers, on or before the 13th day of August next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 13th day of February 1908.

WILLIAM CALLIS,
W. J. KITZMILLER,
Executors.
Hoyes, Md.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,

Okland, Md.

HE ASPIRED TOO SOON.

How the Man With Ambition Was Presented With a Black Eye.

The man with a black eye sat down in the center of the street car, and of course the dozen other passengers took furtive glances at him and wondered if he called the other fellow a liar first. Finally the man at his right felt it his duty to query:

"Did a stick fly up when you were chopping wood?"

"No, sir."

"Get up in the night and run against an open door?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't tell the iceman that he'd been cheating you all summer, eh?"

"I didn't. I got this black eye by exploding a legend, sir."

"I—I don't exactly understand."

"Isn't it said in this country and doesn't everybody believe that a man can aspire to the highest position?"

"Of course. That's part of our great system."

"Well, it's all tommyrot. I was drinking a glass of beer in a saloon yesterday, and I happened to remark that I aspired to the presidency and five men piled on to me and gave me this black eye and kicked me outdoors."

"Um! I see," replied the other.

"Well, what do you see?"

"You aspired too high and too soon. The legend is all right, but it is expected that a man will serve one term as alderman first and steal enough to pay his campaign expenses."—Baltimore American.

Cause For Gratitude.

The benevolent looking old gentleman on the seat in front turned around and spoke to the mother of the little cherub whose sticky fingers had been smearing chocolate creams on his bald head.

"Are there any more at home like him?" he asked, with a genial smile.

"Oh, no!" she said. "He's our only child."

"Thank heaven!" he exclaimed fervently.—Chicago Tribune.

The Popular Cure.

"So I can't induce you to handle any line of remedies?" said the patent medicine salesman as he closed his grips. "Don't the citizens around here use any kind of cures?"

"Only the rest cure, stranger," drawled the proprietor of the general store. "You can find half a hundred of them on the fence and on the porch and behind the stove using that cure now."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Better.

The Bridegroom (on the return from the honeymoon)—Hello! What's this? All the bills for your trousseau? Why, I thought your father paid these.

Bride—It is customary, dear. But he thought you would rather do it than give him the humiliation of borrowing the money from you.—New York Life.

African Ingenuity.

The equatorial barber has no paint, but he can have a barber pole all the same.

Domestic Comfort.

"Excuse me for not stopping," exclaimed Little. "I'm in a hurry to get home."

"That's rather unusual," said Large. "What's the trouble?"

"My wife has a cold," explained Little, "and she can't speak over a whisper."—Bohemian Magazine.

A Housewifely Request.

She—Dearest, are you going fishing?

He—Yes, darling.

She—Well, I want to put up some preserves this year. Won't you catch me some jellyfish?—Baltimore American.

The New Learning.

They taught him how to hemstitch, and they taught him how to sing,
And how to make a basket out of variegated string,
And how to fold a paper so he wouldn't hurt his thumb—
They taught a lot to Bertie, but he couldn't do a sum.

They taught him how to mold the head of
Hercules in clay,
And how to tell the difference 'twixt bluebird and the jay,
And how to sketch a horsie in a little picture frame;
But, strangely, they forgot to teach him how to spell his name.

Now, Bertie's pa was crabbed, and he went one day to find
What 'twas they did to make his son so backward in the mind.
"I don't want Bertie wrecked!" he cried
in temper far from cool,
"I want him educated!" So he took him out of school.

—"Jersey Jingles," by Leonard H. Robbins.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C. & P. Telephone Comp'y

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,

Table and Floor Oil Cloths,

Lace Curtains,

Dotted Swiss,

Window Blinds,

Sheets and Pillow Cases,

Table Linen, Towels,

Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise 'Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department Takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest. Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows AND Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

ROAD COMMISSION TO BE IN OAKLAND ON JUNE 3.

Trip From Cumberland to Hagerstown to be Over Old Highway.

William C. Deveemon, attorney at law, who is secretary of the committee named at the public meeting under the auspices of the Cumberland Automobile Club to arrange for a meeting of motorists and citizens generally to be held at Hagerstown with the State Highways Commission, with view to having the State rehabilitate the old National road and the Cumberland road, making a permanent highway from Baltimore to the limits of Garrett county, has received a letter from Dr. William Bullock Clark of the State Highway Commission that the latter would be in Hagerstown on June 4, leaving Cumberland on the morning of that day after meeting here during the previons afternoon and at Oakland in the morning. The commission desires that automobiles be used in go- from Cumberland to Hagestown and Dr. Clark asks to be advised if machines can be secured. Of this it is thought there can be no doubt. A meeting will be held here in the city council chamber this evening looking to arrangement for the entertainment of the commission.

Mr. Robert Shriver is chairman of the committee. At the meeting in Hagerstown representatives will be present from the counties through which the Cumberland and National roads pass.

It has been ascertained that Col. Thomas B. Searight, the author of the history of the old National Road, who was sent an invitation to the Hagerstown meeting, died several years ago.—Cumberland News.

FIKE.

The weather is very wet and the farmers have not planted their corn yet.

Geo. F. Wass was in this section last week selling fertillizer for buckwheat.

Mr. O. S. Fike and wife were in this section sometime ago visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. W. L. Fike has been working for Wm. H. Thomas this past week.

The German Baptist congregation met in council at Markleysburg, Pa., last Saturday.

CARTER.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anything in this line.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank

AT KITZMILLERVILLE,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, May 14, 1908.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$56,070 24
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		6,250 00
Premiums on U. S. Bonds		218 75
Bonds, securities, etc		9,321 39
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		3,347 95
Other real estate owned		400 00
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		78 16
Due from approved reserve agents		7,669 06
Notes of other National Banks		200 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		26 09
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$3,778 95
Legal-tender notes	210 00	3,988 95
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer, (5 per cent, of circulation)		312 50
Total		$ 87,883 09

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$ 25,000 00
Surplus fund	3,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	75 76
National Bank notes outstanding	6,250 00
Due to other National Banks	2,025 30
Due Trusts Companies and Savings Banks	248 36
Individual deposits subject to check	26,129 36
Demand certificates of deposit	25,110 53
Certified Checks	15 78
Cashier's checks outstanding	28 00
Total	$ 87,883 09

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, E. J. Hamill, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21st day of May, 1908.

GEO. J. POOL, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: CHAS. M. WILSON, WADE SAPP, R. A. SMITH, Directors.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

THOMAS DAVIS,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 28th day of November next; they may otherwisa by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves in debted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 28th day of May, 1908.

BRADLEY T. DAVIS, Administrator, Kitzmiller, Md.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank

AT FRIENDSVILLE,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business May 14th, 1908.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$127,870 93
Overdrafts		363 87
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		25,000 00
Premiums on U. S. Bonds		1,734 37
Bonds, securities, etc		60,943 54
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		6,098 51
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		2,624 41
Due from State Banks and Bankers		161 43
Due from approved reserve agents		5,812 90
Checks and other cash items		165 26
Notes of other National Banks		620 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		304 72
Lawful money reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$ 511 75
Legal-tender notes	9,975 00	10,486 75
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent. of circulation)		1,250 00
Total		$243,436 69

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$ 25,000 00
Surplus fund	23,597 43
Undivided profits	1,956 74
National Bank notes outstanding	25,000 00
Due to other National Banks	387 09
Due to State Banks and Bankers	1,653 62
Individual deposits subject to check	75,647 06
Time certificates of deposit	90,194 75
Total	$243,436 69

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, R. C. McCandlish, Cashier of the above bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

R. C. MCCANDLISH, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22nd day of May, 1908.

ORVAL A. WELCH, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: D. S. CUSTER, W. W. SAVAGE, L. E. FRIEND, Directors.

Stockholders' Meeting of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company.

Notice is hereby given that a general meeting of the stockholders of the Western Maryland Coal and Coke Company (successor to the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company of Garrett county, Md.), will be held at the office of the Company in the town of Friendsville, Garrett county, Md., on Tuesday, May 26th, 1908, at the hour of two o'clock p. m. The object of such meeting being: To elect a board of ten directors to serve for the ensuing year; to repeal and renact the by-laws of said company; to consider the proposition of Willard Brown and others, for the purchase or lease of a part of the Company's property for the installation of a power plant on Youghiogheny River, and generally for the consideration of such business as may be properly brought before a sto-kholders general meeting.

This notice is given by virtue of an order passed at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Penn-Garrett Coal Mining Company, of Garrett county, Md., held at Friendsville, Md., on May 11th, 1908, accepting the amended charter of the company as provided by Chapter 304 of the Acts of 1908.

J. R. TENANT, Secretary.

Friendsville, Md., May 12th, 1908. 11-21

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

BENJAMIN F. BOWSER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 14th day of May 1908.

AMOS BOWSER, Administrator.

R. F. D. No. 2, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County, in Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letter Testamentary on the personal estate of

HARVEY B. NEWMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of May, 1908.

S. T. JONES, Executor, Oakland, Md.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Sec. 40, 45, Chapter 566, Acts of 1890, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 3 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge interest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER, Treasurer.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 18th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON, Executor, Fros.burg, Md.

7-3t

Proposals For Building Wrought Iron Bridge

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO., OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will receive sealed proposals on Tuesday, the 2nd day of June, '08,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over little Yough at the Close crossing about one mile from Oakland, the superstructure to consist of one span 85 feet long and 12 feet wide. The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure seperate from the stone work and vice versa.

The bids for substructure can be either for stone or concrete, the Board to decide which is to be used at the date of letting.

Plans and specifications to be seen in the Commissioners Office on and after May 22, 1908.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,

A. G. ROSS, Clerk

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 5th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit·

No. 1. ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND KNOWN AND DESIGNATED AS MILITARY LOT NUMBE ELEVEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, lying and being in Election District No. 10 of Garrett county and being the same lot which was conveyed by Elizabeth F. Cecil to Elizabeth Paugh et al. by deed bearing date the 1st day of June, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 99, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth Paugh.

No. 2. ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, KNOWN AS MILITARY LOT NUMBER THIRTY-ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE, which was conveyed by William M. Lohr, late Treasurer of Garrett county, to William A. Hauser by deed bearing date the 3rd day of November, 1903, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 301, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and more particularly described in a deed for the same from Adolphus Osse to Charles Osso dated the 2nd day of July, 1894, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 331, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county iu the name of the said William A. Hauser.

No. 4.—PART OF A LOT KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER TWENTY-ONE OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED LOCHIEL, CONTAINING TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE ACRES, and being the same land which was conveyed by F. P. Green and wife to Mary C. Love by deed bearing date the 26th day of August, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 147, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is more pardescribed in a deed for the same to the said F. P. Green executed by John T. Mitchell and wife, bearing date the 30th day of January, 1899, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z T., No. 36, folio 224, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 or said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary C. Love,

No. 5.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND LOCATED IN LOCH LYNN HEIGHTS, described in a deed for the same from Elizabeth A. White and husband to William C. White, bearing date the 13th day of July, 1896, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 30, folio 369, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, and beginning for the same at a stake at the northwest corner of a lot conveyed to Eulalia E. Lish and with it South 63½ degrees East, 130 feet to an alley, thence South 63½ degrees East, 49 feet, thence North 63½ degrees West 130 feet to Seneca Avenue extended, and with same North 26½ degrees East, 49 feet to the beginning containing 15-100 of an acre, nearly. Said lot is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said William C. White.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK described in a deed for the same from Mary E. Mayers to Annie V. Cunningham, dated the 19th day of April, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 433, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said description being as follows: Beginning at a stone on the southwest corner of Spruce and E streets and running with E street South 50 feet to a stake for a place of beginning, thence with the South line of Lot No. 107, 120 feet to an alley, thence South along said alley 25 feet to a stake, thence East 120 feet to E street, thence North along E street 25 feet to the place of beginning, said lot being shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association as recorded in the plat records of Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Annie V. Cunningham.

No. 7.—LOTS NUMBERS THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY AND THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-TWO as shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio 800, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed by Mountain Lake Park Association to Mary B. Wilson et al., by deed dated the 28th day of January, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 341, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the heirs of George M. Wilson.

No. 8.—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THREE, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FOUR, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Lands of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gay and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 9.—ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE AND THREE-QUARTER ACRES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "POTOMAC MANOR," being the same land which was patented to General John Swan by the State of Maryland the 24th day of December, 1800, and conveyed by the Manor Mining Company to Abraham I. Wilson, by deed dated the 16th day of January, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 132, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 10 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as it charged on the Asfessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Abraham I. Wilson.

No. 10—Land of Benjamin Tasker erroneously advertised as the taxes on this property had been paid.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent per annum and all costs. Conveyoncing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER, Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

CHAPTER 549.

(Continned from page 7.)

all intoxicating liquors and the vessels in which it is contained if the same shall be found in quantities and under such conditions as to suggest that it is kept for sale and all the means used for the sale of the same, all the paraphanalia or part of the paraphanalia of a bar room or drinking saloon, and any United States Internal Revenue tax receipt for the sale of intoxicating liquors, effective for the period of time covering the alledged offence, and forthwith report in writing all the facts and make immediate return on said warrant. B the warrant for search shall be directed to the proper officer and shall show by a copy of the affidavit inserted therein or annexed and referred to or recite all the material facts alleged in the affidavit and particularly describe the thing to be searched for and place to be searched.

A warrant for search substantially in the following form shall be sufficient.

State of Maryland Garrett county towit:

To————Greeting————

Whereas there has been filed with the undersigned an affidavit of which the following is a copy:

here copy affidavit

These are therefore to command you in the name of the State of Maryland together with the necessary and proper assistance to enter into———— (here describe house or place described in the affidavit) of the said————of———— ——in the county aforesaid and there diligently search for the said intoxicating liquor and means used for the sale of same (here describe the articles as in the affidavit) and that you bring the same or any part thereof found in such search forthwith before me to be disposed of and dealt with according to law. Given under my hand this————day of————A. D.

Such liquor and means used for the sale of same shall be held subject to the order of the Justice of the Peace or Court issuing the warrant to be used as evidence in the prosecution of any case for the violation of this Act. C. If fluids be poured out or otherwise destroyed when the premises are searched or about to be searched, said fluids shall be held prima facie to be intoxicating liquors and intended for sale in violation of this Act. D. If upon final judgment of the Justice of the Peace or Court the accused shall be found guilty, the intoxicating liquor seized from him shall after the time for appeal has expired and if no appeal is taken, be ordered to be destroyed and the other property shall be held as property of the accused or owner. If the accused shall be found not guilty the whole of the property seized shall be returned to the person from whom it was taken. E. When any liquor shall have been seized by virtue of such warrant the same shall not be discharged or returned to any person claiming the same reason of any alleged in sufficiency in the description in the complaint or warrant of the liquor or place; but the claimant shall be entitled to a hearing when the case is tried. F. If no one is found in possession of the premises where intoxicating liquor may be found, the officer taking the same shall post in a conspicuous place on said premises a copy of his warrant and take possession of such liquor and means used for the sale of the same and hold them subject to the order of the Court or Justice of the Peace issuing the warrant and make return of his doings thereon whereupon it shall be the duty of the justice of the peace or Court to fix a time for hearing and determining the purpose for which such liquor is kept and issue a notice thereof to the officer who shall post a copy thereof on the premises where the liquor were found. If no one appears at the time fixed for said hearing, nor within thirty days thereafter, to claim such liquor and means used for the sale of same, the Justice of the Peace or Court shall order the same destroyed. G. No warrant shall be issued to search a private residence occupied as such unless it or some part of it is used as a store or shop, hotel, or boarding house, or unless such residence is a place of public resort. H The person making affidavit for the warrant to search any place where intoxicating liquor is believed to be disposed of contrary to this Act, may personally or by agent accompany the officer who serves the warrant and enter the place with such officer and give information and assistance to such in searching such places for such intoxigating liquor; J. Liquor seized as hereinbefore provided, and the means used for the sale of the same shall not be taken from the custody of the officer by a writ of replevin or other process while the proceedings herein provided are pending, and final judgment of conviction in such proceedings shall be in all cases a bar to all suits for the recovery of any liquor seized or the value of the same, or damages alleged to arise by reason of the seizing and detention thereof. K. When any prosecution is commenced before any Justice of the Peace or Court for a violation of this Act, and the liquor seized under this section is to be used as evidence in such trial, the hearing must take place in not more than thirty days if such Court be then in session, and if it be not in session if at the time appointed for the trial the returns have not been properly made, or for other sufficient cause, the trial may be postponed to a further date, not more than fifteen days beyond said thirty days. L. The word liquor when used in this Section unless the same be inconsistent with the context, shall be construed to include the vessels containing the same. The phrase "means used for the sale of same" shall include all furniture, implements, or paraphernalia of a bar-room or drinking saloon or any part of same, and any United States internal revenue tax receipt effective for the period of time covering the alleged offense.

SEC. 24. And be it further enacted, that any five legal voters of any political sub-division in which an election shall have been held as provided for in this Act may, within ten days after the canvass of the returns of such election, and upon filing a bond for costs in a penalty to be fixed by the presiding judge, and with a surety or sureties to be approved by him, contest the validity of such election by filing a verified petition in the Circuit Court for Garrett County, setting forth the grounds for the contest. Upon the filing of such petition a summons shall forthwith issue from such Court addressed to the supervisors of elections with whom the petition for such election was filed, notifying such supervisors of election, of the filing of said petition and directing them to appear in such Court on behalf of such political sub-division at the time named in the summons, which time shall be not less than five nor more than fifteen days after the filing of such petition. The procedure in such cases shall be the same as that provided by law for contesting an election to a public office, so far as the same is applicable. The said Court shall have final jurisdiction to hear aud determine the merits of such cases. Any legal voter in the political sub-division in which such election shall have been held, may be permitted by the Court in its description to appear in person or by attorney in any such contested election case in defence of the validity of such election.

SEC. 25. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this Act shall apply to the incorporated town of Oakland.

SEC. 26. And be it further enacted, That this act shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 6th, 1908.

Oakland, Friday, June 5

Two Performances Daily.

FAMOUS

GENTRY BROTHERS' SHOWS.

Bigger & Better Than Ever.

200 Trained Horses and Ponies 200

2 Herds of Elephants | 10 Funny Clowns

2 Droves of Camels | 2 Military Bands

3 BIG EUROPEAN FEATURES 3

The Great Steiner Troupe from Berlin

M'selle De Oesch "Queen of the Air," of Paris

The Comedy Weylers, from Barcelona.

ONE TICKET ADMITS TO ALL.

Grand Free Street Parade Daily at 10 a. m.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1908. NUMBER 14

OAKLAND WAS INUNDATED AGAIN FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Cloudburst At the Head of Wilson Creek Was the Cause.

A NUMBER OF BUILDINGS FLOODED

Monetary Loss Was Small, However, The Oakland Model Bakery Being Heaviest Looser—Furniture Store of D. E. Bolden Quietly Cleared of Goods.

For the second within less than a year the business section of Oakland bordering on Second street at its intersection with Liberty street, was flooded on Friday afternoon last, when Wilson Creek, which passes through that portion of the town, rose very rapidly and flooded many buildings to a depth of more than a foot and the streets, notably Third and Green, Liberty and Second, resembling rivers uncontrolable and wild.

The cause of the flood was a cloudburst which occurred about three o'clock at the head of the Creek, out towards Hooppole Ridge, two or three miles north of town. The waters came down with a rush, quickly overflowing the banks of the creek into Third street and also into Green street. Liberty and Second streets were soon flooded, the water rushing over the bridge on Second street so rapidly that the men who were engaged in pulling boards and logs from the water so as to prevent the clogging of the culvert under the railway tracks, had considerable difficulty in keeping their feet.

Among the buildings flooded were the Oakland Bakery, D. E. Bolden's furniture store, the Mitchell building, the opera house, W. G. Hinebaugh's restaurant and Dixon & Kelso's store.

The Oakland Bakery sustained the greatest loss by reason of the flood, the proprietor, Mr. Henry Lauer, placing the loss at $125.

W[illegible] D. E. Bolden's furniture store, Tue[illegible]ed adjoining the bakery, which was packed with fine furniture, pictures, etc., was soon cleared by willing hands, the goods being carried into the the opera house and across the street to the warehouse of Messrs. Dixon & Kelso. Mr. Bolden's damages will be about $100, caused by the goods becoming wet by the rain which continuted to fall while the furniture was being transferred.

The occupants of the other buildings flooded sustained comparatively little less, the greatest damage being done by reason of the mud which washed into the lower floors and covered them with a muddy mixture half an inch or more deep.

Mr. S. T. Jones, cashier of the Garrett National Bank, was on his way home, when he was apprised of the coming of the flood. With quick wit and the necessary material handy the doors of the banking rooms were caulked and although water to the depth of four inches surrounded the building very little got inside.

Obituary.

George Pearson White, of Loch Lynn Heights, Garrett county, Md., departed this life to be with Christ May 26th, 1908. He was the fifth son of Johnson White and Aseneth Gregg White his wife. He was born July 8th, 1849, at what was then known as "The Glades," but now known as Loch Lynn Heights, and was the last surviving member of a family of ten children. He married Miss Rachel R. Deets, of Aurora, W. Va., Oct. 10th, 1878. Their married life was a happy one. They had three sons, Albert T., Orlando M. and Alderson B. White. They, with their mother, survive. Brother White never aspired to or held a political office, though he was chosen by his townspeople to serve two terms as mayor and several times as councilman.

He was a man who aspired to be a help to his fellow man and took part in and was a member of several fraternal orders. He was prominent in the Knights of Pythias and was a charter member of Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., which was instituted July 13, 1895, and filled the offices of right supporter to noble grand, chaplain, vice grand, noble grand, past grand, permanent secretary and district deputy grand master. The last office he held at the time of his death. Though he was so popular and efficient in fraternal orders he was no less so in christian work. He was converted at about thirty years of age and united with the Methodist Episcopal church. He served as steward, class-leader, Sunday school teacher and superintendent and efficiently in every position. He transferred his membership to the Loch Lynn U. B. church about a year before his death and was very consistent in his christian life there. He suffered very severely for some time before his death but was always patient and resigned. Almost his last words were, "I have about finished my race, but it is all right." He passed away peacefully surrounded by his family and friends. He was buried Thursday, May 28th, in the Oakland cemetery. The funeral services were held in the old auditorium, Mountain Lake Park. His pastor, Rev. J. F. Pritchard had charge of the services there and was assisted by Rev. John M. Davis, of Oakland, and Rev. C. W. Hudson, of Loch Lynn. The services at the grave were in charge of the Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias who attended in a body. His body now rests n the bosom of mother earth awaiting the time when his Master shall call him forth to receive his crown.

REV. C. W. HUDSON.

(Grafton, Piedmont and Terra Alta papers please copy.)

An Enthusiastic Reception Tendered Road Commission

Upon The Occasion of Its Visit To Oakland Yesterday Morning.

GOVERNOR CROTHERS MUCH GRATIFIED

Nearly a Quarter of a Million Dollars for Permanent Roads Has Been Apportioned Garrett By the Commission.

One of the most enthusiastic gatherings of the residents of Garrett county, and when we say residents we do not mean those from any particular section of the county, but men from every portion of the county, representing every walk in life, the professions, agriculture, mercantile and banking, was that held in the court house yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock, the occasion being the visit made here by the State Highway Commission of Maryland, composed of His Excellency Governor Austin L. Crothers, John M. Tucker, president; Dr. William Bullock Clark, Francis C. Hutton, Walter M. Crosby, engineer; and C. M. Bowerman, secretary.

The Commission arrived in Oakland at 7:12 o'clock in the morning and had breakfast on board a private car placed at the disposal of the gentlemen by the B. & O. Railroad Company. Immediately after partaking of their breakfast the party wa driven to the court house in an open carriage drawn by four white horses, the carriage being handsomely decorated with flags and flowers.

At the court house, which was packed to the doors, the meeting was called to order by Mr. E. H. Sincell, who suggested that Mr. Scott T. Jones be elected chairman of the convention, which was acceded to by unanimous vote. Mr. Benj. H. Sincell was elected secretary.

In taking the chair Mr. Jones said: "We have been honored by Governor Crothers and the members of the State Road Commission by this visit to our county, and we feel gratified that this large assemblage of people has gathered here to listen to and take part in the discussion of the question which has called us together. It has been suggested that Governor Crothers outline the plan as laid down in the law creating this commission and what the people of Garrett county may expect."

Governor Crothers was greeted with much hand clapping when he ascended the judges' bench to address the people. He is a man of commanding appearance and of pleasant address and seemed at home when he faced the audience, having so recently retired from the bench himself.

Governor Crothers said:

"Mr. Chairman and fellow citizens: I am very much pleased and gratified, as I have no doubt the other members of the Road Commission are, to see such a splendid representation of the citizens of Garrett county at this early hour of the morning, which is a sure sign that you are enthusiastic over the prospect of improved conditions with respect to your public roads. We all know that good roads go with advanced civilization and is a true index to the progressiveness of any people.

"We are here to hear and not to talk, the object of our visit being to listen to any suggestion you may be pleased to make as to the location of the road to be improved by the State. The recent session of the Legislature of Maryland appropriated the sum of $5,000,000 with which to build a system of highways throughout the state, connecting every county therein. Of the amount appropriated Baltimore City, which contributes so largely to the taxable basis of the state receives under the law $1,000,000, leaving the sum of $4,000,000 to be the expended in the various counties according to the road mileage. No county can get more than it is entitled to under the system. Of the amount to be expended in the counties Garrett will receive the sum of $238,000, which is exceeded by but one other county in the state. After the road is built is is to be kept in repair and is absolutely under the charge of the state, so that the county people are at no expense whatever for that particular piece of highway. The money, therefore, which was expended under county supervision on the piece of road taken over by the state can properly be expended on some other road, thereby improving and building it up with no additional taxes imposed.

"The road to be improved should be one to connect with the adjoining county so that the system will reach from one end of the state to the other. With improved roads, values will increase which also will increase the taxable basis. You can't sell your land by taking a would-be purchaser to it over a road that would jolt his brains out. With good roads you could reach the markets twelve months in the year instead of two-thirds of the time as is now the case. We want to benefit the farmers and to do this we must support the project of good roads in a public spirited manner. We must be satisfied with the location of the road that will be of the greatest benefit to the greatest number. We must work together; give the Commission your undivided support and ultimately Maryland will have the finest system of roads to be found in the world. She is a grand old Commonwealth; we all love her and she will yet occupy first place in respect to her system of public roads." Continuing the Governor outlined two possible ways of raising the necessacy money with which to carry on the work: one by taxing automobiles and the other by cutting down to the lowest possible amount expenses incident to the state government. At the close of the Governsr's remarks he was very generously applauded.

Following the Governor Mr. G. S. Hamill said: "We believe that to serve the greatest portion of our people and at the same time subserve the interests of the county at large the proposed road should be built through the center of the county, beginning at the Red House on the south, passing through Oakland and reaching McHenry, Hoyes, Accident and thence by the Cove to the National Road, or by Bittinger to Grantsville." Mr. Hamill then presented the following resolution which was adopted unanimously at a meeting of the residents held at the opere house in Oakland on Monday evening:

"At a meeting of the citizens of Garrett county (all the districts being represented) held at the opera house in the town of Oakland for the purpose of discussing the most practicable route for the building of the state road as provided for by the last General Assembly of Maryland, and the one that would be of the most benefit to the people of the county as a whole; and after a thorough discussion of the subject, the following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, by the people of Garrett county, in mass meeting assembled this 1st day of June, 1908, that it is the sense of the people of Garrett county that the road to be built under the direction of the State Highway Commission in Garrett county should begin at the Northwestern Turnpike and run from thence through the town of Oakland, the county seat of said county, by the most practicable route to the National Road, and that this conclusion of the people be submitted to said Highway Commission upon the occasion of its visit to Oakland on the 3rd day of June, 1908."

The resolution having been presented and its adoption moved, the question was discussed very freely, those taking part including Mr. U. M. Stanton, of Grantsville, who championed the cause of the National Road; by Senator Brown, who endorsed the resolution as read; by Mr. F. A. Thayer, E. H. Sincell, Dr. W. W. Davis, Charles E. Hilleary, Major J. M. Burns, Dr. E. H. Bartlett, and Mr. Jerome B. Emory, all of whom made telling speeches of five minutes' each or less.

The resolution was adopted unanimously and a motion was made for adjournment.

At the conclusion of the convention Associate Judge Robert R. Henderson, who had been an interested spectator, was presented to the Governor, the fact having been learned that they had never before met. As an attestation of Judge Henderson's popularity among the Garrett county people he was heartily cheered when the introduction was made by Chairman Jones.

Immediately after the meeting closed Governor Crothers and the Commission were driven to the station where an informal reception was held, when the Governor met quite a large number of people, among them being the Normal school students, who came down to the station in a body.

A few minutes' conversation with members of the Commission brought out the fact that the Oakland meeting was the most enthusiastic, the best attended and more harmonious than any other convention held heretofore in the state.

The party left Oakland on train No. 6, due at 10:11 o'clock, for Cumberland, where a similar meeting as that in Oakland was held in the afternoon, the train departing amid the cheers of the assembled crowd.

Expense of Railroad Construction

An article in the local news columns of The Sun Saturday illustrates the great change that has taken place in the methods of railroad construction. It is therein satted upon excellent authority that the estimated cost of the proposed Western Maryland extension from Cumberland to Pittsburg is $35,000,000. This will be the cost of a modern single-track road through the mountains 150 miles in length. Between 1849 and January 1, 1853, the Baltimore and Ohio road was extended from Cumberland to Wheeling, also through a mountain country. The length of that extension was 200 miles and the cost $8,000,000. On this road there are 10 tunnels, one of which, that at Kingwood, is 4,100 feet long and cost $460,000. There were also on the extension 114 bridges. The whole original cost of the main stem of the Baltimore and Ohio, from Baltimore to the Ohio river, 379 miles, was $17,500,000. When the road was double-tracked and equipped with locomotives and cars the entire cost was about $22,000,000. The capital stock issued up to the time of completion was $13,091,500 and the bonded debt $5,677,012. Since that day the whole idea and method of railroad construction has changed. Now the cost of construction is not so much considered as the cost of operation. For example, when the Baltimore and Ohio was built it was carried over Parr's Ridge and a round-house was built at the foot of the grade for a lot of engines to help trains up. The cost of maintaining those helpers would have paid far more then the interest on the cost of reducing the grade, and so in late years Parr's Ridge has been tunneled and the helping engines abandoned. The rails used 30 or 40 years ago would not sustain the heavy locomotives of the present day. There has been a revolution in the character of equipments and in the rate of speed, and while the cost of construction and of equipment has been greatly increased, the cost of transportation a ton a mile has been reduced in a far greater proportion.—Baltimore Sun.

Wanted at Dixon & Kelso's pin oak white oak and rock oak street car ties, 7 in. face, 6 in. thick and 8 ft. long.

A MAD DOG FRIGHT SUNDAY MORNING.

Brute Supposed To Have Been Suffering With Rabias Killed

HAD BIT A NUMBER OF CANINES.

Town Council Took Prompt Action Monday Night To Exterminate Dogs That Had Been in Contact With Mad Brute—All Dogs Must Be Tied Up.

Sunday morning the people of Oakland were very much wrought over the fact that a dog, coming from the direction of Deer Park, and showing every indication that it was suffering with a highly developed case of hydrophobia, had entered the town and had attacked a number of other dogs belonging to residents of Oakland, but fortunately no human had come within the scope of the brute.

The dog, which was white with a number of yellow spots, entered town from the Deer Park road, on its way here having attacked the shepherd dog of Mr. Andrew Shartzer, who resides on his farm a mile and a-half out. After coming within the corporate limits the dog attacked some five or six other canines, among them being Dr. Bartlett's, Alpha Hinebaugh's, R. K. Maloney's, James Denmark's, Morrel Jamison's and probably others.

The mad brute came down Second street from the Deer Park road running and snapping at every one of its species in sight.

At the corner of Alder street the dog fell to the brick pavement, probably from exhaustion and was shot by Councilman Painter who had been apprised of its apearance here.

On Monday night the Town Council at its session passed an ordinance directing the policemen to kill every animal which had been bitten by the dog and to compel the owners of other dogs to keep them tied up, otherwise the officers are directed to shoot them on sight. Following their instructions Officers Browning and Nethken on Tuesday shot three or four of the canines that had been bitten and will kill others as soon as they can locate them.

Mr. Shartzer, whose dog was the first bitten, took no chances with his animal but had it shot early on Monday morning, which is a very commendable act.

Call for Your Letters.

Mr. Ross Filtchner (2), Mr. Henry Friend, Mr. I. R. Harvey, Mr. C. H. Messersmith, Miss Dora Nethken, Mr. W. C. Newcome.

Subscribe for the Republican.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO

OFFER

Feed and Flour

AT THE FOLLOWING PRICE

FOR CASH:

Corn, Oats and Barley Chop, -	$1.65
Feed Flour, - - - -	1.75
Sucrene Dairy Feed, - -	1.40
Wheat Bran, - - -	1.65
Unbolted Meal, - - -	1.80
Cracked Corn, - - -	1.80
A Special Feed for Small Chicks,	2.75
Oats, per Bushel, - - -	.65
Kiln Dried Corn, - - -	.90
Gold Star Flour, (wood), - -	5.50
Best Spring Patent, - -	6.50

Come and See

DIXON & KELSO.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.

NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

Benton's Comedy.

By Frederick White.

Copyright, 1907, by Frederick White.

WHEN Benton's comedy was published in a leading magazine no one was more surprised than Benton himself. Of course he had received the editor's acceptance and a week or two later a very satisfactory check, but the full realization of what it meant did not come to him until after months of waiting he saw with his own eyes his own work under his own name. It was the first time, and Benton felt a certain responsibility.

Many a man has had the same feeling on the birth of his first child, and Benton was simply experiencing some of the pride of fatherhood. For a time he struggled with the desire to adopt literature as a profession, but as the weeks passed and he failed to find himself heralded as a genius saner thoughts prevailed. Woolen goods were in demand, and so were his services as a salesman. Some months afterward he received this note:

My Dear Mr. Benton—At the request of the Hillside Dramatic club I write to ask your permission to use your play, "Maids and Widows," at our midwinter entertainment for the benefit of the orphans' home of this place. We have all read your comedy with great interest and appreciation and think it just what we need for our purpose. Trusting that you will grant our request, believe me, very cordially yours.

ELIZABETH RANKIN VAN CLEAVE.

Benton felt very much gratified when he received this note. He was appreciated, after all. He at once indited the following reply:

My Dear Miss Van Cleave—It will afford me the greatest pleasure to give you permission to use my play for the benefit of the orphans' home. It is always gratifying to find one's work appreciated, and I assure you that the Dramatic club has my best wishes for a successful representation of "Maids and Widows." Very sincerely yours.

JOHN AUSTIN BENTON.

He wondered if the members of the club would gather about Miss Van Cleave and regard the signature of the well known author and playwright with awe, and he began to think of writing a four act tragedy. One morning he was agreeably surprised to find another letter in the handwriting of Miss Van Cleave.

"Thank you so much," she wrote, "for letting us use your play. We have had two rehearsals, and everything seems to be going nicely. Will you please tell me if Alice is supposed to fall in love with Henry at the breakfast table, or is it when they are on their way to the golf club? I am to play Alice, and I do so want to make a success of the part.

"By the way, I find my aunt, Mrs. Baker, is an old friend of your mother's. Is it not strange how small the world is after all?

"Do you consider it necessary for Henry to kiss Alice in the last act, as the book says?"

Benton whistled as he perused this note. He remembered having heard of his mother's friend, Mrs. Baker, and this must be her niece, the beautiful Miss Van Cleave.

That evening he wrote the following letter:

Dear Miss Van Cleave—In my opinion Alice did not fall in love with Henry at the breakfast table. That would be asking too much of any girl. Eleven o'clock and the golf club is a different matter.

Under the circumstances I should consider it necessary for Henry to kiss Alice. He really could not help it, you know, for Alice is a charming girl.

I am glad that the play is progressing well and wish you every success. Sincerely yours. JOHN A. BENTON.

On Tuesday evening Benton received a note from Mrs. Van Cleave inviting him to run out to Hillsdale the following Saturday to witness the presentation of his play and also to spend Sunday with them. Mrs. Van Cleave spoke of her sister's friendship for his mother and in closing stated that he would be met at the station by some member of the family. A convenient train reached Hillsdale at 5:29 o'clock, giving him time to dress for an early dinner.

WITH A PLUNGE THEY STARTED.

Benton accepted at once and spent the intervening hours in wondering if the author would be called upon for a speech. On Saturday afternoon he boarded the train, suit case in hand. All the way to Hillsdale he wondered if Miss Van Cleave would be the one to meet him. It was only an hour's run from the city, and soon Benton stood upon the platform. He looked about him, noting the well kept, prosperous appearance of the place and the many handsome traps and carriages awaiting their occupants. A groom in surprisingly tight breeches came up to him and, touching his hat, inquired, "Mr. Benton?"

"Yes," said Benton. "Mrs. Van Cleave's carriage?"

"Master Harry awaits you in the dog-cart, sir," replied the man, possessing himself dexterously of Benton's luggage and leading the way across the platform. Benton followed. A boy of sixteen or so was endeavoring to calm a mettlesome cob that was trying to see how straight he could stand on his hind legs without falling over backward.

"Chuck those things in behind, Burns, and get to his head," he ordered. "How de do, Mr. Benton? Excuse my not shaking hands and climb in."

Benton waited for a moment of comparative quiet and then climbed in. He was not accustomed to a horse like this, and the boy noticed it at once.

"He hasn't been out for a week," he explained, "and he feels good. Let him go, Burns." And, with a plunge, they started, the well trained Burns clutching the rail and swinging up behind with the greatest imperturbability. Once on the straight road leading from the station, the cob settled down to a good steady gait, and Benton began to enjoy himself. Young Van Cleave was surprisingly easy for one of his years and kept up a constant flow of talk.

"That's a corking good play of yours, Mr. Benton," he said. "I'm going to be James, and I'm dead letter perfect. Got my clothes last night, and Aunt Fan thought I was the new man and asked me to get her a glass of water. Say, can't James come on in the last act with a letter or something?"

Benton good humoredly said that he thought it might be arranged and inquired who was to play Henry.

"Oh, Artie Brown, and he thinks he's the whole show. Wanted to kiss 'sis' every rehearsal. Said he didn't want it to go wrong the night of the play. Sis couldn't see it and said she thought that was something a man of his experience could do without rehearsing. Rough on Artie, for he knows it all and likes to have people think he's a regular 'killer.' Whoa, boy! Easy now," to the cob as they turned into a private roadway and whirled up to the steps of a fine old colonial house.

The groom was at the cob's head before they really stopped, and Benton climbed down and followed young Van Cleave into the house. Mrs. Van Cleave welcomed him cordially and introduced him to her daughter and the members of the house party, some of whom were to take part in the play. Miss Van Cleave showed him the music room, where the performance was to be held, and exhibited the stage, which was already set for the first act.

"Do you not feel very important," she asked, "when you consider that you are really responsible for it all?"

"No," said Benton. "I cannot say that I do. After all, the real responsibility rests with the players."

"You cannot shirk your share so carelessly," she said, laughing. "Stand or fall, you are one of us in this, and I shall see that you receive your full measure of praise or blame."

"Let us hope, then, that it will be praise—for all our sakes," he said, with an admiring look at her.

"Seriously," said Miss Van Cleave, "I do hope you will not be disappointed in us, and you must not be too critical."

"I shall not be disappointed in you," he replied decidedly.

While Benton was dressing for dinner some one knocked at his door.

"It's me—Jack. Can I come in?" said that ungrammatical young man in an excited tone of voice.

Benton opened the door and inquired what the trouble was.

"Here's a go!" said Jack. "Artie Brown has busted his leg or something and can't act. Sis is having a fit, and the others are just wild. It's too late to put it off, and what are we going to do?"

"Is there no one else to take the part—no understudy?" inquired Benton.

"No one knows it except the prompter, and she's a girl. Father has just come in, and he's tearing his hair. He plays the old man, you know. Got a bald wig and whiskers, and he'll die if he can't wear 'em. Say, what can we do about it anyhow?"

Another knock at the door, and Mr. Van Cleave, Sr., appeared.

"Pardon me, Mr. Benton, for introducing myself in this unceremonious manner," he said, shaking hands, "but this is a serious matter. The tickets have been sold, and it is too late for any postponement. My daughter has suggested that possibly you are sufficiently familiar with the lines to take the part, or, failing that, to read it. It is asking a good deal, I know, but if you could possibly do it it would be a great relief to all of us, besides helping us out of a very embarrassing predicament."

Benton's head whirled. It was an unexpected role that he found himself called upon to play. It is one thing to watch others act and quite another to do it oneself. However, he was a self reliant young man, and, as it happened, he was familiar with the part of Henry.

This was the character into which he had put his own individuality. Step by step and situation by situation he had made Henry act and talk as he himself would have done under like circumstances. So, while it would have been almost impossible for him to take any other part without preparation, in this case he felt that he might venture upon it without danger of absolute failure. It was a risk, but under the circumstances he did not feel justified in refusing.

"I think I might do it after a fashion," he said gravely. "I should like to have a glance at the book, and I shall have to look to you all to help me out with the business."

"You may count on us for every assistance in our power," said Mr. Van Cleave. "It is a great relief, and you are placing us under a lasting obligation."

"I hope you will be able to say as much after it is all over," said Benton, "but in any event I will do my best."

Jack brought him the clothes that the unfortunate Arthur was to have

"I SHALL NOT BE DISAPPOINTED IN YOU."

worn, and they proved to be a very presentable fit.

Before the curtain was rung up Benton found time to go over some of the more important scenes of the play. He was very much relieved to find himself quite at home in both lines and situations.

A short time later he stood in the wings listening to the announcement of the accident and the request that the audience would kindly overlook any lack of smoothness in the part of Henry, as the gentleman who was to play it had stepped into the breach at a moment's notice. Then, after a few hurried words of direction from the stage manager, two very flurried young people took their places for the opening scene and the curtain went up.

Now, there are certain psychological processes which prevail under certain conditions. We are mystified by their apparent unaccountability. We raise our hands in helpless incredulity and exclaim, "How inexplicable!" when there is nothing strange about it if we remember that youth and propinquity work hand in hand to carry out the universal behest. One each at least of these processes and conditions confronted Benton as he stood on the lawn before the clubhouse an hour later. He had done well, and he felt strangely exalted. He knew he was John Benton, but it was a new personality that cloaked him. He was in love—in love with a girl whom he had met yesterday for the first time—or was it today? He was waiting—waiting impatiently and giving voice to his inmost thoughts in words that were strangely familiar. He saw her coming slowly through the trees and started forward to meet her. They seated themselves on the clubhouse steps. They fenced with each other lightly, but with an undercurrent of feeling. He loved her—he loved her—and in a moment he would tell her so. His heart bounded, for he knew what her answer would be.

"It is only since yesterday, but it is enough. A week, a month, a year, and it would be the same. A hundred years from now, and it will still be the same. I love you. Will you be my wife?"

She arose, and he followed her. Her eyes were cast down, and her hands hung limp by her side. He seized them in his own, and his compelling gaze forced her to raise her eyes to his.

"Answer me," he said.

"I love you," she said falteringly as she swayed toward him, and he clasped her in his arms, and only his ears heard the added "dear."

He kissed her full upon the lips.

There was a roar of applause. From the wings people flocked upon the stage clad in golfing attire, their faces strangely red and white. Then he remembered. Still holding the girl by the hand, he led her to the front. It was his place to repeat the epilogue. The others formed a half circle behind them. He spoke:

"In what may seem a very short space Alice and Henry have met, loved and settled the question, quite to their own satisfaction. May we hope that the match and the manner of its making meet with your approbation? And as the curtain falls let these words, typifying the end of the old and the beginning of the new, close our story—'and so they were married.'"

Women of Diplomacy.

Almost all the celebrated women have gained their fame by diplomatic means. The famous women of Jewish history were all subtle in their methods—Rebecca, Jael and Herodias, to name but a few of them. What born diplomatists, too, were Catherine of Siena, the great saint, and Catherine de' Medici, the great sinner! The list of them down the ages is unending.—Woman's Life.

Time Has Arrived When Labor Must Assert All Its Power.

By SAMUEL GOMPERS, President of the American Federation of Labor.

THE genie of labor has been aroused. The employers' liability law decision let it out. Labor will not allow itself to be outlawed by a judicial decision. Labor DEMANDS the eight hour law, the anti-injunction law, the employers' liability law and exemption from the Sherman anti-trust law. Up to the present labor has not utilized its full political power. The time has come when WE MUST ASSERT EVERY POWER WE POSSESS.

LABOR IS GOING TO BE THE JUDGE of what is best for it in labor legislation. The CRITICAL TIME HAS ARRIVED with the action of the present congress on our measures. We know what to do if it fails to pass them.

LABOR WILL UNITE IN SUPPORTING ITS FRIENDS IN THE COMING CAMPAIGN AND USE ITS UNITED POWER TO OPPOSE AND DEFEAT ITS ENEMIES, WHETHER THEY ARE CANDIDATES FOR THE PRESIDENCY, CONGRESS OR ANY OTHER OFFICE. WE WILL PUT ALL CANDIDATES ON RECORD BEFORE ELECTION AS TO THEIR ATTITUDE ON ALL LABOR MEASURES.

I consider that the PRESENT CRISIS IS THE MOST MOMENTOUS ever faced by organized labor.

Personal Appearance Counts High In Getting a Position.

By JAMES J. HILL, Railroad Magnate.

IT is one thing to get a position. It is another thing to keep it. Getting a position requires tact, forcefulness and perspicuity. KEEPING A POSITION IS AN ART. Getting positions is accomplished by a large number of men and women, but the number of those who can keep positions is but small.

WHEN ONE STARTS TO LOOK FOR A POSITION HE MUST POSSESS THE QUALITIES OF CLEANLINESS, CLEARNESS AND PERSPICUITY. SO MUCH DEPENDS UPON THE FIRST IMPRESSION. LAX METHODS, UNKEMPT HAIR, SOILED FINGERS, A NECKTIE AWRY AND CONFUSED SPEECH ARE SOME OF THE FAULTS THAT DESTROY THE CHANCES OF AN APPLICANT.

When a man who is conducting a successful business advertises for a janitor or a private secretary he goes to his office and finds several dozen applicants awaiting him. He hears them one by one and notices that this young man has failed to polish his shoes, that that young woman talks with a discordant slang, that So-and-so is carrying the end of a cigarette in his yellow, nicotined fingers or that Miss This-and-that is overadorned with cheap jewelry. He finds that one young man is utterly incapable of expressing himself clearly and that another has a newspaper with a chart of the horse races sticking from his pocket.

Each applicant is denied a chance because HIS OUTWARD APPEARANCE AROUSES SUSPICION, and the merchant, sick, disheartened and disgusted with humanity, goes home or to his club to forget his unpleasant half day.

These statements may seem exaggerated, but they are the plain, unvarnished experiences that business men encounter every day. Frequently employers are obliged to engage slovenly, untidy men and women whom they dislike because the advances of their business demand more workers and the right kind is not to be had. But you may be assured that when business slackens SUCH EMPLOYEES ARE THE FIRST TO GO.

A Warning Against Demagogues

By CURTIS GUILD, Governor of Massachusetts.

WE are passing through a quiet, a fairly peaceful, but a very real social revolution. EQUAL RIGHTS were won by the generations that have gone before us. EQUAL OPPORTUNITIES are to be our gift to posterity.

AS ALWAYS AT A TIME OF ACUTE SOCIAL EXCITEMENT, THE DEMAGOGUE IS A MOST CONSPICUOUS FIGURE. THE DEMAGOGUE BY CATERING TO EXTREMISTS SEEKS FIRST HIS OWN ADVANTAGE AND FINDS IT IN TURNING RATIONAL REVOLUTION INTO IRRATIONAL ANARCHY.

Lincoln was neither mawkish nor sensational. He frankly sought public office. He never sought it by unworthy means. His sustaining trust was in the honesty of the ordinary citizen, whose life is neither the comfortable indolence that shrinks from all change nor the broken career that leaps to embrace a gospel of despair. His weapons were endless patience, cheerful good nature, abounding common sense and an abiding faith in his cause. He despised claptrap. He embodied a cause, not a candidacy. He did not fight fire with fire. He faced hot excitement with cold reasoning and mad vituperation with clear truth.

Railroads Anxious For Transportation Reforms.

By ROBERT MATHER, President of the Rock Island Company.

I FEAR that the public but dimly realizes the WILLINGNESS OF THE RAILROADS to accept and to further the reforms in transportation methods that recent changes in our laws and in their administration have produced. The effective prohibition of rebates and of free transportation and the elimination of the many forms of discriminations which expressed the subservience of the carriers to the large shippers mark the emancipation of the railroads from a slavery to abuses to which none of them would return.

MOST OF THEM ARE NOT ONLY WILLING BUT ANXIOUS TO CO-OPERATE IN ANY POLICY OF REASONABLE REGULATION THAT WILL MAINTAIN THEIR BUSINESS ON THE HIGHER PLANE OF MORALITY TO WHICH IT HAS THUS BEEN FORCIBLY LIFTED.

It continues, however, to be the claim of the railroads that they shall not be so regulated as to be PREVENTED FROM EARNING INTEREST on their bonds and REASONABLE DIVIDENDS on their stocks.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD.
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyancing
Investigation of land titles and collection of claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice in the Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Schedule effective June 2, 1907.
OAKLAND.
* Daily. † Daily except Sunday. § Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m., Arrive *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBDELAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m., local), *3.33 p. m., *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *3.33 p. m., *10.26 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.

We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland,

1 Gasoline Engine,
8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $275.

1 Hay Bailer,
operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.

For further information call on or write to
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.

We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:
One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.
Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.
Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.
For further information, address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Executrix's Notice.

This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, Maryland, letters testamentary on the estate of Thomas J. Lowdermilk, late of Garrett County, Maryland, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof duly authenticated, to the subscriber on or before the 20th day of Aug., 1908. They may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of the said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 20th day of February, 1908.

LOUISA A. LOWDERMILK,
Executrix.
McHenry, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscribers of Garrett county, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Administration on the personal estate of

WILLIAM HACHMAN,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 28th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under our hands this 26th day of May, 1908.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
SAMUEL MOSSER,
Administrators.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signatnre of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS

Bears the Signature of

Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

When You Need Printing Done

You want it to be of the very best kind. As you expect your printed matter to make business it is necessary it should do the talking for you. Poor or indifferent printing cannot do this as it lacks the strong points required to gain and hold the interest of the patron.

¶ In this particular line of work we excel, for several reasons, viz: 1st; we have the largest and best variety of up-to-date type to be found in the western part of the state. 2nd; we carry only the very best grades of papers; and 3rd; the know-how with which to create original and attractive tye display.

¶ You make no mistake when you come to us with an order of printing

The Republican Job Printery

Benj. H. Sincell, Prop.,
Okland, Md.

HE ASPIRED TOO SOON.

How the Man With Ambition Was Presented With a Black Eye.

The man with a black eye sat down in the center of the street car, and of course the dozen other passengers took furtive glances at him and wondered if he called the other fellow a liar first. Finally the man at his right felt it his duty to query:

"Did a stick fly up when you were chopping wood?"

"No, sir."

"Get up in the night and run against an open door?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't tell the iceman that he'd been cheating you all summer, eh?"

"I didn't. I got this black eye by exploding a legend, sir."

"I—I don't exactly understand."

"Isn't it said in this country and doesn't everybody believe that a man can aspire to the highest position?"

"Of course. That's part of our great system."

"Well, it's all tommyrot. I was drinking a glass of beer in a saloon yesterday, and I happened to remark that I aspired to the presidency and five men piled on to me and gave me this black eye and kicked me outdoors."

"Um! I see," replied the other.

"Well, what do you see?"

"You aspired too high and too soon. The legend is all right, but it is expected that a man will serve one term as alderman first and steal enough to pay his campaign expenses."—Baltimore American.

Cause For Gratitude.

The benevolent looking old gentleman on the seat in front turned around and spoke to the mother of the little cherub whose sticky fingers had been smearing chocolate creams on his bald head.

"Are there any more at home like him?" he asked, with a genial smile.

"Oh, no!" she said. "He's our only child."

"Thank heaven!" he exclaimed fervently.—Chicago Tribune.

The Popular Cure.

"So I can't induce you to handle my line of remedies?" said the patent medicine salesman as he closed his grips. "Don't the citizens around here use any kind of cures?"

"Only the rest cure, stranger," drawled the proprietor of the general store. "You can find half a hundred of them on the fence and on the porch and behind the stove using that cure now."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Better.

The Bridegroom (on the return from the honeymoon)—Hello! What's this? All the bills for your trousseau? Why, I thought your father paid these.

Bride—It is customary, dear. But he thought you would rather do it than give him the humiliation of borrowing the money from you.—New York Life.

African Ingenuity.

The equatorial barber has no paint, but he can have a barber pole all the same.

Domestic Comfort.

"Excuse me for not stopping," exclaimed Little. "I'm in a hurry to get home."

"That's rather unusual," said Large. "What's the trouble?"

"My wife has a cold," explained Little, "and she can't speak over a whisper."—Bohemian Magazine.

A Housewifely Request.

She—Dearest, are you going fishing?

He—Yes, darling.

She—Well, I want to put up some preserves this year. Won't you catch me some jellynsh?—Baltimore American.

The New Learning.

They taught him how to hemstitch, and they taught him how to sing,
And how to make a basket out of variegated string,
And how to fold a paper so he wouldn't hurt his thumb—
They taught a lot to Bertie, but he couldn't do a sum.

They taught him how to mold the head of
Hercules in clay,
And how to tell the difference 'twixt bluebird and the jay,
And how to sketch a horsie in a little picture frame;
But, strangely, they forgot to teach him
how to spell his name.

Now, Bertie's pa was crabbed, and he went one day to find
What 'twas they did to make his son so backward in the mind.
"I don't want Bertie wrecked!" he cried
in temper far from cool.
"I want him educated!" So he took him out of school.

—"Jersey Jingles," by Leonard H. Robbins.

Bear Range Poultry Farm

W. G. RILEY.

BREEDER OF

High Class Stock.

Winner of First Prizes at Hagerstown and Cumberland.

I have 14 of the leading varieties.

Eggs, $1 for 15.

Lowest price for best quality.

DEER PARK, MD.

DOES IT PAY?

to tramp errands, lose time and suffer inconvenience—to save the cost of a telephone message.

The C.&P. Telephone Comp'y

LOCAL AND LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE

An Appetite

No matter how critical your taste or capricious your appetite, we are sure to be able to please you with

Pure Ice Cream.

Our aim is to make it the finest, and we seem to be successful, judging by its great popularity.

Any flavor you may prefer.

Any quantity you want.

Henry Lauer,

4tf Oakland, Md.

Arthur Townshend,

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND COUNTRY PRODUCE

First National Bank Building, Main Street, Oakland, Md.

COME AND SEE

WE HAVE IT FOR

Spring Cleaning,

NEAT LINE OF

Mattings,

Table and Floor Oil Cloths,

Lace Curtains,

Dotted Swiss,

Window Blinds,

Sheets and Pillow Cases,

Table Linen, Towels,

Silkolines and Reps.

STILL A FEW

SUITS

AND

OVERCOATS

AT

Away Down Prices.

J. B. WILLIAMS CO.

FROSTBURG, MD.

Cheapest place to buy

MONUMENTS HEADSTONES AND IRON FENCING

Send for prices

A Hint to the Wise 'Is Sufficient.

Special Sale on

2-qt Blue Enamel Saucepan.

2-qt Blue Enamel Pudding Pans.

2-qt Blue Enamel Preserve Kettles.

We have just received over 1500 lbs. of our famous 10c Candy.

SUNDAY SCHOOL SUPPLIES.

TAKE our advice—buy now, don't wait, but come and see

THE Little Man

and you will save money on all your Holiday Goods,

Toys, Candies, Novelties, Fancy Goods.

Baumgartner.

CAPITAL $25,000.00

The First National Bank

Of Grantsville, Md.

Safe deposit vault boxes for rent.

SURPLUS $12,500.00

The Savings Department takes care of your money when waiting other investment. The money earns interest from the day it is deposited. It can be withdrawn at any time.

Its Advantages

Any amount from One Dollar up can be deposited, and interest added to principal twice a year. Pass books are issued to every depositor.

We Pay 3 Per Cent. Interest.

Open Daily except Sundays and Holidays. 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

OFFICERS.

C. H. JENNINGS, - - - President
U. M. STANTON, - Vice-President
J. O. GETTY, - - - Cashier

DIRECTORS.

C. H. Jennings, U. M. Stanton,
G. C. Keller, Eli Stanton,
W. A. Hitchins, Frank Watts,
J. O. Getty.

A. D. NAYLOR & COMP'Y

You can buy at Reduced Prices

Grain Drills, Harrows and Plows

AT NAYLOR & CO.'S

Big Stock to select from.

Have the Farmer's Favorite Drills, the Thomas, the Superior Hoe and Disc Drills.

We have the Syracuse, the Imperial and the Wyard Plows.

Also the wood frame Harrows, the wheel and lever Harrows; also the Disc Harrow, all at reduced prices.

We also have a nice line of Spray Pumps.

Muco-Solvent

is an indispensible household remedy because it is a preventive as well as a cure, and because it arrests development of all contageous germs and bacterial diseases. It cures croup, colds, tonsilitis with its associated ills and all inflamed and catarrhal conditions of the mucous surface. It is a harmless vegetable preparation that may safely be administered to the tenderest babe. If not for sale in your neighborhood, write to

THE PIEDMONT SUPPLY CO.,

Sole Agents for Muco-Solvent. Piedmont, W. Va.

REAL ESTATE BARGAINS

I offer for sale

FARM OF 147 ACRES, 3 miles from Oakland; good 6-room House; plenty of water; over 50 acres cleared; about 25 acres of grass; 2 Orchards, bearing; over 75 acres of White Oak Timber; R. F. D. mail service.

COTTAGE OF 6 ROOMS for sale at Mt. Lake Park.

HOUSE AND LOT on Oak Street, Oakland, for sale or rent. House of 6 rooms—Lot 50x150 feet, with Stable and all necessary Outbuildings.

FOUR VERY DESIRABLE BUILDING LOTS situated on Liberty Street, in Oakland. Also 3 DWELLING HOUSES on Liberty Street, with good water and all necessary outbuildings.

HOUSE AND LOT on Wilson Street. House of 10 rooms; good water. Lot 150 feet front. Best Outbuildings in Oakland.

A VERY GOOD FARM 1 mile from Oakland—all under fence; containing 32 acres; about 25 under cultivation; 2 fine Orchards, and about 2½ acres in small Fruit; 2 Houses, a very good Well and a never failing Spring. A very desirable place for Truck and Poultry Farming. Can be bought at a low price just now.

I have for sale 18 of the very best Building Lots in the town which I will sell for cash—or $5 down and $5 per month.

150 ACRES OF VALUABLE COAL LAND situated less than two miles of Oakland which can be bought at a great bargain. The surface would make fine farming land. This land is well watered with a stream and several good springs.

12 MORE CHOICE BUILDING LOTS at $5 down and $5 per month.

If you want cash for your Real Estate, or Real Estate for your cash, let me hear from you.

☞For further particulars call on or address

James A. Sincell, Real Estate Agt and Surveyor
Sincell Building, OAKLAND, MD.

THE REPUBLICAN

BENJ. H. SINCELL, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, JUNE 4, 1908.

FOR CONGRESS,

GEORGE A. PEARRE,

OF ALLEGANY COUNTY.

There seems to be some very artful dodging among Democratic statesmen to keep away from Denver. Looks as if it might be necessary to lasso some of them. Senator Rayner can't very well go, in view of the fact that he tried to get up an anti-Bryan movement last winter. As for Mr. S. Davies Warfield, he would look about as comfortable in a Bryan band-agon was a fish out of water.—Balto. News, (Dem).

SUGGESTIONS AS TO DOGS.

The horrible death of a gentleman in the city of New York a short time ago from hydrophobia may be cited as an instance showing the danger to human life from contact with rabid dogs. The victim in this case had not been bitten, but after dressing the wound of a pet dog his hand came in contact with a slight sore on his side caused by a scratch, and in this way he contracted the dread malady and died in great agony a few days later. He had not the slightest idea that the dog was afflicted with rabies.

This distressing case and numerous others which have recently occurred in various large cities, including Baltimore, where a little girl's face was terribly bitten a day or two ago by a dog believed to be mad, have awakened people far and wide to the extreme importance of greater precaution in dealing with the canine family. In Baltimore the newspapers and the city authorities are aroused upon this subject, and steps are being taken to inaugurate stringent regulations for the protection of the public from vicious or rabid dogs. Says the Baltimore Sun in a recent issue: "We appreciate entirely the admirable qualities of the dog and the affection in which this loyal and usually lovable animal is held by his owner. But none of us can conscientiously deny the safety of the public is a matter of far greater importance than the unrestricted freedom of the dog. The fidelity, the courage and the comradeship of the dog ought not to blind any of us to the fact that it is not safe to allow these animals to roam the streets without effective control. The issue is not, as some argue, mainly a crusade on the part of those who dislike dogs against those who are fond of dogs. The question is much broader than a mere repugnance to dogs. It is fundamentally a matter of protecting the people of this city from one of the most frightful diseases. It is a matter of saving human life by imposing necessary restrictions upon dogs. It is in the final analysis, a matter of simple justice and humanity, and we are satisfied that as the majority of owners of dogs are humane and just they will meet the issue in that spirit. In Baltimore within the last few weeks children have been attacked on the streets by dogs and some of them horribly torn and mutilated. Worse than the wounds, however, is the lurking dread of hydrophobia. It may be possible to make Baltimore like Berlin, a city without rabies. But if this is to be accomplished, public sentiment must co-operate with the authorities. There must be thorough appreciation by all elements of our population of the vital need of enforcing regulations which will give the public immunity from attacks by dogs."

These suggestions apply to every city and town, every hamlet and farm, where dogs are permitted to run at large at will; especially are these suggestions applicable to Oakland and the county at large since a rapid dog, supposedly, ran amuck through Oakland on Sunday morning lost, attacking a number of other dogs in the streets. It may not be possible in the country to apply regulations as effective as those that may be enforced in the cities, but in the absence of such regulations people cannot be too careful, especially just now, of the manner in which they control their dogs and also in guarding themselves and their children from attack by the dogs of other people, so many of which are allowed to run at large throughout the town and county.

All dogs should be tied up, both in town and country, and the action of Council Monday night in passing the ordinance governing the running at large of dogs is one to be highly commended.

LEGAL ETHICS.

The new code prepared by the American Bar Association shows that the professional conscience has been stirred. The new code will not put an end to the shyster, but if the general opinion of the profession is aroused against unscrupulous practitioners, much improvement is likely to result. It will not do merely to form and adopt canons of conduct worthy of the old traditions. "Such actions," says the New York Tribune "must be backed up by an active professional opinion discountenancing those who make a business of soliciting and fomenting litigation, the attorneys who employ ambulance chasers, the Hummels of all kinds, and those more successful members of the profession who by their devious practices are given to the honorable title "corporation lawyer" a sinister significance in the public mind. The bar should not only have its code of ethics but it should set its face determinedly against violations of that code. If the men who discredits the profession are visited with professional ostracism, and those who bring it into reproach are upon its initiative promply disbarred, a wholesome improvement in the character of the bar will result. But positive and persistent action is needed even more than codes of ethics. It is no little reflection upon the capacity of the organization bar of this city to protect its reputation and maintain its character that Hummel was able to carry on his nefarious practice so many years successfully."

CAMPAIGN ISSUES.

The issues in the coming Presidential contest will be fewer than in previous years, but they will be clearly and sharply defined. The adjournment of congress has diverted popular attention to the national conventions and the issues of the campaign. Mr. William Jennings Bryan, who has accurately if not modestly described himself as the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for president, has been devoting himself for the greater part of the time since 1904 to talking about issues, and recently made another statement for the benefit of those whom it may concern.

The Pittsburg Gazette Times says: "The Commoner surprises no one when he says that the Democrats will present a criticism of Republican management. That is to be expected and, indeed, that is what they have been doing since 1896, their criticism just previous to that time including the administration of their own president. In the remainder of the outline, devoted to the things that will be demanded, there are only a few items that differ much from the Republican program. One item on which there is and will be large difference is the tariff. As Mr. Bryan states it the Democrats will ask tariff reduction. That means a revenue tariff, or in other words free trade. The Republican program is for revision of the tariff by the friends of protection and the matter will be studied by a commission assisted by government experts so that the work may be done intelligently. The Democrats demand reduction without giving the subject more than academic consideration.

"Two other items which will distinguish the Democratic platform, as outlined by Bryan, are opposition to imperialism and a demand for election of United States senators by popular vote. There is no such issue as imperialism except in the diseased imaginations of some Democratic leaders. As for the popular election of United State senators, that is already an accomplished fact wherever the people wish it. The Democrats ought to be the last to urge it, however, in view of the awful examples sent to the United States senate by the people of Democratic states.

"Congress will be the chief point of attack under the head of criticism of Republican management. Congress, however, is to be commended for the good work it has done. The one thing that can be said against it is that it has not done all that the President wished it to do and recommended. It may be proper to raise the question of congressional achievement in the congressional election, but in the election for president the record of the administration and whether the Republican nominee measures up to it is the one proper issue and neither Bryan nor any other Democratic mouther of words can obscure it."

BITTINGER.

May brought us some extremely warm weather, but June begins with threatenings of frost.

Miss Fannie Brenneman and Mrs. Fred. M. Bittinger returned last Monday afternoon from a short visit to friends over in Somerset county, Pa.

Dr. H. R. Boyer of Accident, was called to this village last Monday by the illness of Mrs. T. J. Lohr.

Mahlon Brenneman, of McHenry, was visiting relatives here last Sunday.

Austin Bittinger had a narrow escape from serious injury on last Thursday. A team which the lad was driving became unmanagable and ran away throwing him violently from the wagon under the horses' feet, but fortunately he escaped with slight injury.

While attending an ice cream supper in this village last Saturday evening, Lawrence Bittinger, of Grantsville, was taken suddenly with a severe attack of appendicitis. He was taken to the home of Joel Orendorf and was able to return to his home on Monday.

Miss Missouri Bowman was greeting old acquaintences here last Sunday.

The lawn fete and ice cream supper given by Mrs. K. A. Bittinger last Saturday night was largely attended and the young folks enjoyed the evening.

Mrs. C. C. Frederick, of Friendsville, and her sister, Miss Lillian Emory, were visiting their brother and family here last week.

DEATH IS THE WAGES OF SIN.

Rev. S. A. Coffman, Uxorcide, Succumbs to Shock in Fairmont Hospital.

Rev. Stephen A. Coffman, the Methodist minister who murdered his wife at Meadowville, near Fairmont, W. Va., by cutting her throat with a razor, died Monday night in the City Hospital at Fairmont. W. Va., to which he was removed from the jail when his condition became critical. The cause of death was overshock to his nerves, according to the diagnosis of the doctors. The shock came when his reason returned. Since Tuesday, May 26, when Coffman had an outbreak in jail, he was on the decline and for several days he was unable to partake of nourishment. He had no desire to live. He declared he had nothing to live for. His body was taken to his home at Shinnston, W. Va., and interred. The preparations for the funeral were in the hands of Coffman's relatives in that place. The death of Rev. Coffman relieves the prosecuting attorney from further action in his case. Had he not died witnesses would have been sent before the grand jury at Fairmont Tuesday. The exact truth as to the mental condition of Coffman will possibly never be known now. Opinion was so widely divided as to his sanity that the circuit court would doubtless have appointed a commission to conduct a thorough examination. The murder occurred on the night of May 19. Coffman pursued his wife with a poker, beat her and then horribly lacerated her with a razor. He then went to the home of Lafayette Meredith and said he had killed his mother. Coffman was about 50 years of age and had charge of the Meadowville circuit of the Methodist Episcopal church. He was a probationary member of the Conference. He had previously held other charges. His wife was a school teacher and two years ago they were married at Oakland.

In his last moments Coffman realized his awful crime, but stated that he had committed the act while insane and was not to be held responsible for it. He cared no longer to live and was willing to die. He could not account for his committing the crime, which he admitted he had done while temporarily insane.

GORTNER.

Mr. Isaac Hostettler and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thomas, of Johnstown, Pa., are visiting relatives here this week.

Messrs. John and Harvey Gortner were calling on C. Gortner at Albrightsville, W. Va., last Sunday.

Eddie Yoder and Menno Beachy, who spent several day with relatives here, returned to their home at Tuterton, Pa., Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Yoder, of Meyersdale, Pa., spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs. D. M. Schrock.

Misses C. Fratz and McGunnige, of Accident, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Sanders.

Mrs. Susan Frazee, of Millersburg, Ohio, is calling on her many friends here.

Rev. D. H. Bender, of Johnstown, Pa., was in this vicinity last week.

John Petershein, of near Lancaster, Pa., is visiting relatives and friends

A. W. Killuis is visiting relatives over in Pennsylvania this week.

Sunday school at 10 o'clock A. M.

WILLIE.

Peach Orchard Damaged $40,000.

Reports from the Allegany orchard in the Levels section of West Virginia about 15 miles southeast of Cumberland state that the recent hail storm caused damage to the amount of forty thousand dollars to the peach trees. Sections of the immense orchard were riddled. Other orchards escaped, the storm traversing a narrow path.

Brewing Company Fined.

The Fairmont Brewing Co., Fairmont, W. Va., has been fined $200 by Mayor Neeley for selling beer within the corporate limits without license. Fairmont is now "dry" and license was refused. An employe of the brewing company was also fined $200 and costs for the same offense. He took an appeal and gave bond. Both cases will go to the courts.

Young Men's Christian Society.

Subject for next Sunday afternoon's lecture, Mr. Thomas J. Peddicord, lecturer, in the rooms of the Association, Mitchell building, Second street, to which all or cordially invited: The Risen Christ by the Sea of Galilee —John 21: 12-23

Died Going to Cemetery.

Mrs. Nathan Smith, widow, Keyser, W. Va., died Saturday morning on her way to the cemetery, where she was going to decorate the grave of her husband. Mrs. Smith left home with her daughter in apparent good health, but near the old mill, a short distance from the cemetery, she fainted and died in her daughter's arms. A doctor was telephoned for immediately, but before reaching her she was dead. Mrs. Smith resided on Davis street in Keyser. Several grown children survive.

Subscribe for The Republican.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 12th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder, all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1.—ALL THAT LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND LOCATED ON SECOND STREET IN THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND, and being the same lot of ground which was conveyed to Charles A. Hesen by Amanda V. Michael and others by deed bearing date the 6th day of August, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 47, folio 393, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county, said lot being described in said deed by the following metes and bounds, courses and distances: Beginning for the same at a stake standing at the end of a line drawn North 23 degrees East, 132 perches from the northeast corner of Oak and Second streets in said town, and running thence South 67 degrees East, 53 feet to the line of a piece or parcel of land in said town of Oakland conveyed by Edward McCarty and wife to Daniel J. Brant, thence South 16½ degrees East, 60 feet, thence South 88 degrees West, to the limits of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, thence with said railroad limits to Second street, thence with said Second street to the place of beginning, excepting the portion of said lot heretofore conveyed to Sarah A. Mason by deed duly recorded among the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles A. Hesen.

No. 2.—TWENTY-TWO ACRES AND THIRTY-SIX PERCHES OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED "SMALL MEADOWS," being the same land which is particularly described in a deed for the same from Daniel E. Offutt and wife to Frank Graham, bearing date the 29th day of June, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 149, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, near the town of Crellin, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Frank Graham.

No. 3.—ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEEN ACRES, MORE OR LESS, OF A TRACT OF LAND KNOWN AS THE "PROMISED LAND," and being the same land which was conveyed to Ora A. P. Weimer by Samuel B. Lee by deed dated the 29th day of April, 1905, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 50, folio 567, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Ora A. P. Weimer.

No. 4.—ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF GROUND CONTAINING ABOUT ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER 21 IN WILSON'S ADDITION TO THE TOWN OF OAKLAND, and being the same lot which was conveyed to Edward Hoye by Newton B. Wayman by deed bearing date the 10th day of May, 1878, and duly recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 3, folio 762, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said lot is located on Liberty street in the town of Oakland and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of Miss Marion C. Hoye.

No. 5.—PART OF MILITARY LOT NUMBER TWELVE HUNDRED AND THIRTY-SEVEN, CONTAINING TWELVE AND ONE-HALF ACRES OF LAND, being the same land which was conveyed to Jesse S. Severe and Sarah A. Severe by deed from John M. Browning and wife, bearing date the 21st day of August, 1897, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 32, folio 458, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Jesse S. Severe.

No. 6.—ALL THAT LOT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND CONTAINING ONE-FOURTH OF AN ACRE, KNOWN AS THE "RUSSELL PROPERTY," which is located on the Southwest corner of First and Water streets in the town of Oakland, in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and being the same property which was conveyed by James W. Thomas, Attorney, to Susan M. Thomas by deed bearing date the 28th day of November, 1900, and is duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 140, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the years 1906 and 1907 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Susan M. Thomas.

No. 7.—FIFTY-FIVE AND FIVE-EIGHTHS ACRES OF LAND, being a part of Lot No. 6 of the subdivision of a tract of land called "Herrington Manor," and being the same land which was conveyed to Charles G. Teats by Elizabeth Hall Vansant and others by deed dated the first day of October, 1902, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 42, folio 369, etc, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 14 of said Garrett county, and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1906 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Charles G. Teats.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent. per annum and all costs. Conveyancing at cost of purchaser.

H. R. DEWITT,

Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Farm for Sale—I offer my firm, located near Herrington Manor school house, for sale; contains 52 acres 35 clear; good six-room dwelling; small barn; well watered; young orchard. Address J. S. Hardesty, Oakland, Md. 50-13

The Lonaconing Savings Bank

Of Allegany Couuty.

Capital Stock . $20,000
Surplus and Undivided Profits . $60,000
Deposits . . $625,000

3 PER CENT. Interest Paid Upon all Savings Accounts.

GIVE THEM A START

The New Year is rapidly approaching. This would be a good time for you to start your young folks on the road to Success.

Early training in the practice of self-denial; instruction as to the use and value of money; opportunities for earning and saving money; all these tend to fix and fasten the children in the ways of thrift and prosperity.

We most gladly assist the young people in getting started.

One Dollar opens an account and entitles the depositor to one of our Savings Banks.

We shall be pleased to have our Garrett County friends call and receive a 1908 Calendar.

DAVID SLOAN, President. R. R. SLOAN, Treasurer.

The First National Bank

FRIENDSVILLE, MD.

Capital, $25,000. Surplus and Undivided Profits, $24,000.

OFFICERS:

L. E. Friend, President. J. W. McCullough, V. P.
R. C. McCandlish, Cashier.

DIRECTORS:

L. E. Friend, Merchant,
J. W. McCullough, Lumber and Coal.
W. W. Savage, Merchant.
D. S. Custer, Merchant.
H. M. Rumbaugh, Farmer.
W. H. H. Friend, Pension Agent and Surveyor.
Horace R. DeWitt, Treasurer of Garrett County, Md.
R. C. McCandlish.

We will issue time or demand certificates of deposit and pay you 4 per cent. interest if your money is left with us.

In all its dealings this Bank combines absolute safety with satisfactory service and never loses sight of either.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES FOR RENT.

SHERIFF'S SALE

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate and Personal Property,

In Mountain Lake Park, Md.

Under and by virtue of a writ of fieri facias on judgment of condemnation, issued out the Circuit Court of Garrett county, wherein Clarence G. Hammond is plaintiff and Verona H. Preston and South G. Preston are defendants, the same being No. 18 of said Term, 1908, the undersigned Sheriff of Garrett county, having levied upon and attached the real and personal property hereinafter mentioned, in the above entitled cause, hereby gives notice that he will sell at public auction, in front of Hayden Bros. store, formerly Hammond's old stand, on the corner of H street and Baltimore Ave., in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Maryland, on Saturday, the 20th day of June,

1908, at 2 o'clock p. m., all the following personal property, to-wit:

1 Lot Shelving, 1 Coal Box and Contents, 1 Silk Umbrella, 1 Waste Basket and Contents, A lot of books of most every description, 1 Brussels Parlor Carpet and Rugs to match, 1 Lot of other Carpets and Rugs, 1 Lot of Mattings, 1 Lot of Curtain Poles, Window Blinds and Hammocks, 1 Bread Can and Contents, 1 Trunk and Contents, 2 Boxes and Contents, 1 Lot of Bed Quilts and Comforts, 1 Lot of Men's Wearing Apparel, 1 Slicker Overcoat, 1 Rocking Chair, 1 Shelf, 1 Feather Duster, 1 Box of Souvenirs, 3 brooms, 2 Large Pictures and Frames, 1 Lot of Bed Linen and Blankets, 1 Lot of Loose Pictures, 2 Door Mats, 1 Lot of Crackers, 1 Bowl, 1 Letter Box, Table Oil Cloth, 1 Rope Swing, 1 Lot of Coal.

Also all that lot in Mt. Lake Park, Garrett county, Md., known and designated as on the plat of Mt. Lake Park, Maryland, as recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio No. 800, this being the same property which was conveyed and more particularly described in the deed to the said Verona H. Preston from Maria Spitzer, dated June 21st, 1907, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 54, folio 581, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, Maryland.

Lot Number 1004

The said personal property and real estate will be sold to satisfy said fieri facias on the aforesaid judgment of condemnation and the costs.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale.

AUSTIN BROWN,
Sheriff of Garrett County.

School Board Meeting.

OFFICE OF
BOARD OF SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS
OF GARRETT COUNTY.
OAKLAND, MD., May 20th, 1908.

The Garrett County School Board will meet

Monday, June 1, 1908,

at 2:30 P. M., for the purpose of considering new buildings and repairs and such other business as may come before them.

Bids for text books and supplies will be opened and contracts awarded at this meeting.

By order of the Board,

E. A. BROWNING, County Sup't.

Scott's Emulsion strengthens enfeebled nursing mothers by increasing their flesh and nerve force.

It provides baby with the necessary fat and mineral food for healthy growth.

ALL DRUGGISTS; 50c. AND $1.00.

GARRETT NATIONAL BANK

OF OAKLAND, MARYLAND.

CAPITAL, - - - - - - - - - $50,000.
SURPLUS AND PROFITS, - - - 35,000.

DIRECTORS.

D. E. OFFUTT, JOHN M. DAVIS, G. S. HAMILL.
GEORGE W. LEGGE, JOHN T. MITCHELL, S. T. JONES.

This Bank is pleased to place at the disposal of of its customers the facilities gained during nineteen years of continuous service and growth.

D. E. OFFUTT, PRESIDENT
G. S. HAMILL, VICE-PR... S. T. JONES, CASHIER
G. A. FRALEY, ASSISTANT CASHIER

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Davis, of the Park, spent Tuesday in Oakland.

Senator R. A. Ravenscroft, of Baltimore, spent a day or two in Oakland this week.

Messrs. Ferdinand Williams and Richard T. Semmes, of the Cumberland bar, are in Oakland this week attending court.

Ex-County Treasurer Horace R. DeWitt, of Hoyes, is in Oakland this week settling up some county affairs in the financial line.

Mr. E. J. Hamill, cashier of the Kitzmiller National Bank, was in Oakland Tuesday afternoon and yesterday morning on business.

When you come to town don't forget to call at the Gold Mine Store. Candy, tobaccos, fishing tackle, 2 bottles pop for 5c. Geo. M. Mason, Prop'r.

Messrs. Wm. H. H. Friend, George Long, Leon Hardie and George J. Kolb, of Friendsville were among District No. Two's contingent in town this week as court visitors.

Mr. Harry L. McComas arrived at his home in Oakland last night from school at Mercersburg, Pa., and will spend his vacation here with his parents Dr. and Mrs. H. W. McComas.

Mr. J. Riley Gordon, of New York, was in Oakland Monday where he met with the court house commission, that body having met in consultation that day with the architect.

Ex-County Treasurer Thomas B. Wiley, of Bittinger, was in the city Tuesday and yesterday, being accompanied by his son-in-law, Jerome B. Emory, also of Bittinger.

WANTED—By lady of experience, position as manager of summer boarding house at or near Mt. Lake Park. Can give references. Address "A. A.," care of THE REPUBLICAN. 14tf

The Gold Mine Store is the place to get your candy, post cards, tobaccos, toys, wagons, base ball goods and fishing tackle of all kinds. Two bottles of pop for 5c.

Mr. Henry C. Grusendorff, of Hutton, graduated Tuesday from the pharmacy department of the University of Maryland, and returned to his home at Hutton yesterday morning.

Dr. R. B. Ward, who spent a month in Baltimore as a delegate to the General Conference of the M. E. church, returned to his home in Oakland Tuesday morning, Conference having adjourned the day previous.

The Mountain Lake Park Chautauqua Program will go to press the latter part of the present week. Advertisers who desire to utilize its pages for publicity purposes are advised to make their contract without further delay.

A young married man wanted with no children or a very small family; the wife to do the cooking for four men, the man to work by the year or month; house ready till July. Write at once; reference wanted. C. J. Yoder, Grantsville, Md. 11-3t

On Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. Homer Nordeck of Hutton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nordeck and little son, of Corinth, and Mr. A. B. Cunningham, of Pittsburg, were all very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hardesty, of Oakland.

A man who sent a dollar for a "potato bug killer" received two blocks of wood with the following directions: "Take the block which is No. 1 in the right hand, place the bug on No. 2 and press them together. Remove the unfortunate and proceed as before."

Tuesday morning this office was favored by calls from Messrs. Edward Margroff and Solomon Glass, of Accident; Gilead Broadwater, Henry C. Butler, and Noah Bittinger, of District No 3; and Elijah Livengood, the maple sugar king of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Mrs W. A. Sturgiss, who has been absent from Oakland for several weeks, which time she spent visiting her parents at Meyersdale, Pa., and in company with them attending the sessions of the General Conference of the M. E. church in Baltimore, returned to her home in Oakland Tuesday afternoon.

Slander is a blighting sirocco—the base, foul, cloven footed slander—like the loathsome worm leaves a path covered with slime. How truthful it has been said: "Living, he is a traveling pest, and worse, dying impenitent, his soul too deeply stained for Hell." How often do we hear the slanderer's tongue warbling his song of disgrace on our streets.

Mr. George W. Legge, Jr., recently graduated from the law department, University of Maryland, returned to his home in Oakland Monday evening, to be followed a little later by his "parchment," the commencement having occurred Tuesday evening. Where he will begin the practice of his profession is yet an unsettled question with him, but wherever he may buckle down to business there he will make and retain friends. Here's to his good health and prosperity!

Very many men attain a wide reputation within the male circle of their acquaintance of being "good fellows" when the men themselves know that it is undeserved and that the term "bad fellows" would more nearly fit their case. Of course there are hosts upon hosts of men—far more than the world at large know of—who are in truth good fellows in every sense of the word but it is a fact, nevertheless, that in numerous instances the designation applied to men whose only title thereto is won at the cost of disquiet and anxiety at home and among friends and possibly of broken hearts and ruined lives. Viewed from merely the selfish standpoint a young man cannot afford to be known as a good fellow, as the term is commonly understood, much less to be one. In its proper sense of being an agreeable companion, everyone should endeavor to be such and the first place in which to show this good fellowship is the home.

Subordinate Granges Take Notice

Garrett County Pomona Grange will meet with Swanton Grange Saturday, June 6th, at 10:30 o'clock a. m. Please be prompt as this will be a business session. Officers are to be elected and installed, and other grange matters looked after.

J. M. CONNEWAY, Master.

CAPITAL 50,000.00 — THE — SURPLUS AND PROFITS $20,000.00

First National Bank

OAKLAND, MD.

GOVERNMENT DEPOSITORY.

One of the Largest and Best Equipped Banking Houses in Maryland.

Vaults absolutely Fire and Burglar proof.

Safety Deposit Boxes for Rent

Pays 3 Per Cent.

on Time Deposits—Compounded Semi-Annually

Every courtesy extended consistent with sound banking.

Home Savings Banks Free. $1.00 will start an account.

The Depositor with a Dollar account receives the same consideration as the largest depositor.

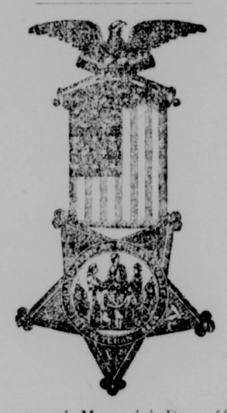
COME IN AND GET ACQUAINTED

MEMORIAL DAY QUIETLY OBSERVED IN OAKLAND

Annual Tribute to the Nation's Dead Paid with the Usual G. A. R. Rites.

FEWER OLD SOLDIERS EACH YEAR

To Remind One of the Years of Strife Waged Between the North and the South—Knights of Pythias Decorate Graves of Departed Brethren.



The annual Memorial Day, falling this year on last Saturday, was observed in the usual manner in Oakland—quietly and in order—as the day should be observed, for when one takes a retrospective view of the day and all that it implies, the associations, why it was instituted and how it was originally intended to be observed, the occasion is too solemn to be lightly and thoughtlessly looked upon.

As is generally the custom the exercises of the day were under the direct charge of Crook Post, G. A. R., under command of Capt. J. M. Jarboe, in the absence of Col. A. G. Sturgiss, whose physical condition was such as to prevent him from taking active command.

The Post formed on Alder street, and was followed in the line by the school children and Knights of Pythias lodge, marching thence to the cemetery, when the graves of the old soldiers, and those of the deceased members of the Pythian lodge were decorated.

The ranks of the Grand Army were thinner this year than ever before, several of the old soldiers having answered the last roll call in the time intervening between last Saturday and the previous occasion.

At the cemetery details of soldiers and the Knights were sent to the graves to strew them with flowers, after which Rev. E. Manges, one of the veterans, made a few timely remarks to his comrades and the crowd around.

The city of the dead looked more beautiful than ever before. Masses of flowers decked nearly every grave of those who are sleeping there.

In town business was almost suspended, nearly every one going either to the cemetery or to other points where the day is observed with less of the spirit of patriotism than it is here.

Memorial Day at Deer Park.

There was a great deal of enthusiasm and a very large attendance on the occasion of the memorial exercises at Deer Park on Decoration Day. The playing of the Deer Park band was especially commended.

Rev. E. J. Westfall was the orator at the cemetery and his remarks were impressive. On the village green the exercises were resumed. Wm. D. Hoye acted as chairman and he acquitted himself well. G. W. Haulenbeek made the opening address. One of the important results of the war, he said, was that we were made a world power of influence.

Rev. C. W. Hudson was the next speaker. He made an address bristling with patriotism. He extolled the American citizen, and said it was far greater to be an American citizen than to be a king or an emperor.

Chairman Hoye then introduced Mr. Chas. M. Miller, an ex-Confederate, and he made a fine address, and although he was on the Confederate side, no one could take exceptions to his remarks. He observed that the Confederates numbered but 600,000 men, while there was a formidable force of 2,800,000 soldiers arrayed against them on the Union side.

Chairman Hoye made the closing address and referring to the statement as to numbers, made by Mr. Miller, said that defeat only came to the Confederates when they were worn out fighting such a large body. He was applauded.

To Be Wedded.

Invitations to the wedding of Miss Anne Verlinda Landstreet and Mr. Robert Coleman McCandlish have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Upton B. McCandlish, of Piedmont, West Va. Miss Landstreet is the sister of Mrs. U. B. McCandlish at whose home in Westernport the wedding will occur. Mr. McCandlish is the efficient cashier of the First National Bank of Friendsville, this county. The couple will be at home to their friends after July 1st at Friendsville, where the groom-to-be has a very handsome and well appointed residence.

WATER ENGINEERS ENGAGED

To Survey for Water Works—Street Commissioner Crim Resigned.

At the meeting of Council Monday night the firm of Penniman & Fairley, water and sewerage engineers of Baltimore, was engaged to make the preliminary survey and execute the plats for the proposed water and sewerage system of Oakland, work upon which is to begin at an early day.

The resignation of Mr. Josegh M. Crim, who was recently appointed street commissioner, was accepted by Council and Mr. Abraham Wotring appointed in his stead.

We wonder how many of our readers have noticed the differance between the man who has been married but a short time and one who has been married several years. You can always tell a young husband from an old one. When a man has been married a few months, you will generally see him working in the garden or fixing up about the house and while he works he whistles, or sings, or occasionally looks up towards the window to see if anyone is watching him. A year later he is still working in the garden but the smile has been exchanged for a frown and he occasionally looks up towards the house wondering why in thunder breakfast is not ready. Another year rolls by and his looks would sour milk, but he is still at work, stopping occasionally to kick the dog or throw a brick at the cat. The next year we find him sitting on the front porch, smoking a pipe, while his wife does the digging in the garden. Now just watch our young men, as one by one, they are caught in Cupid's net and see if this rule does not work out the problem correctly.

Good Time Coming.

Frank C. Graham, of Garrett county, was in town a few days ago and told the Journal that all of the many people of his section who trade in Frostburg are thinking of uniting in a petition to restore the Braddock road to thoroughfare conditions, as the National Pike had about become impassable.

He said that if they had to come via the Musselman estate, they would miss Sand Spring and Federal Hill and those two places would miss them, and so on.

But the Journal told him not to hurry the Braddock Road renaissance; that the State would soon take hold of the National Pike and restore it so nicely that he, Thomas Johnson, Henry G. Wolfe, Patrick Hoye et al., could buy automobiles and come to town three times a day with hay and corn, and eggs, butter, smear-case and props, and go home each time richer with the spoils of trade, etc.

The Journal doesn't know what Frank and the others will say about this statement at this moment, but all will be glad if it turns out true.—Frostburg Journal.

Slow Coach's Appael to The Republican.

MISTER REPUBEYKEN: i thot i would rite a little peace fur your paiper about them there ortimobiles, an' the hoss races. i seed a feller cum in a "nats ankle" uv runnin over a bunch uv gals tother da with his mobeal an them gals waz skeerd out'n a week's larnin—an tha waz normal gals too, a payen their bord to git thar larnin. i'll bet that chap waz agoin 25 mi. a hr. an he didn't even toot his horn.

now, mister Publikan, i think the fellers an wimen whats got hosses had ortent to run races on the streats uv okeland, fur sum time fokes send thare little chilern to the stoar or the p. o. an thay mite git rund over.

i hearn sum body sa at they waz a law agin goin so fast onles you wuz a ridin on the steam cars or in a flyen mashean, but if they is i'll bet 2c the perleaseman dont no nuthin about it an if you have got a book at's got it in it, mister Publikan, I wisht youd sho it to him.

Then while i am a riten i jist want to sa it pears to me at fellers at has runnaway hosses ort to swap em off to the hoss traders, an quit skeeren the people and busten up the winders an maken so much fuss.

then i dont think drunk nigger ort to be lowed to drive so fast at nite cause tha mite run into somthin and an smash things up.

Now mister republiken ef you will git the fellers an women as rides a straddle to quit goin so fast on there hosses an there mobeals ile set up the lemon aid on the foarth of julie.

im am yure frend,
SLO KOACHES.

Protection Against Loss By Fire.

Is your property insured? If not, could you afford to lose your home or your place of business at this time by fire? If such a misfortune should overtake you are you able to rebuild without borrowing money and putting a mortgage on your premises? If not, then insure your property at once in one of the large and reliable Fire Insurance Companies represented by our Agency, and in case of fire you will be promptly paid the amount of loss sustained under your policy, and it will not be necessary to borrow. Combined assets of Companies represented, more than $85,000,000. Write for information and rates.

FRED A. THAYER, Agent.
52-21tf Oakland, Md.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

Copyright 1908 by Hart Schaffner & Marx

THE Clothing we are handling this Season is that distinguished kind which you see so many well dressed gentlemen wearing, and gives them that appearance of refinement that no other line of Clothing imparts. It is the Hart Schaffner & Marx kind. Come to our store and we will be pleased to exhibit the full line of this incomparable Clothing built scentifically for wear and appearance.

H. C. Sincell & Co.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION

June Team Opened Monday With Judges Boyd and Henderson Presiding.

The June term of the circuit court commenced Monday with Chief Judge A. Hunter Boyd and Associate Judge Henderson on the bench. There are forty cases on the criminal docket, seventeen appeals and ninety-nine trials.

Mr. John A. Grant, of Oakland was appointed foreman of the grand jury and the following named were drawn to serve on the grand inquest for the present term:

Jacob Stump, Sebastian Hinebaugh, Charles C. Hanpt, Charles Wamsley, Charles H. Youmkin, William W. Sweet, Dougall McLane, John W. Camp, M. W. Kinsinger, Jefferson Guard, Michael Cunningham, Alpha Hinebaugh, Edwin Sembower, Jacob E. Bowser, Ami G. Lewis, Jacob S. Myers, Richard Laske, Edward E. Brown, Levi Resh, Solomon Glass, William S. Beaver, Henry C. Butler, Samuel E. Broadwater.

Judge Boyd delivered the usual charge to the grand jury instructing that body specifically as to their duties. The Court laid stress upon the importance of keeping secret their proceedings and called their attention to sundry acts of assembly which require to be given in charge to the grand jury, at every term of the court. The Court was particularly positive in reference to carrying concealed weapons.

The several dockets were called and an unusually large number of judgments were entered in uncontested cases. The term will probably be a long one.

The Court adjourned for the day at 12:30 in order that the judges might meet the courthouse commission.

Since Tuesday cases on the appeal docket has been disposed of, and this morning the trial docket will be taken up.

Pumping Out Newburg Shaft.

After a lapse of something like 22 years, the old Newburg (W. Va.) mine shaft, is being rehabilitated and put into working condition again. The W. F. Patterson Co., started work last Friday pumping the water from the shaft and will proceed to completely modernize the workings. The Hamilton Coal and Coke Co., the present owners of the property will expend a large sum to get the mine in operation, and it is a wise investment, for up to the time of the the terrible explosion in 1886, in which thirty-nine men lost their lives, the mine produced the finest grade of coal to be found in this region and was much in demand commercially. The property has not been worked since the disaster. Coal is there is abundance, and with the plant run according to up-to-date methods, should pay a handsome percentage to its promoters.

Subscribe for The REPUBLICAN.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Among late arrivals at the Park we note Mrs. J. A. Enlow and family, Mrs. Buckman and Mrs. McQuay.

The electric light plant was started up Monday evening.

The drug store, in charge of Mr. T. A. Gonder, is now open.

Don't fail to hear Dr. Arbuthnot Friday evening at the M. E. church.

Mrs. J. Grant Hayden and children will come to the Park Friday for a stay of a month.

The Loch Lynn Hotel is now ready for guests as is also the Chautauqua.

Children's Day will be observed in the M. E. church in the morning and in the U. B. Church in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Allen and granddaughter Virginia Alcock came to the Park last week to put Allenhurst and Allen cottage in condition for the season. Tuesday morning Mrs. Allen and grand daughter returned to Baltimore while Mr. Allen will remain a short time a guest at Haydenhurst.

Church Services.

OAKLAND PRESBYTERIAN.

Services on Sunday, to which all are cordially invited, will be preaching at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m.

L. B. HENSLEY, Pastor.

MT. LAKE AND DEER PARK M. E. CHARGE.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Mt. Lake Park—Children's Day service in the morning; Junior League at 4 p. m.; Epworth League at 7 and preaching at 8 p. m., and reception of probationers.

Rev. Dr. Arbuthnot will give lecture to the Epworth June 5 at 8 p. m. All are cordially invited.

Deer Park—Sunday School at 10 a.m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; Epworth League at 7 p. m.

All are welcome.

E. J. WESTFALL, Pastor.

ST. MARK'S LUTHERAN.

Services next Sabbath as follows:

Sunday school at 9.30 a. m.

Preaching at 10.30 a. m., and 8 p. m.

Luther League every Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Preaching at Crellin next Sunday at 3 p. m.

Preaching at Hutton on Friday, June 12th, instead of Thursday evening the 11th, at 8 p. m.

Everybody welcome.

E. MANGES, Pastor.

BAPTIST.

Services next Sunday as follows:

Deer Park—Preaching at 11 a. m.

Ferndale—Preaching at 8 p. m.

Loch Lynn—No preaching on account Children's Day service.

Everybody welcome.

C. W. HUDSON, Pastor.

Engraved calling cards and wedding invitations may be procured by leaving your orders at this office. A very attractive and stylish line at moderate prices is shown.

$20 GOLD PIECES QUOTED AT $75

Unusually Fat Eagle and Absence of Motto Put a Premium on Coin.

Twenty-dollar gold pieces of the original issue without the motto, "In God We Trust," are now being quoted in Pittsburg as high as $75 apiece.

Speculation in all such gold coins, of the $20 and $10 denomination, seems to have become general since Congress decided to restore the motto. Collectors have practically been besieging the banks lately to get these coins, and it is stated that but few are in circulstion.

The original issue of the mottoless $20 gold pieces was of such an unusual character, the eagle being so fat that the coins could not be stacked, that an almost immediate effort was make to get them back following the corrections of the dies. The coins put out afterward stack all right, but now that the motto is to be restored it is believed that all such gold pieces will eventually be withdrawn from circulation.

At the Mellon National, the First National, the Union National and the Pittsburgh Trust Company banks yesterday it was stated that practically all of the original $20 gold pieces without the motto have been grabbed up by collectors and speculators. When a premium was first put on this coin a young Pittsburgh bank employe got a hold of quite a bunch of the $20 pieces ane took them to New York, selling them on the curb there for from $40 to $50. He is said to have cleared several hundred dollars in this way.

Cigar Business Booming.

"The walloping that has been recently administered to old King Alcohol in the South and middle West is going to be a good thing for the cigar and tobacco business," said a travelling salesman just in from a long trip. "You would naturally think that wiping out so many saloons would have a very serious effect on the cigar business, but it is well known that selling cigars is a secondary consideration in those places.

"In every town that I have visited since it went dry at the April election I have found that for every saloon that closed a retail cigar store opened, and the store quickly became the successors of the saloon as the social centre of the villages and small cities.

"The men who congregate there are smoking better cigars than they got in the saloons and are smoking more of them. The wholesale dealer, who is the best judge would rather have the trade of one retail cigar store than two saloons any day."

WATERSHEDS FOR FORESTS.

The recent proposal of the city of Newark concerning the enlargement and improvement of its watersheds in the Pequadnock Valley contained some suggestions worthy of consideration by all other communities which control their own water supplies, and also by all who are interested in the preservation and increase of forest growths. They will doubtless appeal with peculiar force to Jersey City, which has just won a tedious and costly lawsuit which had been entailed upon it through its adoption years ago of a plan of water supply actly opposite to that of Newark. Newark acquires ownership of its water sources, with a considerable extent of land, and of course has ever since had them under its own control. Jersey City, on the contrary, depended upon a contractor to provide it with water. The result has been unsatisfactory to Jersey City, especially in the matter of keeping the water free from contamination, and the municipality has been compelled to conduct legal proceedings to insure the purity of its supply. It has won its suit, but there is no certainty that it will not at some future time be compelled to renew its appeal to the courts.

Newark, free from such troubles, realizes that its present watershed is not sufficient to supply it for all time. Indeed at the present rapid rate of growth of the New Jersey metropolis the date of the inadequacy of the supply to the demand is within measurable distance. It is therefore proposed to purchase the remainder of the Pequannock Valley at once, while it can be secured at a reasonable price, instead of waiting until need of it is imperatively urgent and the price of land has risen several fold. That is sound policy. When it is known that a thing must be done it is wisdom to do it whenever it can be done to the best advantage. There are those who believe that it would have been cheaper in dollars and cents for New York to acquire many years ago a much greater extent of land in the Croton Valley than to wait until the last moment and then spend vast sums on high priced land to protect its water supply from contamination.

The forestry feature of the case, moreover, is one which should command wide attention at this time, when the conservation of our resources o woods and waters is being so seriously considered and is seen to be of so great and urgent importance. In addition to securing sufficient land for its water supply and for protecting the same from pollution, moreover, Newark's plan is to utilize the watershed as a forest preserve, by retaining the present forest growth and by planting thousands of young trees on the now treeless expanses. In this way it will actually increase the available supply of water by preventing loss through evaporation, and it is believed that by an intelligent system of cutting and culture it can derive a certain revenue from the land from wood as well as water. That is an example which other cities owning extensive watersheds might profitably emulate, instead of doing as our own water surveyors did a few years ago, when they started to convert the Croton region into a treeless Sahara.

AUTO TAX TO MAINTAIN ROADS

Former Governor Brown Advocates That Assessment be Imposed.

Anent the movement for good roads in Maryland, and the trips being made by the Commission for conferences with the people in different localities, former Governor Frank Brown declared Monday that good roads were something that Maryland, or any other State, would be unable to maintain unless a heavy tax was imposed on automoblies.

"One of the biggest problems that confronts this country," said former Governor Brown, "is the maintenance of good roads. So destructive are automobiles that an international congress has been called to meet in Paris in October, when the matter will be considered.

"Here at home an annual tax of $125 ought to be levied against automobiles, $5 of which should be paid to each of the 23 counties and $10 to Baltimore City. I am told, and I believe it is correct, that automobilists have now to pay $3 for a license that entiles them to a perpetual franchise. This is ridiculous.

"These automobiles are known to be the greatest menace in existence to good roads and a license of $125 would, I believe, be a very moderate one under the circumstances.

"When the Legislature meets this should be one of the first problems taken up, for it is useless for the State to spend millions in building roads that will be torn to pieces almost as soon as they are put down.

"Abroad highways that have stood the wear and tear of centuries of travel are literally torn to pieces by the big automobiles. Those using the machines should pay for the damage they do by providing the money for the maintenance of the highways."

Four Per Cent. Interest.

The First National Bank, Friendsville, pays four per cent. interest on time deposits. Place your money in this bank where its earning capacity will be greater than in any other banking institution in the county.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
Friendsville, Md.

MUCH MOISTURE.

Plenty of Rain and Some Floods Promised for June.

The weather for June is predicted by Peter R. Smith as follows:

The storm wave of the last of May will disappear before June 1, leaving in its passage several days of fair, cool weather. About the 4th in western parts the temperature will grow warmer, cloudiness will increase, and about the 5th or 6th conditions will be matured for a storm wave which will move east, widening and also growing stronger as it advances. Many sections will be visited by much rain, high winds; electric displays, and hail will materialize in many places.

A cool wave will follow the distured period on the 9th or 10th.

Local rains will develop about the 12th, 13th and 14th. In addition to other disturbing factors the moon fulls on the 14th, which will add force to the disturbance. At the close of these rains a change to cooler weather for a day or two will prevail.

On the 16th, 17th and 18th rains will be on transit daily, attended by much thunder and lightning. The atmosphere about this period of June is as a general rule charged with moisture, producing in many localities what is commonly called June floods.

Local rains will be on passage on the 21st, 22d, 23rd, and 24th. Within this period of disturbance we may reasonably expect much electrical activity.

The last period of disturbance will be central about the 28th or 29th of the month, which will continue into July.

No Mention of Names.

At a dinner at Hot Springs, Va., the conversation turned to card sharps and Eben D. Jordan of Boston, said: "A one-eyed man was suspected of cheating in a poker game in the town of Tin Can. He played on and on till the chips were stacked so high on the table before him as to nearly hide him from view. Finally he won a huge jack pot. His one eye gleamed as he clawed the three bushels of chips. In the sullen silence a tall, lean player rose, took his revolver from its holster, and juggling it carelessly, said, 'Gents, there's cheatin' goin' on here. I ain't the kind of a gent to name names, nor to make any personal allusions; but is this cheatin' ain't stopped I'll shoot his other eye out and then he'll be blind.' "

HARMFUL FLIES WITH US AGAIE.

Prudent HouseKeepers Make Careful Preparations to Exclude Them.

The harmful unnecessary pest, the house fly, makes its annual advent, and housekeepers are busy making preparations to exclude it from their homes.

Medical science, which has done so much to eradicate germs and eliminate contagion, is still baffled by the fly, the greatest known breeder of disease and distributor of germs.

Though biologists have studied the habits of the fly, discovered why it can walk on on its head, counted the exact number of hairs on its legs and ascertained that it is a stupid, cannibal insect of the deleterious type, they have failed to find any means of exterminating it.

Housekeepers must still be bothered and menaced by millions of flies, which have an equal liking for the sugar bowl and garbage pail, and enter the house carrying filth from stables, markets and disease-infected places.

The old exterminatorys will be used again this summer—screenes, fly-traps, sticky paper and poison—all disagreeable expedients which do not seem to diminish the nuisance.

These play no useful part in nature's economy, and to all intents and purposes their invention has added to the aggravation, annoyance and disease.

The cold, damp spring has postponed the flies' appearance but indications are that they will be as numerous this summer as ever.

A PUZZLER.

He struggled down the slippery street;
He had hard work to keep his feet;
He struck a very icy spot;
He looked for help; he found it not;
His heels went up, and he went down—
The shock, it simply jarred the town—
And everybody laughed!

She started to take up the fish
That she had fried; reached for the dish
(We were all standing idly round,
Watching the fish, so deftly browned).
She raised the dish, but it was hot!
It fell and smashed upon the spot—
And everybody laughed!

He started down the subway stairs
When something caught him unawares.
He stubbed his toe or caught his heel
Or slipped upon an orange peel;
He turned a somersault, and thump!
He landed with an awful bump—
And everybody laughed!

The bald man suffered with a fly;
The umpire got biffed in the eye;
The lady left the open car
The wrong way to—ta-ra-ra-rah!
The judge went by, with stately tread;
A snowslide squashed upon his head—
And everybody laughed!

Now, please, will some one tell me why
We laugh at times as if we'd die
When people suffer pain and grief?
Why should a laugh give us relief?
In short, when everything's awry
Will some one kindly tell me why Should everybody laugh?
—Somerville Journal.

Too Much Postage.

There is a clerk in the employ of a Philadelphia business man who, while a fair worker, is yet an individual of pronounced eccentricity. One day a wire basket fell off the top of the clerk's desk and scratched his cheek. Not having any court plaster at hand, he slapped on three two-cent stamps and continued his work. A few minutes later he had occasion to take some paper to his employer's private office. When he entered, the "old man," observing the postage stamps on his cheek, fixed him with an astonished stare. "Look here, Jenkins," he exclaimed, "you are carrying too much postage for second class matter!"

When Baby Cries.

"Wow!" shouted Mr. Stubb from somewhere in the darkness. "Oh, my toe!"

"How stupid of you, John!" called Mrs. Stubb sweetly. "The soothing sirup is not in that room. You are on the wrong tack."

And then came the explosion.

"On the wrong tack? Great Scott, woman, do you mean to say there are any more tacks sprinkled around here?"—Detroit Tribune.

Well Named.

"Have you seen the new dance called 'the automobile?'"

"No. Sort of breakdown, I suppose."

A Possibility.

"Yes," proudly observed the Japanese official, "our latest naval statistics show that we now have thirty first class battleships."

"Ah, invincible Nippon!" exclaimed another statesman of the Land of the Rising Sun. "Still it is hardly accurate yet to include the American fleet. Some of their vessels may be sunk."—Judge.

His Steady Job.

Bigley—You don't believe in a college education then?

Jigley—No; it unfits a man for everything except to sit around croaking about how much more intelligently he could enjoy wealth than the average man does.—Catholic Standard and Times.

Willing to Buy.

"I haven't tasted liquor for thirty-nine years."

"Um."

"I say I haven't tasted liquor for nine and thirty years."

"Well, sir, is that a boast or a hint?"—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Asked and Answered.

The inquisitive visitor to the studio of the famous but crotchety artist propounded the query, "What do you mix your colors with?" "With brains, sir," replied the painter in dignified tones. "Ah," commented the visitor, "so you paint miniatures."

Harmless at That.

Biggs—Some one told me that Polk is your deadly enemy.

Diggs—Yes, and I'm glad of it.

Biggs—Why?

Diggs—Because I'd rather he would be a deadly enemy than a lively one.—Chicago News.

Desperate Economy.

"And that rich woman eloped with her chauffeur!" exclaimed Mrs. Gadd.

"My," exclaimed Mrs. Gazzle, "what a saving in the expense of running her motor car!"—Pittsburg Post.

Labor Organizations Accomplish Much Good.

By United States Senator A. S. CLAY of Georgia.

I HAVE never been one to encourage antagonism between labor and capital. Each should be protected. No thoughtful man will contend that labor organizations should be absolutely destroyed. Sometimes their demands may be unreasonable, but the working people of the country cannot have organizations to protect themselves against organizations of capital that may attempt to put unjust burdens upon them they would be POWERLESS TO RESIST any oppression.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS HAVE ACCOMPLISHED A GREAT DEAL OF GOOD. THEY HAVE BROUGHT TOGETHER THE WORKINGMEN AND THEIR FAMILIES IN CORDIAL AND FRIENDLY RELATION AND HAVE ENABLED THEM TO SECURE BETTER WAGES, TO BUY HOMES AND EDUCATE THEIR CHILDREN.

These people are in many instances our very BEST AND MOST VALUABLE CITIZENS, and we should give them every possible encouragement. This statement does not refer to the agitator, but to the honest and industrious toilers who seek to better their conditions.

Take John Mitchell, for example. He has shown himself to be a careful, thoughtful and just man.

Both employers and employees have rights, and each should consider the welfare of the other. Destroy labor organizations entirely, and a MOST DEPLORABLE CONDITION would confront us.

The Bible a Human Book That Meets Human Needs.

By F. S. GOODMAN, Y. M. C. A. Secretary.

THE Bible has always been under fire, but the old book will stand all the assault that will come upon it. It has been under the fire of infidelity, of destructive criticism, of controversy and of misrepresented text.

There is nothing the Bible has a harder time with now than with the misrepresentations of professed Christians. The Bible stands under this fire because it is a HUMAN BOOK AND, MORE, because it faithfully accounts for human conditions, because it is a book filled with the records of human misery and because it meets human needs.

In writing of Washington and Lincoln in the present day we tell only of the good parts of their lives. Only the good stories that Lincoln told are recounted, yet in his early life he told some that were not so good. The Bible, however, looks the matter in the face and TELLS THE TRUTH. It relates the sin in the lives of Abraham and David as well as the better parts of their character.

WHEN THE WRONGS OF MODERN CONDITIONS ARE RIGHTED IT WILL BE BECAUSE THE PRINCIPLES OF CHRIST HAVE HAD A FAIR CHANCE. EVERY MAN LONGS TO BE BETTER THAN HE IS. THE SATISFACTION OF THAT YEARNING MAY BE FOUND IN THE BOOK. GIVE THE BIBLE A CHANCE.

Army and Navy Should Keep Pace With National Growth.

By WILLIAM H. TAFT, Secretary of War.

OUGHT we not in the six years between the present and the completion of the Panama canal to adopt a policy which shall give us a merchant marine to justify our expenditure of this enormous sum of money on commercial as well as naval and war strategic grounds?

IS IT NOT OF THE UTMOST IMPORTANCE THAT, IN ORDER THAT OUR INFLUENCE MAY BE FELT, WE SHOULD MAINTAIN A NAVY AND ARMY COMMENSURATE WITH OUR RESOURCES, WITH OUR COAST LINE, WITH THE EXTENT OF OUR COUNTRY AND OUR POPULATION?

I do not say this in any jingo spirit.

No one hates war or the prospect of it more than I do.

But I am confident that the maintenance of our navy commensurate with our resources and the reorganization of our army in such a way as to permit its SPEEDY EXPANSION UNDER STRESS will be most useful to secure the CONTINUANCE of THE PEACE under which we shall thrive and attain the highest aims of popular government.

State Corporation Commission Successful In Oklahoma.

By P. E. PRINGLE, Merchant, of Guthrie, Okla.

OUR new state of Oklahoma is not half so wild and woolly as outsiders have been made to think. I do not think that we have gone to excessive lengths of radicalism, and yet we have done more to curb corporate power than any state of the Union. Our plan of a STATE CORPORATION COMMISSION HAS BEEN AN EFFECTIVE MEDIUM in bringing about this condition, and I am here to tell you that the commission has been a success, as THE RAILROADS THEMSELVES ADMIT.

It has already brought about a big reduction in freight rates—50 per cent on lumber, 30 per cent on coal, 40 per cent on oil, 20 per cent on grain—and is now arranging a cotton tariff that will bring relief to our farmers, who are heavy producers of this crop. That's pretty good for a body that has only been in existence since last November, isn't it?

These reductions mean a saving of millions of dollars annually to our people. What is more, instead of kicking, THE RAILROADS ARE CO-OPERATING with the commission and signifying their intention to work with it for the mutual benefit of the general public and of the transportation companies.

A Matter of Business.

By Arthur Densmore.

Copyright, 1907, by G. H. Richardson.

"WE will go to Henslow Beach this summer," said my wife. "We will coax John to go with us. There are always a great many nice girls there, and who knows what may happen?"

John is my wife's brother. He is a quiet, retiring young man and very bashful. He does not care for girls. At least he says he doesn't.

My wife and her mother thought John ought to marry because he was thirty and received a salary of $2,000 a year. They threw hints at him for a year or two, and then they came out into the open and argued with him. But John said he was very comfortably situated in bachelor quarters.

My wife showed less enthusiasm over the matter. I think she feared John would end, as young men who keep aloof from young ladies, and consequently don't understand the game, commonly do, by marrying some entirely impossible person. Probably she set the Henslow Beach plot in motion merely to humor her mother. Nobody who knew John and looked at the situation in anything approaching an unbiased way could imagine that he would be in any danger at Henslow. For my own part, I knew that he would take a dip conscientiously every day, spend the rest of his time in a shady nook reading the six best selling novels and return to the city without having increased by so much as a single one the number of his acquaintances.

When I made that calculation I had never heard of the Castle girl. I saw her first on the evening we arrived. She was sitting at the end of the hotel piazza, and John was seated near her. They were engaged in conversation.

I felt it my duty to find out who the girl was. I didn't intend to let my innocent young brother-in-law fall into the clutches of a designing woman. I found that she was a daughter of Tom Castle of Chicago, who had been a millionaire, but, owing to an ambitious attempt to corner the pork market, was one no longer; also I learned that, besides being remarkably pretty, she was cultured, refined and educated.

At the first opportunity I asked John how he had become acquainted with her. He didn't seem to know. He hadn't made any advances, he said, and he was sure she hadn't. They had just happened to meet. Then he began talking about affinities and some other rot, and I saw the disease had attacked him.

"Now, see here," said I. "You don't know anything about girls. If you did, you would see that she's just flirting with you."

JOHN TOOK AN OAR AND PUSHED OFF.

But it did no good to warn him. He insisted that she was the nicest girl who ever happened and that she would as soon commit murder as trifle with a man's affections.

"Very well," said I. "It must be some time, and it may as well be now, while you are young and have a strong constitution."

The Castle girl was certainly very nice to John when you take into consideration what a clumsy, awkward fellow he was and how unkindly nature had dealt with him touching his face. She played croquet with him all the next forenoon, and in the afternoon, when he asked her if she would like to go out rowing with him, she said she would be just delighted to do so. John had never rowed a boat, but of course that didn't matter.

John braced an oar against the pier and pushed off. The impetus sent the boat perhaps fifteen feet out. Then, with an air of determination, he grasped the oars. He let one of them fall lightly into the water and pulled very hard. The result was that he lifted the oar just above the girl's ear and turned half a pint of water down the back of her neck. She smiled, but her smile seemed to lack spontaneity. He took a fling at the other oar and deposited another half pint in her lap. These little irregularities made him nervous and embarrassed, so that at the next stroke he missed the water altogether, and the oar swung around and struck her on the side of the head with great force. About this time he lost his balance, fell backward and was about to disappear in the briny depths when the girl opportunely grasped his feet and restored him to equilibrium. Then she thrust her sleeves above her elbows, seized the oars and rowed the boat to the pier.

After that adventure I felt pretty sure the girl had conceived a real liking for John. Of course I hadn't the remotest idea why. I imagined that after the boating incident the girl would cease her efforts to make John happy. She didn't, so I knew it was no mere flirtation.

The more I saw of the Castle girl the better I liked her. She was very versatile and correspondingly popular. She played golf and tennis, rode a bicycle, understood sailing a yacht and was quite at home as a chauffeur. Then, again, her stock of miscellaneous information was truly wonderful. Senator Blenkins was at the hotel that summer. He is for tariff revision. The girl discussed reciprocity and the reduction of duties with him. She said she thought the Dingley tariff act the most iniquitous piece of legislation that had ever tarnished a statute book. After Blenkins went away ex-Governor Whitmyer ran down for a week. Whitmyer is a stand patter. So was the Castle girl—that week. She said only an enemy of his country would consider lowering a duty on anything.

This shows what an adaptable, companionable girl she was. She could discuss any man's hobby intelligently, whether it happened to be amateur photography, postage stamps or golf.

Now, John's hobby was military bands. Before he moved to the city he was solo cornetist in the Beamington brass band. He enjoyed an enviable reputation in that part of the state. It relieved his mind a great deal to indulge in reminiscences of that delightful period and to discuss bands in general. Well, among other things, the girl knew all about bands, and she would spend an hour at a time discussing with him the career of the late P. S. Gilmore and the relative merits of Arbuckle and Jules Levy.

Once, I recollect, she was interrupted in the midst of one of these conversations by a young lawyer who had heard that she was omniscient and wanted to know if she could state the rule in Shelley's case. She could and did. She said perhaps he would like to know whether beasts taken levant and couchant in withernam could be replevied. He said he wouldn't trouble her for that and went away.

Meantime John's condition grew steadily worse. He even fell into the rhyming habit, and he would sit on the hotel piazza long after sensible people were in bed, dreaming of heroic deeds. Although he did not say so directly, I know from chance remarks he made that he rather hoped the Castle girl would go beyond her depth some time while bathing so that he could save her life.

Toward the end of the first week John and the girl chanced to be in the surf at the same time. John is a splendid swimmer. His style of swimming is what youths in country places call dog paddle.

When I first saw John that morning he was swimming valiantly toward the diving float, which is anchored a short distance from shore. After he had taken about a dozen strokes he became tired. He tired quite easily. So he stopped swimming and stood on the bottom. He had made a slight miscalculation as to the depth, and the water reached above his eyes. He began to shout that he was drowning and begged piteously for help. The Castle girl heard him, and so did three or four others, who started to aid him. The Castle girl called them back. She swam out to him and towed him into shallow water.

John explained that there was a peculiar undercurrent in that place which just wound around a fellow's legs like a rope and held him fast. Of course even the most powerful swimmer would succumb to it.

We were leaving Henslow on Saturday morning. Friday afternoon John told me he had made up his mind to propose to the Castle girl. He wanted my advice as to the best style to adopt. Some doubt existed in his mind as to whether it would be wisest to use blunt brevity, metaphor or carefully stated but plain and businesslike argument. He also desired my opinion as to the result. I advised in favor of the plain, common sense style.

In the evening John found an opportunity to unbosom himself. He told her how domestic his tastes were, how he longed to settle down, what his salary was and how much the president of his bank thought of him and ended by asking her to take a matrimonial chance with him.

The girl said it had never occurred to her that John thought of her in that way. She said if she had so much as suspected that he was traveling in that direction she would have set a switch open for him and landed him safely on a sidetrack. She was sure he wouldn't say that she had done anything to encourage him.

John lied loyally and said she had not.

"I knew you didn't care for me," said he, "but I couldn't help telling you all this. I'm a fool. That's what I am, a"—

"Oh, no!" interrupted the girl. "I think you're really a very sensible fellow. Why, you should have heard Charlie—but of course I mustn't tell."

Then she held out her hand to John, bestowed a look of deep sympathy upon him and said she was very, very sorry for him.

John told me the whole story. He still felt that he had had a fair deal. I didn't, and I made several unkind remarks about the Castle girl.

Probably she inferred from my manner when we met next morning that John had told me what had occurred the previous evening and that I thought he had just cause for complaint, whatever his view of it might be. At any rate, she came over to the corner of the dining room where I was standing just before my departure and began conversation.

"I suppose he has told you all about it," she said.

"He has," said I.

"Perhaps you think I flirted with him," she went on.

"I do," said I.

"I didn't mean any harm," said she.

"Girls never do," said I.

"It's an exceptional case," said she. "Can you keep a secret?"

"As well as the next man and better than any woman," said I.

She looked about her a trifle fearfully as though she had an idea what she was about to say might be overheard.

"Suppose we go out on the piazza," she said.

We had the greater part of the piazza to ourselves. I tried to remain indignant at her, but I made an utter failure of it. She had a trick of smiling at you and acting as though she regarded you in the light of a big brother in whom she could safely confide that was irresistible.

"You see," she said, "papa was quite wealthy once, but he took a plunge in the market and lost it all. He's in the real estate business now. That's the final refuge, you know—the last stopping place on the route to the almshouse—the real estate business or perhaps canvassing for life insurance.

"I FELT I MUST DO SOMETHING."

"I felt I must do something. Papa didn't wish it, but I insisted. Still I didn't know what to do. I had never studied shorthand, and I hated the thought of being a telephone operator. One day a friend of mine who knew my perplexity said to me: 'Why don't you go somewhere as a social entertainer? Eleanor Brackett has done grandly at it.'

"'And what might a social entertainer be?' said I.

"'Why,' she said, 'at summer hotels, you know, there are apt to be people who are reserved and unsocial and others who form cliques. The result is that a great many guests go away dissatisfied and say the place is dull and the people who frequent it disagreeable, and of course that damages the hotel proprietor's chance of heavy patronage the next season. The social entertainer circulates about among the guests, breaks up cliques, pulls the clammy and retiring people out of their corners and pushes them into conversation and keeps things generally mixed up and lively.

"'It looks like a rather large order,' said I.

"'It is,' said she, 'but you can fill it. You get the best of everything at the hotel and a good salary besides. Eleanor has turned down half a dozen good offers for this summer. She can find you an opportunity, and after a season or two you'll do awfully well.'

"I spoke to Eleanor about it, and she told me the proprietor of the Look-away House at Henslow Beach had one of these positions open. I wrote to him, and he said I could come on and try it and if I did well I should be compensated accordingly. He's a very practical man, and he doesn't pay for the purely imaginative. The evening I arrived he pointed out your brother-in-law.

"'He's just come down here,' said he. 'Start in on him. I don't know anything about him, but he looks like a fair subject for a test. If you can draw him out of his shell and get him to dance about and spend his money foolishly, as a young man should, I'll employ you regularly.'

"So I just did the best I could to give Mr. Simpkins a good time. I never once thought of dirting with him, and I didn't dream he was taking things so seriously. I did so want to make good."

"Well, you've certainly done it," said I.

"I do feel sorry for Mr. Simpkins, though. Will he really take it very hard, do you think? Those quiet chaps often have it the worst, you know. Why, I remember Harry, but of course I mustn't tell."

I detected just the slightest naughty lowering of her eyelid.

"He said he'd never be the same man again," she said.

I thought of several idiotic incidents in John's past life.

"I hope he won't," said I.

BOWSER'S FOOD TALK

Figures to Show That Man Eats Too Much.

MEAT AS HEALTH DESTROYER

Is Directly Responsible For One Hundred Thousand Victims In America Every Year, Says the Old Philosopher.

[Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.]

"Home, eh?" saluted Mrs. Bowser as Mr. Bowser arrived from the office the other evening. "Well, the cook has got one of the nicest dinners we have had for a week, and it's waiting for you."

Mr. Bowser grunted and took a parcel from his overcoat and carried it down to the table. Then he made a great display of removing the paper and brought to light a carrot and a turnip.

"Isn't it too early in the season to begin making garden?" asked Mrs. Bowser, with a smile.

"No one is going to make garden. These vegetables are to constitute my dinner tonight. Tomorrow night I shall bring others. I have got through making a menagerie of my stomach and destroying my health and shortening my years."

"THE FOOD THAT ENABLED ADAM TO UPROOT TREES."

"And so you are going to turn to horse and cow feed?"

"I am going to turn to sensible things—to the food that nature intended man to live on and has so bountifully provided for his sustenance. Mrs. Bowser, I can show you statistics that would make you chill with horror."

"About what?"

"About the way that nine-tenths of the world are living today and killing themselves off by too much eating—by eating things that nature never intended should be eaten. Did Adam eat roast beef?"

"Perhaps not."

"You know he didn't. Did Eve eat mashed potatoes? Did Cain or Abel hog down scalloped oysters? Was there a rice pudding with raisins in it awaiting Ham? Meats are directly responsible for 100,000 deaths in America every year. Mince pies kill off 500,000. Puddings perish off half as many more. Death stares in the face every man that eats a broiled lobster. Bakers' bread kills more than the cholera. Butter has slaughtered thousands of families, and so on through the list. I tell you, woman, the world is living on the brink of a precipice, as it were. The human stomach has reached its limits. Dyspepsia, indigestion and death are rearing their hydra heads in every land in the universe, and it is time to call a halt."

"And turn to carrots and turnips?"

"Yes, ma'am. Nature planned man's food, and turnips and carrots are on the bill of fare. I have no doubt that you will play the muse, as usual, and refuse to eat them, but that will make no difference with my programme. From this time on I take care of my stomach."

"I suppose some crank was in the office today."

"Never mind you about cranks. You may call a man who knows how to live a crank, but that doesn't make him one. Look at this carrot! Observe its golden color! Here is richness without indigestion. Here is strength and vitality without the risk of dyspepsia. One-third of it contains more nutriment than that big hunk of roast beef before us. And behold this turnip! It is the food that enabled Adam to uproot trees and play baseball with bowlders weighing a ton."

"He must have eaten a hundred bushels at a time, then," replied Mrs. Bowser, "for we all know that turnips are 90 per cent water."

Stomach Feels Better.

"Very well. Go ahead and kill yourself if you will, but I shall go my way. My stomach already feels better than it has for a whole year."

Mrs. Bowser said no more. She ate heartily of the food before her, and Mr. Bowser chanked away on his vegetables and tried to look and act as if he enjoyed them. At any rate, he found himself filled up after a time, and he went up to the sitting room to smoke and read the paper. An hour later, when Mrs. Bowser was deep in a book and the family cat had made up its mind that there would be nothing doing that night, the vegetarian gave a sudden start.

"It's the cats in the back yard," said Mrs. Bowser as she looked up.

But it wasn't. Five minutes later there was a second start, followed by something like a groan. The start and groan were suppressed as much as possible, but Mrs. Bowser looked up again to ask:

"Were you thinking of how your brother Ben fell from a tree and broke his neck? Poor Ben!"

Mr. Bowser simply glared at her in reply. It was a glare so icy cold that it would have kept the kitchen refrigerator going for a week. Five or six minutes passed, and then the gentleman with the thrilling statistics rose up with a real groan and stood half bent over, with a hand on his stomach.

"Hungry again, dear? I guess I can find a parsnip around somewhere. If not, I'm sure there's a head of cabbage in the house."

"Say—say—something is griping me like blazes! I'll be hanged if"— "You must be mistaken, Mr. Bowser. All you ate for dinner was a raw turnip and a carrot, and nature supplied both for man's food. Don't you remember how good your stomach felt when you got through?"

"But I tell you I've got a case of colic!" he shouted as he walked up and down. "Ouch! She's coming faster and harder! Do something for me or I'll be a dead man within an hour!"

"Don't alarm yourself, Mr. Bowser. You may have swallowed the stub of your cigar when you gave that first start or it may have come from getting your feet a little damp. It surely can't come from the carrot and turnip. We can't find a thing in the Bible about nature's food giving Adam the colic. Shall I go down to the kitchen for the cabbage?"

"No!" he thundered between two pains.

"I could just as well have got a squash or a pumpkin today if I'd known about your change of diet."

"Woman"—

And then the pain took hold of him and turned him pale and brought the sweat to his forehead, and he staggered around and finally fell upon the lounge and stretched out and groaned:

"But what is it, dear? Did you step on a tack or something?"

"Step on a tack! Good heavens, can't you see that I am twisted up in knots with a bilious colic?"

"But it can't be that," she protested. "Bilious colic comes from eating something that is indigestible. You ate nothing for dinner except a turnip and a carrot—nature's foods. Adam and Eve ate the same things, and like enough some raw potatoes and cornstalks on top of them, and yet they didn't have bilious colic."

Was "One on Him."

Mr. Bowser heard, but did not reply. He realized that it was "one on him," and he determined to die on the spot before uttering another groan. The pains ceased for a moment, and he began to plan how to make Mrs. Bowser's heart ache, but before he had perfected anything his knees were suddenly drawn up to his chin and he was forced to indulge in a sort of war-whoop. Then she went to the telephone and called up the doctor and asked him to come in haste. As she returned to the vegetarian he asked in a weak voice:

"Do you think I am going to die?"

"Why should you?" she replied. "If you had been eating roast beef, mashed potatoes, rice pudding and such things it would be different, and I should say that nothing could save you, but you only indulged in the food that gave Adam the strength to take elephants by the tail and swing them around his head. Oh, no! The rest of us may die off, but you will live on."

"Fifteen minutes later the doctor arrived. He struck the trail at once, and when he had eased the pains somewhat he asked:

"See here, Bowser, what nonsense have you been up to now?"

"I—I ate a carrot and a turnip for dinner."

"You ass! Why didn't you eat your shoes to finish up on?"

"Doctor, he has decided to return to nature's foods," said Mrs. Bowser.

"Oh, he has, has he? Well, the next time he tries this thing on he can call some other doctor. I don't include idiots in my practice!" M. QUAD.

The Only Thing Possible.

"My wife insisted upon my attending her pink tea yesterday afternoon, and I simply had to swear under my breath."

"Why, how was that?"

"What else could I do? There were ladies present."—Catholic Standard and Times.

No Protection.

"He's just a hypocrite. Isn't it disgusting for a man to use his religion as a cloak?"

"Yes; and, what's more, it's foolish for religion such as his is necessarily so flimsy that he's liable to catch cold in it."—Philadelphia Press.

A Misunderstanding.

Mr. Hippo—How dare you insult me?

Captain Leo—Insult you?

Mr. Hippo—Yes; I heard you tell the porter to give me a wide berth.—Harper's Weekly.

No Chance For Romance.

He—And is there no hope that you can ever learn to love me?

She—None whatever. My family is too strongly in favor of you.—Kansas City Times.

A TRAGEDY.

Amusing Incident of a Politician's Stay at a Certain Hotel.

A hotel proprietor in Kansas City once told of an amusing incident connected with the stay at his house of a rural politician of Missouri.

The politician had come to the hotel for but one day, and he had taken his dinner elsewhere with a friend. When, on coming to pay his bill, he found himself charged with a day's board, dinner and all, he protested vigorously. It was explained to him that the American plan was based strictly on time and that if he chose to eat elsewhere it was his own lookout. The man, however, refused to be pacified and paid the bill under protest. Then, to every one's surprise, he asked if dinner were "still on." Upon being informed that it lasted until 9 in the evening he exclaimed:

"I've eaten one dinner, but I'm going to get my money's worth out of this house if I suffer all the torments of dyspepsia."

He then rushed into one of the dining rooms, seized a bill of fare and ordered everything he could think of. When he finally reached his limit, the waiter handed him a check for $8.35.

"What's that for?" he demanded.

"Your dinner, sir."

"But I have already paid for my dinner in my bill," protested the unfortunate man. "I am staying here on the American plan."

"Then you should have gone into the other dining room," said the waiter. "This is the European plan cafe."—Harper's Weekly.

'Twas a Grand Evenin'.

There is an old Scotch keeper of the Carlyle house on the Chelsea embankment in London who still rehearses punctiliously the story of Tennyson's visit to Thomas Carlyle: "In this room it was, sir, that Mr. Carlyle and Mr. Tennyson spent a long evening, each smokin' his pipe and neither of them speakin' a word. And after three hours, when Mr. Tennyson rose to go, Mr. Carlyle said to him, 'It's a grand evenin' we've spent, Alfred, a grand evenin'.' And Mr. Tennyson, he just said, too, 'A grand evenin',' and went out."

A Beauty Parlor.

There was a long silence.

"Gerald," she said, breaking the monotony, "what is a 'beauty parlor?'"

"A 'beauty parlor,' my dear?" he whispered, moving closer. "Why, this is a 'beauty parlor.'"

"The idea! Why so?"

"Why, any parlor would be a beauty parlor if you were in it."

And after that the rest was easy. She accepted him on the spot.—Detroit Tribune.

The Awakening.

The Wife—I thought I had married a man.

The Man—I'm beginning to think that too.—Sketch.

A Sly Poke.

"Bessie Bute brags so much about her conquests," began Goldie Hoamley. "Of course she's more attractive to the men than I, but"—

"Not at all," interrupted Vera Cutting. "So sweet of you to say that, but I know she is"—

"Nonsense! Why, she hasn't nearly so much money as you have."—Catholic Standard and Times.

As He Did Money.

"Say, Borroughs," remarked the busy merchant, "apparently you believe that time is money."

"Is that sarcasm?" inquired Borroughs, who realized that his visit had been rather prolonged.

"Well, I was just thinking that you're using somebody else's time."—Philadelphia Press.

At the Opera.

Good morn', signor. You looka bright
For wan dat's out so late las' night.
Oh, yes, I see you w'en you came E'en opera house for "La Boheme."
I, too, was dere. Eh? Eet was grand?
You bat my life dat's true, my frand.
You are surprise' an' so delight
For dat dey seeng so good las' night?
Ah, you would see
Why dat should be
Eef you could know so mooch as me.

You evva hear da love more strong
Dan speak las' night through evra song,
Through evratheeng dey say an' do
Dat mak' da story plain to you?
You know, eet ees not only art
Dat breeng da music from da heart.
You s'pose dat art ees only theeng
Mak' Angela so good to seeng?
Ah, you would see
Dat could not be
Eef you could know so mooch as me.

Oh, Angela ees seeng so sweet
Your heart eenside your breast ees beat—
Eh? Angela? You don'ta know?
She's pretta girl een firsta row,
Weeth face so sweet an' form so grand
An' di'mon' reeng on lefta hand.
You deed not see? You meess a treat.
She ees da heart an' soul of eet!
Ah, you would see
Why dat should be
Eef you could know so mooch as me.
—T. A. Daly in Catholic Standard and Times.

THE SEED CATALOGUE.

The old spring fever's back, it seems.
The catalogue now waits—
A hundred pages, packed with dreams
And fourteen colored plates.

It tells of everything to sow
And everything to plant.
Just why these special seeds will grow
And why those others can't.

The latest Burbank miracle
Is pictured for our eyes.
While language almost lyrical
Describes its weight and size.

Bulbs, vines and bushes all are here
And fertilizers light.
The diagrams are wondrous clear
For planting gardens right.

But one thing is left out, and why
I do not understand—
The pages don't explain how I
Can get sufficient land!

—Freeman Putney, Jr., in Puck.

Tall Fish Story.

"Speaking about showers of fish," said the solemn looking nature fakir from his seat on the starch box, "reminds me of the time we were marooned on an island in the blue Pacific. For two hours there was a shower of fresh mackerel, and, strange to say, they all dropped into a salt lake on the mountain side. That brined them."

"Whew!" the old codgers chorused in unison.

"But that's not the strangest part of the story. Ten days later a cyclone came along, picked up the brined mackerel and dropped them into a hot spring. That boiled them, and, gentlemen, they were the finest boiled mackeral you ever tasted. I thought about sending some home to the folks, but"—

There was a sudden interruption, and six strong men took the nature fakir outside and ducked him in the horse trough.—Chicago News.

A Different Bird.

A Philadelphia schoolteacher was having a class in reading, and the subject was how an eagle had carried a small baby out of its cradle and taken it away to its nest on the mountains.

As the story seemed to impress the children, she tried to explain to them that it was only a story—that eagles did not carry off little children.

Just then a little hand was raised and a small boy remarked, "Please, teacher, the stork does that."—Philadelphia Ledger.

On the Glad Highway.

"Say, boss, you hasn't er dime in yer clothes, has yer?"

"No, my man, I have not. But how did you guess it?"—New York World.

Tenure Explained.

"That man makes a great many mistakes," said one factory employee.

"Yes," answered the other; "more than all the rest of us put together. The foreman keeps him around to have some one to jump on and show that he's boss."—Washington Star.

Their Bluff.

"They're forever talking about their brother who was killed in an automobile accident."

"Yes; they're anxious to give the impression that he was thrown out of the machine, whereas he was merely hit by it."—Boston Post.

It Would Crowd Him.

"Simpkins refuses to have his flat papered," reported the agent of the building.

"What's the matter now?" inquired the owner.

"He claims they haven't room enough as it is."—Judge.

The Bachelor Brand.

"I don't believe you have a heart," remarked the leap year girl, who had failed to win out.

"Oh, yes; I have," replied the hardened bachelor. "My physician tells me I have a tobacco heart."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Chance For a Rest.

"Now, here's a piece of goods," said the voluble drummer, "that speaks for itself. I"—

"All right," interrupted the weary buyer, "suppose you keep quiet for five minutes and give it a chance."—Boston Post.

And Honest Too.

"Jones made the best part of his money by grafting."

"Why, I thought he had such a high reputation for honesty."

"So he has. He must graft, though, for he keeps a fruit nursery."—St. Louis Republic.

The Force of a Vowel.

"What difference one letter in a word can sometimes make."

"Exactly. That 'O!' our cook gave hich frightened the cat and made it jump into her dough turned her batch of bread into a botch." — Baltimore American.

Quite Accounted For.

"That man always gets along and seems to be enterprising in other ways, yet he never handles anything which isn't a drug in the market."

"What is his business?"

"He's an apothecary."—Denver News-Times.

COPYRIGHT 1907 BY THE U. S. LITHOGRAPH CO.

The Gentry Bros'. Show.

To anticipate requirements, to develop resources, to recognize no impediments, are some of the principles that will eventually lead to success in the show world as in other branches of business life.

Gentry has recognized this, and used it to advantage in the various departments of his attraction, but in no more startling way than the variety of animals that he turns out into his ring to do their various acts.

In this way he has anticipated the requirements of the public. In recognizing no impediments, he has taken the most stupid of all animals and made performers of them, viz: pigs and sheep. Three sheep and two pigs give one of the most laughable, and at the same time, one of the most interesting acts of the whole performance. They all obey the word of command of their trainer and do things never thought possible heretofore in animals of such a low order of intelligence.

Gentry's dogs are world famed, and possess no rivals in this or any other country. They are most of them highly bred, and of aristocratic lineage. Almost every known breed is exhibited, and tricks compatable to the nature of each are taught them. In this way he has developed resources. The English bull dog is the "heavy man" of the company, the French poodle the star "comedian," and the lithe and lissom greyhound the fascinating "leading lady" as it were. There are no less than one hundred of these talented canines, and their admirers are legion.

The mirth of the monkeys is proverbial, "As funny as a wagon load of monkeys," has long been the proverb. Gentry's monkeys are no exception to the rule, they shave each other, ride wheels, run trains, not toy locomotives, but an actual miniature railway, with a full head of steam up, man and monkey fire brigade, with its engine, hook and ladder corps, hose wagon, etc. Fire the monkeys hotel and promptly extinguish the flames, and get up to antics too numerous to mention, but all excruciatingly funny, whilst another great feature is the only original "Maud," Gentry's unrideable mule. For many years there has been a standing offer that Mr. Gentry will make a present of "Maud" to the one that can ride her three times around the ring. This offer still holds good, and at each performance someone or other who desires to own "Maud" essays the feat. It is up to the equestrians of this town to see if they cannot beat the record, and leave this famous animal in our midst. She will prove a fortune to the one so doing.

Stork News.

The bird is never at rest. Last night it visited the Frantz Hotel and left as a token of its regard a little daughter in the keeping of ex-Sheriff and Mrs. Edward J. Frantz. And after the lapse of fifteen years, too.

Pasture for Rent

I have about 40 acres pasture for rent either by the month or as a whole.

D. M. Dixon.

For Sale.

Arnold cottage, at Mt. Lake Park, Md; 13 rooms and attic; used as boarding house and has good patronage; high ground; splendid location; two blocks from new auditorium; city water; one of the best built houses in the Park; about 75 feet of porches. Will exchange for smaller property. A good bargain. Address F. P. Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Md.

Oakland, Friday, June 5

Two Performances Daily.

FAMOUS GENTRY
BROTHERS' SHOWS.

Bigger & Better Than Ever.

200 Trained Horses and Ponies 200

2 Herds of Elephants | 10 Funny Clowns
2 Droves of Camels | 2 Military Bands

3 BIG EUROPEAN FEATURES 3

The Great Steiner Troupe from Berlin
M'selle De Oesch "Queen of the Air," of Paris
The Comedy Weylers, from Barcelona.

ONE TICKET ADMITS TO ALL.

Grand Free Street Parade Daily at 10 a. m.

TAX SALES

OF VALUABLE

Real Estate

IN GARRETT COUNTY

Under and by virtue of the power vested in the Treasurer of Garrett county, Maryland, by Section 52 of Chapter 566, of the Acts of General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1890, title, "Garrett County," sub-title, "County Treasurer," and as amended by the General Assembly of Maryland for the year 1898, Chapter 144, the undersigned as late Treasurer in and for Garrett county, Maryland, will on

FRIDAY,

the 5th day of June, 1908,

AT THE HOUR OF 2 O'CLOCK P. M., at the front door of the Court House in the town of Oakland, Garrett county, Maryland, offer and sell at public auction to the highest bidder all the following pieces and parcels of land lying and being in Garrett county, Maryland, to-wit:

No. 1. ALL THAT PIECE OF LAND KNOWN AND DESIGNATED AS MILITARY LOT NUMBE ELEVEN HUNDRED AND NINETY-ONE, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES, lying and being in Election District No. 10 of Garrett county and being the same lot which was conveyed by Elizabeth F. Cecil to Elizabeth Paugh et al. by deed bearing date the 1st day of June, 1895, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 28, folio 99, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Elizabeth Paugh.

No. 4.—PART OF A LOT KNOWN AS LOT NUMBER TWENTY-ONE OF THE SUB-DIVISION OF A TRACT OF LAND CALLED LOCHIEL, CONTAINING TWO HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINE ACRES, and being the same land which was conveyed by F. P. Green and wife to Mary C. Love by deed bearing date the 26th day of August, 1903, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 46, folio 147, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is more particularly described in a deed for the same to the said F. P. Green executed by John T. Mitchell and wife, bearing date the 30th day of January, 1899, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 26, folio 224, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 or said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Mary C. Love.

No. 6.—ALL THAT PIECE OF GROUND IN MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK described in a deed for the same from Mary E. Mayers to Annie V. Cunningham, dated the 10th day of April, 1901, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 39, folio 433, etc., one of the Land Records of Garrett county, said description being as follows: Beginning at a stone on the southwest corner of Spruce and E streets and running with E street South 50 feet to a stake for a place of beginning, thence with the South line of Lot No. 107, 120 feet to an alley, thence South along said alley 25 feet to a stake, thence East 120 feet to E street, thence North along E street 25 feet to the place of beginning, said lot being shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association as recorded in the plat records of Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Annie V. Cunningham.

No. 7.—LOTS NUMBERS THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY AND THIRTEEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-TWO as shown on the plat of the Mountain Lake Park Association recorded in Liber W. H. T., No. 6, folio 800, one of the Land Records of Garrett county, and being the same land which was conveyed by Mountain Lake Park Association to Mary B. Wilson et al., by deed dated the 28th day of January, 1902, and recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 40, folio 341, one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 7 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the heirs of George M. Wilson.

No. 8.—MILITARY LOTS NUMBERS THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-THREE, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FOUR, THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE AND THIRTY-SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX, CONTAINING FIFTY ACRES EACH, the same being a part of the Caledonia Lands of the American Coal Company of Allegany county which are fully described in a deed for the same from Joseph E. Gay and others, trustees, to Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county, which deed bears date the 28th day of December, 1904, and duly recorded in Liber E. Z. T., No. 49, folio 78, etc., one of the Land Records of said Garrett county. Said land is located in Election District No. 11 of said Garrett county and will be sold to satisfy and pay the taxes due and in arrear thereon for the year 1905 as is charged on the Assessment Books of said Garrett county in the name of the said Semi-Bituminous Georges Creek Cumberland Coal Company of Allegany county.

No. 10—Land of Benjamin Tasker erroneously advertised as the taxes on this property had been paid.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash on day of sale. The right of redemption extends to six calendar months from day of sale by paying to the purchaser the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of twenty per cent per annum and all costs. Conveyoncing at cost of purchaser.

E. A. WEIMER,
Late Treasurer of Garrett County.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphan's Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

BENJAMIN F. BOWSER,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 14th day of May 1908.

AMOS BOWSER,
Administrator,
R. F. D. No. 2, Accident, Md.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber of Garrett County, in Maryland, hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters Testamentary on the personal estate of

HARVEY B. NEWMAN,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 14th day of November, next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 12th day of May, 1908.

S. T. JONES,
Executor,
Oakland, Md.

Notice to Tax-payers.

This is to notify the tax payers of Garrett county that the Annual Levy for 1908 has been made and published, and to call their attention to the following abstract, Section 45, Chapter 266, Acts of 1898, relating to the discount to be allowed and the interest to be charged on all tax bills.

"All county taxes shall be due and payable on the first day of September next succeeding the date of the levy thereof, and on all county taxes paid on or before the 1st day of September a discount of 2 per cent. will be allowed, and after the first day of January all taxes shall bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum until paid. The Treasurer shall take the discount from and charge interest on the tax bills for county purposes regularly in the manner aforesaid and shall note the same upon his books and upon the receipt given for taxes so paid. But the discount shall not be allowed unless the whole amount of State and county taxes are paid when same is made.

W. E. HOLLINGER,
Treasurer.

Notiec to Creditors.

THIS is to give notice, that the subscriber of Allegany County, Md., hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett County, in Maryland, Letters of Testamentary on the personal estate of

JACOB WILSON,

late of Garrett County, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 16th day of October next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 16th day of April, 1908.

WM. H. WILSON,
Executor,
7-3t Frostburg, Md.

The man Who Makes
A STUDY OF HIS APPEARANCE

Is the man who best appreciates the detail of the tailoring we turn out. The workmanship passes without a question, the fit is naturally a matter of course, but the shape we mould into the garments give them a character that finishes them off and makes the satisfaction of the owner complete.

All this is a bid for your next tailoring order. We know we can make you the best clothes you ever wore. We want you to know it. That order is the best and only sure way to settle the question.

JAMES BROCK,
Dixon Building,
Oakland, Maryland.

Notice to Creditors.

This is to give notice, That the subscriber, of Garrett county hath obtained from the Orphans' Court of Garrett county, in Maryland, letters of Administration on the personal estate of

THOMAS DAVIS,

late of Garrett county, deceased. All persons having claims against the deceased are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with the vouchers thereof legally authenticated to the subscriber, on or before the 28th day of November next; they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 28th day of May, 1908.

BRADLEY T. DAVIS,
Administrator,
Kitzmiller, Md.

Blank Books of all kinds for sale at this office at a remarkably low price. Give us a call when needing anythimg in this line.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank

AT FRIENDSVILLE,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business May 14th, 1908.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$127,870 93
Overdrafts		363 87
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		25,000 00
Premiums on U. S. Bonds		1,734 37
Bonds, securities, etc		60,943 54
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		6,098 51
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		2,624 41
Due from State Banks and Bankers		161 43
Due from approved reserve agents		5,812 90
Checks and other cash items		165 26
Notes of other National Banks		620 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		304 72
Lawful money reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$ 511 75
Legal-tender notes	9,975 00	10,486 75
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer (5 per cent. of circulation)		1,250 00
Total		$243,436 69

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$ 25,000 00
Surplus fund	23,597 43
Undivided profits	1,956 74
National Bank notes outstanding	25,000 00
Due to other National Banks	387 09
Due to State Banks and Bankers	1,653 62
Individual deposits subject to check	75,647 06
Time certificates of deposit	90,194 75
Total	$243,436 69

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, R. C. McCandlish, Cashier of the above bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

R. C. McCANDLISH, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 22nd day of May, 1908.

Orval A. Welch, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: D. S. Custer,
W. W. Savage,
L. E. Friend,
Directors.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank

AT KITZMILLERVILLE,

In the State of Maryland, at the close of business, May 14, 1908.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts		$56,070 24
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		6,250 00
Premiums on U. S. Bonds		218 75
Bonds, securities, etc		9,321 39
Banking house, furniture and fixtures		3,347 95
Other real estate owned		400 00
Due from National Banks (not reserve agents)		78 16
Due from approved reserve agents		7,669 06
Notes of other National Banks		200 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels and cents		26 09
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank, viz:
Specie	$3,778 95
Legal-tender notes	210 00	3,988 95
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer, (5 per cent, of circulation)		312 50
Total		$ 87,883 09

LIABILITIES.

Capital stock paid in	$ 25,000 00
Surplus fund	3,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	75 76
National Bank notes outstanding	6,250 00
Due to other National Banks	2,025 30
Due Trusts Companies and Savings Banks	248 36
Individual deposits subject to check	26,129 36
Demand certificates of deposit	25,110 58
Certified Checks	15 78
Cashier's checks outstanding	28 00
Total	$ 87,883 09

State of Maryland, County of Garrett.

I, E. J. Hamill, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

E. J. HAMILL, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21st day of May, 1908.

Geo. J. Pool, Notary Public.

Correct—Attest: Chas. M. Wilson,
Wade Sapp,
R. A. Smith,
Directors.

OWN A HOME.

No Matter where you live, we will build or buy you a home. You can pay for it in monthly payments, which will average less than rent. A positive guarantee, secured by first class real estate, is given every subscriber. Every rent payer should send for our free booklet at once which fully explains the plan.

MUTUAL HOME UNION
38 Builder's Exchange Bldg., Baltimore, Md.
W. R. McCLANAHAN,
Piedmont, W. Va.
Agent for Western Md.

Proposals For Building Wrought Iron Bridge

OFFICE OF THE
COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FOR GARRETT CO.,
OAKLAND, MD., May 14, 1908.

Notice is hereby given that the County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will receive sealed proposals on Tuesday, the 2nd day of June, '08,

at 2 o'clock p. m., at their office in the town of Oakland, Md., for the building of a low truss wrought iron bridge over little Youch at the Close crossing about one mile from Oakland, the superstructure to consist of one span 35 feet long and 12 feet wide. The bids submitted shall be for the superstructure seperate from the stone work and vice versa.

The bids for substructure can be either for stone or concrete, the Board to decide which is to be used at the date of letting.

Plans and specifications to be seen in the Commissioners Office on and after May 22, 1908.

The County Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all bids.

By order of the Board,

A. G. ROSS, Clerk.

THE REPUBLICAN.

VOLUME 32. OAKLAND, MARYLAND, THURSDAY, JUNE 11 1908. NUMBER 15

HARD ROCK FOR ROADS IN WESTERN MARYLAND

This Is the Material To Be Used For Construction of Good Roads

ENGINEER CROSBY'S WARNING.

Crushed Stone Preferable Wherever Practicable—The Shoemaker Act to Stand Whereby Counties May Procure State Aid in Building Lateral Roads.

In an interview published in the Baltimore American of Monday the State Roads Commission outlined the plan of procedure when the actual work of constructing the good roads in this and other sections of the State is begun.

In Western Maryland crushed rock will be the prevailing material, because it is near at hand and therefore cheaper. It becomes costly when it has to be hauled several miles from the railroad stations.

The commissioners on their visit to the counties have encountered several obstacles. Farmers and others differ as to whether the roads shall connect the seats of the several counties, or whether they shall lead to railroad stations or steamboat wharves. These facts seem to be pretty well established in the mind of the commissioners:

That the roads to be improved by the state shall connect county seats.

That they shall, as far as possible, pass through centers of population.

That they shall not connect with turnpikes of private corporations.

That, if necessary, turnpikes shall be paralleled with state roads.

That turnpikes, for the present at least, shall not be purchased. The Baltimore and Frederick Turnpike Company for illustration, has outstanding 600,000 shares, at a marketable value of $2 per share. The acquisition of this turnpike would thus cost the State $1,200,000.

That the Shoemaker act shall continue, thus enabling counties to avail themselves of the state aid in building roads to connect with the main arteries to be constructed by the state.

Chief Engineer Crosby utters a word of warning against the idea that the proposed new roads will be built in a day, or a month, or even two or three years.

"Few movements are larger than this one," says Mr. Crosby, "Consequent slowness at the start must be expected, but increased momentum may be looked for constantly, and finally the results will be all that can be desired if people will but be patient and persist along this line.

"Massachusetts has been at work over 10 years. In the first five years less than 50 miles of road were built. To be sure, such conditions were slightly different. Some of the hardest roads to build were built first, and precedents and results of experiment were not as plentiful as now, and we may confidently expect far faster progress with us in Maryland. At the end of the tenth year in Massachusetts, however, 550 miles of modern road had been built by the state, and a more than equal amount had been completed by the counties. These county additions to the state results were built under the same methods as the state roads, and were practically as good, but they never would have been built, nor could the counties have known how to built them, had not the state first furnished the examples to show the value of proper planning and work, and during their construction show how to do the actual work.

"The experience has been the same in every other state; the only difference has been more rapid in the states that have started since New Jersey and Massachusetts. These states have had the benefit of the experiments made by their predecessors. We must not give the others too much of a start however. A much longer delay in getting off would have put us out of the race. Now we may, however, hope before many years to be "up in the bunch."

"The residents of the counties in Maryland in suggesting routes for state roads should consider questions broadly. There are, say 15,000 miles of public roads in Maryland. The macadamizing of all of them is inadvisable, even if it were physically or financially possible. But there are in each county certain social and business centers. The connection of these centers with each other and the larger centers of one county with the larger ones of another county is advisable and necessary. In other words, in building these modern roads a system should be followed. This system should be properly planned at the start, and then adhered to."

Resolutions of Respect.

At a recent meeting of Oak Lodge No. 8, I. O. O. F., held at Loch Lynn Heights, the following preamble and resolutions were adopted in memory of the late George P. White, a respected and beloved brother of that Lodge:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Supreme Being to remove from our midst our beloved brother and friend George Pearson White, and

WHEREAS, Brother White was a consistent Christian, a worthy brother, a loving father and a devoted husband, and

WHEREAS, Oak Lodge, No. 8, I. O. O. F., and the community at large deeply feel their loss; therefore be it

Resolved, That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and friends; be it further

Resolved, That o copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Lodge, a copy sent to the family and a copy sent to the county papers for publication.

H. V. LEIGHTON,
C. V. HARVEY,
W. D. KING,
Committee.

DIXON & KELSO

DIXON & KELSO

OFFER

Feed and Flour

AT THE FOLLOWING PRICE

FOR CASH:

Corn, Oats and Barley Chop, -	$1.65
Feed Flour, - - - - -	1.75
Sucrene Dairy Feed, - -	1.40
Wheat Bran, - - -	1.65
Unbolted Meal, - - -	1.80
Cracked Corn, - - -	1.80
A Special Feed for Small Chicks,	2.75
Oats, per Bushel, - - -	.65
Kiln Dried Corn, - - -	.90
Gold Star Flour, (wood), - -	5.50
Best Spring Patent, - -	6.50

Come and See

DIXON & KELSO.

SECOND WEEK OF THE CIRCUIT COURT

Appeal Docket Concluded Wednesday and Trial Docket Taken Up Thursday.

CRIMINAL CASES NOW BEING TRIED

So Far a Number of Convictions Have Been Secured—Several Have Entered Pleas of Guilty and Have been Sentenced by the Court.

The second week's session of the Circuit Court begun on Monday of this week with His Honor Robert R. Henderson on the bench.

On Tuesday morning of last week the Appeal Docket was taken up, and disposed of as follows:

1. Lloyd Dean vs. George R. Long; action by Dean to recover ani account for $45.00; tried before the court and judgment for the defendant Long; Hamill and Semmes—Peddicord.

2. Lloyd Dean vs. George R. Long; replevin by Long; verdict for the appellant; tried before court; Hamill and Semmes—Peddicord.

3. Joseph Groer vs. Joseph Shultz; tried before court and judgment for defendant; Renninger & Offutt—Peddicord

4. Fike & Bower vs. James S. Evans; tried before court and judgment for the plaintiffs for $44.79; Peddicord Semmes & Hamill.

5. Galusha H. Pritchard vs. Martha A. Workman; no appearance for either party; continued by the court.

6. John Reynolds vs. Frank McGann; rule secured for costs and continued; Stuart F. Hamill—Renninger & Offutt.

7. Esther Fazenbaker vs. H. R. Boyer; entered settled by order of appellee; Peddicord—Hamill.

9. Andrew Shartzer vs. Garrett Telephone Co.; appeal dismissed by order of appellant; Peddicord.

10. Mary Ash and John Ash, garnishees of Silas Ash, vs. Harvey Bowser; non pros.; Thayer—Renninger & Offutt.

11. Marion C. Hoye, trading as John Shartzer & Co.; vs. Brashears & Frost; appeal dismissed by order of John Shartzer; Matthews & Hamill.

12. Marion C. Hoye, etc., vs. C. E. Bolyard; continued; Renninger & Offutt.

13. Annie L. Felty vs Arthur Lipscomb: continued; Peddicord—Renninger & Offutt.

14. John Rowland vs L. E. Hollman Cigar Co.; judgment affirmed by consent; Renninger & Offutt—Hamill.

15. Baker Johnson vs Gilead Broadwater; continued; Thayer—Sincell.

16. Kendall Lumber Co. vs F. A. Thayer, garnishee; dismissed; Hamill—Thayer.

17. Marion C. Hoye, etc., vs John Felty; continued; Peddicord.

The Appeal Docket was concluded on Wednesday evening and on Thursday morning the Trial Docket was begun with Judge Henderson on the Bench.

TRIALS.

1. Joseph T. Osborn vs E. Livengood; settled on terms to be filed; Cook, Thayer and Sincell—Hamill, Semmes and Mitchell.

2. Emma J. Root, adm'r., vs Bear Creek Lumber Co.; continued; Sincell—Peddicord.

3. D. E. Bolden vs John Shartzer; continued; Renninger & Offutt.

5. John F. Friend, at al. vs Yough Manor Lumber Co.; new parties made and case continued; Thaver, Sincell and Gordon—Peddicord and Hamill.

6. Valley Savings Bank vs William and Jemima Mowery; continued; Mitchell—Heindel.

7. James Carey vs Sarah and Charles A. Murphy; continued; Peddicord—Sincell.

8, Edward R. Pence vs Charles D. Gillaspie; consolidated with No. 50 trials; Peddicord—Sincell.

9, John J. Moore vs Harvey Miller and others; dismissed under rule security for costs; Peddicord—Hamill.

10, Edward R. Pence vs Charles D. Gillaspie; consolidated with No. 50 trials; Peddicord—Sincell.

11, John C. Foreman vs Guthrie & Ashby; settled, each party to pay his own costs; Peddicord—Thayer.

12, Ami Forman vs Guthrie & Ashby; settled, each party to pay his own costs; Peddicord—Thayer.

13, Joseph W. King vs Henry B. Harvey; in process of settlement and continued; Peddicord—Hamill.

14, Horace R. Boyer vs J. L. Englehart; settled by defendant paying costs; Hamill and Williams—Peddicord.

15, Mary Rhoages vs Annie L. Felty and Henry E. Felty; continued; Peddicord—Williams.

16, E. A. Twigus Peter Sinclair; non pros; Renninger & Offutt—Sincell.

17, Mt. Lake Water & Light Co. vs Mt. Lake Park Association; settled; Peddicord—Hamill.

18, John H. Dye vs H. M. Vanzandt; continued; Hamill—Sincell.

19, William H. Malette vs Mt. Lake Park Association; stet; Peddicord—Hamill.

20, Eli and James U. Stanton vs Gilead Broadwater; set for trial July 20th, 1908.

21, Nethkin Coal & Coke Co. vs J. R. Pope; put at end of trial docket; Peddicord—Hamill.

22, Edward A. Browning vs Q. A. Lacy; continued; Peddicord—Pearre & Dickey.

23, Daniel Mosser vs Joseph W. Hoge; continued; Renninger—Hamill.

24, Edward J. Frantz vs William Bowman; judgment on rule and consolidated with No. 26; Renninger & Offutt—Hamill.

25, Rowlesburg Grocery Co. vs Marion C. Hoye; judgment for $859.50; Renninger & Offutt—Hamill.

26, Edward J. Frantz vs William Bowman; judgment for plaintiff for $579.28; Renninger & Offutt—Hamill.

27, Emma Sharless vs Osborn Tasker; action for slander; tried before the court and judgment for the defendant; Hamill & Semmes—Peddicord.

28, Nelson N. Cupp vs John H. Conneway; continued; Peddicord—Hamill.

29. Samuel Lakel vs Williamsport Hardware Co.; defendant asked for a commission to take testimony in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and case continued; Peddicord—Thayer.

30. Donald Simpson vs Arch. Casteel, et al.; inquisition by jury for $120.

31. Henry Bernard, et al., vs H. Bernard, etc., garnishee; stet; Thayer—Sincell.

32. Mountain Lake Water and Light Co., vs Mountain Lake Park Association; continued; Peddicord—Hamill.

33. George C. Sturgiss vs F. T. Martin; amended declaration and bill of particulars filed and case continued; Peddicord—Renninger & Offutt.

34. George C. Sturgiss vs L. A. Rudicill; judgment on the rule; Peddicord—Renninger & Offutt.

35. Mary E. Pysell vs. Geo. P. Fitzwater; tried before the court; judgment for the plaintiff; Thayer—Semmes and Hamill.

36. William Emerson vs Richard Garlitz; tried before the court and judgment for the defendant; Williams—Hamill and Semmes.

37. Mary M. Beckman vs Lincoln Callis; tried before the court and all of plaintiff's prayers rejected and case to be argued later; Semmes and Hamill—Peddicord.

38. W. C. Dunnington vs R. S. Wolf; dismissed; Peddicord—Hamill.

39. W. C. Dunnington vs R. S. Wolf; judgment for plaintiff by confession for $255; Pedeicord—Hamill.

40. Gilmor S. Hamill vs Mary Pritts; judgmont on rule; S. F. Hamill.

41. J. C. Orrick & Son Co., vs Park Grocery Company; continued; Hamill—Peddicord.

42. G. S. Hamill, Trustee vs. G. H. Pritchard; continued; S. F. Hamill—Semmes.

43. George H. Chadeayne vs L. T. Yoder; continned on motion of plaintiff; Renninger & Offutt—Peddicord.

44. Samuel A. Deane vs James A. Dixon; judgment under the rule for $297.80; Renninger & Offutt—Hamill.

45. Hanline Brothers vs Joseph P. Helbig; judgment under the rule for $258.90; Hamill.

46. The I. Tragu Co., vs. C. A. Hesen; judgment under the rule for $291.10; S. F. Hamill—Peddicord.

47. Elijah Sines vs Hanson B. Lewis; settled; defendant to pay costs; Renninger & Offutt.

48. Philip T. Garthright vs. Hanson B. Lewis; judgment under the rule for $639.66; Peddicord.

49. Philip T. Garthright vs H. B. Lewis and wife; judgment under the rule for $482.62; Peddicord.

50. Edward R. Pence vs Charles D. Gillaspie; tried before the court and judgment for defendant for $7,630.14; Peddicord—Sincell.

51. Gibson & Smith vs Kendall Lumber Co.; settled on terms; Richmond—Hamill and Peddicord.

52. Jonathan B. Friend et al. vs Thos. Flanigan et al.; settled; Renninger & Offutt.

53. N. H. Matthews & Co. vs Charles D. Gillaspie; stet; Hamill.

54. Same vs same; Hamill.

55. Henry C. Stemple vs C. D. Gillaspie; judgment of condemnation as per schedule; Thaver—Sincell.

56. Same vs same; judgment on rule for $1,088.85; Thayer—Sincell.

57. Same vs same; continued; Thayer—Sincell.

58. Same vs same; same counsel.

59. Marshall Frankhouser et al. vs W. J. Kitzmiller; continued; Renninger & Offutt; Thayer and Peddicord.

60. Same vs same; same counsel.

CRIMINAL TRIALS.

On Monday morning the court, Judge

(Continued on page Eight)

SECOND SERIOUS FIRE AT MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

Association's Ice House Burned to the Ground Tuesday Morning.

THREE CARS ALSO CONSUMED

Which Stood on the Siding Near the Burned Building—Loss to Association a Severe One—Much of the Ice Will Be Saved.

The second very serious and disastrous loss to be sustained by the Mountain Lake Park Association within a period of less than a year, was that which occurred on Tuesday morning at a very early hour, when the large and practically new ice house, located on the shore of the lake at the Park, was entirely consumed y fire along with the tools used in harvesting the ice crop, and the melting away on account of the flames approximately of two hundred and fifty tons of ice.

The building was erected but a few years ago at a cost of several thousand dollars, it being the largest building of its character in this section of the State and was capable of holding an immense quantity of ice.

The fire was discovered between the hours of one and two o'clock Tuesday morning by Thomas Callis, one of the engineers employed at the municipal electric light plant at the Park, who immediately gave the alarm by blowing the whistle attached to the boiler at the electric station. The fire when discovered by Mr Callis was located at the northeast corner of the building and was burning rapidly, having gotten under considerable headway when it was first noticed.

Immediately after the alarm many residents of the Park as well as of Loch Lynn Height were upon the ground but they could do nothing towards saving the structure and their attention was directed toward saving adjacent property, which consisted of a long string of empty box cars belonging to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, which had been switched into the siding leading from the main track out past the ice house. A number of cars were pushed far enough away to prevent them from taking fire, but three which stood too close to the building to allow the men to get to them, were burned as well as the ties of the track.

After the building had burned itself out the ice stood as it had been stacked inside the walls, less that amount which had been melted, which was placed at about one-fourth, or two hundred and fifty tons, leaving in the huge stack about seven hundred and fifty tons, which was covered during the day with quantities of hay and saw dust and to further preserve it a covering of wood will be immediately erected. The Association officials hope to have sufficient ice to last during the months of the summer.

What caused the fire is absolutely unknown but a number of theories are advanced, one of them being that it was caused by spontaneous combustion and another that it was of incendiary origin, the latter theory being held to by the greater number of people.

The first fire loss sustained by the Association was the burning of the post-office building shortly after the holidays last winter when the origin was clearly incendiary.

Tuesday morning's fire was the more costly one, there being no insurance, so far as we can learn, and will amount to about four thousand dollars.

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK.

Mr. S. L. Allen, who has spent the past two weeks in the Park, left yesterday morning, much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee N. Hayden, who were married last week, are at the home of his parents. Lee is chief clerk in Hayden Bros. general store.

The unfortunate burning of the large ice house at the lake will not cause an ice famine this summer, as Dr. Davis took immediate steps to protect that not melted by the fire—about 1,000 tons.

Among recent arrivals we note: Dr. McLain and family, of Wheeling, W. Va., and his married daughter, Mrs. Charles Wilson, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. Harmison, of Romney, W. Va.; Miss Walker and nephew Henry Ruhl, of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Harriet Johns and son Joseph.

The streets, walks and crossings are being put in good condition by Supervisor Echard notwithstanding the almost constant rains for the past six weeks.

The Colonial, the home of Mrs. Weimer, has been repainted by Mr. Selby, and is now one of the handsomest cottages in the Park.

Mr. C. W. Hopkins will have the management of the Lewis livery and feed stables, with headquarters at the Columbian hotel.

The lecture by Dr. S. K. Arbuthnot in the M. E. church, Friday evening was very enjoyable and well attended.

We understand that Dr. Goucher will visit the Park soon and remain several weeks for a much needed rest.

THE DEATH RECORD.

DAVID OGILVIE WHITE.

At his home near Kingwood, West Va., Monday, at the advanced age of ninety-four years, David Ogilvie White, brother of the late Rowan White, of Oakland.

Subscribe for the Republican.

E. A. WEIMER.

Desirable Clothing

For Boys

Is one of my specialties. I have been very particular in the selection of my line to get only goods of dependable quality.

My suits for LITTLE BOYS 3 to 7 years in Eton, Buster Brown and Sailor styles at $3.00 to $5.00 are hard to beat.

Suits from 8 to 16 year sizes in either plain knee pants or Knickerbocker style at $4.00 to $7.50 I believe to be the best to be had in this range of prices. I also have a lot of cheaper suits if you want them.

Yours Truly. E. A. WEIMER.

NEXT DOOR TO THE POSTOFFICE OAKLAND, MD

Gabrielle's Easter.

By OLIVE HILL.

Copyright, 1907, by Hamilton Musk.

THERE could have been nothing fresher and more springlike than Mme. Louise's imported bonnets and hats, which had just arrived from Paris and were being unpacked amid the admiring exclamations of the employees of her establishment.

Mme. Louise was a fashionable milliner. Her models came direct from Paris, and her loyal patrons believed that the skillful fingers of her workwomen often improved upon the originals, but if you wanted bargains or if your purse was a limited one Mme. Louise's establishment was the last place to visit.

"You say I ask too moche," madame said one day to a customer, "but mademoiselle should remember it is not ze velvet nor ze ribbons nor ze plumes what make ze cost. It is ze cachet, ze style, you can find nowhere else in ze city. If mademoiselle can get dat cheap, eh bien, so much ze bettaire for her."

Among the importations which were not to be made visible to the public eye until the week before Easter was one superlatively charming hat. It was of cream point lace, with a kind of veiled suggestion of the tender green of spring verdure, and was trimmed with a drooping spray of exquisite lilacs. It was a hat for a beautiful young blond.

"Ah, but la petite Rose Lambert must buy dat hat!" madame exclaimed, clasping her hands and gazing with adoring eyes at the hat. "Vid her skin so white and rose, her eyes like ze blue sky and her smiling mouth she vill be sharming!"

"Ah, yes, and her father is rich, rich," said Miss Stoll, the forewoman, "and he denies her nothing! You will not ask less than thirty for this hat, madame?"

"Forty dollars!" madame said decisively. "It cost me ten in Paris, and it was a bargain. Look! Real lace and ze flowers! If we make not a leetle profit on our confections, how vill ze business keep up? La petite Lambert vill give ze price, and she vill be ze grand advertisement for ze style. Orders vill come in from ze light and ze dark, from ze ugly and ze pretty. She vill look so lovely dat dey vill all tink it is ze hat dat makes beautiful."

Among the workwomen who were admiring the new hat was one to whom it would have been quite as becoming as to the young lady for whom it was intended. Gabrille de Kernion had the same rose leaf skin and wavy golden hair, though her eyes were dark gray instead of blue, and her eyebrows and lashes were nearly black. She was a beautiful girl and a De Kernion with all the stately grace of her decayed aristocratic line.

But what use had a poor working girl for aristocratic ancestry? Such questions as that many of the creoles of Louisiana have put aside in their praiseworthy efforts to make a bare living. The affairs of the De Kernions had gone from bad to worse until the last descendant of the line had gone to work for meager wages to keep herself and her widowed mother from starving.

Certainly they were quite near starvation for a long time before Mme. de Kernion could make up her mind to consent to Gabrielle seeking outside employment. The work at home would be well enough, for the girl would not be exposed to the contamination of coarse associates, but such work could not be found, and poverty is a peremptory master who does not always leave it to one to decide where he shall make his bread, but pushes him into strange byways to seek it.

SHE GAZED AT THE FAMOUS SPRING HAT.

The girl herself, knowing nothing of the loss of wealth and grandeur that her mother lamented, was fairly content with her humble lot. Her ancestors had transmitted to her a certain stateliness of figure and manner, but she was at heart a simple minded girl, doing her work conscientiously and with no higher ambition than to excel in it.

There were changes even in her monotonous life. From Monday morning until Saturday evening she was Gabrielle, a hard worked girl, whom madame scolded and Miss Stoll worried and the customers ordered to do this and that, to pull to pieces and to construct, with a complete disregard of the possibility that fingers which were flesh and blood like their own might grow weary.

But on Sundays behold Mlle. de Kernion, clad in her best, walking gracefully to church with her mother and exchanging nods, smiles and courteous greetings with the creole aristocracy of the "old quarter." Most of her friends were as poor as she, but no poverty or humble toil could impair the refinement of manner and courtly address which they had inherited, with their names, from their French ancestors.

Gabrielle cared nothing for past grandeurs and aristocratic ancestry, but she would have liked money enough to dress prettily. She had excellent taste, and that taste was affronted by her threadbare dresses and well worn gloves and shoes.

"HOW DARE YOU ACCUSE MY DAUGHTER OF THEFT?"

"Ah!" she said to herself as she gazed at the famous spring hat. "This lace is just like mamma's old point lace scarf which she gave me. No old lace is handsomer than that. Mine is finer and some ragged, but it looks the same. Then my friend Christine Beaupre makes lilac sprays like these. How funny! And Mme. Louise believes the hat strictly Parisian."

She smiled at herself in the mirror opposite. Gabrielle was pretty and was fully aware of the fact. And the hat was such a beauty. Several times she caught herself looking at it, and when Miss Lambert, summoned by madame, arrived, Gabrielle, to her delight, was selected to try it on and make alterations if any were needed. Of course Miss Lambert bought the hat. When did the astute Mme. Louise fail in disposing of her "confections" according to her plans? There was a slight alteration to be made in some of the loopings, which was intrusted to Gabrielle's deft fingers.

"Be sure, madame, to send it to me Saturday," Miss Lambert said as she was leaving. "Don't allow your press of work to crowd my hat out of your mind."

"But certainly not!" madame screamed, gesticulating a vehement denial. "To forget! Ah, dat would be impossible! Mees Rose, you vill sharm all eyes on Easter day, and if ze young demoiselles vould give one t'ousand dollar dey could not get a hat like yours in ze city. It is unique, sharming, as it is ze most sharming young lady in ze city who vill lend grace to it."

Miss Lambert smiled and bowed at the compliment. It was really pleasant to know that she was the owner of something not attainable by her thousand and one dear friends.

On Saturday there was such a rush of custom at Mme. Louise's that Gabrielle did not have time even to get her dinner. About noon Miss Stoll had been taken ill and was obliged to go home. It was very unfortunate, for it threw a heavier burden of duty upon the rest, who were already greatly overworked. During the rest of the day the shop was in great confusion.

"Tiens!" cried madame in good French, just as the shop was about to be closed, and she clapped her hands to her forehead as if to restrain from wandering the few ideas her head still contained. "I believe I have lost my mind in all this uproar. Here is Mme. Ernest Lauve's bonnet, and she lives in the French quarter, miles from here! Gabrielle, it is near the Rue D., where you live. Take the bonnet to her, and then you can go home, since by that time it will be dark, and you have had no dinner."

Poor Gabrielle, exhausted and hungry, was only too glad of an errand that would release her from the shop even a few minutes earlier than the others. When she reached home after dark she was too tired even to think of Easter.

Mme. Louise bustled hither and thither, for there were many hats and bonnets to be delivered to her customers that evening.

"And Mlle. Lambert's hat!" she cried. "You must take it to her, Victoire, and tell her we were too busy to send it before."

Victoire went to get the hat. She returned after several minutes' absence with a troubled face.

"Madame, the hat is not there. Gabrielle made the alterations this afternoon. Did you not send it by her?"

"No!" madame cried angrily. "She took Mme. Lauve's hat. You are all crazy. You can find nothing unless it is under your nose. Get that hat immediately! Do you hear? Immediately!"

The frightened workwoman ran here and there, pulling down boxes and ferreting in every corner of the large room.

Nine o'clock struck, and the missing hat was not found. But all agreed that Gabrielle was the last person seen with it. It was then too late to take further steps, and madame, overfatigued and nervous, became hysterical and was borne to bed crying that her establishment was ruined, that a theft had been committed, that her customers would lose their confidence in her and that she could never face them again.

But she awakened on Easter morning with her senses restored and with a well formed resolution in her mind. Since Gabrielle was the last person seen with the hat, no doubt the careless girl had stowed it away somewhere and forgotten to mention it. She would go to the French quarter and find out from Gabrielle where the hat was. There would still be time to get it and send it to Miss Lambert before she was ready for church.

Little did Gabrielle, who was making her simple toilet and adjusting her beautiful hat on her sunny hair, dream of the fate which was descending upon her. She paused a minute when she heard a well known voice in the front room addressing her mother imperatively in French.

"I am Mme. Louise. I wish to see your daughter Gabrielle immediately."

Gabrielle hastened to the room. Madame sprang from her seat as she entered with a loud cry.

"She has the hat! Ah, you wretched thief, how did you dare do this? Did you expect to wear it and get off and not be detected? Give me my hat!"

She snatched the hat from the head of the astounded girl.

"I have a great mind to call the police and send you to jail. If it were not for the disgrace to my establishment I would do it this minute. Oh, what a bold and impudent thief!"

"She calls me a thief!" cried Gabrielle, pale, trembling and throwing her arms around her mother as if for protection. "She says I stole this hat. Mamma, you know I made it of your old lace scarf."

"Are you mad, madame?" Mme. de Kernion said indignantly. "How dare you accuse my daughter of theft? I gave her the lace, and she made the hat."

Madame uttered a scornful laugh and cast a contemptuous glance around the poorly furnished room.

"Ah, then, you are the princess in disguise! You are lodged thus," with a sweep of the hand, "and you own costly point lace, and your daughter does me the honor to work for me and to appropriate my property. Bah! No more of this! My handsomest hat, which the girl altered, is missing. I come here. I find it on her head. I can swear to my property. If you both had your deserts you would be lodged in jail. Thank me that you are not. And, Gabrielle, never show your face in my establishment again!"

She swept away, leaving mother and daughter as much astonished as enraged.

When madame reached home she dispatched a special messenger with the hat to Miss Lambert and heard nothing more of it that day. But early next morning she was surprised by the entrance of the young lady.

"What did you mean, madame, by sending me two hats?" Miss Lambert asked. "And you deceived me by saying that mine was the only one in the city. They are as much alike as two peas. Miss Stoll brought me one on Saturday noon. She said she was ill and was going home, and, as she lives only a short distance from us, she was kind enough to leave my hat on her way. But, madame, it was a shame in you to deceive me!"

"GET THAT HAT IMMEDIATELY! DO YOU HEAR?"

Mme. Louise gasped for breath. Her explanation was not clear, but it satisfied Miss Lambert that a cruel injustice had been done to an innocent girl.

"So you were the actual thief, madame!" she laughed. "Why, they could arrest you for robbing them. Better send the girl's hat back to her and eat a little humble pie."

The humble pie was a bitter morsel to Mme. Louise, but as Gabrielle positively refused to return to her establishment they never met again. Circumstances since then have changed for the better with Gabrielle, but to this day she remembers the humiliation of that Easter morning.

"Easter hats!" I heard her say the other day. "Ah, I hate the very name of them!"

Solicitous.

Host—Have you seen the wedding gifts, old man?

Guest—No, not yet.

"Well, wait a moment. I'll get one of the detectives to escort you through."—New York Life.

Football Not Good Training For Success In Life.

By CHARLES W. ELIOT, President of Harvard University.

THE American modifications of Rugby football have now been played long enough to make possible a judgment as to the success of eminent football players in after life, and the verdict is what might have been expected.

IT CLEARLY APPEARS THAT NEITHER THE BODILY NOR THE MENTAL QUALITIES WHICH CHARACTERIZE FOOTBALL PLAYERS ARE PARTICULARLY SERVICEABLE TO YOUNG MEN WHO HAVE THEIR WAY TO MAKE IN THE INTELLECTUAL CALLINGS. FOOTBALL TOUGHNESS IS NOT THE KIND OF TOUGHNESS WHICH IS MOST PROFITABLE IN AFTER LIFE.

The weight and insensitiveness needed in the football line are not the bodily qualities which best serve the man who must make his living by quick, accurate and inventive thinking.

* * *

To get accustomed to make one's greatest exertions in the presence of shouting thousands and of the newspaper extra is BAD PREPARATION for the struggles of professional men, who must generally do their best work quite alone or in the presence of a few critical observers.

Even for modern warfare the violent competitive sports afford NO APPROPRIATE PREPARATION, inasmuch as in real warfare the combatants seldom see each other.

The Art of the Theater As a Beneficent Influence.

By OTIS SKINNER, Actor.

THE drama stands recognized as one of the methods in which the human mind has in all ages striven to utter itself. There is a dramatic element in our common nature which literature and art and more especially the representations of the stage meet, minister to and satisfy. A normal demand is supplied.

First of all, there can be only one reply to any inquiry as to the moral worth of the drama and its relation to the life of the community. If the manner of the theater is to be regarded as an art at all it must be of beneficent influence, for ALL ART IS UPLIFTING. Without art we should go down the byways of existence and know little except the sordid. Think of LIFE WITHOUT A SONG, a picture, a poem, a beautiful building or a statue!

ALL ART IS THE EXPRESSION OF AN EMOTION, AND THAT OF THE THEATER IS THE MOST EMOTIONAL OF ARTS.

A charge brought against the theater is that it represents vice. Of course it does. It represents virtue. Why not vice? All people are not paragons of virtue. But for morals, as such, it is rank absurdity that we should use them in theatric or any other art. Nature, pitiless, beautiful, barbarous, soothing, murderous, exalting nature, is indifferent to them. Why should art, the handmaiden of nature, who takes only hints and primal truths from her mistress, observe them?

YET OUR ART MUST BE MORAL FOR ALL THIS. AN IMMORAL ART WOULD BE A HORROR.

It were vain in the present day, after Shakespeare has transformed the stage into A HIGH SCHOOL OF HUMANITY and Schiller and Goethe have crystallized it into a handmaiden of ethics and Christianity, to enter on any defense of its recognized authority as a moral agent. The stage in its highest conception is a POWERFUL COADJUTOR OF THE CHURCH in making men better, wiser and happier, and even in its less lofty attitudes it lights up with genial mirth the hard lot of the toiling masses.

China's Relation With Us Will Be Always Friendly.

By WU TING FANG, Chinese Minister.

CHINA'S relations with America will always remain friendly. It is natural that they should be so when you consider on your side that your policy is JUSTICE AND FAIR PLAY and on our side HONESTY AND STRAIGHTFORWARDNESS.

You may be sure acts of kindness and fairness, such as return or waiver of over ten millions of dollars to China, will certainly create a most favorable impression in China and strengthen the bond of friendship between the two countries, and the existence of an important and influential association like this I consider a SAFETY VALVE of the two nations.

No more misunderstanding, I feel sure, can occur in the future, and the relationship between the two countries will yet become CLOSER DAY BY DAY.

Our Patriotic Duty To Control Monopolies.

By United States Senator ROBERT L. OWEN of Oklahoma.

THE time has come in the United States when THE GREAT DOCTRINE OF EQUALITY should be recognized in our statecraft. It seems to me it would be unwise to destroy the great corporations which have been constructed in this country by our so called captains of industry.

WE HAVE A PERFECT RIGHT, HOWEVER, TO CONTROL THESE MONOPOLIES LEGALLY AND MORALLY, AND IT IS A PATRIOTIC DUTY TO DO SO. AND THEY SHOULD NOT BE PERMITTED TO TAX THE AMERICAN PEOPLE IN EXCESS OF A FAIR INTEREST ON THE CAPITAL ACTUALLY INVESTED.

If they were so controlled it would give a stability to wages. We would hear no more of overproduction nor of underconsumption, but these enterprises would PROCEED UPON RATIONAL LINES and work for the welfare of all of the people of our common country.

W. H. RAVENSCRAFT, M.D.,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
OAKLAND, MD.
Residence on North Third street.
Office in McComas Building.

DR. J. E. LEGGE,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON,
Offers his Services to the citizens of Oakland and vicinity.
Office in McComas Building, Second street

DR. R. F. BARTLETT,
DENTIST.
Office in McComas Building, Second street, Oakland, Md.
Special attention given to bridge and crown work.

DR. J. G. ROBINSON, DENTIST,
OAKLAND MD
Office at residence on Liberty street.
GAS ADMINISTERED.

NORMAN S. HEINDELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
All business given prompt attention.
Office—First National Bank Building.
KLAND, MARYLAND.

GILMOR S. HAMILL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
AND SOLICITOR IN CHANCERY.
Office in Garrett National Bank Building
Particular attention given to Conveyar ag
Investigation of land titles and collection o
claims. Loans negotiated.

EDWARD H. SINCELL,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
OAKLAND, MARYLAND.
Will practice inthe Courts of Garrett and Allegany counties, the Court of Appeals of Maryland, and the adjoining counties of West Virginia.

Baltimore & Ohio R. R.
Schedule effective June 2, 1907.
OAKLAND.
*Daily. †Daily except Sunday. §Sunday only.
For WASHINGTON, BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA & NEW YORK, Depart *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *8.29 p. m. Arrive *7.12 a. m., *5.55 p. m., *10.20 p. m., *11.54 p. m.
For CUMBERLAND and Way Points, Depart *10.00 a. m., †4.40 p. m. Arrive *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m.
For COLUMBUS & CHICAGO, Depart *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m.
For GRAFTON (Accom.), Depart *9.26 a. m., *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m., *4.40 p. m.
For FAIRMONT and WHEELING, Depart *9.26 a. m. locals, *5.33 p. m. *11.54 p. m. Arrive *6.07 a. m., *4.17 p. m., *12.25 night.
For FAIRMONT (Accom.), Depart *7.26 p. m. Arrive *10.00 a. m.
For CINCINNATI, LOUISVILLE and ST. LOUIS, Depart *7.12 a. m., *5.55 p. m., *10.20 p. m. Arrive *12.27 a. m., *6.31 a. m., *8.29 p. m.

FOR SALE.
We will sell at private sale at our farms between Mt. Lake Park and Oakland.
1 Gasoline Engine,
8 horse-power, made by the International Harvester Co. Almost new and in perfect running order. Will be sold for $75.
1 Hay Bailer,
operated by horse-power. Makes standard size bales.
For further information call on or write to
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
Oakland, Md.

Oakland Pharmacy
JOS. E. HARNED, Proprietor.
Drugs, Chemicals, Stationery, Cigars
Cameras and Photo Supplies

GETTY BROWNING,
CIVIL AND MINING
ENGINEERING.
Office—"Mountain Democrat Building,"
OAKLAND, MARYLAND,
Real Estate Bought and Sold.
Particular Attention Given
Railroad & Mine Surveying.
Surveys made for Town Sites, Sewerage and Water Works. Prompt attention given Land Surveying. Both Phones.

Land for Sale.
We have for sale the following valuable tracts of land:
One Military Lot of 50 acres, a small portion of which is under cultivation. All good land, and every acre tillable. Watered by several good springs and a never failing small run. Contains some good timber. One-half mile from R. R. siding, and one and one-half miles from Oakland.
Also part of two Military Lots containing about 50 acres. This property is directly East of Oakland, on the South side of the B. & O. R. R. siding on the North side of tracks. Contains valuable grazing land, a portion of which is in cultivation. Valuable R. R. frontage.
Also 10 acres suitable for building sites, just East of Oakland on the North side of the Oakland and Mt. Lake Park road.
For further information, address
THE H. WEBER & SONS CO.,
6-tf Oakland, Md.

Executrix's Notice.

